Having become the owner of a portion of the land at Riverton, I have laid it off into BUILDING LOTS, which I now offer for sale.
These lots are beautifully located on the south side of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, adjoining the depot at Riverton.

SEVEN MILES FROM THE CITY.
Requiring but 30 minutes to and from the foot of Market Street, Philadelphia.

The land is a good 1.5 am. nearly level, gently rising from the railroad. It is well adapted for building and garden lots. Wells of moderate depth furnish a

YOUNG AMERICA.
The almost universal verdict of the critics, upon Mr. Blaine's eulogy of President Garfield, is that the work was worthy of its subject, and worthy of its author. Seldom has an orator so well succeeded in giving praise without adulation; seldom has friendship been so delicately indicated, and yet justice so calmly maintained.
The address is a model for funeral orations. While spoken under the touching and trying circumstances of an obituary memorial, when warmth of praise would have been forgiven, it still keeps the judicial impartiality which needs no apology; it is more than a funeral oration; it is a calm, well-considered biographical memoir.

The object of reference to it in THE JOURNAL is to call attention to certain passages in the speech, which, if not overlooked, have not received the attention they deserve. We mean that part of the address which speaks of Garfield's childhood and youth.
Like other prominent and successful men his "poverty" was harped upon by the politicians. So Henry Clay was "the mill-boy of the Slashes;" Abraham Lincoln was a "rail-splitter;" Andrew Jackson was of obscure origin; Daniel Webster was a poor schoolmaster. It would be easy to go on citing instances in which as Mr.
Blaine says, "poverty has been made indelicate and unjustly prominent." Yet, these great men were not the only "poor boys," poor in the same sense that they were poor. What became of their companions? Daniel Webster had a brother who stayed in New Hampshire. A traveller, when Daniel was well along in the road to fame, being in the vicinity of his birth-place made inquiry of a native respecting the family. "O yes," said the honest rustic, "I knew old man Webster. One of his sons was a mighty smart man." Now here is fame, thought the traveller, and pursued his queries. "One you say was smart, how about the other?" "O, you mean Dan? Why he drifted away down to Boston or somewhere, but 'Zekiel stayed here at home, and,
I tell you, he was amazin'ly well thought of!"

Everybody cannot enter public life or become prominent among men, but every boy who has the spirit in him, industry to follow it, and integrity as a support, can do his duty in the place where he finds himself. The playmates and companions of the Clays, the Websters, the Jacksons, Lincolns and Garfields, under the same conditions make their records, less conspicuous abroad, but successful at home. Thousands upon thousands of American youth, have the same discipline to go through, and it is the making of them. They never feel poor, though denied the enervating influences of wealth. Sensible well-to-do parents put them upon their resources; and those whose widowed mothers depend upon them for assistance, work the more man-fully, "Young America" confesses to limited means, but never to pauperism. He desires more than he has but prefers to earn it.

It is this ambitious spirit of industry which creates and nourishes the best characteristics of "Young America." He values success of his own procuring, and wealth or competence of his own earning. Hereditary fortunes are rare; but as a compensation, hereditary poverty is rare also.

Young men, who are disposed to work and to learn, may overcome the disadvantages either of a rich home in childhood or a poor one. The former are often the harder to master; and therefore it is that those who in early youth are taught self-reliance are most successful. None of the men of whom popular political addresses speak as of "humble origin," and as "poor lads," were more humble or poorer than the majority of their contemporaries. The universal spur to work is what gives to Young America the characteristics which make the nation great and powerful.

CORRESPONDENCE.
IV.

To the Editors of the Riverton Journal:
Of course we drove out from Cork to the famous Blarney Castle, and a beautiful drive it was, along the "Silvery Lee." In the Castle and its surroundings I was somewhat disappointed. The view from the top is pleasant, but not in any way remarkable, and the only picture that I have brought away in my memory, as worthy being hung therein, is the view from what is called the "Peep-hole." This is a circular hole about three feet in diameter in the wall of the stone bridge near by, through which you have a fine view of the old ruin, as you look along the little stream upon which it stands. I was much interested in the dungeons beneath the Castle, which are quite extensive and horribly damp. Of course I kissed the far-famed "Blarney Stone," though an English friend of mine, from whom I received a letter recently, and who had been making a tour in Ireland, was disposed to regard this as an impossible feat. As to how I did it I have thought it best to preserve a judicious silence, contenting myself with the assertion of the fact.
Whether I have caught therefrom any of the fire and inspiration of Celtic eloquence I must leave others to judge, but I trust that I shall not become an adept in what ordinary goes by the name of "Blarney."

From Cork we set out upon the "Prince of Wales' Route to Killarney," so called because His Royal Highness travelled over it once, which fact, according to a Cork newspaper "indisputably stamps it as the most desirable and picturesque route for tourists." (The italics are not mine.) That one could not find a more delightful way of going to Killarney is perfectly true, but the fact that the Prince of Wales had been that way before me gave it no additional charm in my eyes. We went by rail as far as Bantry.

Both my first impressions and all my subsequent experience of railway travelling in the British Isles were of a most agreeable character, with one exception of which I shall tell later on. Nothing can be more comfortable than the first-class carriage, and on some of the English railways those of the third-class are nearly if not quite as comfortable. I generally found second-class travelling very pleasant, and the only reason I could see for the difference in price was the desire to make a distinction between people of different social grades. Our cars are thoroughly Democratic, while the European system is better suited to those countries where the Aristocratic traditions are strong. Each system is good in its own place, and has its own special advantages, so I think comparisons are likely to be unfair, and judgments the result of personal or national bias.

As to their luggage system I at last came to the conclusion that I liked it better than our own, that is, if one is not encumbered with very heavy baggage. When you arrive at your destination a porter opens your carriage-door, goes with you to get your baggage, a very short and simple operation—engages a cab for you, and away you drive with your trunk on top, without having to wait until the next morning for its delivery as too often happens in our large cities. For his services the porter expects a slight gratuity, which he well deserves.

The courtesy and respectful manners of the guards and porters are in delightful contrast to which we are apt to meet with from the same class in this country, and what is still more to their credit, I found that the same politeness was shown to third as to first-class passengers. They are always ready to assist you in any way, always ready to answer your questions, and, although I have seen them put to a severe test by inquisitive passengers, I never heard a gruff or an uncivil answer. I am writing now upon one of the Fall River steamers, on the way from New York to Boston, and I have just witnessed an instance of almost brutal rudeness, entirely uncalled for, on the part of one of the employees of the boat. And I do not think this an isolated case.
In this part of our country, at least, a reform of manners is sadly needed, and our railway and steamboat officials could in this respect learn many a salutary lesson from their transatlantic cousins.

NEW WAREHOUSE.
Attention is called to the fact that I. W. Henlings' Sons have opened their new warehouse, for business.
The building, which adjoins the railroad station is a commodious structure, 48x100 feet and so arranged that cars containing lime, lumber and coal are brought on an elevated track directly into the building, thus facilitating the unloading, besides giving the materials protection by cover from storms. The railroad spur connecting with the main track of the Camden & Amboy railroad is 380 feet long, giving ample facilities in the way of track room for loading and unloading cars. A full supply of lumber of all kinds, anthracite and bituminous coal, building lime, cement, fertilizers, terra cotta pipe, land and calcine plaster, doors, sash, shutters, blinds, mouldings, in fact a general line of farmers' and builders' supplies of all kinds will be kept constantly on hand. This enterprising firm now have places of business at Riverton, Moorestown, Centerton, and Fork Landing, and will be glad to supply materials to any points in the neighborhood.

RIVERTON JOURNAL.

March 15th, 1882.

The Journal is published monthly at Riverton, Burlington Co., N. J. by A. A. FRASER, JOHN S. BIÖREN, E. H. EARNshaw.

Single subscription 50 cents per annum, payable in advance.

Advertisements inserted at reasonable rates.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAIL.

Riverton Post Office.
For New York, 7.36 A. M.
" Phila., 10.44 " 7.54 P. M.
From New York, 7.54 P. M.
" Phila., 6.42, 7.36 A. M. 7.54 P. M.
D. E. MATTIS, P. M.

We would urge vigilance upon our officers of the law, as tramps have made their appearance within the bounds of the town, which is contrary to what should be allowed.

Business men using the cars complain of the management of the ferry company. Boats are frequently started just as trains arrive in the depot; if this occurred in Jersey City some means would be found to suppress the nuisance.

Our suggestion with reference to the establishment of a place where boats could be hired does not appear to have been acted upon, nor even is it hinted at. With a small outlay several boats, nicely fitted up, could be obtained, and the cost of running them would be but trifling, there being boys in the town here who would be glad of the job.

Present prospects indicate that our summer population this season will be greatly increased, and such an enterprise would undoubtedly prove a paying one before the season ended.

The present system of commutation tickets on the Penna. R. R. is an inconvenient and, in some respects, a one-sided arrangement. Besides this the rate to Riverton from Philadelphia is out of proportion to that charged to other towns further up the road; take, for instance, Beverly; making an allowance in both cases of a cost of $1.00 per month for ferriage, the rate, as compared with Beverly, should be $4.11, instead of $5.00, the rate to Beverly being $6.50. Tickets should be issued good for the month, thus doing away with the punching system. So much has been said in relation to the subject that we hope it will command the attention of the officials of the Company.

The manifestations of sympathy for the persecuted Russian Jews, called forth at a meeting of Philadelphia's citizens on the 4th inst., and the protestations against the barbarous treatment to which they are subjected, so ably commented upon in the various speeches made at that meeting, are justly worthy of mention. They should arouse the citizens of the land, to the importance of their co-operation in the work of providing for these poor victims of barbarity, so long as their oppression continues, and through the Press by hearty and continued denunciations, to give strength to the efforts of the Philadelphia meeting, which has already taken steps towards redress.

Russia and America are on such amicable terms, that an appeal to her who so largely values our friendship, may have the good effect of causing the dreadful persecutions to cease forever.

We would call the attention of the various steamboat lines to the fact that no boat leaves Riverton for Philadelphia in the morning before 8.15, and that none returns between the hours of 3 and 6 P. M. A boat leaving Riverton at 7.45 and returning leaving the city at, say 4.45 would be well patronized by business men.

A company has been recently organized, and is now seeking to obtain a charter from Congress, to bridge the Delaware at Philadelphia. Some years ago a similar company was organized with a capital of $10,000, 000, but they were unable to obtain consent of the authorities. This bridge is a great public necessity and no slight objection should be suffered to interfere with the prosecution of the enterprise.

We understand that Cinnaminson Township intends building a new Town Hall. We think that its location in Riverton would be a very desirable thing for many reasons, and also that Riverton is to a certain extent entitled to having it built here; because, Riverton and Palmyra combined contain the majority of the population of the Township, and Riverton is the larger and more important of the two places.

The policy of the New York Board of Education, to exclude married women from becoming teachers in the Public Schools of that city, and to which Mayor Grace appeals to that board not to be too hasty to confirm, seems to be without the bounds of good sense.

Why should not married women become teachers, if they are qualified, and are faithful in the discharge of their duties? If these two stipulations are lived up to, what matters it to the Board how household duties are performed? The ladies will look to that. When a teacher, from whatever cause, is neglectful, discharge is warrantable, and is made, no matter whether she be single or married, and from this it is inferred that no married woman conscious of the penalty for neglect of duty would enter the school-room, unless she fully intended doing her duty there.

LOCALS.

—The Base Ball and Cricket season will soon be commencing now.

—Heulings Bros. commenced business last Monday week.

—Mr. John Biören has removed from his premises two large pine trees.

—Mr. E. H. Ogden and family have returned from the city.

—Some improvements to the interior of Mr. H. Bower's residence are in progress.

—Plants are being shipped via steamboat to Philadelphia from Dreer's nurseries.

—The "Gratitude" has resumed her trips between Philadelphia and Tacony.

—Mr. W. H. Wiggins has rented the residence of Mr. Wm. Biddle for the season.

—Thos. Hurley has a new horse and cart, with which he has captured the service of Louis Corner.

—The Gun Club seems to be flourishing, there are pigeon matches in progress every Saturday and sometimes also on other days.

—Mr. D. Leeds Miller has removed his fence, to be in style with the rest of the residents of Bank avenue, we imagine.

—Dr. Alex. Marcy, Jr., has succeeded the late Dr. White, as resident Allopathic physician. He comes very well recommended.

—Many of the maple trees in our streets begin to show signs of returning spring, the buds seem almost ready to burst into leaf.

—Mr. Saml. Rudderow has Mr. Wm. Heitzel's and Mr. Keating's houses nearly completed, and also has the contract for enlarging Mr. Jos. Campbell's house.

—The heavy rains of the past few weeks, caused considerable rise in the Delaware. At this point it rose to nearly a level with the top of the stone wall.

—A gentleman from Beverly has purchased the lot on Lippincott avenue, adjoining Mr. H. C. White's residence. He has also purchased a lot on Thomas Avenue.

—Mr. Nathan Myers, of Philadelphia, has purchased the property on the corner of Main Street and Bank Avenue, formerly occupied Mr. Chas. R. Kay.

—Messrs. A. A. Frazer and E. Priestley have gone to New York, in connection with the firm of Marcus Ward & Co., who have lately removed from Philadelphia.

—Louis Corner has improved his expressage facilities by the addition of a new wagon. He also has established an agency at Cowperthwait & Co.'s, by which orders can be left for him. He is a reliable man, and parties leaving orders can rest certain of their execution.

—Opposums, or as they are termed by dorkies of the south, possums, have been frequently killed recently. We know of an instance where two have been 'treed' on the same lot in the past two months.

—Mrs. McIlheny while stepping from her door into the yard, on the evening of the 24th ult., was struck in the head and felled to the ground by an unknown person. The alarm was given, and the young men of the vicinity set out in hot pursuit of the assailant, but without being successful, returned at a late hour. Mrs. McIlheny has quite recovered.

—Thomas Avenue, the new street lately opened up by Messrs. Thomas and Lippincott, has been greatly improved and shows signs of soon becoming one of the most desirable and important streets in the place.

—A short time ago Riverton Station was the scene of a very amusing incident.

The County Sheriff, on the summons of Constable Bishop, arrived here and was to proceed with the last named gentleman on an official mission, back in the country. While standing at the station he was approached by a well-known citizen, Mr. —, with whom he exchanged salutations. In the course of a pleasant conversation our citizen evinced considerable curiosity about a pair of handcuffs the Sheriff had, and expressed a desire to see "how they worked," to which the Sheriff acquiesced, locking one cuff on the wrist of Mr. — and the other on his own. Mr. — being satisfied with the trial was ready to be freed, whereupon the Sheriff, in compliance, was about to unlock the cuffs when the key dropped from his hand and disappeared through a crack in the platform. A mingled look of horror and surprise crossed the countenance of each, a suppressed chuckle came from the by-standers which shortly developed into bursts of laughter.

An effort was made by one of the station-masters to force up the plank, but without avail. Mr. Bishop proceeded to his residence and returned post haste with a key which he thought would fit, but, alas! it would not. By this time things began to look rather serious; people were assembling for the mail, and altogether the situation was getting extremely embarrassing for the two handcuffed gentlemen. Presently, to their great mental relief, Mr. Corner came rushing up, staggering under the weight of a heavy crowbar, and, taking his position over the plank, he let fall some heavy blows, which had their effect, for soon it yielded, and was entirely removed. At this moment some urchin who had not seen enough fun darted his hand quickly into the opening, grasped the lost key, and refused to give it up until he should be rewarded, the salvage claimed being one dollar. Glad to be unlocked at any price the dollar was soon produced, the key given up, and the handcuffs taken off.

Mr. — thinks handcuffs are very useful members of society, but prefers that in future they should move out side his circle.

—The handsome and valuable silver vase awarded to the New Jersey Battalion at the Yorktown Centennial celebration, will be formally presented to the State authorities by General Grubb, who commanded the Battalion, on Tuesday afternoon, March 21st, the ceremonies taking place in the Senate Chamber. It is the desire of many members of the Battalion that the vase be formally received by President Hobart. A committee has been appointed to arrange the programme for the occasion.

The base ball fever is making its appearance again in Burlington, and the managers of the club of last year are making arrangements for the coming campaign. The grounds will be put in order and a strong nine will be put in the field, including Pfeffer, Hoover, Boyle, Caperoon, with some new and equally good ball tossers. The Athletics of Philadelphia have already made known their desire to come to Burlington early in the season. The season promises to be more interesting to those who like to see the game than last year, as the managers have learned something by experience. The full nine has not yet been selected, but it will include several of the old players.

—The election for Township officers to serve for the several ensuing terms occurred yesterday. The tickets presented were identical with the exception of nominees for Judge and Democratic Inspector.

About a week previously a meeting of voters irrespective of party was called, to place a ticket in nomination. Everything proceeded harmoniously at the meeting till the candidates for Democratic Inspector were presented, when Mr. Louis Ourt objected to the nominations, this bred dissatisfaction and caused a division on the before named nominations.

The election was quiet and a small vote (172) was polled; at the election last November 306 votes were cast. The following shows the vote for each candidate.

CINNAMINSON NOTES.

—Wells are now filled to overflowing, several cellars are inundated.

—Mr. Amos C. Taylor intends moving to Medford.

—Wm. R. Lippincott, Esq., is now making an extensive addition to his barn.

—Wm. Parry, Esq., is now shipping large quantities of plants to all parts of the United States.

—The trees along Main street have been trimmed, making a considerable improvement in its appearance.

—Miss Lilly Wilbraham has been appointed teacher of the primary department of the public school.

—Mr. Jos. L. Thomas has returned from Maryland, feeling much improved by his trip.

—Much has been said of running a stage to Riverton. It is generally believed that it would pay.

—Mr. Atwood Lloyd has started in the fish, oyster and clam business, and appears to be doing well.

—Complaints are made as to the condition of the road between here and Riverton.

—Mr. Stowe intends moving to Palmyra, and not to Philadelphia as stated in last month's issue.

—Miss Hannah Conrow is now teaching friends school during the absence of Miss Marshall, who is on a vacation trip to Atlantic City.

—Mr. Saml. Leeds has sold his bay mare "Lady" to Reading Bower, a well known farmer, residing near Burlington.

—Mr. Geo. Chambers has resigned his position as wheelwright with Mr. Jacob Harris, and accepted one in the city; Mr. G. Strowl succeeds him.

BURLINGTON NOTES.

—Building improvements are being pushed rapidly forward as spring advances.

—A lecture is announced to be held on Thursday, the 16th inst., in the Baptist Church. Subject. Personal reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln.

—The water in the river is still high, and many complain of their cellars being flooded.

—The winter seems practically over, and trees are beginning to bud, an indication of an early spring.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

Wednesday, the 22d ult. ushered in the season of Lent, and during the forty days of its duration, Roman Catholics, Episcopalians and Lutherans generally abstain from light amusements, and their example is in great part followed by members of other religious sects, therefore, from Ash Wednesday to Easter, society chiefly confines itself to such recreations as concerts, lectures and social visits.

On Tuesday, the 21st ult., Miss Miller had a company of about thirty friends. Among the ladies and gentlemen present from the city were Miss Clay, Miss Warden, and Messrs. Jos. Townsend, Wm. Drysdale and Jos. Sims. The company dispersed about twelve. On the 1st inst., the social was held at the house of Mr. Edwd. Lippincott. A number of guests from Philadelphia were present. A set of charades entitled 'High Life' were enacted, and were a source of much pleasure to the audience.

—The election for Township officers to serve for the several ensuing terms occurred yesterday. The tickets presented were identical with the exception of nominees for Judge and Democratic Inspector.

FINANCIAL.

No new features have presented themselves to assist or depress values. The gradual decline in prices has continued during the past month. The situation in Europe continues ominous; should a war commence between Austria and Russia the primary effect in monetary circles would probably be a sharp contraction in values with increased shipments of gold occasioned by the sale of American securities for foreign account, followed by a general improvement, as our exports would be greatly in demand by the belligerent powers. Money remains easy on call, on pledge of satisfactory stock collateral at 5 to 6 per cent. Good mortgages rule about the same rate.

U. S. Bonds remain steady. We append quotations as follows:

U. S. 4 per cent. opn. . . 118 118 1/2
" 4 1/2 " " " " . . . 113 114
" 3 1/2 " Ext. 5's Reg. 102 103
Among the bonds that have been most seriously affected during the past month are the Phila., Wilmington & Balt. R. R. 4 per cent. Trust Cts. which are now selling at about 92. At this price they pay over 4 1/2 per cent. on the amount invested. They are issued to the amount of $10,000,000 and are secured by a trust of 200,000 shares of the stock; all dividends accruing from this stock are to be applied to a sinking fund for these bonds. We consider them as a good investment at present prices.

The following are Tuesday's closing quotations:

The concert given by the Choir of the Beverly Presbyterian Church, in aid of the Presbyterian Church here, announced in our last issue to take place on the 21st ult., was postponed until Tuesday 28th, on account of bad weather. The concert was undoubtedly a great success, a large and appreciative audience being present. For amateurs, there were some very good voices among the performers and most of the songs were encored. After the concert, the Pastor of the Church, Rev. J. R. Sanson, addressed the audience, thanking them for their attention and for the interest shown in the efforts made by the Church to pay off its debt. He also announced that some time towards the end of the present month Dr. Swain, of Allentown, N. J., would deliver an illustrated lecture on Scotland. The views to be used being the same as those used on the occasion of a similar lecture at the Academy of Music last Fall.

Apollinaris, Seltzer, Vichy and other mineral waters are for sale by Cowperthwait & Co.; also the celebrated new drink "Zodone," which is strengthening as well as being a delicious beverage. Price per bottle 25 cents, reduced rates per dozen.
