Boys Win Second Place and Girls Boast of a Champion

The Palmyra High School relay team ran at the Penn relays last Saturday, winning second place in the event. The boys' team took first. Summit's time was three minutes, thirty-seven seconds, and Palmyra's time was three minutes, thirty-eight seconds.

Each Palmyra runner did his quarter mile in 54 seconds. The relay team deserves a lot of credit for its showing this year.

Next Saturday the relay team goes to the Cheltenham inter-scholastic track and field meet at Elkins Park.

Palmyra High School is supposed to have a very good track team this year, as far as the boys are concerned, but little attention has been paid the girls as yet.

Now the girls not only have a good team, but they boast also of a champion. Her name is Miss Frances Ruppert. She has ran anchor on the relay team for the past two years, and each time it has won the Burlington County championship. Each year the girls have won a silver cup for the highest number of points in the county meet.

The Moorestown girls have threatened to win back their championship in the meet this year, but Miss Ruppert says they will have to see her about that. The P.H.S. team placed third in the recent osteopathy meet relay.

Miss Ruppert ran in the Meadowbrook meet which was held at the Arena this winter and came in a close second to Marion McCarrie, holder of the world's record for 50 yards. A short time after this she won the Middle Atlantic championship for the fifty-yard event, making it in 6.23 sec.

Although our own Frances has never bettered the world's record for 50 yards, she has equalled it on several occasions, and makes better time for longer events, such as 75 or 100 yards. Her time for 75 last year was 8.3 seconds, when neatly timed, made it 8 flat. At the present time she is training to lower her time.

Most sport writers who have seen Miss Ruppert in action claim that she is a coming world champion. Miss Ruppert never realized how speedy she was until she compared her records with those of champions, who get lots of newspaper publicity.

Miss Ruppert has played on both the hockey and basketball teams at Palmyra High for the past two seasons.

Harry Knight Plans Comeback

While it is still a long call from now until the primary election in September, and a terrible summer comes in between, the political pot in Burlington County has begun to simmer. It is understood that Harry Knight has already picked some of the candidates which he will back in the fall campaign. According to reports a meeting of Knight and his lieutenants was held in the New Hanover Hotel, Philadelphia, Friday evening of last week, at which time Edward Stone was approved for sheriff to run against Joseph Fleetwood, and the present sheriff, Edward H. Flagg, Jr., as a candidate to pit against J. Lloyd Wright, present member and director of the Board of Freeholders, who seeks re-election.

Henry I. Worrell, present auditor, and Clifford Powell, assemblyman, will both be candidates for re-election, and so far as is known, Knight has not brought out any candidates to oppose them. It is an open secret that United States Senator Walter E. Edge wants a county organization to his liking in his contest for re-election to the United States Senate next year, and it is understood that the present "powers that be" in the county do not approve altogether of some of the Senator's ideas, the women, particularly, being opposed to his attitude on the "wet" question.

Riverton will be represented in the new effort of Knight to gain control of Burlington county politics, as it is understood two of our political leaders were present at the meeting Friday night.

Hope to Have New Club House

Ready by the Fourth of July The Yacht Club expects to take over title to its new home on the river bank around the first of June, and it is hoped to have the place ready to celebrate in by July 4th.

The subscription committee reports it is now coming down the home stretch. $3000 has been raised and only $1000 to go to match Former Commodore Bower's magnificent gift to the Club. The Club needs the loyal support of all its members at this time, and it is now, get in the swim at once or have no glory in putting across the greatest thing that ever happened, or can happen to the Club.

TO DECORATE GRAVES

Fund Being Raised to Remember Soldiers Buried in France

For the purpose of decorating, on Memorial Day, the graves of 32,000 soldiers buried in France, the National organization of the American Legion is creating a fund of $100,000, to be known as the Graves Endowment Fund. With this perpetual fund, it will be possible to decorate the graves, every Memorial Day, for an indefinite length of time.

Post Rodgers feels that every citizen of the United States should have the opportunity of giving his or her little bit to this worthy cause. As the government has made no appropriation for this purpose, it becomes the duty of the citizens in general to pay that last bit of respect to those of our buddies who gave their all.

Contributions, either of individuals or organizations, should be sent to Harvey G. Fisher in care of the Palmyra National Bank.

Words "Colined" by Poets.

Shakespeare was the first man to use the word "burry," and he also coined the word "dwindle." Spenser made the word "elfin," and Milton coined "pandemonium."

PLAN TO BUY COOPER HOUSE

The Burlington County Historical Society Hopes to Secure this Burlington Landmark. Membership Now Open to Men.

Members of the Burlington County Historical Society hope to be able to purchase the James Fenimore Cooper house, High street, Burlington, and thus preserve it for posterity.

The society has changed its name from the Woman's Burlington County Historical Society to the Burlington County Historical Society to meet the financial obligations that will fall upon it under the new order of things. Previously only women were members. Now men may join.

There will be different classes of membership. Any person who contributes $100 will be enrolled as an honorary member. Any person contributing $50 will be enrolled as a life member. Any person contributing five dollars will become a contributing member. Annual dues for active members will be one dollar a year for both men and women.

Checks made payable to the Burlington County Historical Society, may be sent to Miss Madeline Burr, treasurer, Vincentown, or to any of the Cooper house committee. The committee is composed of Miss Alice D'Olier, Burlington; Miss Anna M. Brakeley, of Bordentown; Miss Laura Fenimore, Mount Holly; Mrs. William I. Frick, Vincentown; Mrs. I. Harrison Hutchinson, Jobstown; Mrs. Francis D'Olier, Moorestown; Mrs. Robert Biddle, Riverton; Mrs. John W. Hamer, Beverly; Mrs. Joseph C. Gill, of Edgewater Park.

Our Convalescent Home

Post Rodgers and its Auxiliary have days full of hard work and very necessary achievement ahead of them. While we are so enthusiastic about our own Legion Home, interest has not dwindled in our sacred obligation to the ex-service men—those who must have very definite assistance to lead them back to health and their rightful position in civil life.

Our Post Auxiliary are in District No. 5, comprised of Burlington, Camden and Salem counties. The Posts and Auxiliaries of these counties are working to buy and maintain one of the State Convalescent Homes. The representatives meet every Thursday night at the Camden Post, 310 Broadway. They have been elected treasurer, Mrs. Ethel Vincent Curry, of Haddonfield. Mrs. Clifford Baldwin, of Camden, is chairman. It is a tremendous undertaking, but with enthusiasm that has been shown by the effort that is being put into the 1923 Poppy drive we are not doubtful of the outcome. In every instance the promised output is double last year's effort. In this Auxiliary that means 4000 poppies to be made.

Why so much interest in the poppy, the Memorial flower of France? The sale of these poppies is one of our biggest resources of income in putting across these Homes in the State. Every cent goes to the work, not one penny for organization. If you are an Auxiliary member, already making poppies, work a little harder, and if you are an Auxiliary member who has not started a poppy yet, think what that little effort means to a man whom a week or so of carefree rest in a happy atmosphere will put on his feet and start him right again. After you have thought about it, call up Mrs. Krecker or Mrs. Jefferson and get some material. Publicity Committee.

Prepare for Annual Meeting of Colored Teachers' Organization

Plans have been completed for the ninth annual meeting of the New Jersey Organization of Teachers of Colored Children on May 12th at Bordentown, N. J. The Bordentown Industrial School acting as host for the occasion, and it is expected that close to one hundred per cent. of the two hundred members will be present. The organization, which was formed for the study of special conditions relating to the instruction of colored children in this State, consists of six "study centers" which meet monthly during the year. The May meeting is the annual convention of all the centers.

The program as announced presents Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, prominent educator and head of the Palmer Memorial Institute of North Carolina, as the speaker of the occasion. She is the second woman to be invited to address the organization. Speakers in past years have included Dr. Carter Woodson, Commissioner John Enright, Mrs. Alice Dunbar Nelson, W. T. B. Williams, and Roscoe Bruce. Dr. George E. Cannon, of Jersey City, was last year's principal speaker. The famous blue club of the Bordentown institution will furnish music for the meeting, while Mrs. Ersalena Rodman, of Trenton, and the teachers' chorus of Atlantic City, will also render selections. The meeting will consist of a morning and an afternoon session, the day beginning at 10 a. m. and closing at 4 p. m. A reception and band tendered the members and their friends in the school gymnasium will complete the day's program.

Dr. Mary W. Griscom on China and India

Dr. Griscom, of Bryn Mawr, is coming to Riverton on May 7th, to give Riverton and vicinity a talk on her experiences in China and India where she has just completed ten years of medical missionary work in the hospitals and villages.

Dr. Griscom has most interesting tales to tell of her life among the Eastern people, as well as curious to show, collected in her journeyings in the Far East.

The above talk will be given in the Porch Club on Monday evening, May 7th, at 8 o'clock.

A silver offering will be taken towards the fund being raised for the new roof on the library. As this will cost several hundred dollars it is hoped a large audience will turn out to greet Dr. Griscom, as well as to help the Library treasury.

SAMUEL—JUDGE AND PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—1 Sam. 12:1-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Only fear the Lord, and serve him in truth with all your heart; for consider how great things he hath done for you.—1 Sam. 12:24.

REPERIODIC MATERIAL—1 Chron. 2:2; 2 Sam. 1:1; Jer. 18:1; Eze. 11:2; 33:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Samuel, the Boy Who Served in God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Boy Who Heard God's Call.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Samuel, the Upright Judge.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Samuel, the True Prophet.

Samuel means "asked of God." God gave him in answer to his mother's prayer. She promised to give him back to God. In his early childhood, his mother cared for and taught him. There is no teacher or nurse like the mother of the child. At an early age she handed him over to the care of Eli to minister unto the Lord in the tabernacle. While ministering unto the Lord in the tabernacle, God called him. He responded to this call and spent a long life in useful service to God and his nation as judge and prophet. Our lesson today is his farewell address.

After Saul was made king, he retired and turned over the authority to the newly-chosen ruler.

I. Samuel's Challenge to the People. (vv. 1-5).

1. Reminder of the Way the King Had Been Given. (v. 1). He showed that they were directly responsible for the change in government. Though keenly feeling the reflection upon himself and their ingratitude to God in their demand for a king, he has not resisted their wish. He reminded them that they now had what they wanted.

2. Review of His Own Administration. (vv. 2, 3). (1) Walk from childhood (v. 2). Samuel's life is a remarkable life; from childhood to old age he had lived an upright and pure life. How satisfying it must be to come to the end of life and to look back even to childhood days without regrets. (2) Career as judge and ruler (v. 3). He boldly challenged them to show where and how he had even in the smallest matters defrauded or oppressed anyone. He courted the most searching investigation of his life, even calling upon the Lord Himself to bear witness.

3. The Vote of Confidence by the People. (vv. 4, 5). It was Samuel's right as he laid down the reins of government to have his record vindicated and to have his integrity established beyond a doubt so that no evil-minded man could ever be able to cast reproach upon him.

II. Samuel Reviews God's Dealings from the Time of Birth (v. 6-15).

He reasoned with them concerning the good hand of the Lord upon them from the time of Moses. Though they with ingratitude turned from the Lord and demanded a king like the other nations, he had acceded to their request and set a king over them.

1. National Prosperity Conditioned by Obedience. (v. 14). Though they had displeased God in choosing a king, if they would fear the Lord and render obedience, national prosperity would still be given. The nation which will not walk in God's way cannot expect God's blessing.

2. Disobedience to God Meant the Nation's Ruin (v. 15). It is folly to ask God's blessing upon a nation while it is living in rebellion against Him. True statehood is to find out God's will concerning the nation and so direct it that in all its laws and customs there may be harmony with that will.

III. Samuel's Own Vindication. (vv. 16-19).

This was such a critical hour in the history of the nation that Samuel sought to indelibly impress this moment on their hearts. This he did by means of the thunder and rain out of season. Harvest time was not the season for thunder and rain so when it came at the call of Samuel, the people were frightened. The sign had its designed effect. The people confessed their sin of asking for a king and besought Samuel to pray for them.

IV. Samuel's Gracious Response. (vv. 20-25).

1. "Fear Not—Serve the Lord With All Your Heart." (v. 20-22). Samuel did not minimize their sin but assured them if they would serve the Lord wholeheartedly, He would not forsake them.

2. "God Forbid That I Should Sin Against the Lord in Ceasing to Pray for You." (v. 23). Though the people had rejected Samuel, yet he had such magnanimity of soul that he had not allowed their ingratitude to keep him from interceding for them. Such failure on his part he regarded as sin.

Paganism.

To worry about carnal things is pure paganism. He who has done such grand things for the soul will not starve the body.—W. L. Watkinson.

Letting Go.

Shall I hold on with both hands to every paltry possession? All I have teaches me to trust the Creator for all I have not seen.—Emerson.

Illiteracy

"Illiteracy must be banished from the land if we shall attain that high destiny as the foremost of enlightened nations of the world, which, under God's Providence we ought to achieve."
—Wm. McKinley.

OUR first known public school was in Massachusetts in the year 1635. It is recorded, the people of Boston in town meeting appointed Philomen Purport to be school master, voting him thirty acres of land in part payment for his services.

In 1647 a law was passed by the State of Massachusetts requiring every town of fifty householders to support a master to teach reading and writing, and every town of 100 householders to maintain a grammar school, the wages of the school masters to be paid by the parents of the children who attended. From his has developed our system of free public schools, based on the theory that education is a public responsibility and for the welfare of the State must be provided by the State. During the period of nearly three centuries that has elapsed since the first puritan essay, the system has developed until it is rightly considered the corner-stone of our national structure. We have spent and must continue to expend vast sums in the development and maintenance of the institution, but despite this we have a percentage of illiteracy that is too large for safety or comfort. Much of this is due to our large alien population originating in southern Europe, but aside from this we have a large number of native-born who from various causes cannot read or write; we also have a number of native-born who have a smattering of the rudiments but through lack of facilities and ambition, are but in slight degree removed from the illiterate class.

Don't kick when the public schools ask for more money. They are your best insurance against the condition that exists in Russia today!

Mr. Hoover's Fourth Article

In this fourth article, which is published in this issue, Herbert Hoover says:

"It is a certainty we are confronted with a population in such numbers as can only exist by production attained to a pitch in which the slightest reduction of the impulse to produce will at once create misery and want. If we throttle the fundamental impulses of man our production will decay. The world in this hour is witnessing the most overwhelming tragedy of ten centuries in the heart-breaking life-and-death struggle with starvation by a nation with a hundred and fifty millions of people. In Russia under the new tyranny a group, in pursuit of social theories, have destroyed the primary self-interest impulse of the individual to production." The full text of Mr. Hoover's fourth article will be found on page 4.

The First Bluebird

Jest rain and snow and rain again! And dribbled dripl and blow!

Then snow! and thaw and slush! and then—

Some more rain and snow!

This morning I was 'most afraid

To wake up—when, I jing!

I seen the sun shine out and heard

The first blue bird of spring!

Mother she'd raised the window some—

And in across the orchard come,

Soft as an angel's wing,

A breezy, treesy, beesy hum,

Too sweet for anything!

The winter's shroud was rent—

The sun burst forth in glee,

And when that bluebird sung, my heart

PATENTED PAVING IS NOT UNDER BAN

But Fair Competition Will Be Insisted Upon, County Engineers Are Told.

NO SPECIFIC RULES GIVEN

General Scott Asks Commission's Guests for Their Best Co-operation—Employment of Convicts in Modern Shops Praised.

Trenton.—Co-operation in solving New Jersey's road problem was the keynote of a dinner meeting of the State Highway Commission and the New Jersey Association of County Engineers at the Stacy-Trent. The engineers were the guests of the commission and the dinner was followed by an informal discussion of road questions, the underlying purpose of which was to bring about a closer understanding between the commission and the engineers.

General Hugh L. Scott, chairman of the commission, was the toastmaster, and every engineer present was called upon for an expression of views. General Scott stated that there seemed to have been a misunderstanding as to the attitude of the commission toward patent paving. The was due to lack of clearness in the first announcement made of the commission's policy, which was subsequently corrected, although the correction apparently had not reached all the engineers, he said.

"The commission is not opposed," said General Scott, "to the use of patented materials. The only question is to get proper competition. The desire of the commission is to use the material which is necessary and useful for the purpose at the lowest possible cost and to save as much money for the state and the counties as we can."

Anxious to Begin Work

The commission is anxious to see work under way, General Scott said, and he asked the engineers to co-operate. He requested specifically an early statement as to the motor vehicle aid sought by the various counties next year. He also announced that the policy of the commission will be to insist upon completion of contracts on or before the date set in the contract. He pointed out that delay in completing contracts, besides the public inconvenience caused, adds materially to the cost of the maintenance of proper detours.

Commissioner Percy H. Stewart outlined plans of the commission for an advisory board to aid in working out a solution of the traffic problem incident to the completion of the Hudson river tunnel.

Tunnel Approaches Big Problem

Commissioner Walter Kiddle predicted that completion of the tunnel would place its approach among the greatest highways in the country, adding that the members of the commission had dedicated themselves to a solution of this problem. Next to the Hudson tunnel, he suggested the importance of proper approaches to the Delaware river bridge at Camden and a solution of the shore traffic problem.

Mr. Kiddle said the present commission had found the engineering work and all records of the highway department left by former State Highway Engineer Thomas J. Wasser in splendid shape.

Major William G. Sloane, state highway engineer, said the state organization would be at the service of the county engineers whenever called upon.

The value of good roads was emphasized by Commissioner Abraham Jellin, who said analysis would show there is no actual cost in good roads, the only question being one of finance. He argued that the returns from improved highways, including all factors, far exceed the cost of construction and maintenance.

Growth of Road Problems

Mr. Wasser gave reminiscences of his experience in road work dating back to the time when he was associated with the late Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, then state road commissioner. The problems of those days, he said, looked big, but as compared with those of today they seem like nothing.

Mr. Wasser said New Jersey has an average of two and a half miles of road per square mile as against an average of .89 of a mile for the country. New Jersey's problem, he said, is three times as big as that of the average state.

Mr. Wasser said that the engineers of the counties should unite in working out a comprehensive system of roads, coordinating the routes and trying them up with the state highway system. Such a program, he suggested, should cover a period of three years, the life of the commission.

Tells of Essex and Hudson Needs

County Engineer Stokkel of Essex declared that Essex and Hudson are the backbone of the highway system, contributing about 50 per cent of the funds. These counties need state aid and need it badly in solving the problem of traffic to and from the Hudson tunnel, he added. He endorsed Mr. Wasser's plan of fitting in feeders of the highway system, and said Essex is going a step further, having organized a co-operative movement among the engineers of seven counties municipalities in that county to link up county roads.

John Albertson of Camden, dean of county engineers, said the problem of handling traffic from the Camden bridge is as important to South Jersey as the Hudson tunnel is to the north and south section of the state. The bridge in Camden, he said, ends almost nowhere and some adequate approach must be provided. Mr. Albertson was inclined to think the contract or agreement, which the State Highway Department has asked counties receiving state aid to sign, is too arbitrary in some respects, a view which was shared by some of the other speakers.

County Engineer Roscoe McClave of Bergen, president of the association, told what had been accomplished by the engineers in bringing about uniform specifications and also uniform highway signs.

Frank J. Radigan of Hudson urged the importance of prompt payment of contractors when their money is due. Delay in this respect, he said, is a great injustice and frequently a source of serious embarrassment.

Other speakers were County Engineers Nelson of Atlantic, Smith of Burlington, Cattell of Gloucester, Davis of Hunterdon, Harris of Mercer, Allen of Monmouth, Abbott of Ocean, Ferguson of Passaic, Sparks of Salem, VanEmburg of Somerset, Bauer of Union, George D. Cooper, formerly county engineer of Monmouth and Freeholder Woolston of Somerset.

Fund for Harrison Highway

Mr. Wasser appeared before the commission meeting requesting $15,000 of motor vehicle aid for Harrison avenue. Harrison, which, he said, had carried most of the traffic while the temporary Hackensack bridge was being constructed. Improvement of the avenue will cost $110,000, of which the Public Service Railway Company will pay $50,000. Mr. Wasser thought Hudson's burden of $80,000 should be lessened by the amount asked for.

Mr. Sloane submitted a report of an inspection he had made with Assistant Engineer Edward E. Reed of about seven-tenths of a mile of concrete road built at Newton by the Public Service Production Company. He said the job was rough, but substantial. There were, however, a number of defects, due mainly to improper placing of expansion joints, some of which were at an angle of 45 degrees. As a result the concrete has chipped off at a number of places. Otherwise Mr. Sloane regarded the road as serviceable. As the company seemed willing to remedy the defects, Mr. Sloane said he had asked the engineer to submit plans for bringing it up to the required standard.

The commission decided to call upon the Civil Service Commission for a readjustment of the examinations relating to inspectors, and, if possible, a conference will be arranged for Tuesday. It was pointed out that the qualifications required of inspectors are theoretically as rigorous as those which would qualify a candidate for a position as engineer, though it has been admitted that the examinations were forced to modify the requirements to obtain an adequate supply of inspectors. Members of the commission were agreed that a competent inspection force is one of the most important matters in road work.

Laude Prison Work Plan

President Ellis P. Earle, Montclair, of the State Board of Institutions and Agencies, has forwarded to Governor Silzer a four-year summary of reports for the year ending June 30, 1922.

"During its first year this department developed a complete program for employing all prisoners at diversified occupations," said the president. Only the lack of appropriations has stood in the way of the complete carrying out of this program. The legislature has supported us in every other department. It has failed to appropriate sufficient funds alone in this particular field."

The report praises the efficiency of the architecture, engineering and construction bureau and comments upon balances returned to the state treasury in construction work.

Discussing the state use industries, the report said:

"Lack of funds has been the greatest handicap, though traditional notions have run it a close second. The old contract industries at the Trenton State Prison had employed convicts without reference to their training or future industrial outlook. Many of the industries were of an inferior character without any training content whatever and were provided with antiquated equipment. The working conditions were disgraceful and discipline was always bad. Under state use, diversified industries which benefit both the state and the prisoners who are trained in the operation of modern manufacture and in trades suited to their physical and mental capabilities have been introduced."

In dealing with the work of the division of architecture and construction, Commissioner Lewis said: "The department feels that it has a right to be proud of its ability to build beyond the legislative program and to return to the treasury at the end of this year $35,000 of funds appropriated for public buildings."

High Point Park Opening

High Point Park, the former estate of Col. Anthony R. Kuser, in Sussex county, will be formally opened as a state park on May 23. Governor Silzer, Governor Smith of New York, United States Senators Johnson of California and Copeland of New York and some 200 other men prominent in state and national affairs have received invitations.

Former Governor John W. Griggs will make an address, after which the park will be dedicated to the people. The 33-room mansion in the park, the former Kuser home, will be converted into rest rooms, restaurants and a recreation center for visitors.

Beginning of English Literature.

English literature may be said to have begun with Chaucer, about the middle of the Fourteenth century. There were works written earlier than that, but they are in a language so different from modern English that they cannot be read without a glossary.

RADIO*INTERFERENCE OF RECEIVING SETS

Each, When Tuning for Distant
Station, Acts as a Continuous Wave Transmitter.

We have explained that the continuous, fairly steady whistles, usually heard while tuning for the distant stations, was due to a combination of the carrier waves of two stations which were very nearly on the same wave length. There is another series of whistles always present which very much resemble the whine of a mosquito both in tone and amount of annoyance produced. These are caused by the receiving sets of other listeners. Every receiver using a vacuum tube detector with a regenerative circuit is a potential transmitter. In fact it contains all the essentials of a radio transmitter on a small scale.

The detector tube when oscillating produces oscillation exactly similar to the carrier wave of the radiophone stations. The frequency or wave length of this wave can be varied by changing the tuning of the receiving tuner.

The usual procedure in tuning for a distant phone station is as follows: Put the detector tube in an oscillating condition after the tuner has been adjusted near the point where experience has taught us to look for the broadcasting stations, then move the dial slowly across the approximate point where the stations are usually heard. The carrier waves are located by a whistle which starts at the upper limit of audibility and goes down the scale until it becomes so low that it is no longer a note. At this point the set is in exact resonance, and if the tickler, coupling, or plate tuning inductance is decreased until the detector tube stops oscillating, the very best adjustment is obtained for reception of that particular station.

Unfortunately while this listener is going through this operation his receiving set is acting as a continuous wave transmitter, and is producing some inharmonious whistles in the phones of his neighbors who happen to be already on the wave of the same station. The continuous wave sent out by the receiver combines with the carrier wave of the transmitting station, producing an audible note. If the operator could tune his set as simply as was described above there would be very little interference, but he usually whistles back and forth across the wave of the transmitting station several times. Often several listeners who have been getting the concert perfectly will get restless between selections and get their tubes to oscillating and whistle up and down a few times.

All listeners should be very careful to keep their detectors in a non-oscillating condition as much as possible to reduce this annoyance of interference between receivers.

Opinions seem to vary considerably in regard to the comparative amounts of energy inducted into the antenna by the "single circuit" or conductively coupled, and the "three circuit" or inductively coupled receiving set.

Previous to the introduction of the single circuit very little trouble had been experienced with beat notes from receiving stations. This was no doubt due to the fact that receiving sets were rather few and far between; also up until a few years ago there was a very small percentage of c. w. telegraph and phone stations so that there was no reason why an amateur should keep his tube in oscillation condition. On the contrary, he was very careful to keep it just below the oscillating point, that being the most sensitive adjustment for spark signals.

With the telephone and c. w. telegraph transmitting stations, i. e., tube transmitters, came the single circuit tuner with its extreme simplicity of adjustment, which was so well adapted to the very sharp tuning of the new transmitters. And with the advent of these new transmitters came the necessity for making the detector tube oscillate in order to locate a station on the scale of a peevish tuner. Naturally then the interference between receiving sets became noticeable at about the time that the single circuit sets became numerous, and this helped to prejudice the minds of the radio public against this type of receiver. However, the fact that the single circuit arrived at about the same time with the interference was by no means the only reason for believing this tuner to be the main cause of the trouble.

For instance in constructing a single circuit or conductively coupled tuner the difficulty is in obtaining regeneration at all points on the scale. This seems to show that there is more resistance in this circuit than in the inductively coupled type. The main point of difference is the close coupling to the antenna. Being conductively coupled, the coupling to the antenna circuit is at maximum at all times. This causes the radiation resistance to be high, which seems to be the factor that keeps the tube from oscillating freely without unusually close coupling between plate and grid circuits. Thus we are led to believe that this circuit is one to avoid if interference with other listeners is to be reduced.

If we must have single circuit tuners the thing to do to reduce the radiation to a minimum is to reduce the size of the antenna series condenser and increase the number of turns in the inductance. This will give sharper tuning and there will be much less trouble in getting the tube to regenerate.

In many localities there is a great deal of interference from spark stations; especially in the cities on the coast or Great Lakes, where there are commercial stations to handle the ship traffic. These spark stations do not tune very sharply, and even if the station is located several miles away it is often impossible to tune them out with the average tuner.

When tuning for a faint station and using amplification there is nothing more nerve-racking than to have a spark station "pop" in unexpectedly. There is little that can be done about this interference. If the station is close a change of wave length would do little good even if this were possible. If it is a commercial station it is doing a much more important work than our broadcasters are, and of course cannot be expected to stand by for them.

SCOUTS

Winter camping is a glorious thing! Boy scouts, always on congenial terms with the weather man, are hiking, in increasing numbers, to winter weekend camp sites to enjoy the adventure and thrill of life in the open. Skating, snowshoeing, skiing, tobogganing, fishing through a hole in the ice—these are part of the fun that the sturdy scout gets from the experience. Scout fathers are joining in. More than one week-end camp has welcomed scout "dads" who through scouting activities are enjoying splendid comradeship with their sons.

Three big things in any winter scout camp are: freedom, food, and fun; freedom, under good leadership, for a boy to discover his own talents; food, and plenty of it; and fun with the boys' own trademark on it. These result in Americanism, appetite, and adventure—three big factors in the scout's mental, physical and moral preparation for the future citizenship.

The winter camp offers more adventure than the summer camp. It is more strenuous and more thrilling. Breaking ice in the morning to get water, pulling supplies on sleds over the snows, building radio communication in the forest so that the folks at home can hear often of camp doings, piling wood around a gorgeous camp fire—are duties for real, red-blooded scouts.

Each new snowfall presents a clear page on which stories of the open are written for scouts who know tracking and trailing. They may follow the trail of the fox, pursue the rabbit, learn the way to the home of the muskrat or beaver, and even discover how the field mice, pheasants, quail and game make their living during the winter months.

For winter camping the boy must practice the scout motto—"Be Prepared." He must have heavier shoes, well oiled; extra thick socks, wool shirt or sweater, stocking cap, and extra five pounds of wool blankets more than he requires in summer time. Pilgrimages in honor of famous men of scout deeds and character have their place in the winter camp life. The boys of Denver visit the grave of Buffalo Bill on the mountains near Denver. Scouts of the Middle West go to Lincoln's boyhood homes in Kentucky, southern Indiana and Illinois. Chicago scouts visit the site of old Fort Dearborn. Philadelphia members spend Washington's birthday at Valley Forge, and New York lads journey to the tomb of Theodore Roosevelt.

Old Superstition.

The origin of the superstition that green is unlucky lies in the fact that green is the color of the forest, which in primitive days was full of wild beasts. People naturally looked upon the forest as being unlucky.

American Individualism

A Timely Message to the American People

By HERBERT HOOVER
Secretary of Commerce.

IV.—Economic Phases.
THAT high and increasing standards of living and comfort should be the first of considerations in public mind and in government needs no apology. We have long since realized that the basis of an advancing civilization must be a high and growing standard of living for all the people, not for a single class; that education, food, clothing, housing, and the spreading use of what we so often term nonessentials, are the real fertilizers of the soil from which spring the finer flowers of life. The economic development of the past fifty years has lifted the general standard of comfort far beyond the dream of a few generations ago. The only road to further advance in the standard of living is by greater invention, greater production and better distribution of commodities and services, for by increasing their ratio to our numbers and dividing them justly we each will have more of them.

The superlative value of individualism thence its impulse to production, its stimulation to invention, has, so far as I know, never been denied. Criticism of it has lain in its wastes but more importantly in its failures of equitable sharing of the product. In our country these contentions are mainly over the division to each of his share of the comforts and luxuries, for none of us is either hungry or cold or without a place to lay his head—and we have much besides. In less than four decades we have added electric lights, plumbing, telephones, gramophones, automobiles, and what not in wide diffusion to our standards of living. Each in turn began as a luxury, each in turn has become so common a place that seventy or eighty per cent of our people participate in them.

To all practical souls there is little use in quarrelling over the share of each of us until we have something to divide. So long as we maintain our individualism we will have increasing quantities to share and we shall have time and leisure and taxes which will fight out proper sharing of the "surplus." The income tax returns show that this surplus is a minor part of our total production after taxes are paid. Some of this "surplus" must be set aside for rewards to saving, or stimulation of proper effort to skill, or leadership and invention; therefore the dispute is in reality over much less than the total of such "surplus." While there should be no minimizing of a certain fringe of injustices in sharing the results of production or in the wasteful use made by some of their share, yet there is vastly wider field for gains to all of us through cheapening the costs of production and distribution through the eliminating of their wastes, from increasing the volume of product by each and every one doing his utmost, than will ever come to us even if we can think out a method of abstract justice in sharing which did not stifle production of the total product.

It is a certain we are contented with a population in such numbers as we can only exist by production attuned to a pitch in which the slightest reduction of the impulse to produce will at once create misery and want. If we throttle the fundamental impulses of man our production will decay. The world in this hour is witnessing the most overwhelming tragedy of centuries in the heart-breaking life-and-death struggle with starvation by a nation with a hundred and fifty millions of people. In Russia under the new tyranny a group, in pursuit of social theories, have destroyed the primary self-interest impulse of the individual to production.

Although socialism in a nation-wide application has now proved itself with rivers of blood and inconceivable misery to be an economic and spiritual fallacy and has wrecked itself finally upon the rocks of destroyed production and moral degeneracy, I believe it to have been necessary for the world to have had this demonstration. Great theoretic and emotional ideas have arisen before in the world's history and have in more than mere material bankruptcy deluged the world with fearful losses of life. A purely philosophical view might be that in the long run humanity has to try every way, even preposterous, in finding the road to betterment.

But those are utterly wrong who say that individualism has as its only end the acquisition and preservation of private property—the selfish snatching and hoarding of the common product. Our American individualism, indeed, is only in part an economic creed. It aims to provide opportunity for self-expression, not merely economic, but spiritually as well. Private property is not a fetish in America. The crushing of the liquor trade without a cent of compensation, with scarcely even a discussion of it, does not bear out the notion that we give property rights any headway over human rights. Our development of individualism shows an increasing tendency to regard right of property not as an object in itself, but in the light of a useful and necessary instrument in stimulation of initiative to the individual; not only stimulation to him that he may gain personal comfort, security in life, protection to his family, but also because individual accumulation and ownership is a basis of selection to leadership in administration of the tools of industry and commerce. It is where dominant private property is assembled in the hands of the groups who control the state that the individual begins to feel capital as an oppressor. Our American demand for equality of opportunity is a constant militant check upon capital becoming a thing to be feared. Out of fear we sometimes even go too far and stifle the reproductive use of capital by crushing the initiative that makes for its creation.

Some discussion of the legal limitations we have placed upon economic domination is given later on, but it is desirable to mention here certain potent forces in our economic life that are themselves providing their own correction to domination.

The domination by arbitrary individual ownership is disappearing because the works of today are steadily growing more and more beyond the resources of any one individual, and steadily taxation will reduce relatively excessive individual accumulations. The number of persons in partnership through division of ownership among many stockholders is steadily increasing—thus 100,000 to 200,000 partners in a single concern are not uncommon. The overwhelmingly largest portion of our mobile capital is that of our banks, insurance companies, building and loan associations, and the vast majority of all this is the aggregated small savings of our people. Thus large capital is steadily becoming more and more a mobilization of the savings of the small holders—the actual people themselves—and its administration becomes at once more sensitive to the moral opinions of the people in order to attract their support. The directors and managers of large concerns, themselves employees of these great groups of individual stockholders, or policyholders, reflect a spirit of community responsibility.

Large masses of capital can only find their market for service or production to great numbers of the same kind of people that they employ and they must, therefore, maintain confidence in their public responsibilities in order to retain their customers. In times when the products of manufacture were mostly luxuries to the average of the people, the condition of their employees was of no such interest to their customers as when they cater to employees in general. Of this latter, no greater proofs need exist than the efforts of many large concerns directly dependent upon public good will to restrain prices in scarcity—and the very general desire to yield a measure of service with the goods sold. Another phase of this same development in administration of capital is the growth of a sort of institutional sense in many large business enterprises. The encouragement of solidarity in all grades of their employees in the common service and common success, the sense of mutuality with the prosperity of the community are both vital developments in individualism.

There has been in the last thirty years an extraordinary growth of organizations for advancement of ideas in the community for mutual co-operation and economic objectives—the chambers of commerce, trade associations, labor unions, bankers, farmers, propaganda associations, and what not. These are indeed variable mixtures of altruism and self-interest. Nevertheless in these groups the individual finds an opportunity for self-expression and participation in the molding of ideas, a field for training and the stepping stones for leadership.

The number of leaders in local and national life whose opportunity to service and leadership came through these associations has become now of more importance than those through the direct lines of political and religious organization.

At times these groups come into sharp conflict and often enough charge each other with crimes against public interest. They do contain faults; if they develop into warring interests, if they dominate legislators and intimidate public officials, if they are to be a new setting of tyranny, then they will destroy the foundation of individualism. Our government will then drift into the hands of timorous mediocrities dominated by groups until we shall become a syndicalist nation on a gigantic scale. On the other hand, each group is a realization of greater mutuality of interest, each contains some element of public service and each is a school of public responsibility.

In the main, the same forces that permeate the nation at large eventually permeate these groups. The sense of service, a growing sense of responsibility, and the sense of constructive opposition to domination, constantly recall in them their responsibilities as well as their privileges. In the end, no group can dominate the nation and a few successes in imposing the will of any group is its sure death warrant.

Today business organization is moving strongly toward co-operation. There are in the co-operative great hopes that we can even gain in individuality, equality of opportunity, and an enlarged field for initiative, and at the same time reduce many of the great wastes of over-reckless competition in production and distribution. Those who either congratulate themselves or those who fear that co-operation is an advance toward socialism need neither rejoice or worry. Co-operation in its current economic sense represents the initiative of self-interest blended with a sense of service, for nobody belongs to a co-operative who is not striving to sell his products or services for more or striving to buy from others for less or striving to make his income more secure. Their members are furnishing the capital for extension of their activities, just as effectively as if they did it in corporate form and they are simply transferring the profit principle to the nation at large without return. Their only success lies where they eliminate waste either in production or distribution—and they can do neither if they destroy individual initiative. Indeed this phase of development of our individualism promises to become the dominant note of its Twentieth century expansion. But it will thrive only in so far as it can construct leadership and a sense of service, and so long as it preserves the initiative and safeguards the individuality of its members.

The economic system which is the result of our individualism is not a frozen organism. It moves rapidly in its form of organization under the impulse of initiative of our citizens, of growing science, of larger production, and of constantly cheapening distribution.

A great test of the soundness of a social system must be its ability to evolve within itself those orderly shifts in its administration that enable it to apply new tools of social, economic, and intellectual progress, and to eliminate the malign forces that may grow in the application of these tools. When we were almost wholly an agricultural people our form of organization and administration, both in the governmental and economic fields, could be simple. With the enormous shift in growth of industry and commerce we have erected organisms that each generation has denounced as Frankenstein's, yet the succeeding generation proves them to be controllable and useful. The growth of corporate organizations, of our banking systems, of our railways, of our electrical power, of our farm co-operatives, of our trade unions, of our trade associations, and of a hundred others indeed develops both beneficent and malign forces. The timid become frightened. But our basic social ideas march through the new things in the end. Our demagogues, of both radical and standpat breed, thrive on demands for the destruction of one or another of these organizations as the only solution for their defects, yet progress requires only a guardianship of the vital principles of our individualism with its safeguard of true equality of opportunity in them.

ONE-TIME MAGNIFICENT CITY

Palmyra Began to Sink into Decay in Fifteenth Century, Under Rule of Turks.

In ancient times, from about the year 100 A. D. to the Fourteenth century, more especially in the second and third centuries, Palmyra was a wealthy and magnificent city of northern Syria, standing in an oasis on the northern edge of the Arabian desert, about 150 miles northeast of Damascus. Its Semitic name was Tadmor, and Palmyra (city of palms), is the Greek equivalent. According to the old tradition, it was founded by King Solomon. It became the commercial center of northern Arabia. During the long protracted wars between Rome and Parthia, Palmyra acknowledged the supremacy of Rome, and secured great commercial advantages. From the Emperor's Hadrian and Septimus Severus it received special favors and privileges.

One of Palmyra's rulers, Odaenathus, extended his power over most of the adjoining countries from Egypt to Asia Minor. Then came the fatal war with Rome. Odaenathus was murdered and his famous queen, Zenobia, took up the reins of power. In the year 272 she was crushed by the Romans and carried captive to Rome. The Emperor Aurelian presented her with large possessions and Tiven where she passed the rest of her life in comfort and even splendor.

After the Roman empire became Christian, Palmyra was made a bishopric. When the Moslems conquered Syria, Palmyra also submitted to them. From the Fifteenth century it began to sink into decay with the rest of the East that had fallen into the hands of the Moslems, or, in this case, Turks.

Magnificent remains of the ancient city still exist, chief among them being the great temple of the Sun or Baal. An old and high authority on this once famous city bears the title, "Ruins of Palmyra," by Wood and Dawkins, published in London in 1758.

Essay's Prime Requisite.
Of all forms of literature the essay is the one which least calls for the use of long words. . . . It should give pleasure; the desire which impels us when we take it from the shelf is simply to receive pleasure. Everything in an essay must be subdued to that end. It should lay us under a spell with its first word, and we should only wake, refreshed, with its last. In the interest we may pass through the most varied experiences of amusement, surprise, interest, indignation; we may soar to the heights of fantasy with Lamb or plunge to the depths of wisdom with Bacon, but we must never be roused. The essay must lap us about and draw its curtains across the world.—Times Literary Supplement.

Interesting Experiment.
An attractive line of experiments is carried out by floating bicycle balls in mercury and bringing a strong magnet near them. They arrange themselves symmetrically under the influence of the stresses and assume very curious positions, varying with their number and the intensity of magnetization. It is a variation of an old experiment known as Mayer's needles, in which needles are floated in water by bits of cork and are subjected at the same time to the influence of a magnet.—Washington Star.

EXPLOSIONS CAUSED BY DUST

Investigation Has Proved That Grain Is by No Means the Only Destructive Agent.

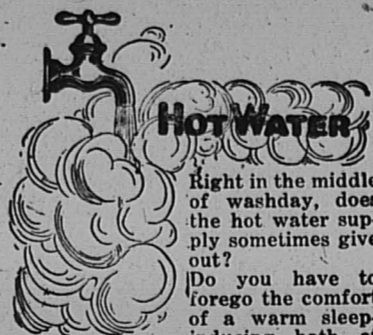

When the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture started investigations with the object of reducing fires and explosions caused by dust in the grain elevators and mills it was not long before the experts realized these fires and explosions were by no means confined to the grain business. These dust-explosion investigations are having a wide influence, which has extended to many industries. Aluminum dust, starch and even fish meal, a by-product of fish canneries, have all been found susceptible to the conditions which produce disastrous explosions.

The latest development goes to prove that the mysterious "blow sacks" so well known to firemen are in some cases caused by dust. With the knowledge of this fact as a guide many fatal accidents may be avoided. The firemen of America find the matter of sufficient importance to warrant their co-operation with the department of agriculture in a study of preventive methods.

The subject was taken up by the National Firemen's association at their twenty-second annual convention at Peoria, Ill. Engineers engaged in the dust-explosion investigations represented the department of agriculture at the meeting.

Angient Form of Printing.
Xylography was invented by the ancient Chinese, who carved the letters of the Chinese alphabet on blocks of wood, and thus introduced a form of printing. It came to Europe during the first quarter of the fifteenth century, and in the intervening centuries had reached a very high plane of skill.

Poultry House 22 by 60, Which Will Hold 350 Fowls—It Was Built by Mrs. Kruse of Clinton County, Iowa, the Receipts From Her Flock Paying for It in One Year—Below Is Shown a House 22 by 24.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The results obtained by Mrs. F. L. Kruse of Clinton county, Iowa, through poultry culling under the direction of the county extension agent should be an encouragement to anyone who may have hesitated to cull the home flock to get rid of "boarder" hens.

In July, 1921, when Mrs. Kruse had 210 hens, she cullled in the extension agent and with her assistance took out 80 "boarders," which were sold while the price was good. A number of neighbors attended the culling demonstration. The egg production was not cut down after the culling. The

C., although they seem to have been little used in Egypt.

HOT BROWN STEW FOR SCHOOL LUNCH

Appetizing Dish for School Lunch.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
An appetizing hot dish that can be served in the classroom for lunch at school is a simple brown stew made of meat and vegetables. The cheaper and less tender cuts of beef can be used, such as the rump and the round. The United States Department of Agriculture gives these directions for making the stew:

Remove the meat from the bone and cut it into small pieces. Dredge with flour and cook in a small amount of fat until it is well browned. Add hot water, about one quart to every pound of meat; season with salt, pepper and onion juice; and cook slowly for an hour. The meat should be very tender and the gravy thick. Potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, or other vegetables may be added while the stew is cooking.

BUYING KITCHEN STOVE OR RANGE

Convenient Position Should Be Decided Upon Before Any Selection Is Made.

ALLOW FOR OPENING OF OVEN

Hot-Water Boiler Should Never Be Placed Below Level of Firebox—Floor Should Be Covered With Fireproof Material.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Before choosing a stove or range its proper position in the kitchen should be determined. For the comfort and convenience of the workers the stove is generally placed somewhat apart from the other equipment. Allowance

Kitchen Range Conveniently Located.

Room for Water Boiler.
Room must be allowed for the hot-water boiler, if there is one. It need not, however, be placed at the side of the range, but may be suspended from the ceiling, though the horizontal boiler is not so effective as the vertical type.

It must, however, never be placed below the level of the range, as the water will not circulate and heat satisfactorily under this condition. Since a boiler gives off considerable heat, it may be economical sometimes to put it a little distance from the stove and where this heat may be utilized, as for example, in the bathroom, say household specialists of United States Department of Agriculture.

The floor under the stove or range should be made of or covered with some fireproof material. A built-in base of cement or brick is best, but when this is impossible some one of the composition materials, made of a mixture of cement and asbestos, which can be bought by the square foot, will do very well as a protection for the floor and also for the walls back of the stove. Sheets of metal placed directly over wooden walls near the fire box of a stove are not sufficient protection. Some architects recommend a layer of plaster, preferably on metal lath, and separated from the wooden wall by metal furring. As an added precaution, sheet metal should be blocked away from the plaster with metal pieces.

Fuel Is Big Factor.

The kind of cook stove chosen will be determined largely by the available fuel supply, and its size by the amount of work to be done with it. It should be of reliable make, not only to insure good construction but also to make sure that parts can be easily renewed as needed. A larger range than is needed for cooking is often selected in many homes where the kitchen fire is used for cooking and also for heating in cold weather. It would be wiser in many cases to use a liquid fuel stove in winter for cooking purposes or else to have a small range for cooking and additional heater for warming the kitchen in winter, thus saving fuel and avoiding the overheating of the house in summer.

Best Position for Sleeping.
The best way to lie when sleeping is on the right side.

TICKLED AUNT'S FUNNY BONE

But Maud's Naive Statement Would Have Aroused Almost Any One's Sense of Humor.

Some of the world's tragedies may be traced to the rashness of the man who removes facial adornments. After parting with his beard, Sheers called upon his aunt. The maid did not recognize him, and, plainly doubting his word when he told her he was her nephew, she gave her a card. The aunt received him with more humor than the death of the beard seemed to justify.

"You're quite sure you know me?" Sheers said. "Mary didn't."
"No," replied the aunt, mirthfully. "She said there was a strange man who looked like a gentleman—but who had one of your cards."

PLOWED WAY THROUGH TOWN

Devastating Rock an Unwelcome Christmas Eve Visitor to Small French Village of Duranus.

Villagers were startled in the little village of Duranus, near Cote d'Azur, France, as they were telling their children of the coming of St. Claude on Christmas eve when a terrific rumbling and crashing coming nearer and nearer down the mountainside was heard. "It's St. Claude," the children cried. Many rushed out from a little school house where services were being held. A huge ten-ton rock came plunging down the hillside, crushing everything in its path. Like a juggernaut, it plowed through the tiny town, rolling at a hundred miles an hour. One or two flimsy cottages went down like tenpins in its path. By what the villagers declare a miracle, no one was injured. The great rock finally stopped in the dining room of a more substantial dwelling, while the sole occupant of the house slept, unaware of his narrow escape.

Doing Away With Ugliness.
Louisvillians seeking an outlet for their civic aspirations might take a hint from the Citizens Anti-Ugly Protective Association formed in Kansas City for cleaning-up and beautifying the town. Seven prominent citizens financed the organization, which aims to rid the city of defacements on sidewalks, highways, alleys and buildings. Tattered placards and out-of-date advertisements already have been removed from walls through the efforts of the new organization. Joseph Melnrath, a retired business man, started the movement by spending money for paid newspaper advertisements, enlisting through this method six other persons of means. The organization then was incorporated. Louisville Courier-Journal.

MANY ASK ABOUT NEW FORD PURCHASE PLAN

"I have received many inquiries asking if the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan included only passenger cars," Fred W. Seeger, manager of the local Ford Agency, said today.

"In reply to these I wish to say that the Ford Motor Company has arranged it so that the Plan includes also the purchase of Ford Trucks and Fordson Tractors.

"Many a business man operating a small establishment has seen the need of a truck for speeding up his hauling and delivery services and to meet modern requirements, but has refrained from making the purchase because of the outlay necessary to be taken from his business at the start. He may now purchase a Truck on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan by setting aside each week a small amount toward the Truck.

"Within a short time he will have the Truck and with the service it will render he will be better able to build up and expand his business, with profits increasing accordingly.

"And the same thing applies to the farmer who is desirous of motor transportation for his products to the city and who wished to put his farm on a better paying basis by the use of the Fordson Tractor.

"Under the Ford Weekly Payment Plan he can attain both these desires within a surprisingly short period of time and in so doing place his farm on an efficient operating system which will not only enable him to produce his crops more economically, but which will permit him to deliver them to the markets more quickly and at less cost.

"The Ford Weekly Purchase Plan takes in all Ford products, Cars, Trucks and Tractors and makes the way for the ownership of any of these necessities easier than ever before."

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Annual Banquet of Palmyra Artisans On May 10th

The first annual banquet of Palmyra Artisans, No. 65, A. O. M. E., will be held in P. O. S. of A. Hall, Palmyra, on Thursday evening, May 10, at 7 o'clock.

The committee in charge of this banquet consists of J. Horace Finney, chairman, DeWitt Morris, W. H. Randel and Howard Vile.

Elaborate plans have been perfected to make this one of the most successful events ever held by the Artisans. Dr. W. E. P. Haas, of the Wharfed Memorial Church, West Philadelphia, has been secured as the speaker for the evening. Dr. Haas is a very well known in this section and his messages of truth and wisdom are delivered in a most unique and convincing manner.

The banquet will be served by a well-known caterer of Philadelphia, and the entertainment will be supplied by a prominent theatrical agency.

The tickets for the banquet are now being distributed by the members of the committee, and each ticket admits one member of Palmyra Artisans and one lady. The price of the tickets has been fixed at $4.00 per couple, and as the entire receipts from the sale of the tickets will be expended on the banquet and entertainment, it will be readily seen that no expense has been spared in the effort to make this a successful event.

A man is never smart when he thinks he can win without work.

AMERICAN LEGION

Legion Will Organize Citizens' Association

A meeting will be held in the Legion rooms next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of forming a Citizens' Association. Everybody interested in the movement is urged to be present.

The banquet tendered by Post Rodgers to the ladies and citizens of the community on April 25 will long be remembered in the annals of Legion circles as well as the citizens.

Capt. Clifford R. Powell, Assemblyman from Burlington county, was toastmaster. Activities of his wit and humor. The well-known Epworth quartette opened the affair with a wonderful selection. Characteristic of Mrs. Ralph Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson and Mr. Dillon, their singing went over the top.

Alan Bruce Conlin, commander of the State of New Jersey, told the folks what the American Legion stands for and what it is accomplishing. He asked the community to support the policy of the Legion and Post Rodgers in Palmyra. He commended the local Legionnaires for their interest and activities and said Palmyra Post was one of the greatest assets the State Department had.

Miss Curry, State president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion, told the ladies that she had a force of those who love and respect the ideals of the Legion and will aid to their utmost that which the Legion carries out.

Commander Edgar A. Lamon explained the purpose of the banquet and the plans laid out by the local Post.

He said the Post existed for service as an American Legion and to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States, and that without this service it had no right to exist. He enumerated the plans of service:

First—That Post Rodgers had established a clinic for the poor of the community in which Dr. Charles S. Mills, Dr. C. F. Voorhis, Dr. H. B. Brown, and Attorney F. A. Matthews, Jr., would each give one hour a week free medical, dental and legal advice to the needy. The clinic goes into effect when the Post occupies its new home.

Second—Americanization work, which consists of classes to be taught the American form of government and the English language.

He declared that as long as personnel and resources permit, these policies would carry on.

Mrs. Kreckler followed by stating that the local Auxiliary would back up the Commander in everything that is right and that the ladies are having a poppy sale on Memorial Day to raise additional funds for a convalescent home for ex-service men.

The quartette then favored with a hit that went far over the fence, after which Ralph S. Rivers, fervent friend of the Legion, and citizen, touched the keynote of the whole affair, stating the people should back the boys in their wonderful plans and that Palmyra could and would support such a worthy cause and thus keep time to their Armistice Day pledges, when they were filled with the spirit of the war.

He asked if the townspeople were going to let this thing be an utter failure or a broad success.

Mayor James T. Wear, chairman of the Citizens' Association, said the people would make this a big success and that he would get a committee busy at once. He broke the ice about the Post purchasing a new home adjacent to the Palmyra National Bank, and that the boys had sent out the S.O.S. to put the new home across.

George N. Wimer declared he felt the people would support the wonderful program and was sure the people would rally to the cause. Mr. Wimer paved the way for Horace Finney, who put the final touch to the broad success suggestion by Mr. Rivers by asking every citizen who would sacrifice and help put the thing over to please stand. Right here, friends, there were no cringing present and everyone stood at attention in favor of the required support.

The banquet was brought to a close by one of the cleverest vaudeville shows ever brought to town by the entertainment committee.

Camp 23, P. O. S. of A.

A class of six initiated Monday night closed the second Producers contest. The winners and date of banquet will be announced on the 7th. Brothers Charles Matlack and C. Kenneth Davis were high and low total scorers in the pinocchio tournament and suitable trophies will be handed them at an early date.

Delegations from nearly all the camps in the county attended the Booster meeting given by Camp 21 of Florence; about a dozen new members were secured and the boys say they are just beginning to step out. Church service on the 13th, banquet on the 14th.

Publicity Committee.

Lutheran Notes

The sermon subjects of the Rev. Harry L. Saul in the First Lutheran Church Sunday are:

Morning—"Some Subjects of Christian Prayer"; evening, "Some Day the Silver Cord will break" by Fanny Crosby. Special music.

The Lutheran Choral of Trenton, consisting of fifty voices, has been obtained to give a concert in Palmyra sometime in the near future. This will be a rare treat for this community.

The canvass for subscriptions to the church building fund is being continued until May 15.

Bernard Allen

Bernard Allen, of Third and Race streets, Palmyra, died at the New Lisbon Tuberculosis Sanitarium on Tuesday. He was 43 years old.

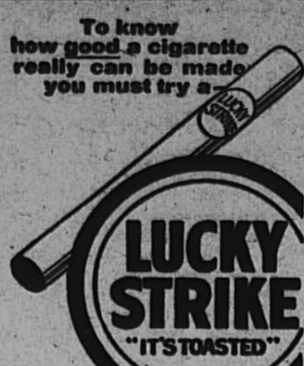

His widow, Catherine Phoebe, and four children survive.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Snover Funeral Parlor, St. John's Lodge, F.A.A.Y.M., will attend in a body. Interment will be at Wrightstown.

The age of the late Mark W. Wisham was incorrectly stated last week. He was 67 years old instead of 73.

Origin of "Parson"

The letter "p" was once pronounced like "a" (Englishman will say clerk to rhyme with dark) and parson was pronounced parson. Because he was usually the most distinguished individual in the parish the clergyman became "the parson," or as we now say, the parson.

Y. W. C. A.

Last Tuesday evening was service night at the Y. Mrs. Ussinger had provided a great quantity of material to be made into dust cloths for the Fair. This Fair will be held in June at the Cinnaminson Home.

A great deal of sewing was accomplished despite the constant flow of conversation if the chief theme of which was the Cedar Lake conference. Nine girls from our group who attended the conference enjoyed a pleasant motor ride there and back through the kindness of Mrs. Heister, Mrs. Dixon and Miss Woolman.

All who attended report a "good time" in both senses of the word. The delegation was larger than the previous year.

On the 19th of May there will be a county meeting in the form of an all-day picnic on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Alexander Wood.

All membership dues should be in prior to this date.

Let us have a large attendance at the Bible Class next Tuesday evening, May 8th, to greet Miss Arbus who will teach the lesson.

The Y. W. C. A. county drive for membership and contributions last week in Riverton, totaled 177 members, 29 contributors and $415.25 in cash. Riverton's quota for the county is $677.00. This money is used to help pay the salaries of the secretaries, care and office expenses.

Burlington now has 37 self-governing clubs in 27 different localities, under the supervision of the two county secretaries, Miss Caroline Arbus and Miss Charlotte Selton.

The club's aim is for the development of well-rounded christian womanhood.

If anyone in Riverton has not contributed or if anyone wishes to increase their subscription, we would be very glad to raise the balance of our quota at this time.

Contributions to be sent to Miss Helen Woolman, county treasurer, Mrs. Roy V. Heister, district chairman; Mrs. Murray C. Boyer, chair of advisory committee.

Palmyra Council Authorizes Purchase of New Fire Truck

An ordinance authorizing the purchase of a pump-truck for Independence Fire Company of Palmyra was unanimously passed at a special meeting of Borough Council last Tuesday evening.

The cost of the pump-truck is not to exceed $13,000, and it is to be financed by a bond issue extending over a number of years.

Mayor Wear explained that inasmuch as the town had been paying more than a thousand dollars a year for the past few years on the last fire truck purchased, which is now paid for, the purchase of the new pump-truck would not add materially to the Borough's budget.

The Fire Company plans to start immediately on extensive alterations to their home in order to accommodate the new truck. The old fire house and the building next door used to house the ambulance, are to be turned into one, with a brick front, having runways for four machines, comprising the two fire trucks, the ambulance and the police patrol. The cost is to be in the neighborhood of $7,000, which the company will defray itself.

Borough Council also passed an ordinance officially creating a Board of Health and Bureau of Vital Statistics. Council also authorized the purchase of 350 feet of Paragon 3-ply fire hose.

Mayor Wear, Councilmen Lees, Randel, Buchholz and Morton were present at the meeting. Councilmen Warner and Finney were absent.

John A. Althouse has been appointed Sanitary Inspector, succeeding Thomas R. Bromley, the original appointee of the new Council, who found he did not have time to attend to the job.

Epworth Church News

The Rev. Fred B. Morley, pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church, will give a short sermon and talk to the children at the morning service this Sunday. In the evening he will have "The Missions of the Church" for his subject.

On Tuesday evening the official board will hold its regular monthly meeting which was postponed from last week.

On Wednesday night the class training for church membership will be held at seven o'clock. Prayer meeting will start at eight.

Miss Hilda E. Lippincott, first vice president of the Epworth League, was in charge of the meeting last Sunday evening. She was one of the delegates to the State convention held in Trenton recently and told of her experiences and outlined the work given the various representatives at this all-day meeting.

The new vice presidents recently elected were: Miss Helen Miller, second; Miss Pearl Goombs, third; and Clifton Taylor, fourth.

Preparations are being made for the big service to be held under the direction of the League on its anniversary, which is also Mother's Day.

The regular monthly business meeting and social was held in the gym on Thursday evening.

The League extends a cordial invitation to the young people of Palmyra and Riverton. Meetings every Sunday evening from 6:45 to 7:30.

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF CAMP No. 23, P. O. S. of A.

May 14, 1893, 27 members—May 14, 1923, 1,027 members

A gain of 1,000 members in the space of a generation in a community which approximates 6,000 population is an accomplishment worthy of some consideration. If anyone had ventured to predict such a figure to the founders, he would have been laughed out of court as a visionary idealist, but results show those youngsters had a higher ideal as their underlying motive than any of them at the time realized.

This ideal may be summarized as a determination to hold fast to the principles of government which build up the nation and fraternal bond, influence thought in the proper direction. At each recurring birthday the question arises, shall the forward advance continue or shall we sit still and attempt to live on past achievements?

The individual at thirty years of age has before him the most interesting period of life; if he quits at that time he is properly classed as a misfit. So with the organization; we must "carry on" to safe guard what has been done and to do greater things in the future.

A brief survey of the forces working to disintegrate our institutions indicates the necessity for a strong aggressive body of active born citizens who through intelligent massed effort will help keep intact this America of ours.

We are therefore counting on an old time rally May 13th-14th, which will give the rally pull, the strong pull and the all-together pull that will put us a few steps further ahead. We will meet in the Camp room Sunday, May 13th, 7:15 p. m., daylight saving time, and proceed to the Central Baptist Church.

On the 14th, Camp will open promptly at 7 p. m. and all sponsors are requested to have their candidates present for the class initiation at 8 p. m. Hon. Herman Hecht, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker of the evening and a good address is promised.

The baseball committee were instructed to organize a strong team and would like applicants to hand their names to Secretary Reeves at earliest date possible.

The Producer's banquet has been set for June 5th, and the Boosters promise an early announcement of Ladies' Night.

Publicity Committee.

Davis Wins the Bowling Tournament

The bowling tournament at the Country Club ended on Monday night and after over four months of strenuous competition the team captained by Harry Davis cleaned up the other twelve teams and for the second time in two years is entitled to be called the champions. Beside Captain Davis the team is composed of the following bowlers: C. W. Smith, R. V. Townsend, H. H. Seabrook, G. L. Peterson, and Dr. R. I. Downs. The teams were evenly matched and it appeared to be anybody's game right up to the close of the tournament. Sonny Wright's team saw-sawed back and forth with Davis' team for first place until it lost three straight games. This gave Davis an advantage which he held until the end of the tournament.

The last night of the tournament brought Davis' team up against Wright's team to fight it out for the second prize. In order to beat Wright it was necessary for Davis' bowlers to take all three games away from their opponents, but the task was too great for them. They made a game effort, winning two out of three games and only losing the odd game by seven pins.

The feature of the tournament was provided by Lawrence Peterson in rolling a game of 266 pins, thereby winning the prize for the individual high game. In this game he had ten strikes with only one miss and in the frame that he missed it looked like a perfect hit, nine pins dropping but the tenth one after sweeping back and forth for a while decided to stand up, thereby spoiling a wonderful score. The other high games were rolled by Howard Coe with 234 and Dr. Mark with 231.

The great success of the tournaments are due to the genial chairman of the bowling committee, Ralph Flower, who sees that every thing is kept moving smoothly. The interest is so keen that some of the teams are already predicting what they are going to do next year. During the summer months the Club will make some needed improvements to the bowling alleys. A new roof is being put in place and it is hoped to be able to install "pin setters" on each alley so that the bowlers will always be sure of a perfect set up. There have been a good many complaints in the past that the boys were not always putting the pins on the spots, thereby causing what looked like perfect hits to turn out to be splits.

These tournaments keep up interest in the Club during the long winter months, and have gained the Club quite a large number of house members who belong to the Club for the privilege of bowling. During the last season there were 78 men actively bowling and about 35 ladies—a fine showing for a Club the size of the Riverton's.

The standing of the teams at the close of the tournament was as follows:

	Won	Lost	Per.
1—Davis	42	5	625
2—Wright	42	30	583
3—Graft	41	31	569
4—Vaughan	40	32	555

WOMEN FOR PROHIBITION

Volstead Act Supported at Institute Held in Mount Holly

The outstanding feature of the Burlington County Republican Women's Institute, held recently at Mt. Holly, was the expression of many of the speakers in favor of maintaining the Volstead Act in its present form and opposing its modification in any degree. Not only did the women make their position clear on that question, but Senator Roberts and Assemblyman Powell, guests of the Institute, also made statements that urged no interference with the provisions of the present prohibition statutes.

That these utterances were in accord with the ideas of the audience was manifested by the applause that followed every statement advocating standing pat on the dry issue.

It was a meeting of members of the district units of the Women's Republican Club of Burlington county, and, judging by the trend of the speeches, the women intend to take an active part in formulating party policies and in choosing candidates for next fall's election.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Women's Republican Club, the principal speaker, said the Republican women of Burlington county are receiving 100% cooperation from the men of their party, which is a rare condition of affairs. The women here are being treated on the square, and this doubtless accounts for the fine Republican majority given in this county last fall, it being the only county in the State that maintained its normal Republican vote. She also complimented the women of the county upon the fine organization that they have formed here, being perhaps the most effective in the State.

She told of the active part the State Women's Club had taken in legislative matters the past winter and of its influence for good. This influence defeated sixteen "wet" bills that had been introduced.

CAN BUY PHONE STOCK

May Be Purchased At Any Office of Company

Bell Telephone System stock may be purchased at any business office of the company, according to an announcement by District Manager H. W. Eno today. Purchases may be made for cash or on the installment plan.

This plan is put in effect through the Bell Telephone Securities Co., a part of the Bell System. When an order is placed at the local office, the stock is purchased on the New York Stock Exchange by the Securities Company. The price quoted each day is the previous day's closing on the exchange.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (Bell system) has the widest stock distribution of any corporation in the country today. There are more than a quarter of a million stockholders. With this new system of distribution, by which the stock may be purchased on very low monthly installments, there should be a still greater increase in the number of shareholders.

EDGE TO ADDRESS WOMEN

Judge Wells Will Also Speak at Meeting at Atlantic City

The most important meeting held during the year by the organized Republican women of New Jersey is to take place in Atlantic City on Friday and Saturday of this week. This is the annual spring conference held under the auspices of the New Jersey Women's Republican Club, but open to all interested Republicans, both men and women. The meeting place of the conference will be Vernon Hall, Hotel Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, and there will be four sessions, Friday afternoon, 2 o'clock, Friday evening 8 o'clock, Saturday morning 11 o'clock, and Saturday afternoon 2 o'clock.

One of the outstanding features of the conference will be the presentation by ex-Governor Stokes, in the name of the State Committee, of a banner to the local unit of the New Jersey Women's Republican Club which has the largest membership, figured on the basis of the Republican vote cast last fall in the territory covered by the unit. Governor Stokes' speech and the presentation of the banner will take place at the Saturday afternoon session of the conference.

The Friday afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of what shall be the State Club's legislative and campaign policy for the coming year.

On Friday evening there will be an informal reception with speaking, those who will address the conference being U. S. Senator Walter E. Edge, Judge Harold B. Wells, of Burlington county, who will speak on "Politics and Good Citizenship," and Mr. Walter Kidde, one of the Republican members of the new highway commission, who will tell the audience how the highway commission plans to spend the one hundred millions or more dollars which they will have for road building during its term of office.

On Saturday morning a number of members of the State Club will address the group on plans for widening the scope of our Club work and reports of county activities by presidents of Unit County Councils, County women vice-chairmen and State committeewomen will be heard.

Rhubarb Makes a Wholesome and Delicious Spring Standby

Most of us know rhubarb sauce or stewed rhubarb as an old spring friend, but few know how delicious it can be until they have tasted it. Prepare just the same as for stewing, adding the sugar, but no water, and bake in a slow oven for an hour and a half. Less sugar and a half cup of seedless raisins may be added. Orange also adds to the flavor. Grate the rind and add thin slices of the pulp.

LESSON FOR MAY 13

DAVID, THE POET-KING

LESSON TEXT—1 Sam. 18:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Surely, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life.—Ps. 133.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Ps. 51; Isa. 53; Jer. 23:18-20; Luke 1:18; Acts 2:22-24.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Shepherd Boy Chosen King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Calls a Boy to Be King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—David, as a Friend.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons From the Life of David.

1. Samuel Mourns for Saul (v. 1).
1. Why He Mourned. The death of Saul was no doubt a personal loss to Samuel, for Saul was a commanding and lovable personality. Then, too, the rule of so promising a career would deeply affect a soul like Samuel. Finally the humiliation to God and God's people grieved his heart.

2. Excessive Mourning Rebuked. The fact that God had rejected Saul should have lifted Samuel out of his grief. Excessive grief over that which God does is a reflection upon Him and should be rebuked. In all God's acts we should submit although it may change our plans. When sorrow becomes a hindrance to the discharge of duty, it merits rebuke.

11. Samuel Sent to Anoint David (vv. 1-5).

1. Samuel's Fear (v. 3). Perhaps by this time Saul was becoming a desperate character. Samuel knew that if Saul should hear that he was taking steps to anoint a successor to his throne, his own life would be in danger. Samuel was wise in submitting this difficult situation to the Lord. God's servants are to be brave. But even when going on errands for God we should not court danger. We should exercise the greatest caution so that unnecessary dangers be avoided.

2. The Lord's Direction (vv. 2, 5). The Lord smoothed the way for Samuel. He showed him how to perform his duty and escape the danger. Samuel was to take a heifer and announce that he was going to offer a sacrifice unto the Lord and to call Jesse to the sacrifice. The prophet was not told all that would happen. This is usually God's way with us. He gives us our work place by place and guides us step by step. Samuel's purpose was known only to him. It was to be kept a secret so that the news would not reach Saul. This was a shrewd device but entirely legitimate. There is no necessity for us to reveal all our purposes.

111. Samuel's Obedience (vv. 4-5).
1. The Trembling Elders of Bethlehem (vv. 4, 5). It seems that the whole nation was shot through with fear because of Saul's sin. To the elders' alarming inquiry Samuel responded with the assurance of peace, inviting them to join him in worshipping the Lord.

2. Examination of Jesse's Sons (vv. 6-12). The Lord had revealed to Samuel that one of Jesse's sons was to be the new king, but not the particular one. The selection of the right one was a most important matter as destinies hung upon it. (1) Eliab rejected (vv. 6, 7). Eliab was the eldest son and therefore he was the first presented as having first right to the place of honor. Further, he was a splendid specimen of a man, tall and majestic in appearance so that even Samuel was captivated by him as he had been by Saul. (2) David chosen (vv. 8-12). All but one of Jesse's sons had been looked upon but still the Lord's choice had not appeared. Jesse's reply to Samuel's question as to whether all his children had appeared seems to imply that David was not of much importance. He was considered good enough to watch the sheep but not important enough to be called to the feast. Because David was faithful as a shepherd boy, he was in line for promotion when God's given time arrived.

3. David Anointed (v. 13). When the shepherd lad appeared, the Lord directed Samuel to anoint him. When the oil was applied the Spirit of the Lord came upon him. David was a gifted and attractive lad but this was of no avail without the Spirit of God. Power must come from God. Only as we are anointed by the Holy Ghost can we truly do the Lord's will and work.

Law Enforcement

WHETHER or not Governor Silzer, in his address before the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs in session at Atlantic City on Friday figuratively backed the women in a corner and secured admission by a rising vote that more than half of them either personally violated the Volstead Act, or were parties to its violation by permitting it in their own homes; or, whether, as is claimed by some, his auditors mistook the call for a rising vote in the story he was telling of another meeting which he had addressed, for an invitation for them to declare themselves in this manner, is beside the point.

When the Governor made plain that the enforcement of any law is impossible without an individual sense of responsibility to the point of obedience to that law, whether it is popular with the individual or not, he laid his finger on the fundamental reason why the prohibition enforcement had been so difficult in the United States.

It is hardly fair to lay the whole blame for the lack of success of the prohibition enforcement at the doors of the women, but it is unquestionably true that if they stood as a unit for the observance of the Volstead Act, its enforcement would become an accomplished fact over night.

The Public Ledger said, editorially, on Sunday.

"In thus reducing the issue to its intimate personal equation the Governor laid bare the heart of the problem that must be solved before the United States can be extricated from its perilous state of wholesale disobedience to law. It does not matter in the least whether the Governor of New Jersey favors or condemns the Volstead law and the amendment. He is clear visioned enough to realize that until the public conscience is aroused to the enormity of the existing situation, when men and women of character and standing openly violate the law themselves and see it violated in their own homes without protest, there can be no solution."

Abraham Lincoln said,

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to the posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, in the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of our fathers, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; let it be written in the primers, spelling books, and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in the courts of justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the Nation."

President Harding recently said, "Whatever breeds disrespect for the law of the land, in any particular department of our commonwealth is a force tending to the general breakdown of the social organization. If the people who are known as leaders, as directing influences, as thoroughly respected and respected members of society, shall in their respective communities become known for their defiance of some part of the code of law, then they need not be astonished if presently they find that their example is followed by others with the result that presently the law in general comes to be looked upon as a set of irksome and unreasonable restraints upon the liberty of the individual. Every law involves more or less of this element of restraint. Nearly every individual will find some part of the code that to him seems an unreasonable inhibition upon his personal freedom of action. Our only safety will be in inculcating an attitude of respect for the law, as, on the whole, the best expression that has been given to the social aspiration and moral purpose of the community."

Speaking directly on prohibition enforcement, Hon. Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, says,

"Every good American citizen, whether he be native-born or adopted, recognizes that he has entered into a contract with the Government of which he is a part, to observe the law of the land and to contribute to the best of his ability to the support of the fundamentals of the Government. Only so may the objects of the founders, the hope of the world, and the general good of the people be obtained. In the final analysis, the sacredness of contract is the basis of all stability in all relationships. If the sacredness of contract is not observed in business, in commercial and in industrial relationships, at once business, commerce and industry become chaotic. If the sacredness of contract of capital with labor, or labor with capital, is not observed with sincerity, at once there is chaos. If the sacredness of contract is not observed in the family, at once domestic tranquility disappears. If there should be a general disregard for the sacredness of contract by our citizenship with the Government, nothing but anarchy could result. In other words, stable civilization is built upon the foundation of covenants and the keeping of them. This law, a part of our Constitution, and made operative by legislative enactment, by an overwhelming majority, mechanically becomes a part of the contract entered into by every citizen of the Republic and a part of the contract, the whole of which every good citizen is bound to observe."

"No superficial or trivial obligation rests upon the American citizen who receives all the benefits of citizenship in this great land, and he only discharges the conditions of citizenship who gives his best efforts toward the perpetuity of this country. If lawlessness endangers this Republic, then there can be only one attitude of the citizen upon the subject."

REPORT ON CONVENTION

Interesting Story of Proceedings of Federation Convention Told at the Porch Club

Mrs. B. S. Mechling gave at the Porch Club chapter luncheon on Tuesday, a most lively and interesting report of the convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Atlantic City last week.

The report was in part as follows: "The opening of the convention was most impressive. A stately procession of Federation ex-presidents and officers, preceded by a pretty usher with a big silk flag, wound its way down the hall to the platform, and then Mrs. Frol, our New Jersey president, formally opened the twenty-ninth annual convention.

The very first president, Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, gave us a delightful greeting. Although eighty-three years of age, she was most alert and interesting.

Our own Mrs. Boyer gave a report of the program committee. No one can imagine the work such a program entails.

Missing Man Has Friends in Riverton

John Falck, who disappeared from his home in Frankford last Saturday, is well known to Joseph M. Roberts, of Riverton. Mr. Falck, who is employed by a dental manufacturing firm at 30th and Market streets, Philadelphia, left his home for business at the usual time on Saturday morning.

When he did not return in the evening, his family became alarmed and called his firm on the telephone, and were informed that he had not been there all day. Mr. Falck had been an employee of this concern for many years, and when he did not come to work on Saturday they thought he was ill and did not begin an investigation until they received the call from the family. It is thought that Mr. Falck wandered off during a lapse of memory. He is five feet eight inches tall, has blue eyes and very thick eyebrows. Anyone seeing a man of this description, or having news of him, please notify Mrs. Mary Hansell Roberts, Marlton, or Joseph M. Roberts, Riverton.

Dr. Griscom Tells of Her Experiences in China

Dr. Mary Griscom, who has recently returned from ten years spent in the Far East doing medical work, gave an informal talk last evening in the Porch Club. Dr. Griscom was introduced by Robert Biddle, president of the Riverton Free Library Association.

Mr. Biddle spoke of the heavy expense of last year, caused by many necessary improvements and alterations. Through the assistance of several kind friends these expenses had been met but this year a new roof was necessary and the Library was offering to its many readers the privilege of assisting.

Dr. Griscom showed many interesting souvenirs from China, Persia and India, some of which had been given her as personal gifts. One which she had not brought with her was a rug, given her by the aunt of the Shah of Persia, in payment for an operation upon the aunt, which was considered a very great honor to Dr. Griscom. In these eastern countries expert medical attention is greatly needed and much appreciated.

Among the very interesting articles shown by Dr. Griscom were four paintings made by a Chinese artist after hearing certain parts of the Bible read for the first time. In a most expressive manner, through a group of paintings, he illustrated the prodigal son, the lost sheep, the flood, and the houses built on the sand and the rock.

After the lecture an offering was received for the Library.

High School Tuition Reduced

At the meeting of the Riverton Board of Education Monday night, it was announced that on appeal of the School Boards in Riverside and Beverly townships, the State Board of Education had made an investigation of the cost per pupil of operating the Palmyra High School, which the Board declared to be about $81.32, and decreed that charges to outside districts for pupils to the Palmyra school must not exceed the cost. This will mean a considerable refund to the Riverton Board for the pupils now attending Palmyra.

Miss Chew, supervising principal, reported percentage of attendance during the month as 93.8 for boys and 92.6 for girls. The highest percentage 97.4, was made by the fifth grade. She also reported that on April 14th the domestic science class served their annual luncheon, having as their guests the executive board of the Parent-Teacher Association. The school dinner for members of the Board of Education will be held on May 24th.

The bid of Lupton's Sons Company for storm doors was accepted, subject to the approval of the plans by the State Board of Education.

Mr. Boyer brought up the subject of a junior high school for Riverton and asked the Board members to give it careful consideration.

The annual field day will be held on Friday afternoon, May 18th, and preparations are being made by the supervising principal to introduce some new events.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class will be held on June 14th.

Mr. Boyer was appointed delegate to represent the Riverton Board at the meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of District Boards of Education to be held in Trenton, May 25.

The Ham Sandwich

By I. WRIGHT

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Merwin Palmer straightened up from his cramped position over the engine and rubbed his greasy hands down the tan overalls he wore. "I tell you, Dave," he said, with a sigh, "I'm going up to that house and ask for a drink of water. I need a little something after three hours of this work."

The man lying in the road under the car snorted. "Q'wan, then," he retorted shortly. "We're not going to call a garage man in for this little job if it takes all day."

"No, that's all right with me—but I'm going to have a drink of water. And say—if I saw a ham sandwich right now—what I wouldn't do to it!"

"For a civil engineer with a nice, new diploma from college and a pretty fraternity pin that no girl ever yet succeeded in getting away—well, you sound like a hungry tramp." And the man in the road turned over on his side and stretched two fingers up into the motor and said something softly under his breath.

Up at the house on the hill a girl with soft golden hair and violet eyes stood on the porch, watching the progress of the man coming up. "His figure is like Merwin's," she whispered to herself. "But Merwin—" she sighed a little and sat down at the white kitchen table, which was spread with two large loaves of bread, butter, mustard and pretty pink ham.

"May—may I have a drink of water?" asked Merwin Palmer a moment later. "This heat is frightful."

The girl with the violet eyes did not look up from her bread cutting. "The pump is there and the dipper is hanging in the apple tree directly above. Help yourself." Her voice was low and her tone cordial.

As soon as he had turned to go to the pump she looked after him. Afraid of tramps, she was somehow fascinated by his figure—a figure so similar to the college man she had met in the city. His shoulders drooped as he was pumped, and he looked very tired. When he called out "Thanks" she was again looking at her bread.

If he stared at her queerly she did not know it, for she was not even glancing his way. "Maybe tramps are a lazy lot and don't deserve anything," she said half aloud. "But I'll bet a sandwich would taste good to him. Say!" she called out. She did not know how to address him, and "say" seemed to be adequate.

He turned.

"Would you care for a ham sandwich?"

He turned and hurried toward her. For a moment she was startled. She had heard dreadful tales of tramps knocking girls senseless and going through the house to take everything of value; she had heard of one place near the next town where a tramp had set fire to the house. She almost regretted her impulse.

"I don't know that you're hungry," she said timidly. He looked so large now that he was coming up the porch steps and in the screen door. "But—I thought a ham sandwich—"

"Why," he said cordially, in a booming voice, "I'd commit murder right now for a ham sandwich. I was just telling my pal down the road that a ham sandwich—"

She smiled; he had a pal down the road—she did not dare look at him. "May I help myself?" he asked as she made no effort to hand him the plate.

She nodded; her throat felt dry and hot and she wished that some of the family were home. "You—you might take one along to your pal," she said in a very little voice.

"Fine," he said, eating the sandwich with great relish. "Although a fellow who swears as he does doesn't deserve anything as good as this. It seems to me that you have met me—" he said, and then stopped short.

Her face flamed; why had she called him back when he was on his way out? "You—yes!—one never sees him in his. Fancied overheard her."

"Aren't you Faith Darrow?" he asked.

She looked at him now in surprise. "Yes."

"You're never Merwin Palmer?" she asked.

He nodded placidly. "I'm glad you remember. I thought you didn't."

She laughed nervously. "Well, why didn't you say so at the start? I thought—you thought you were a tramp—in those clothes—"

He stared at his tan overalls. "The car broke down and Dave and I thought we'd fix it ourselves."

There was a strained silence as each followed thoughts concerning an evening where there was dancing, a balcony, certain words—and then the interruption of a crowd of dancers.

"I know—" It was Merwin Palmer who broke the silence. As he spoke he was unfastening the shoulder strap of his overall, revealing a well-cut suit beneath. "I know, I always had a notion, Faith, that my fraternity pin would look better on you than on any one else in the world; suppose we—"

He was holding out the pin, which had never before been out of his hands. A snort made them turn around. "So this is what you call getting a drink of water while I lie under that car and sweat?" It was Dave, hot and tired.

"Here's a sandwich and there's the dipper far down the yard there by the pump. Q'wan and get a drink," urged Merwin Palmer, with more cordiality than he had ever shown before. "Q'wan, we're busy here."

BOY

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUT WINTER CAMPERS

"Outing is a big part of scouting," say the boy scouts, who, in increasing numbers are enjoying winter week-end camping, and all the wholesome, outdoor winter fun that goes with it.

SCOUTS FIND LOST BABY

Scouts of Charleston, Ill., brought relief to an anxious home when they found two-year-old Robert Mahan, who had been lost for 12 hours, and delivered him safe and sound to his relatives. Robert had strayed from a party of children who were nutting in the woods near Whetstone Ford. Later unable to find the little boy the children gave a frightened call for help at a house nearby. After a fruitless search by neighbors, word was sent to the Charleston scouts. Under their scoutmaster, a number of the older boys hiked rapidly to the spot where the child had been seen last. There they divided into squads and began their search. Within a quarter of an hour they came upon the baby asleep in the hollow of a tree 15 feet from a tall bluff.

TEXAS BOY SCOUTS' RECORD

The boy scout spirit of service was well interpreted at the recent South Texas State fair, where the scouts stood at all times to help. In addition to performing other good turns, the boys found 72 lost children, as traffic officers handled six parades, acted as runners for officers of the fair association, furnished escorts for children during the baby parade, parked automobiles in the fair grounds, met all incoming trains, and maintained an information bureau.

How to See the Wind.

Choose for the trial a windy day, when the air is free from rain or snow. Take a bright, clean handkerchief or other polished metal object about two feet in length and having a straight edge. Hold the saw or metallic surface at right angles to the direction of the wind. Incline it at about 85 or 90 degrees to the horizon and with the back up, so that the moving air, in striking the surface, will glance upward and flow over the edge of the metal, as water flows over a dam. Sight carefully along the edge of the metal, at a sharply defined object, and you will see the wind or air waves pouring over the edge in graceful curves.

Unusually Endowed With Legs.

Following on the reports from Ontario of quadruped birds, comes a story from Tawatinaw, Alberta, where a farmer has a four-legged chicken. The two extra legs in this case seem to have grown just at the end of the backbone and across each other just under the tail. It is a healthy bird and will eat and fight with the rest of the brood.

Pig Retrieved Ring.

While digging potatoes a Prince Edward Island woman lost her wedding ring, which was too big. The pigs were then turned into the garden to root for the potatoes that were missed. When the hogs fattened and were butchered the woman's ring was found on one of the pig's teeth.

FORD NEWS STORY

FORD TOURISTS NOW ENJOYS A GREATER
"AT HOME" FEELING

Family Larger Than Ever and Service Always Near to Make His Trip Enjoyable

That satisfying "at home" feeling which the Ford tourist always has felt wherever he has gone will be stronger than ever this summer. There are now nearly 6,000,000 Ford cars in use in the United States and he will come upon more members of the great Ford family in the towns and cities along the highways of the Nation than in any year heretofore. In the last year alone 1,500,000 new Fords have gone into use throughout the country. And the Ford owner who goes touring enjoys what no other car owner enjoys, the satisfaction of knowing he has the greatest of service facilities at his command, assuring him of a pleasant journey no matter where his travels may take him.

In addition to the Ford dealer organization of more than 9,000, there are over 14,000 authorized Ford service stations in the country, making a total of more than 23,000 points of contact with the motoring public.

Naturally the increased use of Ford cars has brought a corresponding increase in service responsibilities. Ford dealers, everywhere, acting under the definite service policy of the company, are fully prepared to meet the new responsibilities. Their mechanics, many of them graduates of the Ford service course, are expertly trained in meeting all service requirements, and the dealers have provided themselves with special and approved equipment which enables them to meet any demand, promptly and efficiently, thus affording the Ford owner every facility which contributes toward making motoring as inexpensive and as enjoyable as possible.

The high excellence of Ford performance under all road conditions has made it the most popular of cars for general touring and also the most economical, for service is always close at hand when any minor adjustments are necessary.

Must Not Destroy Initiative of Our People

In his fifth article, published this week, Herbert Hoover says:

"During the war, the mobilization of every effort, the destruction of the normal demand and the normal avenues of distribution, required a vast expenditure in order that we might secure immediate results. We are slowly getting back, but many still appear to these supposed short cuts to the millennium."

PLAN GREATER PALMYRA

B. J. Newman Advises Chamber of Commerce to Look Ahead and Plan Wisely

Members of the Chamber of Commerce were deeply stirred Tuesday evening by B. J. Newman's graphic portrayal of what might happen in Palmyra unless steps were taken at once to plan and prepare for the town's future.

Mr. Newman, who is Managing Director of Bryn Mawr Housing Association, forecasts a mighty increase in the town's population within the next few years as the result of the Delaware river bridge. He declared that every bit of ground available would be grabbed up for building purposes and that the business section would grow by leaps and bounds.

Steps must be taken at once to some of the town's business places would spring up in the residential sections and spoil the value of the properties there. Streets must be mapped out in the sections at present unimproved in order to insure proper development. A housing code also was recommended.

Unless these things were done, Mr. Newman declared, Palmyra within a few years would have problems on her hands similar to those in the tenements, back alleys and courts which exist in Philadelphia, Boston, New York and other big cities.

In these districts hundreds of families are crowded together, several persons to a room, without proper light and air and without sanitary conveniences. Such housing conditions breed both crime and disease, as shown by the court records for such sections.

Mr. Newman said that citizens of Palmyra might laugh at such dire predictions, yet just such conditions had developed in the exclusive Main Line section of Bryn Mawr and Wayne.

Mr. Newman cited problems which were discussed by the Chamber prior to his address as proof that Palmyra already was experiencing "growing pains" due to lack of correct planning in the earlier stages of the town's history.

The speaker's remarks created a deep impression on everybody present. George N. Winter declared that every evidence indicated that the territory between the river and the Burlington pike and Pennsauken creek and the Pompton creek would be solidly built up within the next five years and probably operating under one municipal government. He said that immediate preparation to take care of its growth was the greatest problem confronting the town.

Mayor Weart spoke along similar lines and announced that the Borough Council would be willing to take up the question at once in conjunction with a committee from the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Newman's talk was believed to be so valuable that plans are afoot to hold a big public meeting for him to address so that all citizens may have an opportunity to hear his message.

In the earlier part of the session considerable attention was given to the problem of improving conditions at Broad and Cinnaminson avenue. It was suggested that the sharp corner at the Palmyra Pharmacy and Cook's store should be rounded off and that better signal lights should be provided to prevent accidents.

Convention Report

"Next Mrs. Winter spoke on 'The Changing World.' Mrs. Winter is only president of the General Federation but is a power in international affairs. She has been consulted by President Harding more than once, and was one of the four women delegates to the disarmament conference at the speaker said she had visited club women in forty-six states and found the same aims, problems and interests everywhere.

Her special message to us concerned the younger generation. We can do no greater harm than to cut the current of sympathy between the generations. The greater part of Thursday morning was devoted to the working out of resolutions and recommendations. The Federation wished to throw the weight of its influence for the vigorous enforcement of the Volstead Act, relieving the coal situation, abolishing distorting poster advertisements, eliminating freight congestion at the ports and suppressing sugar profiteering.

Thursday evening Dhan Gopal Mukerji told us of the India of today and the India of tomorrow. The little brown man came forward in a dignified and confident manner, we felt disappointed because he did not wear the gold turban and flowing robes we had heard about but he less than a minute we were under the spell of his eloquence, and everything else was forgotten.

"Dhan Gopal Mukerji's message to us was to try to get peace, not to be content with a peace which is every new thing, but to digest some of the worthwhile things we already have."

"Another delightful feature of Thursday evening's program was a hard sold by Mrs. Baseler. As you all know, Mrs. Baseler is Miss Vaughan's teacher.

"Friday morning was given over to sports. The first from the New Jersey College for Women interests in especially. They plan to build a $150,000 music hall.

"Friday afternoon a reception was given to Governor George S. Silzer and Mrs. Silzer. The convention, through resolutions, had asked the Governor to make every effort to relieve the coal situation, to protest against the high price of sugar and to urge legislation prohibiting the use of the banking areas on State highways for advertising posters and to enforce prohibition. The Governor was very clever at using a lot of words without committing himself. For instance, he would say, 'There ought to be a way to end gouging in sugar—but he didn't mention any means to that end; so it was a veritable bombshell when he stopped in the middle of a sentence and said, 'All of you who have not personally violated the Volstead Act or seen it violated in your own homes, please stand up.' Despite the vigorous resolutions for prohibition made the first morning of the convention, only forty persons stood up. As Mrs. Proal, Federation president, said, 'We are not the only occupants of our homes.' The women personally are truthful. Under similar circumstances don't you believe that the men would have promptly arranged some sort of 'mental reservation' and then stood up?"

The next morning a resolution for the strict enforcement of the Volstead Act was passed without a dissenting vote.

Mrs. Elvira S. Cady entertained Miss Beatrice Schell, of Collingdale, Pa., over the weekend.

What Are You Getting?

Are they the smallest the maker can get away with?

Do they cover the porch posts?

Do they extend out far enough?

Do they come down low enough?

These signs are to be supplied by the railroads but are to be placed and maintained by the counties or townships which control the highways.

Cinnaminson

Last week many of the residents living along the Riverton road in Riverton and Westfield had a scare when Mrs. Lydia Sizer's truck, which was out for practice, came along at full speed with all the fire-fighting apparatus in place. Some of the residents even went so far as to follow in the wake of the fire engine in their automobiles until it stopped in front of the property of Edward S. Wood, of Cinnaminson, and attached the hose to try out the pressure.

Paul Schaeffer, of Cinnaminson, is convalescing at the home from a serious attack of pneumonia.

Arthur Siebke, of Cinnaminson, has recently purchased a Dodge roadster.

William Denner has torn down the wooden porch at his home and is having a new concrete one finished with a terra cotta surface constructed in its place.

Frank Coles has recently purchased a Fordson tractor, which is doing its full duty on his farm.

The Japanese beetle, the scourge of New Jersey and enemy of the farmer, has been in the neighborhood nearly two years, according to the Japanese Beetle Control Laboratory. According to David Rust, of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, the beetle was first introduced into this country with an importation of a consignment of Japanese iris roots in 1916.

The beetle had begun to multiply rapidly. Tests were made and it was found that the beetle laid from 50 to 200 eggs in the ground. In a few weeks these hatched and the larvae remained in the ground all winter, and in the early weeks of June came forth as adults.

In 1918 the United States Government took a hand in the matter and established at the intersection of the Riverton road and the Burlington pike a Japanese beetle laboratory. When the beetle first invaded this territory it fed on weeds and Japanese iris plants. Lately it has taken to eating apples on the trees, peach trees and also shade trees and has literally ruined cornfields and hayfields.

Many poisons were found which would kill the insect, but all would, in some way or other, harm the plant on which it was sprayed. Last year the beetle spread so far that a quarantine was placed on the infested district. No farm products could be hauled to Philadelphia or other places without a permit from the beetle laboratory. During the last few years the Government has spent thousands of dollars and have paid 80c a quart for picking the Japanese beetle, in order to hold the pest in check.

Last week more than three hundred horticulturists and representatives of firms and farms interested in horticulture and the Japanese beetle met under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society at the Adelphi Hotel to discuss methods by which they might prevent the spread of this insect.

C. H. Hadley, of the Japanese beetle laboratory at Riverton, was one of the main speakers.

EASTERN STAR BANQUET

Twenty-seven Grand Officers Guests of Covenant Chapter

Twenty-seven of the grand officers of the Eastern Star, of the State of New Jersey, were present at the banquet and reception tendered them by the members of Covenant Chapter, Palmyra, on Tuesday evening. The banquet was served in E. O. S. of A. hall at six o'clock. The reception was given in honor of Mrs. Winifred C. Day, who is on the staff of grand officers and has many dear friends in Palmyra and Riverton. She was the recipient of many novel gifts and flowers.

Little Jean Kenny, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kenne, of Highland avenue, made a hit with everyone present when she made her little presentation speech to Mrs. Day. The presentation scene is said to have been one of the most beautiful ever viewed in this vicinity.

Solos and duets, which were greatly enjoyed, were rendered by the following local artists: Alfred E. Van Osten, Mrs. Ralph S. Rivers, Mrs. Elvin Powell, Miss Cecelia Becker and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wilson, with Mrs. Alfred F. VanOsten at the piano. Interpretative dancing, which was one of the hits of the evening, was given by Miss Dorothy Warner and one of her pupils, Miss Alexine Lowden.

The members of the chapter felt that they were well paid for the effort which they were forced to expend to make such a huge success of this undertaking.

Boys' and Girls' Corner

A few weeks ago, the classes of the eighth grade of the Riverton public school visited The New Era office, and saw how a newspaper is made.

The following compositions describe the various operations as they saw them and understood the explanations made:

The Printing Press

In this machine the paper is printed. The unprinted paper is in a pile at the top of the machine and it is placed on the roller a piece at a time by hand. It is then rolled over the inked type. As soon as each sheet is printed it is neatly piled at the top end of the press by a wooden frame. The types are inked by rollers, which obtain ink from a large pan of ink called a fountain. The papers are printed very swiftly.

The old time printing press is worked on the same principal only not so fast. The type is set by hand and inked by a hand roller. The paper is then placed on the type. A large wooden frame is then lowered upon it, and it is pushed under the hand press. A large lever is then pulled around by hand, and the press is forced tightly down on the frame causing the paper to be printed.

The Trimming Machine

The trimming machine is a small machine with a small circular disc saw. A slit in the steel base is made so the saw will fit in it and cut the slugs.

The slugs are fitted in a neat compartment which is squared and then passed over the saw, which trims the edges of the slugs.

The motor which drives this machine is in the cellar underneath and wire is connected to a switch, so they can shut it off and on.

The slugs are trimmed the exact size so they will fit in the intertype machine.

JACK SMITH.

The Smaller Press

The smaller press is a machine for less heavy printing and lighter work. It is about three and a half feet high and three feet long. A roller, which is attached to the top of the machine, presses down on the paper and prints the words and letters.

The roller which goes over the paper is made of glue and molasses.

EDWARD SORDON.

The Old Press

The old press was like that which Benjamin Franklin made and used. First a small galley was put into place, it is then inked by an inked roller. The paper was then placed on the galley and a canvas tacked on a wooden frame was put over the paper and galley. Then the galley, paper, and canvas were put into place under a weight, the weight was lowered, by pulling a lever. The paper comes out printed.

Besides the large machines there was many small machines to do minor work, such as the commercial press, which is designed to print small handbills and notices. The press is fed with one hand and taken out with the other, the ink being supplied by rollers. The perforating machine is intended to perforate check-books and stamps. The slug-cutter and trimmer is a small circular saw, with trimmers on the sides, so as to cut off the surplus length on the slug. There was also the stitching machine to place small wire staples in booklets. The punch is intended to punch holes of various diameters to be used on filing cards. Another interesting item was the clock used, being based on the metric system, so as to make it easier to determine the time spent by employees.

EDWARD SORDON.

The Two Large Presses

Of the two large machines, the intertype and the press, in The New Era office, I enjoyed seeing the press more than the former.

The press I refer to was the largest of the three in the office, and therefore more interesting. The printing ink is supplied from a fountain by rollers, each one touching the next, and the first one connecting with the fountain. Thus the ink is brought to the type of one page of the paper. The paper is rolled over the type by means of a very large roller with fingers attached; these fingers come up and clamp the paper made ready by hand about every ten or fifteen seconds and when printed, the paper is carried by a wide, revolving belt into waiting strips of wood, which throw the paper on a platform, the sides of which expand and contract in order to make room for the printed sheet in this manner, the paper is stacked into a fairly neat pile. A small apparatus at the side of the press indicates how many papers have been printed.

CHARLES P. EARP.

The Press

The press is a large machine on which the paper is printed.

The chase or form is locked by the key and quoin. It is locked because if a line of type happens to get loose it will make the column crooked and it looks better to have a straight column.

The ink is in a trough and one roller runs over the ink and then the ink is passed to another roller and so on until the last roller receives the ink that is left and then inks the type. There is only one overhead belt in the office, because it is very dangerous. The rest of the belts are in the cellar. The press is run by electricity.

The paper is fed by hand. A large piece of white paper is put in at the top and when it comes out it is printed on one side. The paper is run on three or four rollers until it reaches the finger-like projections. The fingers lift it up and carry it over to the other side, where it is stacked.

There is a counting machine at the side of the press. The counting machine counts the number of papers that are printed.

The paper is printed between ten and eleven o'clock on Wednesday morning.

GERTRUDE CROUCH.

The Intertype Machine

In the visit of the eighth grade class of the Riverton public school to The New Era printing office, owned and managed by Mr. Bowen, we were received in the office by Mr. Bowen and were furnished with pads and pencils with which to take notes for a composition. Mr. Bowen asked us to write for the paper.

I am going to describe the intertype machine, which makes the slugs used in printing. When you first look at the machine in general you think it is the most complicated piece of machinery you ever set your eyes on, but wait and take it apart and have some explanation of it.

A keyboard on the order of a typewriter is used to set the type. When you press a key, it draws up, by mechanical means, the letter which you pressed on the keyboard; the letter is indented in the side of the mold. The molds are slid along a slide at the end of which is a lever. After a line of type has passed it, the lever holds the molds together and the hot lead from the pot of lead (heated by city gas) through tubes which leads to the molds. The lead is forced through the tubes and against the molds and thus one line of type is formed into what is called a "slug" in technical terms.

After this "slug" is made an elevator comes down with a special magnet on the end of it, which will draw the metal molds; after the elevator has reached the top another side-moving elevator pushes the molds on a long revolving rod with threads around it. The molds run along this and drop off according to the different size cuts in the molds and fall into a chute to the right, containing while the steel space-bars, which space the words far enough apart to read, are dropped on a slide and pushed back to the container of space bars.

When you measure in printing you do not by one quarter of one inch, etc. but by "points" of which there are seventy-two to one inch. There are also "lines" of which there are six to one inch.

After the "slugs" are finished they are put in galleys in the order in which they are printed, when a galley is filled it is taken and laid in rows in order.

For the proof-reading they have a small machine which is used only for that purpose. If a mistake is made in the printing, say, one letter wrong, they will take that "slug" one and make a new one that means one whole line of type of print to be printed over.

School Pictures

There was a very interesting entertainment at the school house on Friday evening to assist in paying for the stereoscopic pictures recently purchased by the P. T. A.

The program opened with the school orchestra playing overture "Mildred." This was followed by two piano selections, "The Juggler," and "Water Sprites" by Allen Herchberg.

Andrea VanSteenbergh announced the purpose of the entertainment and on the behalf of the school, thanked the Board of Education and the P. T. A. for the lantern slides and pictures. These will be used for study in history and geography.

The slides as they appeared were described by John Sullivan, Charles Knight, Allen Taylor, Anna Murphy, Edward Hutchins, Virginia Good, Edward Sorden and Helen Landers.

Views of important places in the United States, Europe, South America and Mexico were shown.

The machine was run by Mr. G. W. Smith, assisted by Walter Radcliffe. The picture program was in two parts, with a musical intermission. Timothy Johnson played a violin solo "Flower Song," accompanied by Gertrude Crouch at the piano.

The program for the evening was concluded by the orchestra playing. Pupils of the eighth grade acted as ushers and ticket sellers.

THE KING OF STORES

One department store in Chicago occupies an exclusive building having a floor area of about forty-four acres. The space occupied by this building extends from forty-three feet below the street level to more than two hundred feet above the surface of the surrounding streets.

America holds many astounding examples of business enterprises, but this store is an enviable illustration of the great and valuable institutions that can be built up by concentrated and continuous painstaking effort to anticipate requirements and approximate perfection.

Accompanying a guide through this establishment you will hear a glimpse something like this: "The main aisle of this store is three-hundred and eighty-five feet long. In normal times more than 8,000 men, women, boys and girls are required to perform the service of maintaining the operation of this great retail establishment. During special sale periods and the holiday season as many as 12,000 names have been on the payroll at one time. About 300 motor trucks and delivery vehicles are in daily operation hauling new stocks of goods from the rail yards, steamship docks and warehouses and delivering the purchases to the myriads of customers in the nearby territory. One of the largest switchboards ever constructed for a single institution is employed to transact the telephone business of this store with its customers. The average number of calls handled per day is in the neighborhood of 30,000. In extra busy times the number of calls has exceeded 50,000 in a single day."

The basement floor contains more than 170,000 square feet of space and is the largest single-floor store on earth. For the purpose of speeding up the movement of patrons, employees, packages and freight within this store 62 elevators are in service. These elevators carry an average of about 35,000 passengers an hour and run 1,600 miles a day—or the distance from Chicago to New York. The entire seventh floor is divided into large rooms devoted to restaurant purposes; 3,900 persons can be served at one time, making this the largest known dining room. A separate dining room is operated for the officers and employees. All told about two-hundred and fifty cooks and helpers and 500 waitresses are required to handle the throngs which eat here daily. To light, heat, ventilate and operate this enormous store building, power sufficient to furnish light for a city of 100,000 inhabitants is required.

"PLAYING POLITICS"

McFarland So Characterizes Freeholder Lippincott's "Explanation" of Delay in Road Work

In a letter sent to this office Stuart M. McFarland, of Mount Holly, supervisor of county roads, seriously delayed in the Moorestown Chronicle over the signature of Freeholder Fred Lippincott that he discriminated against Moorestown in the matter of road repair. A copy of the communication has been sent to the Moorestown Chronicle. The letter follows:

Editor The New Era:
I read with interest the published remarks directed toward me as supervisor of roads by Mr. Fred Lippincott on May 3, and I would greatly appreciate your allowing me space in your columns to answer this unwarranted attack.

For the past ten years I have faithfully fulfilled my duties as supervisor of roads in Burlington county, and have given the taxpayers and traveling public the best that was in me. As you must realize, Burlington county has many miles of county roads to repair and put in shape each spring, and it takes me about two months to complete the entire circuit of the county. It is necessary for me to have a schedule for this work, so as to conduct it efficiently and economically, and this I am adhering to.

Last winter was one of the most destructive to roads on record, and this spring the season has been very backward. This made it impossible for me to have the patching gang out as early as usual, and the havoc wrought to many of the roads has very much delayed me. Rest assured, however, that Moorestown will receive its full share of attention in the repairing of its roads and streets, for it is my earnest desire to give the road-users satisfaction and comfort.

I feel that the statement made by Freeholder Lippincott is not alone unfair to me, and inspired by personal malice, but unfair to the taxpayers of Burlington county, for he is misrepresenting the condition to them. Petty lies, malice, and jealousy, reflect no credit on the user, and they, like insidious decay, undermine his very moral fibre. I ask Mr. Lippincott, in all sincerity, to be a man, to act a man, and play the game fair. "Loaded dice" whether used politically or otherwise are not a real man's weapon. Sincerely yours,

S. M. McFARLAND,
Road Supervisor.

The letter published in the Moorestown Chronicle on May 3 to which Mr. McFarland takes exception was as follows:

Dear Sir:—Kindly allow me space in your columns to answer many inquiries about repairs to county roads and to Stanwick avenue in particular. I have repeatedly asked the supervisor of roads, whose duty it is to make these repairs, when he was going to start the work and each time some excuse is offered. As I am not in accord with the political program of those who control the actions of the Board of Freeholders, it is impossible for me to secure any action.

The solution of the situation lies in the hands of the voters. Elect men to office who will devote their time to the business of the county and not the building up a political machine to further their own ambitions.

FRED LIPPINCOTT, Freeholder.

Will Stop Auto Drivers Racing With Fire Apparatus

Burlington city is about to take the initiative in providing for punishment of automobile drivers who persist in racing fire apparatus to fires and thus hamper the movements of firemen, and endanger lives. The action contemplated by the Burlington authorities coincides with a resolution recently passed by the Burlington County Firemen's Association dealing with the subject.

The firemen ask for the co-operation of the police of every community in breaking up this dangerous racing practice. Delegates at the association meeting at the time the resolution was passed declared that the lives of firemen were frequently placed in jeopardy by the daredevil drivers who refuse to abide by the traffic laws and give firemen the right of way.

Boys, Here's Your Opportunity

During the month of August there will be a series of military Training Camps conducted by the War Department, at which a month's training will be given in the various branches of the military service.

The largest of these camps, for the Infantry, is to be held at Plattsburg, N. Y. Young men, between the ages of 17 and 24 years, of good character, are invited to secure an education along military lines. High school students are especially fitted to attend these camps, which are progressive for three years. After attending three years graduates become eligible for a commission as second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

There is absolutely no expense attached to these camps, the government furnishing everything, including transportation. Captain James F. R. Long, 309th Inf. O. R. C., Mt. Holly, N. J., has been appointed local recruiting officer, and will be glad to furnish information and blanks to anyone interested.

See Big Season Ahead for Roadside Markets

Roadside farm markets, which have come to stay, the State Bureau of Markets believes, will undergo important developments in furnishing improved service to the public, officials of that department predict, during the coming summer. Already, it is reported, many proprietors of the successful markets of last season and former years, are planning to extend their establishments, make them and their goods more attractive to patrons and introduce those niceties of service which particular buyers appreciate.

AUTOMOBILE PARADE

The Red Bird New Car Just Brought Out by Overland People Seen In Line

The parade, which passed through Riverton last Saturday afternoon, was staged by the Rein Motor Company, of Riverside, to advertise the Overland, Willys-Knight and Autocars, for which they are agents. The Automobile band of Philadelphia, consisting of thirty-eight pieces, furnished the music. Eighteen cars were in line, twelve Overlands, three Willys-Knights and three Autocar trucks, and the new model Overland, the Red Bird, was shown for the first time.

G. W. Thomas, salesman, Rein Motor Company, led the parade in a Willys-Knight sedan. Others taking part in the parade were Frederick Rein, president of the Rein Motor Company, J. H. Heebner, treasurer of the Autocar Company, and J. G. Spain, service manager, Rein Motor Company. The parade started at Palmyra station, taking in Riverton, Riverside, Delanco and Beverly, and was in charge of Daniel Daren, salesman, Rein Motor Company. At the conclusion of the parade, a half hour's concert was given at the salesrooms of the Rein Motor Company on Bridgeboro street, Riverside, and luncheon was served to members of the band.

Republican Women Meet

The Republican Women's Conference held at Atlantic City last week, under the auspices of the New Jersey Women's Republican Club, was attended by over 400 representative women leaders from all of the 21 counties, and the resolutions passed were adopted without any opposition except the one endorsing the World Court, on which there were practically a dozen votes in the negative.

The outstanding features of the conference were the determination of the women not to support men and women for re-election to the legislature who have proved by their previous record that they cannot be trusted, and an equally strong determination not to endorse the attitude of various prominent men of the Republican party who are advocating a modification of prohibition enforcement laws.

Among the resolutions passed was the following:

Whereas it has been flagrantly apparent that many of the appointments of the enforcement agents have been made for the purpose of attempting to prove the impossibility of enforcing the eighteenth amendment by either State or National laws with the hope of thereby forcing a modification of the law, be it therefore

Resolved by the New Jersey Women's Republican Club that all officials charged with the duty of making such appointments, are hereby urged to select only such persons as will honestly, fearlessly, and conscientiously execute the oath of their office.

LESSON FOR MAY 20

ELIJAH, THE BRAVE REFORMER

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 18:17-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—Choose you this day whom ye will serve.—Joshua 24:15.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Malachi 4: 5, 6; Matthew 11:14; Luke 1:17; John 1:21-23; James 5:17, 18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Elijah and the Poor Woman.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Elijah's Wonderful Victory.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Elijah Defied Wickedness.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Modern Reformers Can Learn from Elijah.

1. Elijah Meets Ahab. (vv. 17, 18). At the Lord's command Elijah showed himself to Ahab. When Elijah last was seen by Ahab he announced that rain would only be given by his word (17:1). In connection with the prophet's appearance before the king, rain was promised.

2. Elijah's Question. "Art thou he that troublest Israel?" (v. 17). Ahab's aim was to intimidate Elijah, to awe him into submission.

3. Elijah's Answer. (v. 18). He denied the charge and boldly declared that the calamity which had befallen the nation was caused by the idolatry of Ahab and his family.

4. Elijah's Challenge. (vv. 19-24).

1. The People Assembled. (vv. 19, 20). The king convened the people at the urgent request of Elijah.

2. Elijah's Ringing Call to Decision. (vv. 21-24). (1) The question asked, "Who is your God, Baal or the Lord?" (v. 21). Many of the people had not wholly forsaken God. They attempted to worship both God and Baal. Many today are halting between self and Savior, sin and holiness, mammon and God. (2) The silence of the people. (v. 21). This may have been because of fear of the king or of ignorance, for many were of the opinion that to be religious was the only thing necessary, irrespective of the being worshiped.

There is all the difference between merely worshipping and really worshipping God that there is between hell and heaven. (3) The method of decision (vv. 22-24). Two sacrifices were to be provided—one to be offered to Baal, the other to God. The god who answered by fire was to be the God. The people consented that this was a fair test. Accepted sacrifice is the grand and supreme test by which God is calling upon men everywhere to make the decision between Christ and the heathen gods.

III. The Test Applied. (vv. 25-29).

1. The Offering by the Prophets of Baal (vv. 25-29). Elijah gave the prophets of Baal the first opportunity to prove to the people as to whether Baal was a real god. The real difference in the issue of prayer is the person to whom prayer is made.

2. The Offering by Elijah (vv. 30-33). (1) The people invited near (v. 30). His object was for them to see the entire proceedings in order to fully grasp the genuineness of the test. (2) The altar repaired (v. 30-32). Elijah took twelve stones representing the united nation. (3) The offering on the altar (v. 33-35). After the bullock was in place he had four barrels of water three times emptied upon the sacrifice and the wood so as to fill the trench about the altar. So sure was Elijah that God's power was sufficient that he heaped difficulty upon difficulty. (4) Elijah's prayer (vv. 36, 37). (a) It was based upon covenants (v. 36). The foundation upon which all real prayer rests is covenant relationship. (b) Its object was God's exaltation (v. 36). Elijah was jealous for God's glory. His supreme desire was to honor and magnify the Lord. (c) It was for the salvation of the people (v. 37). His heart yearned after Israel. He was most desirous that they should come to God. (5) The result (vv. 38, 39). (a) The fire of the Lord fell and consumed not only the sacrifice but the wood, stones and dust, even licking up the water in the trench. (b) The people fell on their faces and confessed that the Lord was the God.

IV. The Execution of Baal's Prophets. (v. 40).

The reason for this drastic action was that Israel's government was a theocracy. God was their king. Idolatry was treason against the king. These false prophets were traitors to God and therefore should die.

V. God's Prophet Vindicated. (vv. 41-46).

The proof that Elijah was God's prophet was incomplete till rain came. Israel under his ministry had now turned back to God and God made known unto them His graciousness.

Country Club Robbed

Just before noon on Wednesday, it was discovered by John Reid, golf professional, that the golf room at the Riverton Country Club, where five thousand dollars worth of golf clubs belonging to the members are kept, had been broken into the night before. The extent of the loss was not known at the time of going to press. Some tools were left by the burglars, which may help to trace them. Entrance was gained by breaking the lock on the door to the bowling alley. The robbery was immediately reported to the police department.

Cinnaminson Home Fete

Quietly, but very busily, a large group of women, under the direction of Mrs. Francis W. D'Olier, are working day and night preparing for the thirtieth annual fete of the Cinnaminson Home, which will be held from 3 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Saturday, June 2nd.

The Cinnaminson Home is recognized as one of the best managed institutions of its kind in this part of the country. For many years it has proven a haven of rest and peace for hundreds of unfortunate women and children, and the messages of affection and appreciation from past patients speak volume for the untiring and unselfish work of the staff and board of managers.

The residents of our community should feel they are doing a very worthwhile work in helping support the home.

This year's fete will be the best yet held and all kinds of fancy and useful articles for the home, cakes, ice cream, etc., will be on hand. Catering and table d'hôte suppers will be served between 5.30 p. m. and 7 p. m. Attractive side shows for young and old are being provided and a happy time is promised all who come. Make a note of the date and be sure to be on hand early on the day of the fete.

The board of managers would appreciate any gift which could be sold during the afternoon of the fete and so help swell the funds.

K. of C. Entertain Ladies

After the regular monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Council, Knights of Columbus, in Collins' Hall, Tuesday evening, an entertainment was given for the wives and friends of the members. The main feature was a minstrel show by the Knights of Columbus minstrel troupe, composed of Andy Pfaff, James Elliott, bones, etc. Myers, interlocutor, circus, Joseph Schuler, Jr., Joseph Braun, Gerald Smythe, John N. Hulings, Charles C. F. Schwartz, a former member of Sousa's band, rendered saxesophone selections. Dancing and refreshments concluded the enjoyable program.

Public Service Uses Aeroplane Maps in Laying Out Extensions

Public Service Electric Company now makes use of the aeroplane for obtaining maps preliminary to laying out new transmission lines. This is an important feature in the company's work of keeping pace with the demand for service which necessitates constant additions to generating and transmission capacity. Formerly the company used State and National Geographic Survey maps for this work. These maps were 2,000 to 5,000 feet per inch while the aerial maps are but 800 feet and show in great detail the territory including rivers, roads, buildings, trees, ditches, roads, streets, and so on. The relative heights of buildings, chimneys and trees can be determined by the shadows on the ground. The character of the surface of the ground and farm land stands out in bold relief. Measurements made in the field between prominent land marks check accurately with the scaled map distance.

The company has a continuous aerial map showing meadows from Newark Bay up to the Passaic River to Passaic and Paterson, also one of Hudson county including the Kill von Kull, Bergen Point, Bayonne and part of Jersey City. A map is now being made of the Southern Division.

Do Not Wait for Bundle Day

This is NOT an appeal for money—just for the old clothing for which you have no use. Realizing that many people in this vicinity want to have part in sending a shipment of old clothes to the refugees of Armenia, arrangements have been made to open a receiving station to which these may be sent. Any time until May 23 bundles of clothing will be received at Bundle Day headquarters, 503 Federal street, Camden.

Returned workers say conditions of refugees are pitiable. Any worn, heavy clothing in which there is some wear left is desired, and there will be no objection to new cloth or new garments. There is special need for coats, dresses, suits (all sizes), sweaters, mittens, wool stockings, boots and shoes (tie in pairs), woolen gloves, woolen skirts, shop worn goods and sheets to make bandages.

"Even a smile counts for much."

MAY OPEN NEW STREET

Palmyra Borough Council Considers Opening Direct Approach to High School

Palmyra Borough Council at its May meeting Tuesday evening passed the ordinance providing for the purchase of a $15,000 pumping fire truck. The type of truck will be selected later by the Fire Company's committee acting in conjunction with the Mayor and Council.

The creating a Board of Health also was passed.

A resolution was introduced calling for steps toward the opening of a new street running from Broad street direct to the new high school building.

This proposition has been advocated for some time, its supporters calling attention to the fact that the beautiful new building, one of the big assets of the town, is now hidden from Broad street and the railroad by buildings of an old type.

To open the new street would require the condemnation and removal of several buildings. The resolution was referred to the committee on streets.

Another resolution referred to the zoning plans which were discussed recently by the Chamber of Commerce. It was pointed out that, with the rapid growth of the town's population and business, measures must be taken at once to protect the residential districts and regulate the expansion of commercial ventures.

This matter was referred to the building committee with instructions to confer with a committee from the Chamber of Commerce and to arrange a public meeting so that the question can be presented to all of the citizens.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad also were present to advance a proposition with regard to the closing of Wallace Lane crossing. In return they offered to protect all the remaining crossings with blinking red lights and to place warning signals some distance away.

Borough Council was not so enthusiastic about closing Wallace Lane crossing, being in mind of the fact that some residences dependent upon it for an exit to Broad street. It was suggested, however, that the opening at Walnut street would be very desirable, inasmuch as that section of town is growing.

The committee on streets will look into this matter further.

BIG WEEK FOR ARTISANS

Two Fine Entertainments Given for Members of Palmyra Assembly

The Palmyra Artisans have had two big affairs in the past week.

Last Thursday evening the Assembly gave a banquet in P. O. S. of A. hall in honor of the hundred new members, which Palmyra had contributed to the 4,000 who were initiated at the big "ham and eggs at 5 a. m." affair held in Philadelphia.

In addition to the feed and an enjoyable vaudeville program, the big feature of this occasion was an address by the Rev. W. E. P. Haas, of Philadelphia, on "Happiness." The Rev. Mr. Haas certainly made everybody happy with his rapid fire of forceful wit and humor.

On Tuesday evening the annual Artisans' ladies' night was held in the high school auditorium. Charlie Cook's Artistic minstrel troupe performed brilliantly and the program was wound up by a clever afterpiece in which "nuts" and peanuts predominated.

WILL BUILD BRIDGE

Freeholders Capitate to Atlantic on Lower Bank Structure

The Burlington County Freeholders had apparently recovered from their recent fit over the county cars when they met at the county seat last Friday.

Atlantic county had turned down Freeholder Roger's offer of the two townships along Mullica river as a gift and Lawyer V. Claude Palmer was on hand to threaten a mandamus suit on behalf of the seashore county if Burlington did not help build the much disputed bridge across the river at Lower Bank.

The majority of the Board decided the jig was up and voted to join in building the bridge, although Lippincott and Rogers voted in the negative.

A visitation of a class of Chinese girls from the Baptist Chinese Mission School of 1006 Race street, Philadelphia, under the care of the pastor, Rev. Lee Hong, will be an unusual attraction. The girls will have a part in the program of the day.

At the regular meeting of the Sunday School Board, to be held Monday evening, May 21, H. R. Whitcraft, Sunday School editor of the Philadelphia North American, is expected to be present and address the workers.

Mr. Hoover's Last Article

In the sixth and last of the series of articles by Herbert Hoover, published in this issue, the writer says: "Salvation will not come to us out of the wreckage of individualism. What we need today is steady devotion to a better, brighter, broader individualism—an individualism that carries increasing responsibility and service to our fellows. Our need is not for a way out but for a way forward. We found our way out three centuries ago when our forefathers left Europe for these shores, to set up a commonwealth conceived in liberty and dedicated to the development of individuality."

The complete article will be found on page 4.

YM CONVENTION BIG SUCCESS

Eighteenth Annual Convention of County Young Men's Christian Association Held at Burlington Last Week

With splendid delegations from every section of the county representing Association interests the eighteenth annual YMCA convention opened with a dinner in the social hall of the First Baptist Church, Burlington, Thursday evening, May 10th, at 6.45 o'clock, with 361 guests in attendance. William F. Overman, Moorestown, chairman of the county committee, was toastmaster. S. Roger Oliver, of Burlington, was the song leader of the evening. Among the program features of the evening were reports of various association activities. Leslie Reeves, president, and Leon Sloan, secretary, spoke for the Riverton Calvary group which is under the leadership of Samuel B. Jones, Jr.

Among those who were presented with certificates for service were Russell W. Hubbs, Bridgeboro; G. Arthur Siebke and S. B. Jones, Jr., of Riverton; Harvey G. Fisher, Douglas J. Kersey, Jr., Roy Kersey and John M. Bergman, Palmyra.

Among the resolutions passed was one endorsing the Burlington County Educational News, as follows:

RESOLVED, That inasmuch as educational forces of the county are combining in putting out a monthly edition of The Burlington County Educational News, and the opportunity has been extended to the Young Men's Christian Association to publish regularly therein news concerning its educational work, that this convention approve the acceptance of this offer, and direct the county committee to avail themselves of this opportunity.

Charles W. Wanger and Augustus L. Wilson, of Riverton, and Harvey G. Fisher, of Palmyra, were nominated as members of the county committee.

YMCA Subscription Renewals May 20-26 for New Association Year

Frank W. Thacher, of Edgewater Park, treasurer of the county YMCA committee, announces as chairman of the finance committee of the organization that the renewal of subscriptions for the new YMCA year, 1923-24, which commenced May 1st, will take place the week of May 20-26. The county committee plans to secure their budget for the coming year within this period.

Mr. Thacher, in connection with his treasurer's report for the past year, which he made at Burlington at the county convention on May 10th, called particular attention to the extension of the YMCA work throughout the county, also to the fact of his personal knowledge of how every cent of the budget was raised and his belief that no better expenditure of money was being made anywhere.

The budget of the county committee is carefully apportioned among the following items: salaries, field expense automobile maintenance, office rent, supplies and equipment, conference, education, insurance.

T. A. Craig, writing sometime ago in the Toronto World, plainly stated the case when he said, "Every boy who comes to maturity has cost the State—that is, you and me—one thousand dollars. Some boys go wrong. When a boy goes wrong we not only lose our thousand dollars, but we have to spend another thousand to protect ourselves against him. The YMCA is an organization that pays cumulative dividends, not only in cash, but in character. Can you suggest a better investment?"

Roger W. Babson says:

"$1 spent for a lunch lasts 5 hours. '$1 spent for a necktie lasts 5 weeks. '$1 spent for a cap lasts 5 months. '$1 spent for an automobile lasts 5 years."

"$1 spent on waterpower or railroad grade lasts 5 generations. '$1 spent in the service of God lasts for eternity."

Of Course He Was "Dry"

When they got into Tutankhamen's tomb, after 4,000 years, they asked him: "Anybody here can get you, old scout?" The King said nothing in words, but there was a distinctly dry look about the corners of his mouth. We know how he feels. We have been on the way for 4,000 years ourselves during the last twelve months.

New Law for Easy Divorce Isn't So
Easy—Advisory Master Backen
Holds Two Years' Residence
Still Required.

Trenton.—Despite re-passage by the legislature of the Blackwell easy divorce law over Governor Silser's veto a fatal defect in the act has been pointed out by Advisory Master Backen. The master has declined to recommend a divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty for Mrs. Mary Carosone from Giovanni Carosone, known as Jack Carson, because the Blackwell law is subject to the limitation of two years' residence in the state by either of the litigants before commencement of a suit. The only situation in which a divorce suit may be instituted without meeting the two years' residence requirement is on grounds of adultery.

The recent legislature specified that a suit for divorce may be instituted for extreme cruelty six months after the act complained of. The ruling of Advisory Master Backen places a different interpretation on the Blackwell law than contemplated by the legislature. The general assumption had been that suit for divorce for extreme cruelty had been placed on a plane with charges of adultery, or, in other words, without awaiting the lapse of two years before filing proceedings.

Under a law of 1907 adultery and desertion were the only ground for divorce. The Blackwell law added extreme cruelty. Desertion, under the statute, must be willful, continued and obstinate for two years. Extreme cruelty resulting in separation of husband and wife was construed as constructive desertion, being subject to the limitation of the two-year residence requirement. The legislature intended to reduce the period before filing such suits from two years to six months, and make extreme cruelty a direct cause for divorce.

In her petition, filed by Carl Abrenness of New Jersey, Mrs. Carosone charged her husband deserted her October 25, 1921, and the last act of cruelty complained of was committed March 14, 1922. Advisory Master Backen indicated that under the first allegation the desertion would not arise until October 25, 1922, while the extreme cruelty would constitute such ground six months after March 14, 1922.

Mrs. Carosone claimed to be a resident of New Jersey when the cause for action arose and maintained a home in this state when the suit was filed April 4 last. The petition failed to state she had been a resident for the statutory two-year period. The master held this to be essential to sustain the action.

The master referred to the last specific act of cruelty charged where, in Carosone, returning to the home of his wife's parents, where the petitioner had been residing, since the desertion of 1921, without provocation slashed Mrs. Carosone with a razor. The woman was out from the tip of her nose to her right ear, necessitating seventeen stitches, the scar disfiguring her for life. Mrs. Carosone, in an affidavit, charged that Carosone and similarly attacked her mother and brother, inflicting wounds requiring stitches and scarring both for life.

The husband was defendant in three indictments in Essex county in 1921. It is alleged he has fled the county and has not been apprehended. Married by Mayor Gillen, the Carosones subsequently went through a religious ceremony performed by a priest. A series of alleged cruel acts are recited in the complaint, culminating in the assault of March 14, 1922.

Trues Along Highways
Governor Silser outlined to Director Henry B. Kummel of the State Department of Conservation and Development his ideas for reforestation in New Jersey, with particular reference to beautifying highways of the state.

"It has always seemed to me that we are not doing our full duty in New Jersey on the question of reforestation," said the governor to Dr. Kummel, "and I hope to inaugurate some movement during my term of office that will encourage this fine work."

"Recently, I requested the state forester to take up with the State Highway Commission the question of having trees planted along the highways of the state, and a plan working in that direction is now under way. After seeing the beautiful trees that line so many of the highways in France, I wondered why we were not doing something in this country."

The plan which I have in mind, and which is now under way, is to have the state highway engineer give the property owners the line upon which trees are to be planted along the highways, so that when improvements come trees need not be sacrificed.

The state forester will plan and supervise the movement, and give advice to our citizens as to the kind of trees, the methods of planting and the care of the same. He will, among other things, provide for variety of planting and treatment.

It is also proposed that a voluntary organization or organizations be requested to take up this work, ascertain the names of the land owners on either side of the highways, communicate with them and learn how many of them would be willing to cooperate. The State Highway Commission may select a short stretch, which they will treat, with the cooperation of the state forester, for the purpose of demonstrating to citizens what can and ought to be done.

"With the cordial cooperation of our citizens, this movement, which will cost each individual practically nothing, will do much to beautify and improve our state, and at the same time act as a protection to our highways."

May Out River Kinks

Good news came to the citizens of Salem when President James S. Sparks, of the Chamber of Commerce, received a telegram from Washington that the Board of Engineers of the War Department had approved the project for straightening Salem River. This project had been advocated for many years, and several surveys of the route have been made, but governmental approval could not be secured.

The Chamber of Commerce renewed activities two years ago and never gave up hope, collecting valuable data to convince the engineers at Washington of the importance of having the stream straightened. Numerous hearings have been held, and a committee from Salem, headed by Senator Charles B. Allen, acting with United States Senator Edge and Spencer Smith, of the State Board of Commerce and Navigation, went to Washington. The telegram to President Sparks announces the result of the conference.

With the improvement of Salem River it is proposed to develop a port at Salem to connect with the $4,000,000 port at Wilmington, Del. The chamber has employed J. J. Markie as secretary, who will devote his entire time to furthering this work, and also to get the Jersey Central Railroad to extend its lines from Bridgeton, over which route much of the produce from South Jersey could be shipped for transfer to southern points.

Warns Bus Operators

Autobus operators will be required to bring their machines to a full stop at grade crossings, in accordance with the 1923 law, or have violations called to the attention of municipal authorities granted bus permits and the Public Utility Commission, which supervises municipal grants. State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, Dill, outlined the law for the benefit of operators. "A tabulation of autobuses and jitneys crossing at railroad grades shows that at 14 crossings 1,896 buses and jitneys failed to stop," says the commissioner. "It is apparent that the operators of these buses and jitneys either have no knowledge of the law or else are determined to ignore its provisions, with the result that the lives of the passengers of these vehicles are constantly in peril."

Gypsy Moth Still a Peril

In reports of the Bureau of Statistics and Inspection, State Department of Agriculture, have recently intercepted live caterpillars and egg masses of the gypsy moth at Maplewood, Glen Rock, Paterson and Belleville, on nursery stock received from the American Forestry Company of Framingham, Mass.

"This is particularly unfortunate in view of the fact that during the past three years over one-half million dollars have been expended in New Jersey in extermination work in Middlesex and Somerset counties and excellent progress has been made," said the department. "It is useless to continue such work and the funds expended in the past will have been wasted if firms in neighboring states are allowed to reseed the state by sending in infested trees. A restraining order has been sent to the offending firm, and it may be necessary to quarantine the state of Massachusetts and possibly all of the New England states in order to protect New Jersey from further danger."

Standard Grades for Fruit

Slowly, but surely, New Jersey farmers are revising their marketing methods to meet and satisfy the public's demand for guaranteed quality in farm products. According to reports to the State Department of Agriculture, several large organizations and many big private growers will market crops of fruit and vegetables this year under what are recognized by the state and federal departments as standard grades.

Experiences of all large markets last year showed that graded farm products were in strong demand, even when overabundant showed up piles of average stock. Farmers who have tried out the plan are said to have discovered that a trade mark on their graded packages, backed by the guarantee of quality which the brand indicates, establishes a reputation all along the way to the kitchen and dining room of the consumer and develops a steady demand for their goods. Graded with scientific distribution of big crops, the grade idea has done much to stabilize the peach, apple and cranberry business in New Jersey, and it is being adopted to an increasing extent by potato and tomato growers.

Some of the big co-operative farm organizations which have come out in favor of the graded packages are the Jersey Fruit Growers' Co-operative Association, with several local branches in the peach and apple belt; the Garden State Potato Association; the Swedesboro Tomato Growers' Association; Sussex County Fruit Growers'

A North side family had a pair of scales that had to be handled a certain way in order to get accurate weight, relates the Indianapolis News. The colored man who worked for the family, however, was not "wise" to the fact, so, in leaving the family employ, he took with him the scales and established himself at a stand on the market. Before the day was over he was arrested for giving false weight and the scales were confiscated.

Glaze Butter to Preserve It.
A singular method of protecting rolls of butter from deterioration due to outside influences is said to be practiced in France. It consists in brushing the butter with a glaze of melted sugar, laid on with a soft brush. The surface of the butter is slightly melted and a protective varnish is formed. The process has also been introduced on a large scale in England.

"More people want Ford Cars than ever before," Fred W. Seeber, local Ford dealer said today. "Fifty thousand more Fords were sold at retail in March than in any one month in the history of the Ford Motor Company, according to word from Detroit. The March sales totaled 179,764 Cars and Trucks. "For a whole year sales have been running over 100,000 a month, bringing a total of 1,429,979 Ford Cars and Trucks into use in the United States alone since April 1, 1922. "Here in the Palmyra branch territory, of which this city is a part, the March sales were a 100% increase over last year for the same month. The demand for the Ford is just as great proportionately right here at home as it is anywhere else in the country. "The company is now operating on the greatest manufacturing schedule in its history, so there are more Ford Cars being built than ever before and improvements in all the different types make the Ford the best it ever has been. "And Ford Cars are now easier to obtain than ever before because of the new Ford Weekly Purchase Plan which makes it possible for more families to have a car. Father, mother, sons and daughters all can participate in the Plan and it is rather surprising the number of families who are taking advantage of it so as to enjoy the pleasures that come with automobile ownership."

S. S. Leviathan Restores American Prestige to Seven Seas

New York—If Tut-Ankh-Amen, whose tomb has been disturbed after thousands of years of repose, could but visit these shores in his royal barge he would be astounded at the sights which would greet him. Not the least of these by any means would be the huge steamship Leviathan, which if he should pass near it on his voyage would swamp his with its back wash, for the tiny craft upon which the Pharaoh navigated the Nile was but the size of the life boats on the huge liner.

Not alone by the size of the Leviathan would Tut-Ankh-Amen be overwhelmed. Were it possible for him to inspect the vessel, he would find conveniences and comforts of which he never dreamed.

As King Tut would marvel at the splendor of this mighty craft, so will the public when the steamer is thrown open for inspection, prior to making her first trip to Europe on July 4, as a passenger craft under the American flag—for American craftsmen, engineers and architects, American common sense and ingenuity have made possible the placing again in operation of the Leviathan, despite the claim of the skeptics that it could not be done.

Wonder Vessel of the Seven Seas, the Leviathan, reconditioned and refitted at an expense of over $8,500,000, will shortly hoist the house flag of the United States Lines for operation in the North Atlantic passenger service.

With a length over all of 950 feet, 5 1/4 inches, a breadth of 100 feet and a gross tonnage of 59,956, the Leviathan can be likened, with its accommodations for a total of more than 3,400 passengers, only to a floating city, capable of being driven through the seas at tremendous speed by her huge oil-burning engines, which have a maximum of 100,000 horse power.

These engines require for their operation 5,400 tons of fuel oil for a trip. If the fuel bunkers this oil occupies before use were filled with gasoline, it would run a diver 26,321,400 miles, and at the rate of 10,000 miles a year, it would take a driver 263 years, 2 months and 15 days to exhaust the supply.

American Individualism

A Timely Message to the American People

By HERBERT HOOVER
Secretary of Commerce.

VI.—The Future.

INDIVIDUALISM has been the primary force of American civilization for three centuries. It is our sort of individualism that has supplied the motivation of America's political, economic and spiritual institutions in all these years. It has proved its ability to develop its institutions with the changing scene. Our very form of government is the product of the individualism of our people, the demand for an equal opportunity, for a fair chance.

The American pioneer is the epic expression of that individualism, and the pioneer spirit is the response to the challenge of opportunity, to the challenge of nature, to the challenge of life, to the call of the frontier. That spirit need never die for lack of something for it to achieve. There will always be a frontier to conquer or to hold as long as men think, plan and dare. Our American individualism has received much of its character from our contacts with the forces of nature on a new continent. It evolved government without official emissaries to show the way; it plowed and sowed two acres of great states; it built roads, bridges, railways, cities; it carried forward every attribute of high civilization over a continent. The days of the pioneer are not over. There are continents of human welfare of which we have penetrated only the coastal plain. The great continent of science is as yet explored only on its borders, and it is only the pioneer who will penetrate the frontier in the quest for new worlds to conquer. The very genius of our institutions has been given to them by the pioneer spirit. Our individualism is rooted in our very nature. It is based on conviction born of experience. Equal opportunity, the demand for a fair chance, became the formula of American individualism because it is the method of American achievement.

After the absorption of the great plains of the West came the era of industrial development with the new complex of forces that it has brought us. Now haltingly, but with more surety and precision than ever before and with a more conscious understanding of our mission, we are finding solution of these problems arising from new conditions, for the forces of our social system can compass and comprise these.

Our individualism is no middle ground between autocracy—whether of birth, economic or class origin—and socialism. Socialism of different varieties may have something to recommend it as an intellectual stop-look-and-listen sign, more especially for Old World societies. But it contains only destruction to the forces that make progress in our social system. Nor does salvation come by any device for concentration of power, whether political or economic, for both are equally reversions to Old World autocracy in new garments.

Salvation will not come to us out of the wreckage of individualism. What we need today is steady devotion to a better, brighter, broader individualism—an individualism that carries increasing responsibility and service to our fellows. Our need is not for a way out but for a way forward. We found our way out three centuries ago when our forefathers left Europe for these shores, to set up here a commonwealth conceived in liberty and dedicated to the development of individuality.

There are malign social forces other than our failures that would destroy our progress. There are the equal dangers both of reaction and radicalism. The perpetual howl of radicalism is that it is the sole voice of liberalism—that devotion to social progress is its field alone. These men would assume that all reform and human advance must come through government. They have forgotten that progress must come from the steady lift of the individual and that the measure of national idealism and progress is the quality of idealism in the individual. The most trying support of radicalism comes from the timid or dishonest minds that shrink from facing the result of radicalism itself but are devoted to defense of radicalism as proof of a liberal mind. Most theorists who denounce our individualism as a social basis seem to have a passion for ignorance of its constructive ideas.

An even greater danger is the destructive criticism of minds too weak or too partisan to harbor constructive ideas. For such, criticism is based upon the distortion of perspective or cunning misrepresentation. There is never danger from the radical himself until the structure and confidence of society has been undermined by the enthronement of destructive criticism. Destructive criticism can certainly lead to revolution unless there are those willing to withstand the malice that flows in return from refutation. It has been well said that revolution is no summer thunderstorm clearing the atmosphere. In modern society it is a tornado leaving in its path the destroyed homes of millions with their dead women and children.

There are also those who insist that the future must be a repetition of the past; that ideas are dangerous, that ideas are freaks.

To find that fine balance which links the future with the past, whose vision is of men and not of tools, that possesses the courage to construct rather than to criticize—this is our need. There is no oratory so easy, no writing so trenchant and vivid as the phrasing of criticism and malice—there is none so difficult as inspiration to construction.

We cannot ever afford to rest, at ease in the comfortable assumption that right ideas always prevail by some virtue of their own. In the long run they do. But there can be and there have been periods of centuries when the world slumped back toward darkness merely because great masses of men became impregnated with wrong ideas and wrong social philosophies. The decline of civilization have been born of wrong ideas. Most of the wars of the world, including the recent one, have been fought by the advocates of contrasting ideas of social philosophy.

The primary safeguard of American individualism is an understanding of it; of faith that it is the most precious possession of American civilization, and a willingness courageously to test every process of national life upon the touchstone of this basic social premise. Development of the human institutions and of science and of industry have been long chains of trial and error. Our public relations to them and to other phases of our national life can be advanced in no other way than by a willingness to experiment in the remedy of our social faults. The failures and unworked problems of economic and social life can be corrected; they can be solved within our social theme and under no other system. The solution is a matter of will to find solution; of a sense of duty as well as of a sense of right and citizenship. No one who buys "bootleg" whiskey can complain of gunmen and hoodlums.

Humanity has a long road to perfection, but we of America can make sure progress if we will preserve our individualism. If we will pass over and stimulate the initiative of our people; if we will build up our institutions and safeguards to equality of opportunity, if we will glorify service as a part of our national character. Progress will march if we hold an abiding faith in the intelligence, the initiative, the character, the courage, and the divine touch in the individual. We can safeguard these ends if we give to each individual that opportunity for which the spirit of America stands. We can make a social system as perfect as our generation merits and one that will be received in gratitude by our children.

Selecting Bugs for Home.

One of the most important things to consider, when selecting bugs for the home, is that the rug should be made with its surroundings. Both coloring and design should be in keeping with the furnishings and of value only in their relation to one another.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful
Luster At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur restores its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, the natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Drink Water If Back or Kidneys Hurt

Begin Taking Salts If You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach hurts, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jax Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jax Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

IMPORTANCE OF SMALL TOWN
Its Financial and Other Values to the Nation Have in Measure Been Overlooked.

How conscious the small town is becoming of its importance a radio message sent out from the Kansas City Star broadcasting station by the director of economics and social science in a state agricultural college suggests.

Fifty per cent of the purchasers of manufactured articles and of the contributors to our scheme of national finance are found in the small communities. It is in the country bank, the small-town bank, that the farmer's financial business is transacted. The money value of the new wealth created by farm production goes first to the country bank, then to the central bank. Candidates for the office of governor, congressman, senator do not hold the majority of their campaign meetings in the large cities, nor in the small towns. Here they assemble the voters who hold the balance of power in the nation. The small community has furnished the city with its leadership and is still continuing to do so.

He does not stop here. "Small town stuff," as he calls it, has dominated the thinking of the world, and he cites in support of his contention the fact that the philosopher Kant was scarcely ever outside of the small town of his birth, and that Millet was of the country and small town. Moreover, Nazareth, out of which it was asked whether any good thing could come, was a small town, and so was Bethlehem.

Make Opportunity.
The man who habitually waits for something to turn up usually fails to see a good chance when it arrives. Only the man who "hustles while he waits" is likely to appreciate his opportunity when it comes. Wise men make their opportunities.

Discreet Preference.
"Would you rather be photographed than interviewed?" "Yes," replied Senator Sargent. "What you look like may not help you much, but there's no chance of its being as embarrassing as what you happen to say."

Pearl Thimbles.
Ladies of high class in China use the daintiest thimbles imaginable, some of them being carved out of enormous pearls, and ornamented with bands of the gold, on which all manner of symbols and fantastic designs are engraved.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sunday School Board will be held in the Temple on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. In addition to the regular business and financial reports, there will be an address and a general discussion of Sunday School work.

The interest in the prayer services is increasing. Each week there is a special musical number. Every effort is being made to make the meetings attractive, sociable and spiritually helpful. The topic for Wednesday eve- ning is "Feeding the Five Thousand."

On Thursday evening the Ladies' Aid Society will have a party in the temple to which the husbands and men friends of the members are in- vited. There will be an evening of entertainment games, and a novel feature of interest. Refreshments will be served.

Lutheran Church Notes
Sermon subjects for Sunday, May 20: morning, "Pentecostal Power"; evening, the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," by John Henry Newman.

A very interesting service of the Lutheran League is held every Sun- day at 6.30. Subjects of every-day in- terest are ably discussed, and the ser- vice offers instruction to both old and young.

The Men's Bible class of the Sun- day School has been fortunate in pro- curing the Lutheran Choral Society of Trenton, N. J., consisting of fifty voices, for June 7, to present one of their splendid concerts. To make it the better, Mr. Griffenberg is giving them the support of his orchestra of twenty-five pieces. This will be a rare treat for Palmyra. Music lovers of this community should not forget the date, June 7, in the high school. Further announcements will be made later.

PALMYRA HIGH GOING SOME

Track Team Has Won Many Medals; Relay Team Is Famous

During the past three weeks Palmyra High School's track team has been creating a name for itself and "putting Palmyra on the map."

Three weeks ago the relay team won second place at the P. H. Relays, being beaten by Summit High School in 3.37 seconds. The time for P. H. S. was 3.38. This is three seconds better than any time made by pre- vious P. H. S. teams.

The following week the famous five-man track team composed of Kersey, Sacks, Boal, Palphreyman and its star captain, Sullivan, traveled to the Cheltenham Interscholastic meet and returned with nine gold medals, two silver medals and three silver cups to add to their already large collection of trophies. The team scored a total of 36 points, the only winning Class B, but scoring 13 more points than the winner of Class A, Germantown High School.

Sacks placed first in both the 100 and 220, then Palmyra went on to have the 120-yard high hurdles more or less to themselves as Sullivan was the victor and Boal the runner-up. Boal placed in the 220 low hurdles and won easily. By this time Palmyra was in the lead and the relay was yet to be run. Palmyra won this event also, thus gaining their 36 points. Kersey ran first in the relay, then Sacks, Boal and Sullivan.

Beside winning 10 gold and two silver medals, Boal won a silver cup for the highest individual scorer in Class B. He had a total of 11 points when Sacks had 10. One cup was won for first place in the relay and another for the greatest number of points.

Last Saturday the track team went to the P. H. meet and won sec- ond to Abington in Class B. Palmyra's weakness in the field events caused her to lose first place. P. H. S. cleaned up on the track end of the meet, while Abington was the victor in the field events. Sacks again was undefeated in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He also gained two more points by taking third place in the broad jump. Boal was third in the 220 and the relay was not quite up to form as they only placed third.

Haddon Heights is scheduled to come to Palmyra next Thursday. They will be the only opportunity for the home town to see the boys in ac- tion, so everyone is urged to be pres- ent. The meet will be held on the Field Club grounds.

The Burlington County track and field meet will be held on May 24th at Mount Holly. This is the same day as the senior class leaves for Washington. This cripples the boys' relay team and the girls in the track events. Sullivan, captain of the boys' team, and Frances Ruppert and Helen McConnell, both girl stars, are among those who will be missing.

Camp 23, P. O. S. of A.
The thirtieth anniversary has be- come history and the camp faces the future with confidence in the ability to perform greater service.

On Sunday evening a cordial wel- come from the Central Baptist Church preceded an interesting and instruc- tive service by Rev. Charles Wright, of Haddonfield.

The re-union Monday night brought out many of the old timers and in- cluded a class initiation of fifteen new members. Of the original twenty- seven founders who instituted the camp May 15, 1893, thirteen are still on the roll and five of these were present. John C. Finkle, F. Marion Knodel, George J. Seal, Jr., William Smith and George N. Wimer. Short talks by a number of the boys gave zest to the banquet served in the hall of the Carnegie Institute.

A girls' speaker of the evening, Brother Herman Hecht, of Camp 297, Philadelphia, illustrated the value of the organization to the young American and stressed the fact that massed effort along definite lines will attain any worthy objective.

The immediate task confronting our members is to reach the 1100 mark by June 30th. With only six weeks in which to work the job is not small but it can be done by earn- est, united effort.

Tentative plans are afoot for an outing of the county association at Chatsworth Saturday, June 2. Those who can attend should advise the secretary on the 21st.

Palmyra P. T. A. Elects Officers
The Palmyra Parent-Teacher Asso- ciation held its May meeting Tuesday evening with a fine entertainment program and election of officers.

The following will be at the helm of the organization next year: Mrs. J. H. Abell, president; Mrs. Harry Curry, first vice president; Miss Mary E. Patterson, second vice president; Mrs. John Lord, secretary; Mrs. John Hoffner, treasurer.

The curtain committee reported $350 paid on account for the new au- ditorium curtain and that a pure food supper will be held June 1 to raise money for the fund.

The entertainment program fol- lows: piano solo, Warren Denning; saxophone and clarinet solo, Mr. Schwartz; of Sousa's band; recitation, Mrs. Williams; baritone solo, Mr. Buehler; sketch, "Bringing Down Father," written by Daniel Lichten- tal; of the senior class P. H. S.; recitation, "A Negro Sermon," by Daniel Lichtenhal; clarinet solo, Mr. Schwartz.

Laura N. Bramall
Mrs. Laura N. Bramall, wife of Al- bert Bramall, died Saturday, May 12, at Trenton.

Funeral services were held Wed- nesday afternoon from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eyal, 512 Vine street, with the Rev. Fred B. Morley officiating. Friends called Tuesday evening. Interment was made at Morgan cemetery with Fun- eral Director Snover in charge.

Mrs. Bramall is survived by her husband and one son, John. She had a large circle of friends in Palmyra and Riverton.

Lida P. Kruse
Lida P. Kruse, daughter of Mrs. William Thompson, died at her home in Delair late Tuesday afternoon at the age of 35.

Funeral services will be held at her late residence on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. Interment will be made at Monroe cemetery, Upper Darby county, Pa., with Funeral Di- rector Frank A. Snover in charge.

Mary's Little Cake
Mary baked a little cake
To tickle papa's palate;
He put it on a hickory stick
And used it for a mallet.

LEGION DRIVE NEXT WEEK

Post Rodgers to Raise $10,000 to Buy New Home on Broad Street

Next week is Legion Week. From May 21 to May 26 there will be a great drive in Palmyra to raise $10,000 to pay for Post Rodgers' new home on Broad street next to the bank.

Every home in Palmyra will be canvassed for pledges, which may be paid off in four installments, the first falling due next September and the others each six months for two years thereafter.

A special effort is being made to re- vive the spirit of Armistice Day back in the fall of 1918 when the whole country went wild with the news that the boys had won the World War and soon would be home again.

Many were the plans and pledges at that time to honor them and repay them for their heroism and sacrifices, but, after all, little has been done to keep up that spirit or to show the boys they were really appreciated.

Now, at last, the Citizens of Palmyra have a great opportunity to make good.

Flags are to be flown throughout the whole week in honor of the drive and its purpose. It is the week prior to Memorial Day when it is cus- tomary to recall the deeds of the Nation's heroes and do them homage.

The spirit of Memorial Day, Armistice Day and Independence Day are all to be combined in the great drive. Some one has improvised a song, a parody on an old war-time favorite, which runs:

"Keep the dollars dropping,
To buy the Legion Home."
The drive has been announced in all the churches and at the meetings of all the fraternal societies. Every night this week there has been a local speaker at the movies to stir up the crowds there. Appropriate circulars and posters are being distributed.

The property which is being bought for the permanent home of Post Rod- gers is a large, well-built residence, admirably situated for the purpose.

It has room for the first floor for all the offices, clinics, kitchens, etc., which will be needed for the activities of the post, while plans are in contemplation to rearrange the second story to cre- ate a large assembly hall.

The home is to be the property of the Post as long as the Legion exists in Palmyra, and afterwards, if desir- able at that time, the property is to be reversion to the community.

Mayor Weart, speaking at the P. O. S. of A. meeting Monday evening, pointed out how easy it would be for one to make a substantial subscription to the project.

The price of two Cincos cigars, 16 cents a day during the life of the pledges, would enable a citizen to subscribe one hundred dollars.

The Mayor felt sure that no citizen would hesitate to make such a small sacrifice for the boys who risked their lives in the trenches and training camps during the greatest war of his- tory.

The drive will be officially launched at a big meeting to be held this Fri- day evening in the Legion rooms. Every citizen, men and women, are urged to be present to get things off to a flying start. Interesting an- nouncements and interesting speakers will be heard.

NEW BUS SUCCESSFUL
Line From Palmyra to Frankford "L" Attracts Many Passengers

"Pat" Steedle's new bus, which runs from the Palmyra to the Frankford "L" via the Palmyra ferry, attracted much attention and growing patronage during the first week of its operation.

Fred Blackburn, one of our oldest residents, tried it out on Wednesday and reports he reached Second and Mar- ket streets, Philadelphia, in thirty-five minutes after leaving Palmyra. Mr. Blackburn says he's going to use the bus for all his Philadelphia trips.

Some of the ladies are understood to have found shopping in Frankford interesting.

After some franchise difficulties are solved, the bus will make Riverton station its starting point, but at present it starts from Palmyra station.

A complete schedule of bus trips and the ferry time table is printed in this issue.

SEES NO NEED FOR FENCES
At Least They Should Not Obstruct View of Landscape, Says Al- fred Hopkins.

Once upon a time when our ances- tors spoke of their "defensible" they referred to the great walls and battle- ments which protected them against warlike neighbors, but neighbors are more friendly nowadays, and the "de- fence" have dwindled down to mere "fences." Most people owning de- tached homes like to have either a fence or a hedge along the boundary line.

There is no so much to learn from European countries with respect to fence design, says Alfred Hopkins, well-known architect, as there is from the American colonial period which was rich in this particular. England has given some excellent examples of the iron fence, but the iron fence has had no great development here.

The tall solid masonry walls of the continental estate are not friendly in America, nor are they desirable here. Mr. Hopkins points out, because we have endless land and comparatively scattered population. The impulse for privacy on the part of the well-to-do is as insistent as ever, but as a general principle, says Mr. Hopkins, a fence which is not absolutely neces- sary should be done away with, or at least it should not obstruct a view of the landscape.

Merit in Clean Walks.
No day is too good for serious con- sideration of the obligation resting on conscientious citizens to keep their sidewalks as clean as possible in the months of snow, ice and slush. Men and women may be as badly hurt by falling on their way to or from church as they can be in their business er- rands of the working week, and it is just as irritating to wallow through drifts of melting ice and half-frozen water on Sunday as any other day.

There is real merit in well-kept side- walks. They are a comfort to many thousands of pedestrians and a credit to householders and all others who have to do the work or get it done. In the large sense, walks clear of snow and ice contribute to the stand- ing of the city which is able to show such proof of good citizenship, and the more difficult weather conditions make this service to the public the higher praise it deserves.

Make Opportunity.
The man who habitually waits for something to turn up usually fails to see a good chance when it arrives. Only the man who "hustles while he waits" is likely to appreciate his opportunity when it comes. Wise men make their opportunities.

Discreet Preference.
"Would you rather be photographed than interviewed?" "Yes," replied Senator Sargent. "What you look like may not help you much, but there's no chance of its being as em- barrassing as what you happen to say

Interesting Notes from Our Busy Correspondents in East Riverton, Asbury, Westfield and Parry

Asbury

Miss Abbie Dole, of Camden, visited the Sunshine class of Asbury on Sunday.

Mothers' Day was celebrated at the Asbury Church on Sunday. Many people were disappointed on account of the showers, so were unable to attend the service. As we could not get white carnations, we decided to give pansy plants to the mothers.

The following children were baptized on Sunday: Charles Henry Gauntt, Howard Joseph Gauntt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Gauntt, and William Lewis Gauntt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Gauntt. There were others to have been baptized but on account of sickness they were not present.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Southwick entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bishop and son, of White Horse, Trenton, Mrs. Aaron Bishop, Miss Esther Langdon, and Mrs. Joseph Horner, of Bridgeboro. Mrs. Frank Sievers and son, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hunter and two daughters, of Riverside. Rev. George A. Palmer will preach at Asbury Church Sunday, May 20, morning and evening, services at 10.30 and 7.00 p.m., daylight saving. All are cordially invited to hear our former pastor.

Cinnaminson

The Boys' Bible Class held its weekly meeting at the home of William Yerkes on Wednesday evening, May 9th.

After the business meeting the rest of the time was turned over for recreation during which time the Girls' Class gave a surprise party on the boys. Also the play, which the boys and girls have been practicing, and which they expect to present in late July or early August, was rehearsed. It is a three-act play known as "Back to the Old Country Store."

Next week the class will hold its meeting at the home of Freeman Hunter.

Campbell Soup Farms of Cinnaminson are better prepared to meet the demands of their contractors for tomato plants. Last fall they built on their No. 2 farms, which is situated across from Dreer's farm, a large irrigation plant which towers some 75 feet in the air. A large gasoline engine supplies the water pumped from Pompton creek, which is carried by pipe a thousand feet into the reservoir. The ground where the tomato plants are grown is covered by sprinklers supplied by the reservoir. By means of this they were able to keep the plants from being killed by the recent frost and also the severe sandstorm on Saturday, by turning on their sprinkler system. From reports it seems as though they were going to have a bigger season than last.

Mrs. David Oliver, of Cinnaminson, is in bed and has been for two weeks with the grippe and influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dancer visited her mother at Westfield last Sunday. Despite the fact that we had frost and a cold spell last week the fruit growers report that they will have a much larger crop this year than last, especially peaches, which were so scarce last season on this account. Burlington county contains some of the best peach orchards in New Jersey and will stage a comeback in payment of last year's failure.

Farmer to Meet Call for Guaranteed Products

New Jersey farmers are revising their marketing methods to meet and satisfy the public's demand for guaranteed quality in farm products. According to reports to the State Department of Agriculture, several large organizations and many big private growers will market crops of fruit and vegetables, this year, under what are recognized by the State and Federal departments as standard grades.

Experience of all large markets, last year, showed that graded farm products were in strong demand, even when over-supply slowed up sales of average stock. Farmers who have tried out the plan are said to have discovered that a trade mark on their graded packages, backed by the guarantee of quality which the standard indicates, develops a steady demand for their goods.

Some of the big cooperative farm organizations which have come out in favor of the graded packages are the Jersey Fruit Growers' Cooperative Association, with several local branches in the peach and apple belt; the Garden State Potato Association; the Swedesboro Tomato Growers' Association; Sussex County Fruit Growers' Association; Ocean County Sweet Potato Growers' Association, and the New Jersey Poultry Producers' Association.

C. NELSON SPERLING, Pastor.

is issuing a special appeal through the press for cooperation on the part of every citizen and strongly emphasizes the need of extreme precaution on the part of every person who goes into the woods whether for pleasure or profit.

Each person is urged:

1.—To take a personal, persistent and active interest in putting out each forest fire seen, no matter how small. All big fires come from small beginnings.

2.—To see that a firewarden, the property owner or some responsible person is notified and "on the job" before a fire is left, when it is not possible to control it personally. Prompt attention keeps fires small.

3.—To make it a personal duty and privilege to see that no case of reckless, careless or ignorant use of fire in or near the woods is overlooked. Interested public opinion is the only effective law enforcer.

4.—To openly and always seek to interest and educate acquaintances and friends in the need for better forest protection and in the means of getting it. Enlightened public interest is essential to efficient fire protection.

To help those at work on the problem by frank, constructive criticism of mistakes or failures in their policy and work, by open appreciation of good work done and by endorsement of policies and plans. Sympathetic public cooperation is both a safeguard and a stimulus to honest and effective public service.

WILL ORGANIZE FOR PEACE

Mrs. Edward Burd Merrill is Organizer for Burlington County; Mrs. E. B. Showell for Riverton

A most inspirational meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Edna Burd Merrill, 309 Bank avenue, for the purpose of spreading the message of Peace and to further the cause in our community.

Miss Lida Stokes Adams, who is Pennsylvania organizer, for the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, addressed the group. She prefaced her talk with a brief survey of our last war, in all its horrors, and pictured what a future war might mean with the deadly gases and air warfare made possible, the gigantic scale on which modern warfare may be carried on.

Miss Adams appealed to the mothers of the present youth of our country to band together in a tremendous force for permanent peace—to substitute law for war and to serve our country in time of peace rather than prepare for service in time of war.

Already twenty-two countries have joined to form the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, with a permanent secretary at Geneva and our National headquarters in Washington.

About seventy women in South Jersey are members, some active, of the Pennsylvania branch of the organization, but it is hoped that through this meeting the part of New Jersey will become an active branch.

Mrs. Edna Burd Merrill was appointed organizer for Burlington county, with the following leaders in the towns represented at the meeting: Mrs. Ella G. Richdale, Merchantville; Mrs. Esther W. S. Brophy, Moorestown; and Mrs. E. B. Showell, Riverton.

The annual dues are one dollar. Other local organizations are asked to affiliate by taking out a membership for the group, the larger the number in back of this movement, the stronger will be the force for its success.

No more vital subject confronts us than that of Peace, not one of us has the right to sit back and say "it is someone else's work. It is ours, each one and everyone, for we have proven that to prepare for war is to get war. Why not then prepare for peace and get peace?"

Every citizen in this community will be asked to become a member of this organization.

Forest Fires Burn 82,000 Acres in Ten Days

Preliminary reports received by State Firewarden C. P. Wilber of the Department of Conservation and Development indicate that the forest fires which raged in all parts of New Jersey during the last ten days of April burned over an aggregate of approximately 82,000 acres. When it is realized that this area exceeds Essex county in size by about 6,000 acres, some idea of the extent of the devastation may be gained.

FREEHOLDERS AT ODDS

Lippincott and Rogers Seek to Have Two County Autos Sold

Freeholder Fred Lippincott, of Moorestown, started some firework at the meeting of the Board last Friday when he charged that the automobiles purchased by the county for Freeholders Charles R. Stout and J. Lloyd Wright were being used for private, personal and political purposes.

Lippincott then introduced a resolution demanding that the two cars be sold.

George Rogers, of Palmyra, supported the resolution, but it was opposed by Wright, Stout and Russ, and was consequently defeated.

The circumstances out of which grew Friday's action goes back four or five weeks, at which time Lippincott offered a resolution that three cars be bought, one each for Lippincott, Russ and Wright. This resolution was defeated. Later Mr. Lippincott presented for approval a bill for a car which he wished to buy for his own use, which was turned down. Subsequent to the refusal of the Board to sanction the purchase of a car for Mr. Lippincott, a resolution was passed to buy one car, the use of which was to be divided between the three departments of finance, J. Lloyd Wright; public affairs, Fred Lippincott, and public buildings, Howard Russ.

Speaks on "Trained Teachers" at Annual Meeting of Burlington County Council

The spring meeting of the Burlington County Council of New Jersey, held at the Hotel Hamilton, May 16, 1923, was devoted to the subject of "Trained Teachers." The morning session was devoted to business. The report of the Burlington County Educational News showed splendid cooperation all through the county and returns are being made daily. As time goes on, everyone is more fully convinced that an unusual opportunity to help every school boy and girl in Burlington county lies in this paper.

The following officers were elected for two years: Mrs. Walter L. Bowen, Riverton, chairman; Mrs. H. A. Frantz, Moorestown, first vice chairman; Mrs. M. Krupnick, Mount Holly, second vice chairman; Miss Emily Comly, Hartford, secretary; Mrs. Edward Ried, Lambertown, treasurer.

Mrs. Walter Dawson, of Haddonfield, State chairman of programs spoke to the delegation on "Constructive Program Building."

Miss Emma Smedley, of Philadelphia, supervisor of school lunches in that city, spoke on the value of hot lunches in schools where the children cannot go home.

In the afternoon, Miss Katherine Markham, of the State Department of Education, gave a most interesting demonstration of how physical training is taught in our schools today.

Miss Chew's Address

Miss Hannah H. Chew, supervisor of schools in Riverton, spoke as follows:

Please do not infer that the title of the subject upon which I am to speak casts any reflection upon the record of our own beloved State. We have no apologies to offer for New Jersey, for she is at the fore-front along the line of improvement of her prospective teachers, as well as those in service who are concerned with other State of the country.

Why should teachers be "trained?" What do we mean by "training of teachers?" Where should such training be given?

If I answer the last question first, I may say that I believe the training of a teacher begins with the experiences gained when a young child in the formation of habits of industry, self-control, honesty, and courtesy, a large share of which is the responsibility of the elementary school. I believe that a teacher who has had the background of a good elementary school training, and a good high school, will come from the normal school or the college far better equipped for service than one who has not been so fortunate.

Therefore, teacher-training at its best, must be a cumulative training, and each generation of teachers should be better than that immediately preceding it.

The story of the child and teacher at extremes of the log is so old as to be trite, and it is extremely doubtful whether our modern curriculum with its riches of the past, its absorbing interests of the present, and its provisions for the needs of the future, could be put across in so simple a fashion, yet the fact still remains that the teacher is the factor that is of vital importance in the school. It is the teacher who must interpret the curriculum to the child in terms that should make for growth physically, mentally, socially and spiritually.

The time has passed in New Jersey, and is passing in other parts of our country, when boys and girls can go from high school, or with even less preparation, into the world of teaching. The standard is being gradually raised, and doubtless the time will come when no new teacher will be accepted who has not had definite educational training before beginning professional work.

Dr. Dewey says, "Education is the one thing in which the American people believe without reserve and to which they are without reserve committed." The present discussion as to the increased cost of the schools is bound to react favorably for it will bring investigation into the causes leading to increased cost, and a more intelligent knowledge of school needs at the present time as compared with those of say, twenty-five years ago. Just in proportion as changing conditions of the present-day scientific age have changed the curriculum of the school, so have they made increasing demands upon the teacher. There is also growing to be a science of teaching which must be understood by those in the profession of teaching.

The responsibility placed upon the school has been increased. We are the qualities that make for success in a teacher have not changed—knowledge of the work to be done, attention to business, self-control, courtesy, and a willingness to do more than is absolutely required, modern requirements have made it necessary for a good teacher to have a wide range of subject matter. "It is a long established fact that in order to teach a little is necessary to know much."

Professional training, including the study of child psychology, the fundamental principles of method and management and practice under competent and sympathetic supervision are to be given before a teacher is ready to begin actual work.

The modern school has become a very complex affair, and the work of the teacher correspondingly more difficult, for she must now train the body for health and strength, the hands to do, the mind to think and the heart to respond to right motives. This is not a task which should be undertaken without specific preparation.

If we have been considering the ideal situation, what of the real conditions as we actually have them? Those who have been familiar with school conditions for a few years can look back and note great progress. We still have the untrained teacher and generally she is in the place where the best-trained teacher is needed. But more and more is being urged the necessity of training the teachers already in service. In New Jersey our efficient helping teachers are doing pioneer work in the educational field, through supervision of the rural teachers. Superintendents and supervisors elsewhere are through study classes and demonstrations working with their groups to improve the quality of teaching. It is estimated that more than 300,000 students will enroll in summer schools throughout the country this coming summer. A number of them will be New Jersey teachers and some of them will be from Burlington county.

Dallas L. Lee Sharp, in his "Education in a Democracy" says, "There is nothing paternalistic or eleemosynary about the public school. It was not designed to dole out educational aims to the needy. Whether the child is rich or poor matters not; whether he wants this education or can use it later in business is not the question. The question is what the Nation needs and can use in its business; and the Nation needs an educated citizen, so peculiarly educated that he will safeguard the rights and liberties of this free people."

We are training future citizens. Such is the purpose of the school of today. The stuff with which we have to deal is the whole child—body, mind and spirit.

Secretary Hoover in an article recently written for the Journal of the N. E. A. says:

As a race we produce a considerable percentage of persons in each generation who have the intellectual and moral qualities for the moral and intellectual inspiration of others, for the organization and administration of our gigantic economic and intellectual machinery, and for invention and creation. I believe that we lose a large portion of those who could join these ranks because we fail to find them, to train them right, to create character in them, and to inspire them to effort. Our teachers are not doing this.

Mr. J. O. Engle, applied the army of inspectors in our Nation who must find these individuals and who must stimulate them forward.

While vocational training is obviously necessary and cultivation of the mind in the finer flowers of civilization is of importance, yet the creation of character is of greater importance. If these are our responsibilities, surely we should not allow untrained youth to experiment where inadequacy may mean disaster to the boys and girls of today. New Jersey having won her place must keep it. The way to make it possible is to increase the demand for well-trained teachers.

To sum up our points, then, 1. Teachers should be trained because they enter a responsible profession dealing with the most valuable asset of the Nation—its boys and girls.

2. We mean by training of teachers, a good general education plus instruction in the specific educational subjects of psychology, methods, and management, with application of the same under supervision.

3. Such training should be obtained from elementary and high schools under good teachers, and continued in normal schools or educational college courses, followed by actual practice work in the classroom.

After such preliminary training has been acquired, teachers will still need to keep in touch with educational thought of the day, and to make special study of their individual work. Education is never static, and there is danger if a teacher stands still.

Mr. J. O. Engle, field secretary of the N. E. A. says:

"We expect experts to tinker with our autos when they need attention. We want the best legal advice when we are in legal difficulties. We demand scientific training of those who experiment with our plants and animals and pave the way for a better agriculture tomorrow. Shall we not demand the best men and women our communities produce as teachers of our children? And can we get and keep that type by a retrenchment policy that sacrifices the future for the sake of the present? It was a wise man who first observed that a politician is a man who has his eye on the next election, but a statesman is one who keeps his eye on the next generation."

Bridgeboro Home and School League Entertains at a Banquet

On Tuesday evening of this week, Bridgeboro Home and School League entertained its members at a banquet in the lunch room in the basement of the school, which was recently cemented, painted white and equipped with electric lights, by the joint action of the Home and School League and the Board of Education. This room is used as a kitchen and lunch room, providing hot lunches for pupils who cannot go home. The banquet hall was attractively decorated with the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher colors, blue and gold, and with wild fern and honeysuckle. The dinner, complete in every detail, was served by a group of young girls of the school, dressed in white.

Among the guests were Rev. E. W. Conklin and wife, of Riverside, Louis J. Kaser, county superintendent, and wife, Miss Caroline B. Leconey, helping teacher, of Moorestown; Mrs. Walter L. Bowen, county council chairman, of Riverton. Addresses were made by Mr. Conklin, Mr. Kaser, Miss Leconey, and Mrs. Bowen. The toast was given by W. E. Newkirk, who enlivened the occasion by his original manner of introducing the speakers. Aaronson Bell, principal of the school, paid a high tribute to the work done by the Home and School League and told of some of the things it had accomplished. The Bridgeboro Home and School League has been organized six years and during that time about $800 has been spent on the school for various improvements.

The membership of the organization is eighty. Mrs. E. C. Whitmer is president.

LESSON FOR MAY 27

ISAIAH, THE STATESMAN AND PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 61:1-12

GOLDEN TEXT—Here am I, send me.—Isaiah 6:8

REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Chronicles 26:1-21; Isaiah 1:10; 1:11-17; 1:18-20

PRIMARY TOPIC—Isaiah Who Was Ready

JUNIOR TOPIC—Isaiah's Call to Service

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Isaiah's Work for His People

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Isaiah, the Statesman and Prophet

I. Isaiah's Vision of the Lord (vv. 1-4). No one's ministry will ever be fruitful until he has had a vision of Jehovah. The scope of his tasks and the power to perform services will be lacking until he sees God.

1. He Saw the Lord on His Throne (v. 1). The prophet's gaze penetrated to the very throne of the eternal. We need not so much know things concerning God as to have a vision of Him, even to see Him on His throne. Surely now, as perhaps never before, with the awful darkness settling down upon the world and the foundations of culture and civilization, institutions and governments are tottering, we need a vision of the enthroned Lord.

2. He Saw the Seraphim Above (vv. 2, 3). Whatever form or rank these things have, they clearly are ministers of the Most High. Their standing indicates that they were in readiness to do His bidding. Their equipment with six wings shows the celerity with which they executed His will. In the Divine presence they find different uses for wings. One pair was needed to veil the seraph's head from the "intolerable effulgence" of the glory. One pair veiled the feet, which had been soiled in the execution of the commission. The third pair was suspended in midair while waiting to depart on any errand which the Lord willed. All ceaselessly cried, "Holy, holy, holy." The supreme attribute of Jehovah is holiness. It is for this that His creatures worship and adore Him. The treble repetition doubtless refers to the true God. Holy is the One who created us, holy is the One who redeemed us, and holy is the One who sanctifies and keeps us. From the position of God's throne they see the whole earth filled with His glory.

3. He Saw Manifestations of Majesty (v. 4). As the holy ones cried the very door posts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke indicates the Divine presence in anger. (Ex. 19:18; 20:18). This indicated that the selfishness, idolatry and ingratitude of Israel provoked God's anger.

II. Isaiah's Conviction of Sin (v. 6). When the prophet got a vision of the holy God he was smitten with a sense of sin. This is always true. The reason that men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile. He realized that he had sinned in speech and in deed, and that he was living in the midst of an unclean people.

III. Isaiah Cleaned From Sin (vv. 6, 7). Having been convicted of sin and having made confession of it, a burning coal was taken from the altar to purify his sin. His penitential guilt was forgiven and removed. Those unclean lips were refined by fire and, with pure speech, he expressed the holy thoughts of God. Only fire from God's altar can purify us from our sins.

IV. Isaiah's Call. God did not call the prophet until after he was cleansed. The purified soul is the soul ready for the Lord's service. Indeed, the unconvicted, unforgiven and uncleaned soul cannot even hear the Divine call for service.

V. Isaiah's Dedication (v. 8). Following the cleansing from sin there was the quick response for service. The one purified and sanctified and made meet for the Master's use readily responds to the call of God. They did not inquire as to the issue, did not desire to see the end from the beginning, but with freedom came forward to serve.

VI. Isaiah's Commission (vv. 9-12). The previous outlook was not promising. He shrank back from the responsibility and instantly cried, "How long, Lord?" The people were steeped in selfishness and the Lord assured him that their blindness and sin, though long, would not continue forever. The people would go on in sin, to be taken captive and the land be made desolate.

Economy. The regard one shows economy is like that we show an old aunt who is to leave us something at last.—Shenstone.

Conscience. The worm of conscience is the companion of the owl. The light is shunned by sinners and evil spirits only.—Schiller.

Neighborly Love. Love your neighbor, yet pull not down your hedge.—George Herbert.

If earth were never wraped in night
On man would never dawn the "morrow":
We cannot reach "the raptured height":
Until we walk "the vale of sorrow":
As sunshine sweetly follows rain—
So smiles of joy come after weeping.
With bitter tears—in grief and pain—
We're sowing for a golden reaping.

If April should her tears withhold,
Sweet May would miss her fragrant flowers.
If darksome days we ne'er behold
Less bright will seem the golden hours,
And, if a loss the soul sustain—
Vain—vain would be our fretful grieving:

For us—upon the loom of pain—
A glorious fabric Love is weaving.
The highest, sweetest joy of life
Can only come to us in giving,
And we must cross "the sea of death":
To mingle with the truly living,
Who yieldeth up his life shall gain,
And who would save his own shall lose it.

Oh, radiant is the path of pain,
And sweet to loyal souls who choose it!

TO WIDEN STREET

Mount Holly Business Men Arrange for Improvement to be Paid for by County and Township Jointly

Under a plan which has been worked out by the Township Committee and approved by the Board of Freeholders with its promise of cooperation, Pine street, at the junction with Mill street in Mount Holly is to be considerably widened to take care of the greatly increased traffic which has created a necessity for some improvement at that point.

The expense of these alterations will be borne jointly by the Township and the County—the township to pay for the cost of the new sidewalks and alterations to adjoining property, and the County to bear the cost of widening the bridge.

The proposition was discussed at the April meeting of the Mount Holly Business Men's Association and met with general approval. Business Secretary Marryer was instructed to confer with the Township Committee on the subject. The committee members were enthusiastic with the suggestion and made tentative arrangements with the property owners who will be affected. Then the whole plan was submitted to the Board of Freeholders. Solicitor Peacock reported that the cost of widening the arch bridge would not exceed $1,000.

The Freeholders took a recess to view the corner and reconvened to consider the matter, being firmly convinced of the necessity for the improvement, and gave their approval.

This is just the kind of an improvement that should be made to Main street, Riverton, from the railroad to the Borough line.

Perhaps if we had a Business Men's Association or some other organization to look after Riverton's business interests, we'd get it.

Those who have vision enough to see beyond today's conditions and requirements, realize that if Riverton is going to maintain the proud position she has held for half a century or more, there must be concerted effort looking to the future.

The individuals who "made" Riverton in the past are gone. Their places must be taken by the concerted action of the many.

To Ask Old Residents Here on the Fourth

The Fourth of July Committee is planning for the biggest time ever on Independence Day, one of the proposed new features is to invite former residents of Riverton to participate in our celebration.

It has been proposed that the Mayor and Borough Council issue the invitations to come to Riverton at that time, these invitations to be sent by residents of Riverton to their friends out of town, and particularly to those who formerly lived here.

If this project is carried out, it will bring back to the Borough many who have not visited here for a long time and should add very materially to the success and pleasure of the day.

The Dunn Pen Will Go Up June 1

We have just received word that the price of Dunn pens, the pen with the "little red pump handle," will be advanced the first of June. Place your orders now and save the difference. A full assortment will be found at the New Era office. These pens, as you know, are fully guaranteed and meet your requirements or money refunded. And you are to be the sole judge of whether you want the pen or the money. The Dunn pen by the way, makes an ideal commencement gift.

George Steedle's new bus is also doing more and more business as folks get acquainted with its conveniences.

In the Boys' and Girls' Corner will be found this week an account of the Field Day exercises last Friday afternoon by the Riverton Public School.

Several very interesting accounts of this event were submitted but owing to our limited space we were able to use only one. They were so well written that we should have liked to use them all.

Those who have recently purchased cars through Preston Wisner, representative of the Rein Motor Company, Riverside, are James Davidson, of Garfield avenue, a beautiful maroon seven-passenger Willys-Knight; Samuel Freeman, proprietor of Freeman's Economy Store near Overland avenue, a new Overland touring; Gilbert Coe, of Thomas avenue, Riverton, a new Overland sedan.

Two young men and two girls had narrowly escaped from drowning last Thursday night, when their sail boat was capsized off Delair by the high wind blowing at that time. The boys were Edward Chipman, of Pensauken, and Harry McGintiney, of the same place. The girls were Miss Nakaro, of Fish House, and Miss Schneiter, of Cramer Hill. The quartette clung to the overturned boat until they were rescued by a launch.

Cinnaminson Home Fete

Arrangements are progressing very satisfactorily in connection with the Cinnaminson Home Fete which will be held on the home grounds on Saturday, June 2, from 3 to 8 p.m.

The Board of Managers report a ready response from residents to their request for useful articles, cakes, candies, etc., to sell. An unusual interest is being manifested throughout this part of the county in the fair, and there is little doubt that it will be the best ever held.

Perhaps there are no people in the world more liberal than those who reside in the United States, and the help they have given to the unfortunate peoples of Europe during the past few years will stand as a permanent record of the charity of our country. We must not forget, however, that in our midst are always many cases of poverty and sickness which need immediate assistance.

The wonderful work of the Cinnaminson Home is caring for unfortunate women and children in some instances that should appeal to us all as a worth-while labor.

A happy afternoon and evening is assured everyone who attends the fete and arrangements have been made to entertain not only children but adults.

The Yacht Club's New Home

On Monday afternoon, the Riverton Yacht Club purchased the George W. Edwards' property on the river bank. The subscription committee was able to slightly over-subscribe the liberal amount former Commodore William H. Boyer gave to the club, provided the club could raise a like amount. A committee was appointed to take charge of furnishing the house at once. Several rooms have already been let out to members who intend to spend the summer at the club house.

The commodore also appointed an entertainment committee, composed of George B. Shaner, Jr., George W. Smith, Jr., and C. B. Durborow. It is the desire of the committee to have a Yacht Club dance before furnishing the house, so that there will be more room for the dancers. It is also planned to celebrate the club's entry into its new house by giving a Yacht Club dinner. The club is greatly encouraged, as over a score of new members have joined in the last two weeks, and the membership list is growing steadily. The club is making many plans and with such a fine residence for a club house, pier and location, the Riverton Yacht Club seems destined to be the most powerful and patronized yacht club in this section of the country.

Riverton Group Has Final Meeting

Burying a funny-looking effigy constituted the ceremony in connection with the closing meeting of the season of the Riverton YMCA, group, which has been meeting under the leadership of Samuel B. Jones, Jr.

Mr. Jones talked to the boys very earnestly about what the group had meant to him, the things that they accomplished together, and the hopes that he had for its future development and the development of each individual member. A refreshments committee served generous portions of ice cream and cake. Secretary Hendry and Ashbrook were visitors at this meeting. The boys of this group plan to go on a special group week-end camping trip. They have a camp site in Lumberton in mind. Later a number of the fellows will attend Camp Ockanickon.

Riverside Group Has Distinguished Visitor

William D. McRae, former State secretary for New Jersey, when Burlington county was organized for the YMCA work back in 1905, while on an oversight trip with his family the week, visited the Riverside Junior group, which is under the leadership of Lawrence H. Nolte. Mr. McRae held the boys a short talk, which, out of his vast experience in the YMCA work, was full of very helpful suggestions. At that same meeting the group also enjoyed lantern slides of the work throughout the county and particularly of scenes at Ockanickon. A number of the fellows of this group plan to attend camp.

Idle Instruments Put to Good Use

Secretary Hendry, in speaking before the Parent-Teacher Association at Pemberton, May 16th, told of his personal knowledge of the hunger of the boys to learn to play musical instruments, who were often limited because they could not purchase them. He then asked the ladies if they had instruments which were acting as dust collectors in their homes, which would never be used in their families, to let him find some boy who would discover new joy in learning to play. Right after the meeting he had located a number of instruments, a violin, a mandolin, a bugle, and a piano. Can you add to this list? Recently a cornet was given by Mrs. Samuel A. Borden, 127 Broad street, to Mount Holly, which was put at the disposal of a young man not able to buy an instrument, but who for a long time has been wanting to play a horn.

County Parent-Teacher Associations' Council Offers Free Trip to Ockanickon

In the bulletin issued from the county YMCA office, Mount Holly, describing this contest, information is given that the winner of first place is to get two free weeks at Camp Ockanickon, the next best to get one free week. The contest is to center on the securing of subscriptions for the Burlington County Educational News at the price of $2 a year, combined with which the subscriber receives each week the Mount Holly News. The contest regulations are as follows: 1, applicants must be between the ages of 12 and 16 and enroll on the special contest blank, answering all questions therein. 2, the subscriber securing the greatest number of subscriptions up to June 15th, orders for same having been received at the county office not later than five o'clock daylight on June 15th, on that afternoon, will then choose which two weeks he will spend at camp with all expenses paid. The fellow securing the second highest number of subscriptions will receive one week above, can select which week out of the four Ockanickon camping weeks he chooses with all expenses paid; 3, the contest will then continue for all other members to enroll up to and through October 15th, at which time the boy securing the greatest number of subscriptions will have two free weeks at Camp Ockanickon in 1924, and the next highest contestant will receive one free week.

Mr. Biddle Re-elected President

At the annual meeting of the Riverton Free Library Association Monday evening, Robert Biddle was re-elected president; J. Carl DeLaCour, vice-president; Miss C. S. Coale, secretary; and Harry F. Jones, treasurer.

In his report the president referred to the fact that it had been necessary to install a new heating plant during the past year and that the building must be painted and have a new roof, calling for an increase in income to meet these expenses.

Boats Stolen From Yacht Club

The Riverton Yacht Club was again visited by thieves Thursday night last week. One of the sixteen-foot boat, owned by E. W. Miller, and an eight foot row boat and pair of oars, belonging to E. K. Merrill were stolen. The lockers were broken open but little loot was found, owing to the fact that the yachting season has not yet opened and the members' belongings had not been placed in the club house.

Summons From the Vasty Deep.

Ghosts have made an appearance in the "agony column" of a newspaper. One morning an advertiser announced that he would be grateful for information of any old house reasonably close to Capetown, where a genuine specter, complete with clanking chains, or head in arm, may be clearly seen by the naked eye. Later came another notice summoning "all members of standing" to a meeting "to protest against the manner in which they are being commercially exploited." This from the "King of Specterland." His majesty stated that due notice will be given of "time and place," but the meeting has not yet been reported.—Star Advertiser.

MATTER EASY TO PUT RIGHT

Young Lady Willing to Do Anything Which Rules of the Bank Seemed to Call For.

She was pretty, and spoke with a delightful accent. No wonder the cashier's heart beat fast as she handed him a check.

"I'm afraid you haven't endorsed this quite correctly," said the cashier.

"No, it is made out to Gertrude H. Grey, and you have written 'Gertrude Grey,'" she nodded.

"Ah, you don't quite understand me," replied the cashier. "What I mean to say is, you have left out the H."

"Oh, so I have," she exclaimed, smiling sweetly as she took back the check and dipped her pen in the ink. "Age twenty-one," she wrote.

HOME IS RICHLY ENDOWED

Sailors' Snug Harbor, in New York, Has No Need to Appeal to the Charitably Inclined.

The richest charitable institution in New York, which in 10 years has never appealed for funds and which has lately rolled up a cash surplus of more than $2,000,000, is Sailors' Snug Harbor on Staten Island.

This institution was founded with a bequest valued at only about $30,000. More than 1,000 superannuated seamen are drowsing out their lives in Sailors' Snug Harbor, whose founding was the idea of Alexander Hamilton.

Hamilton is recorded as advising Capt. Robert Richard Randall, "a bachelor, more careful and successful than most of his fellows," that since his fortune had been made by "honest privateering," he should give it back to the seamen who had made it for him. Captain Randall's will made in 1801, disposed of securities and a farm of about 21 acres, the whole then valued at about $80,000.

The increase in the value of the farm, in the very heart of Manhattan island, has been so tremendous that the income of the estate last year was $1,115,408. The value of the estate itself has been estimated some times at as high as $80,000,000, although the trustees have not for years made any public statement other than that of income and expenditures, as required by the terms of the charter.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Railway Station Synagogue.

While the building boom of the last two years has mitigated the housing shortage of the Coney Island neighborhood, there is still a shortage of church edifices. Lacking quarters for their growing congregations some denominations are hard put to provide a place of worship.

But the Hebrews of the Manhattan Beach section have solved the problem for the time at least by acquiring Beach station of the Long Island railroad, which they call Temple Beth-El. This structure is built of tapestry brick in the Colonial style and is keeping with the restrictions of that neighborhood, while the waiting rooms, thrown into one compartment, provide a commodious auditorium for the worshippers.—New York Sun.

WASTED SYMPATHY

Bella: I was awfully sorry to hear of the death of your aged husband.

Stella: Thanks the loss was fully covered by insurance.

Surely a Narrow Escape.

When their car went over a 75-foot embankment at Eagle Hills, Sask., turning over, according to report seven times, a young farmer of the Wilkes district and three other occupants narrowly escaped death. By crouching in their seats they avoided injury except a few scratches and bruises. The car, badly battered, landed right side up at the foot of the hill it was traveling about 15 miles an hour when it took the dive.

Surely His Lucky Day.

Although he felt 35 feet high forewarned from an electric pole in Sydney, a Halifax lineman suffered nothing more than the breaking of a small bone in his leg and a severe shaking up. The victim had climbed a pole and was adjusting his safety belt when his spurs slipped and he dropped head foremost. Half way down he grasped a wire, which partly broke the fall and turned him right side up.

Harvester For Sugar Beets.

Harvesting sugar beets has been facilitated by the invention of an Illinois man, and consists of a machine that zaps, digs and boxes the product, according to the October Popular Mechanics Magazine. In operation, two shoes slide along the surface of the ground and carry a cutter which cuts the beet top at the required height, throwing the severed portion to one side. Following the topper, comes a digger, or uprooter, which removes the beet from the ground and carries it to the rear, where it is deposited in a box or basket.

Auditory of 350 Persons Offer Merited Applause at Initial Local Concert

Appearing in its initial concert before an auditory of nearly 350 music lovers assembled at the Senior High school auditorium last evening, the Lutheran Choral Society of this city, won almost instant approval and was acclaimed a successful musical organization.

Professor Adolf F. Wendel, of Trenton, who is also instructor at Zecker-Hahn Music conservatory, Philadelphia, was conductor of the Lutheran chorus, comprising nearly fifty voices, and the large collection of artists was under his perfect control at all times. Compositions by F. Melius Christiansen, director of St. Olaf Lutheran choir, were an important part of the program, as his creations are beautiful and considered appropriate for choral renditions.

The processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers," and recessional, "Now Thank We All Our God," as sung by the society members, were especially noteworthy. Nearly a dozen other charming numbers by the choristers gave ample opportunity for an abundance of merited applause offered by the large audience. The singers were costumed in vestments and presented an impressive appearance.

Membership of the Lutheran society includes many of the city's best voices and previous public appearances have been in several Lutheran churches here, serving to establish a reputation of genuine musical ability, despite the brief period of organization. Last night's performance apparently added permanent laurels.

A feature of the concert was the appearance of Donald Trimmer, of New York, 18-year-old violinist, who had attracted wide attention because of his ability. Although he proved highly popular with his hearers, his best rendition seemed to be "Souspirium B-flat," by Leonore. Wonderful results as the piano accompanist were attained by Harry Maxinsky. Another artist appearing last evening who won applause was Miss Mary Manely, pianist, of Philadelphia, and the greatest approval seemed to have been given her rendition of "Praeludium," by Grieg.

This choral society will render a concert in the Palmyra high school auditorium, Thursday, June 7, at 8.15 p.m. Mr. Griffenberg's orchestra will assist. This will be a rare treat for the twin cities and music lovers should avail themselves of the opportunity. Tickets may be purchased at McAllister's and Smith's drug store.

PLAN AVENUES OF BEAUTY

Movement to Plant Shade Trees Along New Jersey Highways Takes Form.

BACKED BY MANY BODIES

Started Years Ago, But Never Taken Up With System and Enthusiasm—A Request For Co-Operation

Trenton.—Beautifying of New Jersey's highways by the planting of shade trees, started a few years ago in scattered districts largely through efforts of individuals, has been given considerable stimulus by the indorsement given the plan by Governor Silzer, the new State Highway Commission and women's organizations in Camden and other counties. Salem county claims to have originated the plan a few years ago by planting trees along some of the main highways of the county. The plan was for utility as well as for beauty, the trees being placed to take the places of fences and guard rails along certain sections of the highways. Burlington county leads in the actual mileage of highways planted with trees. The movement there is an outgrowth of the world war memorial idea, with memorial highways now radiating from Mount Holly, the county seat.

Camden county gets the credit for the most ambitious scheme for tree planting along the highways, through the movement originated by women's clubs for beautifying the entire stretch of 80 miles of paved highways from the Delaware River to the sea on the White Horse pike route.

Shade tree planting was given more thought and care in past generations than in the present, according to advocates of this movement, who say that comparisons of the streets of some of the old towns with the newer suburban developments is all that is necessary. Some of the most beautifully shaded highways are found in sections of Salem and Gloucester counties, where most of the trees were planted at least a half-century ago. This was accomplished largely through community or individual effort.

Ask For Co-Operation
The plan now, as favored by the State Department of Forestry and the State Highway Commission, is to have co-operative effort upon the part of communities, counties and the State in the systematic planting of shade trees in sections where none now raises its leafy head.

Shaded highways are not only more beautiful, but they last longer, according to road experts who have discovered that the trees help to preserve the paving. They break the intense heat of the sun upon the roads in summer and in the winter serve as wind breaks in helping to keep the roads clear of snow drifts. It is also held that trees, properly planted, improve the drainage conditions along the highways.

Some systematic plan for tree planting is now sought. Certain trees thrive better in some parts of the State than others. The tendency has been to plant maples almost exclusively in the lower counties of the State and tree-lovers are rising up and asking for a greater variety of trees.

Suggestion is made in some quarters that different kinds of trees be planted, as far as possible, on different State highway routes. Thus, instead of having maples, the State routes might eventually be known as Maple Route, Elm Route, or Pine, Oak, Spruce Routes, until the list of suitable trees was exhausted.

The tree-planting idea for highways, as first fostered by a county, was started in Salem county under the administration of County Engineer Keasbey as a practical plan for protecting traffic and also beautifying certain sections of the gravel roads then constructed in that county. Now Salem county has several miles of new State highway, built of concrete, and it still has lots of opportunity for further tree planting.

Roads To Shore Bare
There is more or less natural shade on the county highways, but this is not true of the routes reaching across the State to the seashore resorts. As much of the traffic from outside of the State passes over these routes, it is the purpose of these backing the movement to have these roads beautified as one means of giving strangers a better impression of New Jersey.

Hence the public interest in the move to turn the White Horse pike into a memorial highway, it being also proposed to add roses, flower beds, ornamental shrubs and vines as well as trees where the routes pass through built-up communities.

In the planting of trees along the memorial highways in Burlington county committees have been organized to consult with experts in the selecting of the very best varieties. County shade tree commissions may be the ultimate outgrowth of steps towards providing shade and beauty for the roads, much after the same idea as is now carried out in communities.

Most activity in the line of community effort in this respect is now found at Mount Holly. Some of the citizens of the Burlington county seat awoke to the danger that their old town was losing the very thing that had originally given the place its identity—its holly trees. Now a concerted movement is on to have private residents plant holly trees and also other shade trees. Some spots in the town that were formerly not very attractive are thus being beautified, and Mount Holly is again adding to its wealth of beautiful shade trees accumulated through several generations.

Forethought upon the part of the founder of Vineland has made that city envied among its neighbors in South Jersey for its broad streets and the wonderful shade trees. When the late Charles K. Landis laid out Vineland more than 50 years ago he set out double rows of shade trees on several of the avenues, and also laid out an extensive park. In this park he also set a great circle of trees. This circle has since been adopted by the city as its natural memorial for its world war heroes—a memorial that has won fame for Vineland throughout the country.

At Salem the Shade Tree Commission has stimulated interest in trees by having transplanted some of the saplings from the famous old oak in the Friends' graveyard. This oak is the most famous of its kind in the East, and many persons visit Salem each year to see it. The tree is said to be more than 300 years old.

A double row of pear trees, reaching for a quarter of a mile on either side of the road and a very pretty sight in blossoming time and even more tempting for the passerby when the pears ripen, is one of the individual expressions of road tree planting found in Gloucester county near Jeffersonville. Cherries, apples and other fruit trees have been similarly planted in some other parts of the State, carrying out after a fashion the Italian idea of having grapes growing along the public ways.

The Camden Association for Beautifying White Horse pike is the name by which the organization formed of officials and residents interested in making an attractive drive of the shore highway will be known. This was decided at a meeting of men and women backing the movement held in the Audubon Fire Company No. 1's quarters. Mrs. William D. Welkel, of Merchantville, is president of the permanent organization, and Mrs. Helen Amieson, Collingswood, secretary. A general executive committee was chosen to consist of members of organization and municipalities co-operating in the movement.

Nothing To Conceal
Argument in the suit of the Attorney General against the eight members of the Edwards State Highway Commission and the Donnell Lumber Company, involving the $230,000 contract for lands for the Amboy bridge, will be heard by Chancellor Walker, as head of the Court of Chancery. Three days, July 11, 12 and 13, at the State House, have been assigned by the Chancellor for counsel to present their cases.

The Attorney General at the instance of Governor Silzer filed the suit in Chancery to test the legality of the deal whereby the lumber company sold seven and one-half acres of land to the highway board for $230,000, when competent appraisers declared the lands worth not more than $90,000.

Answers have been filed by the dismissed commissioners and the lumber company, denying any irregularity in the transaction. The Attorney General seeks to have the court declare what is a fair price and order a refund in the event it is determined an excessive fee was charged the State.

Insinuations that Governor Silzer has been attempting to "cover up" since the McCran legislative probe committee unearthed the charge that "Barney" Gannon, Democratic leader of Middlesex, had accepted $35,000 for the land deal, brought emphatic denial from Frederic M. P. Pearce, the Governor's secretary. On the contrary, Mr. Pearce asserts, the disapproval of the Governor was based upon the ground that the resolution was not sufficiently comprehensive to include every phase of road work and that the limitation placed upon the committee was not warranted.

Tax Rate To Be $3.50
The State Board of Taxes and Assessment announced that the average tax rate for 1923 would be $3.50 per $100 of valuation. By a very strange coincidence, this is the exact average rate as that of 1922. There is no change in the rate carried out to the fifth decimal. This is the first time in the history of the State that this has occurred.

This rate is to be used by the State Board in assessing the tax against the first class railroad property and also against the gross receipts of street railways, gas and electric companies for the tax in lieu of the tax on personal property.

The fact that the average rate has not increased over 1922 does not mean, however, that there has not been an increase in taxes in the taxing districts of the State.

For the year 1923, the total ratables of the State are $4,123,323,867, showing that there has been an increase in assessments amounting to $276,044,957 over 1922. The actual taxes to be raised to meet municipal budgets for 1923 will be $147,019,127.47, or an increase of $9,868,331.48 over the taxes raised for the same purposes in 1922. It is because of the fact that rates were so nearly increased that the average rate did not advance. It is perfectly obvious that if the budgets were so much higher than the budgets of 1922, the average rate would have been greatly increased had not the ratables gone up.

41,681 Ford Trucks Delivered in First Quarter Set Record

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—Sales of 41,681 Ford Trucks during the first quarter, setting a new high record, bear out predictions made earlier that the use of the one-ton truck in hauling and delivery systems will be greater this year than ever before.

Not only is the Ford Truck rapidly coming into more general use in the commercial field, where its dependability, ease of operation and adaptability to all requirements make it the most popular, but throughout the agricultural sections of the country it is fast being adopted by the farmer as the best means of solving his problems for quicker and cheaper transportation of his products from the farm to the city.

March sales of Ford Trucks, which reached the new high mark of 18,717, exceeded by more than 1,000 the sales of the first three months of 1922, totaling 17,586, and were 50% higher than the sales in February of this year. —Advertisement.

AMERICAN DEAD AT REST IN FRANCE

A field of crosses marking the graves of American boys who fell while fighting in France. Memorial day will always be celebrated in the Belleau Wood cemetery—where the memory of the brave boys is kept green with flowers and flags.

Beautiful Spots in Which Repose American Soldiers

There is no fairer spot on all the hard-fought battle line in France than that northern slope of Belleau wood where still rest the bodies of many brave Americans.

There are plenty of other spots in France that Americans will always visit and revisit. The great cemeteries of Romagne and Suresnes are poignant beyond words. The glory of Belleau wood is that here, by the side of our hallowed dead, stands as a natural monument to American valor that jungle of stone, tree and brush through which our troops grimly fought their way in one of their first and most critical engagements of the great war.

Our men fought as brilliantly, as doggedly, in the Argonne and at a score of points. Here at Belleau wood lies a spot that can stand for all, close by the highroad from Paris to Chateau-Thierry, not far from the Marne, and amid a scene of peace and beauty worthy of its precious and immortal burden.

Beautiful Burial Place. The eight cemeteries in Europe, in which are 30,000 American soldier dead, are maintained so splendidly that they are models for the other nations that participated in the World war. The French secretary of war recently told Colonel Rethers, in charge of the graves registration service in Europe, that the American cemetery at Romagne was the most impressive one he had ever seen. The American government has done all in its power to make the burial places beautiful.

Six are in France, one is in Belgium and the other is in England. Most of the French plots were selected to commemorate the battles fought in the vicinities. The cemetery at Romagne represents the Argonne fighting, the one at Thiaucourt the battle of St. Mihiel. There is one at Belleau wood, significant of the action there; one at Nesles, about 25 miles north of Chateau-Thierry; one at Suresnes, near Paris, in which are buried those who died in the hospitals around Paris, and one at Bony in which are the dead of the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth divisions, which fought with the English.

The Flanders Field cemetery, in southern Belgium, contains the bodies of 365 Americans who fought with the English in Belgium. The eighth of the cemeteries is in Brookwood, England, containing the bodies of 435 Americans who died in the British Isles.

Cemetery at Romagne. The cemetery at Romagne contains the largest number of bodies, 13,077. It covers 130 acres. The next largest is at Nesles, which covers 48 acres and contains the bodies of 6,038. In all there are 30,511 American soldiers, sailors and marines buried in Europe. Of this number only 1,000 or about 2 per cent, are unknown dead. The number of unknown dead was reduced by 200 during the year. It is possible others of the dead will be identified as investigations proceed. Every effort is being made to gain new identifications. Descriptions taken at the time of burial are being checked up with descriptions obtained from army papers and from relatives of those who fell. The work is slow and tedious, but is bringing some results.

Except where unknown dead are being identified no more bodies are being returned to the United States. The War department feels that if permission for the return of bodies were to continue the cemeteries would be in a constant upheaval and their beauty would be marred. But it is only fair to the relatives of soldiers newly identified that they be given the opportunity of having the bodies returned.

Few American Dead "Unknown." In comparison with that of the other armies in the World war the number of American unknown dead is small. About 2 per cent of American dead are "unknowns." The French and British proportion is about 30 per cent.

In the American army the soldiers were required to wear two identification tags, one on a string around the neck and the other on the wrist. Most of the men wore the tags, but here and there were men who did not. The men in the British and French armies were much more lax in this regard than were the Americans.

The army bill carries an appropriation for the maintenance of the American cemeteries in Europe. Approximately 150 men are employed in the work. Nine are American army off-cers and the others, except for an army sergeant in charge of motor transportation, are civilians. A central office is maintained in Paris.

Difficulty has been experienced in getting grass to grow in some of the cemeteries. It is evident that sprinkling systems will have to be installed. At Romagne it was necessary to plant grass six times. To make the cemetery presentable for the large number of American visitors the expedient of planting rye was resorted to temporarily.

In the French cemeteries the bodies are buried in individual graves, with just mounds over them without grass. But the French intend to adopt the American idea of a beautiful lawn effect.

Day Recognized as Belonging to All Who Served Nation

Memorial day is generally observed throughout the world this year, due in large part to the efforts of the American Legion, according to the following announcement made at Legion headquarters at Indianapolis:

"Originally designated by the Union veterans of the Civil war as a particular decoration day for their fallen comrades, May 30 gradually has become a day set apart in memory of all Americans who died for their country. Although it has long been the custom of many southern states to observe a memorial holiday of their own on April 28, the tendency to a uniform observance has been apparent since the World war. The Legion, composed of both the North and the South, officially adopted May 30 as its Memorial day and posts of the World war men on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line have, for the last three years, simultaneously honored the dead of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars.

May 30 International Holiday. When the Inter-Allied Veterans' federation, made up of World war veterans of France, England and Canada, Italy and the others of the allied nations and of which the Legion is a member, adopted the Legion's date for the observance of rites for the dead, May 30 became an international holiday, comparable only in universal observance to Christmas. In the years to come it will be observed by Legion posts and allied veterans' organizations in the following countries other than the United States: Canada, Belgium, France, Poland, Turkey, Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, British Isles, Chile, China, Cuba, Guatemala, Japan, Peru, Porto Rico, Portuguese West Africa, Santo Domingo, Spanish Honduras, India, Venezuela and the Canal Zone, Hawaii, Philippine Islands and the territory of Alaska.

"As it did last year and the year before, the Legion will decorate and hold appropriate exercises over the grave of every American who sleeps on foreign soil, as well as thus honoring the graves of American and allied veterans who are buried in the cemeteries of this country. Legion posts in France, Belgium, Poland and Turkey will visit old battlefields and adjacent cemeteries.

Huge Task Completed. "The United States graves registration service has completed its huge task of returning to this country the bodies of 42,023 of the A. E. F. who died overseas, but 30,000 Americans still remain permanently buried in cemeteries of the allied nations.

"To finance the Memorial day decoration of graves overseas, each of the Legion's 11,000 posts was asked to subscribe an amount equal to five cents for each of its members. A central committee of the Legion in France will receive the funds from this country and have charge of decorating the individual graves.

"Several months before Memorial day Hanford MacNider, national commander of the Legion, sent each post a request that exercises this year be made as personal as possible. 'With this end in view,' Mr. MacNider wrote, 'the Legion is ready to make special efforts to aid relatives and friends who think on Memorial day not so much of the whole army of the dead as they will of some one youth who went forth to fight and did not come back.'

All Veterans to Be Honored. "Gold star parents, desiring that special attention be paid to the graves of their departed, requesting a certain type of floral decoration or religious ceremony, were asked to communicate their wishes to the organization's national headquarters, from which they were relayed to the legion post nearest the place of burial. "The Legion will not confine its exercises and decorations to the memory of World war heroes alone. The graves of all veterans of all American wars will be visited and decorated and

MEMORIAL lays will come and with the passing years History will narrate their observances. But far above and beyond the pageantry of these glorious days are the scrolls of eternal truth, the history which men's ideals write, the spiritual architecture which makes a nation great. Therein lies the deeper meaning of the day. And the fadeless beauty of Old Glory can only be surpassed by the response to the echoes of the far-sounding prophesies which it awakens.

sittingly honored. Last year the organization requested its posts and units of the Legion auxiliary to seek out, in each community, graves of all American soldier and sailor dead and to prepare charts showing where such graves were located and how they could be reached. The efforts of the World war men have resulted in many graves of Civil war veterans being rescued from obscurity and the graves of several veterans of 1812, long since forgotten, have been found and restored.

Bodies Abroad Cared For. "A similar plan of keeping a close and honored watch on graves of Americans buried overseas has been evolved. There will be in France four principal cemeteries wherein men of the A. E. F. will sleep forever. At present a special fine arts commission is working on the project which will entail, for the collection of bodies and the beautification of cemeteries, an expenditure of more than $1,000,000. These fields of honor will be located at Belleau Wood, near Chateau-

Thierry; Bony, near St. Quentin; Suresnes, near Paris, and Romagne, in the Argonne, near Montfaucon. More than 500 Americans will remain buried in England. A gift of land by the British government allows for the future decoration and care of these graves. Under plans already advanced a little cemetery for those Americans who died in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales will be located at Brookwood, Surrey, England.

"This year still fewer of the proud, white-haired old heroes of '61-'65 will bear their colors and their flowers to the sacred ground where their comrades are in eternal bivouac. Last year the thinning ranks were filled with sturdy, tanned youngsters in their army drabs and navy blues who were honored to march at the side of the veteran patriarchs on their holy mission. The present Memorial day finds the hosts of Grant and Lee all but dissipated and as the youths of the World war strive for the honored files of the vanished procession, the day takes on a new significance."

To the Torchbearers

Once more we'll do them honor,
Again we'll sing their praises—
These brave who scorned life's pleasures
And lived laborious days.
At last they know the answer
Men find who die to save—
The soldier's path of glory
Doth not end at the grave!

The path continues onward
Beyond the gates of dawn;
The Great Adventure leads them
Into a newer morn.
They follow it with ardor
Beyond the Day Star's gleam,
And in the cosmic twilight
They find the Fields of Dream.

Weep not for these knights errant
Who bravely went to roam,
For they are all together
Safe in the Port of Home.
To us the loss is bitter,
But theirs is greater gain;
They have outscored earth's shadows
Of envy, hate and pain.

We have our heads in homage,
In reverence bend the knee,
For those who fought the fight
That all men might be free.
And while spring saphyrs murmur
Of sacrifices sublime,
We deck their mounds with laurels
Each year in like time.
—John H. McGough, in the New York Times.

Blue Line is Thinning.
A pitifully small group of men, all weighed down with the burden of years, remains to bear visible testimony of the struggle between North and South. On Memorial day a few of them, devoted to the memory of their comrades, will enjoy places of honor in the thousands of parades which will mark the memorial observances throughout the nation. Next year they will be fewer. And in a few years there will be none.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre At Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients in a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Sleep Soldier Sleep

Sleep, soldier, sleep, beneath the flag
Your valor has maintained;
Yours is an honor little guessed
Upon that bygone day
When with a lightly beating heart
Allegiance you proclaimed
To every star and every bar,
And proudly marched away.

The thousands wait in foreign lands,
A white cross at each head,
And wild blooms are the only flowers
These fallen ones may know;
But destiny has brought you home
To represent each dead
Wherein a silent sleeper rests—
There where the poppies grow.

Man has but one sweet life to live,
But one brave death to die,
And millions pass the portals through
Whose lives have been no gain;
But you are like a privileged son,
Accorded honors high,
Your nation bows in homage true,
And chants your lordly fame.

Sleep, soldier, sleep! Your splendid death
Holds portent for the year,
And men meet men beside your bier
With visions in their eyes.
What value has life's fleeting breath,
Beside a nation's fears?
Yours is the victory of the great—
Inspiring sacrifice?

Sleep, soldier, in your narrow bed,
Your nation's flag unfurled above;
While praise of you is ever sped
The world around, in love.

PERSONALITY OF
MARY STEWART CUTTING

No author is better known in this country for married life stories than Mary Stewart Cutting. She joined the Star Author Series of Matrimonial Adventures with deep interest for the plan.

I have known Mrs. Cutting for a good many years. In fact, I am one of the few people to whom she told wonderful stories long before she began writing them. Every evening at sundown I sat with several other favored ones in her back parlor and listened breathlessly to tales that became in that circle unpublished classics—tales that were delightfully suited to the intelligence and entertainment of her hearers.

She has found a much larger, but I dare to say no more appreciative, audience in the years that have intervened. The other day a group of people sat around a table, and each person there spoke with enthusiasm of a different one of her "Little Stories of Married Life"—though, to quote her own words, she wrote only "the kind of stories everybody knows, like your bread and butter," and of people who "just naturally lived outside the city and took trains." Here is the universal touch.

Her own married life, to quote her again, was "the happiest she knows anything about." Her husband was a western man, and she had six children. It was her four older children who first appreciated her as an author—I was one of them.

MARY STEWART CUTTING, JR.

How does one solve a problem that can't be solved? Of course all problems are impossible of solution until you do solve them.

One never knows when the smallest happening may turn out to be a big thing in its effect on the mind of two people who love each other, in all the ways that may come, never to be forgotten.

Sally, the blue-eyed, soft-cheeked wife of Carleton May, whose photograph with its firm lips and steady eyes reinforced her spirit from the little table beside her—the mother of the two curlyheads and the baby upstairs with Maggie, was busy with her own problem as she sat in the small fireproof room looking out of the window, in the fast-darkening winter afternoon, at the flooded vacant suburban lots and the leafless bushes that trembled at the fierce slashes of the rain.

She was listening to the footsteps of her father as he paced up and down the narrow hallway; every now and then he called to her dejectedly: "It doesn't look much like clearing, Sally," and she replied:

"Oh, I think it does, father!" though she didn't think so at all.

How, how, she wondered desperately, could she make her commuting husband appear glad to go back to town this evening, after the half-mile walk home from the station in this icy slush and rain? There never were any taxis in this outlying part of the suburb. How had she failed to remind him in the unclouded morning that this and not tomorrow, as first intended, was to be the night of father's treat? Ever since luncheon she had tried repeatedly to get Carleton on a phone that had "gone dead." She knew intuitively that, uninvited, his first loudly spoken words in answer to her would be:

"Go in town tonight? You're crazy." Oh, no enforced resignation on his part would suffice. There must be a glow of enjoyment to satisfy poor father, who had planned this festivity for his brief trip up from the South, where his health, since the death of his wife, kept him in the lonely winter; the thought of this pleasure given to those he loved would warm his heart for months to come.

He was a tall, soldierly old man, with a square gray beard and piercing eyes under bushy gray eyebrows. His old friends called him major, but he was mostly known here as Sally May's father; absent or present he was so much a father, always, as far as moderate means could afford, "doing something" for her and hers.

But this theater party tonight—for which the most expensive last-minute seats had been procured—and the prospective supper, while embracing Sally's and Carleton's young visiting cousins, Howard and Elynn Brown, here on their way to Florida, was really intended as a special treat for his son-in-law. Carleton was going through the struggle of a young man to support his little family, buying shoes, perforce, instead of theater tickets. He had, moreover, a chivalrous kindness for the major, which the latter deeply appreciated.

He came in now to stand beside his daughter, saying anxiously: "I'm afraid Carleton won't want to go out in the rain again."

"Oh, he's indoors all day, you know," said Sally brightly. "And Howard and Elynn are looking forward to it all so much—young people do love a treat."

"Yes, yes, that's true," responded the major with a pleasant smile.

He turned expectantly as a tall, dark, languid youth of sixteen strolled into the room.

"What is it, Howard?"

"I don't think I'd better go tonight," said Howard, briefly. "I think I ought to stay home, sir; I've got a cold."

"He hasn't at all, mom!" volunteered the wide-eyed, eight-year-old Carley, who had followed on his cousin's heels. "He says he's sick of theaters. He wants to stay home and read 'The Hound of the Baskervilles!'"

"If he has a cold—" said the major, oblivious of his grandson's remarks. Any plea of health was always valid to the major.

"Yes, you had better stay here, my boy; much better!"

"Well, Elynn will enjoy it anyway," began Sally comfortingly, as Howard disappeared, and stopped short as a tall, thin, abnormally short-skirted young girl came toward them with an agitated expression on her small, pale, snub-nosed countenance.

"Is there anything the matter, Elynn?"

"Oh, nothing, but—" Elynn was at the age when to make one of a family party of pleasure was nothing short of agony. "I do so hate to tell you and the major, but one of my neuralgic headaches is coming on and I think—I'm afraid—I ought not to go out in this weather. I know mother wouldn't want me to be exposed."

"No, of course not!" said the major hastily, in spite of his stricken countenance. "You mustn't be exposed on any account, my dear child. No!"

"I feel dreadfully about it, major dear," murmured the girl with a sharp look at Sally, who was fiercely silent. Two tickets cast away, and the major had paid seven dollars apiece for them to a speculator.

Little Maise May with her outstanding crop of curls guttlesly added her version of the affair as Elynn ran upstairs.

"She told Howard she didn't want to go because she hadn't any sweetie."

"Oh, if she would like some candy!" began the major with eagerness.

"She doesn't mean candy, she means a young man," said Sally.

"Never mind, father dear; we'll get some one else who would be glad to go!"

Her heart was not within her; it was exactly like Carleton's relations, they never put themselves out for anybody!

But all the more need for Carleton to stand by now. A saving idea occurred to her, solving the problem at once. Why hadn't she thought of it before? The rain was hurrying itself at the window with renewed violence. She must manage to get to the Wakefields at the corner and telephone Carleton to have his dinner in town—as they would all have done but for the baby's needs—and meet them there afterward. He liked to come home and dress first, but he wouldn't mind this time. She must slip out without father's seeing her.

As she splashed through puddles in her artless, the rain rattling down on her umbrella and Carleton's mackintosh, her mind was uncomfortably reverting to the parting from her husband that morning—there had been something lacking. To married lovers each day differed extremely in glory—there in a deepening of the joy of affection, or an imperceptible lessening of it; there are the days that seem to make neither for progression nor retrogression, and yet of which it is dangerous to have too many; non-recognition may slide so far that what should be the thrilling pleasure of recovery turns into an irritation. It is a fact often overlooked, that, taking it by and large, there is no being more inwardly sensitive to the changes in domestic atmosphere than the unanalytical American husband.

Carleton had gone off that morning, after the vaguely unsympathetic conditions of the past week, with an indefinable effect of glad escape from household demands that impressed itself on her even in his kiss of farewell.

Sally was more in love with her husband than when, nine years ago, they had begun life together; she knew that his love for her had grown also. That was what it was to be really married. But she had a sudden consciousness now that she had perhaps been fireproof in asking him to do a great many things lately. From the first moment he entered the house until he left it; she didn't want him to be glad to get away from her! He never refused to do what she asked of him, but he had told her once that he was exceptionally busy at the office these days. She had a strange sense of their being out of touch. The rain beat in her face and chilled her heart. When she heard his voice she would feel better; he would say: "Stop imagining things."

She had another inspiration when Jimmy, the nineteen-year-old son and heir, came to her ring at the Wakefields.

"Oh, Jimmy! don't you want to go to the theater with us tonight? My father has two extra tickets."

Jimmy shook his head. "Thank you, but I've got a date myself. Mother's out."

"I only want to use your phone, if I may," said Sally. "Ours is out of order."

It seemed hours before Central got the right number, but at last—

"Oh, Mr. Truefit, is this you? This is Mrs. May speaking. Is Mr. May there? What?—Went out after lunch and said he wouldn't be back at the office again?—Do you know where I could reach him?—Had a good many places to go to? No, it's nothing important, thank you! Good-by!"

Out in the storm all that afternoon! As he himself would have expressed it for her, it was rotten luck.

She called up a couple of friends who might retrieve the party; one was in bed, the other in Philadelphia. She tried vainly to get the promise of a taxi later. She carefully laid the coin for her city call beside the phone before leaving.

A rainy evening in town has, at least, its cheerful illumination of electric lights and flashing motors; there is a sense of populousness, of action, of speed. But in an outlying suburb a rainy winter night is the blackness of desolation.

The outline of a man bent forward against the storm was the only sign of life as Sally returned home. But her spirit obstinately rose now against failure. She would find some way to save the day yet.

The two children were having their early supper at the little round table under the big clock in the dining room. Carley looked up to ask: "What's the matter with grandpa? He walks up and down all the time and won't smile."

He looked very old and worn as he caught sight of Sally.

"REALLY MARRIED"

"Where have you been?" he asked anxiously.

"Only to the Wakefield's for a minute. The rain isn't so bad when you're out in it," she lied.

He visibly brightened. "That's just what I've been thinking. Of course I don't mind weather, never did!"

Perhaps Carleton might feel that way too. She had a sudden buoyance of hope as she ran upstairs to change her things. She opened the door of Carleton's closet by mistake, and saw—The day had a curse on it, that was all there was to it! A glance had shown that his new shoes were missing—he had worn them into town. The fact covered a tragedy. Carleton was afflicted with a little toe on his left foot, that had to be treated with peculiar consideration if a shoe—which, of course, must not be too tight—were the least bit too broad, the toe slipped back under its fellows, to be trodden into agony by them at every step. If Carleton had been out in the rain all the afternoon in those shoes—

Her loving heart swelled with pity for him. Oh, she couldn't ask him to take another step! She thought swiftly of the time when she had fallen on the ice and hurt her knee and he had carried her all the way home—of all the big crises in which he had so dearly come to her aid. She wouldn't sacrifice him now for anyone! If father had to be disappointed, he had to be; she would try to make up to him for it by her companionship.

She dressed hurriedly. There was only one thing left now for her to do; she must manage to speak to Carleton before the major saw him, to at least fend off the blow of his first inevitable words of horrified surprise and protest.

She hugged the baby to her, a little fat, warm bundle, as her one comfort in this dreadful, endless day, before putting him to bed.

"Well, you are all dressed, I see," said the major, sighing. "My, my, it seems to be raining harder the more it will be pretty tough on the boy to go out again tonight, and you won't want to go without him. I intended this for a pleasure you know, my dear, but I suppose we'll just have to give it up this time."

"Not a bit of it!" said Sally, with forced cheerfulness. "Waste all those lovely tickets! Not much!"

She went to the front door and looked out into the downpour; no signs of her husband! But the major had followed her.

She got away from him and slipped down the basement stairs to peer out secretly from the lower door.

"Where are you, Sally?" he called. "Come up here, my dear."

There began a wild game of hide and seek, Sally and the major each on the watch for the first glimpse of the homeowner. She swept the children out of her way, when, evading her father, she dashed up or down to either point of advantage.

"Don't put dinner on the table yet," she ordered Maggie.

Elynn was having her on a tray in her room and trying a new complexion cream. Howard was still glued to the "Hound of the Baskervilles." The major settled into a steady walk forward and back in the upper hall, opening the front door at each round to look out, and Sally in desperation took her stand half in the wet areaway. Would Carleton never come?

At last, at last, through the darkness of the deluge his figure materialized unexpectedly near, as, closing his umbrella he turned toward the upper steps. His arms were full of bundles.

"Oh, Carleton, Carleton! Come this way, down here!"

Her hands groped for him, dragged him to her. The touch of his dear body, even in his wet overcoat, seemed salvation, though he had an effect of resistance, as if the dividing haze of the last few days was still there.

"What's the matter? Let's get inside."

"No, no! wait a moment. I've got to speak where father can't hear. He is in the hall above waiting for you."

"Say it quick then! I've been out all afternoon in these infernal shoes. My toes—"

"Oh, I know it all, dear!" Her whispered words came in a torrent. "I tried to get you on the phone to remind you—this is the night of father's—"

"That he's been planning for months—not tomorrow, as you thought."

"Tonight! Holy mackerel!"

He stood staring incredulously at her in the ray of light from the half-closed door behind them.

"Well, you can count me out, then. You don't mean you want me to go back to town now?" His voice was outraged.

"No, no, dear! Don't talk so loud. I wouldn't have you do that for the world. I've been so sorry for you! But—but—" Her agonized voice broke.

"Please, please don't speak that way to father. If you can only say something—I don't know what, to sound as if you were disappointed, it might make this easier for him. It's been such a dreadful day! Howard and Elynn have been acting up and won't go, and I can't get anyone else on those tickets, and father's broken-hearted on your account. I can't tell you how he's nearly killed him."

"Let's get inside," said her husband calmly. He deposited his packages on the floor. "Here are the coffee, and the bacon, and the oranges."

For a moment her world hung in the balance. The small face raised to his white and drawn, with frightened eyes; so had she looked the night before the baby was born.

"Hello!" he said gently, as he stooped to kiss her. "Why, why, you mustn't get worked up like this over nothing!" He stopped short with his hand on her arm as the major's voice came from above in tremendous appeal.

"Oh, Carleton, Carleton! Is that you at last?"

At the note of tragedy Carleton registered, as they say, consternation; his jaw dropped; he looked wildly around as if for escape. Then his eyes met Sally's once more—a swift change came over his countenance, he drew his mouth down in a

VARIED MODES ARE OFFERED FOR LOVELY WEDDING GOWNS

THE brides of this June, like those of other June, are privileged to make a comprehensive review of styles that are up-to-the-minute or those of bygone periods, when they consider their wedding gowns. At least ninety per cent of them will choose the alluring modes of today, for the past has nothing lovelier to offer. They will be married in gowns suitably dignified for the occasion but modish enough to be used afterward for evening wear.

Less attention to tradition and more to the matter of becomingness and individual taste, is the rule of the hour for choosing wedding gowns. Many of them are made of crepe de chine, simple as to line, revealing wonderful craftsmanship in their drapery or embellished with pearls and crystals, embroidery. The traditional white satin is used and often adds to its sheen the shimmer of silver lace. An example of this appealing combination appears in the exquisite wedding gown pictured here. In this model lace and satin play equally conspicuous parts in the construction of a simply designed but distinctive dress. It has a long bodice of satin with a deep bertha of silver lace, making sleeves unnecessary. The full, straight skirt is very long and slightly trained, but, in nearly all models, skirts escape the floor and are fashionably draped.

The veil of tulle, falling from a cap of silver lace, is very long and supports small sprays of orange blossoms that are posed on the train. The bride has chosen a white prayer book with markers of white satin ribbon, in which little sprays of lilacs of the valley are tied. Fashion approves either the prayer book or a bouquet. Gloves are eliminated and plain slippers of white satin are worn—they may have little sprays of orange blossoms as an ornament. Or, if the wedding gown is embroidered with pearls and crystals, the bride may wear slippers with markers of white satin ribbon, in which little sprays of lilacs of the valley are tied. ### BILL BOOSTER SAYS humorous resignation. A generous kindness seemed to emanate from him as he unfolded as light, as he murmured:

"I AM A BOOSTER! I AM FOR EVERYTHING THAT IS FOR THE GOOD OF THE TOWN! FOR THE GOOD ROADS, BRASS BANDS, PUBLIC LIBRARIES, PAVED STREETS, SCHOOLS, CHAUNTAUGUS, COMMERCIAL CLUBS, NEWSPAPERS, TOWN CELEBRATIONS AND GO ON! I AM A BOOSTER!"

"Well, what do you know about that?"

Sally caught her breath—always when she needed it, the miracle of his help was made manifest. His arm was around her as they went up stairs to meet the tall, thin old figure at the top.

"Carleton, you poor boy! You won't want to go out again!"

"Who minds a little rain?" said his son-in-law hardily. "Just the night, I'll say, to get off for some fun."

"What's this I hear?" Carleton continued. "Two tickets to spare—I'll have to kick off this shoe, it's murdering me. No taxis, of course. I'll settle all this! Don't you worry, Sally, I'm not going to walk. I couldn't."

He paused for breath as Carley and Elaine hurried themselves upon him in welcome.

"Here, children, leave your Dad alone. I've got to get to the phone!" "It isn't working," moaned Sally.

"Yes it is—Give me Mountain 2670. Hello—hello! Is this Mr. E. W. Watts?"

—Well, Squatty, this is the president of the United Goldfish Creamery association. Yes, I supposed you'd recognize the voice.—The Missus still away—Anything doing tonight with you and your kid brother? I thought not. The question is, can your car make this home and the 7:30 train afterward? Fine! We're off on a theater bat, the major's party; two tickets to donate. The major's some prince, I'd have you know. ### RIVERTON'S FIELD DAY

Public School Stages Annual Event. Report Written by the Pupils

HUMOROUS SIDELIGHTS

Shy Glance of Fair Maiden Spurs One Boy to Victory. He Makes Her Acquaintance Later

Our field day exercises began at 6:00 o'clock Friday evening. The school marched from the building in order, the eighth grade coming first and the other grades in succession. Harry Hebrew carried the flag at the head of the grades. The marching was done very well and in time to the Victrola. When all the classes were assembled in their assigned places, the flag salute was given. Then the first and last stanzas of America were sung by all the school, led by Miss Chew. After that the different classes marched from the field to their places at the side.

Boys' Events and Winners

Running broad jump—Robert Loreaux, Walter Radcliffe, Samuel Herbert.

Running high jump—Francis Kapus, George Hutchins, Charles Becker. Relay race—George Hutchins, Charles Stout, Francis Kapus, Harry Hebrew.

Shot put—Robert Loreaux, Lester Wood, John Reid.

100-yard dash—Walter Radcliffe, George Hutchins, Harry Hebrew.

Girls' Events and Winners

Standing broad jump—Elsie Glud, Cornelia Harding, Helen Parker.

Relay race—Elsie Glud, Helen Green, Ruth Miller, Madeline Kenny, Florence Lochowitz, Mary Kerrigan.

50-yard dash—Gertrude Crouch, Helen Green, Cornelia Harding.

The grammar grades exercises were very well done. To the fifth and sixth grades belongs the most credit for their dumb bell drill. There were about seventy-five boys and girls led by a classmate, Allen Hemphill. The girls wore white middie blouses with black ties and dark bloomers. The boys wore white shirts and dark trousers. The number of children and their uniformity of costume made this mass drill most effective. They had new dumb bells which gleamed in the sun as they were thrust in different directions. The exercises were done in good form, were good muscle builders and were taken in time to music.

Field Day Echoes

In the running broad jump Robert Loreaux jumped seventeen feet eleven inches. This beat last year's record of sixteen feet two and three quarters inches. Walter Radcliffe was second and Samuel Herbert third.

In the shot put event Robert Loreaux again was the winner throwing the eight pound ball thirty-seven feet. Lester Wood was second and John Reid third.

The high jump was one of the events on the program which held the most interest. Francis Kapus won first prize, with George Hutchins second and Charles Becker third.

The highest jump was four feet eleven and one half inches, by Kapus. He was followed by George Hutchins, who jumped four feet two and three quarters inches. Samuel Herbert was fourth and Josiah Conwell fifth. This puts the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades in good standing for next year's victories.

Anna Murphy, one of our best runners, was unable to perform on Field Day. While training she fell and broke her arm, which held her out of everything.

At the end of the first fifty-yard dash a very good runner, Cornelia Harding sprained her leg. She was unable to run in the relay so Ruth Miller took her place.

In the boys' relay race as Lester Wood came down the road he dropped the stick while handing it to Josiah Conwell. This helped in making the team lose. But when Walter Radcliffe received the stick he ran so fast that he was not far behind.

It is proposed to meet the other camps of the county in Mount Holly and Pemberton, thence proceed to the woods adjacent to Chatsworth where a camp fire, of sandwiches and coffee will be held. It is suggested each attendant bring a tin cup and spoon and as we want at least fifty, those intending to go should advise the secretary of the 28th. About twelve automobiles will be needed for the above number and will not object to more.

It has been definitely decided the camp will parade in the seventy-fifth anniversary pageant, Philadelphia, September 1, and the committee was instructed to secure music and proceed with other details. As we want 400 in line some lively work is necessary from now on.

TO RECLAIM MARSH LAND

Albert S. King Will Add 60 Acres to Palmyra's River Front

A project to add sixty acres or more to the riverfront residential section of Palmyra, which has been under consideration for several years, is now definitely on the way to realization.

The New Jersey Board of Commerce and Navigation on Monday signed the various documents conveying to Albert S. King full control of the riparian frontage of his farm and stretching west from Cinnaminson avenue.

Mr. King has already been negotiating with dredging companies who are anxious to fill in this stretch of marshland, and no doubt a contract will soon be let for the work which probably will be completed within two or three years.

This project would add sixty acres of solid ground to Palmyra's riverfront section. When the filling is completed, a boulevard 100 feet wide will be built along the river, 250 feet from low water mark, stretching from Cinnaminson avenue to eight-mile point. This boulevard, as well as the necessary extension of Cinnaminson avenue, will be turned over to the State.

The new ground will be laid out as a residential section on the park scheme, with curving streets and avenues.

The whole will be an improvement of which no other town in the State can boast. It is something Mr. King has been working on for four years, in the course of which he has suffered many setbacks and disappointments.

But it's an unusual accomplishment to add sixty acres to the area of one's own town, especially when the new land comes out of the bed of a river, so Mr. King can well be proud of the success of his efforts thus far.

M. C. Campbell, president of the New Jersey Conference of the Epworth League, will be the leader at the Epworth League meeting this Sunday evening. Mr. Campbell is a very interesting speaker and a large crowd is expected to attend.

An Epworth League group rally, under the direction of the Trenton district, will be held in the Florence M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, May 29th, at 7:45. Practically all of the Leagues will be represented and a large delegation is expected to go from the Palmyra Epworth League.

Owing to the fact that Memorial Day is next Wednesday, prayer meeting will be omitted for that week.

Lutheran News

Sermon subjects for Sunday, May 27—morning, "Judgments of God," in the evening the P. O. S. of A., together with the Rodgers Post, American Legion, will attend services in a body at the P. O. S. of A. hall. The subject of the sermon will be "My Brother."

The mid-week services are being well attended and the study of the parables of Christ are proving very interesting. The meeting is held in the parish house of the Episcopal Church, Parry avenue.

A social given by the Sunday School class taught by Mrs. Grollman will be held this Saturday evening at eight o'clock in Society hall. Come out and have a good time.

A special meeting of the building committee will be held next Sunday night to further the plans for the erection of our future church.

The pastor has arranged for an "Every Member Present" Sunday, June 3rd. Every member on the church roll and on the Sunday School roll will receive an invitation to attend some service that day. Special music will be furnished at every service and Mr. Griffith has promised an orchestra of twenty-five at Sunday School. This will be a red-letter day.

Hymns

Music has been aptly termed the universal language; it has power to stir the emotions, uplift the spirit and revive a drooping inspiration in a manner not possessed by other appeals to the intellect or the spiritual side of man. When to this harmony of sound is added the thought and language of those who have lived life, the combination, in what is popularly termed the Hymn, is well-nigh essential to the modern Christian service.

In the local Lutheran Church a series of sermons is being presented in line with the above paragraph. These discourses are based on some of the noblest outpourings of such writers as Wesley, Fanny Crosby, George Duffield, and John Henry Newman. The pastor takes his theme from the hymn and from its contents builds his thesis with the view of applying it to the everyday problems of busy people. Music lovers and those who wish comfort and relaxation from the many things that perplex will find this course well worth attending.

Swedish Peasants Adopt Motors.

All but one participant in a recent farmers' festival at Kalmar, Sweden, attended the event in motor cars. "In that particular section of Sweden," says a consular report to the United States Department of Commerce, "ox carts not long ago were the only means of communication. Peasants and small village functionaries, who formerly looked upon the auto with marked disfavor, have changed their attitude and view it as a sign of their country's prosperity, and are now doing their part in keeping the roads in some kind of order." Three thousand two hundred and thirty passenger cars and 798 motor trucks were brought to Sweden from foreign countries during the first six months of 1922, as compared with 2,084 cars and 548 trucks for the corresponding six months of 1921.

Interesting Notes from Our Busy Correspondents in East Riverton, Asbury, Westfield and Parry

Westfield

The Japanese Beetle Laboratory at Westfield is planning on buying in the neighborhood of twenty Ford cars and trucks, in addition to the cars which they now have. They also contemplate purchasing spraying machines and larger trucks. When the colleges finish their sessions the Government is planning on enlisting in their service some 100 or so college students to experiment, combat and catch the beetle. Last year the students stayed in a camp built in the woods at the rear of the old Public Service plant on the outskirts of Riverton. Charles Collins, now of East Riverton, was camp cook. $50,000 has been appropriated to fight the beetle, which last year migrated into Pennsylvania.

Joseph Thomas, of Westfield, has recently purchased a new Buick coach.

William Denecker, of Cinnaminson, and John Parker have recently taken a job with Burlington county to repair and paint bridges and fences throughout the county. They were furnished with a new Ford truck and implements.

William Denecker has purchased from the Palmyra Motor Company a new Ford sedan.

William Barr and family, of Philadelphia, visited his family at Cinnaminson on Sunday.

On Saturday Mrs. A. C. Wood, of Cinnaminson, entertained on her lawn members of the Young Women's Christian Association of Burlington county.

At a recent meeting of the Boys' Bible class it was decided to purchase a lantern slide machine with which they might give illustrated lectures at the meetings and in the church, and also public lectures on matters of public interest for which a small admission would be charged to help defray the cost of the machine and also the extra expense of the slides.

The eighth grade of the Westfield public school is selling ice cream every Monday for a trip to Trenton to visit the public institutions there. Last year the eighth grade spent an interesting day in Trenton viewing the State prison, where they saw the electric chair and also the prisoners making automobile and commercial license tags for 1923. They believe in visiting the capital of their own State first and when they graduate from high school, as some of them hope to do, they will then see the capital of the United States.

"Zev," the three-year-old horse which won the great Kentucky Derby Saturday afternoon was from the Rancocas Farm stable near Mount Holly. This was the first time that horse races ever run and Burlington county is proud of owning the horse which won it. The race was run at Louisville, Kentucky, and nearly four hundred thousand dollars were bet on the Derby. "Zev" was piloted by Sam Hildreth, trainer of the many thoroughbreds at Rancocas. Last Tuesday the same horse, won $2,500 in a race at Jamaica.

Eddie Williams' Team to Open Season Here This Saturday

Eddie Williams' Palmyra-Riverton or Riverton-Palmyra baseball team will open its local season Saturday afternoon on the Field Club grounds at 3:30. Camden A. C. will be the opposition.

In the lineup of Eddie's team will be several local players, Pat Steele, Len Baker, Joe Slack, Gordon Andrews, Russ Gibbon, Herb Kemmerle, Babe MacMullin, Harry Kemmerle and Larry Polis.

Williams says that the best teams in the East will play on the Palmyra grounds during the season.

Year 1816 Passed By Without a Summer

"January and February in 1816 were warm and spring-like. March was cold and stormy. Vegetation had gotten along well in April when real winter set in. Sleet and snow fell on several different days in May. In June the weather was clear and sunny every night but three. The snow fell five inches deep for several days in succession in the interior of New York and from 10 inches to 3 feet in Vermont and Maine. Ice formed as thick as window panes in all of the New England States. August was still worse. Ice formed nearly an inch in thickness until nearly every green thing in the United States and Europe was destroyed. In the spring of 1817 corn which had been kept over from the crop of 1815, sold from $5 to $10 per bushel, the buyers purchasing it for seed.

The above clipping was preserved by F. M. Byall, of Whately county, who has had the clipping for more than forty years.

The article was clipped from the North Liberty News, Indiana, by Mrs. W. B. Powell, of Palmyra, who sent it The New Era.

Drummers as Bootleggers

The following was clipped from a Mount Holly paper:

Complaint has been made that several salesmen who visit Mount Holly at intervals are carrying liquor with them and do not hesitate to treat their customers, and in some instances arrange to furnish liquor on demand. One grocerman, who had been leading a sober life for years, was said to have been able to secure all the liquor he wanted in this manner and scarcely drew a sober breath for a month, to the detriment of a well-established business. We would suggest that Ellis Parker and some of his able corps of detectives accompany visiting drummers on their tour through Mount Holly.

Why send out of town for your engraving? The New Era can fill your orders for all kinds of engraving—cards, stationery, calling cards, wedding invitations and announcements, etc. We have established connections with one of the foremost engravers in Philadelphia, and absolutely guarantee this work to be satisfactory in every particular.

HONORS FOR MARVIN BURR

Riverton Boy, P. H. S. Graduate, Stars at Swarthmore

Marvin Burr, of Riverton, who graduated from Palmyra High School in June 1921, and afterwards entered Swarthmore College, has had unusual honors thrust upon him.

He has already been elected editor-in-chief of the "Haleyon" (the year book) for 1924, and athletic editor for the "Phoenix" (the school paper.) He was also elected a member of the student government body and received the largest number of votes for the secretary of the same. He is also secretary and treasurer of the Y.M.C.A.

For a second-year college man, these honors are exceptional. Palmyra feels very proud of such a graduate and that it is a credit to the school as well as to Marvin.

Junior Class Play

The Juniors of P.H.S. are making extensive preparation for the Shakespearean play, "As You Like It," to be given on May 28 and 29. The girls of the class, assisted by the domestic science department, are making the costumes for the play. It is an exceptional now-a-days to have schools produce Shakespeare's plays, and the public will surely miss a delightful treat if they do not see it. Tickets should be purchased early as they are in demand.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred E. Tansley motored one hundred and seventy-five miles to Englewood, N. J., Friday, to be present at the wedding of her Rev. A. Franke, of Riverton, to Mr. Victor Halsey Post on Saturday evening, May 19, at 7 o'clock. The bride was dressed in white silk and wore a long veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in pink. Among the valuable presents they received $175 in gold.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred E. Tansley motored to Mount Holly on Tuesday to attend the preachers' and stewards' meeting.

East Riverton

Mrs. Lawrence Bell passed away Monday evening after ten days illness, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bell, Randolph avenue, East Riverton. Funeral from her parent's home, with high requiem mass at the Sacred Heart Church at 10:30 this Friday morning. Burial at St. Peter's cemetery, Riverside. Frank A. Snover, funeral director.

Flag Out for Freeholder

Editor The New Era:

I would appreciate greatly, if you would announce through The New Era that, after careful consideration I have determined to announce my candidacy for the position of the Small Board of Freeholders for the county of Burlington on the Republican ticket.

I have no profligate promises to make, either public or private. I believe that they would be ill timed and out of place. I will say, however, that should I be so fortunate as to receive the endorsement of the public, I will give the very best that is in me, to care for the interests of the taxpayers of the county of which I am one.

During the past three years as Sheriff, I have endeavored to handle the duties of the office on a strictly business basis, and cheerfully invite intelligent investigation of all acts and receipts of same during my official term.

In conclusion can only say that I will cheerfully abide by the decision of the voters at the coming election. Thanking you in advance for your courtesy in this matter and with best wishes I remain,

Very truly yours,
EDWARD H. FLAGG, JR.

Palmyra's New Playground to Be Opened on June 18

A cordial invitation is extended by the Palmyra Community Playground Association to every boy and girl and their parents to attend the opening of the community playground on Monday morning, June 18th, at the Field Club ball park.

The playground will be open every day from then on until September, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, with the exception of Saturdays, when the playground will close at 12 noon.

Efficient instructors have been engaged for the season of the full charge of the boys and girls all the time they are in the park.

A very special invitation is extended to those parents who are opposed to the undertaking. It is the earnest desire of the committee in charge to have you come down and meet the instructors and see just what the work consists of. There are an amazing number of parents in Palmyra who do not understand the full significance of playground work and to them we say come down and see just what supervised play and competitive sports mean to your boy or girl.

CAMDEN DEFEATS PALMYRA

Eddie Williams' Nine Loses First Home Game of Season

Eddie Williams' Palmyra and Riverton baseball team failed to win its initial game when it met the strong Camden A. C. nine at The Field Club park last Saturday. The score stood 5 to 2 when the last man was out, but the only trouble was that Eddie's hopefulness was on the wrong end.

Each team really earned two runs, but errors in the first inning by our boys made it possible for the Camden bunch to chalk up three runs to their credit. They got their earned runs in the fourth. A rally in the eighth enabled the locals to score twice, the gentlemen who crossed the plate for Palmyra were "Gord" Andrews and Harry Kemmerle.

Lecher, the new pitcher, had as his supporting cast, Len Baker, who is said to be the peer of Hal Chase. Well, we're not sure about that, but "Bake" looked good at first; at second was the old reliable Joe Stack, who played an "ice" game. The short stop was none other than "Buddy" Mathews. "Buddy" is always in the game so why say any more on that subject. Gordon Andrews, who won much fame while playing for Pitman, held down the hot corner and George Durgin, who has been the hero of many local games, was back at his old position as catcher. In the outfield was Harry Kemmerle, "Russ" Gibbon and "Herby" Kemmerle, who was relieved by "Sammy" Rodgers, our famous fly chaser.

Mr. Williams, in an announcement, stated that he would endeavor to give the local fandom some real lively games during the coming season, provided he has its continued support. We are most sure that the fans will do their part if Eddie does his.

Some of the fastest traveling teams from Philadelphia and vicinity are scheduled to play at The Field Club park this year. On Friday our team is scheduled to meet the Camden Black Socks at Camden, with a return game to be played here on Saturday afternoon.

P. O. S. of A.
The long-awaited producers' banquet will be given the winners on Tuesday, June 5th, at 8.30 p.m. in the P. O. S. of A. Hall.

Two new applications show the work continues but in order to reach the goal of 1100, the next four weeks must show a big increase in energy.

Owing to some local conditions at Chatsworth the visit to that Camp, planned for June 2nd, has been postponed to a later date, which will be announced in due course.

The diamond jubilee committee has engaged Caperton's band of 35 pieces and we are guaranteed good music and plenty of it for the pageant. As previously stated, we want 400 for this event, and the committee wishes to hear from those who will take part.

New Electric Substation
A new substation constructed in Chester township, Burlington county, by Public Service Electric Company, has just been placed in operation, together with two 3-phase, 4,000 volt distribution circuits.

The structure to be known as Chester substation, replaced two smaller substations at Moorestown and Merchantville and is equipped to improve the home and street lighting service for that section. It is a one-story, brick building and is two and one-half miles from Moorestown on the Moorestown pike.

Chester substation is fed from the Camden power house and is to be unattended, the outgoing circuits being equipped with automatic reclosing circuit breakers.

Jollity in Bargain Day.
A general bargain day sale was put on by the merchants of Kingsley town, a few weeks ago. Even marriages were on the bargain counter, being performed at the bargain price of 30 cents and spinsters and bachelors who could be induced to admit their classification were tied for nine cents a couple by Mayor Normley. Banks also shaved $1 off notes paid on bargain day.—Exchange.

Abnormally Formed.
When an inquest was held at Westminster, Eng., on a seventy-four-year-old clerk of works of Hampstead, who died suddenly, it was stated that his heart weighed 25 ounces, instead of the normal ten, and that his brain was enormously enlarged, weighing 65 ounces.

Good Hunter Story.
A well-known guide and hunter in Quebec shot four black bears and a buck deer a few days ago. The deer was shot first and as it was too heavy to be carried the hunter went for his team. On his return he fell in with the family of bears and disposed of them with one shot each.

Worthy Belief.
I believe in the perpetual regeneration of society, and in the immortality of democracy and in growth everlasting.—Walter Hines Page.

P. H. S. WINS COUNTY MEET

Local Boys and Girls Victors in Athletic Contests Held at Mount Holly

The Palmyra track teams traveled to the Burlington county track meet held last Thursday at Mount Holly, and returned with two cups and twenty-nine medals to add to their collection. Nineteen of these were gold, denoting first place; eight silver, second place; and two bronze.

"Herb" Winsor was unable to compete, having injured his heel in a previous meet. He is Palmyra's high jumper. In the 100-yard finals, Sacks equalled the county record established four years ago by LeConey, the famous Lafayette College sprinter, who was then running for Moorestown High. Wood proved himself a very capable addition to the relay team.

Boal replaced Sullivan as anchor man, and Wood substituted for him as the second runner. Burlington was expected to take this event from the local boys, owing to the absence of Sullivan, but our boys came up by at least 220 yards ahead of the nearest competitor, which was none other than the old rivals, Burlington.

The girls were winners of 32 points. Miss Frances Ruppert, Middle Atlantic sprint champion, was the victor in 75-yard event. She had as a close second, Pauline Frabatore, who made a wonderful showing. She is one of the local girls whose improvement in athletics in the past season has been remarkable.

The local boys placed as follows in the various events:
High jump—Davis, third.
100-yard dash—first heat—Sacks first; second heat—Boal, first; third heat—Wood first; finals—Sacks, first. Time 10.2 seconds.

Running broad jump—Sacks, first. Distance 18 feet 3 inches.
220-yard dash—first heat—Sacks, first; second heat—Kersey, first; finals Sacks first; Kersey second.

One-mile relay, won by Palmyra—Kersey, Wood, Sacks and Boal.
Points won by the various teams were as follows: boys, Palmyra, 49; Burlington, 44; Mount Holly, 22; Moorestown, 12; Girls, Palmyra, 32; Mount Holly, 22; Burlington, 12.

James Burr did well for the middle class. Sheets McDorman, Palmyra's little giant athlete, helped carry his school to victory by winning first honors in the lightweight class by taking, with ease, first in the dash, high jump and broad jump.

Mildred Siebek, for the third year, won first in the throwing event. Gladys Trudel, Pauline Frabatore, Harriet Ruster, Ruth Hemingway and Cora Elliott, members of the girls' junior team, did excellent work in all events. Both girls' relay teams won in their respective events, the senior team being comprised of Ruppert, Frabatore, Giberson and Davis; junior, Elliott, Rhoades, Perkins and Trudel.

P. H. S. NOTES

Honors for Another P.H.S. Graduate

Leon H. Rascely, of Riverside, a graduate of Palmyra High School last June, entered the University of Pennsylvania in September and according to late reports at P.H.S., has been doing excellent work and ranks in the first quarter of his class. Again the local school comes to the fore by creditable performances on the part of one of its graduates.

The members of the High School orchestra have just received their pins, each designating the instrument that is played. They are very neat and attractive, one which any musician would be proud to wear.

Stolen Boat Found

The sixteen-foot one-designer, belonging to E. W. Miller and the row boat belonging to E. K. Merrill, stolen from their moorings at the Riverton Yacht Club on May 17th have been recovered.

Saturday, Malcolm Dickinson, while going up the river, saw a boat tied to the Beverly wharf which he recognized as the one belonging to Mr. Miller. He made inquiries and learned that it had been found adrift by a fisherman who took it in tow and fastened it up to the wharf.

The row boat was found the same day in Neshaminy creek. It had also been found adrift and had been taken in charge by the shipyard people there. Both boats were brought back to Riverton on Saturday.

Twilight Baseball

A meeting of the Twin City Twilight Baseball League was held last Saturday night and the following officers were elected to serve during the coming year: Edward Patterson, president; Clinton Gibbons, vice president; George B. Snyder, secretary-treasurer.

Another meeting of the League will be held on Friday, the 1st, at eight o'clock, in Society Hall. Matters of very great importance, including adoption of schedule, starting date, et cetera, will be discussed and it is earnestly requested that all organizations which desire to put a team on the field this season should have a representative present at that time.

Public Service News

Sixty miles, or about 3,500 tons of new gas pipe have been ordered by Public Service Gas Company for delivery August 1. This supply will be turned over to the distribution department so that there be no delay in laying new mains in those districts where new or increased service is demanded. The mains will be four, six or eight inch.

"Bad Boys" to Make "Good Firemen"

The genius of the Reliance Fire Company of Vineland, N. J., whoever he may be, knows boys and likes them. An offer has been made to take a dozen of the so-called "bad boys," the incorrigibles of the town, make them auxiliary members of the fire company, let them run to fires and wear uniforms, 'n' everything, on condition of their good behavior. A red apple on the success of the experiment. Those boys will take discipline and vow they like it.

LESSON FOR JUNE 3

JEREMIAH, THE PROPHET OF COURAGE

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 38:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.—1 Corinthians 16:13.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Jeremiah 1:1-10; 12:1-4; 13:1-4; Matthew 23:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Bene Who Honor Their Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the Rechabites.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jeremiah, the Courageous Prophet.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jeremiah's Service to His Nation.

Jeremiah was one of the last prophets of Judah. He saw the nation go into the Babylonian captivity and Jerusalem destroyed, after which he went into Egypt. He was a lonely, misunderstood and unpopular prophet. He was most bitterly hated and persecuted. His own countrymen turned against him. He was placed in stocks and then thrown into a horrible dungeon from which he narrowly escaped with his life. The teacher should give a little sketch of his life. The following is suggested:

1. His Call (1:2-10).
2. His Commission (1:11-19).
3. His Sympathetic Heart (4:19).
4. His Great Sorrows (10:15-21).
5. The Divine Power Which Urged Him Forward and Sustained Him (10:7-9).

Because he was called upon to prophesy against his own nation and at the command of God urged them to surrender to the Babylonians, he was regarded as a traitor guilty of treason against his own nation.

I. The Rechabites' Test (vv. 1-5).

In the days of Jehoiakim, the Lord charged Jeremiah to bring the Rechabites into the house of the Lord and test them regarding the drinking of wine. This he did in a place where the people might behold them, the aim being to teach Judah by example. The father of the Rechabites had given command that they should not drink wine. Their filial obedience put to shame the children of Judah for their lack of obedience. Jonadab, the father of the Rechabites, was only a man but the one whose commands Judah disregarded was the Almighty God, their Creator and Savior. It is God's plan that every man be tested. Being a free agent, he can have character only through testing.

II. The Filial Loyalty of the Rechabites (vv. 6-11).

Though they were out of their own country in the midst of a foreign people they refused to drink wine, declaring that they had been true to the instructions of Jonadab all their lives. It is a fine thing when children remember their fathers and render obedience to their commands.

III. The Loyalty of the Rechabites in Contrast With the Disloyalty of Judah (vv. 12-16).

1. The Appeal (vv. 12, 14). He made the appeal on the basis of the filial loyalty of the Rechabites. He also reminded them that he had spoken to them in person, rising up early to do so.

2. The Ministry of the Prophets (vv. 15, 16). When the people failed to render obedience to God, he sent to them the prophets, who pleaded with them to amend their ways by turning away from their idols. Matthew Henry indicates the points of contrast somewhat as follows: (1) The Rechabites were obedient to one who was but a man; the Jews disobeyed the infinite and eternal God. (2) Jonadab was dead and could not know of their disloyalty or correct them for it. God is all-knowing and lives forever and will punish for disobedience. (3) The Rechabites were never reminded of their obligations, but God sent His prophets to speak to His people. (4) Jonadab left the charge but no estate to support the charge, but God gave the people a goodly land and prospered them in it. (5) God never assigned His people a task as hard as Jonadab's, but God's people disobeyed Him while the Rechabites obeyed their father.

IV. Judgment Upon the Jews for Disobedience (v. 17).

God declared that He would bring judgment upon them according to what He had said. Judgment is laid upon those who disobey and rebel against God.

V. Reward of the Rechabites for Their Loyalty (vv. 18, 19).

Because they had been true to the commands of Jonadab, they should always have a representative before God. God has such a regard for filial obedience that He lets no act go unrewarded.

Be Sure of Happiness.

Before we passionately desire anything which another enjoys, we should examine as to the happiness of its possessor.—Boethius.

History.

History is little more than the register of the crimes, follies and misfortunes of mankind.—Gibbon.

Great Secrets.

The great secrets of being counted are to shun others and to seem delighted with yourself.—Bulwer.

Cinnaminson Home Fete

"May I take this opportunity to let you know what a fine place we think the Cinnaminson Home is. Within the last month we have had two of our settlement Mothers there, both of them went very reluctantly but both came away the same. One of the mothers had never been away from home before. She had known nothing but hardship, supporting four children alone, getting up every morning at five in order to be ready to start her work in the mill at seven. The other mother had had the care of nine children, none of whom are strong; her health broke down."

"Because of the good care and unusual kindness of the Home and of the beautiful surroundings, both these women have been restored to health and happiness."

The above is a quotation from a letter received by the Board of the Cinnaminson Home. It is similar to hundreds that have been received and which members of the Board would be glad to show interested persons.

It is impossible to conceive of any greater work than that of the alleviation of sickness and the giving of happiness to the many whose lives are one continual night of hardship and disaster.

Through the efforts of the Cinnaminson Home many a mother has been able to return to her children, work for them and give them the start in life that we all desire our children to have. Many a child has so benefited by the fresh air and motherly attention that it has been restored to good health, having been on arrival a sickly patient.

This message is meant for every citizen of Riverton.

The annual fete will be held between 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the Home grounds, Cinnaminson, on Saturday next, June 2. Transportation will be provided from the railway station and return. Supper at very reasonable prices will be served between 5.30 p.m. and 7 p.m. No admission will be charged to the grounds but there will be booths, from which one will be able to buy all sorts of useful articles, cakes, candies, etc. So that the time will not lag, side shows and games have been provided for all and an open-air play will be given in the evening.

Do not fail to attend this fete, besides being assured of a most enjoyable afternoon, you will be helping to support a splendid work, the results of which are quoted above.

LIKE "AS YOU LIKE IT"

Large Audiences Applaud Junior Play

"As You Like It," one of Shakespeare's most popular comedies, was admirably presented Monday and Tuesday evenings in the high school auditorium before large and enthusiastic audiences.

Every member of the cast was well chosen for his part and interpreted it splendidly.

The scenery and costumes for the most part had been made and designed by members of the class. The silhouetted Forest of Arden, used in the second act, was especially effective. This was the handiwork of Todd Sperling and Hubert Logan.

It is unusual for youngsters to attempt anything so difficult as a whole Shakespearean play, but their success well rewarded their efforts.

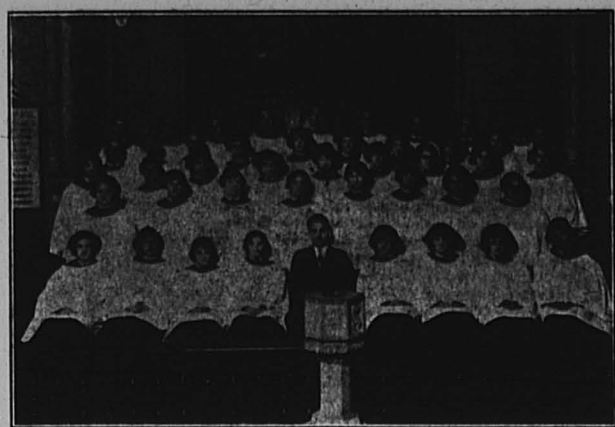

The cast had been excellently trained by Miss Heller and Miss Bell, of the high school faculty.

Lutheran News

LUTHERAN CHORAL SOCIETY HERE JUNE 7

Professor Adolf Wendel, of Zecker-Hahn Conservatory Is Conductor

Riverton and Palmyra are being favored with a rare treat next Thursday, June 7, when the Lutheran Choral Society of Trenton, N. J., will stage a concert, supported by an orchestra of twenty-five pieces under the leadership of Mr. Thomas Griffenberg, in the Palmyra High School auditorium.

Music week has been celebrated in various cities, and this to Riverton and Palmyra should stand in the same category, for if this concert is well supported, other talent will be brought into town to give the local people the best possible.

The Choral speaks for itself in the accompanying article taken from the Trenton Times, but an added proof of its ability is given in the fact that Mr. Adolf Wendel, of the Zecker-Hahn Conservatory of Music in Philadelphia, is the conductor. Besides, some of the music which will be sung is taken from composers such as Melchior Vulpius, Johann Sebastian Bach, George Frederick Handel, James Kent, Frederic H. Himmel, Ludwig Von Beethoven, Franz Peter Schubert, Felix Mendelssohn, Richard Wagner, Charles Francois Gounod, Sir John Stainer, and others.

Such an array is worth traveling many miles to hear, especially when sung by fifty trained voices under such capable leadership.

This concert will be held in the Palmyra High School, Thursday, June 7, at 8.15 p.m. Tickets are 50c and can be purchased at Smith's, McAllister's, and other points along Broad street.

From every view point, the first vested concert appearance of the Lutheran Choral Society in the auditorium of the High School last evening was an emphatic success.

The program was one of excellent choice and was characterized by artistic rendition. Every number brought merited applause. Particularly praiseworthy, were "Onward, Christian Soldiers," an impressive procession, and "Now Thank We All Our God," an offering of difficulty well handled.

Prominent among the other selections were several compositions of F. Melius Christensen, director of the celebrated St. Olaf Lutheran Choir.

Careful preparation, intelligent musicianship and appreciation of theme were evident throughout. Much credit is due Professor Adolf F. Wendel, who led the fifty singers.

Heretofore the appearances of the Lutheran Society, which includes many of the city's best voices, have been confined to several of the Trenton Lutheran churches. Last evening's program stamped the organization as a musical force from which much can be expected in the future.

BOY SCOUTS

PARENTS AID BOY SCOUTS

One of the greatest tributes to the boy scout program of character building and citizenship training is the increasing interest of mothers and fathers in the work of their scout sons. Scouting is creating a bond of comradeship between thousands of sons and fathers who in increasing numbers are spending week-ends together at scout camps, relaxing in the out of doors, skating, skiing, hiking and sledging together. Father and son hikes, banquets and get-togethers are held in practically every community. Contests between "lads and dads" create splendid rivalry and make dad want to get out with son in the open more and more.

One big-hearted father who, as an incentive to his own boy, joined the ranks of the tenderfoot scouts recently with his son reached the very top of the ladder together—Eagle rank. And mother! You may be sure she is very proud of son's manliness, his scout bearing, his practice of the scouts' daily good turn, of being ready at all times to help others, his courtesy to the old, the weak, the sick, his deference to those older than himself, his growing strength from his outdoors life. These things with their ultimate bearing on character building, mothers are keen to appreciate. To further the work, scouts mothers' clubs, committees, and associations are being constantly formed. Mother and son hikes and even mothers' week at camp are evidence that the scout son knows "the best pal of all" is right behind him in his advance in scoutcraft.

Scouting does not supplant the home training. It supplements it and fortifies it. Scouting's best supporters are the mothers and fathers who from daily observation see with gratification sons who are living every inch as scouts.

"A SCOUT IS THRIFTY"

Boy scouts honored Benjamin as an exponent of thrift, as well as a great patriot, on the occasion of Franklin's two hundred and seventeenth birthday, when, in common with 40 other national, educational and civic societies, the scouts laid a tribute of flowers at the great statesman's statue in New York city, Scout Adolphe Schmidt, a member of Troop 2, Brooklyn, N. Y., at the ceremony impersonated Franklin at the age of seventeen, arriving at Philadelphia.

A FEW SCOUT "GOOD TURNS"

Here is a series of "good turns" with a splendid climax for which credit is due Troop 1, Ashland, W. Va.: Pruned 50 trees, cleaned streets, removed debris from lot where house had partly burned, cleaned around dwelling houses, set out 60 trees and helped find boy who had run away from home.

CO-OPERATE WITH BOY SCOUTS

Thirteen theological seminaries in various parts of the United States are showing active indorsement of scouting by including training for future scout leaders as a regular part of their curriculum.

BOY SCOUTS AID BIRDS

Carrying food daily through the winter to game refuge, and distributing it at places where thousands of wild birds congregate, is one way Troop No. 1, Hamilton, Ohio, has of carrying out the sixth scout law, "A Scout is Kind." During the autumn migration of birds the boys threw food along the lake shores after the sanctuary birds had been penned up for the night. It is said the birds now recognize the scout uniform as a sign of friendliness.

Home-Owns Always Worth While.

Owning a home is one of the most satisfactory forms of investment which can possibly be undertaken. As with an investment of any kind, it should be entered into only after due and sufficient thought, and one must be careful not to undertake more than can be performed. Ordinarily, however, the objective to be gained is of sufficient importance to justify considerable effort, and even making great sacrifices to accomplish the ownership of a home will be worth while in the end.

Good for Old Ladies.

The other day a woman, ninety-two years old, went to the Old Ladies' home at Terre Haute. She was so brisk and cheery, despite her deafness. Later she was visited by one of her old neighbors, who asked her how she liked the home. And this was her answer: "Well, this is the nicest, friendliest bunch of people I ever met. I think every woman ought to live at an old ladies' home for a time just to learn that every one loved her at sight."

PARKS OF DISTINCT WORTH

Boost Property Value—Wise City Planning Also Factor of Health, Authority Says.

Dr. George F. Kuns of New York, president of the American Scenic and Historical Preservation society, produced a mass of evidence to show how greatly the presence of any beautiful natural feature such as a park increases the value of surrounding property in dollars and cents. After discussing the case of Central park, Doctor Kuns continued:

"If, when the plans for the city of New York above Tenth street were being prepared, there had been a landscape architect, or some one with judgment, he could have used the various ponds for small lakes, he would not have eradicated every hill, but would have and there have given us a small park, and would not have laid out the city on the lines of a checkerboard, with a loss of both beauty and accessibility."

"Instead of giving us a few avenues and many streets, he would have reversed the order and given us many avenues and fewer streets, with the result that traffic would not have been rendered difficult for many years and almost impossible as it is today. Moreover, as the sun rises in the east and sets in the west, it would have meant that two or three times as many homes as now would have had sunlight all the day, whereas at the present time in many of the side streets the sun is never seen and the streets are filled with ice, and the death rate of the entire city has been notably increased by the little knowledge shown of what New York was to be in the future."—New York Times.

PLEA FOR WELL-KEPT ROADS

Neglected Streets Not Alone Unhealthful, but Create Bad Impression on the Visitor.

There are 15,400 "incorporated places" in America. Of these 15,400 cities, towns and villages only 2,800 exceed a population of 2,500 people each; yet these 2,800 "urban places" contain 54,000,000 people, while 12,000 "rural places" contain 9,000,000. Nearly all the 9,000,000 residents of the 12,000 "rural places" live on unpaved streets, and the same holds true of a large percentage of the residents of "urban places." There are no statistics to show how many miles of streets there are in the 15,400 "incorporated places," so that we cannot estimate accurately the percentage of unpaved streets.

Even without such statistics to indicate the extent of unpaved streets, it would be evident enough to any one who travels much that most of our small towns are inadequately paved. Mud half the year and dust the other half are characteristics of their streets.

Powder to Lay Road Dust.

Calcium chloride, a chemical powder, is being used to lay the dust on the stretches of the Prince of Wales highway between Brockville and Ottawa. The experiment is being carried out by the department of highways with a view of determining the relative values of the chemical and of oil for this purpose, and two stretches of roadway, at Spencerville and Manotick respectively, are being treated. The chemical absorbs and retains moisture and forms a coating over the surface of the road. Its cheapness as opposed to an oil treatment is said to be considerable and as both treatments have to be repeated frequently the department hopes to effect a material saving.

LINCOLN PILOT OF BIG SHRINE AUTO CARAVAN

Capt. Bernard McMahan Enthusiastic Over Performance of His Car Which Has Twice Crossed Continent

With a record of having twice crossed the continent and covering more than 60,000 miles, the Lincoln car of Capt. Bernard S. McMahan, secretary-treasurer and manager of the National Shrine Touring Club, is now piloting the caravan which left Oakland, Calif., May 1st for Washington, D. C., to attend the National Shrine meeting scheduled for June 5th, 6th and 7th.

Following the Washington meeting, Captain McMahan will pilot the autoists over a northern route on their return trip, the big white Lincoln blazing the way as pathfinder. Selection of the Lincoln as the official pilot car is a notable tribute to the sturdy and enduring character of this car and its masterly performance under all kinds of road conditions.

Captain McMahan is enthusiastic over the Lincoln and declares that it has the most wonderful mechanism he has ever handled.

Aside from its matchless mechanical functioning during the entire time he has driven it, the thing that impresses him most about his Lincoln is the extremely high tire mileage, a feature frequently commented upon by other Lincoln owners.

In speaking of the performance of the car, Captain McMahan recently said that on his last trip across the continent he consistently got thirteen (13) miles to the gallon of gasoline in open country.

The high quality and superior performance of the Lincoln are daily winning new and enthusiastic admirers who find in this car everything that the Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company claims for it, that it presents highest achievement in automobile mechanics and construction and that modern methods can produce.

THE LOST COLUMBINE

gave, he drove to the club, handling his reins daintily, and to avoid being recognized by his car, parked beside the drive at some distance from the door, and walked with his companions to the clubhouse.

The doors and the French windows were open; dancing had already started; they could hear the music as they walked across the grass. Inside the ballroom waiting passed to review the anticipated spectacle. Masked soldiers, clowns, coolies, court beauties, bullfighters, odalisques, woman jockies, gals, harlequins, cowboys, Spanish senoritas, mandarins, pirates, nymphs, Turks, vaqueros, peasants, whirled to the music of the jazz band.

Looking them over as they circled past, he presently thought he recognized his wife. She was dressed—it indeed it was Eleanor—as a French court lady, with patches, a high powdered wig and a panned gown of flowered silk, and was dancing with a Roman gladiator. He watched her around the room. Her height, her figure, her carriage were Eleanor's, and the costume had a dignity characteristic of his wife's taste. When she had passed several times he was quite certain of her.

Presently he became interested in Cleopatra, who trotted into view with Napoleon. Eleanor would have made a handsome Cleopatra, too, but he felt sure she would never appear in public in such scant attire.

That Cleopatra woman was certainly attractive, though! He cut in on her and, as they danced, talked in a false voice, endeavoring to guess at her identity. But the fair Egyptian was popular. An Indian Rajah soon snatched her away, leaving King Charles II free to seek out a fascinating Columbine who, several times, had passed near him in a dance, and seemed responsive to his glances.

Presently, with a bout of the Colonel's period, she came down the floor, a sprightly figure in a short black satin dress with a waist cut to a deep V in back, springy little skirts, thin open-work stockings and ballet slippers. With her huge white ruff and her black hooded hat pulled down at a saucy angle over bobbed red hair, she looked the incarnation of irresponsible gaiety. He cut in and found that her dancing confirmed his impression. How light, how responsive she was!

"I've been aiming to catch you," he told her, disguising his voice by pitching it low.

"Are you, monsieur?" she chirped. "Well, sen, we are sympathique, for I too 'ave look at you, you beeg, 'and some man!" The minx. She gave him a squeeze—which he promptly returned.

"Are you French?" he asked in his assumed voice, "or are you putting on that accent?"

"What you sink, monsieur?"

"I think," he said, "that if you're putting it on you do it very well."

"An' you, you bad, weeked king! 'Ow is your Nell Gwyn?" she asked.

"Never mind Nell Gwyn," he said. "It's you I'm interested in. Don't tell me you're just a nice little married woman in disguise—wife of some man who commutes to business in New York and drives a ball around these links on Sundays."

"You 'ave I'm real naughty French girl?" she asked, archly.

"Indeed I do!"

"Well, sen, follow me! And with that she disengaged herself and flitted swiftly through a French window leading to the terrace.

Pursuing, he lost her momentarily, for in the darkness her black dress gave her an advantage, but as she scampered down the steps toward the lawn and the links, he caught sight of her white ruff, and sped after her. As she disappeared behind a large arbutus bush he heard a rippling laugh, and running to the other side, caught her in his arms. Then, as she was punting and laughing, and as it was dark, and they were masked, and the syringas smelled so sweet, he placed his hand beneath her chin, tilted it up, bent over, and was about to seize the fruits of victory, when she eluded him and ran off laughing, in the direction of the drive.

A prisoner who escapes and is recaptured pays an added penalty, and when after another chase over the silver-green of moonlit grass, Charles II grasped the elusive Columbine, and exacted what he deemed just tribute from her lips, he was surprised and flattered by the apparent willingness with which she yielded.

Indeed it was that willingness which made him confident that she would not again become a fugitive, and he was holding her lightly when, in a flash, she was off once more, this time running toward the clubhouse.

Just at the doorway he caught up; but his appeal to her to stay outside was unavailing.

"No," she said, firmly, "you are a naughty boy, an' I 'ave foun' you out. My husband would not like it."

"Your husband does not need to know," he urged, "nor my wife, either. That's what makes a party of this kind such fun—husbands and wives not knowing each other's costumes."

"Yes," said she, "but I 'ave already 'ad fun enough, my king." And with that she moved into the ballroom.

By the door they stood for a moment watching the dancers.

"Look!" he exclaimed suddenly. "There's another Columbine. She's like you—exactly like you, even to her red hair!"

"Yes, we came together."

"But suppose I were to lose you," said he, "how could I find you again? How could I tell the two of you apart?"

"That is a question!" she said.

"Let's dance and talk it over."

"No, monsieur," replied the Columbine, "now I must dance with some one else." As she spoke a coy monk came up, and in a moment she was dancing off with him.

"Meet me here afterwards," urged King Charles as she moved away.

But she shook her head.

"How shall I find you, then?" he demanded, following.

"I don't think you can," said she, and again he heard her tantalizing laugh.

He retired to the doorway and watched for her, but by the time she came around again she was with a Stellan brigand. He cut in. But apparently this was the other Columbine, for she did not seem to know him. Her step was not so light as that of the one he sought, nor did she speak with a French accent.

"Never mind! He would find his lost Columbine. He was determined to find her. And when they unmasked he would learn who she was."

Time and again, when he saw a Columbine wearing a black cocked hat over bobbed hair, he cut in and danced with her, but only to be disappointed. Always it was the wrong one. He questioned her about the other, but could get no satisfaction.

When, at midnight, the dancers unmasked, he hastened about the ballroom and the adjacent apartments looking for the Columbine, but now he could find neither of them. Nor could he find his wife, nor yet the white-wigged lady of the French court, whom he had identified with her.

Where could Eleanor be? She ought to be in the ballroom. That was where a well-behaved woman belonged at a party such as this. It wasn't wise for a pretty woman to go wandering about outside, in the moonlight, with a strange man, masked. Since prohibition there had been a lot of drinking, and fancy dress made people reckless, anyway. Temporarily he forgot the Columbine in his concern about his wife's behavior, as he looked for her upon the terrace and the lawn.

Falling to find her he returned to the club and telephoned home.

"Hello!" He was surprised to hear Eleanor's voice upon the wire.

"I've been hunting for you all over the place," he said. "What took you home so early?"

"Oh, I got enough of it."

"Didn't you have a good time?"

"I had an exceptionally good time," she assured him.

"But I don't understand why you went home, then."

"Fancy dress makes people do all sorts of things," she said, and before he could comment upon the cryptical character of the remark, she asked: "Have you been enjoying yourself?"

"Oh, I've had worse times," said he. And thinking to have one final look for his lost Columbine, he added: "I guess I'll hang around for a while if you don't mind."

"No, I don't mind at all. Good night, dear," and she hung up the receiver.

III

"Well, dear," said Archibald Welkins next morning as his wife, looking very lovely in a shell-pink house gown, poured the coffee. "It was a pretty good party, wasn't it?" And as she nodded, he went on in an expansive tone: "Made it rather amusing, after all—husbands and wives not knowing each other's costumes—don't you think so?"

"Yes, very amusing," she said.

"I was quite sure I recognized you," he told her.

"Oh, were you?" She looked up quickly.

"Yes, in a French court costume, with a high powdered wig."

When she smiled and shook her head he was surprised.

"That wasn't you—honestly?"

"No, honestly."

"What was your costume, then?"

"I went as a Columbine," she said; and addressing the maid: "Pass Mr. Welkins the strawberry jam."

In silence he helped himself, spread jam upon a piece of toast, ate it, and drank his coffee. Then:

"There were two Columbines dressed exactly alike," he ventured.

"Yes," said Eleanor. "This is the last of that new bacon. Have you made up your mind yet how you like it?"

"Oh, it's very good," he answered abstractedly. "Both the Columbines I saw had red hair."

"Wigs," she returned, succinctly.

"Wigs," he repeated, surprised.

"They didn't look like wigs."

"Men aren't very quick at detecting such things," said she. Then, to his infinite surprise she added: "Do you remember that nice French officer I liked so much three years ago?"

"Why, yes."

"Well, he wore a toupee."

"He did? How do you know?"

"I noticed it the first time I saw him."

"Um," he said, and sat reflective for a time, then: "Look here, dear," he went on. "Let's never speak of that French officer again. It was long ago, and anyway it really didn't amount to anything."

If he expected recognition of this magnanimity he was disappointed for she did not speak.

"Who was the other Columbine?" he asked in a casual tone as he was about to rise from table.

"Evidently someone who went to the same costume I did," his wife replied.

"But—" He checked himself; then with some feeling, added: "I don't think they ought to send out duplicate costumes for the same party, do you?"

But she failed to reply.

Often in the eight years of their married life he had been disturbed by her trait of remaining silent when she disagreed with him. He had never known a woman with Eleanor's capacity for silence. It gave her a mysterious power.

Then She Got the Cookies.

Alice came dashing in from her play. "Oh, mamma! mamma!" she called.

"What is it, dearie?" mamma answered, from the kitchen.

"Mamma, I want some cookies."

Alice begged.

"But I just gave you some a moment ago," mamma protested.

"I know," Alice admitted, "but I ate those, and now I need some more."

"But I don't think you need any more," mamma declared. "It isn't good for you to eat so many cookies. Why, when I was a little girl your size I wasn't always eating cookies and things between meals!"

Alice thought this over for a moment. Then:

"Well, maybe you didn't," she admitted. "But then you surely didn't have as good a mamma as I have!"—Kansas City Star.

America's Marvels NATURAL AND OTHERWISE

By T. T. Maxey

DE YOUNG'S MEMORIAL MUSEUM

A habit of collecting antiquities led Mr. M. H. DeYoung, a public-spirited citizen of San Francisco, to build a museum in which to house his own and other collections and present it to the city.

Two appropriate buildings of Egyptian style, each 140 feet wide and 550 feet long, joined by a broad corridor supporting a beautiful tower, compose this museum. Salmon-tinted, and set down amid pleasingly landscaped gardens in Golden Gate park, this ensemble presents an imposing appearance.

The forty-five galleries contain more than one million objects. Their value is fabulous. The extent, oddity, variety, and completeness of the displays is amazing.

There are priceless oil paintings from the brushes of the masters; engravings of great value from many countries and of many periods; the celebrated Kunz collection containing specimens of every type of precious and semi-precious stone; coins from practically every country on the globe; a collection of reproductions of the crown jewels of the world; a collection of drums, some of which may have called warriors to battle in far-off lands; samples of precious needlework and lace dating back to the Eleventh century; the great Dore vase of bronze, 10 feet tall, weighing about 6,000 pounds and valued at $250,000; tapestries, rich, rare, and beautiful; a pair of enormous lions in cloisonné, made for the Imperial palace at Peking, China; two giant bronze lanterns some ten feet tall, from the Temple of Nankai-San, Kobe.

The history of warfare of many nations is silently told by implements of destruction used from the time of the World War back to the days when men fought clad in armor. Here is a chair used by George Washington in 1789; there a Japanese teakwood cabinet 200 years old; yonder the bell (from the steamship Oregon) that clanged forth the news that California had been admitted to the Union, and a battered piece of wood from the vessel on which Napoleon sailed from Elba to France. Mirroring the civilization of past centuries is a mummy which probably lived about 200 years B. C.; another is a tear bottle, it having been an ancient custom for mourners to preserve their tears as visible evidence of their grief. There is a collection of pipes from far-off lands that would make the mouth of any smoker run water, and other objects of a surprising nature too numerous to mention.

ENTER THE BRIDAL CORTEGE IN ENCHANTING FROCKS

THE bride, after determining on her town wedding gown, considers those of her maids and her matron or maid of honor, with a reference to the beauty of the wedding cortege and to the setting they will make for her own bridal array. She may choose picturesque things of bygone days to set off her most modern garb, or she may elect that all shall be of corresponding style, still maintaining the center of interest in her costume. With all the adorable frocks in current modes, suited to bridesmaids, and all the quaint fashions available, the way of the bride is strewn with sartorial roses in making a choice.

To think of bridesmaids is to say "taffeta", there are so many flower-like taffeta frocks to make a colorful and gleaming background for the white of the bride. Probably nothing else is quite so popular as full-skirted, slim-bodied frocks of changeable taffeta for the bridal procession. Maids look their daintiest in them and the bride who chooses them is sure to please.

Even more lasting are the exquisite frocks of fine embroidered batiste, trimmed with lace and worn over slips of colored silk. One of these is shown in the illustration and is recommended for the maid or matron of honor, when worn over a slip of the same color as that in the dresses of the maids. It is elaborated by a panel down the front of alternating rows of embroidered batiste and val lace insertion, with futed frills of val edging set in in groups across it. These frills are also set about the bottom of the skirt. The heavily embroidered side panels are outlined with insertion and the back of the skirt is plain. The crowning glory of this model is the small straight cape at the back of the bodice, much elaborated with tucks, embroidery and lace.

MAY BE BONES OF PRIESTESS

Skeleton Found Near Smoking Crater of Kilauea, Believed to Be Last of Her Order.

The skeleton of a woman, believed that of the last of the priestesses of the Hawaiian fire goddess Pele, whose traditional home was in the Kilauea volcano on the island Hawaii was found recently in a carefully prepared crypt not far from the smoking crater.

The tomb was found in the western sector of the main wall of the great outer crater of Kilauea, where once stood a great temple dedicated to Hiiaka, the sister of the goddess Pele. Nothing now remains of this temple. The last occasion upon which it appeared in history was when it was visited by the Princess Kapiolani in 1524, when the royal Hawaiian Christian journeyed to the volcano for the purpose of uttering defiance to Pele. The journey formed the motif of one of Alfred Lord Tennyson's poems. Local tradition says that the princess was met at the crater rim by a hag-gard priestess—the last of her line—who came from her abode in the ruined temple near by and made one last attempt to overawe the princess and to appeal to her fear of the supernatural.

The tomb, believed to be that of this priestess, was discovered immediately below the site of the temple. The position of the bones indicated that she had been buried in a sitting position, with her back propped against the wall, with her head placed so that her slightest eyes were in line with a small orifice immediately in front of her and in a direct line with the mile-distant fire out of the volcano.

Gingham Dresses Can Be Made Quickly with McCall Printed Patterns

"A dress cut out accurately is three-quarters done" said a woman after she had used the McCall PRINTED Pattern, the only absolutely accurate pattern.

Notch meets notch exactly. Armholes fit perfectly. Seams meet seams.

The fit and the style of the garment is in the printed cutting lines on the pattern pieces.

That's why gingham dresses or any other kind can be made so quickly. Everything goes together smoothly, easily, successfully!

Native Game Birds in Danger. Our native species of quail, pheasant and wild turkey are fast coming to a point where, if not protected by stringent laws, they will become extinct. It is true that imported birds can be brought in from time to time but it is also true that there is nothing quite so sweet to the ear of the seasoned gunner as the plaintive "bob-white" call of the quail of Pennsylvania or the one and only "whir" of the native pheasant as it takes wing.

Miss Williams is a member of this year's graduation class at Miss Dow's school at Briarcliff Manor, New York.

Mrs. Thomas Ferguson, of New York, spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hirsch. Mrs. Ferguson was Miss Dorothy Balcom, formerly of Palmyra.

The Rev. Fred B. Morley made the address at the opening of the William Cortright Memorial playground, which is owned by the Beverly M. B. Church, of which Mr. Morley is a former pastor, Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Williams returned on Tuesday after spending a week at the Northern Baptist convention, held on the Steel Pier, Atlantic City. Mr. Williams has now recovered sufficiently to be able to resume charge of services at the Central Baptist Church this Sunday.

A double event occurred Wednesday at the home of W. P. Blackburne. It was "dad's" birthday, which was duly celebrated, and then in addition a surprise shower was given in honor of Mrs. Francis Voorhis. Thirty guests were present and Mrs. Voorhis received many handsome and useful gifts.

The Blackburne home was beautifully decorated in pink and white, with floral decorations of daisies.

MEMORIAL DAY

Fitting Celebration Held in Palmyra

Memorial Day in Palmyra was celebrated under the direction of Post Rodgers, American Legion, and the P. O. S. of A.

The program began with a parade, marshalled by Commander Lamont, in which the G. A. R. Veterans, Legion, Boy and Girl Scouts, Legion Auxiliary, Fire Company, school children and Ambulance Association took part.

The procession went to the two cemeteries where the graves were decorated, prayers offered and salutes fired.

The speaker at the exercises in the grove, which followed, was the Rev. Mr. Brotemarkle, a U. S. Army chaplain in the World War.

The firing squad was composed of four former "doughboys," G. Truman, W. Neithercott, H. Stack and T. D'Autrey, and four "gobs," R. Morgan, C. King, C. Marple, and H. Fisher.

Taps were sounded by former ambulance bugler Hardiman.

YMCA

The Palmyra Pioneer group held its last regular meeting of the season Tuesday evening. The year's program was wound up with a "girls' night." After the meeting games were played and refreshments were served.

Camp Ockanickon opens the last week in June and all those wishing to attend should get in touch with Doc Kersey at once.

MISS RUPPERT WINS

Takes First Place in Sprint at A.O.H. Meet

Miss Frances Ruppert, local high school track star and Middle Atlantic sprint champion for women, won the feature event for the girls in the A.O.H. fifty-seventh annual track and field games held on Northeast Field, Twenty-ninth and Clearfield streets, Philadelphia, Memorial Day.

She cleaned up in the 75-yard dash with a time of 9.25 seconds. She nosed out Madeline Adams, of the Meadowbrook Club.

Miss Ruppert practically always wins this event and is expected to establish a new record in the near future.

Roy J. Kersey, also of Palmyra High, competed in this meet and placed third in the 440, which was won by F. Loughran, of St. Joseph's Prep School. Roy had a handicap of 22 yards.

$5027 FOR LEGION

At Least $7000 Expected to Be Obtained Before Drive Is Wound Up

The total receipts of the Palmyra Legion Home drive have reached $5027 by Wednesday evening.

The business section had not yet been canvassed and several streets had not fully been accounted for, so it is expected that the $7000 at least will be reached.

The business men especially are expected to respond nobly to the need of additional contributions.

While it was hoped to obtain pledges for the full amount required, $10,000, the money obtained will be sufficient for immediate financing needs and it is expected to finish up the job at a later date.

If anyone in the whole town has been missed by the solicitors, they are kindly requested to mail in their subscriptions, either to the chairman, Mayor James T. Weart, or the secretary, James B. Rustic.

Palmyra-Riverton Wins Decoration Day Game

In order to make Memorial Day a complete success, Eddie Williams' Palmyra and Riverton aggregation of sluggers proved they could win a game once-in-a-while by defeating the so-called Quaker City Professionals by a shut-out score of 5 to 0 at the Field Club grounds.

Joe Stack crossed the plate twice for the locals with Baker, Polis and Harry Kemmerle accounting for the P. and R.'s other three runs. Leibert, the Penn State hurler, along with Baker, the initial sacker, featured Joe Stack was the only local player whose errors were noticeable, in fact he was only one who did err, but we all have our off days, so we are looking for Joseph to play his old brand of ball on Saturday against the Camden Black Sox.

"Rust" Gibbon, who was in center field on Saturday, handled the hot corner position with honors. In fact it was the best performance "Gibby" has given the fans for some few seasons. Another valuable addition to the team was Larry Polis. The big boy handled the hot ones at short with ease. He was among the select ones who found Shore, the Pros' twirler, for two bits. The others were Baker and Herb Kemmerle. Stack, Gibbon, Herb Kemmerle, Bennett, Leibert and Sammy Rodgers each had one hit. "Sammy" batted 1.000, only being up once. "Ed" Bennett chased flys in center for Eddie, and looked good.

Leibert held the boys from the City of Brotherly Love for three bingles, nice little pitcher, eh what?

Cinnaminson Township

Cinnaminson

Albert Willie, of Cinnaminson, is very ill at his home with malaria fever.

Charles Evans has purchased a new Dodge touring car.

On Sunday morning Herman Denner, Frank Jessup, Edward Jessup and Raymond Coles, all of Westfield, and a party comprising fifteen members set out on an excursion through the deer woods of New Jersey. They also went across the great plains of Jersey where nothing was visible except sky and bushes which grew only three or four feet high. There was only one set of tracks so that they had to follow in single file, and the dust was so great that they had to follow at a distance which would allow the dust caused by the car ahead to settle before the following car could proceed. While passing through these plains, four deer were sighted, all of which were does.

Last Saturday afternoon Eugene Griffith had a narrow escape when the driving shaft on his Ford coupe broke, throwing the car into convulsions, but Griffith quickly righted it and brought it to a stop before any damage had been done. Wilbur Bohs, of Westfield, towed him into his garage, where they went to work on it and by Monday night had it in running condition again.

Arthur Siebke, a product of the Westfield public school, now of Palmyra high school of the class of 1923, is valedictorian of his class, having received the highest average for his four years of high school work in his class and will be one of the main figures in the commencement exercises to be held Thursday evening, June 14, 1923. The salutatorian is Ellwood Perkins, of Bridgeboro, having received for four years the next highest average in his class.

On May 24, 25 and 26 they went with their class on their annual trip to Washington, staying while there at the Lafayette Hotel. With added conveniences Westfield hopes to turn out more valedictorians.

On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dancer, of Mount Holly, motored through Pennsylvania with her family and friends.

The children of the third, fourth and fifth grades of the Westfield public school are taking part in a play to be given on commencement day, known as "The Wedding of the Daisy and the Buttercup." There are about 30 or 35 pupils taking part and it will have its little jokes along with it.

The new public school at Westfield is nearing completion and it is fully expected to have the auditorium finished in time for the commencement exercises in the middle of June. The electrical fixtures have been ordered and will be placed in position immediately upon arrival. Arrangements have been made to secure the use of an acre of ground joining the school for a playground.

Parry

Prof. Atwood P. Eastbach and one of his advanced pupils, of Moorestown, will render a number of violin solos at the Moravian Church this Sunday evening. A gospel sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. C. Nelson Sperling, and special music by the choir and orchestra will be the other attractions.

The patriotic community meeting held last Sunday evening was attended by the members of the Parry Fire Company and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A chorus comprised of forty men's voices sang the National hymn as a part of service. The Messrs. Stow and McGowan creditably rendered saxophone duets. The splendid choir selections and radio added much to the interest of the occasion.

Asbury

Miss Louisa Southwick, of Asbury, came home on Thursday evening after spending two weeks visiting her brother, Rev. George Southwick, at Lakehurst, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Tansley and Mrs. Thomas Hunter motored to New Lisbon on Monday to visit Mrs. Joseph Bradley.

Miss Elizabeth Dole, of Camden, was a visitor in the Sunshine class of the Asbury Sunday School on Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Stewart Jewen, of Beverly, also her mother, Mrs. William Stewart, and Lester Stewart and Mrs. Samuel Stewart and son, of Asbury, were visitors at Southwick's Monday evening.

A strawberry festival will be held this Saturday evening on the Asbury Club grounds. Prayer meeting Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Edward Anderson, Randolph avenue, East Riverton.

Card of Thanks

Louisa Southwick desires to express her appreciation and thanks to her relatives, neighbors and many friends for their visits, cheering messages and beautiful flowers, which she received during her severe illness in September and October of 1922.

posed litigation against the state board for the reason that after Mrs. Irving took her place the board would be a de facto body and as such their acts would be legal. It was pointed out that the only way in which their acts could be challenged would be in quo warranto proceedings to determine Mrs. Irving's position, and in that event all of the members would be called as witnesses for the purpose of divulging their politics.

Although no one would stand sponsor for the statement, it is understood that prior to the appointment of Mrs. Irving there had been a conference in the Governor's office, at which was discussed more particularly the politics of the various members of the state board. It has been rumored that the question of John P. Murray's position was the main topic for discussion. Some of those present, it is said, insisted that Mr. Murray could no longer be classed as a Democrat because of his open espousal of the cause of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen in his contest for re-election as United States Senator.

Mr. Murray, who resides in Jersey City, has served a number of terms on the state board and on each occasion was appointed as a Democrat. It is known, however, that by reason of his intimate association with Mr. Frelinghuysen, particularly during the investigation of school affairs, he has been an ardent advocate of the former United States Senator and has made no attempt to conceal that fact.

No Amendment to By-Laws
Efforts failed to amend the by-laws of the State Federation of District Boards of Education to give more flexibility to the organization by having individual members of the executive committee chosen by Board of Education of the several counties, instead of appointed by the president, and also to have a majority, instead of two-thirds of the delegates competent to amend the by-laws.

In the show-down this was a rebuff to the progressive element in the federation, of which Mrs. Seymour L. Crowell, member of the State Board of Education, is a leader, which has been trying to break the alleged "close corporation" control of the federation by President Zimmerman and his associates.

Mrs. Robert S. Huse, of Elizabeth, led the fight to amend a report presented with a 6 to 1 vote by a committee named by the president of the federation to consider changes in the by-laws. Mrs. Huse was the dissenting member of the committee.

Battle on Taxes
Material for a message to the next Legislature is being gathered direct by Governor Silzer upon the operation and management of the penal, charitable and correctional institutions of the state. By personal and unannounced visits the Governor has been able to obtain facts he would in no other manner be able to collect and he is said to have been amazed and deeply moved by some of the things he has discovered. The uproar in the state prison here, due in large measure to overpopulation and no little conflict of power, not to mention probable jealousy, has led to a general conclusion that some serious house cleaning is necessary.

It will be possible for the Governor, therefore, to treat the subject with intelligence and offer remedial suggestions for removing the causes of the constantly recurring scandals.

The state prison has a board of managers, citizens serving without compensation and under executive appointment, to whose responsibility the affairs of the institution are committed. The head keeper is under the direct charge of that board, although he, too, is appointed by the Governor. The State Board of Control of Institutions and Agencies, which is supposed to have direct administration of all the institutions, is also composed of citizens named by the Governor and likewise serving without compensation. The State Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies, another executive appointee, functions as head of the latter body and in this complexity there has been constant friction with such widespread dissatisfaction that some of the officials have been drawn into personal encounters, with ugly charges flying about.

That some method of dealing with this unhappy and confusing situation should be devised at any early day has been the demand of many members of the Legislature for years, but the ins and outs of politics have usually operated to prevent definite action. Governor Silzer holds a well developed hope that the next Legislature may be a little more responsive to his suggestions than was the last session, to which he directed so many proposals for measures intended to establish needed reforms and economies. He won a final victory in the long and bitter controversy over the Highway Commission to be sure, but it came only after certain Republicans of both houses yielded to the pressure brought to bear upon them when the party organization appeared to have been arrayed against him.

Conditions at State Prison
In the investigation of affairs at the state prison, continued by the joint committee of the State Board of Control and the prison managers, two notorious criminals in the institution and a dozen officers or employees of the institution were heard. The testimony as to the treatment of prisoners was conflicting and irreconcilable.

Beginning with the criticisms of the methods of the investigators made at the opening session by William A. Barklow, acting president of the prison managers, continuing with the reading of the letter by Principal Keeper Joseph S. Hoff, reflecting upon the motives of Commissioner Burdette A. Lewis in attaching the prison managers, and concluding with frequent tilts between members of the respective boards, the whole situation was laid bare as it has not been before.

Present conditions in the state prison are substantially improved over those of 1917, according to a special report submitted by the Board of Prison Managers to Governor Silzer. The report was prepared in compliance with a request of Governor Silzer to make known to him just what basis exists for the complaints concerning the administration of the institution. The managers insist that it is one of the best-conducted prisons in the United States.

"Any one who visited the prison in the old days," the report states, "and again within a year must feel a different and a much better atmosphere. A visit to other prisons is well worth while in this connection. We have no scandals, like Florida or Pennsylvania. The disturbance over peaches last summer was nothing like the riots reported elsewhere. No sensible person will deny that there is much that does and will go wrong in the prison buildings like ours with a population of 1,300 convicted men, many of them forced to be idle."

Co-operation between agencies dealing with the prisons is emphasized as tending to bring about harmonious relations.

Chief Justice Doubts Authority
Chief Justice Gummere, of the Supreme Court, pending his determination of his own authority to set, took under advisement an application to determine the validity of the Mathis State Highway Route law. The application was handed to the Chief Justice by Attorney General McCran's office at the direction, some weeks ago, of Governor Silzer.

"The question," said the Chief Justice, "is whether the application should be made to a judge or to the entire court." He then said it would be found his office without authority he would hand the application to the Supreme Court in June.

MEXICO'S POTENTIAL WEALTH

Country's Resources, Known to Be Great, Are to Be Subject of Thorough Investigation.

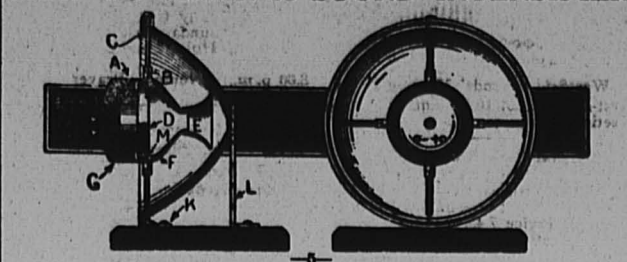

In the state of Coahuila, Mexico, a wild plant is found growing the leaves of which have long been used in boilers of engines to prevent the foaming of the water. Some years ago the manufacture of a kind of compound of these leaves was carried out successfully, but the turbulent times of the industry to be abandoned. It has been proposed that Mexico, instead of shipping its hides to the United States to be tanned and manufactured into leather, shall utilize the hides of its cattle and other animals at home. At present the leather industry is mostly carried on by crude processes of tanning and manufacturing, notwithstanding the fact that there exists in the country an inexhaustible supply of wild vegetation from which tannic acid for the manufacture of leather may be obtained at low cost.

It is to obtain some definite idea of the resources of Mexico in the matter of wild plants and shrubs and the products of forest trees, that the government now has under consideration plans for a careful and thorough survey of these native products of the soil. In connection with this investigation a laboratory will be established where chemical analysis of specimens of plant life may be made with the view of discovering whether or not they may be made of commercial value.

When Bachelors Were Taxed.

At more or less regular intervals the suggestion of a tax bachelors is put forward. The idea is never received with acclimation, but way back in the reign of William III of England the unfortunate bachelors were required to pay one shilling a year until he married.

HOW TO MAKE A SOUND INTENSIFIER

The Assembled Intensifier, Showing Parts; Can Be Made From Discarded Reflector of Automobile Light.

The pork packer is said to make use of every part of a hog except the squeal and the curl in his tail. Some of the radio experimenters make use of the squeal.

The following describes a useful piece of apparatus for the radio amateur, constructed at a low cost. All the material can be readily procured for practically nothing at some motor garage.

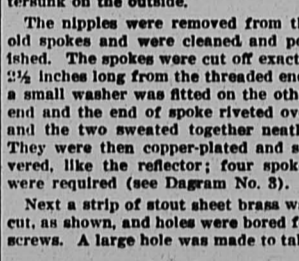

At a friend's garage and in the junk box was discovered a discarded front light reflector from an automobile, an old aluminum commutator from it, a broken rubber bulb from a motor horn and some motorcycle spokes with nipples attached. These were obtained free of cost and brought home.

The first procedure was to clean off all grease from the reflector. The fat flange at the broad end of the reflector was next cut off and the surface made smooth. This left the two beads on the edge as the finish. The hole in the center of the reflector, through which the socket of the lamp passed, had a small flat disk of copper soldered in. The reflector was next polished inside and silver plated, and the outside was enamelled black. Four holes were drilled equidistant through the reflector edge, into which holes the spokes fitted. This finished the reflector (see Diagram No. 1). The commutator was taken apart and the aluminum shell cleaned, and then the lug was cut off. The outer was next removed and the hole from which it was taken was countersunk inside and outside, and in this hole a plug of soft aluminum was fitted and riveted over so as to fill up the hole. All roughness, both outside and inside, was removed with a file and scraper. A block of wood was then turned on the lathe to fit into the broad end of commutator casing. The outside of the commutator was turned smooth and a hole bored in the end of the cone; this was turned out, leaving a thin tube projecting. Four equidistant holes were bored near the broad end of the cone on the flat surface of the commutator, into which the spoke nipples fitted and were countersunk on the inside to suit the heads of the spoke nipples and these were filed flat so that when in place the surface inside the commutator shell would be smooth. Four equidistant holes were bored one-quarter of an inch from the flat edge of the shell (to take four small screws) and countersunk on the outside.

Transforming the Reflector.

The nipples were removed from the old spokes and were cleaned and polished. The spokes were cut off exactly 2 1/2 inches long from the threaded end; a small washer was fitted on the other end and the end of spoke riveted over and the two sweated together neatly. They were then copper-plated and silvered, like the reflector; four spokes were required (see Diagram No. 3). Next a strip of stout sheet brass was cut, as shown, and holes were bored for screws. A large hole was made to take the projection of the reflector, to which it was soldered when assembled (see Diagram No. 4). The old horn bulb was cleaned well with gasoline and was left ready to cut to the proper length when the complete apparatus was ready to assemble. See Diagram No. 5 for sketch of apparatus when assembled; the letters indicate the various parts.

A—Screws holding wooden block and commutator shell together.
B—Nipples of spokes holding commutator shell central with reflector.
C—Spokes passing through reflector and commutator shell.
D—Earpiece of telephone receiver.
E—Piece of rubber bulb as sound deflector conveyor to reflector.
F—Commutator shell.
G—Wooden block fitted into commutator shell, in which telephone is attached.
H—Adjusting screw to press receiver against rubber washer M.
J—Holes for waves from telephone receiver.
K—Holding down clip for front of reflector.
L—Brass standard screwed to base and soldered to reflector.
M—Rubber ring made from inner tube of motor tire.

The arrangement for using the old aluminum commutator shell for holding the telephone receiver can also be applied in a different manner. If the wooden block is turned flat it could be screwed to the top of the radio cabinet and a large horn fitted on the small end of the commutator shell as amplifier. If a number of holes were drilled in the side of the cone and the holes tapped to take 1/4-inch brass pipe, it could then be fitted with rubber tubes, which could be fitted with earpieces of glass tubing and used by a number of persons.

Part of the brass knob taken from a bed or a door could be used instead of rubber.

Procure a telephone receiver, the diameter of the cover of which is less than that of the inside of a commutator shell which is two and thirteen-sixteenths inches. The depth from the face of the earpiece to the back of the telephone does not matter much, as a wooden case must now be made to fit inside of the commutator shell; in this wooden case, part is turned out to hold the rest of the receiver. A rubber ring is put inside the commutator shell and the earpiece rests against it. The wooden case is then put in place and with the commutator shell it is held firmly by four screws. An adjusting screw at the end of the wooden case presses the earpiece tightly against the rubber ring and makes an airtight joint. The connections can be brought out through the wooden case of flexible cable, or otherwise, to suit the maker. Diagrams of each part are shown, as well as of the assembled instrument. When all parts are ready, proceed to assemble as follows: Take commutator shell reflector and four spokes; pass a spoke from the outside of the reflector into a hole in the commutator shell and screw on the nipple; do the same with the other spokes. The shell is then held in the center of the reflector with the narrow end pointing towards the polished face of the reflector. Tighten up the nipples evenly until the shell is rigid, with no wobble or shake. The piece of rubber horn bulb is cut so that there is a space between it and the face of the reflector when slipped over the end of the commutator shell opening. The brass strip is slipped on the outside and fastened to a neat wooden base. The edge of the reflector rests on the wooden base and is held down tight by a screw and clip. When the reflector is fixed on the base, the brass strip can be soldered to the back of the reflector. When the telephones are inserted, the block placed in position, screwed tight and the back adjusting screw tightened up, all is then complete to connect up to the set.
