SURPRISE IN WOMEN'S SWIM

First Place Captured by New Yorker
After Young Marvel Leads a Mile. English Champion Does Not Enter

Once more were the eyes of the swimming world on Riverton last Saturday afternoon when the women's three-mile race was run off. The field this time was not as large as usual, neither did as many contest as compete as has been the custom in these races, but it is doubtful if ever a better or more thrilling girls' race was ever run, not only in our own Delaware but in the entire country. Only thirteen girls dove from the Sloop "Enterprise" of the Keystone fleet, anchored off Bridgeburg from here, when Referee Stevens fired the starting gun, but what was missing in numbers was made up by the desperation of the race.

The thirteen girls competing hailed from New York, Philadelphia, and Atlantic City. Soon as the girls reached the surface after their dive overboard, little Catherine Brown, daughter of Al Brown, the world's professional long distance champion, sprinted into the lead and for nearly a mile the little marvel from the New York Women's Swimming Association, held the lead. Catherine is only 12 years old and this is the third of our marathons she has swum in and each time she has made good. She was the youngest child to qualify for the American Olympic team, and while she made the team, officials ruled she was too young to go abroad. Catherine found the pace too hot and after a mile sprint she was overhauled and passed by Lillian Stoddart of the same Club. Lillian is considered by many to be the best distance swimmer New York has ever bred and her famed Club sisters, Helen Wainwright, Eileen Higgins and Gertrude Ederle. Only two weeks ago she won the two and a half mile marathon at New Brunswick, defeating a most classy field, and by her great victory on Saturday in the Delaware, it is doubtful if any girl in America can dispute her claim to supreme honors in the distance field.

When Miss Stoddart passed Catherine and went into the lead she was never headed and swam across the finish line the winner in the fastest time ever made over the distance, which shows how hard she swam, as conditions were not at all good. By winning the truly remarkable time of almost thirty-nine minutes flat, she clipped over four minutes from the previous record made by Eleanor Uhl, the Philadelphia girl, in 1920. Eleanor was in this race and she strove to hold her championship, but she was overhauled by Miss Uhl, who swam fifth in the 1918 marathon, was second in the 1919 one, losing by an eye-lash to Rhelda Bleibrey, and won the 1920 breaking the record. Naturally Philadelphia pinned her hopes on the Landowne girl. Miss Uhl swam in third position for the first mile and then, as Miss Stoddart went into the lead, she, too, swam past the fast tiring little New Yorker, Catherine Brown, who had been setting the pace. Miss Uhl, urged on by the yells of the crowd, the pleadings of her brother, Raymond, who was piloting her, and the entreaties of her Club mates started a desperate sprint and at the two-mile mark she had all but overhauled the flying New Yorker. Neck and neck they swam and the crowd strained back to see the Philadelphia repeat her 1920 victory. But Eleanor was sadly lacking in form and Miss Stoddart ideally guided by Walter Armstrong, to whom the owes much of the credit for her remarkable swim, started to slowly pull away and every yard saw her increasing her lead. Miss Uhl, who was in second position, but collapsed as she swam by the judge's boat, and was kept from sinking by her pilot holding her up and dragging her half unconscious into the boat.

Right after her and gaining on every stroke came another Philadelphia girl—Margaret Raviar. Miss Raviar has all the earmarks of a champion and her swim was a fine example of this little girl is practically assured. The next two places went to New York again, Ethel Baker and little Catherine Brown getting fourth and fifth places. A remarkable thing about the swim was that all thirteen girls finished at all times they were well bunched. The last girl to finish, Miss Ada Taylor, of Atlantic City, was but eight minutes behind the winner.

The race was ideally handled by R. W. Knight, Mrs. E. K. Merrill and George W. Smith, Jr., who took the reins with Mr. Durbin away and ran it so ideally. Mr. Durbin, who attended to the entries and the swim itself, again thanks the boys who helped him. The judges finally ruled the New Yorkers as winners. The Riverton fleet consisted of the power craft of former Commodore Hollingshead, who came home expressly to be on hand to help Vice Commodore H. McIlwain Biddle, J. H. Mull, Maurice G. Belnap and George W. Smith, Jr. The Keystone Yacht Club matched the Riverton Yacht Club by sending over a fleet of five power boats under Commodore Jordan.

The Keystone fleet carried the reporters and movie men, and the girls used the "Enterprise" to dive from.

On every swimming occasion the Keystone has given as much assistance to us in handling the swims as has our own club. They have not only put their fleet at our service but supplied us with dories and help of every description.

Directly after the marathon race, the sprint races and diving was run off. Miss Hilda James, champion of England and Europe, was the main attraction, but Miss James who entered in the National 220 the next day and the National 440 a few days later was afraid to swim in the long race. She was an enthusiastic spectator from Commodore Hollingshead's launch and later swam in the 200 and 100 yards back stroke. She simply toyed with the field in the 200 yard race winning by a huge margin, and in the 100 yard back stroke she was second, first honors going to Philadelphia's sprint marvel, Frances Clark of the Philadelphia Yacht Club. Miss James showed she has a wonderful stroke and only the pick of American mermaids can make her low in homage.

The 100-yard race was the event of the day. Miss Frances Clark, of Philadelphia, and Miss Ethel Baker swimming almost a dead heat. The judges finally ruled the New Yorker had lost by an eye-lash and so the Philadelphia girl carried away two firsts, the 100-yard free-style and the 100-yard back stroke in which she defeated Miss James.

Miss Hilda James was down for an exhibition of 20 minutes in the water but was forced to abandon it as she claimed she could not do it in strong running water. All her exhibitions have been in closed pools either inside or outside.

But from the way Miss James toyed with

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 3

NEHEMIAH REBUILDS THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 3:1-74.

GOLDEN TEXT—Our God will fight for us.—Neh. 4:20.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Neh. 3:3-20; 1 Cor. 3:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God helped Nehemiah Build a Wall.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How a City Wall Was Rebuilt.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Praying, Watching, Working.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Success Through Leadership and Cooperation.

Having secured a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentialed from the king, Nehemiah journeyed to Jerusalem. After resting three days without disclosing his purpose to any one, he made a survey of the walls by night. Having thus obtained first-hand information he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem." He then made known the hand of providence in bringing him to Jerusalem with the authority to rebuild its walls. He thus showed great wisdom in taking out for himself the worst conditions and what work would be required to restore the walls. The one who is qualified to lead in a great undertaking is the one who has mastered the situation and is thus able to remove objections and show how the work can be done.

1.—Preparation for the Building (ch. 3).

The division of labor in this project shows Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy.

Note some outstanding features of this great work.

1. Stress Laid Upon Indifference (3:5). In administrative tasks it is just that unfaithfulness should be pointed out. Such action will be a warning to some and an encouragement to others by showing the integrity of the director.

2. Help Rendered by the Women (3:12). Perhaps Shalhuth had no sons to aid him. It is a fine thing for women to be able to take hold even in building a wall when there are no men to do it. God's word carefully notes such extraordinary acts.

3. Stress Laid Upon Earnestness of Some (3:20). If one knows that his faithfulness will be recognized he will earnestly pursue his tasks.

4. Every One Built Over Against His Own House (3:10, 23, 28). Man's chief concern is for his family. No incentive to exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns his own family.

5. Certain Guilds of Men Undertook Certain Work (ch. 3:8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and craft will usually work better together.

II. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-4; cf. 2:10-20). The opponents of God's servants usually begin by hurling at them shafts of ridicule. They called the Jews but a feeble folk and asserted that the tread of a prowling fox would break down their stone wall.

2. Conspiracy of a Sudden Attack (4:7-9). When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic and thus hinder the work. When the enemy cannot succeed by scoffing then he resorts to intimidation.

3. Conspiracy With the Jews (4:10-23). They sought by means of the Jews from the outside to discourage their brethren by showing that the task was hopeless and that at any time they were subject to a sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and Oppression of the Rulers (5:1-13). The Jews of that day, like the profiteers in the recent World war, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and sold their daughters into slavery. Nehemiah boldly rebuked them for their crimes and ordered a restoration to be made, exacting an oath of them that they would fulfill their promises.

5. Scheme to Take Nehemiah's Life (6:1-14). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

III. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4). So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When the enemies heard that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually completed, they were cast down, for they perceived that the work was of God.

The answer is a fountain pen with a "little red pump handle."

KNIGHT VS. REEVES

Big Fight for State Committeeman from Burlington County

The contest for member of the State Republican Committee has now resolved itself to a contest between Harry L. Knight, of Medford, and William H. Reeves, of New Lisbon. Knight is treasurer of the Philadelphia office of the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation, was a member of the former Public Utility Commission, which was deposed in the trolley fare zone contest. He was for many years the political leader in Burlington County and always had the situation well in hand until a few years ago, when his candidature for the office of County Clerk, from which Knight was retiring, was defeated by William H. Reeves, the present County Clerk and chairman of the Republican County Committee, who is now opposing Mr. Knight for the position of State Committeeman.

Soon after Knight announced his candidacy a few weeks ago a number of other aspirants made known their intention of contesting for the position. They were Charles H. Fowell and Robert Peacock, both of Mount Holly, and Russell Aikin, of Florence. Realizing that in a four cornered fight, Knight would be assured a winner, his opponents decided to try to agree on one man and have the others withdraw. William H. Reeves, whose past record has inspired confidence in the minds of the rank and file of the Republican voters in the county, was selected.

During his period of leadership, Knight made many friends in the County and can be expected to make a strong run. His friends are freely predicting that the election is as good as his already. Mr. Reeves, on the other hand, represents a force in the County which will rebel against Knight's leadership and succeeded in finally deposing him last year when Mr. Reeves was elected chairman of the County Committee and will undoubtedly receive a large vote from those who did not always approve of Knight's methods. A strong effort is being made in all parts of the County on the part of the progressives to retain the advantage they gained last fall.

Political Notes

George L. Record, opposing Senator Frelinghuysen for the Republican senatorial nomination, attacked the latter for voting to uphold Newberry's right to a seat in the Senate.

Mr. Record sees nothing wrong in Gifford Pinchot's expenditure of $100,000 for the Pennsylvania governorship and has accepted the aid of Amos Pinchot who is on a speaking tour in his favor.

It is rumored that Henry Ford, who was defeated for the Michigan senatorship, is backing Record.

Edwards, for Senator, and Silzer, for Governor, attacked by the Democratic State boss Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City.

William N. Runyon, who is unopposed for the Republican nomination for Governor, has returned to his home from Union county. His term would not have expired until January, 1924. Governor Edwards has issued a proclamation for an election to fill the unexpired term, which will be held in connection with the general election. There seems to be little doubt that the Republicans of Union will choose Assemblyman Ary as their candidate, as their Senatorial candidate. He is the Dean of the House and one of the ablest legislators of the past decade.

Somebody has started the report that Sheriff Flagg is looking over the field with a view of becoming a candidate for the Board of Freeholders next year.

A fine fight is shaping up in the Democratic party over the State Committee berth for this county. James Mercer Davis is a candidate again, and William VanSiver, of Burlington, and George Lippincott, of Moorestown, are also drawn up on the starting line and the outlook is for a pretty race a little later on.

Children Hurt in Auto Crash

The three young children, two boys and a girl, of Andrew Eigenbrood were badly cut and bruised Wednesday night, when his car which was another car which was standing at the corner of Broad and Thomas avenue and was upset. The car which he ran into was owned by Herman Denbo, of Camden, and driven by William Levin and Al J. Herman, both of Camden, who had drawn their car up to the curb to talk to a couple of Riverton girls.

The Camden car did not have its lights burning and the boys who were with it were held on their own recognition by Chief of Police Gies, who with Officer Quigley, were just returning from a trip to the river when the accident happened. Eigenbrood lived on Second street, Riverton, until recently, when he moved to a farm between Riverside and Bridgeboro. The injured little ones were taken to the office of a Palmyra doctor, who was not in, and then were hurried to the Riverside hospital in the care of S. B. Lisk and Francis Keating.

BURNED IN MOTOR BOAT

Three Seriously Hurt in Explosion on Pensauken Creek

Three men who had attended the firemen's carnival at Palmyra were seriously burned in a motorboat explosion on Pensauken creek Saturday night.

The victims are Clarence McGuckin, 23 years old, of 3464 Edgemont street, burst the face and neck; Frank Bomgard, 30 years old, of 3424 Tilton street, burns of the face and side, and his brother, Anthony Bomgard, 24 years old, of 3428 Tilton street, burns of the face, body and legs. All are expected to recover.

The explosion was due to a leaking gas tank and occurred while the three men, with two others who were standing in the water, were trying to float the boat which had grounded at low tide.

The Palmyra police received a call for aid at 1:30 a. m. and Officers Beck, Rodgers and Wallace responded, accompanied by S. G. Snelson and Speers Kerr, with the Palmyra ambulance. The men were taken to Dr. Witte, Riverton, for first aid treatment and then rushed to Cooper hospital, Camden, by Chief Beck and Mr. Snelson.

The boat burned and sank.

New Hunting and Game Laws

Early migratory movements of the birds indicate there will be plenty of sport for New Jersey hunters when the red and red bird season opens September 1. Sportsmen report these birds are already beginning to appear in great numbers on the river and bay meadows.

The open season for sora, marsh hen, mud hen and all the other rails and for all birds in season, including the black-bellied and golden plover and the greater and lesser yellow legs, will continue until November 1. Red bird season will close October 30. Legal hunting for geese and snipe begins October 16.

Daily bag limits established by New Jersey law fix the quantity of this class of game that may be taken by one hunter, as follows: 25 in all of rails, mud hen and marsh hen; 50 sora; 50 red birds; 15 in all of plover and yellow legs.

Under a new game law changing the New Jersey deer season, a fortunate hunter may legally bag two bucks next winter, instead of one to which the law has heretofore limited him, according to the application of the State Fish and Game Commission.

The new season law provides for hunting for deer on the last two Wednesdays in December and the first two Wednesdays in January, thus making the season bridge two years. In previous years the deer season has been five consecutive days in December and the law limited the hunter to one buck during this period. The law, however, specifies "year, and not season" in fixing bag limits for deer.

All those interested in the success of the team, and all those who want to be players are expected to be present. Two in Canoe Upset

The spectators at the three mile international championship swim for women, run off here Saturday afternoon, were treated to a thrill that was not on the program, when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wisner, of Palmyra, upset their canoe off the pier, and narrowly escaped drowning.

The couple had come to Riverton to see the fancy diving, and were near the diving board when splash from one of the divers made Mrs. Wisner jump to one side. Mr. Wisner managed to grab the canoe, but Mrs. Wisner would have drowned had Giles Knight, 14, who was in a boat nearby not gone to her rescue. Mrs. Wisner had sunk below the surface when the lad grabbed her by the shirtwaist and pulled her head above water. She aided him in the rescue by keeping her head and not struggling. Miss Marie Hillgas, one of the divers, sprang overboard and helped to assist Mrs. Wisner into a boat. Mr. Wisner was also hauled aboard by Walter Armstrong and Frank Probsting, and both were taken home in an automobile.

In less than a year all the necessary red tape had been unwound, and the roadway paved.

Three ice dealers this week were haled before Justice Fichter by a representative of the State Department of Weights and Measures and fined $25 each for not weighing their ice before delivery to customers. There was no charge of short weight, but apparently the men had been accustomed to judging the number of pounds by the size of the piece, instead of using scales as required by law.

On Friday afternoon when Chester McConnell, the fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William McConnell, of Parry avenue, attempted to get his kite, which had lodged in a tree, he fell, breaking both wrists and bruising and scratching his face. He was taken to the Riverside hospital in the Palmyra ambulance, where his wrists were set, and then brought home. On Wednesday one of his wrists was reset, and the boy is now doing nicely.

All our hopes of having Palmyra still further marked on the map by having another county office elected from here have been dashed to the ground. We had thought that Sydney J. Snelson's candidacy for coroner had been safely launched and that he would ride on an ever growing swell of popularity to victory over the entire field. But the campaign has struck what seems to be an insuperable obstacle. The county clerk has notified us that there isn't any vacancy in the coronership of the county to be filled. In other words, there "ain't gonna be no" coroner elected this year.

Burglaries

Sneak thieves entered six homes in Palmyra sometime Tuesday night and stole jewelry and money.

The homes entered and the articles taken were: C. H. Griffin, 307 Lecony, gold watch and chain with Masonic charm; Mrs. F. R. Hild, 320 Berkeley, one dollar; Rudolph Streckenbin, 316 Berkeley, gold ring; John McNulty, 208 Horace, nothing; Charles E. Moore, 300 Berkeley, three dollars; and William Parker, 325 Berkeley, nothing.

In every case side windows had been left open by which the thieves entered. They were apparently looking for money and jewelry as they took nothing else and did not go into any other room except the one first entered.

Chief Beck advises citizens to be sure and lock their windows and doors before retiring.

Ran Auto Into River at Ferry

Driving down Cinnaminson avenue toward the ferry at a rapid rate Tuesday evening about 10:40, Guy de Rigandier, president of the North Rubber Co., of Bethlehem, Pa., failed to turn to the right where the ferry driveway switches off and continued straight down the stub end of the avenue into the river.

Rigandier, who was driving a handsome new Willis St. Clair sport roadster, managed to check his speed before entering the river and only the front wheels went into the water. He struck the warning red light placed at the turn by the ferry.

A crowd soon gathered and pulled the car out of the river, while Officer Nelson Wallace took Rigandier in charge, but later released him.

The accident shows the need of protection for motorists from similar mishaps. The ferry company originally built a curbing and sidewalk across the end of the avenue, blocking it off but A. S. King protested to the State highway department that this closed an established highway and the ferry company had to remove the walk and curb.

The red light, which Rigandier says he did not see, was the only protection which has been provided recently.

The end of the street is very dark and motorists are unable to see just what the road is leading them to and to continue on down it is a natural mistake to make at night.

It has been suggested that it is up to the State highway or township officials to take measures to protect traffic at this point.

In addition to warning lights, additional street lights to illuminate the road would probably reduce the menace.

Thomas H. Rogers

After suffering two strokes within a week, Thomas H. Rogers, passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Tryon, at Burlington, on Tuesday night. The funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon from his late residence in Burlington at two o'clock and interment will be made in Mansfield Cemetery, Columbus, N. J. The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Walter Taylor, of Palmyra, and Mrs. J. J. Tryon, of Burlington. Mr. Rogers had made his home in Palmyra with his daughter for the past two years and had only been in Burlington for about two weeks.

The death occurred on Wednesday afternoon of Winifred Constance, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Green. The funeral services were held from the residence of Mrs. Green's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Day, 200 Cinnaminson avenue, Palmyra, on Thursday afternoon, at three o'clock, Rev. D. A. Parce officiating. Interment was made in Morgan cemetery. Undertaker F. A. Snover in charge.

Thirty Years Ago

Amateur theatricals always held a charm for the young folks. In May, 1892, a Mother Goose Cantata was given in Palmyra in which the following took part: Mother Goose, Miss Mae Soast; Columbia, Miss Katie Yardi; Yankee Doodle, Harry Minnick; Jack the Giant Killer, Robert Cooke; Old King Coal, Harry Rudder; Humpty Dumpty, Willie Wimer; Mother Hubbard, Walter Wimer; The Old Woman who lived in a Shoe, Miss Mamie Smith; Red Riding Hood, Miss Bertha Harmstead; Goody-Two-Shoes, Miss Carrie Clynner; Blue Beard, Horace Way; Jack, Robert Slackhouse; Jill, Miss Mary Smith; Bo-Peep, Vina Althouse; Little Boy Blue, D. Vandersmith; Jack Horner, Wilbur Dilks.

In our issue of May 28, 1892, was recorded the death of May Wolf-schmidt, little daughter of William and Mary Wolf-schmidt, with the notation that William and Walter, her brothers, who were also seriously ill, were not yet out of danger. Evidently the boys fully recovered for they are healthy looking specimens today.

In the same issue is a note that the Riverton baseball team played its first suburban league championship against the Keystone team and lost by the close score of 5-4. The players on the Riverton team were, Coker, If; Nellins, ss; Graff, c; Boileau, 2b; Graves, 3b; Nyce, 1b; Williams, cf; Lippincott, rf; McFeiridge, p; and Hovey, rf.

In the issue of June 4th was recorded the marriage in Palmyra of Miss S. B. Randolph and Mr. Henry G. Ellis.

In our issue of June 25, 1892, was recorded the marriage of Miss Carrie Wallace, of Palmyra, and Mr. Charles Wagner, of Philadelphia, on the evening of the 21st.

The problem of taxing vendors who wished to sell their wares in Palmyra agitated its residents thirty years ago as it does today. On June 23rd it was noted that "There is a petition being circulated through Palmyra to be presented after signing to the Township Committee to require all vendors of goods to pay a license for this privilege."

Apparently the world has grown better (in this neighborhood at least) if we may judge by court records for it is recorded in the issue of July 22 that eleven cases were tried in the court of Squire Spayd, of Palmyra.

In those days Berkely Hall Academy, which was conducted in the Haas Building, at Fourth and Elm avenue, was the center of its popularity. At the close of school that year prizes were awarded as follows: First scholarship prize, gold medal, awarded to Miss Ella Hartley; second scholarship prize, silver medal, Miss Rae Sterling; first prize in music, gold medal, Miss Lydia Toy; silver medals, Miss Zoe Sharp and Miss Anna Roberts; first prize in writing, set of books, Miss Fannie Brown. Books were awarded for highest examination average to Miss Fannie Wimer and Miss Anna Morgan. Meritorious prizes were given Miss Sallie Hunter, Miss Laura Hibbs, Arthur Brown, Warren Hardman, Eddie White and Alfred Briggs.

In June, 1892, Joseph C. Kingdon, who had for number of years been connected with the New Jersey Mirror, purchased an interest in the Mount Holly News, and it was just thirty years later that Mr. Kingdon sold the News to Charles L. Tour, of Mount Holly, who had been associated with George M. Sleeper in the publication of the Mount Holly Herald.

Many of the older residents of both Palmyra and Riverton will remember C. V. Atkinson, the artist, who lived in Palmyra, and will be interested in the following item taken from our issue of June 11th: "C. V. Atkinson, of West Palmyra, has the contract to paint the silk flags for the government, to be displayed at the world's fair. They will be facsimiles of those carried by the U. S. army during the Rebellion. They were specially made at Lyons, France, and were seventy-two inches wide and seamless. Mr. Atkinson is a veteran of the twenty-third N. J. volunteers and second Pennsylvania artillery, of which he is vice president of the Survivors' Association. He placed the first decorations of flags and flowers on the graves of the Civil War Veterans in our Methodist Cemetery at Palmyra."

In June 1892, Eli W. Brown commenced the construction of the foundation walls of the new Catholic Church at Fourth and Linden avenue. The corner stone of the church was laid August 6, 1892, by the Rt. Rev. Michael O'Farrell, D. D., first Bishop of Trenton. It was dedicated August 20, 1893, by Bishop O'Farrell, the sermon on this occasion being preached by the Very Rev. J. A. McFall, Vicar General, later the Rt. Rev. Bishop of the Diocese of Trenton. On May 28, 1891, Rev. J. E. Hendrick was transferred from Vincennes and became the first resident pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart in Riverton, in which capacity he served until October, 1914, when he was transferred to Moorestown, and the present pastor, the Rev. Joseph A. Rigney, was stationed at Riverton.

Moorestown Gets Three State Troopers
Responding to demands of the community, three State troopers have been assigned to duty in Moorestown, N. J. The residents of that place have been without State Police service for four months, depending on the five officers employed locally. The department has assigned Bading, Disbrow and White to Moorestown, and they will have headquarters in the town hall. One will be mounted and the other two will have motorcycles.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE MAKES GOOD

Batting, Pitching and Team Averages For the Season

Arrangements have been completed with Harry Nichols, manager of the Field Club team, for a game between the champions of the Twin City Twilight League and the Field Club, which will be played at the end of the Central Burlington County League season. This game will no doubt create considerable interest among the fans, and should furnish lots of opportunity for the "Royal Rooters."

Monday night, as per schedule, the Bloomer Girls of Folcroft, came to Palmyra, and a large crowd was on hand at the Field Club to see them perform. Miss Alma Stock pitched for the Baptist team, and in the three innings played shut the Bloomer Girls out. Miss Anna Calhoun, who played first base for the Baptist team, deserves honorable mention for the way she handled the initial catch.

Plans are progressing for the double header at the Field Club on Saturday, September 9th, when the cup on display at the Quality Shop, donated by the Reach Company, and the one donated by the Field Club, will be given respectively to the Baptists and the P. O. S. of A. According to the plans, there will be two teams to oppose the league champions, and the P. O. S. of A., composed of players from other teams of the league, or one of the strong teams playing twilight ball around Philadelphia may be brought down as an added attraction.

"Pat" Steele, of the Artisans, and Joe Stack, of Post Rodgers, head the Twilight League in batting. Joe Stack, participating in but three games, hit the lofty average of .666, while Pat Steele was the real "slugging babe" of the league, participating in all of the seven games the Artisans played, and hit for .479. Individual batting averages of the leading hitters who took part in three or more games follows:

Cup for Girls in Tennis Tournament
Mrs. Albert S. King has offered a splendid silver cup to the girl who wins The Field Club girls' tennis tournament in succession.

This incentive has boomed interest among the girl players and has already doubled the number of competitors over last year.

In the men's tournament it is planned to play off the semi-finals this Saturday and the finals on Labor Day. In the semi-finals Prison will play Bongs and Harold Baker will play the winner of the Leonard Baker-Hardy match.

Surprise in Women's Swim
The speedy New York and Philadelphia mermaids in the 200-yard race it plainly showed Riverton champion. Outside of Ethel Bleibrey and Helen Wainwright it is doubtful if any other girl swimmer in America can defeat her.

The fancy diving contest was a thing of beauty and grace and after a wonderful exhibition honors at last went to Miss Marie Hiltz of Philadelphia.

This brings to a close another season of remarkable swimming feats staged by the Riverton Yacht Club. In the five years the Club has been interested in swimming, it has won of any renown has been seen in competition here. Not only all the American champions have been seen in action here but the best from England, Germany, Brazil, Canada, the Hawaiian Islands, etc.

Riverton Boys Swim in Schuylkill River Race
George Corner and Wallace Sullivan represented the Riverton Yacht Club last Saturday in the three and a half mile marathon held in the Schuylkill river by the Philadelphia Swimming Club. There were eighteen starters and all but two finished the long grind. It was Sullivan's first big swim and both local boys did very well.

Sewer Costs Less Than Estimate
Mr. John M. Davies, Chairman of the Township Committee, Palmyra, N. J., in reply to your verbal request for a statement of the final cost of the sewerage system, I would advise you as follows:

On June 28th, 1922, we prepared a final estimate of the sanitary sewerage system, designed plant and storm sewer, which amounted to $178,954.00. As we believed that even lower bid prices would probably be received, we suggested to the Township Committee that an ordinance appropriating the sum of $175,000.00 be introduced. Owing to the fact that the bids received were lower than anticipated and that certain difficulties which we had expected to encounter during progress of the work did not materialize, the final cost of constructing the entire work will be considerably less than the amount of the bond issue.

LINOLEUM DOCTOR

A cheap Linoleum well laid will wear longer than an expensive Linoleum poorly laid. Is your Kitchen Linoleum giving you good wear? Does it lay close to the floor or lay in waves? Does it bulge all over? The bulges are the places it wears out first. Let me prescribe for it and I will add years to its life.

Will Use Surplus Sewer Money for Surface Drain

The Palmyra Township Committee at its meeting Tuesday evening passed an ordinance for the paving and curbing of a number of streets and ordered the publication of a notice to bidders for the work.

An ordinance was also passed instructing the Palmyra National Bank to issue and sell bonds for the remaining $50,000 of the sewer bond issue, at 5% and accrued interest. Not all the money will be needed at once and the bank will pay 3% interest on the part left on deposit.

Inasmuch as some of the money will not be needed for the sewer, Committeemen Hinchman and Hartley questioned the advisability of floating the entire $50,000 issue, because interest would have to be paid on the unused portion.

Committeeman Davies said that most of the surplus would be used to complete the surface water drain from Morgan avenue to the river. George J. Spencer, township clerk, suggested that the surplus be used to extend the sewer system to other parts of town.

The bonds do not mature until November 1, 1924, and the committee is already considering ways and means of replacing them, along with the rest of the $175,000 issue at that time.

The total cost of the sewer improvements is expected to be around $155,000.

The committee received a communication from Solicitor Beckenback stating that the committee had no power over weeds, etc., growing on private property, unless the same became a nuisance or fire menace.

Contractor Kelley's certificate No. 11, for $3,758.17, and the engineer's bill therewith for $222.30 and certificate No. 5, of Simpson & Brown, contractors, for $3,228.61, with the engineer's bill of $251.11, were ordered paid, as well as a sum of $818.46 for road material used on West Broad street.

Having heard that Moorestown has three State policemen, Clerk Spencer was instructed to write headquarters and request at least one for Palmyra.

PALMYRA MAN WRECK HERO

George Keyes Conductor on Train Whose Rear Coach Was Smashed at Lenola

George E. Keyes, of Parry avenue, Palmyra, was the conductor of the train whose rear car was wrecked at Lenola station, near Maple Shade, at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon.

The train was traveling at 55 miles an hour and it is believed a broken flange caused the last car, an old wooden coach, to leave the rails. Eye witnesses say the car turned over and over for a hundred yards and finally came to a rest with one end on top of a 7-foot boiler of a hoisting engine near the station.

Only seven persons were hurt, and their injuries were reported not to have been serious. The passengers united in praising Conductor Keyes who got the injured out and gave first aid, quieting those who were not hurt.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 10

TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 8:1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end.—Ps. 119:32.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deut. 6:4-9; Acts 17:1-9, 10-15; Col. 3:1-11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Joy of Learning God's Word.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Whole City Heard God's Word.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Power of the Word of God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Community Bible Study.

It will be of interest and profit to present this lesson as an ideal Sunday school class:

1. A Model Bible Class (vv. 1-6).

1. The Eager Assembly (v. 1). The people gathered themselves together and "spoke unto Ezra to bring the book of the Law." It was not a matter of the teacher urging the class to come together, but the class with yearning hearts requesting the teacher to come with God's Word.

2. The Representative Assembly (v. 2). The class was made up of men, women and children. The men then did not leave the church-going to the women. Neither were the children left at home with nurses or to play on the streets. God's Word should be taught to all classes, men, women and children.

3. An Appreciative Assembly (v. 3). Their ears were attentive from morning to midday. So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired although the lesson lasted for five or six hours. There was no pulling of watches in that class.

4. Due Reverence Shown God's Word (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the Law all the people stood up. This they did out of respect for the holy book. The reason there is no proper reverence for the Bible is that people are not taught to believe it is God's Word. Reverence in the house of God will only be when the Bible is regarded as God's very words.

5. They Joined Heartily in the Prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer the people joined heartily in saying "Amen! Amen!" bowing their faces to the ground.

11. A Model Bible Teacher (vv. 7, 8).

1. He Stood Up Where the People Could See Him (v. 5). The position and bearing of the teacher has much to do with the attention and interest of the class.

2. He Read Distinctly (v. 8). Teachers should take particular heed to this. Much Bible reading is greatly to the discredit of the Word and the reader.

3. Caused the People to Understand the Reading (v. 8). The supreme business of the teacher is to make the Word of God so plain that all, old and young, can understand.

111. The Impressions Made (vv. 9-18).

The effect of teaching God's Word is most important. In this case it was very encouraging.

1. Conviction of Sin (v. 9). The Word of God brings conviction of sin (Acts 2:37). It is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12). The way to get conviction of sin is by teaching the Word of God, not by appealing to the emotions by telling death-bed stories. The people had real cause for sorrow—they were far from God. They not only had become worldly and the rich were in their greed oppressing the poor, but they were perplexed through their mixed marriages.

2. Weeping Turned Into Joy (vv. 10-12). When sinners have been perceived and confessed God would not have His children to be sad. Continued mourning will not atone for the sins that are past. It unfits one for present tasks and dishonors a pardoning God. Besides, joy has a salutary effect upon one's entire being.

3. Shared Their Blessings With Others (vv. 10-12). Christianity is not having a good time alone; it is sharing our prosperity with others. True joy manifests itself in giving to others. Pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (Jas. 1:27).

4. The People Obeyed (vv. 13-18). In their acquaintance with the Scriptures they found that the Feast of Tabernacles had been long neglected. As soon as they understood the Scriptures they went forth to do as they had been told. They went to work and kept this sacred feast in a way that it had not been kept since the days of Joshua (v. 17). If the Scriptures were read and made plain many things could be found which have not been complied with. In the keeping of this feast they dwell in booths, thus typifying their pilgrim character and bringing to their remembrance the days of their wilderness journey.

The answer is a fountain pen with a "little red pump handle."

NEW ELECTION LAWS

All Persons of Voting Age Must Give Names to Registration Officers

An important change in the election laws of 1922, in connection with the registration of voters is, that a person, who will have on the day of the General Election, the qualification to entitle him or her to vote, shall have the right to register his name and vote at the Primary Election, and registered for and vote at the General Election, the same as though all qualifications were met before registration for the Primary Election.

In making the house to house canvass for registration of voters, election officers are directed to register every person, male or female, over the age of twenty-one years. It is not the privilege of voters to say that they do not want to be registered. It is the duty of the board of election to secure their names. If they do not wish to vote that is their affair, but they must give their names for registration. If the house is closed or the inmates are not at home, members of the board are directed to secure their names by inquiry at the adjoining residence, and if they cannot get it to their satisfaction they must make other visits to the house until the required information has been ascertained.

Notice has been served by the County Clerk that STANDARD TIME will be observed in all the meetings for registration and election and all the other duties of the Board of Registry and Election.

The first day of registration, which will be made by a house to house canvass, will be September 12th.

Members of the board in the three districts in Riverton are as follows:

First district—D. M. Clifton and Morris Steedle, Republican; Harry C. Rice and James McDonald, Democrat.

Second district—Ogden Mattis, Jr., and John W. Carhart, Republican; Charles P. B. and Robert B. Hollings, Democrat.

Third district—John C. Sager and Hamilton M. Smith, Republican; James B. Elliott and James Flynn, Democrat.

CIVILIANISM
Republican—George Schuck and Herbert Dinges.

Democratic—William Phelan and Calvin S. Stow.

PALMYRA
Republican—1st—Harry J. Saar, Harry Kemmerle, Jr., 2nd—Harry King, Alfred L. Koppelman, 3rd—Edward Grifflinger, Harry Kemmerle, Jr., 4th—Harry L. Nichols, Edgar E. Shaner.

Riverton Free Library in Need of Funds

A special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Riverton Free Library was held Tuesday night to consider the financial condition of that institution. Funds have not been coming in fast enough to meet the running expenses and an appeal is made for new subscribers, and for those who are already subscribers to pay their dues promptly. The library is now $2000 short of the amount required to complete the year and it is hoped its friends and patrons will rally to its support.

The New Era is not speaking officially for the Board of Trustees of the Library in saying that if the people of this community do not appreciate the services rendered sufficiently to support it financially, without the constant and strenuous effort on the part of the directors every year to raise the necessary money, it might as well be discontinued.

It is neither seemly or fitting that the management, which devotes its best efforts to securing proper books and to provide a cheerful and comfortable library and reading room, should in addition be obliged to make repeated appeals for funds. It is no uncommon thing for members of the board to be obliged to go down into their jeans to pay the current bills until such time as a few dollars can be scraped together by some special effort such as card parties, curb markets, etc.

Riverton has the best library and the best library service anywhere in this neighborhood, and if the people want it to be maintained it will be necessary that they give it adequate financial support.

Robertson and Mattis Will Sail for Championship

Last Saturday's race in the L. I. class was won by Commodore Bowers' Bob, sailed by Ogden Mattis, with F. W. Robertson second, Gardner Crowell third and G. Rex Showell fourth. There was eight and a half minutes between the first and second boats, and fourteen minutes between the first and last. The wind was very fluky and uncertain. The course was to Lower Hen and Chickens buoy, to buoy off Keystone Yacht Club, and return to Riverton, twice around.

By winning this race Mattis also captured the summer series with 14 points, with Robertson second, 12 points, Crowell 8, and Showell 4. Points were awarded one each for the boats beaten and one for finishing.

The club championship of 1922 will be decided in the fall series of races which will be started on Saturday of this week.

In the race the Saturday before, Robertson came in first, Mattis second, Crowell third and Showell fourth.

On Saturday last the sixteen-foot race was won by Capt. Kid, a Sea Scout boat from across the river and sailed by John Dungan. Edgar Miller's Yankee got second place, with Vincent Bush's Meva third and Malcolm Dickinson's Adnana fourth.

Nine Bells, another Sea Scout boat, sailed by Charlie Seiber, finished last. But he who laughs last laughs best, for on Labor Day the Nine Bells beated in victory when Skipper Seiber beat a field of six entries over the finishing line.

The other boats finished as follows: Edgar Miller, second; John Dungan, third; the Deep Sea, another Scout boat, fourth. Bush and Dickinson did not finish.

Owing to the light wind on Labor Day, the L. I. boats, which were to have raced for a special cup, postponed the contest.

The sixteen-footers, which will sail but two series of races, have two more races to sail in their second series.

The Riverton football team held a meeting in Collins' Hall on Tuesday night. There were about twenty new candidates for the team. Russell Hyton was elected captain for the coming year.

For the past three years the books have shown a deficit and with the hopes of avoiding this condition this year and having a balance in the treasury, several subscription lists are being circulated around town.

The first practice will be held at Broad and Main streets Tuesday night.

The management is going ahead with arrangements for accident insurance on all the players.

On Thursday evening a benefit dance was held in the P. O. S. of A. Hall, Palmyra.

No definite plans have as yet been made as to where the home games will be played this season.

Thirty Years Ago

On July 9, 1892, it was noted that an engineer was at East Riverton estimating and staking for the purpose of filling in the meadows preparatory to building operations thereon. This work, which extended over a period of several months, was done by an apparatus which pumped mud from the river at the rate of two thousand gallons a minute. The Standard Oil Company's tanks just across the bridge are built on the land made by this fill.

In the same issue it was noted that a contract had been let to Joseph Bishop for the erection of Howard R. Sharp's new house at Eighth and Main streets, adjoining the residence of Robert Garwood.

It was also noted that improvements which had taken nearly three months at the Riverton Water Works were about completed.

"The house of Lemuel H. Davis, on the River Bank, is to be occupied by Mr. John Platt, a manager for the R. D. Wood Iron Works at Camden. Mr. Platt has recently come from England to take charge of a new department in that institution."

Another item of interest in this issue was the dissolution of the partnership existing between Harry W. Worrell and his brother, William Worrell, who were conducting a plumbing business under the name of Worrell Brothers. William Worrell went to Delaware county, Pennsylvania, and the Riverton business was continued by Harry, who now has his office and shop in the Collins Building. At the time the partnership was dissolved they occupied the old frame building at the corner of Broad and Main streets, which has been recently moved to Broad street, near the corner, and fitted out as a plumbing establishment by William H. Bishop.

William Heath, of Palmyra, conducted a thriving express business between Riverton, Palmyra and Philadelphia, and was one of the most reliable in that line who has ever run an express in this vicinity. He later gave up the express business and took to house painting.

It was in July, 1892, that L. A. Weikman, then living in Riverton, expressed his intention of going into the flour and feed business in the barn on the old Toy property on Broad street, Palmyra. He remained at this stand for several years, and then moved to West Palmyra where he added the sale of coal to his business. About a year ago he sold out to H. B. Williams, who is now conducting the business.

Christopher Brennan, aged nine years, and son of John Brennan, died from lockjaw as the result of running a splinter into his foot.

In those days many fine horses were driven by the residents of Riverton, Palmyra and vicinity, and a note was made of the appearance of Joseph Morgan with a handsome new carriage and match horses.

In some ways conditions have not changed much in Riverton during the last quarter of a century. Thirty years ago a correspondent to The New Era wrote as follows:

"Editor of The New Era:—Allow me to ask if there is a Board of Health around Riverton? If so, why does that honorable body allow a man to go over our streets with a wagon for the collection of garbage, which wagon has shutters but those shutters under which are the deposits, are never closed; and, in the present kind of weather, the inhabitants are exposed to the abominable stench of his collection. Proper attention by the Board of Health would bring forth the thanks of the community, and

Yours truly,
RIVERTONIAN."

Thirty years later we have only progressed as far as having no "shutters" on the wagon.

In the social column was noted the fact that Theodore W. Reath, a member of the Philadelphia City Troop, who went with them to Homestead, had returned home.

The death of Miss Fannie Leidy, of Riverton, of heart disease, on Thursday, July 28, was published.

An interesting comparison of the price of fruit and vegetables found in an item which stated, "Ed potatoes are forty cents a bushel, tomatoes, 30 cents and citron one dollar to a dollar and a quarter."

The envelope system for financing Christ Church, Riverton, was introduced in 1892, and it is recorded that it was a great success, increasing the amount contributed over one hundred per cent.

In our issue of July 30, 1892, it was noted that "Rev. Walter Mitchell, who officiated in Christ Church last Sunday by exchange with the rector was one of the clergy who held services when the church was first started and the congregation assembled in Miss Sallie Seckel's barn nearly thirty years ago. He was at that time one of the teachers in the Burlington College, where Bishop Doane was professor and was sent here by him to help fill the pulpit."

Capt. William Faunce, of Riverton, died on July 26 in his seventy-fourth year. Mr. Faunce began life as a glassblower in Kensington, Philadelphia, and in 1846 took up fishing in which he continued until incapacitated by illness.

Joseph Smith, proprietor of Sorrel Horse Hotel, died on Wednesday, July 27, 1892.

Mrs. A. M. Woodoth, formerly of PARRY avenue, Palmyra, died at her home in Camden, July 25, 1892.

In the issue of July 30 appears an announcement of Mrs. L. J. Porter, Principal of Berkeley Hall Academy, stating that she had transferred the school to Miss Julia A. Kuech, of Matawan, N. J. Miss Kuech conducted the school for several years.

It is said that certain forms of history repeat about every quarter of a century, and it is noted with interest that in 1892 a local "white cap" organization, somewhat similar to the Ku Klux Klan outbreak of today, sent letters to some of the residents of West Palmyra, threatening to burn down their homes if certain things were not done.

It is equipped with a fifty horsepower motor of 3 1/4 inch bore and 5 inch stroke. To find a motor of equal power you must look to cars that sell for a much higher price.

It is important to remember these facts. For they prove that the Jewett is built with excess strength in every detail of its frame, transmission, clutch, drive shaft and special Timken axles.

And they prove most conclusively that the new reduced price of $995 f. o. b. Detroit is the standard of value by which all five passenger sixes must be judged.

TWILIGHT TEAMS WIN

By Hap Mathews

Victory is a word foreign to the care of local baseball fans. So much so in fact that it has almost been dropped from their vocabulary. A baseball triumph in this village is considered an epoch in township history. Two wins in the same afternoon by two teams representing Palmyra would be considered an outrageous improbability and yet such things do happen. Witness the evidence in the following chronicle.

The Baptist Deacons, winners of the pewter beer stein in the Twilight League Contest traveled to Lansdowne, home of the one and only Edward Trowbridge Collins, and defeated the "P. O." team of Moorestown by a 4 to 3 score.

The Baptist-Lansdowne battle was a walk-over for the local champs. Ed. Hoyt, former star slaban of the Field Club, was on the hill for the church boys and was setting pretty. Three scattered bangs were gleaned from his fast breaking offerings, while eleven members of the foe tested the futility of solving his slants. On the other hand the Baptists took a liking to the shoots of Walton for Lansdowne and blasted him for thirteen resounding "crashers." "Sparrow" Freed and "Light" Hubbs sharing the clubbing honors with two singles and a double apiece.

The churchmen got a firm grip on the thing in the first frame when three solid smashes paved the way for the subsequent triumph. Freed opened the inning with a sharp rap to center that was good for a single. Hubbs then blasted a steaming double in the general direction of British Columbia that enabled Freed by fast work to peddle over the pan with the first run. Rush then swung at three unsuccessfully. Gibbon grounded out but Taylor, the next up, ripped a single to left center, scoring Hubbs. Two runs.

In the fifth round the lid blew off with a roar. Sparrow Freed opened the stuff again with a double to center. Hubbs then dropped a short single to the same garden. Freed taking third. Rush came thru with a single to left center that scored Freed and Hubbs. Russ Gibbon slashed a double into left that chased Rush over the pan. Taylor, with his second timely clout of the game scored Gibbon, and Lansdowne yanked the fast dying Walton from the box, Ryan taking up the burden. Mervine grounded out. Graham lofted a high one back of second and the Lansdowne team held a convention under the fast dropping sphere, but two many cooks spoiled the broth and the ball dropped safe, Taylor riding over with the seventh and last tally. Five runs.

The game was reported as being a very good one to watch and was featured by the snappy work of Russ Gibbon on third who took five difficult chances without a boot. So much for triumph No. 1.

The P. O. S. of A. battle was a humdinger from start to finish and was anybody's game until the last Moorestown man was laid to rest. Lady Orcutt, the southpaw wizard of the local camp, was in fine form, but four hits being grabbed from his delivery during the fuss.

Moorestown drew first blood in the opening round when they scored a run without a hit, due to a general mix-up within our ranks, but the home lads came right back in the second stanza with a tally whiff tied things up. It happened like this. Buck Truman walked, Koppenhoefer bunted safely and Truman went to third when Haines' bad peg to first gave him the opportunity to gallop. Reeves lofted one to second. Donaghy then banged one off Haines' shins and Truman breezed in. 1 run.

In the fourth we went ahead for awhile. Koppenhoefer walked and wound up at third when Reeves laid down a perfect bunt. Donaghy fled to right. Orcutt rolled one to first and was out, but Koppenhoefer shot over the plate a trifle ahead of the throw. 1 run.

Moorestown tied it up in the fifth on a hit, an error and a fielder's choice, but the locals came back strong in the half of the same frame and shot ahead once more when a pass to Reeves and a stolen base, coupled with Donaghy's single, which gave us one run. Two hits and a bad throw made it possible for Moorestown to tie it up again in the sixth, but we settled the thing for good and all in the eighth inning. Bennett was safe when Haines made a bad throw of his grounder. Rodgers, running for him, stole second. Truman was safe on an error by short stop. Rodgers taking third on the play. Koppenhoefer banged one to short and Rodgers tallied a trifle ahead of the chuck. Score 4 to 3.

This is the first of a three-game series with Moorestown, the next being staged at Palmyra this Saturday. The Baptist team will also put on a contest, making it two games for one admission, so here's a chance to get your money's worth. The baseball bug is still feebly moving its legs so one might as well string along to the bitter end.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 17

THE MESSAGE OF MALACHI

LESSON TEXT—Mal. 3:1-4:3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts.—Mal. 3:7.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Kings 17:23; Isa. 6: Eze. 2:1-7; Acts 20:26; II Cor. 3:14-15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Promise of the Savior's Coming.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Offerings That Please God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What We Should Give to God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible Teaches About Giving.

The subject of today's lesson is broader than the text, especially the verses printed. The best way to teach this lesson is to give a survey of the entire book.

Malachi was perhaps contemporary with Nehemiah; probably sustained the same relation to Nehemiah that Hagai and Zechariah did to Zerubbabel. After the completion of the walls of Jerusalem Nehemiah seems to have been called back to the Persian court, but returned to Jerusalem after a few years. Though outwardly the lives of the people were correct, the prophet pointed out the sins of a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages and a failure to pay tithes.

I. Israel's Base Ingratitude (1:1-5). God approached them with the tender affirmation "I have loved you." It was the prophet's burden to declare this fact unto them (v. 1). So formal and worldly were the people that they failed to see God's hand upon them. The attitude of Israel to God is shown in the skeptical insinuation "Wherein hast Thou loved us?" The prophet answers this by showing God's choice of Jacob and His passing by Esau; His destruction of Edom and saving Israel. II. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17).

1. Against the Priests (1:6-2:9). They were guilty (1) of profanity (1:6). Their profanity was in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. To use His name in any unclean way is to be thus guilty. (2) Sacrilege (vv. 7, 8). Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and blemished sacrifices. To bring such offerings to an earthly ruler would be a gross insult. Gifts to be acceptable with God must be genuine; must cost something. We should give to God our best. There is no intellect too brilliant to offer in the Lord's service. The young should not esteem their lives wasted who offer them on the altar of missionary sacrifice. (3) Greed (1:10). They were not willing to open the doors of God's house without pay. Our service should be out of a heart of love for God, not for profit. This has a vital application to ministers and evangelists today. To enter Christian service because of worldly gain is of this type. (4) Weariness (1:12, 13). Because of lack of love the routine of duty became irksome. (5) Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-4). Those set apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and God will most surely demand an accounting.

2. Against the People (2:10-17; 3:7-15). (1) For ungodly marriages (2:11, 12). God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that He might raise up holy seed (v. 15). The marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside His purpose. (2) For divorce (2:13-16). Divorce was the source of great sorrow—even the tears of the wronged women covering the altar (v. 18). The offerings of a man who had thus treated his wife would be an abomination to God. The tears of wronged women today are going up to God and make even the prayers of some men an abomination to Him. (3) Public wrongs (3:5, 6). (a) Sorcery—magic. Those who practice such things should be regarded as public offenders. (b) Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than the parties concerned. (c) False swearing. (d) Oppression of the hireling, widow and fatherless. (e) Turning aside the stranger from the right. (4) Blasphemy (3:13-15).

III. The Severe Judgments Which Shall Befall the Nation (3:15; 4:1-6). 1. By Whom Executed. This is done by the Lord. Judgment has been committed to the Son of God (Acts 17:30-31).

2. Time of Second Coming of Christ. John the Baptist was the forerunner of His first coming. Elijah shall be the forerunner of His second coming. 3. Result. For the righteous it will be a day of healing and salvation. To the wicked it will be a day of burning and destruction. A book of remembrance is now being kept. A day of retribution is coming.

The answer is a fountain pen with a "little red pump handle."

"I have just discovered a bigger fool than the man who knows it all. He is the fellow who will argue with him."

TWILIGHT TEAMS WIN

By Hap Mathews

Victory is a word foreign to the ears of local baseball fans. So much so in fact that it has almost been dropped from their vocabulary. A baseball triumph in this village is considered an epoch in township history. Two wins in the same afternoon by two teams representing Palmyra would be considered an outrageous improbability and yet such things do happen. Witness the evidence in the following chronicle.

The Baptist Deacons, winners of the pewter beer stien in the Twilight League Contest traveled to Lansdowne, home of the one and only Edward Trowbridge Collins, and defeated a team composed of players picked from the ten teams of the Lansdowne Twilight League. The score was 7 to 3.

The P. O. S. of A. representatives also invaded alien territory and defeated the "P. O." team of Moorestown by a 4 to 3 score.

The Baptist-Lansdowne battle was a walk-over for the local champs. Ed. Hoyt, former star slabbman of The Field Club, was on the hill for the church boys and was setting pretty. Three scattered bangs were gleaned from his fast breaking offerings, while eleven members of the foe tested the futility of solving his slants. On the other hand the Baptists took a liking to the shoots of Walton for Lansdowne and blasted him for thirteen resounding "crashers." Sparrow, Freed and "Light" Hubbs sharing the clubbing honors with two singles and a double apiece.

The churchmen got a firm grip on the thing in the first frame when three solid smashes paved the way for the subsequent triumph. Freed opened the inning with a sharp rap to center that was good for a single. Hubbs then blasted a steaming double in the general direction of British Columbia that enabled Freed by fast work to peddle over the pan with the first run. Rush then swung at three unsuccessfully. Gibbon grounded out but Taylor, the next up, ripped a single to left center, scoring Hubbs. Two runs.

In the fifth round the lid blew off with a roar. Sparrow Freed opened the stuff again with a double to center. Hubbs then dropped a short single to the same garden. Freed taking third. Rush came thru with a single to left center that scored Freed and Hubbs. Russ Gibbon slashed a double into left that chased Rush over the pan. Taylor, with his second timely clout of the game scored Gibbon, and Lansdowne yanked the fast dying Walton from the box. Ryan taking up the burden. Mervine grounded out. Graham lofted a high one back of second and the Lansdowne team held a convention under the fast dropping sphere, but two many cooks spoiled the broth and the ball dropped safe, Taylor riding over with the seventh and last tally. Five runs.

The game was reported as being a very good one to watch and was featured by the snappy work of Russ Gibbon on third who took five difficult chances without a boot. So much for triumph No. 1.

The P. O. S. of A. battle was a humdinger from start to finish and was anybody's game until the last Moorestown man was laid to rest. Lady Orcutt, the southpaw wizard of the local camp, was in fine form, but four hits being grabbed from his delivery during the fuss.

Moorestown drew first blood in the opening round when they scored a run without a hit, due to a general mix-up within our ranks, but the home lads came right back in the second stanza what a tally! They tied things up. It happened like this. Buck Truman walked, Koppelhoef bunted safely and Truman went to third when Haines' bad peg to first gave him the opportunity to gallop. Reeves lofted one to second. Donaghy then banged one off Haines' shins and Truman breezed in. 1 run. In the fourth we went ahead for awhile. Koppelhoef walked and wound up at third when Reeves laid down a perfect bunt. Donaghy flied to right. Orcutt rolled one to first and was out, but Koppelhoef shot over the plate a trifle ahead of the throw. 1 run.

Moorestown tied it up in the fifth on a hit, an error and a fielder's choice, but the locals came back strong in their half of the same frame and shot ahead once more when a pass to Reeves and a stolen base, coupled with Donaghy's single, which gave us one run. Two hits and a bad throw made it possible for Moorestown to tie it up again in the sixth, but we settled the thing for good and all in the eighth inning. Bennett was safe when Haines made a bad throw of his grounder. Rodgers, running for him, stole second. Truman was safe on an error by short stop. Rodgers taking third on the play. Koppelhoef banged one to short and Rodgers tallied a trifle ahead of the chuck. Score 4 to 3. This is the first of a three-game series with Moorestown, the next being staged at Palmyra this Saturday. The Baptist team will also put on a contest, making it two games for one admission, so here's a chance to get your money's worth. The baseball bug is still feebly moving its legs so one might as well string along to the bitter end.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 17

THE MESSAGE OF MALACHI

LESSON TEXT—Mal. 3:1-4:2.
GOLDEN TEXT—Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts.—Mal. 3:7.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Kings 17:23; Isa. 6; Ezek. 2:1-7; Acts 20:26; II Cor. 3:1-15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Promise of the Savior's Coming.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Offerings That Please God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What We Should Give to God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible Teaches About Giving.

The subject of today's lesson is broader than the text, especially the verses printed. The best way to teach this lesson is to give a survey of the entire book.

Malachi was perhaps contemporary with Nehemiah; probably sustained the same relation to Nehemiah that Hagai and Zechariah did to Zerubbabel. After the completion of the walls of Jerusalem Nehemiah seems to have been called back to the Persian court, but returned to Jerusalem after a few years. Though outwardly the lives of the people were correct, the prophet pointed out the sins of a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages and a failure to pay tithes.

I. Israel's Base Ingratitude (1:1-5). God approached them with the tender affirmation "I have loved you." It was the prophet's burden to declare this fact unto them (v. 1). So formal and worldly were the people that they failed to see God's hand upon them. The attitude of Israel to God is shown in the skeptical insinuation "Wherein hast Thou loved us?" The prophet answers this by showing God's choice of Jacob and His passing by Esau; His destruction of Edom and saving Israel. II. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17).

1. Against the Priests (1:6-9). They were guilty (1) of profanity (1:6). Their profanity was in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. To use His name in any unclean way is to be thus guilty. (2) Sacrilege (vv. 7, 8). Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and blemished sacrifices. To bring such offerings to an earthly ruler would be a gross insult. Gifts to be acceptable with God must be genuine; must cost something. We should give to God our best. There is no intellect too brilliant to offer in the Lord's service. The young should not esteem their lives wasted who offer them on the altar of missionary sacrifice. (3) Greed (1:10). They were not willing to open the doors of God's house without pay. Our service should be out of a heart of love for God, not for profit. This has a vital application to ministers and evangelists today. To enter Christian service because of worldly gain is of this type. (4) Weariness (1:12, 13). Because of lack of love the routine of duty became irksome. (5) Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-4). Those set apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and God will most surely demand an accounting.

2. Against the People (2:10-17; 3:7-15). (1) For ungodly marriages (2:11, 12). God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that He might raise up holy seed (v. 15). The marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside His purpose. (2) For divorce (2:15-16). Divorce was the source of great sorrow—even the tears of the wronged woman covering the altar (v. 18). The offerings of a man who had thus treated his wife would be an abomination to God. The tears of wronged women today are going up to God and make even the prayers of some men an abomination to Him. (3) Public wrongs (3:5, 6). (a) Sorcery—magic. Those who practice such things should be regarded as public offenders. (b) Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than the parties concerned. (c) False swearing. (d) Oppression of the hireling, widow and fatherless. (e) Turning aside the stranger from his rights. (4) Blasphemy (3:15-15). III. The Severe Judgments Which Shall Befall the Nation (3:15; 4:1-6).

1. By Whom Executed. This is done by the Lord. Judgment has been committed to the Son of God (Acts 17:30-31).

2. Time of Second Coming of Christ. John the Baptist was the forerunner of His first coming. Elijah shall be the forerunner of His second coming.

3. Result. For the righteous it will be a day of healing and salvation. To the wicked it will be a day of burning and destruction. A book of remembrance is now being kept. A day of retribution is coming.

The answer is a fountain pen with a "little red pump handle."

To the Voters of Riverton

The Republican Voters of New Jersey will have an opportunity on Tuesday, September 26th, 1922, to show their appreciation of the untiring labors of our Senior Senator, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

The Senator has not yet completed his first term but through his ability and broad grasp of affairs has attained a position in the Nation's Council far beyond the usual, compared with his length of service.

He is a leading member of the Finance Committee, the most important committee of the Senate, and has been very active in support of legislation for the protection of our industries and the labor employed therein.

It is unnecessary to rehearse here his record in constructive legislation as it is too well known.

The voters, however, are asked to choose between the record of accomplishments and one without experience in National affairs.

New Jersey is a great agricultural State and ranks sixth in manufacturing importance in the Union.

A new man, regardless of his ability, would spend years in the service before he could attain the influence and prestige of our Senior Senator.

New Jersey is really on the map as never before. Let us keep it there and re-elect our able Senator, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

Yours for Continued Progress,
ROBERT BIDDLE.

Mrs. William Lewis James

By the death, on Thursday last, of Mrs. William Lewis James, Riverton has lost one who was always interested in the growth and development of our town. The records of many guilds and branches of the work of Christ Church bear her name, particularly the Sunday School, the Girls' Friendly Society and the Mothers' Meeting. She was a member of the Porch Club for a number of years, resigning on account of ill health, and from the beginning, was an ardent worker in the Mothers' Circle, which was later incorporated into the Parent-Teacher Association. At the time of her death, she was the chosen medium for the "Friendly Thought" which her letters carried to those in the Association to whom joy and sorrow had come.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hendrickson have returned from Ocean City, where they spent the summer.

Miss Mae Brown and Russell Jermon were entertained by friends in Philadelphia last Saturday.

Field and daughter, Margaret, of Elm avenue, have returned from a ten days' vacation trip, during which they visited friends and relatives at Lancaster and Port Allegany, Pa., Olean, Allegany, Machias and Buffalo, N. Y., also spent two days at the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto.

Anthony Laskowski and son, Walter, aged fifteen, of Madison and Jefferson streets, Riverside, were injured while returning home from Philadelphia on Thursday afternoon, about three o'clock. The Ford truck which they were driving, containing a load of live poultry, skidded off the road at Taylor's Lane and in attempting to get back on the road again, the truck was overturned. Father and son were taken to the Riverside hospital for treatment. They received cuts and bruises about the face and body.

Robert Biddle, 3d, is the latest member of Riverton's younger set to follow Washington's illustrious example and "cross the Delaware." Robert crossed a few miles lower than Washington and he swam across, but it is doubtful which experienced the greatest pleasure in their exploits. Biddle who is ten years of age, made the swim in forty-six minutes, piloted by "Sonny" Wright.

On Sunday, September 24th, the Young People's Society of Calvary Presbyterian Church, will hold a rally at the time of the evening church service, eight o'clock. Fairbanks, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, lost his balance and fell into the water and was drowned. The body was not recovered until Tuesday, September 12th, two days after the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks were former residents of Riverton, occupying the house at 410 Main street.

Steel stands will be erected for the convenience of the spectators. The exhibition is given for the benefit of the Burlington County Hospital, and tickets of admission may be secured by application to Mr. Willis, phone Riverton 409.

W. Stewart Hollingshead had a narrow escape from serious injury in an automobile accident in Riverside Sunday night when his car was run into by another car driven by Raymond Bencliff, of the Half Way House, Beverly. The accident happened at the corner of Pavilion avenue and Lafayette street. Both Hollingshead and his car escaped unhurt, while Bencliff's car was wrecked beyond repair and Bencliff had to be taken to the Riverside hospital, where he was treated for injuries to the face and leg. A trial to determine the responsibility for the accident, will be held before Squire Roehrig at Riverside town hall Friday evening, the 15th.

Resourcefulness
A colored preacher in Alabama had at one time served a short jail sentence and was fearful lest his congregation discover the fact, as in his later years he had been a model of rectitude.

One Sunday, rising to begin his sermon, his heart sank to see a former cell mate sitting in the front row. Quick thinking was necessary. Fixing his eye on the unswerving guest, the preacher announced solemnly: "Ah takes mah text dis mornin from de sixty-fifth chapter and fo' hundredth verse of Job, which says: 'Dem as sees and knows me, and says nothin', dem will Ah see later.'—The Argonaut.

Committee to Clean Up Cemetery

At the meeting of the Palmyra Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening, Edwin A. Parker suggested that steps should be taken to have those in charge of the old Methodist Cemetery clean it up in preparation for Old Home Day.

The cemetery, which is just south of the grove where some of the Old Home Day exercises will be held, was described as being overgrown with grass and weeds and with many of the graves uncareed for. A. Harry Rudduck said the Methodist Church was the owner of the cemetery and that it was administered by the Methodist cemetery committee.

Lack of care given the burying place, he said, was due to shortage of funds. About all the money available came from some Pennsylvania railroad bonds in which investment had been made for that purpose and that since the dividends had shrunk from six to four per cent, they had been too small to accomplish much.

It was suggested that some time in the future an effort should be made to have the cemetery removed.

A committee composed of Mr. Parker, Lincoln Richter and F. A. Mathews, Jr., was appointed to see what could be done about having the cemetery cleaned up.

Mr. Richter said Post Rodgers was very much interested in having three graves of Civil War Veterans in the cemetery cared for properly, the graves having sunken in and the headstones fallen. George N. Wimer said that George Roden was also working on this proposition, having been promised government aid in caring for the graves in case he could find what units the veterans served in and other information.

In discussing weeds about town Mr. Wimer said he had at last found somebody that could get things done about town and related how George Cross, the station agent, had got weeds along the railroad cut down after Mr. Wimer had tried to get various town authorities to attend to the matter.

Later in the evening M. J. McDermott said he would like to have Mr. Cross attend to a similar matter in his back yard.

Protest was made about automobiles speeding on Highland avenue and in other parts of the town, and it was reported that the police already had started taking vigorous action in this matter. Members of the Chamber suggested that citizens should set an example by obeying the speed laws.

A suggestion that steps should be considered in the future of providing a town hall to provide headquarters for township officials, the police and the fire company, was made. The grove was suggested as one location, but Mr. Wimer opposed abandoning the park there and suggested as another location the lots just east of Morgan Hall, also known as the P. O. S. of A. building.

The Chamber voted to donate one of the silver cups awarded the winners of The Field Club doubles, which will be properly engraved.

A resolution of thanks to the Township Committee for passing the Broad street parking ordinance was passed.

M. J. McDermott wound up the evening with a humorous talk, in which he said he preferred to be a "Toreador," as Charlie Davison calls him, to being a "crape-hanger." Someone asked him to name a man in town who wasn't the greatest citizen of Palmyra, referring to Mr. McDermott's well known habit of eulogizing everybody.

Mr. McDermott said one of the crying needs of Palmyra was an elevator in the police station.

Frank Daddino

Frank Daddino, of 25 Rowland street, Palmyra, died just before noon Tuesday at the age of 62. He had been ill for seven months, starting with sciatica which developed into a general breakdown. Shortly before his death, Mr. Daddino seemed to be improving and the end came unexpectedly.

The deceased has lived in Palmyra 12 years and previously lived in Riverton for nine years. Until a few years ago he engaged in contracting business on a large scale.

The widow and six children survive. The three daughters are Mrs. Rose Rayness, Mrs. Anna Paff and Miss Stella Daddino, and the three sons are George, Frank and Charles.

Funeral services were held this Friday morning at the Sacred Heart Church and interment was in Calvary cemetery, Camden. Frank A. Snover had charge of the funeral.

Frank A. Snover to Occupy Splendid $15,000 Establishment on East Broad Street

Frank A. Snover's new $15,000 funeral home, one of the notable improvements of East Broad street, Palmyra, is expected to be ready for use by October 15, and has already progressed to such an extent that passersby are much impressed with its appearance.

The home, which is of tile construction and will be finished in gray stucco, is of imposing dimensions. The big porch in front is 48 feet wide, ending on the west in a Porte Cochere driveway, where funeral parties and the coffins will be unloaded.

The wide front door opens into a big reception hall. On the right is Mr. Snover's office and immediately to the rear of this is the funeral parlor, 33x15, seating 125 people. The floor will be covered with blue gray carpet, with wall draperies to match. The walls will be finished in tan, with candle bracket electric light fixtures. Outside light will be utilized in the daytime.

In the centre rear is the operating room with tile finished floor and walls, and to the left of the reception hall are three rooms of the private part of the home, living room, dining room and kitchen. The living room is so arranged that it may be utilized by the families and relatives of the deceased, wide doors and hallway connecting it with the funeral parlor.

All the floors downstairs will be of hardwood. The French doors will be of mahogany, trimmed in ivory.

Upstairs is a large guest room for out of town relatives of the deceased and in the rear is a large display room for caskets. In addition there are four bedrooms and a sewing room.

Mr. Snover's workshop will be located in the spacious basement.

In the rear of the home the driveway will circle about a large flower bed, allowing automobiles to enter and turn about with ease and there will also be room for the parking of a number of cars in front of the three car garage.

Those who have inspected the establishment declare it will be the finest funeral home in South Jersey.

Woidill-Frymyer

A very pretty at home wedding was solemnized last Tuesday at six o'clock when Miss Helen R. Frymyer, of Talmage, Pa., became the bride of Mr. Walter E. Woidill, of Riverton.

Miss Mildred Young, of Lititz, Pa., acted as flower girl, Miss Paula Woidill, of Riverton, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Forrest G. Rudderow, of Palmyra, as best man.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Woidill left for an extended trip through the West.

Lineman Fatally Hurt

Frank Law, of Gloucester, was knocked from a pole carrying high tension wires of the Public Service Company, Sunday morning and fell thirty feet. The current, 2400 volts, apparently did not injure him much, but he was badly crushed by the fall, breaking some ribs and suffering other internal injuries. He was rushed to Cooper hospital, Camden, in the Palmyra ambulance, in charge of Messrs. Snover, Behr and Matlack, and attended by two East Riverton ladies.

Law died from his injuries at the hospital late Sunday night.

Word of the accident was brought to Riverton by Motorman Albert Smith, who notified Officer Quigley. The officer notified Chief Geiss who telephoned for the ambulance, which responded with its usual promptness.

County Notes

The Union Paving Company, of Philadelphia, was awarded the contract to resurface Chester avenue, Moorestown, by the Board of Freeholders, at its meeting last Friday, and the contract was concurred in by the Township Committee of Moorestown Township, as that municipality is to pay a part of the cost of the road.

The Freeholders of Burlington County were at Lake Hopatcong on Monday to attend a sectional meeting of the Freeholders' Association of New Jersey. This was a meeting similar to the one held recently at the Riverton Country Club under the general direction of Burlington County Freeholders.

If people who are always knocking would spend the same amount of energy in boosting, they soon wouldn't have anything to kick about.

School Building in Fine Shape

At the meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday night, the property committee was given a vote of thanks for the splendid condition in which the building had been put during the vacation season and for securing a supply of coal. Mrs. Dora W. Smith, one of the teachers, who had signed up for the coming year, sent a telegram to Miss Chew, supervising principal, last Friday stating that she would not be able to come. A resolution was passed rescinding her contract and the clerk was instructed to ask her for return of the same. Mrs. Jeannette Vollmer was employed to take her place. Miss Chew reported that school had opened on Monday, the 11th, with an attendance of 308, with twelve to come, making a total enrollment of 320. A resolution was passed placing the renting of the auditorium in the hands of the district clerk.

The applications of thirty pupils who desire to go to Palmyra high school, were granted. The clerk was instructed to write a letter of thanks to Mrs. Henry C. Biddle, for pictures which she presented to the school and which have been hung in the auditorium.

Men of Christ Church Form Club

At a meeting of members of the congregation and the St. Agnes Guild of Christ Church, Palmyra, last Monday evening, W. T. J. Purnell cited the splendid work done by the Guild and suggested that the men of the church should also be organized.

The idea met with quick approval, and the pastor, the Rev. D. A. Parce, was requested to take the chair and effect a temporary organization. The following temporary officers were elected: W. T. J. Purnell, president; Charles K. Mervine, secretary; R. E. Wilson, treasurer.

Mr. Purnell then appointed an organization committee composed of Frank A. Mathews, Sr., Frank A. Mathews, Jr., E. W. G. Borer and E. B. Day.

The name, Men's Club of Christ Church, Palmyra, was adopted and it was decided that the meetings should be held on the fourth Monday of each month, the next to be held in the parish house on September 25th.

The policies and scope of the club were then discussed at length. Mr. Wilson urged that its efforts should be toward intellectual, moral and religious welfare in a non-sectarian way, by means of lectures, entertainment and study.

Final decision on the work of the club was postponed. Each member pledged himself to bring at least one new member to the next meeting. The yearly dues were fixed at one dollar.

E. B. Day was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee and Mr. Borer agreed to provide a speaker at the next meeting, while Mr. Brelsford agreed to supply a musical entertainment.

Music and refreshments were provided by members of the Guild and a vote of thanks was given the ladies at the close of the meeting.

The gentlemen present at the forming of the organization were Dr. Parce, W. T. J. Purnell, F. A. Mathews, Sr., F. A. Mathews, Jr., W. G. Borer, W. H. Brelsford, W. H. Fisher, R. E. Wilson, Frank Day, E. B. Day, Antone Beckenbach, Arnold J. Beckenbach, Benjamin Rielly, Edward Lewis, C. K. Mervine and B. S. Torbett.

The place conducted by Joseph Sunopie, of Riverside, also was raided, and ninety gallons of alleged moonshine, one hundred gallons of mash and a large still were confiscated. Although no liquor was found in the pool room conducted by Jos. Holland in Riverside, he was held under $1,000 bail on the testimony on one of the detectives.

Several gallons of whiskey were seized at the home of Edward Schnell, Riverside. A warrant also will be issued for the arrest of James Horton, of Beverly, whose home was raided and a quantity of liquor seized.

Atwood Lloyd

Atwood Lloyd, who died at the age of 64 at his home in Riverside on September 6th, was formerly a well known figure in Riverton and Palmyra as constable and auctioneer.

He was born on May 12, 1858, at the Lloyd homestead in Cinnaminson township, which is now occupied by George Miller. He was constable and delinquent tax collector in Cinnaminson Township for thirty years and was also mail carrier, over the old Star route for nineteen years.

In the days when William F. Morgan was a power in Democratic politics in this end of the county, Mr. Lloyd was one of his chief lieutenants in Cinnaminson township.

Mr. Lloyd was constable and delinquent tax collector in Riverside when he died. He is survived by his widow and six children: Mrs. Ella Conner, of Conshohocken; Mrs. Cordie Stokely, of Palmyra; Mrs. John McCord, of Philadelphia; Atwood Jr., Mitchell and Warren, all of Riverside.

The funeral was held last Monday with interment at Moorestown.

On Sunday, September 24th, the Wesleyan Men's Bible Class will resume its afternoon meetings. The first will be known as "Kershner Day." Brother Kershner gave some delightful and beneficial talks last year at the meetings and it is hoped that a large number will be on hand to greet him at the beginning of the new season.

Those of the Wesleyan Class attending the meeting in the grove this Sunday, when the Men's Classes of various churches of the community have combined for a big day, are requested to park their cars in front of the P. O. S. of A. Hall, facing west.

All members of the class are urged to attend this "open air" meeting. A pleasant hour is assured all, and "Pop" Jordan will have a message of interest and helpfulness.

Speeders Arrested

Following out the plans announced last week, two arrests were made in Palmyra Sunday for speeding.

Officer Nelson Wallace hauled in Clarence C. Worrell, of Moorestown, and Chief Beck nabbed Thomas C. Bassler, of Tacony, for speeding on Cinnaminson avenue.

Worrell had a hearing before Squire Fichter and was released with a reprimand. Bassler has not shown up for a hearing yet and Chief Beck plans to send for him if he doesn't appear shortly.

Kenneth Letford was in a serious automobile accident at Yacoo City, Miss. last week. His Stutz roadster broke a wheel going down hill, ran into an embankment and overturned, pinning Kenneth under his companion, Mr. Hutchins, underneath. Acid from the battery dripped on Letford's face and burned him severely, and he tore a ten-inch cut in his leg, which was pinned down by the steering wheel post, in crawling out. After rescuing Hutchins, whose collar bone and one rib were torn loose, the Palmyra boy lost consciousness for two hours. Both are now recovering.

Hardy Wins King Tennis Cup
The final match for the Albert S. King tennis tournament cup was played last Saturday on the Field Club between Roy Hardy and Alonzo Bousal and produced some of the finest tennis seen around this section for some time.

Both contestants were in fine form and played through four sets and eight games before the break came in the form of a smash by Hardy which hit the top of the net and trickled over for the game point, making it 5-4 in favor of Hardy, enabling the latter to run out on his own service, winning permanent possession of the handsome cup donated by Mr. King.

Hardy and Bousal were both stroking nicely and the first set went to 10-8 before Hardy won on some fine placements. The next set went to Bousal, 6-4, after Lons had broken through Hardy's service, winning the last game with several fine cross court shots.

The third set was bitterly fought, Hardy giving a fine exhibition of volleying and smash while Bousal placed accurately with his fore and backhand shots for needed points. Hardy finally broke through at 9-7.

Bousal seemed to get stronger as the play continued and won 6-3 in the fourth set. Both were playing great tennis, each winning his own service in the fifth and final set, bringing the match to four sets when Roy got through his opponent's service for the fifth game and won the last on his own.

Miss Mae Griffenberg won the Mrs. A. S. King cup for one year by defeating Miss Edna Bousal two out of three sets. After losing the first set, Miss Griffenberg settled down and took the next two. Miss Bousal played well and Miss Griffenberg's victory was well earned.

Hardy and Mathews, playing with the same fine teamwork which had characterized their doubles work all season, won the final doubles match in three out of four sets from the well balanced team of Weikman and Allen.

Durant Four-Passenger 6-Cylinder Coupe $2250
F. O. B. Muncie, Ind.

Are YOUR needs best filled by this Coupe?

For these occasions, the Durant Coupe has an extra seat with back rest, which folds out of the way when not in use.

A coupe is used a lot for shopping, the theatre, driving to the club and visiting.

The Durant Coupe therefore has a convenient package compartment back of the driver's seat, a large rear compartment, long enough for golf clubs, and the door-looks permit you to leave packages in the car with as much security as in your own home.

But it is sometimes convenient to have capacity for a fourth passenger.

Only in the DURANT are squeaks and rattles eliminated by the Tubular Backbone; of special advantage in a closed car

Double Header Brings Two Defeats

The twilight league staged a double header at The Field Club grounds last Saturday. The first game was between Moorestown and the local P. O. S. of A., Moorestown winning by the score of 7 to 5. In the second game, the Baptists were beaten by the All Stars by the score of 3 to 1 in nine innings.

In the first game Moorestown got off to a four-run lead in the first inning. Shea, first man up, flied out. This was followed by five hits off of Orcutt's left hand shoots—four of which counted for runs. All nine men on the Moorestown team faced Lody in this inning. The locals went out in order in their half inning. In the second inning they managed to get a couple of men on through the generosity of the Moorestown third baseman, but could not reach the scoring station. The second was also void for Moorestown.

In the third, however, Moorestown scored two runs on a hit, and two errors by Truman. The locals countered, and scored two runs in this inning themselves. They also scored two runs in the fourth, and one in the fifth, while Moorestown was being put out in order. In the sixth and seventh the locals failed to score. Moorestown scoring one run in the sixth inning. Notwithstanding, twelve hits were gleaned off Orcutt's offering, he struck out six men to four by Boman, the visiting slaban. Donahy and Wallace got four of the five hits allowed by Moorestown, each having two. The other hit was made by Reeves.

As soon as the game was called in the seventh inning, President Patterson presented the cup to Clinton Gibbon for the Baptist team, and also the one which The Field Club donated for the team finishing second position, to Leslie Reeves, for the P. O. S. of A.

As soon as the field was cleared, the Baptists got into action with the All Stars. The All Stars scored two runs in the first inning, after two were down, Hullings getting on while Rus Gibbon was retiring Hubbs at second. Hullings stole second, and Flynn reached first on an error by Rush. This brought "Pat" Steedle up, who came through with a single, scoring on hits by Hubbs and Flynn. With two down, Hubbs, having been advanced to third, Hardy wild-pitched him home.

In the subsequent innings, the All Stars went out in order. In the fifth inning, the Baptists managed to score one run on a hit by Fred, who stole second, and later scored, while Hardy was being thrown out going to third. McGinley pitched the first four innings for the All Stars, during which he allowed five hits, and in the last five innings, which were pitched by Orcutt, only three hits were scored, one of which was a two-bagger.

Hardy pitched a nice game for the Baptists, but the breaks were against him. Clint Gibbon had a wonderful opportunity to score in the second inning, but instead of sliding, he tried to jump over "Pat" Steedle's head. Hubbs' throw beating Gibby to the plate. Buddy Freed scored the only run for the Baptists, and also had two of the eight hits allowed by McGinley and Orcutt. Hubbs had three hits out of four times up for the All Stars off Hardy, Flynn and Steedle each two, while Donahy and Orcutt each had one hit. Eight hits in all were made off Hardy's offerings.

The series between Moorestown and the local P. O. S. of A. now stands even up, and the deciding game will be played off this Saturday, September 23rd. The locals are all prepared to give Moorestown a tussle for the honor of winning the "rubber." A good game is promised the fans. The game between the Twin City champions and The Field Club will probably be played the first Saturday in October.

There will be a meeting of the Twin City City Twilight base ball league on Friday, the 22d, at The Field Club rooms at which all officers and directors are requested to be present.

IN THE POLITICAL ARENA

Close Fight in the Primary Election for Freeholder and State Committeeman

Charles R. Stout, who is candidate for reelection as a member of the Board of Freeholders, has a strong claim on the support of the voters in this vicinity. During his term, which is just expiring, he has been director of roads and is largely responsible, together with George W. Rogers, of Palmyra, for the fine roadway between Palmyra and Burlington. Both Mr. Stout and Mr. Rogers were actively interested also in securing the adoption of Cinnaminson avenue, Palmyra, as a part of the State highway system, and the fine improvement made at State expense on that highway leading to the ferry. It required a great deal of work and pressure to get this deal through the legislature. Mr. Stout represents Burlington, Monmouth and Ocean counties in the State Association of Freeholders and is a member of the executive committee of that body. He succeeded in getting the Association to endorse the bill which was the only one of its kind submitted by this Association and passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor.

Mr. Rogers needs no recommendation from us. He is well known throughout this section; in fact, all over the county. He is always attentive to the requests and suggestions of the constituents, and the voters of the river front will make a big mistake if they do not see to it that their representative is returned to the Board of Freeholders. It is not so much the question of the vote for Mr. Rogers in Riverton and Palmyra, where he is sure to receive large majorities, but every available vote should be polled for him in order to offset the opposition from rival candidates from other parts of the county.

"He Stands for the Better Things in Politics"

These words, used by a friend of William H. Reeves, who is candidate for a member of the State Republican Committee, tell the story in a nutshell. His unquestioned and unquestionable integrity of purpose and character will be his great asset in the battle which will be fought at the polls next Tuesday. The question of whether or not the political leadership of Harry Knight, which was repudiated in the organization of the Republican County Committee last year shall be re-established. Independent men and women, who aim at the overthrow of one-man domination in county politics will find a conscientious and able exponent in William H. Reeves.

"He stands for the better things in politics."

In speaking before the Women's Club in Mount Holly last Monday night, Mr. Reeves said in part: "I am a candidate for State Committee, not by my choice, but through circumstances, which were produced through my efforts to secure harmony in the party."

"The position of chairman is important. It formulates party policies and makes recommendation for appointments. If elected I shall stand for the highest qualifications of all candidates. I have made no promises for appointments."

"As to my qualifications, I can but say I would not be induced by any promises I may make to you, but by the life I have lived before you, which life is an open book, subject to inspection by all, and by which I am willing to be judged."

"In reference to the rumors that are afloat regarding my canvass, I court the fullest investigation."

"The verdict rests with you."

"I thank you."

Borough to Consider Municipal Garbage Collection

The meeting of the Borough Council on Thursday evening, September 14th, holds the record for brevity, business being transacted and the meeting adjourned before 9 o'clock.

The chief of police rendered a written report detailing the activities of his department during the month. A petition was presented by property owners on Harrison street, between Thomas and Linden avenues, requesting that a cement walk be laid on the easterly side of that street. Some opposition appeared and the matter was referred to the ordinance committee.

Councilman Showell brought up the question of municipal garbage collection, but action was deferred until the next meeting, at which time, it is understood, the Board of Health will have definite recommendations to make.

Voters, Attention!

At the primary election next Tuesday several important decisions will be in your hands. Senator Joseph H. Frelinghuysen will be candidate for nomination for re-election to that office, which he has so ably and successfully filled. His opponent is George L. Record. While it is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Record cannot win the nomination, he is doing all he can to defeat votes from Senator Frelinghuysen, which will result in favor of Governor Edward I. Edwards, who will be Frelinghuysen's Democratic opponent in the November election. It is desired that the primary vote for Mr. Frelinghuysen be as large as possible in order to indicate the strength he will develop in November. William N. Runyon is unopposed for nomination for governor on the Republican ticket. Isaac Bacharach is also unopposed on the Republican ticket for nomination for member of the House of Representatives. Clifford R. Powell, Burlington county's new assemblyman, has made a good record and asks for re-election. He is also unopposed in his own right.

For members of the State Republican Committee there is being waged a bitter fight between William H. Reeves and Harry L. Knight. Mr. Reeves is present chairman of the Republican County Committee and is County Clerk, both of which offices he is filling with general satisfaction. The election of Reeves to the State Committee will mean the approval and endorsement of the movement started last year for cleaner politics in Burlington county and the end of one-man domination.

Mrs. Alice E. G. Sherman, of Moorestown, is unopposed as the female candidate for State Committee. In the race for freeholder there are seven contestants, with two to be nominated. The leading candidates seem to be Charles R. Stout, of Florence, Edward T. Haines, of Mount Holly and George W. Rogers, of Palmyra. Haines was defeated in the contest for freeholder last year by Fred Lippincott, of Moorestown. Stout has made a valuable member of the Board and has rendered invaluable services as Director of the Department of Public Roads. George W. Rogers has made a good record and it will be to the interest of the voters in this neighborhood to return him to the Board in order that they may have a representative in that body.

For Steward of the Almshouse, the contest will be between Charles A. Bowne, present incumbent, and William A. Wilkins.

In the local political fight, the contest will be a three-cornered one for the election of two councilmen. Joshua W. Altie needs no introduction to Riverton voters. John C. Geiss is asking for reelection on his record as chief of police, and William B. Lynch, the third candidate, has not served in council, but pledges his best effort if elected.

The Edward R. Williams ticket and was defeated by a small majority by Ralph L. Flower.

The candidates for members of the County Committee are Edward H. Flagg, Jr., and Mrs. Walter L. Bowen in the third district. Mr. Flagg's name appears on the ticket, but Mrs. Bowen's name will have to be placed on the ballots either by writing or with stickers. In the second district, John C. Geiss and Mrs. Charles F. Allen will be candidates, with stickers, and in the third district L. A. Flanagan and Miss Mildred Clelland will be candidates, also with stickers.

Women voters, particularly, are urged to vote in the primaries. It will be their only chance to voice their preference in the choice of State Committee members and members of the Borough Council.

COMBINATION COLLECTION

During the first week in October residents of Riverton and Cinnaminson Township will be solicited by solicitors to raise funds for three well known charities: Visiting Nurse Committee of Riverton, Burlington County Hospital, located at Mount Holly, and the Cinnaminson Home, on the road between Riverton and Westfield. It has been thought desirable to make a combination collection as this will obviate the necessity for three separate calls.

The work of the Visiting Nurse Committee in this neighborhood is so well known that it is only necessary to call attention to the fact that they will be one of the institutions benefited by the drive.

The Burlington County Hospital has been greatly improved both in building and equipment, and under the new management, recently instituted, is doing wonderful work.

The Cinnaminson Home, which was originally a summer home for women and children, was some years ago turned into a home for convalescent women and children coming from Philadelphia hospitals and elsewhere, to fill in the time during their complete recovery.

Mrs. C. H. Rolf, who has had experience in Liberty Loan Drives, will be vice chairman of this community collection and will organize the women of Riverton and Cinnaminson to assist in the work. The request is made that this subject be given consideration prior to the time the collectors will call, so that contributions may be ready for them, thus saving their time.

PROMPT DELIVERY

A Diplomatic Courtship

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Harold Raymond had the reputation in Hillsborough of being a local Machiavelli—a very deep young man, the people called him—who attained his ends by diplomatic ways and wiles. He called persistently at the house of the Widow Halstead and was seen often in company with the widow's pretty daughter, Catherine. He frequently took along Kate's elder sister, Martha, on their outings and treated her with much deference at all times. For that was the regular thing to do when one was in love with Kate. Everybody knew that the matrimonial key, as far as the younger sister was concerned, was in the hands of the more austere and plainer elder daughter of the house of Halstead.

Kate was a pretty, plucky, little thing with no end of admirers and always ready for a good time, while Martha, like her Scriptural namesake, was careful and troubled about many things. And that was of necessity, for Martha was really the head of the family, though the Widow Halstead posed as such with much ostentation. However, it was a pose only. Martha managed things—among other things managed to make both ends meet in a small family income.

Mrs. Halstead was a great stickler for the proprieties, and strong in what she called her "principles," among the most cherished of which was the doctrine that the younger daughters should not be married before the elder.

Harold Raymond was such a "deep one" that there were more than a few who prophesied that he would succeed where many before him had failed. As to Kate's feelings in the matter there could be little doubt on that score. The pretty manner in which she blushed and looked down when rallied about the marked attention Harold was paying her was delightful to see. At first, Martha took her pleasures rather sadly in the company of Kate and Harold.

After a while Martha became unwontedly cheerful, and entered with actual gaiety into the companionship of Kate and Harold; gave up her custom of watching them intently when they were talking together as if she were trying to decide whether they really loved one another or not; seemed to have decided the point. And at this same time Harold, the diplomat, executed what all Hillsborough regarded as a master stroke of strategy. A college friend of his, Cyril Thornton, having just been graduated from a medical school, came to Hillsborough to "hang out his shingle" and become a "rising young doctor," just as Harold had started in as a "rising young lawyer." And the very first thing Harold did was to introduce the doctor to the Halstead girls, and thereafter what had been an inseparable trio became an inseparable quartet.

Martha received this accession to their little coterie with such evident pleasure that the gossips, male and female, were soon saying: "Deep fellow, Raymond—he has got the doctor and Martha hooked and now has plain sailing with Kate." No, not all the gossips said this. There were wise ones who replied: "Bosh! Martha Halstead is a predestined old maid. She'll never marry. The doctor is trying to cut out the lawyer and the doctor has got on the right side of Martha. It is easy enough to see that she favors the medicine man more than the man of law."

It was a fact when the four were out in the doctor's car, Martha somehow seemed always to manage to sit with Thornton. But what could you prove by that? Did it not leave Harold and Kate in a more advantageous position for love-making? Would she do this if she had selected Thornton as her sister's husband? Things were going along very agreeably in this way, when Mrs. Halstead took a hand, and in secret conference with her elder daughter said majestically: "Martha, I have noticed that that young lawyer, Raymond, has been coming here quite often of late—considering that it was about six months since Harold had first begun calling at the house, Mrs. Halstead's discovery was not so very astonishing after all. I presume that he is beginning to present himself in the guise of a suitor for the hand of your sister, Catherine. Now, you know my principles. I want you to speak to him and tell him that it cannot be. I, myself, am really not in a state of health which would permit of my stating the case to the young man. It might be disagreeable, and my nerves, as you know, will not stand anything of a disagreeable nature."

"But, mother," remonstrated Martha, "there is another young man who calls here, too—Dr. Thornton. Shall I speak to both of them?"

"Dr. Thornton," replied Mrs. Halstead, "is another matter entirely. His principal reason for calling here is the interest he takes in my case. It is a most interesting one. He told me so himself. He has been especially attentive to me—and when I hinted at some pecuniary remuneration for his excellent professional advice he assured me that the knowledge he acquired from a study of my symptoms—and he was pleased to add the pleasure of my conversation—more than repaid him. No; we will eliminate Dr. Thornton from the discussion. You will speak to Mr. Raymond."

"But, mother," protested Martha, "would it not seem rather indelicate—my unmarried state, as I take it, being the reason for rejecting Mr. Thornton's suit for Kate—would it not appear rather indelicate in me to state your 'principles' in the matter to Mr. Raymond?"

"Not at all," replied Mrs. Halstead. "You will speak as from ME. There, there—don't argue the matter any more. Did any mother ever have so much trouble with her daughters as I have?" And then, pathetically, "I wouldn't have if you would only get a beau of your own."

"Oh, mother!" cried Martha, blushing. "I've got one!" and ran from the room, leaving Mrs. Halstead dumb with amazement. That evening when Harold called Martha received him alone, and seating herself beside him on the sofa said calmly, even frigidly, "Mr. Raymond, I have a communication to you from my mother. She bids me tell you that it is against her principles that the younger daughter marry before the elder. Therefore, as I am still unmarried, and likely to remain so, you can't have Kate."

"But—but," stammered Harold, "I say, there's some mistake. It isn't Kate I want. I want you."

"You dear boy," replied Martha, as her hand stole into his. "You dear dilatory boy. Why didn't you say so before? Kate and I have known all along—and she has been waiting so impatiently to accept Dr. Thornton."

"GOLD" THAT HAS NO VALUE

Australians Disappointed When Told That Mint Has No Use for Material They Offer.

The jaws and teeth of Australian sheep are quite frequently taken to the mint in Sydney, Australia, and offered for sale, as many sheep get what appears to be a gold plating on their teeth. The mint, however, has no use for them, as the brilliant-looking "gold" is nothing more than a peculiar kind of tartar.

Some notable scientific men have recently been making investigations of the golden teeth of sheep, and it appears that the color is caused by excessively thin layers of phosphate of calcium, which gradually deposits as tartar, and can be removed with a knife.

The beautiful colors seen when a drop of oil spreads over water are due to the refraction of the light altered by what is known as interference, and Professor Liversidge states that the golden color of a sheep's teeth is due to the refraction of light from the overlapping of very thin films of tartar.

But in spite of scientific explanations, farmers continue to offer the discolored teeth, and are very hard to convince that the "gold" has no value.

Binding of Bibles an Art. The hides of thousands of animals are used each year in Bible binding. Cattle, sheep, goats, pigs and seals are used, only the better portions of each skin being suitable for this purpose. The making of a divinity circuit (overlapping) cover requires great skill and accuracy. The cover is cut to the precise size from a part of the skin which is without blemish and the edge all around is carefully pared so that it may be neatly turned over the lining, which may be of paper, linen, or leather.

The trimmed and gilded sheets are securely glued to the back of the binding. Securing the sheets to the back in this manner by means of a special glue reinforces the back with the strength of the leather and gives that flexibility so desirable in a Bible.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Wary. "See the oil gushing out!" exclaimed the promoter. "You can't lose by investing in this well."

"Maybe not," said the cautious citizen, "but I'll stick around a while and see how long the flow continues."

"What's the idea?" "I've known oil wells to gush by special request."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Infection Confers Immunity. Dr. F. Neufeld, who was assistant to Koch, reviews in the Zeitschrift fuer Tuberculose (Leipzig) all the efforts that have been made to produce immunity from tuberculosis, and asserts that there is no method of vaccination applicable to man. The only immunity attainable is that from mild infection. Dr. A. von Wassermann comes to a similar conclusion.

The Leader. It was the custom of the congregation to repeat the Twenty-third Psalm in concert, and Mrs. Armstrong's habit was to keep about a dozen words ahead all the way through. A stranger was asking one day about Mrs. Armstrong. "Who," he inquired, "was the lady who was already by the still waters while the rest of us were lying down in green pastures?"—Metropolitan.

A Not Like Daddy. The little daughter had endured evening after evening her daddy's occupation of writing and his monosyllabic replies to remarks from members of the family. Finally, when she was asked what she intended to do when she grew up, the little daughter said: "Oh, write papers and be a nut like daddy."

Fortunes.

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C. — Poverty has never been a bar to political advancement in the United States. Indeed, so many have been the instances of the rise of poor boys to places of great power in the Republic that early poverty has almost come to be considered as an essential to political success. On the other hand, inherited wealth has been considered a positive handicap to such success, even though there have been many exceptions to this, the most notable of which perhaps was Roosevelt.

Senator Frelinghuysen, who in all likelihood will be chosen by the people of New Jersey to succeed himself in the United States Senate, knew from his earliest youth what it was to have to win his way, to make every penny count, and by his own persistent efforts to win his way to his present success in business and politics.

Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen is not an accidental product either in politics or in business. He climbed the ladder in both instances from the bottom rung. When he was eighteen he had to quit school and go to work at four dollars a week as office boy for a firm of wholesale vinegar dealers in New York.

The wholesale vinegar business did not offer glowing promise to the office boy, and he sought other opportunities. One day he saw this newspaper advertisement:

WANTED—An office boy of good character; clerical smocks and not apply. Address Box 3033, City Post Office.

Gets His First Job

With characteristic directness, he did not answer this advertisement by letter, but inquired at the delivery window and obtained the name of the firm which rented Box 3033—the Continental Insurance Company. So he went to the company offices and in time was ushered into the presence of the president, Mr. Moore.

But he did not propose to wait for a decision regarding the job. He visited a cousin who was personally acquainted with the secretary of the Continental Insurance Company. With a letter of introduction, he returned to the charge. The secretary took him without delay to Mr. Moore who for the second time within two hours beheld a ruddy faced, eager youth in front of him demanding that job. This time he got it.

The office boy quickly qualified himself to appraise risks and solicit business. His salary was soon advanced to $40 a month, and not long afterward a rival company offered him $50 and he accepted.

It was not long until Mr. Frelinghuysen formed the Manufacturers Lloyds. It consisted of twenty-one underwriters, each of whom contributed $1,000 to the capital. Mr. Frelinghuysen borrowed his thousand. The Manufacturers Lloyds prospered.

In politics Mr. Frelinghuysen began as chairman of the Somerset County (New Jersey) Republican Executive Committee, later becoming a member of the Republican State Committee.

In 1902 he ran for the state senate. It was not until 1905 that his ambition to enter the upper branch of the state legislative body was granted, and he served continuously until 1911. He was president of the state senate in 1910, and has acted as governor of New Jersey at interim.

Reforms State School System

New Jersey school laws and the school system were in a jumble of confusion and the state ranked twenty-sixth educationally in the Union. Largely through Mr. Frelinghuysen's efforts as a legislator and as president of the State Board of Education, New Jersey now ranks fourth. The senator is now, and for a considerable time has been, president of the Department of Agriculture of New Jersey. He is a trustee of Rutgers College and has the degree of A. B. from that institution.

When Mr. Frelinghuysen decided to make the race for the United States senate he did not have what is known as "organization" support. Nevertheless, he sent letters to 2,500 Republican city and county committeemen informing them of his decision to run. One hundred and sixteen replied in a way which the prospective candidate regarded as satisfactory, but the organization nevertheless opposed him.

"Let the people decide," was Mr. Frelinghuysen's slogan. On posters, on fences, on barns and on billboards, accompanied by Mr. Frelinghuysen's portrait, it confronted the Jersey voters. The people decided. Mr. Frelinghuysen won in the primaries and was elected by a plurality of 74,000.

Nor have they had any occasion to regret their judgment. His record in the senate has fully justified it. As a member during the war of the important Committee on Military Affairs, as a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, and later of the Finance Committee which framed the senate draft of the tariff measure, he has shown himself physically tireless, mentally alert and courageous in his convictions. His fearless work as chairman of the subcommittee which investigated the coal situation and his far-seeing bill to take the tariff out of politics, stamp him as having the qualities of a statesman.

Experience had qualified Senator Frelinghuysen specially for his duties on the Committee on Military Affairs. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War he went to the front as a second lieutenant. For special services in Cuba and Porto Rico he was recommended by the President for promotion to the rank of Brevet First Lieutenant.

As a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, Senator Frelinghuysen aided in framing, and assisted in the passage of the Transportation Act, whereunder the railroads have been operating since their return to private control. His bill demanding regulation of the coal industry forms the basis of the coal regulatory legislation now pending in Congress. He has been active since the war, too, in presenting hundreds of cases from his state in which there had been delay in procuring allotments or compensation. He is, indeed, one of the busiest men in Washington, for, in addition to his duties on behalf of his constituents, the prolonged hearings on the tariff, and the active work he did in the coal investigation, he manages to give part of his time to the committees on claims, and public buildings and grounds.

Farmers and Manufacturers Say
His Tariff Attitude Proves Him
Labor's Friend.

Raritan, N. J.—Additional evidence that agriculturists and industrialists everywhere appreciate the importance of the scientific tariff revision which has been written into the senate tariff bill through the efforts of Senator Frelinghuysen, are seen in the letters that are being sent him. Among the most recent expressions signifying an appreciation of his effort to take the tariff out of politics and substitute instead a scientific measure based on findings of fact are the Johnson-Cowdin-Emerich Company of Paterson and the Wright Aeronautical Company also of Paterson. Others have come from the American Farm Bureau Federation and important New Jersey industrial leaders.

H. R. Walker, vice president of the Johnson-Cowdin-Emerich Company, declares in his letter that Senator Frelinghuysen's establishment of the principle that conversion costs are the primary basis for a tariff is a great forward step for which labor everywhere throughout the country owes him a debt of gratitude.

Mr. Walker's letter is as follows: "My dear Senator Frelinghuysen: "As manufacturers in the State of New Jersey depending almost entirely upon an American market which must necessarily be governed by the general economic stability of the country, we wish to express our appreciation for the wise and courageous stand you have taken in reference to the pending tariff bill.

"We believe that your amendment to the tariff bill which empowers the Tariff Commission to investigate the differences between production costs here and abroad and on those differences to recommend rates which will be proclaimed by the President, will go far toward assuring business throughout the country freedom from the very serious disturbances to which it has hitherto been subject owing to our methods of tariff making.

"We believe that the flexibility of the tariff that is permitted under your amendment giving the commission power to hold hearings constantly and to recommend changes of rates whenever they are proven necessary will add materially to the stability of enterprises everywhere.

"The recognition by the senate at your urging of the fact that conversion costs, i. e., the labor involved in manufacturing, is the primary basis for a tariff is a great step forward and labor everywhere throughout the country should understand that in you they have found a friend whose practical help does much to assure the maintenance of the present American wage scale even during this period of depressed foreign manufacturing costs.

"We hope that the people of New Jersey will realize the great service that you have rendered every element of its citizenship.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) H. R. WALKER,
"Vice president Johnson-Cowdin-Emerich Company."

"With Milk and Honey."

There was once an ancient nation, well fed on bread and meat and gravy, that left its fashions and steered northeast out of fat Egypt toward a hilly land "flowing with milk and honey." It did not seek a land of bitumens and daisy-cows, but of honey and milk. The honey maker of the Promised Land was a small, swift, furiously earnest worker with an obsession of heaping up wealth for others to enjoy. The milk provider was a dairy cow that could raise her own calf and feed a baby into the bargain. The land that flows with milk and honey is the land of the overflowing spirit, of the brimming milk pan, the dripping honeycomb; the land of sweet surprises, the country whose workers do more than merely eat what they produce.—Exchange.

Effects of Civilization.

It is a mistake to assume that civilized man can perform and endure like the uncivilized. Centuries of inbreeding and adaptation to environment have changed the human machine into a stronger mental and a less strong physical mechanism. In other words, the bodies of most men are better adapted to demands of a mental nature, such as quickness of decision, constructive planning, etc., rather than to tasks demanding mere brute strength. There are, of course, those among us who still possess the latter to a remarkable degree, but their number is probably diminishing. A little more insistence on this point by physical examiners and instructors might bring about much good to the youth of the land.

Vera, the Little Schemer

By WILLIAM FALL

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Don't trifle with me, Vera—I am desperately in earnest!" pleaded young Doctor Irwin.

"I'm not, Roife," asserted the bright-eyed, vivacious girl who leaned upon the garden gate that separated them. "I think too much of you to tell you a falsehood, and I am too young—oh, far too young, mamma says—to think of telling you the truth" and the flashing eyes looked clear and loyal, as if they were mischievous.

The wholesome looking young fellow who had just asked her to become his wife, looked puzzled, then hopeful, and then he had a smile.

"I know you are the dearest, sweetest little midget of cheerfulness in the world," he declared enthusiastically, "and I am sure a good friend of mine."

"Never doubt that, Roife," said Vera. "But when you come to talk about becoming engaged—why, think of a romping cut-up, as everybody calls me, trying to pose as the dignified wife of Dr. Roife Irwin."

Doctor Irwin bestowed a fond look upon the little child-woman who was the dearest being in the universe to him. He bade her good-by, not at all gloomily, and started for his office. Vera stood, following him with her eyes, a demure and thoughtful look on her usually smiling face.

"Poor boy," she said, and then she added: "I love him! I love him!" and her face gleamed with the red, red roses along the garden path, she ran down it, bursting into a happy song.

Vera had called herself "a cut-up." Her bright ways captivated everybody, and the victims of her mischief felt honored, rather than offended.

There was the pure gold of a noble manhood in Doctor Irwin, and Vera recognized it. She had liked him the better because he had accepted a piece of real injustice without a murmur. When his granduncle, old Simeon Dunn, had died, Roife was one of six minor heirs. They were each to receive $10,000, but it was contingent on the will and caprice of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Dawson.

Simeon Dunn had willed all his real estate to them. They also were given a life interest in his investments. However, if mutually agreed, they could distribute these latter, pay off the minor heirs, and take a third for themselves.

Then a terrible quarrel came up between them. It was regarding the old Dunn homestead. Egbert Dawson wanted this so that he might give it to a crippled brother. Sarah Dawson insisted on having it to present to a superannuated spinster relative. They separated.

Egbert Dawson vowed he would never address his wife again until she spoke first. Sarah Dawson instantly declared that not a word should escape her lips until her husband spoke. This action tied up the estate.

Egbert Dawson had become a crusty, unhappy hermit. His wife shut herself up like a feline. There was no heart that would, sprightly Vera could not reach, however. Vera told her mother she was going down to see Mr. Dawson. She was soon at his home.

"I have come to ask a great favor," she told him. "You know there is going to be a mask party at the library hall next week. It is for the benefit of the old folks' home—won't you buy a ticket?"

"Two of them, if you like," readily announced Mr. Dawson to his favorite. Mrs. Dawson was not so easy to persuade. Willy Vera told of the good cause she was helping along. Finally she carried her point.

"Well, I'll come, dear," promised Sarah Dawson, "but it's just to please you."

The bright little schemer had woven quite a plot about the estranged and unsuspecting husband and wife. She took great pains to conceal from each the expected appearance of both at the function. Vera enlisted the co-operation of a number of her girl friends. Everything turned out as they planned.

Mr. Dawson, arrayed in his best, and his wife, wearing a tasteful silk gown, a reminder of happier days came, saw and were soon carried away themselves amid the enjoyment of the occasion.

Shrewd and watchful Vera had kept close track of them. They had danced together twice without recognition, when the ball called for unmasking.

"Unmask!" she cried gaily, her eager eyes dancing with suspense and delight, and the dumfounded husband and wife confronted one another. Both had enjoyed the unusual occasion, and Vera knew it. "Quick!" she demanded, with a rough laugh—"who spoke first?"

"I did," declared Egbert. "Sarah, you're as sweet and handsome as ever. You can have the old homestead. I reckon you and I have made each other miserable long enough, don't you?"

"Egbert," returned his wife, glad to meet him half way, "I don't care a pinch of salt for the old homestead—I just wanted to have my own will."

"Well you've got it," observed Egbert, "so let us kiss and make up."

The Dunn estate was divided soon after that, and Doctor Irwin received his little fortune. He proceeded to offer it and his dearest love to the wonder-working little miss who had brought it all about.

The Story of Our States
By JONATHAN BRACE
XLI—WASHINGTON
THE story of Washington, the forty-second state of the Union, is tied up with two of our presidents. The first is obvious, for it was in honor of our first president, George Washington, that the state was named, as a lasting memorial to this great soldier-statesman. But the actual fate of this region was due to President Polk, and formed the main issue in his campaign for election in 1844.
Previous to that time, the country north of California and extending to Alaska, which was then owned by Russia, was called the Oregon territory. Claim was laid to this region by both Great Britain and the United States as has been seen in the story of Oregon. In 1818, when the boundary between Canada and the United States was settled, this line was definitely placed from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. But no agreement could be reached west of that, and it was left under an arrangement whereby this territory was to be jointly occupied by the British and Americans.
Settlers from the United States began to come into the Northwest in such numbers that they should own this section, which included the present states of Oregon and Washington, and British Columbia, through the right of possession. Agitation in favor of actively pushing our claims became so strong that when Polk was nominated by the Democrats in 1844, one of the main planks in the party platform was the famous one popularly called, "Fifty-four forty or fight."
In 1846 a peaceful settlement was made with England on a compromise basis.
In 1853 Washington territory was separated from Oregon. It did not, however, become a state until 1889, and then only after thirteen years petitioning for admission.

Thirty Years Ago

In the issue of September 10, 1892, was recorded the death of Dr. J. J. Reese, prominent Philadelphia physician and professor at the University of Pennsylvania, and father of J. J. Reese, of Riverton.

Ground was broken for the new M. E. Church at Fifth and Morgan avenues, Palmyra, on Monday, September 5, 1892. Charles Lowden, the oldest member of the church, threw the first shovel full of earth. Among the ladies who handled the shovel was Mrs. M. P. Spayd, who is said to have lifted the largest shovel full.

On September 18, 1892, William F. Morgan was elected delegate to the State Democratic Convention.

In the society column in the issue of September 17th, it was noted that Mr. E. H. Fitter, who had been spending a few weeks at Elberton had returned to his home in Riverton, and that Mr. Edward H. Ogden and family had returned from Jamestown.

That same week, the body of John Tiernen, of Pomona, was found in the Pensauken creek opposite the wharf of George E. Starn, above Weidemann's brewery, by Harry Hamilton, of Palmyra. A verdict of accidental drowning was given by coroner J. D. Janney.

At this time the Riverton Gun Club, which had its headquarters on the site now known as Peace and Plenty Farm, was in the height of its glory and several prominent Rivertonians were among its members. A shoot of live birds on September 21st is recorded in which the Riverton team matched skill with the Blooming Grove Gun Club of New York City. The scores of the Riverton shooters were as follows: Mr. Soule killed twenty-five birds straight. The other contestants, out of a possible twenty-five, scored as follows: Mr. Jones, 23; Mr. Frishmuth, 23; Mr. McAllister, 23; Mr. Dando, 23; and Mr. Dolan, 24.

The call for the annual meeting of the Cinnaminson Building and Loan Association that year was signed by E. H. Ogden, president; H. B. Lippincott, treasurer; Dr. H. B. Hall, secretary. The directors were Heulings Lippincott, Thomas Hartley, Ezra Lippincott, Isaac Evald, Edward Lippincott, S. Robinson Coale, Samuel Slim, Charles R. Hall, William R. Lippincott, Howard Parry was conveyancer.

Steele-Morton

On the evening of the 31st of August, 1892, as the last hours of summer were passing, Miss Irene Morton, of Parry, was married to E. Edward Steele, of Pomona, in the presence of about a hundred friends and relatives; the Rev. C. S. Woolston, pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Riverton and Palmyra, officiating, with Miss Mary S. Plum as maid of honor and Ivin B. Jessup best man. Miss Jessie Morton, niece of the bride, was flower girl. The bride was given away by her father, Timothy Morton. She was beautifully dressed in white silk trimmed with lace and train.

Cottrell-Corner

At 7:30 on the evening of September first, Jacob G. Cottrell and Miss Fannie Corner, both of Riverton, were married by the Rev. J. H. Converse, rector of Christ Church, in the presence of a large number of invited guests, friends and relatives. The bride's sister, Miss Manie Corner, was maid of honor, assisted by Miss Georgia Woodman, and Theodore Martin, assisted by Norman Glazebrook, as best man. Louis Corner, the bride's father, gave the bride away. Presents were numerous, extremely pretty and fully indicated the wisdom of their selection in their usefulness, one of the particularly substantial being a twenty dollar gold piece by Uncle George Stone.

MIKE IS IN AGAIN

With Wife and Guest is Fined After Hooch Party

The home of Mike Krouse, near Five Points, which was the scene of a "hooch" raid recently was also the scene of what was described by neighbors and police as a "hooch" party, which wound up in a brawl between Mike, his wife, Mary, and a visitor, Charles Major, Monday evening.

Neighbors complained to the Palmyra police and Chief Beck and Officer Wallace brought the three to the lockup.

At the hearing Tuesday morning before Justice Fichter, Mrs. Krouse, who displayed a bruised eye, denied they had been drinking bad whiskey. "Only soda water" she said.

The Squire fined the Krouses $5.00 and costs and let Major go with costs.

Durborow May Head National Association

On Monday evening the Middle Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States held its annual meeting of the board of governors, for the election of officers for the 1923 season. James E. Snyder and Charles B. Durborow were unanimously re-elected president and vice president of the Association respectively, while George V. Mitchell succeeded Frank A. Leyden as secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Durborow was also elected on ballot as one of the six delegates to represent the Association at the National convention to be held in New York the last week of November, at which meeting will be chosen the National office holders for 1923, and all championship events awarded to the various member clubs throughout the United States.

Mr. Durborow was unanimously put in charge of swimming in the Middle Atlantic Association and that Association will present him for the National head.

County Republican Women Addressed by Senators Frelinghuysen and Runyon

The Republican Women of Burlington County gave a rousing demonstration of their approval and support of Senator Runyon and Senator Frelinghuysen in a luncheon held in St. Andrews parish house, Mount Holly, on the 15th. The hall was crowded and women were turned away. Representative women leaders in the W. C. T. U., Federation of Women's Clubs, Y. W. C. A., County Granges, County Educational Committees, County Republican Committees, gave definite and logical reason for supporting their candidates. The campaigning of the next few weeks will be followed up with the same enthusiasm and definiteness. Burlington County women are determined to carry their county for Senator Runyon as Governor, and Senator Frelinghuysen as U. S. Senator.

Forty-six Germans were killed and 109 wounded during every hour of the World War was raging, according to German statistics.

Do you want clothes at reduced prices?

Do you want steady work at good wages?

Do you want prosperity for the business man and farmer?

Then you must destroy the power of the great trusts and monopolies which own our basic natural resources and our railroads, and thereby control our business and political life.

There is no hope in Frelinghuysen. The monopolists are his friends and backers. As Senator he has persistently voted for their interests and refuses to explain his votes. He even voted to subject farm organizations to prosecution as criminal conspiracies. He offers no plan to improve conditions.

It's time for a new deal. The stand-patters and reactionaries have had their chance. They have failed. They must be driven out. The hope of America today is in the Progressive Republicans, in men of an entirely different type, with constructive ideas and the ability and courage to carry them out.

George L. Record is such a man. For twenty years he has been at the front in every fight to improve conditions in New Jersey. He has stuck to every measure he has advocated until it has become a law. The law to make the railroads pay taxes, the direct primary, the official blanket ballot, the corrupt practices act, and the public utility law are monuments to his common sense, courage and perseverance. Mr. Record has never stood for an unsound measure. He is able, resourceful and practical. At this time when we are faced with tremendous and pressing problems, George L. Record is the strongest and best equipped man New Jersey can send to the United States Senate, and will be a leader in the Senate from the day he enters it.

Vote for George L. Record at the Republican primaries on September 26th, at your usual polling place, open from seven in the morning till nine at night.

JAMES G. BLAUVELT, Chairman.

F. O. B. Muncie, Ind.

Are YOUR needs best filled by this Coupe?

THERE is often a question as to whether a Sedan or a Coupe is best suited to one's personal needs.

If you want a car for the whole family you will not hesitate to choose the Sedan.

If, on the other hand, you drive mostly with but one or two companions, there is an intimacy about the Coupe that makes it a delightful car to own.

But it is sometimes convenient to have capacity for a fourth passenger.

For these occasions, the Durant Coupe has an extra seat with back rest, which folds out of the way when not in use.

A coupe is used a lot for shopping, the theatre, driving to the club and visiting.

The Durant Coupe therefore has a convenient package compartment back of the driver's seat, a large rear compartment, long enough for golf clubs, and the door-locks permit you to leave packages in the car with as much security as in your own home.

Only in the DURANT are squeaks and rattles eliminated by the Tubular Backbone; of special advantage in a closed car

QUOIT SEASON ENDS

Methodists Win Cup by Beating
K. of C.

The Palmyra Quoit League ended its season last Friday evening when the Methodists beat the K. of C. in a play-off of the tie existing for first place. By winning this game, the Methodists won the beautiful cup which The Field Club offered to the champions of the League.

The deciding game was a hummer. It was necessary, for the first time during the season for two teams to battle 11 games for a decision. The 11th and deciding game, was pitched by Thatcher and Griscom, for the Methodists and LaRue and Conlow for the K. of C. These players were picked as the best on the two teams, to play the deciding game, and it was a hummer. By a coincidence, each team scored 195 points in the 11 games, but as the winner was decided by games instead of points, Griscom and Thatcher won out.

Much interest was shown in the games pitched by the various teams this season, and it is hoped that next year still more interest will be taken, when it is planned to start the season early enough so that two halves can be played off at the end of the schedule. It is planned to fix up the courts in good shape for next year, and it is also hoped to have a championship from the League to travel, and also, if arrangements can be made, to enter the South Jersey League, which, last year, developed some "pitchers."

Much of the success of the League is due to Dad Davison, who always was on the job, and whose moral support as well as his pitching, kept the interest at high pitch.

The officers were: E. A. Griscom, president; W. H. Davison, vice president; "Jerry" Smith, treasurer; W. H. Randel, secretary.

The final standings were as follows:

Methodists Won Lost Per Cent
K. of C. 6 2 750
P. O. S. of A. 5 2 714
Baptists 3 3 500
Artisans 3 4 429
Odd Fellows 3 4 429

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 1

BIRTH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:5-25; 57-61.

GOLDEN TEXT—He shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor strong drink.—Luke 1:15.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Isa. 40:3-5; Mal. 4:4-6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—An Angel Brings Good News.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Birth of John the Baptist.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Preparation for the Coming of Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place and Work of John the Baptist.

We are today entering upon a six months' course of study in the Gospel of Luke, whose general subject is "Jesus the World's Savior." Today's lesson concerns the birth of John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ.

1. The Parents of John the Baptist (vv. 5-7).

1. When They Lived (v. 5). "In the days of Herod the King." They lived in a day when ungodliness was rife. The priesthood was very corrupt and the ruling classes were wicked. Zacharias and his wife lived in a time when it was not so easy to be godly.

2. Their Character (v. 6). They were righteous before God. To be righteous before God is a high tribute. Many appear to be righteous before men who are not righteous before God.

Their lives were so united that they walked in the commandments of the Lord blameless. How beautiful it is when husband and wife are united in the Lord and walk together in fellowship with God.

3. They Were Childless (v. 7). Though this godly couple were well united and they possessed the joy of the Lord in their souls, there was a real lack in that home.

11. The Birth of John Promised (vv. 8-17).

1. By Whom (v. 11; cf. v. 19). The angel Gabriel appeared and made known the good news to Zacharias. This exalted being, the special messenger of God, was sent to make this disclosure.

2. When (vv. 8-14). While officiating as priest this good news came to him. Zacharias must have been definitely praying about this very matter (v. 13). As he burned incense, which typified prayer, the multitude without were praying.

3. Characterization of the Child (vv. 15-17). (1) Shall be great in the sight of the Lord (v. 15). Though the people did not greatly esteem him he was highly esteemed by the Lord. This greatly esteemed in the eyes of men or in his own eyes. This is the esteem for which we all should long and pray.

(2) Shall drink neither wine nor strong drink (v. 15). The child shall become a Nazirite, separating himself from the sensuous things and dedicating himself to the service of the Lord. (3) Be filled with the Holy Ghost (v. 15). The energy of the divine Spirit would enable him to lead the people to repentance (v. 16).

(4) Shall go in the spirit and power of Elijah (v. 17). In this power he was to prepare the people for the coming of the Savior and the salvation which He was to bring.

III. Zacharias Asking for a Sign (vv. 18-23).

Although the aged priest was earnestly praying for the salvation of Israel the gracious promise of the angel, which was the beginning of that salvation, staggered his faith. He was unable to believe that that for which he fondly hoped and prayed would be realized. The angel gave Zacharias a sign. He was smitten with dumbness which was to continue until the fulfillment of the promise. Because he refused to praise God in faith this gracious promise God caused his tongue to be silent until the promise was fulfilled and his lips could open in thanksgiving and praise. Though he was thus rebuked, at the same time his faith was strengthened by the manifestation of the supernatural. God wants us to trust Him, to believe his promises, no matter how contrary to reason they may seem.

IV. The Promise Fulfilled (vv. 57-63).

When the time came for the birth of John, Elizabeth brought forth a son and the neighbors rejoiced with her. On the eighth day they circumcised the child and gave him a name according to the instruction of the angel (v. 13). The name John was contrary to the family custom. By means of writing Zacharias made known the name which he would have by divine instruction. At this time God opened the mouth of Zacharias and he offered up praise.

The answer is a fountain pen with a "little red pump handle."

KNIGHT DEFEATED

Former Leader's Machine Smashed.
Stout High Man for Freeholder.Tuesday's primary election was full of surprises.
Harry L. Knight, former Republican leader in Burlington county, was defeated by nearly 3000 majority for the office of State Commissioner by William H. Reeves, who became chairman in the turnover last fall.

In Riverton Knight ran ahead of Reeves in the first and second districts, but the third district gave Reeves a majority of 46, placing Riverton in the Reeves column by a majority of 11 votes.

In Palmyra every district gave a majority of nearly two to one for Reeves.
Realizing that the situation was desperate, and that a defeat at this time, following the reverses of the last two years, would be a serious setback to Mr. Knight's political aspirations, his friends redoubled their efforts. Monday night a letter, endorsing his candidacy and signed by fifteen well-known and respected citizens of Burlington county, was distributed from house to house in this section, but it was apparently not much help to him—nothing could arrest the avalanche of public determination all over the county that the new order of things inaugurated last year should at least be given an opportunity to show what it can do in plain talk toward giving the people of the county a larger voice in the conduct of its political affairs.

Charles R. Stout, whose "elimination" was attempted by the Knight faction was high man in the fight for freeholder. George W. Rogers, of Palmyra, and backed by Knight, was second with a majority of about 200 over Edward T. Haines, who was Knight's first choice last year for freeholder, but who later in the campaign was dropped for Fred Lippincott.

The fight in Riverton for Borough Council developed a surprise when John C. Geiss turned out to be high man. The movement that had been started to defeat him miscarried and Joshua W. Kite was defeated by William B. Lynch, who was brought out to defeat Geiss.

The tabulated results of the vote in Riverton, Palmyra and Cinnaminson and the totals in the county are published in this issue.

In the State contests Senator Frelinghuysen carried every county against George L. Record, winning by nearly 100,000, the vote, almost complete, being 178,622 against 86,859. The vote in Burlington county was Frelinghuysen 9,744, Record 3,573.

The local primary in Palmyra brought mixed results.

J. Horace Finney and William B. Coley had been teamed for the Republican nomination for Township Committee and Assessor respectively, against Township Chairman John M. Davies and Assessor John W. Shade, who supported one another.

Finney won over Davies in one of the closest contests the town has known for years, his majority being but slightly more than 50. His running mate, however, was swamped by Shade, whose majority was around 400.

Finney and Shade have no opposition on the Democratic ticket.

The defeat of Davies means that the whole Township Committee next year will be composed of comparatively new men. Committeeman Hinchman has served but two years and Committeewoman Orlin only one. Township Clerk Spencer and Collector Griscom were renominated without opposition.

Both Palmyra and Riverton gave a big vote to the Republican ticket for Freeholder and thus enabled him to offset losses in other parts of the county. Charlie Stout likewise was a favorite for Freeholder in the two towns.

Both Mr. Davies and Mr. Finney received some Democratic votes and George Merrick received 21, giving him the nomination if he wants it.

Statement

During the campaign the story was circulated that I had signed the petition of Harry L. Knight, for member of the State Republican Committee. This is positively untrue.

WALTER L. BOWEN.

Card of Thanks

I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to the people of Riverton, Palmyra and vicinity for the splendid support they gave my candidacy at the polls on Tuesday.

Ferry Company Rescues Girl's Pocketbook

Last Wednesday afternoon, Miss Amelia Machach, of Palmyra, who is employed by Henry Diston & Sons, Tacony, in some unknown manner lost her pocketbook, containing two weeks' salary, fall overboard from the ferry boat "South Jacksonville." The girl immediately notified Rudolph Spencer, deckhand, who in turn reported the loss to Philip Held, pilot. When the boat reached Palmyra, the matter was discussed and Chief Engineer Cancell agreed to put on all emergency steam on the return trip to Tacony. As the boat neared Tacony, Pilot Held, with the aid of Captain Kelley's glasses, discovered the pocketbook floating on the water about 450 feet from the Pennsylvania side. Jacob and Rudolph Spencer, assisted by Norman Albison, first assistant engineer, tried to fish out the purse by means of bathhooks, but were unsuccessful owing to the strong current and high winds. When the boat reached Tacony, Rudolph Spencer was instructed by Capt. Held to lower a life boat and in three quarters of an hour the girl's purse had been recovered.

Nora Wins Her First Case

By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Nora frowned. The long line before the cashier's window was the last and worst of her morning bedevillments. She had hoped to be almost first in such a line, but waiting for the necessary check had consumed a precious half hour, then she had been button-holed in the office by a woman with a mission, like a grievance, from whom she had escaped by the skin of her teeth—the same being pretty badly frayed. To find so many folk ahead was distinctly aggravating.

It was nearly noon—her breakfast had been meager. Having cash assets of less than two dollars besides the precious check, she had tried to content herself with oatmeal and black coffee. Now a healthy appetite was strongly rebellious.

The line moving jerkily, halting now and then, at last brought her to the window. She thrust in her check, and almost immediately there was a flitter of green paper on the glass shelf. With a relieved sigh she slipped out of rank, and ran over the bills with faintly tremulous fingers. At the last bill the fingers actually shook—it was double—instead of one—she held two. Impulsively she crushed back to the window, saying: "There is a mistake—Before she could say more, the superior being inside the cage flung at her, frowning: "Madam, this bank never makes mistakes—it wishes you women could or would learn to count money."

"Pardon me! We so lack practice," Nora retorted, turning toward the street entrance, then suddenly wheeling about to see down the long vista a sign at the end reading "President." Half a minute later she faced the president, grinning, and reputed a tartar—but that she did not know. She flung at him: "Please, sir. Is it true this bank never makes mistakes?" her voice steady enough though her knees shook a bit.

"This—These, Rather."

"I am not rash enough to say 'yes,' nor foolish enough to say 'no,'" the president answered, rising from his chair. "But why the question?"

"This—these, rather," Nora retorted, laying the two bills in front of him. "Just now I presented at your second window a check for $25, drawn by Cross & Leroy to order of Ellen Maxwell. It was overpaid, as you see; when I told the man there was a mistake, he waved me away insolently."

"H-m! Not like Weston. He's a careful fellow," commented the banker. "Sure you don't bear him a grudge?"

"No more than, as a cad, he insults me by existing!" Nora flashed back, her head going up. The banker smiled grimly, asking: "Well, then, why didn't you pocket the money and go along rejoicing?"

"Not enough of it. I hate cheapness, though my hat does shout '88 cents, marked down from a dollar,'" Nora continued, her eyes beginning to dance. "Now if it had been a million, or even half one—"

"What would you have done?" the gray man asked. A younger man at a window beyond Nora's purview was snorting outright, evidently restraining laughter.

"Beat it for home and my poor niggers," Nora cried joyously, "as fast as I could go."

"Where is home?" from the inquisitor.

"Alabama," from Nora. "Grandpa's land has had no other owners than Maxwells since the Indian times. He just managed to keep a little ahead of the factors' mortgage till 6-cent cotton came—in 1914, you know. It ruined him—and worse."

"Half the land went to settle with the factors; the other half barely kept us and our people from starving. You see, the niggers had been in the family since there was a family. It was hard hard to see them go hungry and ragged; but we didn't let them quit do. When I read of all that was done for folk on the other side it made me sick to think plain American suffering and unheeded."

"Suffering?" the banker broke in incredulously.

She nodded. "If you call a Christmas dinner of plain ashcake, without even a scrap of meat or molasses, good food, perhaps there wasn't any; but take my word for it, all that fall and winter persimmon bread was our greatest luxury."

The younger man stirred and started to speak. His elder's eye compelled silence. "So you would take your loot and squander it in charity," he said.

Nora faced him dauntlessly, answering:

"If the bank stands to its cashier that it makes no mistakes where would the loot come in, especially after it had been warned of a mistake?"

"It wouldn't come in. I'm a lawyer—I know," the young man said, coming forward.

Nora smiled at him roguishly. "I am not—only hoping to be some day," she said. "That's how I'm here."

"You've won your first case, Miss Maxwell," the banker said, bowing. "But I'd pay you a good fee if you hadn't made the case. I hate like everything to dismiss Weston. He is newly promoted; think it must have gone to his head."

"Then don't fire him," Nora said, compassionately. "Job hunting is so disheartening. I know."

"May I ask what your job is?" the interloper said.

She answered gravely, though with twinkling eyes: "I'm the original candy girl; get twenty-five a week for making models warranted to fetch the flapper and equally engage her elder sisters."

"You study?" the banker began.

"Night school," Nora interrupted.

"Hus to be that or nothing. Pity I wasn't born a boy, I love law so well, and then there have been such lawyers in our line. If only I can make good granddad will be so happy. Even heaven wouldn't be all right for him if he had to know that the last of us was a rank failure."

"You won't be," Banker Lewis said confidently. "Thank you for the trouble you have taken to set this matter right. Isn't there something the bank can do to show appreciation?"

"Surely! Slip back that measly ten and say nothing about it till next week," Nora broke in gayly, adding almost wistfully: "Also something personal. Please tell me where I can get real food without waiting too long—"

"It will be better to show you," Mr. Lewis interrupted. "We'll take Miss Lane, my secretary, and John Lewis Cope, my scapegrace nephew, to make the party complete."

A thrill amounting almost to a riot went through the establishment when the limousine rolled away with four inside. It whirled the four crosstown to the lower city's most famous luncheon place. There Nora, forgetful of her 88-cent hat, her mended gloves, her severely simple handbag, ate daintily but with keen relish such food as she had not tasted before.

Afterward she was sent to a matinee in charge of Miss Lane, the men bowing themselves away at their courtliest, the elder of them saying: "Be sure we shall keep track of you," and the younger looking things he lacked courage to say. Possibly he found the courage later, since the week after she passed a brilliant examination and was duly admitted to the bar.

Miss Nora Maxwell became Mrs. John Lewis Cope, but so quietly hardly a breath of it got into print. There would likely have been columns had it leaked out that Banker Lewis had settled a quarter million on the bride, besides giving his nephew wherewithal to buy back Maxwellton, a big plantation down in Alabama.

MAKING CONICAL HOOP FLY TRAPS

One Shown in Illustration Appears to Be Most Efficient.

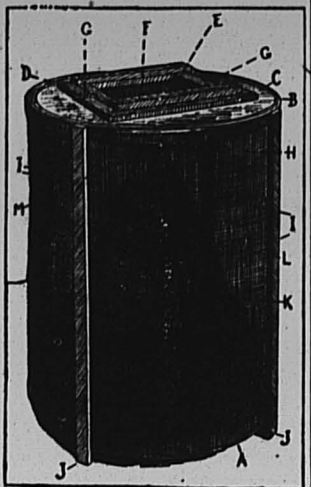

QUITE EASILY CONSTRUCTED

It Consists of Screen Cylinder With Frame Made of Barrel Hoops—Total Cost of Material If Bought Should Be About $1.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A fly trap, which appears from extensive tests made by the United States Department of Agriculture to be best for effective trapping, durability, ease of construction and repair, and cheapness, may be made as follows:

It consists essentially of a screen cylinder with a frame made of barrel hoops, in the bottom of which is inserted a screen cone. The height of the cylinder is 24 inches, the diameter 18 inches, and the cone is 22 inches high, and 18 inches in diameter at the base. The material necessary for this trap consists of four new or second-hand wooden barrel hoops, one barrel head, four laths, 10 feet of strips one to one and one-half inches wide by one-half inch thick (portions of old boxes will suffice), 61 linear inches of 12 or 14 mesh galvanized screening 24 inches wide for the side of the trap and 41 inches of screening 26 inches wide for the cone and door, an ounce of carpet tacks, and two turn buttons, which may be made of wood.

Plan of Construction.

In constructing the trap two of the hoops are bent in a circle (18 inches in diameter on the inside, and nailed together, the ends being trimmed to give a close fit. These form the bottom of the frame (A), and the other two, prepared in a similar way, the top (B). The top (C) of the trap is made of an ordinary barrel head with the bevel edge sawed off sufficiently to cause the head to fit closely in the hoops and allow secure nailing. A square, 10 inches on the side, is cut out of the center of the top to form a door.

Portions of the Top.

The portions of the top (barrel head) are held together by inch strips (D) placed around the opening one-half inch from the edge to form a jamb for the door. The door consists of a narrow frame (E) covered with screen (F) well fitted to the trap and held in place (not hinged) by buttons (G). The top is then nailed in the upper hoops, and the sides (H) formed by closely tacking screen wire on the outside of the hoops. Four laths (I) (or light strips) are nailed to the hoops on the outside of the trap to act as supports between the hoops, and the ends are allowed to project one inch at the bottom to form legs (J). The cone (K) is cut from the screen and either sewed with wire or soldered where the edges meet at (L), or a narrow lath may be nailed along these edges. The apex of the cone is then cut off to give an aperture (M) one inch in diameter. It is then inserted in the trap and closely tacked to the hoop around the base.

In order to figure the distance around the base of the cone of any given diameter multiply the diameter by 3.1416 or 3 1/7.

The height of the legs of the trap, the height of the cone and the size of the aperture in the top of the cone, each are of importance in securing the greatest efficiency.

Snake-Eaters Avoid Venom.

INCOMPATIBILITY

Love was dead, dead!

Not even a hint of the memory of love remained in the cold gray eyes of the woman descending the steps from the office of the big lawyer, nor in the absent brown ones of her husband as he glanced hastily at his watch with a view to the quickest possible return to business. Something in his tired face, however, drew out in her a trace of the divine maternal that exists in every woman, but especially in those who have a tiny grave to remember, as Dorrice Ordway had.

"You must have something to eat before you go back to work, Edwina," she told him quickly. "There is a little restaurant just across the track—there. It looks clean. We will go over."

Indifferently he ordered the whole some food she suggested for him. For herself she took only tea and toast—indigestion had lately added itself to her long list of ailments.

He spoke abruptly, between mouthfuls.

"I suppose Black thought it was queer for us to go together to find out the steps necessary for our divorce. Strange, I've faced every kind of business situation alone, but when it comes to telling some one else your family troubles—" he hesitated almost boyishly.

The maternal light again softened her eyes, then died to a cold gleam. "It will soon be over," she told him. "Black can fix it up, you see, without trouble—a simple case of incompatibility. You will be free for your everlasting business—business."

"And you for your sanatoriums and baths and eternal complaining," he retorted as he shoved his chair back sharply and led the way out.

"We ought to have brought the car here with us. You know it makes my side ache to walk," she complained, fretfully, as they started back across the tracks.

His only answer was a grunt "Humph!" as he walked slightly ahead. Then a horrified gasp from her caused him to turn quickly. She had stooped and was pulling frantically at the heel of her high shoe, which was caught in the track. Struggling, twisting, wrenching, she worked, her terrified eyes watching with awful fascination an object bearing down upon them, looming large like some ancient monster—the engine of the through express.

In seconds that seemed like hours he exerted every last atom of his strength to release her, his mind working lightning quick to find the cause of her captivity. The high heel simply fitted the railed groove in which it had slipped. No power on earth could free her in the scant time before that death-dealing monster would be upon them. No knife, even if he had one, could sever quickly enough the lacings of the high boot! No strength could pull the heel from the strongly made sole. The train was slackening its speed now. The engineer had seen them—was trying frantically to stop, but still the monster came, came.

The divinely maternal look again transfigured her face.

"Jump!" she told him. "Get away!" and she tried to push him from her. He grasped the hands that sought to send him to safety. Her expression changed to one of perfect trust and love—of the girlish appeal that he remembered so well in the days of their courtship.

"Robert!" she cried, regardless of the oncoming engine. Her eyes were the eyes of the girl of long ago. He gathered her closely in his arms. Jump for safety and leave her? Never! Dofrice! His wife! The girl of his love! The mother of the child who had left him! What was business! What was all the world! What was life itself, beside a love like this!

The monster was close upon them now in spite of the swift work of the horrified men aboard. An instant more and all was over. Silence! Even the noise of the train died away as it came to a full stop.

But love, after all, was not dead.

First Traveler on Famous Road.

The first white man of whom we have record traversing the route of what is now the National road was Christopher Gist, who had been living near the North Carolina state line and who came into Maryland at the request of the Ohio company to explore the land toward the west. He arrived at Will's creek in October, 1740. Will's creek is a good-sized stream flowing into the Potomac at what is now Cumberland. The Indians knew it as Calcuttuck, a name both difficult to spell and pronounce, which led perhaps to its early discard. Upon this stream in a small cove in a great mountain which rises there lived a friendly and influential Indian whom the early traders called Will, probably the nearest English stranger they could make at this Indian name. So the stream Calcuttuck became Will's creek and the mountain at Cumberland Will's mountain and upon the highest point the body of the Indian, Will, was interred at his death—Cumberland Evening Times.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

THE PUZZLE OF THE PEASANT EMPRESS

ALL the mystery and intrigue for which the East is famous could easily be epitomized in the strange, almost uncanny story of Tzu-Hsi, dowager empress of China, and for years the power behind the throne of the Celestial Empire. Where she came from, how she exerted her almost supernatural power, the way in which she managed to substitute the first cousin of her dead son in the place of the baby emperor, the manner of her death, and the very disposition of her body, are all veiled in a cloud of uncertainty, from which there emerges only the fact that Tzu-Hsi deserves to be ranked with Catherine of Russia as one of the few women who ever completely dominated a vast, half-savage kingdom.

The first that was known of Tzu-Hsi was when she arrived in Peking, unheralded, to take her place in the ranks of the wives of the emperor, Hsien-Feng. Her beauty and her charm attracted the favorable attention both of the dowager empress and the first wife of the emperor, and she was soon accorded the comparative position of honor as fourth wife to the emperor, taking the place of the second wife when the latter died some months later.

Two years after Tzu-Hsi entered the palace she gave birth to a son—a boy who succeeded to the throne upon the death of his father five years later, the first wife of the emperor being childless. Long before this time, however, official Peking was boiling over with gossip as to the origin of the "peasant empress," as she was known on account of the fact that her feet had never been bound. According to one story, she was a slave-girl whose beauty had attracted the attention of the emperor. Another rumor maintained that she had been given to the governor of a southern province in return for a favor conferred upon her mother and that the governor, wishing to secure favor in the eyes of the emperor, had sent her to Peking, where she soon ruled the court by virtue of her overbearing personality. A third report—and one which was most generally accepted—was that she was the protégée of Li Hung Chang, who was supposed to have placed her in the imperial palace to further his own ends, knowing that she was the daughter of a Tartar general, a heritage which would have accounted both for her brains and her ability to dominate those around her.

But, no matter what her origin was, high or low, the fact that Tzu-Hsi ruled the imperial palace with a rod of iron is a matter of record, as is the dramatic manner in which she foiled the plot to wreck her power through the murder of her son shortly after he had ascended the throne. The conspiracy was successful, so far as the death of the boy was concerned, but no sooner had he succumbed to a very brief illness than the empress left the bed where his body lay and proceeded at once to another part of the palace, snatching up the three-year-old cousin of the dead emperor, Kwang-Hsu, and presenting him to the assembled mandarins as the new ruler of China—a coup which the empress is said to have engineered by means of threats of personal violence against the mandarins and an oath that she would encompass the death of any who dared oppose her wishes. From this time until the death of Kwang-Hsu, in 1908, Tzu-Hsi was the real head of the kingdom—not only as dowager empress, but as the power which dominated the emperor by means of the lash whenever he showed a disinclination to fall in with her wishes.

As befitted one of the most remarkable women in history, the death of Tzu-Hsi was a dramatic and mysterious affair, as her origin and early history. On November 8, 1908, the court assisted in the celebration of her seventy-fourth birthday—an occasion in which she appeared to be in the best of health. Less than a fortnight later, however, it was announced that the empress had suddenly died, and at the same time, a bulletin was issued stating that the emperor had passed away on the preceding evening. Those familiar with the intrigue surrounding the Chinese court shook their heads wisely and smiled with more than a trace of grimace at the thought of the fate which had overtaken Tzu-Hsi and her protégé.

"The death which she had meted out to others has overtaken her at last," was the popular verdict, but beyond this nothing was discovered. Thus passed, as mysteriously as she had lived, one of the most remarkable characters in history—an autocrat whose birth, life and death were all shrouded in impenetrable mystery.

DON'T LIKE THAT "CORNCOB"

Barber's Criticism May Force Novelist to Give Up His Favorite Form of Smoke.

A noted novelist and playwright will have to abandon the corncob pipe that is dear to him if he heeds the kindly advice of his favorite barber.

"Yes," he observed sadly, as he puffed away at the old cob, according to the New York Sun. "I can't smoke this old pipe anywhere near Pietro's now. In fact I'm getting so I may have to give up smoking it in public for fear I should meet him."

"You see, I went into the shop the other day, as I've done every day for years, with the corncob going full blast. Business was dull for the moment. As I entered Pietro greeted me as usual—then as I was removing my collar he came over to me.

"Do you mind if I say something?" says he.

"Not at all," I assured him. "Well," he said rather timidly, "if I was you, a man of your standing I wouldn't smoke that there old corncob. I wouldn't. It ain't—it ain't, well, artistic."

Wind Is Caused by the Sun.

When any part of the earth becomes heated by the sun's rays the air becomes thinner and rises. As it goes up a current of cooler air takes its place, thus causing the disturbance called wind.

Likewise, damp air—which is lighter than dry air of the same degree of heat—will also rise and cause a disturbance above and below.

It is for this reason that there is usually a breeze from the sea by day and from the land by night, the land being heated faster than the water and the fresh air from the sea coming in to take its place.

At night the process is reversed. The land cools faster than the water and the wind goes out to sea.

The Start of Divorce.

The most primitive people held that a husband could repudiate his wife at will. This was gradually modified till separations could be obtained for cause. The hearing of cases came to be a function of the courts.

The Will of the People.

"Of course, you have a mind of your own."

"I hope so," replied Senator Ferguson; "at the same time I've got to remember that while I am supposed to make the speeches, my constituents represent the real intellectual authority."

Field Club Tennis

Last Saturday afternoon the Collingswood Tennis Club came to Palmyra with the intention of evening up the score of the defeat they suffered at Collingswood earlier in the season when the Field Club tennis team won an afternoon's engagement by the count of 7 matches to 6.

They started in with a rush and in several of the contests captured the first set, but the local players were strong finishers and were not to be denied although Collingswood put up a good fight. In the men's singles the Field Club won four out of the five contests, and in men's doubles four out of six, while in the mixed doubles Collingswood succeeded in capturing 3 out of the 4 matches played. The final score showed Field Club 9, Collingswood 6, being a more conclusive victory than the earlier inter-club match.

This Saturday, Old Home Day, the strong Merchantville tennis team is coming to the Field Club courts to match their prowess with the local racket wielders.

New Men's Club Full of Pep!

"America's failure to enter the League of Nations is largely responsible for the present 'come-back' of the Turk," declared Louis H. Runk, Esq., prominent Philadelphia lawyer and churchman during an address on "The Present Situation in Turkey and Greece," before the Men's Club of Christ Church, Palmyra, on Monday evening, September 25th.

"I do not want to introduce politics into my talk," said Mr. Runk, "but I feel that America's influence in the League and her decided stand against secret treaties would have restrained Turkey from renewed aggression against her Christian neighbors."

The Parishioners of Christ Church, Palmyra, were comfortably filled by an interested audience of men of all denominations who had gathered on invitation of William T. Purnell, to help organize a non-sectarian Men's Club.

Frank Mathews, Jr., and R. E. Wilson outlined the proposed program for the remainder of the year and after some discussion a temporary organization was agreed upon as follows: President, William T. Purnell; secretary, Charles K. Mervine; treasurer, R. E. Wilson.

The purpose of the club is to promote the intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare of its members by means of lectures, discussions, study and entertainment.

On the call of the chairman a dozen of those present expressed themselves very cordially in favor of organization along the lines mentioned. James H. Hartley, Township Committeeman, in a neat speech predicted a successful future and said he felt that the club was exactly what Palmyra needed.

Charles W. Davison told of a Men's Club in a Philadelphia church very like in scope which had a membership of over 300 and he expected the Palmyra Club might easily reach that number if the announced program was carried out.

President Purnell cordially invites applications for membership from men of all denominations living in Palmyra or Riverton, and they are also invited to attend the next meeting Monday October 23rd, when an instructive and entertaining meeting is promised to all.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by the Women's Guild of the Church represented by Mrs. B. S. Torbett, Mrs. James Lowrie and Mrs. William Purnell.

Riverton and Palmyra Stars of 25 Years Ago on Diamond Again

One of the leading events among the many good ones on Old Home Day will be the base ball game between Palmyra's oldtimers and Riverton's oldtimers. They were the real amateurs, they played the game because they enjoyed the sport. These teams met each other in those good old days more than twenty-five years ago, and it will be a great pleasure to see them in action again.

This game will be played on The Field Club grounds in the afternoon at 3:30. All come and enjoy this event. Palmyra's Pop, Pluck, Perseverance, against Riverton's Rigor, Resourcefulness, Resistance.

The Riverton team will be led by the King of Amateurs of base ball, Ross Williams, the player who never accepted one cent for his services, not even warfare. Riverton players, Ross Williams, William "Billy" Turner, Broner W. R. Knight, Wilmer Black, Charles Evans, Dave Clegg, M. McDonald, Randolph Faries, Edgar Faries, DeWitt Robinson, Charles Flanagan, C. Swartz, William Whetly, John Shannon, Ernest Simpson.

Palmyra players: Lin Roden, J. Howard Berry, Sr., Fred "Mike" Haltinger, Jack Mood, Amos Truman, George Thompson, Ross Avis, Warren Ayres, Mayor Frank VanHart, Chas. Derfler, Frank Toy, William Wimer, Harvey Bell, Artie Wallace, Hugh B. Miller, Tom McGinley.

F. A. Mathews, Sr., manager. Umpire: Jack King (plate). Fred (Dol) Hemphill (bases). Scorer, William Truman.

Palmyra will celebrate its third Old Home Day this Saturday.

The town is already gaily decorated and cleaned up and all is in readiness to receive a host of visitors.

Last year 15,000 people poured into the town and even more are expected this time when the festivities reach their height in the evening.

The morning will be devoted to welcoming and registering the visitors.

In the afternoon the program will begin with exercises in the grove. Visiting ministers will deliver the invocation and benediction. Thomas C. Van Osten will give the address of welcome and a reply will be made by Dr. Arthur L. Hartley, of Philadelphia, brother of Committeeman Hartley.

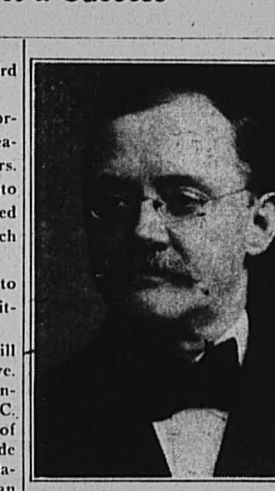

The singing will be in charge of Alfred C. Van Osten, who will also sing a solo. Mass singing of old time songs will be a feature and the big Tall Cedars band of Salem will render special selections.

After the exercises in the grove comes the ball game.

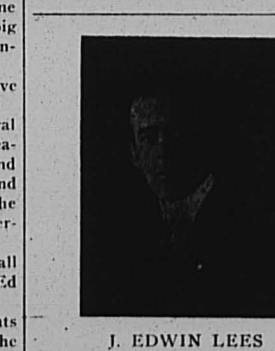

In the evening will be the general entertainment—dancing, special features for young and old and a grand fireworks exhibition. A punch and Judy show has been arranged for the children in addition to other entertainments previously mentioned.

Visitors will be served with all kinds of sandwiches and coffee by Ed King's committee.

Palmyra's many new improvements will be something worth showing the visitors.

Coaching Results Unpleasantly

From The New Era, August 13, 1892

A party, which left Riverton on Thursday the fourth, containing several well-known residents of this vicinity, among whom were J. Lawrence Lippincott and Samuel R. Lippincott, to take a coaching trip to the Delaware Water Gap, reached the place of destination on Saturday and left the Gap on Monday morning. All went well until near Nazareth, or about 14 miles from Bethlehem, when in descending a hill, the brake failed to work and the coach crowded the horses, when Lawrence went to the assistance of his cousin, Henry Lippincott, who was driving. While they were successfully descending the slope and had gotten about half way down, the coach struck a deep rut in the road and Lawrence was thrown between the poles and ran over, breaking both bones in his leg in two places. Samuel R. Lippincott and Justice C. Thompson jumped from the coach, the former receiving a few scratches about the face. The rest of the party descended the hill in safety, except that the coach upset in rounding a corner of the road near the bottom, precipitating the inmates to a ditch at the roadside and so placing them that the coach was dragged over and away from them, with the top torn off, without doing them serious injury. Lawrence was found about a mile back just returning to consciousness. The limb was adjusted to a comfortable position, Lawrence placed on a cot and a special car procured which conveyed him to Riverton, where the fractures were set by a Philadelphia surgeon, and he is now comfortable and doing well.

KERSHNER DAY

Wesleyan Class Honors Teacher With Big Turn-out

A large number attended the meeting at the Wesleyan Men's Class last Sunday. It was Kershner Day, and a fitting reception was tendered Mr. Kershner.

While the orchestra played every man marched up and shook hands with the teacher, to show their appreciation for the splendid and worthwhile talk he had given the class and to wish him many more years with them.

An excellent musical program was rendered by the orchestra, which included solos by Mr. Van Osten, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Van Osten. The Lucia Sextette was rendered by a trio composed of Miss Robinson, piano, Mr. DeLuca, cornet, and Leon Harris, violin. Short talks were made by Mr. Kershner, The Rev. Mr. Robinson, Horace Finney, president of the class, and others.

For next Sunday another interesting program is being arranged, and it is hoped a large crowd will be on hand.

A journey by automobile will be made by members of the class to Bridgeton on the third Sunday in October. Make a note of this date. We want to have a large delegation from Palmyra.

ARTISANS MEET

High Class Entertainment Marks Regular A. O. M. P. Session

Palmyra Assembly No. 65, A. O. M. P. met in regular session last Tuesday evening in Society Hall, with an attendance of approximately 135. Two new members were initiated, and a high-class entertainment of three vaudeville acts and refreshments were provided by the entertainment committee.

Plans have now been perfected for a huge rally in October, at which time the Assembly will have as its guests the Most Excellent Officers of the Order, including the Most Excellent Master Artisan, the Most Excellent Superintendent, the Most Excellent Inspector, and the Most Excellent Recorder. A class of at least thirty candidates is expected for this meeting, and every effort is being made to have the largest class ever initiated in the history of the Assembly, which will at the same time enable the Assembly to surpass its record of 1919, the banner year.

The Artisans' "bal masque," under the auspices of the Artisans Dining Club, will be held in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on October 30th, $350.00 in cash prizes will be offered for those in costume, and a special entertainment will be provided in addition to the dancing and other features. The stellar attraction promises to be the "Beauty Pageant," fashioned after the Atlantic City idea, and substantial cash prizes have been offered. Each Assembly will be allowed one representative. The proceeds of this bal masque will be used for a Christmas entertainment for about 800 poor children, and to relieve distress among needy members of the Order. Tickets can be procured from the recorder of Palmyra Assembly, at $2.50 each, and admit two persons.

The bowling season of the Assembly will be formally opened on Monday evening, October 2nd, at Fehrl's Riverside alleys. From present indications it is expected that the league will be composed of eight teams and members of the Assembly desiring to participate in the league games should enroll their names at once with the bowling committee, and attend the preliminary series of games to be rolled beginning October 2nd.

Surprise Party for Mrs. Herbert Lees

Mrs. Herbert J. Lees, of Washington avenue, was agreeably surprised Wednesday afternoon when she was seen coming up the avenue with boxes and bundles and three of the ladies pulling a large box attached to a heavy rope.

Everyone wondered what was attached to the rope and the residents of the Avenue were started to see such a strange sight, but it proved to be a delegation of captains and officers of the Lovers of Truth Bible class from the State Street Church of Camden, come to pay a social visit.

Everyone brought lunch and the strange and cumbersome box was opened up it proved to contain no other but a lean ham bone. Much merriment resulted among the ladies, and later in the day the eighteen weary travelers returned home thoroughly satisfied with their trip, and voted Palmyra a real live town.

Those present were Mrs. Zimmerman, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Pimm, Mrs. Higbee, Mrs. Locke, Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. M. Davis, Mrs. Letts, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Ash, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Fretts, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Covington, Mrs. Wolverson, Mrs. Sadie Lees, Mrs. Lottie Lees, Mrs. Bessie Lees, Mrs. Hibbs.

Palmyra of Yesteryear

Town Also Was Called Chester and Texas Before Miss Toy Renamed It

Palmyra, with its beautiful Biblical name signifying "City of Palms," had several other names in its infancy, some of which were hardly appropriate to the pretty residential town which it has now become.

Way back in 1847 the town, such of it as there was, went under the name of Chester, being a part of old Chester township. A few years later we hear it spoken of as "Hilli" and shortly afterwards as "Texas."

A log house settlement down by the river bank not far from Pensauken creek was also known as "Souderstown" after the man who built some of the houses.

About the time of the outbreak of the Civil War, Miss Julia Toy, who was postmistress and whose sisters had gone abroad as missionaries, selected the name the town now bears.

The Biblical Palmyra was once a flourishing city-kingdom in Asia Minor and at a height was ruled over by the powerful Queen Zenobia. Later it fell under the domination of King Hiram of Tyre, and when his daughter became one of Solomon's wives, Hiram gave Palmyra to Solomon as part of his daughter's dowry.

The first houses built in our Palmyra were log cabins near the ball park and one of them still forms part of Wallace Kleckner's home.

The Toy family was rich and long prominent in old Palmyra days. The family mansion stood at Broad street and Leconey avenue. The Toys built the old Methodist Church, now Society Hall, and presented it to the local congregation in the 50's.

About the same time the Methodist cemetery to the rear of the church was laid out. When the stumps were being pulled out, a lad named Solomon Kressler, joking as boys will, asked, "Who the deuce would want to be buried there?"

But Solomon was the first to lie in the new cemetery. His grave is on his stone is almost gone, only his name and the date, 1855, remaining, while a young tree grows out of the center of the grave.

The railroad first ran through here in 1834, but the old Palmyra station, an interesting picture of which is owned by Charles T. Hawke, was not built until 1849. At that time the village was chiefly composed of the farm homesteads of the Morgans, the Wallaces, Toys, Evans and others, some of whose families had been farmers here for generations and whose descendants are prominent citizens.

The first lot bought in Palmyra was purchased by S. L. Hawke, for 49 years station agent, in 1880, when he purchased the ground on which his son, Charles T. Hawke, now has his store. Others in the vicinity followed.

But the big boom came a year or so later. There was some land along the railroad between Delaware avenue and Market street which had changed hands rapidly. Joe Souder, a Philadelphia shoeman, acquired some of it. Then he got into business difficulties.

Out of his bankruptcy grew the first Palmyra boom. To realize more money for his creditors the land was cut into building lots and put in the hands of Fred Blackburn, a Philadelphia estate man who later moved to Palmyra. Blackburn started a vigorous advertising campaign to sell Palmyra lots and soon had many people coming up, many of whom bought and settled.

About the same time William F. Morgan, who still lives in his home on the heights, began to develop that part of his land lying along the railroad. His farm was one of four into which the large holding of his father, Elias Morgan, stretching from the river a mile and a half inland, had been divided, each going to one of the sons, Elias, Jr., Joseph, John and William.

Some of the present streets, Highland and Cinnaminon avenues, for example, were lanes running through the old Morgan farm.

William F. Morgan was enthusiastic about his new town but others scoffed. Old Josiah Wallace, who lived with him, said: "Nobody'll ever get lost in Bill's town."

The Smyrna Horror

Blame whom you will for the Smyrna horror, the least Americans over here can do is to contribute promptly and generously to the Smyrna Emergency Relief fund. Responding to the request of the State Department to do its utmost, the Near East Relief advanced $25,000 and then a second $25,000, first in food, medical supplies and stores collected at Constantinople for its regular orphanage work; and since the fire, some steamers besides destroyers have been secured to transport refugees.

It is impossible to exaggerate the terrible conditions of the Smyrna, say cable reports. The call is to feed temporarily hundreds of thousands of refugees—completely helpless men, women and children—and convey them to places of greater safety where they will not starve to death or breed pestilence. It should be remembered that the $200,000 appropriated by Congress was for the relief of American citizens only, in Smyrna. Heroic Americans on the job rightly count on us folks back home to supply the necessary dollars for this humanitarian service, as we have never failed to do for the honor of our country's name throughout the world.

Send your contributions to the editor of this paper, or the State treasurer of the Smyrna Emergency Relief, Frederick Frelinghuysen of Newark.

Local Y. M. C. A. News

The regular monthly meeting of the Palmyra Y. M. C. A. board was held Saturday, September 16th, with eight members present.

The board of putting into shape the building at St. Michel Drive and Garfield avenue was one of the main topics of discussion, and the building committee was empowered to go ahead with plans laid down. A committee was appointed to arrange for a get-together of the Ockanickon campers and their friends sometime in the near future. We also hope to organize one or more groups for boys 12 to 14 years of age. All boys who think they would like to belong to one of these groups should hand their names to the local secretary, Harvey C. Fisher.

A Harry Rudduck, who has served as secretary of this board for a number of years has resigned and Thomas C. VanOsten has been added to the board.

CLOVER CLUB DANCE

Large Number of Guests Present at First Affair of Season

The regular monthly dances of the Clover Club were resumed on Wednesday evening of last week, and was the "open fall dance." Owing to numerous requests from residents of Palmyra and Riverton who are not members of the Club, the attendance restrictions were lifted and special invitations extended to those interested, and quite a large number of guests availed themselves of the privilege of attending this delightful affair.

Vogt's Imperial Novelty Orchestra rendered music of rare excellence. The personnel of this orchestra has been augmented by the addition of one more member, now making a total of six (two of the members of this orchestra are the sons of Herbert Lees, of Washington avenue.) An innovation for this season is the elimination of the violin, and the creation of a saxophone trio, which, together with the banjo, drums and piano, produced a very pleasing and well received by them in attendance.

The hall was attractively decorated in the Club's colors of green and white, and the stage was draped with green curtains and the Clover Club insignia.

In accordance with the usual custom, ice cream and tasty crackers were served with the compliments of the Club.

Miss Doris Horner, of Burlington, was presented with a beautiful silk umbrella, and Jean P. Mervine, of Palmyra, received an attractive leather wallet, as a result of holding the lucky number in the elimination dance.

Ever since the inauguration of these dances, Old Jude Plinius has hovered around with his dog, a small pointer, which he would bring into active play on the third Wednesday evening of the month, but evidently the jinx was circumvented by the fact that an umbrella was given as a prize, for strange to relate, the weather was ideal for such an event.

The memberships in the Clover Club for the current year will expire in December, at which time the list will be re-opened for the year 1923.

A CENTURY OF ANTHRACITE

First Ton of Hard Coal Reached the City of Philadelphia Just One Hundred Years Ago.

An even hundred years have elapsed since one William Wurts, a Philadelphia merchant, drove his team of mules with the first ton of anthracite through the spring freshets and bog land to the banks of the Delaware river and loaded the new fuel down the river to Philadelphia on a pine log raft.

But he experienced no little difficulty in that first anthracite year of 1820 in overcoming the popular objection that the coal was "extremely slow of lighting." Pine log rafts floated only 800 tons of anthracite that year. But it fetched a price of $12 a ton and could be delivered to the city of Philadelphia at $3—a fact that was freely advertised to attract additional capital, for, of course, there was no profiteering in those days.

Spring freshets and bog land and slow inflammability no longer worry operators. Silk shirts for miners are a bigger nuisance. But production in a hundred years has jumped to 85-200,000 tons, and could this year surpass the 100 million-ton mark, which was almost reached in 1917.

Reading, Wilkesbarre, Lehigh, Mauch Chunk—these names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance, one ton of which did the work of 100 tons of soft coal. It was the coal that steered on a raft down the Delaware to Philadelphia, just one hundred years ago—Wall Street Journal.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE XLIII—WYOMING

IT IS to Wyoming that falls the honor of being the first state to grant equal political rights to women. In fact when congress, in 1868, created the Territory of Wyoming from parts of Dakota, Utah and Idaho, a constitution was adopted which gave women the right to vote.

There were rumors of early Spanish explorations in Wyoming but they seem unfounded by fact. Probably the first white men to visit this part of the country were Bleu de la Verendee, and his sons who passed through this region in 1743 in search of locations for trading posts. In 1804 the Yellowstone was first visited by hunters, although the fame of its scenic beauty was not given much credence until 1870 and it was set aside as a federal reserve in 1872.

The first permanent fort in Wyoming was erected in 1834 where the Laramie river flows into the Platte. Later when the stream of immigrants passed through this region on their way to the California gold fields a string of forts were erected along the Oregon Trail to protect the travelers from attacks by the hostile Sioux Indians.

Through Wyoming went not only the Oregon Trail, which was opened up by Lieutenant Fremont and his guide, Kit Carson, in 1842, but also the Salt Lake Trail. Along these routes many travelers crossed Wyoming, but few stopped and settled there as the country was the most arid of all our states. The discovery of gold in 1867 led to the founding of South Pass City and in the same year Cheyenne was laid out by the Union Pacific Railroad company.

Wyoming became the forty-fourth state of the Union in 1890 and is eighth in size with an area of 97,914 square miles. (By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

APPLES OF DUST

By MAUDE S. HALLAM

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"See! See! Monsieur, 50,000 francs for me; mon Dieu, do you hear, for me! The little Marie will shed no more tears, no more shall she hunger, no more shall she stand at the wash-tub till she drops, with the little ones screaming around her. Yes, monsieur! the Grand Prix lottery, I took the money she had put aside for food, and she, the little Marie, thought it lost. Ah! how she cried, the petite. But no more shall she weep. The doctor said she must have rest, good food, change of air, or she will die. So I took the money and bought a share in a lottery ticket, and see what fortune is mine! Fifty thousand francs!"

The little man rushed about imparting his good news to all and sundry, for everyone was willing to listen to his tale of good luck, most of them with envy, but some well pleased that it was great. For Jean Berrier was one of the unfortunate with a sick, a dying wife, who had struggled and slaved to put bread into the mouths of her husband and three small children ever since he, Jean, fell from the scaffolding of a building on which he was working and broke his leg, six months ago—struggled and worked till the little body had succumbed to the strain, and for weeks she had lain without the strength to crawl across the floor to the now empty pantry.

And to crown her misfortune, the little hoard of francs she had saved against such a time had mysteriously disappeared.

No bread had passed her lips for two days now, and the little ones were whimpering with cold and hunger, while Jean—where was he? Had anything happened to him? Never before had he left for so long! And she was tired, oh, so tired of waiting for him. It was getting dark and cold—so cold! She would sleep and forget the cold.

There was a stumbling noise as of a drunken man coming up the stairs, then a rush of stronger, swifter footsteps, and the crippled Jean burst into the room, intoxicated with joy, followed by rejoicing and sympathetic neighbors and even strangers, brought by the little man's enthusiasm.

"What! little one! Here are sickles and satins, horses and carriages, servants and mansions, for you! What! asleep, little one!" and in spite of his elation he tiptoed across the room to the pale, still figure on the rude couch—so still one could almost fancy—ah, no! not that! Merciful heavens, not that!

Dropped unheeded was the bag of gold. Forgotten all the joy of riches. Silent the rejoicing neighbors—for the little Marie had passed to the House of Many Mansions, through the Gates of Jasper, the Streets of Gold.

Awestruck and abashed the crowd passed slowly from the room, leaving the stricken husband there starving, whimpering children piteously crying for just a crust of bread—and a floor strewn with glittering gold coins.

FIRST PLAYED IN IRELAND

Croquet Made Its Way From That Country to England, and From Thence to America.

The first treatise on croquet that came to our little village was by Mayne Reid. The book was first published in London in 1863; there was a New York edition in 1865; a Boston edition in 1866. Some of the boys, disdaining the mallets on sale, had them made of fancy but heavy woods. The first strokes were tall, thick, with gorgeously colored rings to mark the balls. The game encouraged friction among the older players. Young women were coquetish in putting a foot on the ball and saw to it that they were handsomely shod.

Was croquet a development of the Dutch game, closh, or did it pass from Brittany into Ireland? It certainly was played in Ireland before it was popular in England, writes Philip Hale in the Boston Herald. It has been stated that it was played near Dublin under this name in 1894-5. The game and name were introduced into England in 1862. In 1868 a writer in Field said croquet came into the north of Ireland some twelve years before from a French convent. Trollope's Mr. Cropley played croquet in 1862. In 1877 an ivory turner at London, in Dickens' time, was engaged making a set of croquet implements for Ireland forty years before.

The game went out of fashion in the country when lawn tennis became the rage. The men that persisted in croquet were suspected of being passionately addicted to soda lemonade. There was at least a revival, with grand tournaments and championship. Herkimer Journal tells us that summer cottagers at Clamport play assiduously even when it rains and the whacking of the wooden balls often distracts him from the investigation of sociological problems.

Trinket Has History. Elizabeth Irving, granddaughter of Sir Henry Irving, and herself a favorite of the English stage, wears a charm which her distinguished grandfather always wore on the first night of a new production. The charm has an interesting history and is said to have been worn by Mrs. Siddons and Peg Woffington.

Relieving Mother's Mind.

Wendell had long, yellow curls and his parents decided it was time for a major operation for their removal. So father took the lad to the barber's, mother watching them out of sight, with moist eyes. At length the two returned and mother valiantly tried to keep back the tears at the thought of the loss of her baby. Wendell went to her in a solicitous manner, understanding that her crying was for him. He threw his arms about her neck and said, solicitously: "There, mother, don't cry. It didn't hurt a bit."

Social Side of Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt was a believer in the amenities and civilities of public as well as private life. He had a very alert and correct sense of "form," writes Edward G. Lowry in the Review. It was one of his, strongly marked traits, though little dwelt upon by his many biographers. He gathered about him while he was in the White House many agreeable, pleasant, civil spoken men whose chief apparent qualification was a distinct social background and tradition. They were not grubby, workaday persons at all, but rather men who had found the world a charming place of sojourn largely because their fathers and grandfathers had provided a solvent for the bread-and-butter problem. For the most part they were the very best butler and acquitted themselves creditably.

Valencia's "Water Court."

Valencia, Spain, has a tribunal which meets every Thursday at 11 o'clock in the morning to try offenses in connection with the conveying of water to the rice fields of the district. It is called the "water tribunal," and its members consist of peasants who elect their own president. The proceedings are all verbal and cost the parties concerned nothing. After a case has been tried and all witnesses have given their evidence fully, the tribunal discusses the affair in public and pronounces its decision. The "water court" dates from the Moorish period, and has retained its primitive simplicity and honesty through all the political changes that have taken place in Spain. Even the day of meeting is unchanged, Thursday having been the market day of the Moors.

"Beauty Marks."

What women will do to be thought beautiful is astounding even now; but listen to these facts and you will agree that in nineteen centuries femininity has gained something of common sense. In Japan women used to gild their teeth, while in the Indies they painted them red. Gaudier women blackened them. In Greenland they colored their faces blue and yellow. The fashion of patches came from Arabia, probably beginning with the astrological signs, but drifting into conceals like small ships cut from the black court planet worn at the courts of the Louis. In the time of Louis XV women even went so far as to paste on moles in eyebrow—Ladies Home Journal.

Very Human—These Monkey!

"Sitting dejectedly outside the camp," says Capt. William Ashley Anderson in his thrilling story of patrolling the African game country, "I watched a troop of baboons with rising interest; though droll, they are dangerous if you arouse their ill will. So I did not laugh to offend the lumbering elders; for I found they are also bound by laws as are their brothers, the human beings—have their conventions and live up to them. The old men are rough and surly, cynical with their women folk and annoyed at the chattering of the children; the women are patient but shy, dragging the whimpering totos about."
