PORCH CLUB FLOWER SHOW

Exhibits Unusually Fine and Many Prizes Awarded

There was a very creditable showing of flowers held at the Porch Club on Tuesday, June 5. There were twenty exhibitors and those winning prizes were as follows:

For red roses—first prize, Mrs. F. M. Turnbull; second prize, Mrs. F. George Mealey; third prize, Mrs. F. M. Turnbull.

Those taking prizes in white roses were: first, Mrs. Margaret Reese; second, Mrs. Howard Parry; third, Mrs. A. F. Deacon. In yellow roses first prize was awarded to Mrs. George Mealey; second, Mrs. Margaret Reese; and third, Mr. A. F. Deacon.

Pink roses prize winners were: first, Mrs. H. McL. Biddle; second, Mrs. J. Robert English; third, Mrs. Howard Parry.

There were gorgeous potted plants displayed, and those winning prizes were: first, white potted plants, Mrs. F. S. Groves, Jr.; second, Mrs. Robert Biddle; third, Mrs. F. S. Groves, Jr.

First prize for red was awarded to Mrs. Howard Parry, and second in that class to Mrs. F. S. Groves, Jr. There was a most attractive table filled with bowls, baskets and vases for arrangement. First prize in the arrangement bowls was awarded to Mrs. J. D. Clark, second to Mrs. Robert Biddle, and third to Mrs. John Parry.

Baskets for arrangement were very artistic, Mrs. H. McL. Biddle winning first and Mrs. Killam E. Bennett second.

Vases for arrangement: first prize was won by Mrs. Margaret Reese; second prize, Mrs. Wm. Welsh; and third prize Miss Jean Klencklin.

Mrs. Howard Parry won first prize for iris.

The children brought flowers and first prize was won by Frank Elliott, second and third prize by Eleanor Corry.

It is hoped that everyone will be interested to see exhibits next June.

Mrs. Howard Parry won first prize in the sweepstakes with 9 points, Mrs. Margaret Reese and Mrs. F. S. Groves, Jr. won second and third prizes with 8 points each.

Three prizes were awarded by James C. Clark, the Deer Company and the Porch Club for having the greatest number of points.

The holding first prizes in ribbons received 3 points, the holders of second prize ribbons received 2 points, and third prize ribbon 1 point.

In judging for arrangement, simplicity and the ability for displaying with artistic taste were taken into consideration. The proper kind of vase, basket or bowl for the flowers had much to do with making the award.

The Deer Company sent a very beautiful display of potted plants and cantaberry bells, which added greatly to the exhibit.

Now is the time to plant dahlias for the fall show, which is coming some time in October. Everybody think about it so that there will be many more exhibitors.

Jermom-Brown

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday last, in the Central Baptist Church, Palmyra, when Miss Ada May Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Brown, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Russell Jermom, of Germantown.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of bridal satin, trimmed with silk lace, a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by Mrs. James E. Brown, as matron of honor, who wore a gown of silk lace over pale blue satin, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Layer, of Hammonton, Miss Esther M. Dean, of Palmyra, who wore frocks of blue georgette over blue silk, and carried bouquets of pink roses buds, and Mrs. Melvin Freed, of Perkasie, and Miss Adelaide Seal, of Palmyra, who wore frocks of apricot georgette over pink silk, with bouquets of pink roses buds.

The ushers were Mr. Punis Vaughan, of Germantown, Mr. Joseph G. Seal, Dr. James E. Brown, of Palmyra, and Mr. Howard Kirk, of Philadelphia.

The flower girl was little Miss Katherine VonBuckwold, of Germantown, a niece of the groom, who wore a pink crepe de chine dress, trimmed with silk lace, and carried a basket of white pinks. The ring bearer was Russell McCarty, nephew of the groom, of Palmyra, who wore a suit of white poplin and carried the ring on a pillow of white satin.

Mrs. Caroline Jermom McCarty, sister of the groom, rendered two very appropriate solos, "O Promise Me" and "Because." Mrs. Ruth Peterson Bell presided at the organ.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms and cut flowers and in the back was a trellis of wisteria, orange blossoms and roses.

The S. S. Club, of which the bride was a member, formed a part of the bridal procession: Miss Martha Nauman, of Mount Airy; Miss Nora Carpenter, Miss Helen W. Seal, Miss Muriel G. Seal and Miss Virginia Seal, of Palmyra. They wore frocks of white organdy with hats of white georgette.

A reception to their friends followed the ceremony at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Jermom are now on an extended wedding trip to New York, Boston and Kansas, Maine, and upon their return will reside on Seventh street, Riverton.

Indian Relics Wanted

The New Jersey State Museum is anxious to enlarge its collection of Indian relics and is asking public-spirited citizens who have such collections to donate them to the Museum for exhibition purposes and for use in the schools throughout the State. It is requested that any person having a collection of Indian relics which were found in this State which they would be willing to donate for such purposes, communicate with Mrs. Kathryn B. Greywax, acting curator of the New Jersey State Museum at Trenton.

PLAYGROUNDS INVITATION

Parents Urged to Attend Opening Week

A very cordial invitation is extended to the parents of Palmyra by the Palmyra Community Playgrounds Association to visit the new playground sometime during the opening week, June 18 to 25, at The Field Club athletic park.

The Association has obtained proficient instructors to take care of the work and see that the boys and girls are properly cared for.

Harry Ivory, physical instructor at the high school, will take full charge of the playground work. Mr. Ivory is a very competent instructor and he earnestly asks the support of the public in making the project a great success.

Mr. Ivory will be assisted by Mrs. Robert English, Miss Hope Kershner, Miss Dorothy Warner, Miss Frances Ruppert and Miss Elizabeth Glinther. He also will have the services of Harry Hubbs and Roy Kersey. All of these are very proficient in their line of work and the Association is certainly to be congratulated in securing their assistance.

The instructors will welcome suggestions and criticisms. The playground is for all children and it is their earnest desire to make it a place where parents will be glad to have them go.

Don't forget the date, June 18 to 25. Bring the children along.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Railroads Urge Caution at Highway Crossings

From June 1 to September 30, the CROSS CROSSINGS CAUTION campaign which was inaugurated last year by the Safety Section of the American Railway Association will be continued by all of the railroads throughout the United States in an endeavor to reduce the number of railroad-highway crossing accidents.

In accordance with the program which was adopted for 1922, a very striking poster has been prepared, to be used universally and widely distributed, showing an automobile about to be struck by a passenger train at a crossing, in order to impress upon the drivers of motor vehicles the necessity to CROSS CROSSINGS CAUTION.

As is noted on the poster, in bold red type, 9,101 persons have been killed and 24,708 persons have been injured at railroad-highway crossings within a period of five years.

P. H. S. Notes

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. Harry L. Saul, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, before the graduating class of the Palmyra high school, on Sunday morning.

Commencement exercises will be held in the high school auditorium Thursday evening, June 14th. Dr. Arthur Holmes, of the University of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. The Franklin Circle Club will give its annual picnic Saturday, June 9th. The eighth grade pupils will go to Wilmington by boat, accompanied by their teachers, supervising principal and Mrs. Griffith, together with several of the parents, as guests.

LESSON FOR JUNE 10

NEHEMIAH, THE BOLD BUILDER

LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 4:5-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye not afraid of them, remember the Lord.—Nehemiah 4:14.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Man Who Was Not Afraid.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Nehemiah Built the Wall.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Nehemiah Got Things Done.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Nehemiah, an Example for Men of Affairs.

Nehemiah was a cupbearer to the Persian king. While performing his duty as cupbearer, he learned of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem.

Having secured a leave of absence from the Persian court and credentials from the king, he journeyed to Jerusalem. After resting three days without disclosing his purpose to anyone, he made a survey of the walls by night. Having thus obtained first-hand information, he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem."

1. Preparation for the Building (Chap. 5).

The division of labor in this project shows Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy. Note some outstanding features of this great work:

1. Stress Laid Upon Indifference (8:10). In administrative tasks it is just that unfaithfulness should be pointed out. Such action will be a warning to some and encouragement to others, in that it shows the integrity of the director.

2. Help Rendered by Women (8:12). Perhaps Shalum had no sons to aid him. It was a fine thing for the women to help, even in building a wall, when there were no men to do it.

3. Stress Laid Upon Earnestness (8:20). If one knows that his faithfulness will be recognized, he will earnestly pursue his tasks.

4. Every One Built Over Against His Own House (8:10, 28, 32). No incentive to exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns one's own family.

5. Certain Guilds of Men Undertook Certain Work (8:8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and craft will surely work better together.

6. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-6:14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-6; cf. 2:19, 20). The opposers of God's servants usually begin by hurling at them shafts of ridicule. They called the Jews a feeble folk and asserted that the tread of a prowling fox would break down their stone wall.

2. Conspiracy for a Sudden Attack (4:7-9). When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic. When the enemy cannot succeed by scoffing they resort to intimidation.

3. Conspiracy With the Jews (4:10-23). They sought by means of the Jews from the outside to discourage their brethren by showing that the task was hopeless and that at any time they were subject to a sudden and secret attack.

4. Grief and Oppression of the Rulers (5:1-15). The Jews of that day, like the prophets of our time, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and sold their daughters into slavery. Nehemiah boldly rebuked them for their crimes and ordered a restoration to be made, exacting an oath of them that they would fulfill their promises.

5. Plot to Take Nehemiah's Life (6:1-14). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

6. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4). So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When the enemies heard that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually finished they were defeated, for they perceived that the work was of God.

We may learn from this:

1. That God's children are assailed by enemies, but in view of Romans 8:31 they should not fear.

2. That when attacked by enemies we should pray (4:9). Their faith was accompanied by wise precaution: (1) Set a watch (4:9). (2) Men were permitted to be with their families (4:13) and thus would fight better. (3) Halt worked and half watched, all armed for battle (4:16). (4) They worked with sword in one hand (4:17). (5) They slept in their clothes in readiness (4:23). Prayer and faith are not slothful or inactive.

Everything. Everything without tells the individual that he is nothing; everything within persuades him that he is everything.—X. Doudan.

Smaller Than to Think. To follow foolish precedents, and wink with both our eyes, is easier than to think.—Copper.

Tricks of the Wand. The mists of knowledge are often laid bare by the hazel wand of chance.—Zupper.

"BOB" WINS OPENER

Ex-Commodore Bower's Yacht "Bob" Wins Season's First Race Postponed From Memorial Day.

The opening race of the season was sailed Saturday over course No. 3, start and finish at Riverton pier to black spar off Red Dragon and black spar on Hen and Chickens rocks.

The boats crossed the line together with Mattis slightly to windward. On the run to the first mark, Robertson had the misfortune to get the wash from a ferry boat, which delayed him, although not changing the position of the boats. Mattis rounded the lower mark first, closely followed by Robertson and Showell. On the run down the wind to Hen and Chickens, Robertson passed Mattis and held the lead until Mattis repassed him in a luffing match on the reach to Riverton pier. Robertson was again unfortunate as he struck rocks on the Pennsylvania shore, which cost him his lead. Mattis was never headed after this, although Showell, taking advantage of the scrap, ran down the Jersey shore and almost won the race. The order of finish was: Mattis, first; Showell, second; and Robertson, third.

The finish was extremely close, there being only twenty-five seconds between the finishing time of the first boat and the last boat.

The Summer School by the Sea
Over 3500 letters have been sent to Sunday School superintendents, county and district officers and to former students with enclosures announcing the thirtieth session of the New Jersey School of Methods at Asbury Park, July 6th to 13th. This is the oldest school of its kind in the country. It was established by Dr. E. Morris Ferguson for nearly 18 years the efficient general secretary of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, and is conducted by a Board of Directors under the general auspices of that Association.

Interested persons may secure additional information by writing to the State office, 835 Broad street, Newark, N. J.

Horace G. Stonaker
The death of Horace G. Stonaker occurred at his late residence, 513 Cinnaminson street, about 12 o'clock Wednesday night, due to a sudden heart attack.

Mr. Stonaker has been a resident of Riverton for thirty years. He was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for twenty-six years, being agent at Riverton for eleven years, and in the employ of Henry A. Dreer for sixteen years, until April 23, 1917, when he was appointed postmaster here. His term expired on March 7, 1922, and since that time he was again employed by the Dreer Corporation. Mr. Stonaker has not been well for sometime, but his death came as a great shock to his family. He celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday on Decoration Day.

Besides his wife, the deceased is survived by three children, Mrs. William Edinger, of Riverton, Mrs. Harry Kates and Charles Stonaker, of Camden. There is also a sister, Mrs. Albert Tice, and a brother, Harvey C. Stonaker, both of Jamesburg, N. J.

He was a member of the Foresters of America, Court Riverton No. 98, and of the P. O. S. of A.

PROTECTING MILK

Establishes Rigid Government Test Against Tubercular Cattle

Government researchers having shown that a large percentage of human tuberculosis can be traced to milk from diseased cattle, a number of dairymen are having their herds carefully tested and examined by State and Federal experts.

The government realizes the necessity of protecting young children from such infection, as the health of future generations depends upon it. S. Laslosky, of the Milledale Farms, in Riverside, who has a large number of Palmyra and Riverton customers, has established a rigid system of government tests for all his cows, and only those passing every point in the examination are allowed to remain in the herd of milkers.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Madeline Rech desires to express her sincere appreciation for the sympathy and assistance in her recent bereavement, the death of her husband, Joseph Rech, and to those who sent flowers and cars to the funeral.

Notice

To whom it may concern:
It has been reported to the Water Company that the hose has been turned on all night in Druggist Stillman's garden. This is an absolute falsehood.

(Signed) MRS. JANNET STILES

WEEKLY NEWS BUDGET

For Riverton and Vicinity

Buy It at Home!

Freeholder Charles R. Stout was in Riverton on Monday.

A flagman has been stationed at the Thomas avenue railroad crossing.

A. R. Gausler and family will go to Bayhead for the summer on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stockwell moved to Lincoln avenue, Palmyra, this week.

Mrs. Harry H. Lester and children, Levis and Tuesday, spent last weekend in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Bastian, of Crescent Court, Plainfield, spent the weekend in Riverton.

J. Lloyd Wright, director of the Board of Freeholders, was a visitor in Riverton on Saturday.

Steele's bus, which cooperates with the Tacony-Palmyra ferry, extended its service to Riverton on Tuesday.

Beginning this week the stores in Riverton and Palmyra will close on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August.

The new siren for the fire company arrived on Tuesday of last week and was placed in position Wednesday night of this week.

Herbert Dinges, David Cole and Harry Shea have been awarded contracts to run the Cinnaminson school stables next year.

Sheriff Edward H. Flagg, Jr., and Col. Edward Stone were looking over the political situation in Moorestown and Riverton on Monday.

The outlet to the Main street sewer is broken near the end of the wharf, rendering the river water unfit for bathing until repairs can be made.

Miss Marjorie Marcy and Mrs. Hannah Rogers, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Marcy, Jr., left on Monday to spend the summer in Cape May.

Our neighboring towns will soon be featured in the movies. Arrangements have been made to film the manufacturing interests in Riverside and Mount Holly.

The Board of Managers of the Cinnaminson Home wish to thank each and every individual who helped in any way to make the annual lawn fête, held on the Home lawn last Saturday a success.

Children's Day exercises will be held in the Calvary Presbyterian Church at the 10:45 o'clock service on Sunday. In the evening at 7:30 there will be a song service, in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Sunday School of Christ Church, Riverton, will close for the summer on June 17th. The annual picnic of the Sunday School will be held at Burlington Island Park, on Wednesday, June 20th.

The Riverton Yacht Club will give a house-warming dance in their new club house, 503 Bank avenue, Riverton, on Wednesday evening, June 13. Tickets may be obtained from George B. Shaner, Charles B. Durborow and George W. Smith, Jr.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Society and Sunday School teachers of Calvary Presbyterian Church tendered Miss Rachel Reed a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Paul Good, Linden avenue, Saturday evening. Miss Reed received many very lovely gifts. About thirty guests from Riverton and Palmyra were present.

George Chant, of Beverly, while driving toward Riverton Saturday night, collided with a wagon which was carrying no rear light. Passing motorists notified Officer Miller, who instructed Chant to appear before Recorder Trotter on Monday for a hearing. The Recorder imposed a fine and costs, amounting to $17.55 for reckless driving.

The annual May procession was held in the Church of the Sacred Heart, on Thursday of last week. Miss Katherine Haelele crowned, and some beautiful recitations appropriate to the occasion were delivered. Several new members were also received into the Sodality. Rev. Surpelle, a Redemptorist father, of Philadelphia, delivered the sermon.

Burlington county again gets a raw deal this year in the distribution of State school moneys, because the allotment is based on tax valuation instead of the number of children being educated. While this county gets for 1923 only $198,433, an average of $11.11 per pupil, Atlantic county gets $207,174, an average of $30.11 per pupil. Cape May gets $25.73 per pupil, Hudson $28.16 and Mercer $23.08.

The regular June meeting of the Riverton Board of Education was not held Monday night, owing to there not being a quorum of members present. An attempt was made to round up some of the absent members thru the transient officer, but without success. It was suggested by some of the members present that it be understood that in the future the transient officer be employed to go after their colleagues who did not show up.

At a meeting of the Board of Freeholders, last Friday, Charles R. Stout, Director of Roads, offered a resolution, which was passed, that Burlington county signify its readiness to put Broad street, Palmyra, from the railroad station to the Camden county line, in good shape as soon as Camden county is ready to go ahead with its improvements of what is known as the River road, which it is understood, our neighboring county intends to convert into a boulevard in anticipation of the traffic which the new bridge will bring. Just what course the new road will take has not been determined, but there is a rumor that it may follow the river from Camden to Delair, which would make a fine riverside drive.

Coddington-Reed
A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daisie Rech, 716 Main street, Wednesday, at 12:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Rachel Mervia Reed, became the bride of Frank P. Coddington, also of Riverton.

The bride, who wore a gown of white crepe-de-chine, tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas, was attended by her sister, Mrs. F. S. Cummings, of Lambertville, as matron of honor. She wore a dress of green crepe-de-chine and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Jesse M. Coddington, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, which was performed by Frank Labaree, of Burlington, there was a reception to about thirty guests. Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Coddington will reside on Howard street, Riverton.

Not Wholly Unsettled
She—Does the fact that I have money make any difference to you, dear?

He—Of course it does, my own. It is such a comfort to know that if I should die you would be provided for.

She—But suppose I should die first?

He—Then I would be provided for.

—Boston Transcript.

Apples Long Preserved
While engaged in repair work in a cold storage plant at Zelak, Wash., workmen uncovered three boxes of apples that, upon investigation, were found to have been in storage upward of five years. The fruit was in excellent condition.

Hold the Blue Ribbon of Atlantic
The Mauritanian is still the greatest of all Atlantic flyers, and she still holds the blue ribbon. She has made the North Atlantic crossing (west-bound) in four days, ten hours, 41 minutes, at an average speed of 29.08 knots per hour. During the war she averaged 27.04 knots, and has also, for part of a voyage, averaged the high speed of 27.47 knots. A few days ago the Onard liner Aquitania made the passage in five days, 18 hours and 37 minutes, which is the best time made by any trans-Atlantic steamer since the war, while the White Star steamer Olympic made the trip in five days, 18 hours and 18 minutes.

Wine Caused by the Sun
When any part of the earth becomes heated by the sun's rays the air becomes thinner and rises. As it goes up a current of cooler air takes its place, thus causing the disturbance called wind. Likewise, damp air, which is lighter than dry air of the same degree of heat—will also rise and cause a disturbance above and below. It is for this reason that there is usually a breeze from the sea by day and from the land by night, the land being heated faster than the water and the fresh air from the sea coming in to take its place. At night the process is reversed. The land cools faster than the water and the wind goes out to sea.

Ears in Their Feet

Mrs. J. R. Naisby

Mrs. J. Russell Naisby passed away at her home on Tuesday morning after an illness of about a year. The funeral services will take place at her late residence, 204 Howard street, Riverton, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. A. S. Lewis officiating. Interment will be made in Arlington cemetery. The deceased, who was in her thirty-eighth year, is survived by her husband and two sons, Jack and Henry.

Joseph Rech

After a lingering illness, Joseph Rech, husband of Magdalena Rech (nee Michels), passed away at his home, 508 Broad street, Riverton, on Sunday morning, in his thirty-third year. The funeral took place on Wednesday morning at 9:30 a. m. at the Sacred Heart, Rev. Joseph A. Rigney, officiating. Interment was made in St. Peter's cemetery, Riverside. Besides his widow, the deceased is survived by one daughter, Helen.

Annie W. Miller

Annie W., wife of Warren R. Miller, died at her late residence on Garfield avenue Saturday evening at the age of 69.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. C. W. Williams officiating. Interment was made at Morgan cemetery. Funeral director Frank A. Snover was in charge.

Mrs. Miller had long been a resident of Palmyra and her loss will be felt by many friends. She is survived by her husband and two daughters.

Aloysius V. Casey

Aloysius V. Casey died on Monday at Cooper hospital, Camden, as a result of a recent fall.

Funeral services were held Thursday at 9 o'clock with High Requiem Mass at Sacred Heart Church, Riverton. Interment was made at Calvary cemetery, Camden, with Funeral Director Frank A. Snover in charge.

Mr. Casey was 44 years old. He was single and lived with his brother, Joseph Casey, at 12 Roland street.

Harrison L. Verts

Harrison L. Verts, of Riverton, a former superintendent of the Scottish Rite Temple, Philadelphia, was killed on Sunday when he was struck in front of a motor truck near the Brae Burn Sanatorium, Clifton Heights, Pa. Verts, who was sixty years of age, had been under treatment at the sanatorium for a month for nervous disorder and was on the eve of his discharge as being restored to health.

The driver of another truck passing at the time Verts met his death, notified members of a family residing across the street from the sanatorium at Baltimore Pike and Wilton avenue.

The deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. A. William Schramm, of Linden avenue, with whom he made his home, a niece, Miss Helen E. Verts, also of Riverton, and a brother, Sydenham C. Verts, of Beach Haven.

Verts was prominent in Masonic circles. He was a member of Washington Lodge No. 29, F. & A. M., Philadelphia. Consistory, thirty-third degree, Mason, a member of Penn Township Lodge No. 319, I. O. O. F. and Menoken Tribe No. 381, I. O. R. M.

Frank Bowen Killed in Accident
Frank Bowen, aged 35 years, of 605 Thomas avenue, was killed at the Pennsylvania Railroad yards, 49th and 50th streets, Philadelphia, Monday evening, when a cylinder head exploded, which he was repairing, fracturing his skull.

Funeral services will be held from the Oliver H. Bair funeral parlors, 1829 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, today.

The deceased is survived by his widow and one son.

The purpose of peace is to destroy antagonisms by finding a point of agreement. We cannot induce men to lay down their arms by fighting with them.—Abdu'l-Baha.

Fear Extinction of Chamela
Extinction of Chamela in the mountains of Savoy in Italy and Switzerland, is threatened, just as the buffalo disappeared from the western American prairies, and animal lovers there are preparing to petition their governments, demanding the protection of the Chamela.

An investigation of the Chamela district showed that the war was responsible for the new devastation of the Chamela. Before the war only a few mountaineers took out hunting licenses. In fact, comparatively few of them could bear the expense of buying a good rifle. After the armistice, however, thousands of veterans returning to the Savoy mountains took with them rifles and good supplies of ammunition, which proved useful in combating the increasing cost of living. So general has hunting now become in the mountains that departmental officials say that unless these mobile animals are protected for at least two years they will become extinct inside of 20 years.

The Mauritanian is still the greatest of all Atlantic flyers, and she still holds the blue ribbon. She has made the North Atlantic crossing (west-bound) in four days, ten hours, 41 minutes, at an average speed of 29.08 knots per hour. During the war she averaged 27.04 knots, and has also, for part of a voyage, averaged the high speed of 27.47 knots. A few days ago the Onard liner Aquitania made the passage in five days, 18 hours and 37 minutes, which is the best time made by any trans-Atlantic steamer since the war, while the White Star steamer Olympic made the trip in five days, 18 hours and 18 minutes.

When any part of the earth becomes heated by the sun's rays the air becomes thinner and rises. As it goes up a current of cooler air takes its place, thus causing the disturbance called wind. Likewise, damp air, which is lighter than dry air of the same degree of heat—will also rise and cause a disturbance above and below. It is for this reason that there is usually a breeze from the sea by day and from the land by night, the land being heated faster than the water and the fresh air from the sea coming in to take its place. At night the process is reversed. The land cools faster than the water and the wind goes out to sea.

REGARD GOLD AS WORTHLESS
Fiji Natives Evidently Lost on Precious Metal as Something Worth Only What It Weighs.

Ordinary money is entirely unknown amongst the inhabitants of some of the more remote Fiji islands in the South Pacific ocean, its place being taken by plug tobacco—so many sticks being worth one pig or one wife, as the case may be, writes Col. T. R. St. Johnston, formerly district commissioner for Fiji.

One day a trading schooner put in at Apemama island having on board a goat, a beast never before seen by the astonished eyes of the natives.

To please the "whims" of the place the trader made him a present of the animal, which, as is the playful habit of goats, had been accustomed to chew up anything offered to it, even tobacco.

"What do you feed it on?" ask the king.

"Tobacco," replied the schooner's captain, in mischievous mood, and thereupon handed it a stick, which it promptly ate up.

"Take it away!" cried the horrified king; "I shall be ruined in a week!"

Somewhere in Fiji there exist rich gold deposits, but no one knows their whereabouts, for the natives are extraordinarily reticent regarding this one subject. Colonel St. Johnston tells of the following remarkable incident:

One day a trader brought him two specimens of quartz richly veined with gold. They had been hidden in one of a number of bags of copra (dried coconut) brought in by some natives; the object being, not to smuggle the gold, but to add to the weight of the bag, and so defraud the purchaser.

The colonel himself tested the specimens, which proved to be very rich indeed in the precious metal. The trader, at once began to make inquiries as to who had put "stones" in their sack of copra, but the natives imagined a trap, and not one would own up, despite his offer of "no awkward questions and a rich reward." And to this day the mystery has never been solved.

FORD NEWS STORY

Moving steadily up to a 6,700-car-a-day production, the Ford Motor Company on Monday, May 21, set a new daily record when 6,658 Cars and Trucks were completely assembled for domestic use, it is announced by The Ford News.

This new production mark exceeds by 43 the best previous day which was May 9 with its record of 6,615. Since the first of the year all the vast resources of the Ford Motor Company have been utilized to keep production on a continually increasing schedule, but orders all along have been far in excess of the output and continue to be, even under the present record-breaking output.

Ford production for the week ending Tuesday, May 22, went to a new high record with a total of 39,417 Cars and Trucks completed for domestic use it is announced by The Ford News. This is 114 more than the record-breaking production of the week before.

Monday, May 21, was the biggest day of the last week with a production of 6,658 Cars and Trucks, beating the daily record of 6,615 set up on May 9th.

Fordson Tractor output for the week was 2,996.

AN INTIMATE PORTRAIT OF EDITH BARNARD DELANO

It is difficult to know quite where to begin in writing of Edith Barnard Delano. She has done and is so many things. She began writing when she was little more than a girl, and sold immediately her first ten stories. She adds, "and then the good old grind. Meanest job there is—writing—but I would not take any other."

More stories sold, a great many more, to all the leading magazines, and then she wrote for the screen. But Mrs. Delano is an artist, and the call to return to the "legitimate" writing of fiction was too great. She abandoned the motion-picture field, except vicariously, for her place as a novelist.

She was the first author to whom I talked of the Star Author Series of Matrimonial Adventures. Her grasp of the idea was instantaneous. Though one of the biggest magazines in the country is monopolizing her work, she agreed to join "For Value Received" in short length, but large in scope. One to whom it was read in manuscript remarked, "Every wife should run away just once."

MARY STEWART CUTTING, JR.

On the way back from the post office Anita Prescott stopped at the turn of the road, where the old apple tree was shedding its rosy petals, and looked down at Miriam's house. Just so had she first seen it on that day four years before, when she and Michael were on their honeymoon wandering; yet it was not that moment of companioned ecstasy that had brought her back, but the remembered peace of it. Hence—that was what she had wanted; when she determined to escape from all that was not peace, all that was disillusion, a sudden vision had come to her of the little white house under the elm, the red roof and the smoke wavering up from its chimney, and the strong, smiling woman who had given them milk to drink. Peace—a refuge during the long year that she must wait for freedom; peace that she must have, and that, she told herself, she should find here. Determination, vision, flight; then a visit to a lawyer who "took" cases like hers—as if there could be any other like hers!—and, finally, speech with Miriam at the door of the white house.

"You don't want to board here," Miriam had told her. "I have a room, yes. And I just love to have you. But this isn't the place for you. You don't know anything about me."

"As much as you know about me," the other shook her head. "I guess it's different," said she. "Folks around here don't have anything to do with me. You'd be lonely."

"I want a place where I can be alone."

The woman gave her a steady look; then she said, calmly, as though offering an explanation that did not touch herself at all, "My name's Miriam. Around here they seem to think it ought to be Hagar."

Anita flushed a little under the baldness of it; but she said, "Well—there's a wilderness for most of us. I am—in flight, too."

"Come in," Miriam had said; and so far that remained the fullness of explanation between them. Anita was thinking of it today, because of the letter she had brought from the village, the letter postmarked Cleveland and forwarded by the man who took cases like hers. "You will remember that you were warned," her mother had written. "Your hiding yourself away now is nothing more than a pose. It doesn't help things. You can get a divorce here as wherever you are, and you will come home at once, where you belong. The sooner it is all over, and we can forget the unfortunate affair—"

Anita's lips twisted in a bitter little smile; her eyes hardened. She crossed the road to the grassy bank under the apple tree, and leaned her elbows on the fence, looking off across the mellowing fields. Beyond, a tremulous breath of green came from the river; early plowed furrows gleaming where the setting sun touched them; purple shadows under the hill, appleblossom in her hair, blueets and violets under her feet, a world pulsing to new life—this quietude, this peace, peace but for her thoughts—her being here a pose! Oh, yes, they had warned her! Heavens, how they had warned! She had been won by the glamour of a uniform; they didn't know anything about his people; he wasn't their "sort." He was poor; worse, he was visionary, with those talked-of inventions of his; did she suppose she could be happy as a poor man's wife, even though she did have a wee bit of money of her own! And look at the day his lips set, and that hard look that came into his eyes when he faced their perfectly natural opposition to the marriage! She had always been headstrong, always wanted her own way; did she think she could get on with a man like that? Oh, it was unthinkable; so the family had warned her. And their warnings had but added to her feeling of release, her joyous sense of conquest, when she had gone to her man.

Four years ago—and now it was all over! Her mother had no better word for it than to call it an unfortunate affair, that marriage and the divorce she was waiting for. No better word for those four brimming years of life. Only that, for the first glad confidence of having found her mate; for the happy making of the little home; for her pride in her Michael. That, for the daily growing loneliness, the feeling of being cut off from her own world; for the slowly creeping reserves between them that had been swept away, at lessening intervals, by the re-blossoming of their love; that—for quarrels and kisses, for bitter words and repentant cheek to cheek, for the hours that he was away from her and his increasing absorption in his work and her unreasonable jealousy of it; for the crowning moments of their re-pledged love—oh, for all of it, everything; Not great things; not even great things, but little things that totaled so disastrously high; and, at last, for her conviction that their marriage had been a mistake, that they were not meant for each other, that the only thing to do was to end it, to end it. Then, her flight; her communicating with him through the man who took cases like hers; and, at last, Miriam's.

Now for a month she had been here, where she had thought peace must dwell; been here watching spring come, watching Miriam, thinking, sap rising, birds on the wing; Miriam, working; Anita—thinking, Miriam plowing, Miriam at work in the garden, sowing early peas, digging ramps and taking a share to the house next door and leaving them on the doorstep; Anita—watching, thinking. Miriam and her father, that old man who gave her no pleasant word, nor helped in her tasks; the old man with a snarl, a bitter name for her sometimes; the old man sitting in the sun, or in the win-

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair
With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean
Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean. A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Twenty Years of Public Service

Transportation—Gas—Electricity

TWENTY YEARS AGO this month Public Service Corporation of New Jersey was organized and started business.

On this happy occasion, this birthday anniversary, marking the completion of two decades of service, the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies desire to express their sincere appreciation of the patronage and support, the co-operation and good will so generously extended by the people whom they have been privileged to serve.

During the last twenty years the development of the three great essential utilities, TRANSPORTATION, GAS, ELECTRICITY has contributed immeasurably to the upbuilding and prosperity of New Jersey and to the comfort and convenience of her people.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and its subsidiary operating companies feel justified, at this time, in referring with pardonable pride to the part they have played in providing these necessary services, thereby aiding in the growth of the State, promoting its industrial and commercial activities and making it a more desirable place in which to live and do business.

When Public Service Corporation of New Jersey was formed in June, Nineteen-three, there were taken by purchase or lease a number of utility companies which were supplying street railway, gas and electric services in some one hundred municipalities having a total population of approximately one million. These properties were reorganized and strengthened, other properties were acquired and subsidiary operating companies were formed to carry on and develop the railway, the gas and the electric business, respectively, as separate entities.

For twenty years the work of development and extension and betterment has continued with unabated zeal, the respective company managements ever striving to increase the quantity, improve the quality and elevate the standard of service to the people.

And results have been achieved; results beneficial to the people of the State and gratifying to the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies.

Twenty years ago there were only 16,000 electric meters in use in the territory then served by Public Service. Today Public Service Electric Company is supplying electric service through some 370,000 meters.

Twenty years ago there were only 187,384 gas meters in use in the territory then served by Public Service. Today Public Service Gas Company is supplying gas service through some 590,000 meters.

Twenty years ago there were carried on the street cars operated in the territory then served by Public Service an average of 563,000 passengers a day. Today Public Service Railway Company carries a daily average of 1,120,000 passengers.

These figures tell only part of the story. The kilowatt hours of electric energy produced yearly have been multiplied eight-fold, the quantity of gas more than three-fold, and the miles and hours of transportation service have been tremendously augmented. The total number of municipalities served has mounted to two hundred and twenty-eight with a population more than doubling that served twenty years ago, and the annual gross revenue of the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies has grown from less than $10,000,000 in Nineteen-three to more than $81,000,000 last year.

That it is not all "income," however, and that the "outgo" of the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies, aside from the services they render, has played a material part in upbuilding the communities they serve, is evidenced by the fact that during the last twenty years these companies have paid in taxes, have returned to the people in cash, have reduced the municipal levies on other individual taxpayers, in the aggregate, by the staggering sum of $56,048,374.22.

For the full year of 1904 the total taxes were $836,928.80. Last year the tax bills amounted to $8,280,226.28. Nearly ten-fold increase.

Recently there was added another branch of service to the Public Service group in the formation of Public Service Production Company, an organization admirably equipped for engineering and construction work of all kinds and of whatever magnitude. Still at the outset of its career, it has already notable accomplishments to its credit and is ready to do its part in rendering service to the people.

To bring about these great developments has required courage, foresight, much hard work and the expenditure of vast sums of money. During the two decades Public Service Corporation of New Jersey has encouraged the investment of some $150,000,000 of new money in the Transportation, Gas and Electric utilities of New Jersey, every dollar of which has benefited the State and its people. This investment represents the savings of the thrifty and the prudent who have faith in New Jersey and in Public Service and their number has been increasing year by year, until now there are more than SEVENTY THOUSAND owners of the Corporation and its subsidiary companies, a very large percentage of which owners are New Jersey men and women.

Besides the hundreds of thousands of customers and the tens of thousands of security holders, there are also vitally interested in the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies a veritable army of SIXTEEN THOUSAND employees, whose co-operative efforts have helped make possible the uninterrupted march of progress during the last two decades.

Profiting by the experience of the years that have passed and fully cognizant of the obligations and the opportunities to serve, the Corporation and its subsidiary operating companies emphasize their sense of appreciation of the support and good-will shown them and pledge their continued efforts to provide safe, adequate and convenient service in Transportation, Gas and Electricity during the years to come.

THOMAS N. McCARTER

President.

Your Self Interest Should Command Your Support of the Railroads

The Hall Mark of Service

The Pennsylvania Railroad has contributed largely to the development and prosperity of the State of New Jersey.

Thousands of dollars have been expended to advertise and develop the seashore resorts lining the Jersey Coast and pleasure seekers by countless thousands are annually brought into the State, leaving behind vast sums of money to enhance the welfare and prosperity of the citizens of this great Commonwealth.

In a recent address upon "Railroad Problems" E. T. Whiter, Vice-President, N. W. Region, Pennsylvania Railroad, stated that:

"The common sense, if not the enlightened self interest of the people themselves, should support the railroads and defend them against irresponsible attacks and the quick remedies proposed by individuals whose only claim to railroad knowledge and experience is a few campaign speeches and a ballot box diploma.

At this very time, when you are hearing all sorts of unfounded statements, loose thinking and dangerous proposals on the part of railroad demagogues in and out of politics, the railroads are making a record of which everyone should be proud.

If the votes of the people who elect our Government representatives are made to count for a square deal for the railroads, you can be certain that is what the railroads will get and the railroad problem will be much nearer a solution."

CONSULT YOUR PERSONAL INTERESTS
Your intelligent thought will surely bring you to the conclusion that your cordial, sympathetic support of the railroads and legislation favoring their progressive expansion and development are needful to your individual prosperity and the commercial advancement of your community.

dow with a Bible on his knees; Miriam serene in the kitchen, humming, tramping from stove to table; Anita—life, thinking. The cow lowing for her calf; Miriam carrying a brimming pail of milk across the grass to the house next door, the girl there who went in when she saw her coming with the gift; Anita—remembering Michael, his obliviousness, thinking, thinking. Blue birds nesting; Miriam running to a child who has stumbled on the road, wiping the tears from his face; Anita—thinking, of the children Michael had wanted, and she had not. The clod of a youth next door, and the stone he threw at Miriam, and the way she smiled when she put hot water on the cut; Anita—thinking, thinking of the wounds of the spirit that she had kept to herself and resented, thinking, thinking.

"You aren't much like other women," Miriam said to her one day, when she had come back from leaving another thankless gift at the house next door. "You never ask any questions."

"Well—you aren't much like other women, yourself," Anita said, looking at a stray lock of hair and said, "Oh, yes I am! That's just exactly what I am!"

The old man muttered an ugly name; Anita watched Miriam, watched the swelling apple buds, thought. Thoughts that were bruises, memories that flamed and seared; questionings that would not be answered; no bread of understanding, no peace of comfort. So had the weeks passed.

The day the letter came she went out after supper and sat on the doorstep. A young moon had left the night to the radiance of gleaming stars; the tender sweetness of the air was pierced by the song of the little frogs caroling their return to life, and the sadness of past summers, and the joy of the summer to come; the fragrance of the drying fields was like an incense. A world drowsing, yet stirring to resurrection . . . Michael . . . at work, of course . . . later, the opening of a door and the night's air coming in; his step on the stairs and the way—the way—Oh! No—no!

Miriam's skirt was brushing Anita's shoulder. "What a night!" she said. There was a basket in her hand. "Don't you want to walk down the road? I have an errand. A man who does work for me sometimes is in trouble."

They went side by side through the song and the incense and the starlight, Miriam intent upon her errand, Anita—remembering, thinking. They went through the village, and those they met passed them by as though they were shadows; they came to a house on a hillside beyond a low, poor house, where a lamp shone from within. A man came to the door; his eyes in his unshaven face looked as though some fire of pain had burned in them and died, leaving them scorched. He looked at Miriam.

"I can't come to work in the morning," he said.

"I know," she told him, "I'll be there with you, tomorrow. Here's something I've brought for her to eat. You must take some, too. You'll need your strength."

"She ain't eat anything yet," the man said. "She's awful sick—grievin'." Before they had gone far on their homeward way the man overtook them. "I wanted to ask you—would it be showing respect if I did it for them myself? The sexton charges five dollars, and—but I wouldn't want to do anything that didn't show respect."

Miriam touched his arm. "It would be the most beautiful thing you could do," she said. "You'd always have it to remember—that you had done something for them."

As they neared Miriam's house, she said, softly, "It is such a very beautiful world."

"Beautiful!" All of Anita's bitterness, all the dregs of her accumulated thinking, lay in the word.

"Yes, it is. Struggle is not beautiful, nor shirking; but just living is."

"There was death back there, wasn't there. Pain first, and then death and sorrow. Is that beautiful? And your days—the way you have to work, the way people—that stone . . . How can you call it beautiful?"

"I know," said Miriam. "I used to feel that way, too. I hadn't weighed things. I used to think more about what I had to pay than about what I had. Of course you have to pay for whatever you have. Everybody has to pay, one way or another. But that's only fair. Life's worth it."

"Never! Nothing could be worth—that you have to pay sometimes."

"Ah—," The word was a murmur of protest; then Miriam said, "Look up at that sky! It was a night like this that I went away, with—him. Oh, I knew what I was doing. I knew what they'd think of me. Rightly, too, I knew I'd have to pay, but I'd made up my mind that what I would have would be worth it. It's the greatest thing there is; I guess everybody pays for it one way or another. We had always loved each other; I threw him over; and after mother died, and I came back here to teach the school and look after father, he was married to someone else. They lived next door. Yes, those are his children. He always worked hard, but he never got on. His wife—she wasn't easy to live with; at last they had to take her to the asylum—hopeless. Her mother came to look after the children. Then—"

—he got tuberculosis. There on the porch, night and day, not a chance for him here, but the West—so we went. He lived eight years. And I lived them. Now—I'm paying, that's all. It was worth it."

Oh, those thoughts that sobbed and sang, those thoughts that stung and throbbed and flamed! "Worth it! Then what you had was different, somehow greater—"

"It was just what other women have. Good and bad. The better and the worse. Marriage is like that. Neither of us was an angel. You don't live with any man eight years on honey. His wife died soon, and we were married before the law; but sometimes I remembered what I'd done, and something in me shrank away from myself; sometimes he was lonely, fretful, impatient. We said things; we wanted things. But we had each other. We belonged. Yes, it was worth it."

"You aren't much like other women," Miriam said to her one day, when she had come back from leaving another thankless gift at the house next door. "You never ask any questions."

"Well—you aren't much like other women, yourself," Anita said, looking at a stray lock of hair and said, "Oh, yes I am! That's just exactly what I am!"

The old man muttered an ugly name; Anita watched Miriam, watched the swelling apple buds, thought. Thoughts that were bruises, memories that flamed and seared; questionings that would not be answered; no bread of understanding, no peace of comfort. So had the weeks passed.

The day the letter came she went out after supper and sat on the doorstep. A young moon had left the night to the radiance of gleaming stars; the tender sweetness of the air was pierced by the song of the little frogs caroling their return to life, and the sadness of past summers, and the joy of the summer to come; the fragrance of the drying fields was like an incense. A world drowsing, yet stirring to resurrection . . . Michael . . . at work, of course . . . later, the opening of a door and the night's air coming in; his step on the stairs and the way—the way—Oh! No—no!

They walked on through a shadowy place, came out into the starlight again. "You are so strong," whispered Anita.

"Because I came back here to look after them all? I'd have had to pay, anyway. It's life that's strong. You don't get away from life. Life makes you pay, even when you think you're dodging payment. Honest—life is. It gives—but it makes you pay for value received. One way or another."

They were passing the house next door, where the surly girl and the cruel lad lived. "One thing you escaped," Anita said. "You must be thankful that you had no children."

Miriam stood still, looked at her. "I would give all the rest of my life," she said, "if I might have put a child of mine into the arms of the man I loved. I would go into any bondage if I might only serve a living child of my own, and it would be freedom, blessed freedom."

Anita shuddered. "Ah—you're not like any other woman! No one else would say that, honestly! Children are care and anxiety and mostly sorrow—do you think anybody deliberately chooses that, today?"

"I know they do! It's a small price to pay for the joy of it, child."

"Never! It's not worth it! I don't believe anyone honestly thinks it is!"

Miriam walked on. "Come with me tomorrow," she said. "I think perhaps you'll understand, then."

So, in the morning, they walked the road together again; this time Miriam had a great sheaf of blossoms in her arms. They came to a quiet place on a hill, and there they met the man of the night before. There was a small box at his feet, carefully wrapped, and in his hand a spade. He began to dig, and as the yellow earth became a mound Anita drew back, shuddering.

"One was a boy and one was a girl," the man said. "Twins. The others are all girls."

"Yes," said Miriam, softly. "Two to love. Two to remember."

"We'll do that," said the man. "Both of us will do that."

Anita's hand went to her throat. They waited until the mound was higher, until the man stood waist-deep in the earth.

"I guess it's enough," he said, looking up at Miriam. "They're so little."

She gave him the boughs of bloom. "Make them a soft bed," she told him. He took them—blossoms that would never be fruit—and lined the grave with them. Anita watched his mixed fingers touching their pink and whiteness, caressing them, laying them so that no stems protruded. Then he clambered out, and knelt beside the box on the ground.

"Would you want to see it?" he asked.

"Oh, yes!" Miriam murmured, stooping; Anita had all she could do not to draw back. But she could not take her eyes from those soil-grimed hands with their nails broken by toil, as they unfurled the paper. The hands were shaking, shaking; the man did not look up.

"It's velvet. See—white velvet."

Miriam knelt and touched the soft fabric. "Oh, lovely, lovely," she said.

"Twins," the man said, his voice husky. "They're layin' in there with their arms around each other. They look like little dolls."

"It isn't everybody has twins," Miriam said. "You've had them."

"That's what my wife said. I'm glad we had them, anyway, Ben," she said. He laid the little box down upon the soft bed of flowers.

Anita, feeling as though the wings of her spirit were beating against her heart, stumbled away into the woods. Last year's leaves underfoot; a dead thrush in the path; fern unfolding, and—the earth falling from the spade, back there . . . Life, that was life, everywhere . . . honest life, that gave and gave, and made you pay . . . Dread of understanding . . . Water of comfort . . . Michael.

She found their little house locked and unlighted; she guessed that she had not used it since her flight. She found him on the old couch in his office, an arm thrown over his eyes in the gesture of sleep that she remembered. Her picture was still on his desk; but the littered untidiness of his papers, his crumpled clothes the weary relaxation of him, all impressed her as never before with the pitiable helplessness of the male, his unconscious dependence on woman-made comfort.

"Michael—Michael—" Oh, on her knees—just to touch . . . him. . . The eyes that met hers were like that other man's who had lost and suffered, blackened from a fire that burned too hot and too long. "Nita!" he whispered. Then, sitting up, "Nita! It's—Nita."

"Not a sob-speech first, and her hands upon him. 'Michael! I've come back. I'm sorry, Michael. I didn't understand.'"

"It's you I want, Michael—and life—to be together. I'm willing to pay—"

His grasp on her arms hurt her, but the hurt made her glad. "Nita! What are you talking about! Pay?"

"Pay—yes! I've found out, Michael—I've thought, oh, thought! I was wrong—I wanted happiness, and I wasn't willing to pay for it. I thought you could have, without paying. I know better now. You have to pay for everything—life makes you do that, whether you want to or not. But it's worth it, Michael, it's worth it."

His face close to hers, his eyes smoldered with a gleam of fire in them deep. "Worth it!"

"Ah—yes! You and me, together! That's the great thing. Nothing else counts. Life—I want all of it, good days and bad; all our joy and even—sorrow. And children—I want children; and work, and—and wanting and hoping—Oh, I want you! You, Michael! I'm willing to pay whatever I must . . ."

Now it was his arms that hurt, and his heart on hers that made the singing. "Oh, my darling! Life can't be long enough to pay for all that! I need you so . . ."

"Oh, spring and blossoming summer, and the fall of leaves. Oh, life and its song and its battles! Oh, the dear weight of his head on her breast, her hand on his heart! Oh, promise—fulfillment!"

"Yes, dear—yes! I'm here with you."

FIRE CO. IN SPEEDY DRILL

Has Stream Going in Eighty Seconds After Reaching Plug

The members of the Palmyra Fire Company are to be congratulated on the remarkable showing they made at the drill held on Monday evening.

They made the best of their opportunity by showing just how quickly they can lay a line of hose in case of an emergency.

The fire, which in this case, was an imaginary one, was at the house which is nearing completion at the corner of Legion avenue and Broad street, Palmyra Annex, and the nearest fire plug was one square above, at Broad and Market, directly opposite Quinn's store.

The hose was connected at this plug, run down to the house, in the front door, upstairs and out at a rear second-story window and had a stream on in one minute and twenty seconds. Mayor James T. Weast was the official timekeeper.

Eleven lengths, which is 550 feet, was required for use in this remarkable speed test.

The run to the scene was made in excellent time with Joe Stack at the wheel. This should be sufficient guarantee for our fire-fearing citizens that local firemen will not be burned to the ground before the local company at least has a stream on the fire.

A drill will be held next Monday evening also.

PALMYRA AND RIVERTON WIN
Before a Large Crowd Williams' Team Defeats Camden Black Sox 7-6

One of the largest crowds seen for some time at The Field Club park witnessed the game between the Palmyra and Riverton teams, under the able leadership of Eddie Williams, and the strong Camden Black Sox last Saturday afternoon. If the players on the local team were not so well known to the fans, one would have thought that Eddie had hired "Cy" Williams, "Babe" Ruth and some of the other famous sluggers.

In fact there were enough thrills in that contest to satisfy any fan. Our boys won to the tune of 7-6.

Mathews was back and short and played a stainless game. Gordon Andrews was on second and played his regular type of fielding game. He had one error, the only local one, but that was harmless.

Joe Stack played a wonderful game behind the bat. Baker is playing the game that he displayed when working under the colors of Trenton and some of the other big teams.

The main feature was the four home runs being made by our boys and one by the opposition. Three hits in the first enabled the boys playing under Camden's colors to score twice. Now we will have the evening of the children's day.

Palmyra's side was first up, walked "Buddy" Mathews was up next, but rather unfortunately fanned; next up was Baker who connected with one for a single and "Gibby" took him for a third; next came the hero, although the fact was unknown at the time he walked to the plate. It was none other than Andrews, to whom Jenkins, the Sox pitcher, gave a hot one and "Andy" hit it so it bounced near the left garden fence and went over. Thus Messrs. Gibbon, Baker and Andrews scored amid much applause from the grandstand and bleachers.

Next to the Sox left-fielder for an out, Polis appeared next and determined not to be out-done by "Andy" put a pretty one over left field fence for the second homer. "Herby" Kemmerle and the memorable inning by getting out on an infield hit.

Joe Stack crossed the plate for one run in the second. Len Baker, first up in the third frame, showed the fact that he too could hit homers by placing a neat one over the right-field fence. Palmyra scored its seventh and final run in the fourth when Hubbs, who was running for Leibert, who had been hit by a pitched ball, was caught and recorded in the second inning.

The pictures were recently taken in all parts of the world. On 69 beautifully colored slides an intimate glimpse of the characteristics of the different varieties of the world's children is given.

A series of pictures such as these, with the striking description accompanying them, gives a surer insight into world conditions than could be gained from looking at buildings for one hundred years.

This is one of the latest lectures released by the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

LYCURGUS DID NOT "BE LONG"

Old Gentleman Wrong in Classing Him as One of Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece, whose names and sayings have come down to us from antiquity, have been distinctly secondary in renown recently to the several score wise men of the nations gathered here in the conference on the limitation of armaments.

But the ancient wise men are not forgotten. Here and there are men who treasure the sayings which those worthies handed down to us. They are keen on the proper pronunciation of their names, and know to a degree in which Grecian states they lived.

One of these scholars came in last week to settle a dispute, says the Washington Star. Several of his friends, in whom the fine flower of learning had not withered, were more than glad to add him to the group.

"They could only think of six," declared the gentleman, nodding his white head. "I said the seventh was Lycurgus. Am I right?"

TO SEE ARMY SERVICE

Coleman and Jenkins Accepted for Citizens' Military Training Course this August

Jack Coleman and Harry Jenkins have received official notice from headquarters Second Corps Area, Governor's Island, N. Y., that their applications for the Citizens' Military Training Course for this year have been accepted. This will be Coleman's third year. He will act as a commissioned officer while at Camp Dix, where he is to be stationed. Jenkins will go for the first time. Camps will be located at Plattsburg Barracks, New York, Madison Barracks, New York, and Camps Alfred and Hancock, of New Jersey.

All camps open on August 1 and close on the 30th of the same month.

In order to be eligible for service in one of these camps one must possess the average general intelligence, be able to read and write English, and be of good moral character. No previous military experience is necessary.

There are still vacancies existing in all of these camps and young men between the ages of 17 and 24 are urged to avail themselves of the wonderful opportunity the government offers them to spend a pleasant month under ideal conditions, without expense to themselves.

Application blanks may be procured by writing to the Citizens' Military Training Camps office, Governor's Island, New York.

69 VARIETIES

Interesting Lecture at Epworth M. E. Church Sunday evening

"There are smiles that make us happy, there are smiles that make us sad, there are smiles that steal away the tear drops" and there are fifty-seven varieties of smiles the world over. But nearly all of them are caught and recorded in the stereoscopic lecture on the world's childhood entitled, "Of Such Is the Kingdom," which will be given at the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday evening, June 10, at 7:30 o'clock.

The pictures were recently taken in all parts of the world. On 69 beautifully colored slides an intimate glimpse of the characteristics of the different varieties of the world's children is given.

A series of pictures such as these, with the striking description accompanying them, gives a surer insight into world conditions than could be gained from looking at buildings for one hundred years.

The seven wise men of Greece, whose names and sayings have come down to us from antiquity, have been distinctly secondary in renown recently to the several score wise men of the nations gathered here in the conference on the limitation of armaments.

But the ancient wise men are not forgotten. Here and there are men who treasure the sayings which those worthies handed down to us. They are keen on the proper pronunciation of their names, and know to a degree in which Grecian states they lived.

A Touch of Realism

"Anything to oblige," said Bill Jasper, the foreman. "It that darned little snook, Mr. Oddington, wants to see rent movie life in Shewanee Camp, I guess we can furnish it."

"That's what the boss was sayin' yesterday," said Hans Luke, the Sawyer.

"Sure, an' that's what Mabel Jones was a-laughin' over," said Pete Blane, the top-loader.

The foreman frowned. Mr. Oddington, the young assistant, had come to Shewanee Camp in search of material, and had been looking for battles with wolves, desperate villains, kidnappings, and so forth, and had openly expressed the opinion that a lumber camp was about as quiet as a country town.

The foreman and Mabel Jones, the boss' daughter, had not been quite so friendly of late, and the foreman had wished that Oddington follow out of the way. Once or twice Bill Jasper had seen the pair together.

"It's up to you, Bill," said Mr. Jones. "There isn't a man I'd rather see Mabel marry than you. But you've got to settle your own account with Mr. Oddington."

It was framed up in the bunkhouse. All the men were sore on Mr. Oddington. They didn't mind the little man coming to camp to study their life; but they did resent his sleeping out under a patent tent because he was suspicious of the bunkhouse, a new structure as clean as any hotel in the country.

So the stunt was to be pulled off the following Sunday. French Charley and Bill Jasper, muffled in furs and minked, were to be the villains. They were to dash into camp, hold up the place, and kidnap Mabel Jones. The stableman, Herman, had kindly consented to the loan of two of the horses.

Of course there was to be gun-play. There were several guns and rifles in the camp, and the boss had a revolver, which he used for target practice. Two more were dug up from the bottoms of trunks.

If Mr. Oddington didn't rise to the occasion, Mabel Jones, it was anticipated, would swiftly lose whatever interest she had in him. If he did—well, there was Bill Jasper's hope of settling an old score.

Mabel, of course, was not to be told what was transpiring. She couldn't be trusted not to tell that Oddington fellow. Her father swore that he would keep the plans secret.

"I bet ya got Oddington fellah showin' de yallah streak, all right, all right," opined Hans Luke.

There was little sleep that Saturday night. Into the small hours the lumberjacks waited for the appearance of Bill Jasper and French Charley in the sleigh.

It was four o'clock in the morning when Mr. Oddington was awakened from his patent tent by howls, oaths and blood-curdling screams.

Dashing out, he perceived a sleigh drawn up in front of the boss' house. In it a ferocious furred and masked figure, with a revolver in either hand, was holding at bay a score of lumberjacks, who, with hands high above their heads, were edged against the bunkhouse wall.

"Keep 'em up!" yelled Bill Jasper. Then from the boss' house appeared Frenchy Charley, carrying the apparently unconscious form of Mabel Jones in his arms.

"I got the gal!" French Charley yelled. "Kiss her good-by, boys; I'm takin' her to God's country, where a he-man's got red blood."

Somewhat in the momentary pause that followed, all eyes were turned on Mr. Oddington.

Run? No. The little man leaped forward—and as to what happened next all the various accounts only agreed that it happened quicker than any one had expected.

Bill Jasper awakened a few minutes later with a lump the size of a pigeon's egg on his jaw. French Charley opined that one of the horses must have kicked him. But anyway, the two were on the ground, and little Mr. Oddington was in the sleigh with Mabel, driving like fury along the road, and pausing every now and then to fire a shot toward the camp.

Half an hour passed. "He's gone plumb daff with fear," opined Hans Luke. "I seen it take a man that way sometimes. Makes 'em act kinder reckless."

An hour passed. Morning came. It was middle afternoon before the sleigh came back and drew up in front of Mr. Jones' house.

"Did you get rid of the bandits?" asked Mr. Oddington.

"Why—yes, I guess they're all gone now," said the boss. "Where have you folks been all this time?"

"Why, I guess Mabel ought to have a better protector against those blood-thirsty ruffians," said Mr. Oddington, "so we got married over at Shewanee. You see, I used to be a amateur featherweight boxing champion for the state, only I've been a little out of practice. Where's the ruffians? You didn't let them get away again, did you?"

Interesting Notes from Our Busy Correspondents in East Riverton, Asbury, Westfield and Parry

Cinnaminson

On Friday, June 8th, the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades are planning to take a trip to the Pennsylvania Zoological Gardens at Fairmont Park, going by way of Steele's bus and the Franklin L.

On Decoration Day Eugene and Clarence Griffith, Wilbur Bohs, Arthur Siebke and Harry McKinney traveled to the Byberry fair grounds, which is only about eight miles from Tacony, to see the annual automobile races held there. They certainly enjoyed the races, as they all have their own cars and were anxious to see a car of their make win. When Fink, of Philadelphia, Philo drove a Pink Special, crashed into the fence, dislodging a plank from the embankment, which struck a woman in the face but which did very little damage, they were only a few feet away and had a clear view of the accident. When the races first started the track was in excellent condition, having previously been oiled, but when the large cars got on the track they cut large ruts and blew dirt to such an extent that the fellows could write their names on their coat sleeves.

Harry De Moore, formerly of Cinnaminson and now of Westville, New Jersey, visited Elwood Hercher over the weekend.

Saturday, June 2nd, the Cinnaminson Summer Home held its 30th annual supper. A large crowd attended but not so many were expected as the showers which came up about supper time were given as one cause. But at that, there were enough cars to line both sides of the road for three-eighths of a mile and also in private lanes. The traffic was so thick a State trooper was needed to direct it. The supper was in full swing when the shower came up and all perishable articles had to be rushed to cover. There were games for the old as well as the young and patrons furnished ponies to be ridden by the children.

Asbury

On May 31st, Miss L. M. Horton, of Burlington, (teacher at the Westfield grammar school, and twenty-three pupils of the eighth grade took a trip to Trenton in Harry Shea's bus. They visited the State Capitol, Hessian Barracks, Old Masonic Temple, the State's prison, Lenox Pottery and the Belle Meade Sweets factory, where each one received a sample package of candy. Two of the class girls who took the trip were Palma Bonatelli and Helen Enkati, of New Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McClaskey and children, George and Carrie, of Merchantville, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Aaron Ward on Decoration Day. Mrs. McClaskey will be remembered as Miss Anna M. Allen, of Medford, a former teacher at Westfield public school, now teaching at Merchantville.

PROBE DEAL ON BRIDGE APPROACH

Attorney General Says Former Chairman Deposited Coupons From Gannon Bonds.

LAND SALE TO BE CANCELED

Lumber Company Agrees to Surrender $250,000 Paid by State for Tract—Deal on Bridge Approach Involves Ousted Officer.

Trenton.—The announcement by counsel for the Donnell Lumber Company of its willingness to turn over to the state $250,000 received for land purchased from the company for the approach to the Perth Amboy bridge, was followed by the disclosure that George L. Burton, of South River, chairman of the old Highway Commission, cashed bond coupons immediately after the Donnell company is alleged to have delivered $250,000 in bonds to Bernard Gannon, Democratic leader in Middlesex county. The bonds were delivered to Gannon, officers of the lumber company testified at a previous hearing, for his influence in obtaining a fair price for the land.

Attorney General McCran, counsel for the Legislative Investigating Committee, probing the purchase of the land, called the attention of the committee that Burton had cashed bond coupons within two days after officers of the lumber company testified they had been delivered to Gannon. "Thomas J. Evans, vice president of the lumber company," McCran said, "had testified that he delivered the bonds to Gannon on the first or second of April, 1923. On August 4, we find a deposit of bond coupons by Burton, and again on August 11. This leaves an implication impossible of escape, that Burton deposited coupons from bonds delivered to Gannon."

The Donnell Lumber Company agreed to return to the state the $250,000 it received from the old Highway Commission from the lands. Under the agreement the lands will be restored to the company's possession and a decree will be entered in the Court of Chancery setting aside the conveyance. This agreement will terminate the suit brought by the state at the direction of Governor Silser against the company, but will not interrupt the investigation being made by the legislative committee.

Gannon was expected to appear before the investigating committee, but he reported at noon that he had been unable to serve a subpoena upon him. Four of the eight former Highway Commissioners told virtually the same story of permitting the judgment of Chairman Burton to prevail in the purchase of the bridge lands. This, the four members said, was in keeping with the board's policy whereby each commissioner was considered the best judge of conditions in the district where he resided.

Normal Crop of Peaches
Housewives may expect a normal crop of New Jersey peaches this year, according to an intensive survey of orchard conditions just completed by the Jersey Fruit Growers' Co-operative Association, which has six co-operative packing houses in the peach belt of central and southwestern New Jersey. Killing frosts that damaged fruit in southern and middle-western peach areas, as confirmed in late May by various state and federal crop reports, did not come with sufficient severity at the critical development of New Jersey peaches to injure the crop seriously, the association reports. The late spring, however, has retarded maturity of the peaches by at least one week.

Commenting upon the outlook of the New Jersey peach crop which normally comes upon northeastern markets in quantity in late July and August between the marketing period of the southern and more northern crops, James A. Klahr, manager of the association, said:

"Consumers need have no doubts about a crop of good New Jersey peaches this season. Coupled with the outlook for a crop of normal size, the cool spring, in fact, has prevented the early infestation of insect pests, and the quality of the fruit should be better than last year.

"The growers are spraying their orchards under a more effective system than formerly. The New Jersey Agricultural Extension Service has been co-operating with peach men throughout the state by giving telephone and mail advice on the proper time to fight the fruit pests and on the proper control measures to follow. The results of proper spraying are very apparent in the orchards of Burlington, Camden and Cumberland counties, where 75 per cent of New Jersey peaches are produced.

"In conjunction with the better fruit campaign being waged in this territory, growers are being urged to thin their fruit more closely. Transportation expenses, even the cost of motor truck hauls from the peach belt to northern New Jersey and metropolitan markets, will be high, and fruit of doubtful quality must not go to market and be added to consumer's costs. Modern methods of production and marketing are doing much to eliminate waste in the process of distribution."

"The Jersey Fruit Growers' Co-operative Association, with headquarters at Camden, is a federation of local co-operative associations, owned and operated by the fruit growers themselves. Organized under the co-operative law, it is a non-speculative and non-profit association. In addition to peaches, the members of the association are large producers of summer apples and cherries.

Rain Needed For Crops
Reports from various sections of North Jersey indicate that, unless rain falls soon in an appreciable quantity, crops will be seriously affected. The farm demonstrators in Morris, Warren and Sussex counties unite in the belief that, while the effects of the drought are not yet serious, a week or two more of present conditions would cause genuine damage of considerable extent.

In Morris county the lack of rain is affecting the grass and grain crops. Because of the cold spring, none of these crops reached normal development in the early stages of growth, and the weather for a month has stunted them so that, even if the drought is broken, the crops will be short.

Besides grass, this applies to oats, wheat, rye and some other grains. The sections of Morris county that have suffered the most are the high ground about Chester, Schooley's Mountain, Parker and Flanders. The grain crop, County Farm Demonstrator Herbert Saxe says, will be the shortest in several years.

Says Berries Will Be Small
Berries are not yet affected in a serious degree, according to Mr. Saxe, although they will be small. If the drought is not broken within a short time, however, the berry crop will be seriously injured. Streams are low, but, outside of the new seeding mentioned and the menace of further dry weather, there has been no distress.

Reports from Warren county indicate that there, too, the upland crops are suffering more than those in the valleys. Truck farmers fear for their strawberries and home grown crops of the berries are coming in very slowly and are not prime in condition. Other vegetables are maturing slowly. County Farm Demonstrator Howard Mason feels that crops are in fair shape considering the conditions, but holds that a good, steady rain would be highly acceptable.

Sussex county reports are somewhat more optimistic. The dry weather has not yet had any serious effect on gardens, but the belief is that a few more days without some rain would cause damage. County Farm Agent F. Leon Brown said that the showers in this section last week helped considerably. Lawns, which show the effects of dry weather as quickly as anything, look fairly well.

State Banking Report
An increase of $93,907,606.88 in deposits is a year is reported in a statement by State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Maxson, at the close of business April 3. Aggregate resources of the 199 financial institutions were $1,099,165,259.46 and deposits were $892,581,770.58.

Financial transactions of 143 trust companies, 57 savings banks and 39 state banks are included in the report. Surplus funds of these institutions amounted to $10,254,594.81, an increase of $1,254,594.81. Trust companies and state banks had undivided profits of $15,995,198.76, a decrease of $252,821.94.

Trust companies had resources of $781,904,172.19, an increase of $74,268,667.11. Deposits of trust companies amounted to $617,259,017.95, an increase of $85,063,044.41. Surplus funds totaled $33,515,259.63, an increase of $3,459,142.16. Undivided profits of $14,389,450.98 showed a decrease of $252,821.94.

Savings banks had resources of $299,042,488.89, an increase of $11,677,411.05, and the total of the surplus funds was $19,144,953.99, an increase of $1,459,510.93. Resources of state banks were $98,021,824.29, an increase of $11,505,400.21 and deposits totaled $27,650,294.91, an increase of $10,028,006.62. State banks had surplus funds of $3,234,252.07 and undivided profits of $1,335,747.76, an increase of $778,082.95 in surplus and a decrease of $119,871.53 in undivided profits.

Jersey, Too, May Repeat

The turn of events in New York has given added emphasis to the rather delicate situation in New Jersey with respect to proposals for repeal or modification of dry laws. The influence of New York sentiment always is felt in this state because of the close business and social relations between the people, but it has been evident that repeal by the New York legislature of the law passed two years ago for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the national Volstead act reflected the feeling of a very large number of New Jersey people, who felt that similar action should have been taken by their own law-makers last winter, and Governor Silser was back of a bill doing that very thing. The majority, however, never allowed the measure to get into a position of possible enactment, and now that Governor Smith has responded to demand for approval of the repeal on the other side of the Hudson it is the belief of many close observers on this side that the next legislature, by whichever party controlled, will give a little closer attention to the prevalent sentiment of the voters here.

The Republicans, who controlled both houses last winter, were able to hold sufficient votes—but by narrow margins—to maintain some semblance of the attitude they had assumed upon the liquor question. It was a close call upon several occasions, but the vote appeared to be there every time, although sufficiently weakened to show a marked change in the two years since the so-called Van Ness act went through.

Maple Sugar Long Known.

In the days of Napoleon's wars maple sugar had been made for some time in Bohemia, the government encouraging its manufacture. However, it soon died out there, for the sugar beet came into prominence. The earliest exporters in America found the Indians making sugar from the sap of the large maple trees that stood in companies and brigades in the ancient forests and nobody can tell when they began it.

R. Y. C. PLANS BIG FOURTH

Pier Will Be Thrown Open to Public This Year. Program of Water Sports As Usual. New Club House Added Attraction

The Riverton Yacht Club is now well established in its new home on the river bank. All the rooms have been taken by members and the steward is serving the best of meals to the Club members, their families and friends.

At the regular meeting, June 5, the Club voted to have the pier thrown open to the public all day the Fourth of July. A committee was appointed and the usual water sports will take place. The Club granted the Borough permission to set off its fireworks from the wharf, as in previous years.

At the meeting the subscription committee, "chaired" by C. B.
Durborow, was congratulated upon their magnificent work and spirit in over-subscribing the amount of money necessary to buy and furnish their new home. The committee appointed to furnish the Club house, chaired by F. W. Robertson, was also congratulated upon the mastery way in which the selections had been made and the wisdom shown in the purchasing.

The entertainment committee under the able leadership of George B.
Shaner, Jr., is giving a dance and have many more attractive festivities in store for the Club.

The entire Club has taken on a new lease of life and everyone is pulling and heaving for the Club.
One pleasing feature is the continuous stream of new members coming in. The active membership has been doubled in a month. The Club is already taking its position as the leading Yacht Club along the Delaware.

C. B. Durborow, the treasurer of the Club for the last seven years asked to be relieved of some of his responsibilities as he is going to Beach Haven for the summer made it hard for him to attend to all his duties.
The Club responded by appointing George W. Smith, Jr., as assistant treasurer.

Mr. Durborow Plans Big Event for Little Egg Harbor Yacht Club

C. B. Durborow has secured for the Little Egg Harbor Yacht Club of Beach Haven, of which he is chairman of the house and swimming committee, the greatest array of women's races and women start ever being together at one time.

Big canoe events will feature before the events and the Atlantic City and Ocean City Yacht Clubs will send their squadrons over to review the regatta and to carry some of the competing swimmers and canoeists.
The event will be the main summer attraction for South Jersey.

Penn Athletic Club Will Have National Swim Meet Year

The Penn Athletic Club, through Mr. Durborow, who is in charge of the swimmers of the Club, will apply for the ten-mile National hereafter, and run it in cooperation with the Riverton Yacht Club.

Funds Will Be Collected Friday Evening for Palmyra Fourth of July Celebration

The glorious Fourth is to be celebrated in Palmyra this year on the same scale as the Independence Day celebration of 1922.

A grand committee of nearly 100 members, under the chairmanship of J. Edwin Lees has been making preparations for the past several weeks and all is now ready for the collection of funds.

A canvass of the whole town will be made this Friday evening. Corps of thirty collectors has been organized and all will be ready to start work on their respective streets when the fire siren gives the signal.

Citizens are all urged to be as liberal as possible, as it requires considerable funds to provide fireworks and other essentials for a Fourth of July celebration.

The program begins with a parade in the morning. Virtually all the organizations in town will be represented, including school children, Boy and Girl Scouts, Borough Council and Mayors Fire Company, etc.

Following the parade will be an open air meeting in the grove, with music and a public speaker of note.

The afternoon is to be taken up chiefly with athletic competition for folks of all ages. The Tacony-Palmyra Ferry Company has donated several handsome cups and flags as prizes; Mayor Weart has donated a big silk flag, while many other public-spirited citizens and business men are planning to provide awards for the winners of the various contests.

A baseball game at four o'clock will wind-up the afternoon's program.

In the evening there is to be another open air meeting in the Grove, with community singing, followed by the presentation of the prizes awarded in the afternoon.

A grand display of fireworks will be the concluding feature.

CONCERT ENJOYED

Lutheran Choral Society Commanded in Appearance Here

Those who consider the human voice the most perfect musical instrument enjoyed a treat in the work of the Lutheran Choral Society last Thursday evening.

A well-arranged program of period music with brief biographical notes stimulated interest in the rendition.

In the space of a year Conductor Wendell has developed a chorus which challenges favorable comparison with veteran organizations, both in part work and ensemble effect.

Precision of attack and total balance attests the technique of the conductor and the poise of the singers. This was particularly noticeable in the selections from Bach, Beethoven and Grieg.

Director Griffenberg's orchestral numbers balanced the vocal part in admirable manner and the combination furnished an entertainment which the Mead's Class of the Lutheran Church can feel proud about.

It is to be hoped we may be favored with more of the same class in the later months of the year.

Cinderella in Flowerland at Westfield
Friends' School

In gay costumes representing flowers, butterflies and sunbeams, the children of the Westfield Friends' School danced attendance at the fairy ball of Prince Sunshine, Thursday, June 7.

It was the annual open-air play signaling the close of the school year and all of the pupils took part in "Cinderella in Flowerland," enacted under the shade trees of the spacious school lawn.

A large crowd of parents and friends of the little folks looked on.
Charlotte M. Parry, of the sixth grade, taking the part of Mother Nature, announced the festivities in a song "Fairyland." The Sunshine Prince (Robert Collings) then departed Robin Red (Philip Somerswell) with his body guard, to invite the flowers and sunbeams and Butterflies to the ball.

As they made their appearance they danced and sang for the Prince and his Court. The Common Fairy (Mayrrix Groves) lost her tiny slipper—and was chosen as Princess when it was found to fit her foot alone of all the flowers.

The other blossoms were: tiger
lily, Alice L. Parrish; hollyhock, Frances Allen; pansy, Dora B. Parry; violet, Cornelia Murray; daffodil, Ellen B. Ritchie; sweet brier, Kate Hulet; sweet pea, Alice Harwell;
lily bell, Lucy Dickson; narcissus, Brita Hendrickson; mignonette, Ruth McVaugh; buttercup, Edith Amy Bilvey; poppy, Helen Elliott.

Peggy Reas, Jane Welch, Peggy Dorrance, Emily Barclay, Rebecca Taylor, Letitia Parry, Anne McVaugh and Anne Russell took the part of sunbeams.

Eloise Boyer, Elinore Lewis and Barbara Lewis were butterflies.

Samuel Biddle, Reese Lewis, Walter Barclay, Roscius Downs, Edwin McVaugh, Thompson Coe and Thomas Collings were raindrops that scared
the blossoms away.

Richard Graff took the part of Bonnie Bee. Robert Biddle and Reeves
Borden were the prince's attendants.

Lawrence Parrish, Billy Smith, Richard Biddle and Joseph Taylor acted as Robin Red's body guard.

The play was admirably staged by the faculty of the school: Miss Naomi Bausman, principal, Miss Margaret Bradshaw, Miss Miriam Diehl, Miss
Rachel I. Judd, and Mr. Sanders P.
McComsey.

Following the play, certificates were awarded by Miss Bausman to the following members of the sixth or highest grade:

Francis Allen, Eloise Boyer, Robert Collings, Mayrrix Groves, Cornelia Murray, Alice Parrish, Charlotte Parry, Reeves Borden and Philip Somerswell.

The school will re-open September 18.

ETHER, THE PATRIOT QUEEN

ETHER, THE PATRIOT QUEEN

LESSON TEXT—Ether 4:18-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"—Ether 4:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ether, the Brave Cousin.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Ether Did for His People.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Ether's Heroism.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—A Study of Patriotism.

1. Ether Made Queen (Chapter 1, 2).

This drama took place in the Persian court, where Alexander (Xerxes) sat upon his throne, surrounded by his princes and servants. Six months of festivity were drawing to a close, arranged by the king in order to impress upon the people of his mighty empire the fact of his greatness. The last days of this feast were marked with drunken debauchery. In a drunken frenzy the king commanded Vashti to come before the people to display her beauty. Vashti showed her independence by refusing to obey. She was instantly deposed. In providing a queen to take her place, the most beautiful maidens in the empire were brought together from the king's palace to make a selection. The choice fell upon Esther, a maid of the Jewish captivity. The king did not know that she was a Jewess, but God knew, and He put her there for a purpose.

If Haman's Plot Against the Jews
(Chapter 3).

1. The Occasion of (vv. 1-8). For some reason Haman was given chief places over the princes. Though all bowed before him, Mordecai, Esther's cousin, stoutly refused to do so.

2. Its Nature (vv. 7-15). Haman desired to lay hands upon Mordecai for his insubordination, but hesitated. Instead of such drastic action he laid a plot to destroy all the Jews, and thereby take vengeance on Mordecai, who he learned was a Jew. He made the king believe that the Jews were an im-profitable people and induced him to order their annihilation, promising to bring into the royal treasury an enormous sum of money.

111. Haman's Plot Foiled (4:1-14).

1. Fasting Among the Jews (4:1-8).
When Mordecai and his people perceived all that was done they put on sackcloth and ashes and cried to God.

2. Mordecai's Charge to Esther (4:4-14). He sent to Esther a copy of the decree and charged her to go before the king and make supplication for her people. Esther pointed out the difficulties in the way. Possible death awaited her should her uninvited presence not meet the approval of the king.

3. Esther's Daring Adventure (4:16-5:2). Mordecai pointed out to her that her own life was endangered. She might meet death by venturing into the king's presence. She went surely and bravely, for she knew that her people were Haman's plot not foiled. When thus brought face to face with duty, the heroism which so frequently has characterized her race moved her to undertake the hazardous task and prayerfully carry it out.

After three days of fasting and prayer she put on her royal apparel and stood in the king's court, winning his approval.

4. Esther Pleading for Her People
(5:3-7:6). Esther knew that an easy way to the heart of the king was through his stomach, so she invited him and Haman to a banquet. She proposed a second banquet, at which she planned to make her request known. During the interval some strange things took place. A gallow was built upon which to hang Mordecai, at the heartless suggestion of Haman's wife. And the king, during a sleepless night, was moved to search the court records, where he found that Mordecai had not been rewarded for saving his life. So, in order to express his appreciation for this act of heroism on the part of Mordecai, he gave orders obliging Haman to do his best to the one he was preparing to hang. At the second banquet Esther pointed out Haman's wicked plot to kill the Jews and asked of the king that her people be saved. In his wrath the king ordered Haman hanged on the gallows which had been prepared for Mordecai.

5. The Counter Decree Issued (8:5-14). The original decree could not be reversed, so a counter decree was issued which enabled the Jews to defend themselves. This was dispatched to the furthest parts of the kingdom.
At the appointed time there was great slaughter and the Jews were saved.
God granted relief and the Feast of Purim was instituted as a memorial of their deliverance.

6. Esther's Pleading for Her People
(8:15-17:6). Esther knew that an easy way to the heart of the king was
through his stomach, so she invited
him and Haman to a banquet. She proposed a second banquet, at which
she planned to make her request

War Department Rules for Displaying of Flag

Among rules in War Department circular are:
"When a number of flags are grouped together and displayed from staffs the American flag should be in the center or at the highest point of the group."
"When a number of flags are horizontally or vertically against a wall the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, i. e., to the observer's left."
"When displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or from a window sill or the front of a building the same rules should be observed and the union should go clear to the truck, as the peak of the staff is called the truck."
"When not flown from a staff the flag should always be hung flat, whether indoors or not. It should not be fastened over doorways or arches, nor tied in a bow knot or fashioned into a rosette."
"For decoration in general, bunting of the national colors instead of the flag itself should be used. Since the blue union of the flag always goes to the honor point, the colors should be arranged with the blue above the white in the middle and the red below."
"Under no circumstances should the flag be draped over chairs or benches, nor should any object or emblem of any kind be placed above or upon it, nor should it be hung where it can be easily contaminated or soiled."

CLINIC FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Orthopedic Specialists Will Conduct Free Examination of Children Physically Defective

A clinic for the examination of crippled children of Burlington County by orthopedic specialists will be held under the direction of Mount Holly Lodge of Elks the latter part of this month or early in July. This philanthropic action is in line with a State-wide movement that is being carried out by Elks lodges for curing or improving the condition of children physically defective, in all cases where such results are possible.

The clinic will be held in the Elks' Home, Mount Holly, which will be fitted that day with appliances for the thorough examination of patients, and after the diagnoses have been completed recommendations will be made by the specialists as to treatment or operations that will follow for curable or improvement cases.
It is expected that Dr. Joseph Lorenz, the famous Austrian bloodless surgeon, will visit Mount Holly some time this summer after his return from a trip to Europe, to give attention to cases that are his specialty.
The clinic will be open to all crippled children in the county and will be conducted without any expense to the patients. Efforts have been made to obtain the names of all such children and thus far the list includes 31. Those will be brought to the home on the day that will be announced later and returned to their residences when the examinations are completed. Any others who are welcomed. Send names to Robert Peacock, chairman of the committee in charge, and conveyances will be supplied, or bring them to the home without notice. The entire affair is absolutely free as to examination or future treatment.
Lunch will be supplied to all children and the parents or other attendants who may accompany them.

Don't forget the West Jersey tournament at Riverton Country Club Saturday, June 23rd. Everyone in Riverton should come out and see the matches as they will be well worth seeing. Come out and show the other clubs that we are backing our team.

Sheriff Greets President
Our genial sheriff and former mayor of Riverton, E. H. Flagg, Jr., had the privilege, last Saturday, of presenting a bouquet of flowers to President Harding at Milford, Del., where the chief executive was made a Tall Cedar. Mr. Flagg presented the flowers on behalf of Evergreen Forest, No. 49, the lodge which now has the President of the United States for a member. In the bouquet were forty-nine beautiful roses.

The honor fell to Sheriff Flagg by reason of the fact that he is one of the Supreme Tall Cedars. He was the head of the National organization in 1914. All of the Supreme Tall Cedars were present except two.

Jersey's Part in Sequel
Governor Silzer has appointed J. Fred Margerum of Trenton, as New Jersey commissioner to the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial. The State House Commission will visit Philadelphia this week for the purpose of selecting a site for the buildings to be erected by this State. An appropriation of $25,000 was authorized by the last Legislature to finance the State's participation in the celebration.

OUR STATE A HUSTLER

A Record of Industrial Progress over the State Indicates to Investor, Homebuilder and Workman That Sound Conditions Prevail and That Every Community Is a Good Place in Which to Locate.

Burlington—Contract let for building of 16 new homes.
Camden—Eight-story record producing plant being built for Victor Company.

Penns Grove—Industrial plants sending out agents to get skilled mechanics and experienced workmen; farm laborers also in great demand; conditions without precedent since height of war boom.

Newark—$100,945 set aside for paying Chancellor's award.

Burlington—Contract let for soldiers memorial hall, to cost $16,438.

Millville—Railroad spur being laid to site of proposed glass factory.

Gloster—City—151 war-built houses at Brooklawn sold for $1,700,000, bringing from $2500 to $6000 each.

Hopewell—New hard surface streets to be laid.

East Millville—Building very active here.

North Hudson—Business men act to unite 7 towns under authorization by legislature.

Vineland—Has hopes of getting large shoe factory.

Montgomery—New bridge to be built here.

Burlington—Contract let for new highway between Crosswicks and Bordentown.

Fairview—Many street improvements being made.

Edgewater—Route No. 10 from Edgewater to Paterson will be completed soon.

Camden—Public Service Railway Company asks permission to operate motor bus line.

Bayonne—Pacific Coast Borax Co. gives 10% wage increase to 300 men and 30 women employees, effective immediately.

Newark—Two new modern garages under construction.

Hackettstown—New hard surface road to run between this place and Port Colden.

Trenton—Baltimore Railroad operating at a loss, to be scrapped.

Hammononton—Emergency telephone boxes being installed along White Horse Pike.

West Millville—New sewer system being installed.

Camden—State highway commission appropriates $4,621,935 for construction of 84 miles new roads and $2,762,000 for building new bridges.

Burlington—Improvements to be made on Y. M. C. A. building.

New Club House Opened With Dance
The house-warming dance Wednesday night at the Riverton Yacht Club was a colorful affair and, altogether, was a great success. Over seventy couples were present. The combination of a fine floor and Irwin Casper's Orchestra irresistible, while many others found the cool veranda overlooking the river and its twinkling lights equally attractive.

Punch, ice cream and cake helped to make the intermission an event of the evening. Immediately following the intermission the Commodore and Mrs. Biddle headed the grand march at the threshold and as each couple entered the house they were handed novelty hats, balloons, whistles with which to add their share to the gayety.

At the conclusion, George Shaner and his committee were congratulated on the results of their efforts and were dared to do it again.

Senator and Freeholder to Address Women
Emmor Roberts, of Moorestown, State senator from Burlington county, and J. Lloyd Wright, of Medford, director of the Burlington County Board of Freeholders of will speak at a meeting that will be given in the Community House, Bordentown, Friday, June 22, under the auspices of the Bordentown League of Women Voters and the civic department of the Progress Club.

Senator Roberts will speak of the recent session of the New Jersey Legislature, and Mr. Wright will speak of the duties and work of the Board of Freeholders.

Trolley Fight Cost People a Million
In fighting the attempts of the Public Service Railway Company to permanently establish an eight-cent fare on its lines, the public will be required to bear expenses amounting to more than $1,000,000. The recent report of former Judge Thomas G. Haught, of Jersey City, sitting as a special master in which the eight-cent fare is sustained, will precipitate a new legal fight, which will carry the issue into the highest Federal courts.

The fare litigation had its inception five years ago with the attempt of the corporation to establish the zone system for the collection of fares. In the zone case alone the various municipalities spent at least $1,000,000, of which the largest proportion was borne by Jersey City, whose expenses amounted to $600,000.

Schwartz-O'Donnell
A pretty wedding was solemnized in Sacred Heart Church, Riverton, this morning at nine o'clock, when Miss Kathryn T. O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. O'Donnell, of Riverside, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles R. Schwartz, of Riverside. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph A. Rigney.

The bride, who wore a gown of white crepe with a tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms, carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary C. O'Donnell, who wore a dress of gray crepe, with gray hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds.

The best man was Mr. Charles C. R. Schwartz, brother of the groom, of Riverside.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, 512 Cinnaminson street, relatives and friends being present.

Upon their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz will reside with the bride's parents.

Durant Meets His Master

By MORRIS SCHULTZ
(© 1912, Western Newspaper Union.)

John Durant sat at his desk alone. Within call of his push buttons he had his secretary, his confidential secretary, his manager, his stenographer.

The desk was absolutely clean, which generally signifies that its possessor has too much responsibility for a litter of papers. John Durant's mind, however, was a litter of perplexities.

For twelve years no one had seriously challenged Durant in his special branch of the financial field. As an expert on copper propositions he was unrivaled. Now, overnight, some one had arisen who was bending him at his own game.

He was underminding and outbidding him, he had his finger on the erratic pulse of the copper market, in short, Durant had met his master. What had seemed a presumptuous challenge three months before had become an ominous, threatening tragedy. Durant saw bankruptcy ahead of him.

Who was the fellow? All his most skilled investigators were at fault. Somewhere a man was sitting in an office, playing him move for move, checking, pursuing him. Checkmate was near.

And he thought bitterly: "If Phil had stuck to me! Phil had the sort of head I need now that I'm growing old."

Phil was his son. He had shown signs of genius. The father had been so proud of him. But the boy had been erratic. He had been mixed up in scrapes. John Durant had sent him to his copper properties. The boy had wasted his time. He had ended by marrying the daughter of one of his submanagers. John Durant had cut him out of his life, closed his heart against him.

The bitterness lay in the fact that Phil had genius. None knew that so well as the father. If only Phil had stuck to him! Good Lord, the boy had thrown away opportunities that any man might have envied.

The stenographer entered bearing a card. John Durant glanced at it. It was his son's.

"Tell him I can't see him!" he answered determinedly.

"Mr. Durant, he insists on seeing you," said the girl. "He says he won't leave unless you give him an interview."

John Durant's face hardened. "Show him in!" he commanded.

He tried to appear impassive, but his heart was thumping as the figure entered the room. Phil, whom he had not seen for years! Furtively he scrutinized him. The boy had not changed at all. He was still the irresponsible boy he had always been. Good-God, if he could have used that head of his! John's heart grew bitter.

"I told you four years ago that I had finished with you," he cried, pounding the desk with his fist. "I have given you every opportunity of making good. You chose to idle away your time. You married a common woman!"

"Enough of that!" The ringing tones of Phil's voice surprised old John.

"Well, well, I shouldn't have said that," he admitted.

"As good a woman as my mother. You have never seen her?"

"What do you want? I have no money for you. You will have to make your own showing in the world. I have given you—"

"I want no charity. I want to tell you that you have yourself to thank for your present situation. When I was in Poonah I was not so idle as you supposed. I took it upon myself to learn the tracings of the ores. I know a good deal more than you give me credit for. Then you sent me to the Great Altar. Same thing there—"

A great light came to John Durant. "You—you mean to tell me that my own son is a traitor?" he demanded.

"That you—you have sold me, furnished information to that man—that man!"

"Every secret of yours that he possesses came from me," responded Phil coldly. "It only remains for me to furnish him with the secret estimate of reserve ores compiled by—"

"Backstabber for short. Name your price." "Three hundred thousand."

Durant smiled and got up. He laid his hand upon the other's shoulder with a grip that made him wince.

"Son," he said, "the man who can blackmail old John Durant hasn't been born. Run back; tell him I don't do that kind of business."

"Father!"

"Something in the tone made old John look at him keenly.

"This man—whom you don't know—do you want his name? It is myself! All that I have done was to convince you that I was worthy of your confidence. All my opposition was to make you trust and believe in me again. Father, will you take me into the firm now, and—into your life—"

"—and my life?"

For a few moments eyes met eyes unflinching. Then Durant held out his hand.

"Phil," he said huskily, "this is the biggest day of my life. I've found my ideals again."

Can You Get Life Insurance?

Most people seem to think they can get life insurance whenever they want it, like a piano, an overcoat, or a suit of clothes. All they need is the money. Not so. This Company had to decline 21,351 applicants last year who had applied for $79,021,372 insurance. At some time in their lives they could have gotten it. But they waited too long. Be sure this doesn't happen to you who are reading these lines. Apply at once.

Country Needs "Home Towns."
This country needs more men from home towns, men who will sound the advantages of living in the small village, with its little industry, its freedom from annoyances, its comforts, and delights. And this country needs more home towns, attractive enough in every way to keep within them the young men and women who, fired by ambition to become wealthy, finally feel that they must try their luck in our great cities. For it is these home towns which are really the backbone of the country, because in them dwell people who have time to read and think and figure out their duty and obligation to the state and nation; because in them there is a moral atmosphere which breathes by people of ideals leads them to take positions on the great questions of the true welfare of the people as a whole.

"Home towns! Let's have more of them; men from home towns, more of them. The country needs both.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Plain Houses, Like Drosses, Best.
The greatest compliment that can be paid a house, I think, is to say that it is plain. The finest and most expensive frocks that women wear are plain. The architecture of a home is as much a means of expressing personality as the selection of frocks.—Edward Buehler Dolk in a lecture at the New York Art Institute.

Tools That Can Be Made by the Amateur

Neatness in the construction of radio equipment depends greatly upon the facilities for handling the metal parts, panels and wiring, and correctly shaping each instrument or wire. By making and using the tools shown in the accompanying sketches the amateur will be greatly aided in his work.

Eight types of tools are shown, the material for which can be readily obtained or found among the contents of the tool box. Each tool will prove indispensable after its use has been learned and mastered.

No. 1. The small tweezer tong, as shown, are made up of saw blades and a screw terminal. Obtain two lengths of hack saw blades, bend them to shape, drill for the screw terminal and rivets, then assemble. Small machine screws and nuts can be used instead of rivets if desired. The tongs will prove very useful when soldering or assembling light apparatus. A wing nut can be used for faster and easier action.

No. 2 is a small stake anvil of light construction. All parts are made from pipe or pipe fittings. As is clearly indicated, the base is made from a pipe flange, into which is screwed a small pipe upright, to the top of which is fitted a T joint. The cross pipes are cut and drilled, screwed into the T joint and the instrument is finished. A height of 5 inches and a length of 8 inches is to be preferred. In building up rheostats, coils, placing rivets and soldering, this tool finds a useful place.

No. 5. The cutter and trimmer is made from two steel blades and a handle, suitably fastened to a wooden base. A graduated scale should be marked upon the base, one blade screwed to the side, the other blade bolted in place with a handle to operate it, and the whole instrument finished up neatly. This tool will prove handy in cutting condenser plates, shearing iron core stock and other light material.

No. 4. This is a combination saw and file holder. A piece of 1/4-inch steel pipe is cut and bent to the proper size and slotted for the blade ends as shown. This holder will enable a firm hold to be had on saw blades or any type of file, either flat or circular.

No. 5. A very simple and easily constructed coil winder can be made as follows: Two end supports should be made first. They consist of a pipe flange, a short length of pipe and a T joint. The supports are separated 15 inches and securely fastened to the

HANDSOME FROCKS SUITED TO THE POISE OF MATRONS

IF THERE is anyone privileged to vie with the bride in the distinction of her toilette, it is that happy young person's mother. And the mother of the groom will aspire to do as well. These older women may or may not be youthful in appearance—that has little to do with the success of their costumes. It is the poise and carriage of maturity which lends to them a distinction that can dare to challenge youth. And the modes are kind to them, presenting a long array of fascinating styles for matrons.

For the usual wedding ceremony nothing could be handsomer for the matron than the rich, straight-line dress of midnight blue moire (or black) with facings of pale gray crepe de chine, as shown in the illustration. The wrap-around skirt is turned back at the top, where it joins the bodice, revealing the gray facing. The front of the skirt is turned back also and shows a wide facing of the crepe, which reappears in a vest at the front of the bodice. Long sleeves, set in a deep armhole, are sloped to fit the forearm and both the bodice and skirt are simply draped—but by an expert. A very handsome collar and cuffs of Venetian lace, ecru tinted, and an onyx and silver clasp, set with rhinestones, make appropriate finishing touches for this really superb dress.

Crepe satin, and other crepes, including georgette, moire, foulard and novel weaves in silk, with laces in several popular varieties, command the attention of designers. With them they achieve gowns that are wonderfully successful for matrons.

It matters whether we say anything or not."

"Oh, but it does," he insisted, and then, something in her tone having caught his attention, he inquired: "You haven't said anything to anyone about it, have you, Bella?"

"What?"

"You haven't repeated to anyone what the child told you, have you?"

"Oh, no," she said lightly. "Not to anyone that would have any personal interest in it."

"Oh, my!" William exclaimed, dismayed. "What'd you tell?"

"Nobody that has the slightest interest in the Sullenders," Bella replied, with cold dignity. "Nobody that cares the slightest thing about them."

"Well, then, what in the world did you tell 'em for?"

"Why, to pass the time, I suppose," Bella said, a little offended. "Cousin Ethel dropped in for a while this afternoon and the whole thing was so extraordinary I just sketched it to her. What are you making such a fuss about?"

"I'm not," he protested feebly. "But even if the thing's true, we don't want to get the name of people that gossip about their—"

"Oh, my!" she sighed impatiently. "I've told you Cousin Ethel hasn't the slightest personal interest in these people, and besides she'll never repeat what I told her."

"Well, if she doesn't, it'll be the first time!"

"Will, please!"

"Golly, I hope it won't get back to the Sullenders!"

"Such horrible people as that, what difference would it make?" Bella demanded impatiently. "And how could it get back? Cousin Ethel doesn't move in Sullender circles. Not precisely."

"No, but her close friend, Mrs. Howard Peebles, is the aunt of Mrs. Frank Deema, and Frank Deema is Sullender's business partner."

"Oh, a reactor, is he?" Bella said, feebly.

William returned to the lounge, but did not recline. Instead, he sat down and took his head in his hands. "I do wish you hadn't talked about it," he said.

Bella was sensitive; therefore she began to be angry. "Do you think it's very intelligent," she asked, "to imply that I don't know enough not to make neighborhood trouble? You may not recall that only last night you were sure that you were right and I was wrong about what sort of people these Sullenders are. Already, the very next day, you've had to confess that you were utterly mistaken and that your wife is wholly in the right. I suppose you may feel a little depressed about that and want to change the question to something else and claim I'm in the wrong about that. But don't you think it's a little bit childish of you, Will? Don't you think that the way you're taking your defeat is just a little bit—small?"

He was hurt, and looked up at her with an expression that showed the injury. "I'd hardly have expected you'd call me that," he said, "at least, not so soon after our wedding trip!"

"Well, I might have expected you wouldn't be accusing me of gossiping harmfully," she retorted, "not quite so soon!"

Young Mr. Sperry rose again. "Do you think that's a bad way of using the epithet 'small' to your husband?"

"Epithet?" she echoed. "You charge me with using epithets?"

"Well, but didn't you?"

"I think I'll ask you to excuse me!" Bella said, with an aspect of nobility in suffering. And she proudly betook herself from the room.

It was a tiff. Next day they were as polite to each other as if they had just been introduced, and this ceremonial formality was maintained between them until the third evening after its installation, when a calamity caused them to abandon it. After a stately dinner in their hundred square feet of dining room, Bella had gone out into the twilight to refresh her strips of iris with fair water from the garden hose, and William reclined upon his lounge, solitary with a gloomy pipe. Unexpectedly, he was summoned: Bella looked in upon him from the door and spoke hastily. "Uh—Mr. and Mrs. Sullender," she said. "Uh—" And as hastily withdrew.

Perturbed, he rose and went out to the little veranda, where, with a slightly nervous hospitality, Bella was now offering chairs to Mrs. George M. Sullender and her husband. Mrs. Sullender smilingly, and in her angelic voice, declined the offer.

"Oh, no," she said; "we came in a moment to admire your lovely fires at closer range; we're just passing on our way to some friends in Waverley place."

"We'd be so glad—" Bella stammered. "No, no, no," Mrs. Sullender murmured, carelessly. "We're only a moment—I'm so sorry you disturbed your husband—we're just going over for bridge. I suppose you know most of the people in Waverley place?"

"No, I don't know any."

"Well, of course we don't think it compares to Highland place," Mrs. Sullender said, with a little deprecatory laugh. "I'm afraid it's rather—well, gossip."

"Oh—" Bella said. "Is it?"

"I'm afraid so," the gentlemanly lady returned. "Of course that's a great pity, too, in such a new little community, where people are bound to be thrown together a great deal. Don't you think it's a great pity, Mrs. Sperry?"

"Oh, naturally," Bella acquiesced. "Yes, indeed."

"I know you would. Of course it's just thoughtlessness. Most of the people who live there are so young. But we heard a really dreadful story only yesterday. It came from a very young newly-married couple, and my husband and I were so sorry to hear they'd started in by telling such dreadful things about their neighbors. Don't you think it's most unwise, Mrs. Sperry?"

Mrs. Sullender's voice, wholly untroubled, and so indomitably tender, gave no intimation that she spoke with a peculiar significance; but William Sperry was profoundly alarmed, and, with a sympathy that held no triumph in it, he knew that Bella was in a similar or worse condition.

"Ye-es," Bella murmured. "Of course I do."

"I knew you would feel that way," said Mrs. Sullender, soothingly. "It's unwise because gossip travels so. It nearly always goes straight back to the people it's about. In fact, I don't believe I ever knew of one single case where it didn't. Did you, Mrs. Sperry?"

"I—I don't—that is, well, I—no," Bella stammered.

"No, it's so unwise!" Mrs. Sullender insisted, with a little murmur of tender laughter. Then she took the arm of her solemn and silent husband, and they turned together toward the gate, but paused. "Oh, I meant to tell you, Mrs. Sperry—"

"Yes?"

"That dear little boy Georgie—the little boy you were chatting with the other morning when I called him in to play with my little girl—you remember, Mrs. Sperry?"

"Yes, I do."

"I thought you made such friends with him you'd be sorry to know you won't see him any more."

"No?"

"No," Mrs. Sullender cooed gently. "Poor little Georgie Goble!"

"Georgie—who?"

"Georgie Goble," said Mrs. Sullender. "He was Goble, our chauffeur's, little boy. They lived over our garage and had quite a distressing time of it, poor things. The wife finally persuaded Goble to move to another town where she thinks chauffeurs pay is higher. I was sure you'd be sorry to hear the poor dear little boy had gone. They left yesterday. Good-night. Good-night, Mr. Sperry."

With that, followed by somewhat feeble good-nights from both the Sperrys, she passed through the gate with her husband—and a moment later disappeared in the clean dusk of "Highland place."

Then Bella turned to her troubled William. "She—she certainly made it plain!"

"Yes," he said. "But after all, she really let us down pretty easy."

"Us?" the young wife demanded sharply. "Did you say 'us'?"

"Yes," he answered. "I think she let us down about as easy as we could have expected."

Bella instantly threw herself in his arms. "Oh, William, do always say 'us'!" she cried. "Do be the kind of husband that won't throw this up at me when we're forty and fifty! William, promise me you'll always say 'us' when I get in trouble!"

And William promised and William would.

Equal Bird Rights.

Birds, pigeons probably are closer to the human family than any other form of winged life. The birds have remarkable intelligence, says Nature magazine. They mate in pairs and the female of each union has exercised her right of suffrage to the extent that the male helps her in hatching out the eggs and in caring for and feeding the young.

Production by Silk Worms.

Silk worms of the world, taken together, produce 4,000 miles of fine silk thread every second of their working day. About 150,000,000,000 miles a year.

A Trip to Dreer's

Pupils of the Eighth Grade of the Riverton Public School recently visited Dreer's Nurseries, and the following accounts of their trip tell most interestingly of what they saw

Dreer's As An Important Nursery

The firm of Henry A. Dreer is the largest of its kind in the East. Their principal product is palms. They imported palms from Belgium and England before the embargo act was made, since then they received them from California. They are very well known for their fine quality of palms. Another principle product is hybrid tea roses. This year they received a shipment of thirty thousand roses, which take up the greater part of their out of door beds. Dreer's are also a leading house for canna's which will soon be in demand.

Their plant is made up of three places, the most extensive being the Riverton Nurseries, where the greater amount of ground is under glass. Their next place is Riverview, one mile east of Riverton. Here they have a few greenhouses. Their third place is Locust Farm; here they have no greenhouses. It is used for herbaceous plants, rambler roses, phlox, peonies and other filling in plants. They also have a large lot of plants in Philadelphia. This is used for the storage of seeds and bulbs, and to take care of the retail trade.

The Rose House

Anna Murphy

Above all the beautiful flowers at Dreer's is the rose. As we enter the door we are greeted by a warm, delicate odor. The colors are arranged so the color scheme reminds us of the rainbow. The American Tea Rose, a flamy, yet sturdy flower, makes the border line. The red rose is standing in the center, proud, haughty and very prickly. It is proud of its ancestors, the family of York, whose emblem is the red rose. It throws out its fragrance in hopes to drown the fragrance of the rest. The white rose, beautiful, reminds us alone of purity. Last is the yellow rose, the most beautiful of all in color. Its fragrance is not as sweet-smelling as the rest yet it has its own high place among its kindred flowers.

Palms and Ferns

Charles Becker

Palms are grown in hot houses which are kept from 90 to 95 degrees during the day, in the night it is raised to about 100 to 105 degrees. The palm is a big plant which takes a long time to grow to its full size. In the hot houses they are on tables, which are covered with ashes to keep the plants moist for a longer length of time. The palms are hired out for interior decoration for parties and funerals.

Ferns are one of the beautiful plants we saw. They grow in hot houses and are kept in the same temperature as palms are. There are many kinds of ferns but the ones we saw were the prettiest fern of them all. It was so slender and swayed in the least breeze. They were green and small but grow rapidly and make big and beautiful plants.

The Potting, Packing and Transplanting of Plants

Ruth Young

When the plants are transplanted from the soil they are grown in, it is done by very careful hands. These plants are very tender and must be carefully handled. When they are put into the pots they are packed well in the fertile soil around them. Soon they placed in boxes which are made by some of the employees. The pot and plant is firmly wrapped in strong paper, so no knocking may injure

HAIGHT UPHOLDS EIGHT-CENT FARE

Public Service Suit Against New Jersey Utility Board Sustained by Special Master.

THE RATE IS SET TOO LOW

May Be at Once Appealed—Present Eight-Cent Fare, Fixed by Three Judges, May Not Be Enough. Values System at $110,000,000.

Trenton.—Sustaining the contention of the Public Service Railway Company that a fare of 7 cents, with 2 cents for a transfer, ordered by the Public Utility Commission, is confiscatory, Thomas G. Haight of Jersey City, special master, filed a report in the United States District Court recommending a decree to enjoin the board from enforcing its decision.

The Public Service obtained a temporary 8 cent fare from a special Federal Statutory Tribunal, composed of Federal Judges Woolley, Rellstab and Davis, following the granting of a preliminary injunction by Judge Rellstab enjoining operation of the rate fixed by the Utility Board. The special master's report will be argued before Judge Rellstab, counsel for the Utility Board and the various municipalities being permitted to file exceptions.

Special Master Haight's report in substance concludes that the fare fixed by the utility board cannot yield a sufficient return to the company. He designates the value of the company's holdings for rate-making purposes at $110,000,000. The utility board declared the company should have a value of $25,000,000 for such purposes.

stances of the municipalities, respectively, which the plaintiff and its underlying the lesser companies acquired the right to operate street railways in the streets of such municipalities. This question was raised and argued when the matter was before the court on the application for a preliminary injunction and was disposed of by this court adversely to defendant's contention Judge Woolley saying: "We regard the decisions by the courts of New Jersey as dispositive of the question of law raised by the intervening municipalities in this case."

Sufficient Test
"He then cited the decisions of the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey, which had decided the question contrary to the contention of the municipalities. I, of course, feel bound by the decision of this court. It may not be improper for me to state, however, that if I were to express an independent judgment I would be compelled to reach exactly the same conclusion as this court did. The New Jersey decisions seem to me to leave the question no longer an open one. The Federal Courts, of course, are bound by the construction given to a state statute by the state courts. The decisions in question decide the effect upon municipal ordinances granting special charters to public utility corporations, of the subsequent acts of the New Jersey legislature creating the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and defining their powers and duties.

"It is also urged on behalf of the defendants that the rates now under attack should have been subjected to the test of practical experience for a reasonable period of time before the plaintiff could successfully apply to a Federal court for injunctive relief. The fact that this court has already granted a temporary injunction after the rate had been in effect about two months seems to preclude me from expressing an independent judgment on this point. But, aside from that, as the evidence so clearly demonstrates that the rates in question are confiscatory, there would seem to be no possible reason for subjecting them to any further test.

"I am now brought to the recommendation of what decree should be made in the case. As I have found that the rate of fare fixed by the two orders in question of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners is confiscatory, I am constrained, of course,

NATURAL AND OTHERWISE

CRATER LAKE

Agar ago a great, tall, volcanic peak, which has been called Mount Mazama, occupied "a place in the sun" in the southwestern part of Oregon, about half way between Portland and San Francisco. The volcanic action within this mountain produced heat of such intensity and in such quantity that the entire top melted, fell in and disappeared.

Naturally, utter desolation trailed such a tremendous eruption. Nature, in her mysterious workings, aided by time, changed this condition of affairs and produced a striking geological spectacle which is one of the scenic masterpieces of this earth. The opening or crater in the top of this topless peak gradually filled with water which formed a beautiful, deep blue lake—hence the name, Crater Lake.

This lake, almost circular in shape and about five miles across, is perhaps the deepest body of fresh water on earth. The surface of this lake is more than 6,000 feet above sea level. No inlet or outlet has been discovered. Its waters escape through underground channels which doubtless reappear elsewhere in the form of springs. New waters come from other springs and heavy snows. A belt or girdle of cliffs towers grotesquely above the lake and slopes down sharply to the edge of the water.

The lake is invisible until one has climbed to the rim. The look down into it is indescribable. One is simply nonplussed. 'Tis said that this world holds not another sight like it. The heart of this mountain is filled with a sea of sapphire-colored water. First the size and the precipitousness of the surrounding cliffs astonish you; then the unexpected beauty and brilliancy of Nature's coloring amaze you. The great walls of rock are spotted with yellow and pink. The tips of the cliffs carry more or less snow. The trees are a dark green. Below, the placid surface of this bluest of blue lakes reflects the surroundings with astonishing clearness.

Within the lake an island or cinder cone rises several hundred feet above the surface of the water. Geologists conclude this to be the result of eruptive volcanic forces. This island contains a crater. This crater contains a pool. So here we have the unduplicated spectacle of a crater within a crater and a pool within a lake.

Another small island pops up out of this lake. As its formation crudely resembles a ship, it is called Phantom Ship. The fitness of the name is appreciated when it is understood that, in certain lights it disappears, to reappear again as the rays of light or your position changes.

Crater Lake has been created a national park by Uncle Sam, in order that his people might come and enjoy the grandeur of this unequalled sight. (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Leaning Tower of Pisa.

Campanile, or Bell tower, better known as the leaning tower of Pisa, was completed in 1359 by Tommaso Pisano. It has six galleries of pillars and is 179 feet high, with a deviation from the perpendicular of fourteen feet, which, according to all reports, resulted from an earthquake which occurred while the tower was being built.

BOY SCOUTS

BOY SCOUTS AND OTHER BOYS

"Fifty thousand boy scouts judiciously placed in Chicago would virtually put the delinquent department of the juvenile court out of business," says Judge Victor P. Arnold of the juvenile court, Cook county, Illinois. "The scout program provides for the growing boy the opportunity of learning by doing, fills in his leisure so completely that he seldom has the opportunity or inclination to associate with the delinquent crowd, and to do any of the things that are so completely out of the line of his training."

Scouting's powerful influence in character training and citizenship building is recognized by observing people everywhere.

The prevention of juvenile delinquency and the respect for law and order that the boy scout gains as a wonderful result.

Scouting has completely turned around the old idea that boys and police are natural enemies. Today the boy scout stands for law and order, and is the policeman's co-worker and friend. Troop 86 of Minneapolis has the privilege of holding its meetings in the First Precinct Police station, and the police official in charge of the district declares that "The scouts know the police as their friends and helpers."

Boy scouts have acted under direction of the police in practically every city of the country, in directing traffic during congestion, in assisting children across streets, in patrolling at parades, and in performing first-aid in times of emergency and disaster. The boy scout movement is converting "the gang" into groups of healthy, wholesome boys, and directing their energy to community welfare and service to others.

Guardians of public safety in official co-operation with the police is a new role which scouts of Greater New York will soon fill. If plans mature which are now under consideration by officials of the New York police department and officials of the Boy Scouts of America. The boys will have opportunity to qualify through certain regulated work, as municipal aides. A method will be worked out whereby scouts will in turn be permitted to do community work. Honor awards will be given to scouts performing outstanding work in community safety.

For Cleaning Trays.

Lacquered trays can be cleaned in middlings. They should never be touched with water, which ruins them, and takes away the shin. Appearance. Any stains can be removed by the aid of linsam or other oil, applied on a rag, a little at a time. Then scatter middlings liberally over the tray and polish with a soft duster. An old shirt handkerchief or an old velvet rag may be used for the purpose.

$100,000,000. The total capitalization is approximately $150,000,000.

"As above stated," said the report, "this is the proper way to ascertain the reproduction cost new, in this case is by taking present prices (as they have become reasonably stable), rather than pre-war prices, appreciated by a percentage representing an average price level of many representative commodities."

"Taking the figures thus ascertained as the cost of reproduction new, less depreciation, and taking into consideration all relevant facts mentioned in the before quoted extract from Smyth vs. Ames, so far as the evidence enables me to do so, as well as the fact that it seems clear from the evidence that the property is capable of earning a fair return upon the value which I have reached, and giving due consideration to 'probable future values,' the fair or reasonable value of the plaintiff's property is, at the present time, for rate-making purposes in my judgment, the sum of $110,000,000, in round numbers."

"The serious and difficult question is exactly what constitutes a fair rate of return. The amount which the board considered that the rate complained of would produce, over and above operating expenses (including maintenance and depreciation) and taxes, was $5,845,500. This the board held would be a fair return upon the valuation which it made, and would give the company a rate of slightly over 7 per cent upon such valuation. This figure does not take into account any allowance for the cost of money, which, as before stated, the board said should be taken care of in the amount of the return."

"Moreover, the plaintiff insists that the rate fixed by the board would not have produced as great a return as the board estimated that it would by at least $2,400,000. I think that the plaintiff's figures in this respect are extravagant, but it does seem reasonably clear, both from the defendant's witness, Mr. Perry, and from what has happened subsequently, that the board's estimate of the net returns was excessive."

"If the board's estimate of what the rate of fare would have produced ($5,845,500) is accepted, then the rate of return on the value of the plaintiff's property as I have above fixed it, would be only 6.84 per cent, and on the valuation of $100,000,000, it would be only 6.84 per cent. The percentage, of course, would be less if it is fixed on $5,127,000. It will be borne in mind that the last declaration of the Supreme Court (Southwestern Bell Telephone Case) is that 5 1/2 per cent is 'wholly inadequate.'

"It is apparent, therefore, that looking at the case in the most favorable aspect to the defendants, the rate fixed by the board is confiscatory and violates the Fourteenth Amendment, and I am so constrained to find."

The report states the company's operating expenses have practically doubled since 1916; and that its taxes have increased about 60 per cent. It also appears that under the rate of fare permitted by the federal court, there has been an excess of gross receipts over operating expenses, fixed charges (interest on bonds, guaranteed dividends and other interest) and taxes, while in the four years preceding there was a deficit. The difference, so far as 1920 and 1921 compared with 1922 is concerned, said the report, is principally due to a decrease in operating expenses.

"When the jurisdiction of a federal court is invoked on the ground that such a rate is confiscatory, the court has no discretion in the matter but must entertain the suit, and if it finds the rate confiscatory, it must enjoin its enforcement," said the decision.

Gross earnings of the Public Service for 1922 were $26,353,234.25 as compared with $17,574,867.23 in 1921. Operating expenses last year were $17,887,859.57 as compared with $9,965,960.09 in 1921; taxes, 1922, $5,004,218.97 compared with 1921 taxes of $1,259,790.83. In 1921 the company showed a net surplus of $1,491,066.88; in 1922 a net surplus of $1,183,542.73. In 1923 a deficit of $301,716.79 was reported; a deficit of $589,999.16 in 1922; a deficit of $748,975.93 in 1920, and a deficit of $161,251.69 in 1921. In 1923 the company reported a net surplus of $524,655.38.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

SENIOR CLASS DAY

Everybody Enjoys Program Rendered by Outgoing Students

On Tuesday evening the Senior class of Palmyra High School held its Class Day exercises in the school auditorium.

To start things going, Lester Warner, the class president, made the welcoming address. The curtain was then opened, showing the entire class grouped on the stage with a background of pine trees. The scene resembled a picnic in the woods. The class song, written by Daniel Lichten, was then sung.

Harold MacCorkle read the history which he wrote. Mary Kershner gave the class prophecy. The author of this was Teeenie Stewart. Edith Sullivan recited the class poem. A recitation by Helen McConnell, which was greatly enjoyed, followed. Some very appropriate gifts were then presented by Helen Shontz, Frank Williams and Wallace Sullivan.

In the bottom of the bag from which the presents came was found the "Last Word" of the "Teeenie" of the class of '23. This was written by Teeenie Stewart and read by Lester Warner. This feature was greatly enjoyed by the Juniors, especially those to whom something was "willed."

After singing the school song the Class Day program, which was a greatly anticipated event, came to an end.

To Teeenie Stewart much credit is due for the arrangement of this very enjoyable program.

ALUMNI INITIATION

P. H. S. Old Grads-Plan Royal Welcome for Youngsters

Things seem to be coming the way of the sweet young graduate and her less-often-heard-of stronger half, but who is quite as essential to these June graduations which now are almost as numerous as skaters along the Jersey coast.

With particular reference to Palmyra, we had Class Day, the Junior Prom and Commencement, all of them this week. The culminating event, however, comes on Saturday, June 23, when the present graduating class is initiated into the ranks of the Alumni Association of the Palmyra High School.

The executive committee of the Alumni is planning a real, old-time, get-together of all the members of the organization in celebrating this event. First of all will be the initiation of the supposedly wise candidates. It will be a solemn but not necessarily painful affair. Any good sport can pass it with flying colors.

Followed this the much heralded initiation, a two-act play and a musical program will be presented, all provided from talent already in the ranks of the Alumni. The members of the Association are privileged to bring guests to this entertainment for a nominal sum.

The initiation will be a most enjoyable and the whole evening will be well spent if the Alumni members turn out in as large numbers as the occasion merits.

Come, and see your old high school friends. The committee promises all who attend a very good time.

Executive Committee.

P. H. S. MAN HONORED

Abdill Now Commander of Annapolis Cadet Corps

Another signal honor has been bestowed on a Palmyra boy, a graduate of Palmyra High School.

Everett W. Abdill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Abdill, of Garfield avenue, has been made student commander of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis. This places Midshipman Abdill in command of the 2400 men in the Academy organization and is the highest honor to be won by a senior.

Midshipman Abdill stood first in his class in administrative rating, which is based chiefly on executive ability.

P. H. S. Notes

The Pan-American League each year awards suitable prizes to certain qualified scholars of the United States. In New Jersey this year, Palmyra is the only high school qualified to enter the contest. In order to be eligible a school must have at least one member of its faculty a member of the league. Palmyra is fortunate in having Miss Florence L. England, a history teacher, as a member of the league.

The league sends out a set of questions to be answered by each member of the senior class and the answers are forwarded to Washington. Last year Palmyra was awarded a silver engraved picture of Theodore Roosevelt. This year the school will receive one of the five silver cups awarded in the entire United States. More than sixty classes were entered in the contest. This beautiful cup will be presented at the commencement exercises by Supervising Principal A. S. Griffith.

Polytechnic Institute Alumni Association of New Jersey has been presenting a gold medal to the boy graduate of Palmyra High School who has attained the highest average in his four years work in all mathematics and science offered. This year Harold Winkelspecht received the medal, having a total average of 93%.

The Riverside Board of Education this year presented a five dollar gold piece to the boy and to the girl from Riverside graduating from Palmyra High School with the highest average over four years. Mr. Hannings, president of the Riverside Board, will make the presentation to Laura Lenherr and her own son, Robert Hannings.

Post Rodgers, American Legion, will present through its representative, Frank A. Mathews, Jr., at the commencement exercises, a silver cup to Midshipman Abdill and a fountain pen to Hubert Logan, as first and second prizes respectively, for the recent essay contest.

Palmyra schools close Friday, June 15th, for the summer.

Class day exercises were held Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium.

The Junior reception to the seniors was given at the Riverton Country Club on Wednesday evening.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE BASEBALL
Baptists Win from Artisans in Twilight Game

The Twilight Baseball League of Palmyra and Riverton officially opened its season on Monday evening when Baptists met the Artisans. This first game of the season at "Razberry Park" was also one of the best twilight games ever witnessed by the baseball followers at this park, which became so famous last year.

The Baptists proceeded to trim the Artisans by a score of 2-1. The Baptists found Jim Rapp, the Artisan's pitcher, for four hits, whereas the "Eddie" Hoyt held the boys flying the Artisan's colors for only one hit. If the practice of these air-bright games continues throughout the season there is no doubt that "Razberry Park" will become still more popular.

Gene Meyer made the hit that brought "Clint" Gibbon (Jesse James) in for the deciding tally for the church goers. The Baptists are managed this season by "Gill" Taylor, who also caught for his team. Elmer Jones leads the Artisans and plays second base.

Hoyt struck out sixteen of the boys that faced him from the mutual protection order and walked two. Jim was not so fortunate in this respect for he only sent two back to the bench via the strike-out route. He walked three men. James had some remarkable support and promises to win his next contest.

The winner's lineup was as follows: Meyer 2b, R. Gibbon 3b, Taylor c, Hoyt lf, Mervine ss, Harvey rf, Gerkins cf, C. Gibbon lb and E. Hoyt p. The Artisan's lineup: Hallings 3b, Rapp p, Snyder cf, Steele c, Jones 2b, Dondyky ss, Goodwin lf, Alloway rf, Daddio lb, duHadway cf, Betty rf, and Williams lb.

Legion Captures Methodists
On Tuesday evening, the Legion Twilight League baseball team defeated the Methodist aggregation by four runs. The final score was 5 to 1. The bleachers of "Razberry Park" were loaded to capacity and many were compelled to stand throughout the entire six and one-half innings while the ex-service men were trimming the "Pillars of Fire." It seems to be a breach of twilight baseball etiquette to sit in the grandstand at these games.

The Wesleyans were unable to connect with the slams of Tony Boerke, the Legion twirler, and in fact they claim that Tony served up some "wicked" pills. He was only found for four hits. The boys who were in service for Uncle Sam during the war are under the leadership of their first baseman, "Buck" Truman.

White, the Legion pitcher, is a newcomer in the league and had the local fandom guessing when he started on the mound. Alibies have started already, and the "Pillars" claim that Mister White is a catcher and not a pitcher and only worked for Manager Morley because of his parson. He has not succeeded in "buying" a hurler in time to start his first game of the season.

The Legion lineup: Truman lb, Habbie lf, Stack cf, Andrews 3b, Weart lf, W. Stack c, Morgan rf, Boehme p, and Lamson 2b. Wesleyans: White p, White lb, Jewett 2b, Shappell c, Kennedy ss, Strang lf, Steen cf, Davis 3b, Cole rf, and Van Lowen p.

The K. of P. were scheduled to meet the P. O. S. of A. on Thursday evening and the two new teams in the League will be the contestants on Friday night. They are the Lutherans and the K. of C.

Epworth Methodist Church
The summer schedule of services will go into effect on Sunday at the Epworth Methodist Church. Sunday School will convene at 10.00 o'clock, morning service will begin at 11.00 and in the evening there will be a twilight service from 7 to 8 o'clock. The services will all be one hour in length.

In the morning on Sunday the pastor, the Rev. Fred B. Morley will have a story sermon for the boys and girls, and will preach from the topic "A Summer Sabbath With Jesus." In the evening there will be a religious sing at which the old songs of the church will be used. The pastor will preach from William Penn's text: "The prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. As a special attraction the male quartette from Asbury Church, Camden, will sing.

You've seen the Remington Portable advertised in the magazines. You can see the machine itself at The New Era office. And its worth seeing."

BUS BOOMS PALMYRA

May Be Means of Stopping the Nellie Bly Here

With the addition of a second bus to the Riverton-Palmyra-Frankford line, operated via the Palmyra-Tacony ferry, citizens of the twin towns will find the ferry route to Philadelphia more attractive than ever.

The first bus has already found more passengers than it can handle comfortably and the new one, doubling the schedule of trips as it will, no doubt will attract more fares than ever.

Not only does the bus and ferry prove convenient to residents of the twin towns, but they also are responsible for the purchase of homes here by folks from across the river.

Now that people from the northern parts of Philadelphia can reach Palmyra quickly and cheaply by the bus, it has been suggested that the agitation to get the Nellie Bly to stop here be renewed. Philadelphians would then be able to catch the noted flyer here for quick trips to the shore, and also return by this route.

This would be a big convenience and advertisement for Palmyra.

"THE PRISON POET"

"WHO wrote this poem?" Judge John W. Willis of St. Paul, Minn., turned to his secretary one day early in 1910 and, pointing to a verse which appeared in an issue of the paper published by the prisoners of the St. Paul penitentiary, bade the other read what he termed "one of the best bits of poetry I have come across in many a day"—a fragment of which ran:

Haggard faces and trembling knees,
Eyes that shine with a weakling's gaze;
Lips that mutter their blasphemies,
Murderous hearts that darkly wait;
These were they who were men of fate,
Yet to hold a plough or a sword.
If a prayer this wall will penetrate,
Have pity on these, my comrades, Lord!

Interested in the psychology which could give birth to such lines written behind the bars of a penitentiary, Judge Willis made a point of visiting the prison, where he found a man entered upon the prison books as "John Carter, age 24," but who admitted that both the name and age were false. When questioned as to his true name he would only reply: "I have too much pride to allow that to be known" and, with respect to his age, he merely pointed to his gray hairs and smiled.

Carter had been sentenced to ten years in prison for burglary, but when Judge Willis commenced to investigate his case, he found that the man had had nothing to eat for two days prior to his crime, that he had broken into a railway restaurant with the sole idea of obtaining enough food to save himself from starvation, after being thrown from a freight train while trying to beat his way from Winnipeg to St. Paul.

Shortly after entering the prison "Carter" had commenced to play the organ in a manner which attracted the instant attention of a music teacher in St. Paul, who declared that he possessed exceptional ability, and he also contributed a number of poems to the prison paper—poems which had not only led Judge Willis but a number of editors throughout the country to an appreciation of the genius of this convict-author. His "Ballad of Misery and Iron," which was widely quoted in various sections of the United States and Canada at the time, and which the verse above forms a part, concludes with the remarkable stanza:

Foots sing of life at the less,
And of tears and manifold agonies.
Little they know of what they pray.
Ours is deeper, a wider chord.
If song be heard through the narrow gate,
Have pity on these, my comrades, Lord!

But, as Judge Willis found, "Carter" was not a man who whined or complained. He denied his crime and declared that the law had sentenced him justly, and that he was perfectly willing to work out the remaining half of his term. A movement for pardon was instituted, however, and, within a year, the prison gates opened and "John Carter" was once more a free man. As he stepped out the warden asked if he would not write something descriptive of the way he felt. "Carter" dictated a poem and then replied:

"Lead me back to my cell. I must have the iron bars in front of me."
A few moments later he stepped out, a poem completed, the final lines of which read:

Unreal it seems,
Half ecstasy, half weariness and pain;
For so I fear this haven of my dreams.
The warden and the storm come back again."

"Who are you?" asked one of the group of reporters who had gathered to witness the release of the prison poet. But Carter, his face grim, his eyes fixed firmly on the world which he was viewing for the first time in five years, answered:

"That is my secret. Possibly you may hear from me in the future."

It is more than possible that the world has heard from him, for genius such as that of Carter's cannot be hidden by a pseudonym any more than it can be confined by the walls of a prison.

Aid in Public Speaking

In large auditoriums the speaker of the future will have to depend little on sheer lung power. An amplifier such as was recently played in Trinity church, New York, makes the speaker's voice plainly audible to every corner of the building, even though he speaks in a low tone. The amplifier will enable a speaker to give more of his attention to emphasis and expression.—Youth's Companion.

ZONING IN INDIANA CAPITAL

Apartment and Hotel Are No Longer to Be Permitted in Sections Allocated to Dwellings.

Indianapolis has decided that there is a place for every type of building, and has passed zoning and height regulations to control development, the investments of its citizens and the health and happiness of its population. A section has been set aside for apartments and hotels, another for business buildings, another for factories and some more for homes of various characters. No building may be erected with an unbroken street elevation of more than 200 feet, which is the maximum height in Washington street, the widest and main business street of the city. Heights on other streets will range up to 150 feet, depending on the width of the street. There will be five such districts in the city, the purpose of this being to spread out the population and obviate the possibilities of traffic problems and congestions, which seem to be one of the great troubles of the older cities of the country. Here are the five districts as designated in the regulations, according to the Agricultural Forum:

- (1) Dwelling house, (2) apartment house, (3) business, (4) first industrial and (5) second industrial.

The area requirements are designed to spread out the population, prevent congestion and promote a detached house development.

DELICIOUS PUDDINGS FROM HOMINY GRITS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hominy grits are comparatively inexpensive, and are excellent as a cooked breakfast cereal or as a foundation for other dishes. Here are two recipes for using hominy grits, recommended by food specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture:

Hominy Date Pudding.
1 cupful hominy grits.
5 cupfuls milk.
1 teaspoonful salt.
1/4 cupful of sugar.
1 cupful chopped seeded dates.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Add the salt and hominy grits to the milk, and cook in a double boiler one hour. Add sweetening, dates, and vanilla and mix well. Partly cook before serving.

Fruit Scallops.
1/4 cupful cooked hominy grits.
1 cupful stewed and sweetened apricots.
1/4 cupful apricot juice.
1/4 tablespoonful butter.

Into a greased baking dish place, first, a layer of hominy grits which have been mixed with the fruit juice, then a layer of the stewed fruit. Repeat until dish is nearly full. Dot over with the butter, and sprinkle with one tablespoonful of sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake until brown. Serve hot or cold with sauce or top milk.

Dried or canned fruit can be used.

KITCHEN TABLES AND SINKS

It Frequently Happens That Working Surfaces Is Much Too Low for the Housekeeper.

Kitchen tables and the bottom of sinks are frequently too low for the housekeeper to stand and work comfortably. Low working surfaces are often responsible for tired backs and due stooping and strain on the arms and shoulders. The following figures suggest the proper heights of working surfaces for women of different heights:

Height of Woman.	Inches.
5 feet 0 inches	30
5 feet 1 inch	31
5 feet 2 inches	32
5 feet 3 inches	33
5 feet 4 inches	34
5 feet 5 inches	35
5 feet 6 inches	36
5 feet 7 inches	37
5 feet 8 inches	38
5 feet 9 inches	39
5 feet 10 inches	40
5 feet 11 inches	41
6 feet 0 inches	42

The kitchen table can be raised to the proper height by the use of blocks of wood, the United States Department of Agriculture suggests. One type of block has a socket in which the table leg fits securely. Another type has metal strips and screws or nails for fastening it to the legs of the table or cabinet.

CALL FOR MORE NUT TREES

According to Chicago Publication, Their Value Has in a Great Degree Been Passed Over.

Some years ago a householder in Portland, Ore., planted seedling Persian walnut trees along the street in front of his residence. Now, he has all the nuts his family can use during the year, division with the boys of the neighborhood on their own terms, and sells what are left for almost enough to pay his taxes.

This tale, vouched for by the president of the American Tree association, is told as a preliminary to a question: Do folks of the Middle West, in planting ornamental trees and shrubs, pay enough attention to fruits and nuts, particularly the latter?

One may doubt it. The climatic zone near the lakes does not favor Persian walnuts or pecans, but the black walnut and hickory do well. They make noble trees, as beautiful as the best, and their nuts, though harder to crack than some, are well worth the trouble. The filbert or hazelnut is a beautiful shrub, and when planted in sunny locations yields well. The birch does not take over well to civilization and town life, but on large suburban places it should do well, its beauty is of a unique, striking kind, and its curious three-cornered nuts are a joy to the children.

Why not plant nuts?

Has only imagination.

The imagination is the only power I have that is creative. It is the only artist within me that is not a slave to its clay. My will power is weak, my memory is largely automatic, and my desires work right along without asking my permission.—Frank Crane.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Put corned beef on to boil in cold water.

Lemon juice will remove dust from linoleum.

Use your custard cups for the jelly salad.

Egg whites should be cold if they are to beat well.

Worn tablecloths may be cut into squares and hemstitched to make extra napkins.

Left-over beans may be combined with tomatoes and made into a delicious, nourishing soup.

When making dropped cookies, if you dip a teaspoon in cold milk before putting in the mixture the dough will slide from the spoon very easily.

Asbury

Services on Children's Day were well attended. In the morning the congregation numbered thirty. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dancer, of Mt. Holly had their little daughter, Erma Marie, baptised. Mrs. Dancer will be remembered as Miss Ella Coles, of the Sunshine class. In the evening the choir rendered several selections and the children gave a number of recitations. Forty-two people attended the evening service.

Rev. Clarence Perry, of Riverside will conduct the service again next Sunday. He expects to bring others with him to help with the singing. All who heard his message last time will be glad to know that he will be here again, and those who did not hear him will want to on the coming Sunday morning at 10.30. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. Matilda Harris was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Alfred Giberson over the weekend.

The auditorium of the new Westfield public school is almost completed. The only thing lacking is the seats. The electric domes for the new rooms have arrived and have already been installed in the auditorium. The stage has been arranged and will be illuminated by a circle of footlights. All haste is being made to complete the auditorium so the graduating class, which will hold its commencement exercises next Monday night (although the class year officially ends June 15) may use the new auditorium and thereby be the first class to graduate from it.

Robert N. Wood spent the weekend at Pocono Manor in the Pocono mountains in Pennsylvania.

On Sunday morning, Miss Erma Dancer, three-months-old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dancer, of Mt. Holly, and formerly of Westfield, was christened in the Asbury M.E. Church. In the afternoon they took an automobile trip up through New Jersey and back across to Bristol, returning home by way of the Franklin Road.

THE FLAG: WHAT I AM

By Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior

I am not the flag; not at all. I am but its shadow.
I am whatever you make me, nothing more.
I am your belief in yourself, your dream of what a People may become.
I live a changing life, a life of moods and passions, of heart-breaks and tired muscles.
Sometimes I am strong with pride, when men do an honest work, fitting the rails together truly.
Sometimes I droop, for then purpose has gone from me and cynically I play the coward.
Sometimes I am loud, garish, and full of that ego that blasts judgment.
But always, I am all that you hope to be, and have the courage to try for.
I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope.
I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring.
I am the Constitution and the courts, statues and statute makers, soldier and dreadnaught, drayman and street sweep, cook, counselor and clerk.
I am the battle of yesterday and the mistake of tomorrow.
I am the mystery of the men who do without knowing why.
I am the clutch of an idea, and the reasoned purpose of resolution.
I am no more than what you believe me to be and I am all that you believe I can be.
I am what you make me, nothing more.
I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. For you are the makers of the flag and it is well that you glory in the making.

WILL IMPROVE CORNER

Councilman Lee Plans Many Changes to Help Traffic

Councilman J. Edwin Lees, of the Palmyra Borough Street committee, has about completed plans for the improvement of traffic conditions at the Broad street and Cinnaminson avenue corner.

Permission has been obtained from C. A. Buohi to move back the sidewalk and curbing at the corner some five feet. The electric light pole also is to be moved farther down Cinnaminson avenue. Similar changes also are contemplated at Cook's corner, where request has been made to the railroad that some of its platform be removed to help improve conditions at that point.

A special lighting system is being designed, with warning lights along each approach to the corner.

A good light is to be substituted for the present arc light, so that the traffic officer will be easily seen from every direction.

DISCIPLINE UPHOLD

Riverton School Board Backs Up Supervising Principal in Dealing with Refractory Pupils

At the meeting of the Riverton Board of Education Friday night, the disciplinarian committee reported that the supervising principal has suspended John Brown and Francis Kapsas, for impudence and infraction of the rules. Miss Chew explained to some length the trouble she had experienced, and at the conclusion of her remarks the Board passed a resolution expelling these two pupils for the balance of the school term.

The action of Miss Chew brought on a general discussion of school discipline and the difficulties that had been encountered with some of the children. While it was admitted that "boys will be boys," and that many girls as well as boys are apparently not very well controlled at home, throwing an additional burden on the school to train them in habits of obedience, (which task the school has done its best to perform) it was also keenly realized that there comes a time when for the good of the individual, as well as for the good of the school, pupils must be made to recognize authority and to understand that rules and regulations cannot be ignored with impunity. The Board was a unit in assuring Miss Chew that they were ready to back her to the limit in securing and maintaining proper discipline and order in the school.

It was the cause of some amusement to the members of the Board when they were informed that children had been sent to school with symptoms of contagious diseases plainly developed. To the teachers who carefully inspected the children and reported each suspicious case to the principal, who in turn sends the pupil to the medical inspection, belongs the credit for safe-guarding the health of the majority of our homes against ignorance or carelessness on the part of the few.

In reviewing the year's work, Miss Chew stated that on the part of many pupils there was lack of personal responsibility toward their studies, and that it was only within the last few weeks they began to realize that the marks they had been receiving during the year were not high enough to exempt them from examinations. The boon for which pupils naturally strive. There were some redeeming features, however, in this condition, Miss Chew said. Many of the pupils had responded very satisfactorily this year, and it was a pleasure to report that the following pupils had won exemption: sixth grade, Helen Landers, Allen Hemphill, Dewees Showell, Charles Knight, Severus Co., Jr., Clark, Virginia Good, James Reeves, Eighth grade, Gertrude Crouch, Anna Murphy, Andrea Van Steenberg and Edward Sordun.

Miss Chew reported that Rev. Gordon M. Russell, of Merchantville, had been secured to deliver the address at the commencement exercises to be held June 14th.

TO IMPROVE CEMETERIES

Better Care and Beautification of Palmyra Burial Grounds Discussed by C. of C.

Cemeteries formed the main subject of discussion at the June meeting of the Palmyra Chapter of Commerce Tuesday evening.

The need of better care being taken of Morgan cemetery was brought up by J. Otto Thilow. He pointed to several signs of neglect about the graves and strongly urged that something be done in the way of landscape gardening for the whole cemetery, and better care for the individual lots.

Funeral Director Snover was called from his home to throw some light on the subject. He referred to a certain amount of disorganization in the cemetery's management, saying that several times when graves had been ordered dug, the funeral party arrived to find the work not yet started.

Mr. Snover said he had been working on the proposition for some time, his plan being to form an organization of the lot holders and then raise funds by assessing each one a small amount. The money would be used for a general improvement of the cemetery as well as for each grave plot.

Wilbur Crane, president of the Chamber, appointed a committee composed of Messrs. Thilow, Snover, Melcher and Dr. Lamb to take up the matter.

Solicitor Mathews was directed to obtain a copy of the cemetery's charter, so the basic rules governing it could be read by the committee.

One cemetery brought up another, so the subject of removing the graves in the old Methodist cemetery back of Society Hall was discussed. Mr. Snover declared it would not be fair to expect this to be done at the expense of the lot holders. He believed the value of the land occupied by the cemetery would be sufficient to cover the removal of the bodies and tombstones as well as the purchase of new lots in Morgan cemetery. About 300 graves are involved.

Everybody thought the removal of the bodies and tombstones was an improvement for the town, but J. Edwin Lees opposed the idea of using the site for building purposes. He preferred the ground be added to the town park known as the Grove. His suggestion brought up the question of who would pay the bill for the change and the whole question was referred to the cemetery committee previously appointed.

At the end of the session the Chamber decided to suspend its meetings for the summer months. The next meeting will be held in September.

Robertson's Boat Wins First "Point" Race over Ex-Commodore Bower's Entry by Eight Seconds

The first "point" race of the spring series at the Riverton Yacht Club was held in a westerly gale last Saturday afternoon, over the course from the Riverton Club house to Hen and Chickens spar twice around. Mattis, sailing Ex-Commodore Bower's "Bob" crossed the line first, but Robertson had the windward berth, and soon took the lead, with Showell, sailing the "Bellerose," in third position. After passing the first mark, Mattis shook out his double reef in an effort to pass Robertson, but Robertson was quick to turn the same trick and was never passed.

The boats finished in the following order: Robertson, Mattis, Showell, less than a minute separating the three boats.

BAD LUCK HITS EDDIE'S TEAM

Williams' Only Pitcher Injured Early in Game; Score is 13-5

The highly touted team of the Stanley Company of America, which has only been drawing an average of twenty spectators at its home games, traveled to Palmyra Saturday and proceeded to trim the local aggregation to the tune of 13-5. One pitcher, Reighter, injured his ankle in the third frame as he slid home, but like the game boy he is, went on the mound in the fourth and attempted to twirl, with pains shooting through his leg at every move.

Only one error was made during this terrible and not to be forgotten inning. Berrian, of the Stanley Co., featured having two hits in the same frame. Eddie Williams had only the one pitcher and things looked very serious until Goldberg, one of Stanley's fingers, offered to labor for Palmyra. He finally succeeded in ending this horrible fourth after eight men had crossed the plate.

Previous to this inning the visitors had hit Reighter, a protege of "Wally" Schang's, for two runs in both the first and second frames each.

Home runs were conspicuous by their absence. Only one was made and that was in the first, one Stanley boy was on base when his pal, McFarland, laid a beauty over the left garden barrier.

Howard Kay, the Stanley pitcher who beat Palmyra on Friday evening 6 to 3, labored in left field for the visitors Saturday and looked like a big leaguer. It was reported that he is to go with Connie Mack in the near future. Kay has a number of friends in Palmyra, having been a Wall Street Schang, for two runs in both the first and second frames each.

The local fans had the pleasure of watching the brother of the famous "Wally" Schang, for two runs in both the first and second frames each. Yankies, perform behind the bat for Palmyra. Schang can hit, is fast, has a wonderful peg and in fact is a wonderful ball player.

Joe Stack, who seems to be Eddie's utility man, was out in center field. He was there with his usual game. Foulke, who will be remembered by many fans as our former sacker, was back at his old position and handled it with honors. He was substituting for Len Baker, who was away on a business trip. Except for him and the battery, the local lineup was unchanged.

"Buddy" Mathews lead the locals in the pounding end of the game. He had two hits. Gibbon, Andrews, Harry Kemmerle, Schang and Goldberg each found Michell, the high-pitched Stanley pitcher for one bingle apiece. The P. and R. bunch scored their last two in round seven. "Gibby," our star third sacker, crossed home plate twice, with Stack, Schang and Reighter each completing the circuit once.

The Stanley Company played its last game before disbanding on Sunday. It certainly is a shame to break up such an aggregation as this, but it was impossible for it to draw large enough crowds at their home games to meet expenses.

This should be an example to local fans, who realize the necessity for patronizing its home team unless it wishes to have the same result.

Come out and support the team. The boys were out on Saturday and from the result it appears as if they were sadly out-classed, but they were not. It would have been a real fight and interesting game, had the pitcher not been injured.

This Saturday the local meet the Bridesburg bunch and the b.b. public is cordially invited to attend. The grandstand and bleachers have been very quiet this season. How is it?

Anna May Bender

Anna May Bender, ten-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bender, of Parry, died at the home of her parents last Thursday.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon with the Rev. C. Nelson Sperry officiating. Interment was made in Northwood Cemetery with Funeral Director Frank A. Snover in charge.

ELLA N. EVAL

Miss Ella N. Eval, of 735 Morgan avenue, died suddenly at her home Monday morning. Although not in the best of health she had been attending to her duties at Joseph T. Evans' office, Riverton, where she had been employed as bookkeeper for the past two years. She was found lying unconscious on the floor of her kitchen about 8.45 a.m. and died in a few minutes.

Private funeral services were held at her late home on Tuesday afternoon. Interment was made at Colestown cemetery with Funeral Director Frank A. Snover in charge.

Miss Eval was born on the Eval farm, near Burlington Pike, where she lived until about fifteen years ago when her family moved to Palmyra.

Miss Eval is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Eval, a sister, Miss Helen, of Palmyra, and four brothers, Clarence Eval, of Collingswood; Samuel Eval, of Camden; Isaac Eval, of Merchantville, and Wilbur Eval, of Palmyra.

CIVICS CLUB FLOURISHES

Active Grammar School Organization Ends Successful Year

The last meeting of the 1922-23 Civics Club was held on Friday afternoon.

A report of the treasurer showed a splendid financial ending for the year. During the American Legion drive the Club made a donation of ten dollars to the cause.

A framed picture of Theodore Roosevelt was presented by the Club for the grammar school auditorium.

Officers elected from the seventh grade for the ensuing year were as follows: president, John Easley; vice president, Edward Buchholz; secretary, Margaret Jenkins; treasurer, Dorothy Keady.

The annual trip of the Civics Club was made to Wilmington on Saturday, June 9. Thirty-eight of the boys and girls accompanied by Mrs. Helen Barry Cox and three teachers left Palmyra on the 9.16 train. Neither the clouds nor the wind in any way dulled the spirits of the crowd.

Arriving at Wilmington at 1 o'clock they proceeded to Shellpot Park, where all the amusements were enjoyed.

The party left Wilmington at 4.30 p.m., docking in Philadelphia at 7.25. Having missed the 7.15 train they decided to try the new bus line. This proved a great success and it was a jolly crowd that alighted from the bus at Broad and Cinnaminson avenue.

Japanese Beetle Quarantine Regulations in Effect

A revision of the regulations under the quarantine on account of the Japanese beetle has been issued by the Secretary of Agriculture and is now in effect. The quarantine regulates the movement from the areas in New Jersey and Pennsylvania infested by the Japanese beetle of certain farm products, namely (1) sweet, green or sugar corn, cabbage, lettuce and grapes, (2) grain and forage crops of all kinds, including hay and straw, but not threshed grain; (3) nursery, ornamental and greenhouse plants and all other plants, and (4) compost, manure and soil of all kinds, including sand and clay as well as top soil for whatever purpose it may be used. The Federal Quarantine Regulations are supplemented by similar State regulations.

Maps have been printed and posted in prominent places, such as post offices, express and freight offices and County Agent offices, which show the areas to which quarantine restrictions apply.

The method of inspection of farm products which has been used in previous years has been changed. For the present season, corn, grapes, lettuce and cabbage can be shipped without inspection from any point in the infested territory to the Philadelphia market, or to any other point within the restricted area, but this produce cannot be shipped from the Philadelphia market to points outside the restricted area. In other words, any of the farm products mentioned can be shipped from the farm to the Philadelphia market without inspection, but the produce cannot be shipped from the Philadelphia market to points outside the restricted area. Shipments of the products just mentioned may be made direct from the farm to points outside the restricted area, providing they are inspected before they leave the farm and provided also that they are consigned direct from the farm to the point of destination outside the restricted area without being handled by any other intermediate agency, such as wholesaler, commission man, etc. In order to have these products inspected the shipper must apply to the nearest Japanese beetle office for inspection at least one day in advance, stating the kind of produce, the amount, and to what point it is to be shipped. Inspection will then be made and permits issued allowing the shipment of produce to the desired point outside of the restricted area, in accordance with the regulations in force.

Nursery, ornamental and greenhouse stock and plants of all kinds cannot be shipped with soil about the roots from infested districts either by commercial growers (nurserymen) or by private individuals, unless the soil has been treated by disinfection or by other methods under immediate supervision of an official inspector, and when shipped must be accompanied by a certificate of inspection issued by the inspector. Plants without soil will be inspected and certified for shipment.

In the case of any of the products mentioned, whether farm products or nursery products, where absolute freedom from infestation cannot be determined by the inspector, certification will be refused.

Violations of any of the quarantine regulations whether State or Federal, are punishable by fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Printed copies of the quarantine regulations and additional information may be obtained from any of the Japanese beetle offices upon request. Offices are located at Riverton, N. J. (phone Riverton 505); Beverly, N. J. (Cooperative Growers' Association building) after June 25; Philadelphia, 2027 Arch street, (phone Spruce 8339) and Holmsburg, Pa. (phone Holmsburg 1128).

RIVERTON'S BIG FOURTH

Everybody Pulling Together for the Greatest Celebration Ever Held Here. Old Timers to Return.

The Mayor and Council of the Borough of Riverton have issued five hundred invitations to be sent to former residents of Riverton, asking them to participate in the Borough's Fourth of July celebration this year, which will be on a more elaborate scale than ever. The program will open at 9:30 in the morning, with a flag-raising under the direction of Post James A. Bradley, American Legion, followed by a children's flag parade, which has been a tradition in Riverton for more than a quarter of a century. Some of the additional features will be a dance pavilion open all day and evening, and special athletic events for the boys and girls of Riverton and Cinnaminson Township, for which a large number of prizes have been provided. The day's celebration will close with fireworks in the evening. The famous Irons' band of Burlington will furnish music during the morning, afternoon and evening. The address in the morning will be delivered by Hon. R. W. E. Douglas, of Camden.

The people of the adjoining towns and surrounding territory will be made cordially welcome in Riverton on that day. They are invited to come along with their friends. The Fourth of July Committee is composed of William B. Lynch, chairman; Harry E. Davis, G. Rex Showell, Walter L. Bowen, Daniel M. Clifton, John M. Hughes and Charles B. Durbin, secretary.

The Citizens' Committee is made up of Fred P. Hemphill, Walter Armstrong, J. W. Sylvester, Dr. H. L. Rogers, Capt. Harry Brunt, Francis Holvick, Walter C. Wrigg, Everett Sullivan, Robert Ayres, Herbert Evans, E. C. Stoughton, Charles E. Rupp, Robert Cole, Irving Williams, Howard Sorden, Com. H. McI. Biddle, C. E. Schmerhorn, John G. Seckel.

The judges for the Baby Coach Parade will be M. J. D. Clark, Mrs. J. H. Reese and Mrs. H. McI. Biddle. The Yacht Club Fourth of July Committee, which will cooperate with the Borough Council and the Citizens' Committee, is composed of J. C. Crowell, Ross Elliott, Robert K. Jones, Robert Ayres, William H. Baker, Jr., G. Rex Showell.

BIG FERRY RUSH

2400 Cars and 2500 Pedestrians Cross
River on Sunday

It is estimated that the Tacony-Palmyra Ferry Company handled over 2400 cars and at least 2500 foot passengers on last Sunday. This is a new record. From nine o'clock until eleven-thirty in the evening the line of cars reached from the ferry to Broad and Cinnaminson, down Broad to Delaware avenue and across the railroad on Cinnaminson avenue as far as the old schoolhouse. This condition has never in the history of the town been experienced before. It was not until 12:30 that the cars were entirely off Cinnaminson avenue. The last of them crossed on the 12:45 a. m. boat.

The congested traffic was admirably handled under the direction of Chief of Police Beck and Officers Rodgers, Wallace, Lutz and Melcher. Melcher was sworn into service on Sunday when these conditions were foreseen by the authorities. Mayor James T. Weart and Councilman J. Horace Finney were on the job and aided the police.

Lawn Fete Saturday

Again the Burlington County Tuberculosis League calls attention to the lawn fete that will be held at the attractive farm property of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haines at Masonville on Saturday of this week for the benefit of the League. This will be a fine affair all the way through and preparations will be made for a large number of patrons.

The fixed program calls for a supper and bazaar, but it is certain that patrons will find other things to do when they get there. Good music will be furnished. This fete is for the benefit of the League that is doing such commendable work in relieving residents of the county who are afflicted with tuberculosis and need expert attention for their comfort while being treated with a hope of producing recovery. It should not be necessary to appeal for patronage, the announcement of a League benefit is sufficient to arouse the interest and patronage of a thoughtful public that is always ready to help liberally toward the relief of the sick and afflicted.

Camp! Camp! The Girls are Camping!

As the school days come to an end, and the hot rays of the sun beat down ever more fiercely a girl's thoughts turn to swimming and camping just as naturally as a duck turns to water. What fun it is to search through chests and drawers, and pull out the old knickers and middie and the other things which made so many happy times last summer. If you have not experienced such joys as these you have lost much, but, you need no longer miss more. There is a camp waiting and ready for you near your own home town. Have you heard about it?

Camp Camarade is located at Pleasant, Pa., on the banks of the Delaware River among the foot hills of the Poconos, about twenty-six miles from Trenton and is under the management of the Trenton YMCA. The girls of Burlington county have been invited to share it with them this summer.

Camp opens the seventh of July and will be ready any time after that date to receive all who want to go. High school girls reserves are urged to go the two weeks beginning with the seventh and the fourteenth of July, but any girl may go at any time, only get your registration in now.

For further information apply to the YMCA office in Mount Holly, but do it soon, as reservations are being made and the date you have counted on may be taken.

BUILDING ACTIVE

Palmyra's Building Inspector Issues Permits for Fourteen Operations in One Month, Totaling $52,500

At the meeting of the Palmyra Borough Council last Tuesday evening, the Building Committee reported that it had taken up the zoning question with the Chamber of Commerce and that a public meeting was planned for the fall when the matter would be presented to the citizens at large.

Chairman Lee, of this committee, also told of the improvements being made at the corner of Broad street and Cinnaminson avenue, where Cook's and Buoh's corners are to be rounded off to the extent of several feet and a new lighting system is already being effected. The Public Service Company is installing two new arc lights, thirty feet down the approaches to the corner, and light has been moved farther east on Broad street, and a new flood light is to be mounted on Cook's store building to illuminate the center of the street where the traffic officer will stand.

Attention also was called to the need of removing several shade trees which will soon become a menace to the public.

Sealed proposals for furnishing the Borough with a fire pumping apparatus were ordered advertised and bids will be opened July 1.

Building Inspector Powell reported issuing fourteen permits for the current month, for building amounting to $52,500. He also reported two instances of violations of the building laws. These were referred to the building committee with instructions to take drastic action to enforce the law.

Treasurer Griscom's report, prepared by Auditor Williams, was read, showing that the Borough had considerable money on hand, the balance being $34,430. In view of this a note for $5,000 floated early in the year by the Township Committee was ordered paid.

Plans were discussed for the final meeting on sewer assessments on July 3, when citizens will be able to learn just how much the new sewer is going to cost each individual property owner.

W. R. S. Fluck appeared to ask if the Borough would sell him lots purchased at tax sales by the Township some ten or twelve years ago. It developed that the tax sale certificates had been lost and that the lots had not been assessed from the time of the sale until a few months ago. Solicitor Low said the lots would have to be assessed for 1922 and sold at a new tax sale before the Borough could have title to them. It also developed that there were a number of other lots in the same situation. They have been lying idle for years, the ownership had been deriving no revenue from them at all, while in some cases people living nearby have fenced them in and have been cultivating them as if the ground belonged to them. It was proposed to make a general clean-up of these lots at the next tax sale.

Epworth News

The summer schedule of services is in effect at the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church.

Sunday School convenes at ten o'clock. The morning worship begins at eleven o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. Fred B. Morley, will have a story sermon for the boys and girls. The topic of the adult sermon is "The Guided Life." A twilight service will be held in the evening from seven until eight o'clock. The service will begin with a religious song at which time favorite old hymns will be sung. The selection of these hymns will be made by the members of the congregation. The topic of the sermon is "The Man Who Sold His Friends."

The prayer service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. This is a helpful service of prayer, praise and testimony.

Advance Party Leaves for Camp Ockanickon

Secretaries and workers from Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, and Monmouth counties left for Camp Ockanickon Monday, June 18th, to get things in readiness for the town and county pastors' institute the 21st and 22nd, for the county workers' institute the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th, and then for the opening of the first week of Camp 26th.

Secretary Hendry reports a fine enrollment to date of Burlington county boys with plenty of room, however, for a considerably larger number. A camp folder and registration card will be sent any boy who will write the county YMCA office, Mount Holly.

Wright-Simons

The wedding of Miss Virginia Louise Simons and Mr. Arthur Pratt Wright was quietly solemnized at Christ Church, Palmyra, by the Rev. Dwight L. Parce Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah A. Simons, of 508 Cinnaminson avenue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wright, of Rowland street. Both are well known in Palmyra and have many friends among the younger set.

Mrs. Eleanor Green played the wedding march, and the bride, attired in a traveling suit, was given in marriage by her brother, Charles Bruce Simons.

After a honeymoon spent in New York and Bayhead, the young couple will reside in Wilkesbarre, where Mr. Wright is a surveyor for the Underwriters Association.

New Bank at Maple Shade

Maple Shade is to have a National bank and the Harborborough property opposite the post office has been decided upon as the most desirable location, it being in the heart of the business district and readily accessible from all parts of town. The bank will be a purely local institution, and the shares, which are selling for $110, have been oversubscribed by the people of the town. The capital of the bank will be $150,000. It is expected that the institution will be open for business in about four weeks.

REVIEW

Great Men and Women of the Old Testament—Devotional Reading, Psalm 99.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."
—Heb. 12:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Favorite Stories of the Quarter

JUNIOR TOPIC—Favorite Heroes and Heroines of the Quarter

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Some Great Characters of the Old Testament

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons for Today From the Lives of Old Testament Characters.

Three methods are suggested. The first method is taken from Crannell's Pocket Lessons. The general subject is, "What Twenty Centuries Teach the Twentieth."

1. The Lesson of Vision.
2. Moses, the Nation Builder—Lesson 4.
3. Isaiah, the Kingdom Seer—Lesson 9.
4. The Lesson of Leadership.

5. Samuel, the Foundation Layer—Lesson 6.
6. David, the Soldier—Lesson 7.
7. Nehemiah, the Rebuilder—Lesson 11.
8. The Lesson of Courage.

9. Elijah, the Reformer—Lesson 8.
10. Jeremiah, the Truth Teller—Lesson 10.
11. Esther, the Intercourse—Lesson 12.

12. The Lesson of Character.
13. Ruth, the Woman Who Clave—Lesson 5.
14. Joseph, the Son Who Remembered—Lesson 3.
15. The Lesson of Love.

16. Jesus, the Summit of the Old Testament, Foundation of the New, Life of God—Lesson 1.
17. The second method—Character Study. The different characters can be assigned the week before, upon which the pupils are to bring a brief essay or report giving a sketch of the particular hero.

18. A third method is to give a brief summary of each lesson.
19. Lesson 1—The truth concerning the risen Christ is the answer for all our questions and the impulse of our testimony to others.

20. Lesson 2—Abraham in obedience to the call of God went out not knowing whither he went. He so completely trusted God that he was willing to go all the way with Him.

21. Lesson 3—Though Joseph was sold into slavery because of the hatred of his brethren, God raised him to a place of power in Egypt.

22. Lesson 4—Even though Pharaoh's decree was for the destruction of all the male children of the Hebrews, Moses was preserved and educated in the Egyptian court.

23. Lesson 5—When Ruth became acquainted with the true God, she chose to turn her back upon her native land and kindred and identify herself with God's people.

24. Lesson 6—Samuel was given in answer to his mother's prayer. In early boyhood his mother gave him back to the Lord.

25. Lesson 7—When Samuel went to assist a new king over Israel, he had all the sons of Jesse pass before him. Although to human eyes the eldest seemed fitted to be a king, and although outer appearances were favorable, the inner reality as seen by God was against him.

26. Lesson 8—Elijah threw down to the people a ringing challenge, calling upon the people to decide between Baal and the Lord. The God who answered by fire was to be the true God.

27. Lesson 9—Upon the sight of the Lord, Isaiah was convicted of his sin. When cleansed by fire from the divine altar he heard and responded to the call of God.

28. Lesson 10—Jeremiah, for his faithfulness in making known the Word of the Lord, was most bitterly hated and persecuted. Though he was regarded as a traitor and put into the place of death, he remained faithful to God.

29. Lesson 11—When Nehemiah heard of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem, he was moved with pity for them. Although he enjoyed prosperity, he grieved over the grave distress of his people.

30. Lesson 12—In the providence of God, Esther came to be queen of Persia at an opportune time to save her people. There is a definite place and purpose in every life.

31. Life-Force, which is another name for God, seeks ever for new outlets; it breaks through mild into something higher still.—G. A. Studdert Kennedy.

32. The Art of Pleasing. To be pleased. To be amiable is to be satisfied with one's self and others.—Hamilton.

33. Danish Self-Concept. The first business of a philosopher is to part with self-concept.—Epictetus.

NOTICE

In order that the New Era may reach its reader before the weekend purchases are made, it will hereafter be published and mailed on Thursday. Advertisers and others are requested to have their copy ready at the office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

A Word to Our Subscribers

WE wish every subscriber to pay his or her subscription strictly in advance. Many of them do, but some do not. We think a great deal of our subscribers. There is nothing within the bounds of reason we would not do for them. But some thoughtless souls overlook some facts concerning this paper which we now bring to their attention.

Subscriptions do not sustain this paper. It takes lots of advertising to make up the deficit between the cost of running this paper, and the subscription revenue.

It costs money, time and effort to secure subscribers and keep them renewed. That cost must be passed on to subscribers and advertisers. The losses in the business must be absorbed by the profits, if there are any.

Certain credit arrangements are essentially necessary in any business. We have been pleased to extend a reasonable credit on subscriptions to subscribers who needed credit. But we cannot believe that all who accept credit really need it. Certainly credit should not be considered for an indefinite period.

Our subscription list is a permanent asset of this paper. Many subscribers have been listed for years and years. They are like old friends to the publisher. If we had to go out and renew every subscriber, our subscription costs would be prohibitive. We are striving to furnish a high-class publication at lowest cost. Your co-operation in the matter of subscription payments is earnestly requested.

Don't Kid Yourself

A COMMON expression is, "I won't build now as cost of construction is too high."

Incomes have increased proportionately to cost of construction and the man who does not demand every newfangled contraption can build with his present-day income and have a larger margin left than would have been possible in 1913.

Don't blame the present building costs entirely on lumber and labor. Remember that in nine cases out of ten your ideas of what you want have expanded with your income and you would not be satisfied today with the 1913 bungalow.

Taxes at $100, insurance at $30, repairs and upkeep at $100 and 7% interest on a $5,000 house amounts to $580 a year.

If you pay $50 a month for nine years you have $5400 worth of rent receipts worth nothing. If you put $50 a month into a home for nine years, even if it was necessary to cut out a few theater parties or clothes to make up interest, etc., until the property was paid for, you would have an asset worth probably more than $5400 at the end of nine years and your family would have a roof over its head which could not be taken away from them for failure to pay a month's rent.

Don't kid yourself, you can own a home as well today as you could ten years ago if you want to. It is not the cost of building that will prevent you, it is the cost of satisfying your inflated demands for luxuries and modern extravagances.

Harvey Stewart Robbed on Burlington Pike

Harvey E. Stewart had an unpleasant experience while on his way to Philadelphia early Friday morning. He saw a man lying in the road near Sorrel Horse hotel, on the Burlington pike, and when he stopped to give assistance he was held up by the supposedly injured man and two companions and relieved of $335.00. A valuable watch, which Mr. Stewart carried, was overlooked by the bandits. Mr. Stewart reported the robbery to Walter Kelly, a Camden policeman, and the State police were notified. Two of the men are described as being short and heavy set while the other man was six feet tall and slender.

Any one interested in the history of the county, and the preservation of historical articles are invited to become members of this society.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Burr took a delightful motor trip last week. They left Riverton on Wednesday and arrived at Silver Bay, on Lake George, Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Burr were accompanied by their son, Marvin, Richmond Miller, of Reading, and Hanson Hodge, of West Philadelphia, who are students at Swarthmore College. Mr. and Mrs. Burr returned to Riverton on Sunday, but the boys are attending a YMCA convention and are expected home on Sunday.

The new fire alarm siren, which has just been installed at the headquarters of the Riverton Fire Company, will be tested out from time to time and it has been arranged to blow four blasts if the fire is in Riverton and five blasts if the alarm is called out of Riverton. Citizens can disregard all other sounding of the siren, as they will understand it is merely a test. Just remember: four blasts in Riverton—five blasts out of Riverton, and don't worry when you hear anything else.

We ran across a rather amusing thing in a local shoe shine "parlor" the other day. A really peaceful-looking negro dressed into the place, pulled a blackjack from his back pocket and asked to have it shined. Fact—Columbus Dispatch.

LEWANNA SCORES AGAIN

F. W. Robertson Sailed His Black Flier (Lewanna) to Second Victory in Point Race in the Spring Series

In last Saturday's race Robertson was the first to cross the starting line, closely followed by Showell, with Mattis last. Mattis was first to reach the first mark and held the lead until the finish of the first lap when he was passed by Robertson and Showell. Robertson opened up a five-minute lead after rounding the buoy off the pier and was never passed after this.

The boats finished in the following order:

Robertson, points to date.....6
Showell, points to date.....3
Mattis, points to date.....3

Fourth of July Sports

Immediately following the patriotic services on the river bank on the morning of the Fourth of July, that portion between Main and Penn streets will be roped off and sports, such as were given last year, will be run off.

A complete list of the events will be published in the next issue. The entries for the various events will be limited to the boys and girls of school age residing in the borough of Riverton and the township of Cinnaminson, and appropriate prizes will be awarded the winners of each contest.

In addition to the sports for the boys and girls, a tug-of-war for the young men of Riverton is being talked of as a special feature, and if definitely decided upon, full details will be set forth next week.

The sports on the bank were first held last year and proved to be so popular that no doubt they will be repeated yearly with special features.

Seriously Hurt in Auto Crash

Three persons had a narrow escape from death on Sunday night about 11.30, when a Chevrolet, driven by Fred Anderson, of Camden, crashed into an electric light pole on the Moorestown-Riverton road, near Campbell's soup farm, splitting the pole from top to bottom.

BASEBALL AT EAST RIVERTON

Riverton All-Star Team Loses to Riverview 6-4

Manager Ted Schneider has arranged for a series of three games with the strong Riverview team of East Riverton. The opening game was played on Tuesday evening, June 19th, and was won by the home colored team. Manager Schneider has secured some very fine ball players.

In his lineup last night was Clarence Hubs, who served them up, and he sure looked good. Cab Hylton and Reds Schuler were back in the game and showed rare form.

Next Tuesday night will be the second game. Come out and give the boys your support. Joe Hylton, Eddie Mays and Lody Orcutt will join the team this week. Manager Schneider has also signed up Richie Donovan and Sling Haggerty, of Shamokin, who he will work out next week. The game will start at 6.30. Come out and have a good laugh with us. A FAN.

J. C. W. FRISHMUTH ACCUSED

Charged With Selling Stock in Bankrupt Concern

A warrant was served on John C. Whitney Frishmuth, Jr., at his home in Haverford Tuesday charging him with being implicated in an alleged stock swindle.

J. H. Reed, of Williamsport, Pa., accuses Frishmuth of selling him $51,000 worth of stock in the Frishmuth firm after it had gone into bankruptcy.

An allegation that stock of Frishmuth Bros. & Co., of Philadelphia, appraised at $200,000 at the time of the death of John C. W. Frishmuth, late of Riverton, has become valueless and that condition appears to be due to mismanagement by the executors in handling the affairs of the company, has developed an interesting situation.

The executors are John C. W. Frishmuth, Jr., and Hannah B. Frishmuth, and to their first account exception is taken by two heirs, Mary G. and Anna B. Frishmuth, daughters of the testator.

The exceptions object to the failure of the executors to charge themselves with any rent for the homestead at Riverton and real estate in Florence, both occupied by them since the death of Mr. Frishmuth, and then to the account of the principal objection the apparent shrinkage in the value of the Frishmuth company stock. The exceptions allege that if it is now valueless, as represented in the account, it is due to mismanagement of the company by the accountants, who had entire charge of its affairs and merged the stock with that of a Kentucky corporation that has not been successful. Testimony will be taken on July 12.

Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared
SWP is the most durable and economical paint that can be made. It costs less per job and wears longer than any other paint, either ready prepared or mixed by hand. It is made in one quality only, and that the very best. It is sold the world over by established agents.

The man who buys the raw materials and prepares a paint himself, cannot possibly make a paint equal to SWP. It is a case of hand work against mechanical efficiency; human guesswork against exact scientific formulae; hand-stirring against fine machine grinding. It is taking chances on the quality of the raw materials against the certainty of the scientific laboratory.

In the manufacture of SWP we spare neither skilled workmanship nor the quality of the materials used in making it the finest possible. Our unusual facilities and paint knowledge gained from over 50 years of experience, enables us to manufacture a paint of greatest covering capacity, greatest durability and therefore greatest economy.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUT CHIEF ON TRIP

James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who made an extended trip through the western states in the interest of scouting.

BOOKS FOR BOY SCOUTS

Among the thousands of books on the market purporting to be about scouting, there are many gross misrepresentations.

For a number of years the library department of the Boy Scouts of America has rendered the public the service of review of books for boys, in the belief that the indoor sport of reading good literature is as essential to character development as the outdoor sports so closely allied with scouting. Scout parents will be interested to know, especially now that the holiday season is approaching, with its time of intensive book buying, that the library department issues free of charge a list of books that have received the careful consideration and endorsement by the boy scout organization. The books have been selected not solely on the basis of literary merit, but also because of wholesomeness and proved appeal to the boy reader.

BOY SCOUTS ON THE FARM

One of the most fascinating places for a boy scout to live is on a farm. On the farm, out among the fields, on the open road, under the clear sky, a boy could easily imagine himself back in the company of the sturdy pioneers, scouts and brave frontiersmen who roamed through just such scenes. The country boy has a big advantage in being able to step from his front doorstep right out into the world of scouting—the great free out of doors.

Scouting gives the country boy a chance to acquire a wonderful fund of knowledge about nature. Knowledge that otherwise might be rather vague, through the systematic work of scouting, becomes a decided asset of clear facts. The country boy gets the opportunity through the scout troop to mingle with other boys and to satisfy the natural desire every boy has for the companionship of lads of his own age.

The nation is looking more and more to the country for leaders with fresh ideas and the spirit of progress. Thus the country stands in need of the country boy trained through the scout program for citizenship responsibilities and duties.

When it comes to that part of the scout program where working for merit badges begins to play a prominent part, how intensely interesting must the ordinary duties of the farm become. If the scout son is working for the merit badge in dairying, what a joy it must be to see that the cows are properly taken care of—that the milk is handled in a careful manner. Every step takes on the joy of achievement, of going forward in scout rank.

To provide for the rural boy the Boy Scouts of America have instituted a department for troops not under council, that is for troops which, because of distance, cannot be affiliated with a council, and for the lad who cannot because of distance join any troop, the ranks of the "Pioneer Boys Scouts" are open.

REMEMBER SOLDIER

For fifteen years Memorial day had passed without observance in a small community of Cerro Gordo county, Iowa. This year a troop of scouts was formed in the place and it followed that Memorial day was observed with scouts in almost complete charge, the scoutmaster making the address at the cemetery, the scouts decorating the graves, and the troop bugler sounding taps.

SCOUTS MAKE WARM FRIENDS

Troop No. 2 of East St. Louis, Ill., recently gave a practical demonstration of the spirit of scouting, and incidentally made eight firm friends when it presented a basket filled with good things to eat to a needy family that was stranded in that city. The family consisting of a father, who was suffering from tuberculosis; the mother, one daughter, and five small sons, had been traveling in an open auto. The scouts also provided warm clothing for the little boys.

GOOD TURN FOR DALLAS

The Dallas scribe marked up another civic good turn when he recorded among recent activities, the assistance the scouts rendered at the City Fair association, in delivering over 25,000 bulletins advertising the sale of thrift tickets sold for the purpose of erecting a manufacturing and automobile exhibition hall.

BOY SCOUTS DO GOOD SERVICE

Troop 1, Huntington Park, Cal., recently distributed 5,000 pieces of school literature and 3,000 Parent-Teachers' association notices.

BOY SCOUTS' GOOD TURN

Good turns by radio are a specialty with Troop 5, Providence, R. I. Recently these boys installed a radio set in the largest ward of the Rhode Island hospital, and shifted the aerial from time to time so that all the patients could in turn be entertained at Christmas time the boys repeated the good turn, and in addition installed a set of their own construction in the children's ward, and presented it to the small patients to their own use.

Cat Mascot of S. S. President Harding
Is Given Rating of "Milk Steward"

"Mr. Meyer" Getting Beauty Treatment

New York, June 21—There was a time when cats, large and black ones especially, when found on board a ship, were considered evil omens, to be promptly thrown overboard. But that superstition, believed in by sailors of by-gone days, no longer exists, and today many an ocean going vessel boasts, as its mascot and particular pride, a huge black cat, the pet of all on board.

The President Harding of the United States Lines, has a black cat which has the freedom of the ship, and which, even has a title in keeping with the dignity of his station aboard the liner. This naughty feline, Mister Meyer by name, is known to the entire personnel of the big liner as "Milk Steward," and with the Chief Steward, reigns over the dining room during meal hours.

Mister Meyer, who by now is known to hundreds who have traveled between New York and Bremen on the President Harding, likes to be petted, especially by pretty young women, and generally has a few favored friends on board on whom he calls on deck or in their staterooms. He is fond of good perfumes and scents, and does not object if some fair passenger to whom he has taken a fancy, allows him to sniff a delicately perfumed handkerchief or endeavors to dust his snowy white chest fur with powder. In fact he rather enjoys the experience and has been known to deliberately invite the latter attention by playing with a powder puff on some young woman's dressing table until his fur has been powdered to his heart's content.

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Menthosulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Menthosulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

The Leviathan will carry 4674 persons. It would require 93 Pullman cars carrying an average of 50 persons each to haul such a number.

Largest vessel afloat, equipped and appointed more luxuriously than any other craft in the world, the mighty steamship Leviathan, flying the house flag of the United States Lines will sail from New York on July 4 for her first trip to Southampton. This initial trip of the Leviathan as a passenger vessel under the Stars and Stripes is a matter of National interest of two-fold importance.

It took the early pioneers in their prairie schooners 145 days to journey 2900 miles, the distance between New York and Southampton which the Leviathan will cover in 5 days.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT HENRY SYDNOR HARRISON

It is like shaking hands with an old friend to see the name of Henry Sydnor Harrison. Some years ago his first book, "Queed," gave him instant place as one of our foremost American novelists. Then, at intervals—for Mr. Harrison is an author who works long and with infinite care—came "V. V.'s Eyes" and "Angela's Business," both startling successes. "Saint Teresa" established him as a first-rank American author. He started writing when he first left college, and mainly at night, because, he said, he had to make a living. He joined the staff of the Richmond Times-Dispatch. He laughed when I asked him what he did there. "I was paraphraser, at first," he said, "then editorial writer, and often poet." At the end of five years, having saved some money, he resigned to see if he could make his way at writing alone. To get a short story from Mr. Harrison is an event, his time is so fully occupied with work scheduled ahead. But like the others in the Star Author Series of Matrimonial Adventures, he made the opportunity to contribute. "Pursuit" may be a bit cynical, but it gives much food for thought and reflection.

MARY STEWART CUTTING, JR.

It was the evening of May Hesketh's picnic supper, small but memorable; and now the clocks had there been any on the island, would have pointed close to midnight. What was so rare as this night in June? Salting wisps of cloud shredded the face of the high moon; the blackness of the woods, the glades and dells, the vine-covered rocks and the empty quarry, were stippled and patched with silver; the lake was a sheet of silver stretching far away to lose itself in a lovely dusk. Through the verdure a soft breeze whispered; from the water floated voices of the merry-makers, receding; and the woman stealing on light feet up the path, a slim and not inconspicuous figure in her white bathing dress, with unbound dark hair streaming to her waist, reflected that, for an hour at least, she would be alone here.

But it was not so. From the impenetrable shadows, as she neared the ruined cabin, the figure of a man abruptly emerged upon the path; he stood confronting her. She started a little, and then she saw, with a wild shout of satisfaction, that this man was her husband.

"You!" she said, with the faintly mocking air she had long ago learned for him; "but fancy meeting you here!"

"You—you looked like a—" he began a little confusedly; and then, breaking off, he cleared his throat and started again, more authoritatively: "I don't say I approve of that suit, but—but it does seem to fit in with the surroundings somehow. You might almost have been mistaken—at a distance, that is—for a hamadryad. But—"

"And what may they be? Something very nice to be mistaken for, may I hope? But I supposed you'd gone in the launch."

"No—no. I'm tired of drunks," said he, continuing to stare at her. "And besides, swimming at night—ah— affects my stuns—as you once used to know. But you—why did you come back? You—you forgot something?"

She was smiling faintly; her dark eyes derided him.

"I almost forgot myself, if you count that! But not, in your sense. I'm not forgetful, only punitive. My stuns is sound, but my temper uncertain. So I didn't go. A sweet night, isn't it? Well—"

"But—what is it? Why, what happened?"

"Oh, that. Yes, to be sure. I was unexpectedly kissed, you see. In the dark behind the boathouse, just as we were ready to start—oh, most ferociously, I assure you. Really that made me angry, though of course not so angry as I seemed. So I'm letting him paddle himself over alone."

Her husband's dim, heavy face seemed to darken. "Him? Who was it?"

"My dear Horace, you'll agree that kissing and telling isn't quite the act of a lady? No, no! But I'm interrupting your reverie."

"Not—tell me! I—I want to know."

"Your air of interest is awfully civil, Horace. But I can't really believe that you've begun at this late day to take an interest in my private life!"

Her merriment exasperated him, clearly.

"Howard Witheredge, I suppose—don't his impudence! What you can see in that—"

"Oh, name me no names, please! And the incident's really not worth mentioning—I'm merely disciplining a beau, that's all. So we two have the pretty wilds all to ourselves, only think! Charming! conjugal! But he dresses—goodby!"

"No, no! Don't go. I—"

Having controlled himself with an obvious effort, the man resumed with awkward carelessness:

"Ah—it seems too bad for you to miss your moonlight dip, when you enjoy it so—merely on account of the behavior of an alcoholic cad. I was about to say—I'll paddle you over to the lighthouse myself."

She eyed him quizzically and all at once was aware of the beating of her heart!

The two stood close together, in the darkness and beauty of the woods. The man's ponderous dignity was manifestly a little strained. Why? For a long time past, indeed, it had been evident that she had undermined his case in their relationship. For weeks she had been conscious, in her withdrawals and through the silences that she had made so common between them, that he regarded her with a new attentiveness. But he had stopped there; his pride—or some cowardice perhaps—had restrained him from word or act. Was it the romantic solitude now, and the sudden sight of her in her wood-nymph's guise? Was it the thought of those kisses she had just taken from another? What? Into her husband's eyes had come a look she had not seen these three years; and she wondered suddenly if, here and now, beyond all calculation, her great moment had come at last.

But do you think that she would yield anything to him? Not she.

Ironically grave, she answered: "You are always kind, Horace. But of course I'd not dream of imposing on you that way."

"No imposition at all. I'd enjoy it. We find ourselves deserted—each by our own choice—what more logical than to join forces, eh?"

"Logical!"

"And—and pleasant," said he with his labored lightness. "Why not? Or—if you don't care to join the party now—after what happened—why, we might just paddle about for a while. The night—the night's fine," said Horace.

"Canoeing in the moonlight with one's husband! My dear man, do you want to make me the laughing stock of the county?"

Her laughter, thrilling unexpectedly, took him quite aback; stung him, too, as she saw with pleasure.

"A very little of that sort of thing," said she, "and gossip would soon begin connecting our names!"

"I don't think you run many risks of that," he retorted, with marked stiffness. "And I wish you'd cease this—this extravagant way of talking—it's provoking. Now come along. I—we'll enjoy it."

"On the contrary, I should die of shame."

"You're being absurd. Come!"

"A thousand thanks, but no."

There was a silence. The breeze fluttered her long hair.

"I see you actually prefer the society of drunken male flirts to that of—"

"He finished, all but impulsively for him: 'I'm sure you can't realize, Laurel, how little we actually see of each other—these days.'"

"Ah, but did she not realize!"

She leaned back against the slender bole of a white birch and stared up at him, liquid-eyed.

"How little! Why, Horace—good gracious! That's literally all I can say—good gracious! Seven days a week under the same roof, but separated a single day in—"

"I know, I know," he said in another tone, embarrassed. "It seems odd, I own—I'd hardly think it was possible. And still . . . I was of course sure you weren't conscious of it, but—"

He hesitated, peering at her with his short-sighted eyes; and then the natural man let go a little more of the unnatural constraint.

"Why, Laurel! You go out somewhere every evening, with or without me, or if you don't go out, you have people in. At odd moments, when there are, in the little between times, as I might term them, you're always reading, or studying, or practicing something, or else you're writing letters or you have a headache. Saturdays and Sundays and usually week days, too, you have people staying in the house, all over the place. Noise and dancing and parties and rushing about—never a quiet moment—of just the domestic sort—"

"You certainly make it sound different from the home life of our dear Queen! I'd no idea it was so bad as that—"

"I understand it, if anything. But—well, we won't go into it now. My point is, here, by chance, we have a quiet hour for once—charming nature and no noise—no drunks. Well, don't

FORD NEWS STORY

Ford Motor Company, Detroit, Mich.

Disabled world-war veterans of Michigan have welcomed the offer recently made by the Henry Ford Hospital and already more than fifty are undergoing treatment at the big institution.

All of the veterans are admitted in the same manner as private patients and are treated on exactly the same basis. They are entitled to and receive the same quality of service and are distributed in the various units in the hospital according to the availability of rooms.

The first thought was to open a special unit for these men, but the hospital officials on consideration felt the men would be better satisfied if they were distributed throughout the hospital with the other patients and accordingly this plan was carried out.

Arrangements for opening the hospital services free of any charge to all disabled veterans of Michigan needing treatment were made a few weeks ago at a meeting between Alvin

M. Owsley, National Commander of the American Legion, Henry Ford, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, and Dr. Harkness, State Commander of the American Legion.

The arrangements for the care of the disabled veterans continue in effect until December 31, 1923. If at that time Congress has not passed necessary legislation to afford hospitalization of ex-service men the matter will come up for further discussion and the agreement renewed for another definite period.

The ex-service men are admitted following recommendation by the Welfare Office of the American Legion in Detroit.

Another arrangement also has been effected between the Legion and the Henry Ford Hospital whereby in extreme cases of destitute families of former service men their children needing hospitalization will be treated when designated by the Legion office.

It Saves Lawsuits

"Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing," writes a business man, "if everyone carried out this idea?"

Here it is:

Put all business agreements in writing. Many misunderstandings arise from the loose manner in which business matters are talked over. Each party naturally puts his own construction on the conversation. The matter is dismissed with the words, "all right." Frequently it turns out all wrong and becomes a question for the courts to decide.

A large proportion of the business litigation of the country would be avoided if all agreements were put in black and white.—Mason's Monthly.

And there is no better way in the world to "put it in writing" than on an Oliver Typewriter. You cannot only "put it in writing" handsomely and conveniently, but you can keep an exact copy of that writing.

May we show you this matchless machine, and tell you how easy it is to own one?

"Rescue Randall" Is Title Bestowed on Captain Because of His Heroic Stunts

Captain A. B. Randall

New York, June 21—"Rescue Randall" is the name by which men in shipping circles in this port, Bremen and Southampton now style Captain A. B. Randall of the President Fillmore of the United States Lines.

And they use the title with deference and respect, in recognition of the fact that the smiling, debonaire skipper of the United States liner has established a record in the saving of lives at sea which is the talk of the maritime world.

WHO WAS JOHN PAUL JONES?

A VISIT to the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md., will almost certainly include at least a moment's pause before the magnificent crypt where lies what are supposed to be the remains of the first and one of the greatest of America's naval heroes—John Paul Jones. But an examination of the facts in the case will show that there is as much doubt as to whether this is really the body of the American commander as there is about the true identity of this personage, whose career from birth to death is one of the unsolved riddles of the Revolutionary war.

In the first place, "Jones" was not the real name of this hero, but one adopted by him in later years. He was born with the name "John Paul" and there is much doubt as to whether he was the true or the adopted son of the Scotch gardener in whose cottage he spent the first 12 years of his life.

Crawford, author of "The Sailor Whom England Feared" and one of the leading authorities on the life of John Paul Jones, admits that "mystery surrounded his origin with an impenetrable veil" and that he encountered great difficulties in his efforts to sift the false from the true, the legend from the fact.

The generally accepted story is that John Paul was born in the little village of Arbigland and that his father was a poor man, half gardener and half fisherman, while his mother was of pure Highland stock.
But Crawford expresses more than a doubt that the Pauls were really the boy's parents, but has been unable to delve further into the mystery.

John Paul's brother was adopted by a Virginia planter by the name of Jones and, when this planter died he left his estate to his adopted son upon condition that he take the name name.
The brother, in turn, died shortly afterward, leaving the property to John Paul upon the same condition. Thus John Paul became John Paul Jones, the name by which he is known and revered.

When, after his memorable naval exploits, John Paul Jones finally died in France his death was practically unnoticed in America and the only record of the place of his burial was that left by a friend, for use, as he said, "If America should ever wish to perform her duty to the one to whom she owed the most."

Whether this memorandum of the grave was correct is a matter which caused much discussion about a century afterward when Gen. Horace Porter, American ambassador to France, discovered after a long search what was alleged to be the body of John Paul Jones, exceptionally well preserved in a leaden casket filled with alcohol. The measurements of the body compared exactly with those in the possession of the Navy department at Washington, but the total absence of other distinguishing marks raised a doubt as to the real identity of the body—though United States officials agreed to treat it as if it were the real remains of the naval hero.

A squadron was sent to France to escort the body home and France paid great official honor to the man who,
a century before, had fought with distinction under many flags. When the casket finally reached the United States it was received with much pomp and ceremony and conducted to the cradle of the American navy at Annapolis—where it remained in ob-scurety under a flight of steps for many months awaiting the completion of its final resting place.

But there is doubt in the minds of many as to whether this is actually the body of the famous commander of the "Bon Homme Richard," just as there will always be a mystery surrounding the actual identity of the man who commenced life as John Paul, the son of a Scotch gardener.

Wisconsin Industrial Commission

The justice of penalizing individual effectively argued in the following brief bulletin issued by the industrial commission of Wisconsin:

A crook robs a national bank of $5-000,000. The entire police powers of the state and nation are put to work to apprehend him.

A man deliberately sets fire to a grain elevator in which $1,000,000 worth of grain is stored. Some fire marshals' deputy alone and unaided, investigates this fire in the hope of discovering sufficient evidence to bring the guilty man to trial, perhaps before a jury prejudiced against circumstantial evidence.

A man's sheer carelessness causes a fire which destroys $1,000,000 worth of his neighbor's property. Nothing is done to punish this man; actually a certain amount of misplaced sympathy is wasted on him because of his own loss.

Why this widely different public attitude in these three cases? asks that his neighbor's property. Nothing is done to punish this man; actually a certain amount of misplaced sympathy is wasted on him because of his own loss.

The robber can be trusted to put the stolen money into circulation and,
from the economic standpoint, the country as a whole will have lost nothing.

In the other two cases $1,000,000 worth of wealth is destroyed and the country is just that much poorer. The people, not insurance companies, will pay for this loss in larger insurance premiums and higher costs of everything. If the fire marshal's deputy is fortunate enough to prove guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt" the man is punished; but nothing is done to the man in the third case; although the effect in the last two cases on the community and country is the same.

It is right that the robber and the incendiary should be punished; it is wrong that the man whose absolute carelessness has caused a like injury should go unpunished. Under the Code Napoleon such a man must reimburse his neighbors for their loss and he insures for such contingency.

to Any Community.

A communication to the Kansas City Star says:
"No time to clean up now," says
Dr. E. H. Bullock. When there are piles of rubbish and trash around the city, must we wait until May 1 to dispose of them? Is that modern health theory? Is not prevention the best cure?

Our vacant lots are alive with trash
—it blows in our eyes and throats, it is in evidence wherever we go in certain districts. The town is alive with trash now, why wait until May to clean it up? Do we take a bath only once a year? Are we not compelled to wash our faces and hands a dozen times a day for the dirt and soot?

Any time dirt and trash accumulate is clean-up time. You cannot keep up with dirt, unless you clean up as you go along, same as with garbage or any kind of housekeeping.

FACTORIES ARE WORKING NIGHT AND DAY TO MANUFACTURE TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT FOR SOUTH JERSEY

And as fast as we get it, we are placing it in service.

For New Jersey is growing.

And her people need telephones—more and more telephones.

They are demanding them so that business will not be hampered by a lack of communication facilities.

It's our duty to furnish these telephones, together with the switchboards, wire, building construction, and central office equipment that are required for their operation.

Some people are still waiting for service, but we are making every effort to place the needed equipment so that everybody in South Jersey who needs telephone service can have it.

FARE REPORT TO BE CONTESTED

Utilities Board and Cities Will Take Exception to Haight's Recommendations.

FILE BRIEFS WITH COURT

New Jersey Prisoners to Make Auto
Tags for Virginia—State Receives Contract for 240,000 Pairs of Motor Vehicle License Plates.

Trenton.—exceptions to the report of Special Master Thomas G. Haight for the United States District Court in the injunction proceedings of Public Service Railway Company against the Public Utility Commission will be prepared at a conference of counsel for the commission and interested municipalities. The conference will probably take place at the board rooms in the Elmer building, Newark.

Mr. Edward Herman, special counsel for the commission, at his office in Jersey City said he could not indicate the nature of exceptions which will be made, as only matters of policy have been considered up to the present time. The meeting with the commission was simply to determine the policy of the board, he added, rather than to outline the character of the legal fight which it is proposed to make against the master's findings of constitutionality.

After the proposed conference with his colleagues—Frank H. Sommer, counsel for Newark, and George L. Record for Jersey City, Paterson and other municipalities—Mr. Herman declared, statement will be given to the press by the full council.

Federal Jurisdiction
The question of Federal jurisdiction was the only one discussed by the board in the statement of policy issued. In announcing its purpose to "oppose the confirmation of the report before the Federal court and if necessary to take an appeal to the United States Supreme Court" the commission stated:

"The board feels that the policy of State regulation is at stake. If a judge of a Federal Court can set aside the acts of the board, and in effect fix a rate, as was done in this case, the legislative power of rate fixing is at an end."

This question of Federal jurisdiction was discussed in some detail by Mr. Haight, in his report, the special master expressing the belief that the reason for the appeal to the Federal Court was generally misunderstood. In a chapter on General Rules of Law, he says:

"In view of the public interest in this case, and what I think is a general misconception on the part of the public of the reason why a Federal Court has taken jurisdiction thereof, I feel that reference should be made to some general rules of law applicable to this kind of a case."

Fair Return
"The plaintiff is entitled to earn a fair return upon the fair or reasonable value of its property devoted to the public use (except as may be qualified by the reasonable worth of the service a feature, hereinafter discussed), and any rate of fare prescribed by the State or an agency thereof which fails to produce such a return would effect a confiscation of its property in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution."

"When the jurisdiction of a Federal Court is invoked on the ground that such a rate is confiscatory, the court has no discretion in the matter, but must entertain the suit, and if it finds the rate confiscatory it must enjoin its enforcement. As was said by the United States Supreme Court in Willcox vs. Consolidated Gas Company, 'There is no discretion or comity about it. When a Federal court is properly appealed to in a case over which it has by law jurisdiction, it is its duty to take such jurisdiction.'

"Free From Doubt"
"The Federal Court, however, will not set aside or enjoin the enforcement of rates prescribed by a state or an agency thereof, except in clear cases or, as it is sometimes expressed, those reasonably free from doubt."

"As a corollary of this rule, it seems to me that all intermediate questions of fact, about which there is a real doubt should be resolved against the plaintiff. I have been governed in arriving at my conclusions by such a rule."

"The value of the plaintiff's property which is to be used for determining whether the rate complained of is confiscatory is not the original cost of such property, but the value thereof at the time of inquiry, or, in other words, present value."

"Insofar as present value may represent appreciation over original cost due to a general increase in prices of labor and materials, the basing of a rate upon present value does nothing more than compensate the utility corporation for the decrease which has taken place in the purchasing power of a dollar."

A number of citations are given in support of the four rules of law.

Auto Tags for Virginia
Inmates of the New Jersey State Prison will be engaged in the near future in the manufacture of 240,000 pairs of motor vehicle license tags for the state of Virginia. New Jersey's bid, the lowest for the 1924 plates, was sixteen and one-half cents for the small size and eighteen and one-half cents for the large size.

Announcement to this effect was made by Commissioner Lewis of the Department of Institutions and Agencies. Mr. Lewis stated that the contract was obtained as the result of negotiations between the purchasing department, officials of Virginia and the Department of Institutions. It was learned from the purchasing department that those in charge of the industries at the prison will increase the force and also increase the working hours from an eight-hour shift to two shifts of eight hours each, and in this way hasten the production of the plates.

Mr. Lewis stated that the Virginia plates are about half the weight of those produced for New Jersey and also that not as many coats of enamel would be required for the Southern plates.

"At the time the automobile license tag plant was installed in the prison," Mr. Lewis stated, "it was understood that eventually the state would undertake to manufacture tags for other states. It is agreed generally that the tags manufactured in New Jersey State prison are the best on the market. No pair of them has ever been returned to be re-manufactured."

"The work will furnish full time for from forty to sixty additional prisoners continuously and will allow us to pay wages to an additional number of prisoners, which can be used for the benefit of themselves and their dependents while they are serving their terms."

"Dirt is flying on the Bordentown-Crosswicks Creek out-of and every one is highly pleased with the way the thirty-seven prisoners are working and with the co-operation we are getting from the principal keeper of the prison," Mr. Lewis's statement adds.

Mathis Bill Inquiry
Testimony of seven members of the Assembly taken before Supreme Court Commissioner Theodore Backes relative to their recorded affirmative votes for the Mathis bill adding a state highway route from Camden to Toma River, resulted in positive assertions by four members that they had voted for the bill as recorded. One member said that he had not voted for it, one that he had no reason to question the record and another that he was not certain whether he had voted or not.

The four members testifying unequivocally that they had voted for the bill were Adams of Essex, Gibbs of Camden, Campbell of Monmouth, and McCullough of Somerset. The one who stated with equal certainty that he had not voted for the bill was Mr. Compton of Union. Mr. Dater of Bergen said he had no reason to question the record of his vote for the bill and Mr. DeLorenzo, also of Bergen, could not recollect whether or not he was actually in the chamber when the vote was taken.

Mr. Compton, the first witness examined at the inquiry, testified he had left the state house in time to catch the 8:45 train. He was positive the vote on the Mathis bill had not been taken before he left and that he was incorrectly recorded as having voted for it.

Positive He Did Not Vote
"Are you sure?" Mr. Compton was asked with respect to his statement that he left before the vote was taken.

"Absolutely," was the reply.
Mr. Compton also said he had made a record of Republican caucus measures and the Mathis bill, Senate 118, did not appear on his list as one of them.

Mr. Campbell stated categorically he had voted for the bill. Mr. Dater admitted he had no recollection of the Mathis bill coming up while he was in the Assembly chamber. He said he had been excused about 8 o'clock in the evening, the House being then under call, but had not left the chamber until some time later. He could not say definitely when he did leave, but was certain he had taken the same train as Assemblymen Cliff and Passcoe, both of Union, neither of whom was recorded as voting on the Mathis measure. Mr. Dater said he had voted for the Mathis bill when it first passed and had no reason to question the record, indicating he had again supported it when it came up over the Governor's veto. He said it was the intention of Bergen county to support all road bills, as the county had its own measures in which it was interested.

"A case of 'you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours,'" suggested Assistant Attorney General William Nowcorn, who was conducting the examination of witnesses.

"I wouldn't say that," replied Mr. Dater. "We got ours and we're keeping faith."

De Lorenzo Sheds No Light
Mr. De Lorenzo could shed no light upon the accuracy of the record listing him affirmatively. He did not recall the bill being brought up while he was in the assembly chamber and said he might have been present at the time or not. He did not recall remaining at the State House until final adjournment that night and denied having been on the same train with Mr. Dater. Neither had he any recollection of having been asked by a News representative as to the train he had taken.

Mr. McCullough said he had confused the Mathis bill with a Burlington county measure when previously questioned as to his vote. He testified he was in the clerk's office at the time when the late Captain James Parker, the assistant clerk, came into the office and asked Upton S. Jeffreys, the clerk, for a bill which he received and took to the speaker's desk. Without knowing definitely what this bill was Mr. McCullough said he assumed it was the Mathis measure which was taken up shortly afterwards and voted upon.

Trees.
Five trees are being cut down for every one grown in New York state. This warning comes from Alexander Macdonald, who devotes his time working for conservation of forests in 1890 New York ranked first in lumber production. Now it is twenty-third in line. Western lumber states will have much the same story to report not many years from now, unless more trees are planted.

A treeless America is quite as possible as the extinction of the buffalo and passenger pigeon.—Aurora Beacon-News.

Concrete Old Building Material.
The precedent for the use of concrete is at least 2,000 years old, structures of old Rome having dressed masonry facing on a concrete core. On exposed foundations of many ancient structures may be seen the board marks of forms, just as on concrete buildings erected now in the metropolitan district, says the New York Times.

This material, withstanding the ravages of 2,000 years, is easily available in the form of concrete block or tile. Building department lists show nearly 900 manufacturers of concrete units in Brooklyn alone, and there is probably an equal number in Queens.

Water Consumers

The long-continued drought, with reports from other towns of water shortage, has not affected our supply. It has, however, taxed our pumping capacity to its utmost, as for the last three weeks we have been pumping three times the normal amount consumed.

In order to prevent what might be a serious condition in the event of fire, we regret the necessity of reminding some of our consumers that their contract with the Water Company allows the use of sprinklers or hose for only three hours per day. In justice to the majority, who have observed their agreement, we will be forced to shut off the supply of water to anyone found violating this clause in the contract, and will not resume the service until payment has been made at fountain rates.

Do you know that there is practically no genuine liquor sold by the Bootlegger and that the "real thing" he delivers in all probability contains virulent poison?

If you doubt this come around Monday, June 25th, and be convinced. Dr. Kendig will present a picture of the inside of the Bootlegging business which will amaze you. He will tell the results of analyses, and just how "fine old stock" is made from poisonous compounds, and of the effect when consumed. If time permits he will demonstrate the presence of poisons in Bootlegger products by chemical tests.

Scouting is for every boy. There are troops of boys with all their faculties and troops of deaf, dumb, blind and crippled scouts. Sick or well, "a boy is a boy for a that," with the same hopes and ambitions.

At the Westfield (Mass.) Sanitarium for Tuberculosis, a most successful troop of 75 boys is in operation.

The patient scouts hail with glee their instructors when they come to the sanitarium, and because the scouts have the entire week to study up, they have become very proficient in all tests, passing except hiking and swimming which are beyond their strength, and keep their corps of examiners very busy.

Authorities say the program has meant much to boys in their illness, because of the emphasis on cheerfulness, thought for others, out-of-door life and its incentive, to a boy to keep physically fit, mentally awake and morally straight.

When a scout is cured, the sanitarium keeps in touch with the local scout executive, sees that the boy gets into a troop in his home town so that he will continue his out-of-door life, and become what scouting would have him, a sturdy man fitted for citizenship responsibilities.

Real Carefulness.

A St. Louis girl who went to Merrimac highlands for a swim was seen to stand on the end of the diving board and assume the correct position for a dive when she noticed that she had forgotten to remove her wrist watch. She stepped back, took off the timepiece, placed it in the pocket of her bathing suit and plunged into the water.

Parry

A children's festival will be held in the Moravian Church next Sunday evening, at 7.30. This is a distinctive Moravian service and is very popular in many parts of the country. The first half of the service will be conducted in the church building, with the children taking part in song, recitation and exercises. Then there will be a procession to the front lawn of the church where the last part of the service will be presented. A printed program will be used for the lawn service so everyone attending may participate. There will also be baptism of infants. The public is cordially invited to attend his unique service. The Willing Workers will sew in the church all day Thursday, June 28th.

The Rev. C. Nelson Sperling and family spent Tuesday of this week at Willow Grove.

The Ladies Aid of the Fifth Moravian Church, Philadelphia, held its annual picnic on the lawn of the Moravian Church, Parry, on last Saturday. A fine day and a wonderful time marked the occasion.

Asbury

The annual Sunday School picnic will be held on Saturday, at Rancho Park; cars leaving church at 8 a.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dallas and son, of Milwaukee, Wis., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Charles Hullings, of New Albany.

Mrs. Thomas Hunter attended the funeral of her cousin, Richard C. Gennett, aged 45, of 134 Hullings avenue, Riverside, on Saturday afternoon. He was a member of several organizations. He is survived by a mother, father, a wife, three children and a number of brothers and sisters. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gennett, Sr., of Bridgeboro. Interment was in Odd Fellows cemetery, at Burlington.

Andrew Oliver and William Yerkes, two prominent young men of Cinnaminson, met with an accident while riding their bicycles on Wednesday evening of last week. Just after they passed the Asbury Church, one of the young men started to turn to the side of the road, and the other one turning at the same time ran into him. They were not hurt, but the front wheel of one of the bicycles was wrecked.

Prayer meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Calvin Stowe, Bellevue avenue.

The exercises held in the auditorium of the new school building on Monday evening, June 18, were largely attended. The audience appreciated the efforts of all those who took part in the program. Three of the members of the graduating class of Westfield school were members of the Sunshine Class. They are Claire Dinges, Helen Enskat and Palma Bonitelli. Helen Southwick was a pink rose in the play entitled "The Wedding of the Buttercup and Daisy." Among those present were the following of this vicinity: Herman Evans, Edna and family, Mrs. Bonitelli, Palma and Rocky; Samuel and Freeman Hunter, Charles Jessup and sons, Edward and Amos, and daughter, Miss Elizabeth; Misses Louisa, Ada and Helen Southwick.

Three young men whose homes are located on the White Horse pike, two miles below Camden, were motoring to Burlington on Saturday evening, when the car became disabled in the rear axle. They had to leave it at Asbury and go by trolley the rest of the journey. They returned on Sunday morning to fix the car, but as their car was a Paige they could not secure all the desired parts needed to repair it, and they had to leave it until Monday morning. Edward Herbert, a friend of the owner of the car, started on his way and had almost reached Asbury at 8 a. m. Monday when the crank shaft of his car broke and he had to go to Vine street, Philadelphia, for a new one, as his car was a Jewett. He fixed his car and returned at noon and fixed the Paige, so they could start for home by 4.30 p. m. They had almost reached Cinnaminson, when it refused to go. When last seen at 7.30 p. m. the Paige was being towed by the Jewett towards Moorestown.

Graduation at the Westfield Public School

The closing exercises of the Westfield public school were held in the new school house at Cinnaminson on Monday evening, June 18th, at eight o'clock. Although the entire building has not been completed, the auditorium was ready for use and the large crowd of people present added to the interest of the exercises. The auditorium seats four hundred and every seat was occupied, showing that the community at large is interested in the activities of the school.

The room and stage were decorated with two large American flags presented by friends of the school, and flowers which were given by Mrs. Charles Evans. The footlights were a great advantage in giving the stage a fine appearance. The stage was screened by long trailers of colored crepe paper cut in stripes.

The first part of the program was devoted to the children in the lower grades. A musical opera entitled "The Wedding of Daisy and Buttercup" was presented. The costumes for this little play were made by the children and the entire effect was most pleasing.

Eighteen members of the eighth grade received diplomas. Songs, recitations, compositions and musical selections were delivered by the graduating class. Henry Bartlett, formerly with the Friends' Select School, of Philadelphia, (and one of the teachers of Charles Evans) addressed the class. Louis J. Kaser, county superintendent, spoke to those present about the future policy of the school, following which Charles Evans, president of the Board of Education, presented diplomas.

It is hoped that many such occasions will take place in the future, so that all planning and working together, the children, teachers, parents and friends of the school may work for the best interest of education throughout the community.

Ruth Aydelotte rendered a violin solo, and an essay on Sponges was delivered by Helen Enskat. Lolla Johnson read an article on China and its development. The class presented an American flag to the school as a token of remembrance. They also presented Miss Bryan and Miss Horton with bougainvillee and reading desk lamps respectively. Charles Evans then presented Palma Bonitelli, William Downs, Dorothy Shea and Claire Bell with awards for having attended school during the year without absence or tardiness.

son, and then it seemed almost too good to be true to have the same team reverse the tables in such a manner. The attendance was not quite so large as usual. The locals will play at home every Saturday afternoon.

Luther W. Perkins

Luther W. Perkins, for many years the editor of the Beverly Banner, died in the Burlington County hospital, Mount Holly, Tuesday night, where he had been taken for treatment the night before. In 1877 he founded the Weekly Visitor in Beverly and printed it for some time. In 1879, together with Karl Haffey, he founded the Beverly Banner. Three years later he bought out Haffey's interest and continued as the sole owner. A short time ago the paper was taken over by R. A. Horner and G. A. Hoelz, Jr., who are now publishing it.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 426 Cooper street, Beverly, on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, with the services in charge of the Masonic Lodge. Interment in Monument cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his widow and one son, Edgar Perkins.

PLAN BIG FOURTH CELEBRATION

Riverton Yacht Club to Co-operate With Borough Council in Elaborate Program

The meeting of the Riverton Borough Council last Thursday night was held at the home of the Mayor, owing to Mr. Bennett's illness, which would have prevented him from attending the meeting in the Council Chamber. The Fourth of July Committee reported that it had been in conference with the Fourth of July Committee of the Riverton Yacht Club, and it had been arranged to have the pier open to the public all day. The old club house at the end of the pier, however, owing to its unsafe condition, will be absolutely closed to everyone. An invitation was extended to the Mayor and members of the Council to enjoy the privileges of the new club house, 605 Bank avenue, during the day.

The highway committee reported that Church Lane was being graded and gravelled, and that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had placed a flagman at the Thomas avenue crossing.

The fire and water committee reported that the new siren had arrived and had been placed in position.

The chief of police submitted a written report of the activities of his department during the past month.

The memorial committee reported that the Borough attorneys were working on deeds for the transfer of the ownership of the River tract to be converted into a memorial park.

A motion was passed placing in the hands of the chief of police the authority to grant permission for the operation of musical stands on the river bank Fourth of July.

A resolution was passed giving George D. Steedle permission to operate another bus in the Borough of Riverton.

The property committee was instructed to have the flagpole painted and necessary repairs made before the Fourth of July, at which time it is planned to have a flag raising, with appropriate exercises.

The suggestion that a suitable booth be purchased for the police department, to be placed at the intersection of Broad and Main streets, was referred to the police committee with power to act.

L. G. E. Anniversary

Palmyra Temple, No. 11, L. G. E., celebrated its fourteenth anniversary on June 7th with an entertainment and social gathering. The address of the evening was made by Mrs. LePier, Noble Templar, of Palmyra. Recitations, instrumental and vocal solos were rendered by Miss Ruth Hansen, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams and Miss Ruth Lutz. A play "How the Story Grew," given by eight Past Templars, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, Mrs. Maria Ellison, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. King, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Lutz, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Murphy, was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. About 120 attended the anniversary, including members from Trenton, Paulsboro, Gloucester, Florence, Burlington, Audubon and Camden.

After the play there was a social and refreshments were served. We would like to see members to be present tonight (Thursday) for the election of officers.

Mrs. Maria Ellison, Secretary.

Burlington County Hospital Gets $30,000

The endowment fund of the Burlington County Hospital has just been enriched by a gift and a bequest, the two totaling $30,000, the donors being Miss Mary A. Dobbins, of Philadelphia, and the estate of A. Howard Merritt, also of Philadelphia, but formerly a Mount Holly boy.

R. AND P. WIN BY BIG RALLY

Six Runs in Ninth Pull Game Out of Fire for Locals

The Palmyra and Riverton team staged a rally in the ninth inning of their game with the strong Kensington nine last Saturday, which enabled the locals to win by a score of 8 to 6.
The thrilling affair was staged on The Field Club grounds amid the loud applause of the many fans, who always enjoy a ninth inning rally, especially if our own boys do the rallying.

Harry Kemmerle, the faithful old slugger who has won much local fame on the same line in which "Babe" Ruth stars, led the P. and R. bunch in this. Harry had three singles.
He was closely followed by Andrews, Baker, and Bennett. Each of these gentlemen found Dillon, the Kensington moundman, for two hits. The locals who had one hit each were Russ Gibson, the boy who is handling the hot corner the best he has done for some years, Buddy Mathews, who plays a sweet game at short, the old reliable Herb Kemmerle, of the left garden, Wally Schang's brother, who is still receiving for Eddie, and Pete Leibert, our twirler who can be relied upon to win if he has the required support.

Leibert struck out five Kensingtonians, while Russ Gibson was the only local to return to the bench via the "fanning route." "Gibby" let this occur only once.

Russ crossed the plate for the first local tally in round number one.
Kensington scored its first in the fourth frame and again in the fifth.
Then the P. and R. bunch made another run in the sixth, tying the score.
After the eighth frame things looked very sad indeed for the Palmyra and Riverton boys, for Kensington scored four more runs with another in the ninth.

But P. and R. staged a fighting finish and hammered six out of their own in the final inning. Only one man was out when Leibert crossed the plate for the winning tally. Gibson, Mathews, Andrews, Baker, Herb Kemmerle and Leibert participated in the rally and each scored for Palmyra.

"Gibby," Mathews and Baker each made an error a piece. Moffitt and Haigh, of Kensington, also had errors scored against them.

Kensington had the advantage over the locals so far as hits went. They were credited with 17 to Palmyra's 14.

BOLT DESTROYS BARN

Highland Avenue Fire During Storm Witnessed by Hundreds

Lightning set fire to a barn on George Ross's farm on Highland avenue during the storm Sunday night about 10 o'clock.

The Riverton fire company received the call and soon had all three of its engines on the scene although it was impossible to save the structure. It collapsed not more than five minutes after the alarm had been received.

Many thought the Palmyra company should have made a quicker run to the fire but its delay was due to not receiving an alarm.

It seemed that nearly everybody owning a car went to the fire, taking their family and most of their neighbors. It is estimated that a thousand or more people witnessed the blaze.

The barn contained only a few old farm implements, together with a cat and a litter of young kittens which perished in the flames.

Mrs. Charles H. Folwell

Toxic poisoning ascribed to an infected tooth caused the death of Mrs.
Mary Neil Folwell, wife of Charles
H. Folwell, editor of the Mount Holly
Record, at her home 343 Main street,
Mount Holly, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Folwell had been ill only a week. At first it was thought she was threatened with typhoid fever, but the culture which was taken showed no trace of the disease. Then it was believed by the physicians that her system had become poisoned by the infected tooth.

Mrs. Folwell was fifty years old.
Only a short time ago there was a reception in celebration of the anniversary.

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Fol-well was Miss Mary Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Neil, of Hagerstown, Maryland. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and several other organizations that had to do with historical and welfare work.

Colored Farmers Make Good

Negro farmers and their families in the fifteen Southern States carried to completion, under the advice and direction of agricultural extension workers, in 1922, 85,000 demonstrations in approved methods of crop growing, management of live stock, food production and preservation, nutrition and care of clothing, and home management, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Seventy-nine per cent. of the growing cotton in the United States last year was destroyed by the boll weevil.

Waterloo

Of! when from History's pages
To our own lives we turn,
Some lessons for the present
The thoughtful soul may learn;
And e'en the gory record
Of "Man's inhuman strife"
May yield some inspiration
In realms of higher life.

My mind is turning backward
To that eventful day
When French and British armies
Were massed in grim array
When iron throated cannon
Their deadly showers poured;
Where shot and shell were flying,
Where gleamed the lance and sword.

I see the mighty squadrons
Arrayed in glittering steel!
I see the host of Britain
Before their onset reel!
The "Iron Duke" is standing Unmoved—amid the fray:
But almost in a whisper—
Methinks, I hear him say:
"Will Blucher come at sunset?
Will Prussia's arms be true?
Will Blucher bring us victory
To-day—at Waterloo?"

I see "the Guard Imperial"
Come—like the Ocean wave—
Behind their great commander
"The Bravest of the Brave!"
Stand firm ye sons of Britain!
Defend this sacred field!
Stand fast ye hardy heroes!
You'd better die than yield!

But now your succor cometh,
You shall not suffer loss,
I see the "Prussian Eagle"
Beside "Saint George's cross."
I see the French battalions
In wild confusion yield!
I see the host of Britain—
Like lions—sweep the field!

Yes, Blucher came at sunset!
Yes, Prussia's arms were true!
'Twas Blucher brought the victory—
That day, to Waterloo!

Thus, in life's awful conflict,
When foes assail my soul;
When "Wrong's" unseen battalions"
Around my pathway roll,
I know my succor cometh:
I know my aid is near.
God sends me re-inforcements—
I'll never doubt nor fear.
As Blucher came at sunset,
So God to me is true.
And I shall stand triumphant—
Today—at Waterloo!

Men's Club Hears about "What the Bootlegger Delivers"

"What the Bootlegger Delivers and Refreshments Will Be Served" were the attractions advertised for Monday evening's meeting of the Men's Club in Christ Church Parish House, Palmyra.

Quite a large number of members answered the call, weather considered, and gave close attention to the rather long and scientific discussion of the bootlegging business by Doctors Kendall and Kelly, of Temple University.

The speakers declared they had not time to deliver prohibition lectures, but they certainly took some heavy swings at the bootlegging profession.
Rank poison stuff so virulent that it would be almost dangerous to pour it into the sewer, for fear of its eating holes in the terra cotta pipe, was the description given most of the concoction sold to the thirsty public.

The only safety for a drinking man nowadays, said Dr. Kendig, would be to have an expert chemist accompany him at all times to make an analysis of all hooch offered and to be ready with an antidote in case the hooch bottle became so impatient as to explode the stuff before it was properly tested.

While the heat didn't deter the speakers or reduce the audience, the talks were scheduled to supply the entertainment could not make the grade and that part of the program was dis-pensated with.

Refreshments were served, but no chemical analysis was required.
The Men's Club will abandon its meetings during the next two months, reconvening in September.

County Notes

The 17-year locust is expected to appear in New Jersey this year. They will find it poor picking after the Japanese beetle is through with the vegetation.

The Board of Freeholders met in its new board room at Mount Holly last Friday for the first time. The new room is in the rear of the County Treasurer's office. The former board room is to be occupied by Altona Adams, clerk of the board, as an office. An office for the County Engineer has been built in the rear of the new Freeholders' headquarters.

The Stokes Seed Farm Company, of Moorestown, has gone into bankruptcy.

Moorestown has taken up the zoning question which is under consideration by Palmyra's Borough Council and Chamber of Commerce. A meeting was held in Moorestown's town hall last Friday evening at which zoning and the plan of zoning explained in detail by Campbell Scott, president of the Technical Advisory Corporation, of New York. Twenty-six towns in New Jersey have adopted the zoning system in the past three years and report great benefit therefrom.

LESSON FOR JULY 1

JOHN, THE BAPTIST

(May be used with temperance applications.)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:3-8; 7:34-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—"He shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall drink neither wine nor strong drink."
—Luke 1:15.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt.
3:1-17; 11:1-14; Mal. 3:1-4.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Baby, John.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Man Who Prepared the Way for Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—The Herald of the Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Character and Work of John, the Baptist.

John was a great man. In announcing his birth the angel said,
"He shall be great in the sight of the Lord." He was not only great in the Lord's sight, but was great when measured by the standards of men. In the teaching of this lesson a survey should be made of John's life and work.

I. Birth and Ministry Foretold
(Matt. 3:3; cf. Isa. 40:3).

He was thought about and his work planned long before he was born. He came as God's messenger. His life was a plan of God. He was said to be a man sent from God (John 1:9). There is a sense in which every life is planned—everyone is sent from God.
Everyone should remember that God has something to do with his life.

II. His Character.

1. Humble (Luke 3:4). He did not seek human praise and commendation.
His supreme concern was to proclaim the Christ. He did not make himself prominent—was only a voice calling upon people to prepare for the Messiah. His person and habits were a protest against the luxury and hypocritical formality of his time.

2. Courageous (Luke 3:7). He faced a great multitude and struck hard at their sins. He did not trim his message to suit the crowd. He even denounced the religious leaders of his time and demanded of them fruits worthy of repentance.

III. His Preaching (Luke 3:8-9).

1. Demanded Repentance (vv. 8-9).
Suddenly emerging from his seclusion,
he came into the region of the Jordan as a messenger of God, calling upon the people to repent in preparation for the coming of the Messiah.

2. Demanded Fruits of Penitence
(vv. 7, 9). He insisted that false religions be abandoned—their sinful hearts renovated—showed them that the vile passions of their souls must be uprooted. A change of mind, that is, the turning of the soul from sin to God, was necessary. This is a preparation which must be made before one can see and experience the salvation of God.

IV. Jesus' Testimony to John (Luke 7:24-25). Because John did not use the interval between the "sufferings of Christ" and the "glory that should follow" he was perplexed. Therefore he sent a deputation to Jesus for light.
The prophets did not see, or at least did not make clear, the interval between the crucifixion of Christ and His second coming. The two events were so presented as to appear to be in close succession. John in his preaching had stressed the mighty judgments which should take place at the appearance of the Messiah. The turn things were taking (he himself being imprisoned with the gloomy prospect of death), was in great contrast to the coming of the Messiah in very judgment—"the ax is laid unto the root of the trees" and "the chaff is burned up with unquenchable fire" (Matt. 3:10, 12). The trend of events puzzled him. It was not lack of faith, but confusion of mind that prompted his inquiry.

Christ's testimony defended him against any such accusation. Christ indicated him against a vacillating mind because of the storms of persecution. He was not like a reed shaken by the wind (v. 24). He had lived a "life of self-denial, therefore he did not deny his faith in Christ because of the dungeon (v. 25). Jesus declared that no greater prophet had arisen. That which perplexed John was the delay in judgment—the day of God's patience while gathering out the Church. This was a truth not disclosed to the prophets—that which Paul made known—because a special revelation had been granted (Eph. 3:3).

V. The Martyrdom of John (Mark
6:14-29).

While John was in prison Herod had frequent interviews with him. John boldly told him that it was unlawful for him to have his brother's wife. He did not mince matters even with the king. This so enraged the licentious Herodias that she caused his death. He sealed his testimony with his blood.

Seeking the Name of God.

wrap of paper that comes in their way,
because the name of God may be writ-

God's Plow.

drives through every inch of ground in the world, opening each clod, and pulverizing the whole.—Fuller.

NEW BOAT A WINNER

Crowell's "Charmian" Wins the First Race She Sails in Riverton Waters

Gardner Crowell sailed his new boat to victory last Saturday in the first contest in which it was entered this season. The race was sailed in a smoky southwest, which kept the crews on the jump from start to finish. Crowell was the first to cross the starting line and held the lead throughout the race. Robertson and Showell had a hard-fought battle for third position and the berth looked like Showell's until the finish, when he was passed and beaten by a few feet. The order in which boats finished and their points to date are as follows:

Crowell	7
Mattis	6
Robertson	8
Showell	4

Strohlein-McGivney

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Riverton, on Wednesday morning of this week at nine o'clock, with a high mass, when Miss Mary McGivney, daughter of Mrs. Mary Mooser, became the bride of Mr. John Strohlein, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Strohlein.

The bride wore a gown of white tulle and a tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, roses and orchids. She was attended by her aunt, Miss Margaret McKelvey, of New York, as bridesmaid. She wore a frock of blue crepe de chine, with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The best man was Mr. Adolph Strohlein, brother of the groom. The altar was beautifully decorated with pink and white flowers. Miss Anna W. James played the wedding march, and the solo "Ave Maria" was rendered by Miss Mary E. Steedle.

Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Joseph A. Rigney, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 623 Main street, for the immediate families of the bride and groom. Father Rigney was among the guests at the reception. After an extended wedding trip to Canada and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Strohlein will reside in their new home which has just been completed at 423 Linden avenue.

DEATHS

Paul D. John

Paul D. John, who has been ill for the past four years, passed away at his home in Palmyra on Thursday. Funeral services were held on Saturday from his late residence, 920 Cinnaminson avenue, at two o'clock, Rev. John Dougherty, of Philadelphia, officiating. Interment was made in Greenmount cemetery, Philadelphia.

The deceased is survived by his widow and one daughter.

Mrs. Mary Turner Stuckey

Mrs. Mary Turner Stuckey, died on Friday, in her 59th year, at her home, 428 Linden avenue. Funeral services were held on Monday at 1:30 o'clock from her late residence, Rev. C.W. Williams officiating. Interment was made in Westminster cemetery.

The deceased is survived by three sons, John, William and Lawrence, and a brother, John Finley, all of Riverton.

Alfred Smith, Sr.

While on his way to business in Philadelphia Wednesday afternoon, Alfred Smith, Sr., was taken suddenly ill on the ferry boat. He was taken to the Hahnemann Hospital by an officer, where his condition grew steadily worse, until his death at ten minutes after eight that night.

Mr. Smith had been a resident of Riverton for the past forty-two years, and was a member of the firm of Alfred Smith & Company, bookbinders, 13th and Cherry streets, Philadelphia. The deceased, who was seventy-two years old, is survived by his widow and four children, Alfred Smith, Jr., of Audubon, Mrs. William Hoffman, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Edith Smith, of Riverton.

Riverton Fire Company Enrolls Members

The board of directors of the Riverton Fire Company held a meeting Monday evening. William N. Mattis was elected chief and his son, Orden Mattis, assistant chief. John Carhart was made chief driver of the trucks.

The committee on Burlington County Firemen's Relief Association was elected as follows: William B. Lynch, Ross E. Mattis, Walter Armstrong, Daniel M. Clifton and Fred P. Hemphill.

The following new members of the Fire Company were enrolled: Walter Storick, T. P. Teeple, Leon D. Gray, Charles Seemuller, Lawrence Joyce, Harry Messmer, Howard Elliott. There was some discussion as to the advisability of taking the new apparatus to Mount Holly to compete in the pumping contest, which will be held on Burlington County Firemen's Day (September 14th.)

Sheriff Flagg figured in a slight accident last Sunday afternoon, at Broad and Thomas avenue, Riverton. He was about to cross the railroad tracks when his car was run into from the rear by a car driven by George Anderson, of Walnut Lane, Germantown. Neither car was much damaged.

Twilight League

The Lutheran team of the Twilight league defeated the P. O. S. of A. aggregation to the tune of 9 to 6 at the famous "Razberry Park" last Thursday evening. The Sunday A. C. oh, beg pardon, the Lutherans, found it necessary to use three moundsmen in order to win the contest. "Ray" Lamont twirled for the Patriots while it took Ridgeway, Iron Man Orcutt and Babe Flynn to hurl the church goers to victory. Pete Jenkins was on the receiving end of the game for the winners, while Manager Stockton caught for his team.

Harper, who is employed at the local railroad station, and known as "Hep" made his debut as ball player with the P. O.'s and played a wonderful game.

Lamont had five strike-outs to his credit. Orcutt fanned seven, and out of the six that faced Flynn in the last two innings of the game he struck out five.

The winners scored two runs in the first, three in the fifth, and their last three in frame No. 6. The losers made one in the first, four in fourth and the final tally came in the fifth round.

Lutheran lineup—Bennett 1b, Rodgers 2b, King 3b, Flynn ss and p, R. Polis cf, Sack and Buchholtz 2b, Donaghy ss, Orcutt p, Jenkins c, Ridgeway p, King rf.

P. O. S. of A. lineup—Harper cf, Koppenhoefer 3b, Weikman 1b, T. Coles 2b, Kupperich 1b, S. Matlack 1b, W. Smith ss, Harder cf, Stockton c, Kemmerle rf, and Lamont p.

Baptists Beat K. of C.

Eddie Hoyt again pitched the Baptists to victory last Friday evening when they met one of the new teams in the league, the K. of C. Gorman, former Palmyra High twirler, was on the mound for the Knights. The final score was 4-1.

The winners drew the first, blood by scoring once in the first frame, they again scored twice in the fifth frame and their last tally came in the seventh inning, which was the last inning of the game. The K. of C. made their only run in the seventh.

Hoyt evidently is attempting to follow in the footsteps of his famous namesake, namely Waite Hoyt, of the New York Yankees, for he had the Knights so well under control that fourteen of them returned to the bench victims of his slants and curves. He will establish a Twilight League record. An average of two an inning is some record itself. Gorman, who is only a youngster compared with Hoyt, was only two behind him in strikeouts, for twelve of the Baptists were also "fanning" victims.

Each team had two errors chalked against them. This is also very good considering that these teams are not supposed to be professional players but just fellows out there playing for the fun of the sport.

The Baptists' lineup—Meyer 2b, Vanamburg 1b, A. Hoyt 1b, Gibbon 3b, Mervine ss, Taylor c, Gerkins cf, Harvey rf, E. Hoyt p.

K. of C. lineup—Burns ss, Holvick and Richmond 1b, Price 1b, Wood 3b, B. Hylton 2b, R. Hylton c, Pfaff and B. Holvick cf, Gorman p, J. Hylton and Schuler rf.

GIRL SPRINTER BUSY

Frances Ruppert to Compete with Two World's Champions

Miss Frances Ruppert, Palmyra High School girls' sprint champion and Middle Atlantic 50-yard dash women's champion, will compete in the Daughters of Columbus meet, sanctioned by the A. A. U., to be held at the P. R. Y. M. C. A. field, Forty-fourth and Parkside this Saturday afternoon. She will start on the scratch line with two world's champions, namely the Misses Rose Fisher and Marion McCarty, whose time she has equaled on several occasions but has never been able to better. But this time Miss Ruppert is expected, by many sport critics, to tie if not defeat both of these speedy young ladies.

Our own Frances will also compete in the shot put event, the hurdles and take a local relay team with her. It is expected that many of her Palmyra and Riverton friends will be present at this meet for they would not miss an opportunity of seeing her defeat two world champions and possibly establish a new record. She has been training for this event for some time.

The passing of the years but mark thy course,
Dear cherished land (in all the earth the best)
Upon the far and Christly road
Where all the world shall rise to call thee best.

Thy hamlets and thy farms in sweet content
Dream softly in thy twilight's lingering glow,
Where war may ne'er again be heard Nor alien banner ever dare to flow.

The history of thy past, of slave and lord
Sad chronicle of famine's deadly reign,
Of storm, and red man's barbarous law,
On thy white scroll have left no lasting stain.

But rather shall thy glory shine the more,
To clearly show thy upward-reaching bounds
That mount upon the chastened past,
To tread with joy its ladder's lifting rounds.

Thy cities and thy gallant ships grow fair,
Nor hate nor conquest cloud thy wide domain,
Where love and strength together rule,
A mighty and a heaven-gotten twin.

Oh may thy cloudless sun, dear native land,
That lights the millions' weary path,
Where peace and justice spread a healing balm, Ne'er darkly set in shadow of thy wrath.

—Maude de Verso Newton.

Several hundred men stood in the heat of a July afternoon idly watching the work of excavating the cellar for the great office building which is to stand on the site of the old Province house on Washington street in Boston. They crowded around the board fence, two and three deep, looking down into the hole where steam drills bored, cranes swung slowly, great shovels cut into the soil, and men carted dirt. Not one was seen to turn about to look up at the Old South Meeting house, which stood diagonally across the street, revealed for the first time in many years from a distance far enough removed to do justice to its Wren-like spire and its fine proportions.

The first meeting house on this site was built in 1680, in the garden of the John Winthrop mansion, which then belonged to Mary Norton. It was a little church of cedar wood, but here Benjamin Franklin, who was born just across the road, was baptized in 1706. Here also Margaret Brewster appeared in "sackcloth and ashes" during service to give the congregation solemn warning because of the persecution of the Quakers. That was in 1777. About twenty years later Judge Sewall stood up in his pew while his confession for his part in the witchcraft delusion of 1692 was read.

Historic Meeting House of Provincial and Revolutionary Days.

The present brick building was dedicated in 1780 and in the course of the next century saw many stirring town meetings which were too large for Faneuil hall. In March, 1770, such an overflow meeting waited here while Samuel Adams sent back and forth negotiating with Hutchinson until he yielded and withdrew his regiments from the city. On November 27, 1778, a gathering of 5,000 citizens resolved that the tea on which King George bade them pay a tax, should not be landed. On December 16 of the same year 7,000 citizens waited here by candlelight for the return of a courier who had been dispatched to Milton to ask Hutchinson for redress.

When he brought word that there would be none, a war whoop was raised outside the church and a group of patriots, disguised as Indians, rushed down to Griffin's wharf where the ships were lying and pitched the tea overboard. Another dramatic scene occurred in 1775 when Joseph Warren entered the pulpit from a window above to deliver his now famous oration on the Boston massacre. The steeple and the very steps of the pulpit were crowded with red-coated officers and men.

The Election Sermon.

Until 1872 the church was the scene of the picturesque ceremony

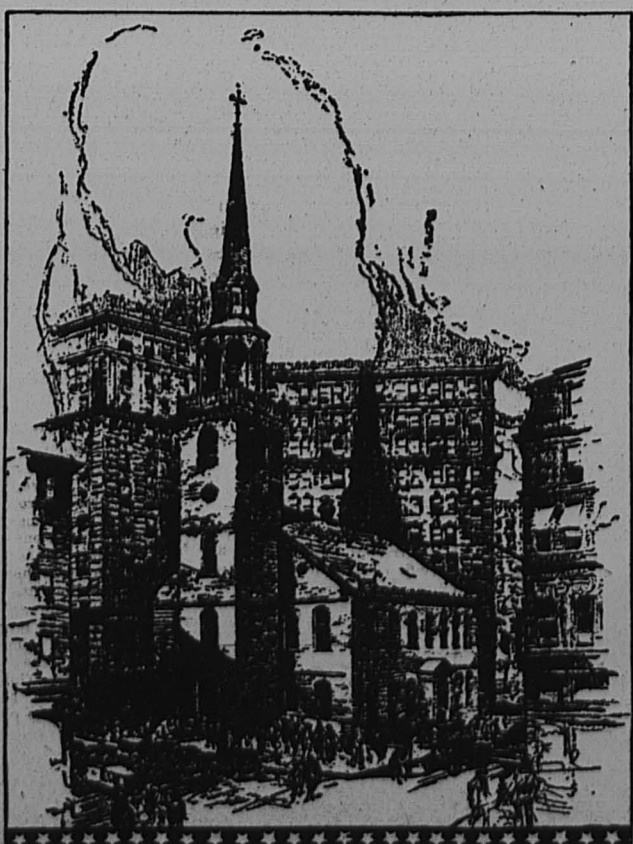

Wonderful Surgery.

Remarkable surgery was performed on the third mate of the liner Ruth Alexander just before she arrived in Seattle, Wash. The mate became ill when the ship was 30 hours from Seattle. Two physicians diagnosed the illness as acute appendicitis. A cabin door was used for an operating table, and the doctors performed the operation with sewing scissors, two pairs of forceps and a darning needle. The incision was sewed up with embroidery silk and cat gut. The operation required only 14 minutes. The mate was taken to a Seattle hospital when the ship docked there, and is recovering.

Island Rich in Verdure.

St. Lucia, the largest of the Windward Islands, is twenty-four miles long, and at its widest is twelve miles in breadth. It has an area of 233 square miles. The island is mountainous, and its highest point is 3,145 feet above sea level, while the land is mostly covered with trees and the rapidly growing vegetation of the tropics. Castles, the capital, has a population of 10,000. In 1921 the number of inhabitants of St. Lucia was 51,000.

Boys' and Girls' Corner

The following essay was a part of the program of the graduating exercises at the Riverton public school last week:

Life Training Through Sports

Work, play, rest, form the three principal parts of man's existence. Of these three, play and rest seem to fit together, sometimes meaning the same or having the most to do with each other.

By sports, we mean any kind of play activity, or muscle-giving competition, such as athletic feats, or mind-taxing games in the classroom, in the home, or engaged in by any people.

A game made with school work makes the lesson easy, interesting and develops the mind.

A game outside is mostly for the development of the body, and the spirit of athletics.

In the home the little girl can play she is a housewife and perform her duties, thinking how easily and perfectly she can do them when older. On the other hand the boy plays he is the man of the house and thinks no one else is strong enough to bring up a bucket of coal, or lift the heavy weights.

In playing these games we have a sense of fair play, which must carry over into our play and work. Only by having fair play as an ideal, do we realize its importance to us. It always does harm to do anything but the fair thing.

In basket-ball if a man is caught playing unfairly, he is sent off the floor and not allowed to play the rest of the game. This will help show us the need to be fair and square to every one, enemy or friend in the life to come.

If we are not fair we will surely be found out and it is said that, "Fear will possess the mind whose actions are unfair."

When found to be a cheat one loses the confidence of his associates. On the athletic field the person deserving praise and admiration as much as the winner, is the fellow who can accept defeat in the right way. Don't go off by yourself blaming everyone and everything, saying it was "just my luck."

Go up to the winner, shake hands with him and tell him he's "the fastest going," and jolly him along. If any one asks you where you were, just say, "I'm too slow for him," praise him all the time, and don't make excuses for yourself.

If you look at it in this way you will be able to meet defeat in business or meet defeat in an election with ease and not be angry because you did not get what you wanted. Remember that in this world there are others besides yourself, others just as good, perhaps better.

Most games on the athletic field are dependent on a team, and in this case team-work is needed because one person cannot play the game alone. To get this team-work players give part of their time in the afternoons to practice and perfect it. After a time of practicing and perfecting this team-work, it runs like machinery. So should our work in business, later in life, run as smoothly as a machine after we get used to it.

Along with the other good features that sports teach us to a certain degree is honesty. Honesty comes thru fair play. In business we want to be honest because we want a good reputation and because trade must rest on safe and sure foundations.

In sports the things which come most naturally and are exercised most frequently are quick decision and good judgment. When in a game of football the man running with the ball sees an opening through the line he will quickly turn his steps in that direction. This is quick decision and good judgment on the part of the player because if he had not seen the opening and turned it that direction he would have been downed before getting far in the crowd. This applies to business as well because unless we are able to decide quickly and well, we lose time and opportunity.

When an athletic season opens it means to the player the old grinding practice which makes him what he is in athletic standing. The fellow who practices doggedly and everlastingly and is all the time trying his hardest and best for the good of the team feels, after practice, rewarded because he has done his part. While in training he is asked or compelled not to smoke and not to do a few other things which would do him harm physically, so as to keep him fit for the games. If constant practice and training are kept up until the final game, victory is more certain for the team that lives up to the rules of training, than for the team that will practice only once in a while and say, "Oh, we beat them last year, so why practice a lot for nothing?" If that's the way they think I would bet on the other team, wouldn't you?

So in life we cannot rest on the good things or the work we have done, but must keep doggedly and everlastingly at it. We know that "practice makes perfect," and that he who fails must keep on trying over and over again, for he who does his best is a success.

Playing the game well brings physical health and well-being; so, playing the game of life well brings spiritual health and mental vigor.

If we divide the day into equal parts for work, play and rest, we will have an ideal day. But custom is that more of our time should be spent in work. We can change this, however, by deciding on a proper use of the amount of time given to recreation. Some of us want more rest. If so, take it from the time allotted to play. Some of us want more music, more reading, more entertainment and more nature study. If so, count these as part of recreation, for peace and contentment of mind help the development of our bodies.

As we play a game fairly for the joy and exercise, using team-work and co-operation, so let us play the game of life. For all the qualities used in a game are needed in our life game; thus we have gained our training thru sports.

GEORGE HUTCHINS.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten its cause.—Beecher.

OLD GRANARY BURYING GROUND

Within the confines of the older (eastern) states of this Union there are many ancient, quaint, and hallowed burying grounds, most of which closely surround or adjoin a much-loved chapel or meeting house. Among the most interesting of these is that precious plot of ground known as Old Granary Burying Ground, near the present business center in the city of Boston.

The town granary once stood on this site—hence this peculiar name. The burying ground was established about the year 1640.

Within this well-kept enclosure which is surrounded by an imposing protective fence, lie the remains of three signers of the Declaration of Independence, nine governors, Peter Faneuil, that public-spirited individual who presented the city the famous hall which bears his name; Paul Revere, that patriot who, on April 18, 1775, warned his country of the marching of the British troops towards Lexington and Concord, and other notables of their time.

Probably the most conspicuous headstone that graces the shaded covering of the departed is that erected by Benjamin Franklin, the most important literary man of his day, in loving tribute to the memory of his father, Josiah, and his mother, Abiah.

An outstanding feature of the plot are a number of almost-century-old elm trees which cast their shadows over this resting place.

The epitaphs on many of the stones which mark these ancient graves are quaint, indeed, and peculiar in the light of present-day custom. An unusual one reads:

Here lieth ye body of John Downing, aged about 24 yrs., dec'd April ye 15, 1694.

I bargain with Christ for room below. He grants a mansion in his upper storie; Thus God gives more than we do ask or know. Instead of grace uninterrupted gloria.

Another: Here lies interred the body of Mr. Thomas Crawford, who departed this life, Aug. 23d, 1775. Aged 54.

Stop here my friend and cast an eye. As you are now, so once was I; As I am now, so you must be. Prepare for death and follow me.

A good name is better than precious ointment.

WHY

Shellfish Beds Should Be Protected From Birds

Complaints that ducks destroy numbers of commercially valuable shellfish in Massachusetts have been received and investigated by the United States biological survey at Washington, which reports that all the important shellfishing grounds of the state were visited, testimony was taken, observations made and specimens collected. Of the 11 species of wild fowl the stomachs of which were examined, none had eaten a significant quantity of shellfish other than the common mussel or the scallop. As the mussel is unimportant, the inquiry resolved itself into the study of the relation of wild fowl to scallops.

"Scoters," or "coots," of two species, reports the survey, were found to be the chief offenders. The yellow-billed coot is not so hardy as the white-winged and at season when damage to scallops is said to be greatest, in the most severe part of the winter, comparatively few of this species are present. The white-winged scoter, however, is abundant and makes nearly half of its food from scallops. The bird does no good to offset the damage which it does and the economic status is a problem.

"Fishermen want the open season extended so that they can shoot the birds, but it is inexpedient and impracticable to extend the season on a single specimen of duck. It has been found that scoter and other wild ducks are easily driven away from the scallop beds by running a boat near them. They feed on the beds only by day. It would seem, in the opinion of the survey, that scallop fishermen should be willing to undertake the small cost of patrolling the waters over the scallop beds from which their income is derived, but for the upkeep of which they are at no expense."

"Fishermen want the open season extended so that they can shoot the birds, but it is inexpedient and impracticable to extend the season on a single specimen of duck. It has been found that scoter and other wild ducks are easily driven away from the scallop beds by running a boat near them. They feed on the beds only by day. It would seem, in the opinion of the survey, that scallop fishermen should be willing to undertake the small cost of patrolling the waters over the scallop beds from which their income is derived, but for the upkeep of which they are at no expense."

RADIO BROADCASTING NEWS

Westinghouse Broadcasting Adds to Campers' Pleasure

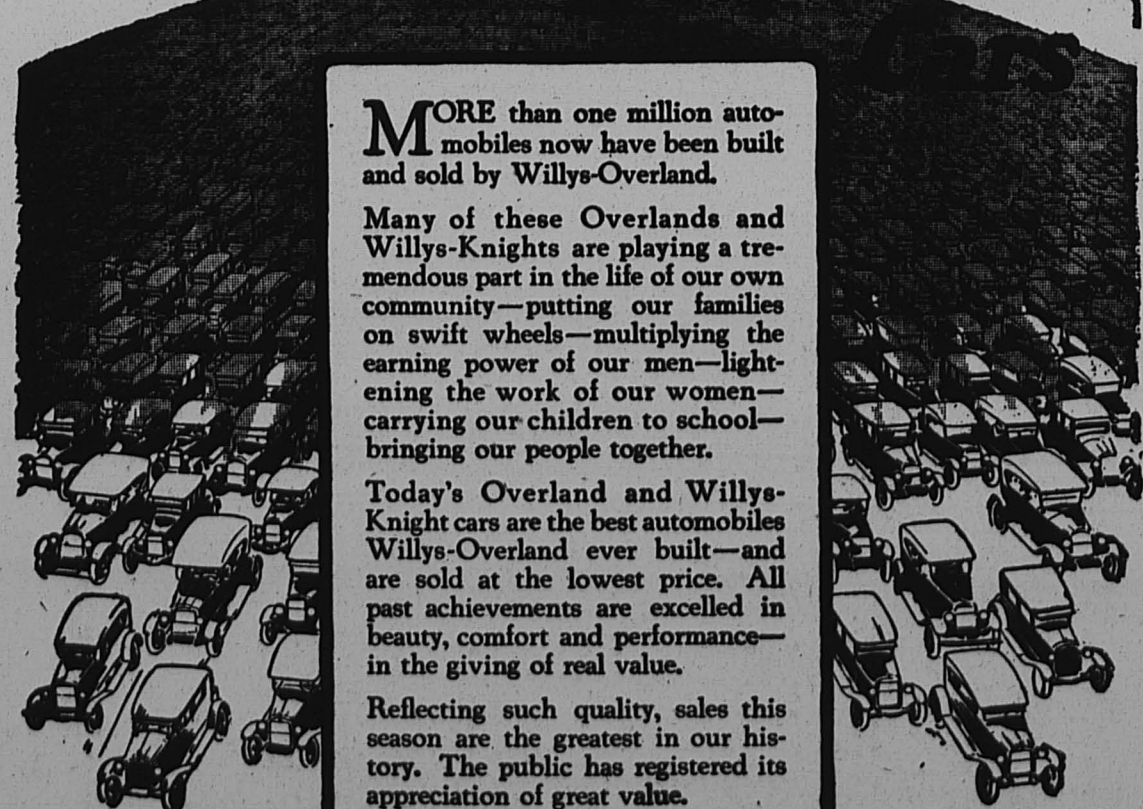

The photographs above were taken along the Allegheny river, at Oakmont, Pa., where Pittsburgh's summer colony finds relaxation from care in leading the outdoor life.

As KDKA, the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company's pioneer broadcasting station of the world, is located about seven miles distant from the camps, those who spend the summer there keep in touch with the bustling modern life by radio telephone.

It is no uncommon sight to see canoes lined up along the bank of the river, a loop antenna mounted in the forepart of the canoe, picking up the radio waves from the ether for the receiver. These camping parties use the radio at every opportunity, getting the latest news reports, the ball scores and blow-by-blow report of boxing contests and particularly enjoying the music.

The radio telephone has given outdoor camping an added zest as it has completely removed the objection that it kept the camper out of the world. Many of those who formerly hesitated about getting out of touch with things particularly the market, now find that they can leave town and still not lose the daily trend of events.

One MILLION

MORE than one million automobiles now have been built and sold by Willys-Overland.

Many of these Overlands and Willys-Knights are playing a tremendous part in the life of our own community—putting our families on swift wheels—multiplying the earning power of our men—lightening the work of our women—carrying our children to school—bringing our people together.

Today's Overland and Willys-Knight cars are the best automobiles Willys-Overland ever built—and are sold at the lowest price. All past achievements are excelled in beauty, comfort and performance—in the giving of real value.

Reflecting such quality, sales this season are the greatest in our history. The public has registered its appreciation of great value.

It Saves Lawsuits

"Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing," writes a business man, "if everyone carried out this idea?"

Here it is:

Put all business agreements in writing.

Many misunderstandings arise from the loose manner in which business matters are talked over. Each party naturally puts his own construction on the conversation. The matter is dismissed with the words, "all right." Frequently it turns out all wrong and becomes a question for the courts to decide.

A large proportion of the business litigation of the country would be avoided if all agreements were put in black and white.—Mason's Monthly.

*****

And there is no better way in the world to "put it in writing" than on an Oliver Typewriter. You cannot only "put it in writing" handsomely and conveniently, but you can keep an exact copy of that writing.

May we show you this matchless machine, and tell you how easy it is to own one?

Plan to Mark Historic Sites at Yorktown

After the lapse of nearly a century and a half it seems highly probable that something will be done to preserve and mark the historic sites in Yorktown, Va., the scene of Lord Cornwallis' surrender and of stirring incidents in each succeeding war of the nation. Yorktown was partly destroyed by the British in 1812, again by the Union troops in 1861, and during the World War Yorktown was an important naval base and mine depot.

The Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities has preserved many interesting relics and maps, and a movement is now on foot, fostered by the Colonial Dames, to have congress appropriate a sufficient amount to restore the ancient fortifications, lay out roads, and erect monuments and markers at the historic sites.

Yorktown, established in 1601 by decree of the king of England, was purchased from Laurence Smith. The site covered 50 acres, and was paid for with 10,000 pounds of tobacco, the currency of the colonists. It occupies a bluff above the York river, and prior to the Civil War was a town of considerable population.

Surrender Monument.

On the main street of Yorktown was the first custom house established in America, the port of entry for New York, Philadelphia, and other northern cities.

Oldest House Still Occupied.
The oldest house now standing in Yorktown was erected in 1690. Its brick walls are still in an excellent state of preservation, and the house is occupied as a residence. The Yorktown Inn, another landmark, was erected in 1725, and here were entertained many distinguished visitors, including Washington, Cornwallis, Lafayette and Virginia notables of the Colonial period.

The present courthouse stands on the site of the original house of justice, which was built in 1697, but like a majority of the original structures, was destroyed by Union troops during the Civil War. Other historic places are the Nelson house, headquarters for Cornwallis during the siege of Yorktown; the Moore house, where the articles of surrender were drawn up; Cornwallis' cave, which he used as a storehouse for ammunition, and various redoubts erected for the defense of the town against Washington and his troops.

There are but two monuments at Yorktown. The most imposing one, standing within the town limits and overlooking the York river, was authorized by a resolution of congress on October 20, 1871, but was not erected until 1892. It cost $95,000, and is a memorial of victory. The inscriptions tell of the surrender of Cornwallis, the treaties of peace that followed, and other historical statements. The monument is 65 1/2 feet high.

Marks Surrender Spot.
A plain little marker stands on the probable site of the surrender. It was built by a superintendent of the national cemetery which adjoins it, who was hopeful that the government would erect a larger one in time. Disputes arose as to the exact scene of the surrender, and no action has yet been taken. The marker, scarcely 20 feet in height, is slowly disintegrating.

Original fortifications, built by the Americans and British, still are in a fair state of preservation. One of these is Fort Mifflin, a British redoubt, so named because it was stormed and taken by Col. Alexander Hamilton in the latter days of the siege. It is to preserve and properly mark these historic sites that the Colonial Dames are bending their energies to have a sufficient appropriation made by congress.

July Fourth

Backward again our country looks to see

The far beginnings of this fateful day:
This day which once meant death or liberty.
The opening of a new and untrod way.

What pages since have in our nation's life
Been written both in blood and lines of fire;
What growth and gains, with vital import rife.

Have raised us high, and still our hopes inspire!
Grant, gracious God, that we, like those of old,
Our lives, our fortunes, and our all may yield
That this fair land shall freedom's birthright hold.

Be Thou, as then, Thyself, our sun and shield.
Our sun to light the path our feet should tread,
Our shield to guard from unsuspected dread—
The foe without, the foe within more dread—
From wretched war and subtle treason's woe.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

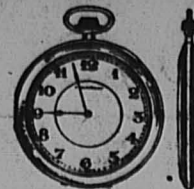

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Firemen's day at the Burlington County Fair next September is to be one of the biggest events of the whole exhibition. Sheriff Flagg, Evan Benner, of Moorestown, and Harry Bishop, of Florence, have charge of arrangements and all kinds of novel contests for the firemen with suitable prizes, have been scheduled.

The Rev. Charles W. Williams, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, will preach his second sermon on "Prayer" next Sunday morning. The subject is "Jesus' Instruction to His Disciples." At the twilight service the series of sermons on the Apostles' Creed will be continued with the subject "The Son of God Born of the Virgin Mary."

Stanley Killian, of Rowland street, was thrown from his bicycle on Cinnaminson avenue, just opposite the Moravian Church, on Monday afternoon when he was attempting to "hook on" a passing truck. He was rendered unconscious and taken to Dr. Bauer's office for treatment. He was greatly improved and able to be about that evening.

The following guests were entertained at Miss Evelyn Henricks' birthday party last week: Thelma Jones, Miriam Bittling and Alice Hardaker, of Palmyra; Marjorie Rudenow and Elizabeth Rice, Merchantville; Velma Barnett and Irene Peacock, East Camden; Florence Morris, Essington, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, Chester; Mrs. Frank Morris and Raymond Zanner, West Philadelphia. Joe Richie's jazz orchestra, of East Camden, furnished the music.

Squire Fichter reports that things have been very quiet in town for the last few weeks. Recent cases brought before him are: Monday, June 18, Jackson Day, of Riverside, was arrested by Chief of Police Beck, charged with drunkenness. Day was released after being reprimanded by the Squire. On Sunday, June 17, Officer Rodgers arrested Lewis Jackson, of Riverton, and charged him with being drunk and disorderly. He was released after paying $5.00 fine and costs.

"Billy" Aspinall on Tuesday celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his leaving his native country, England, for America. He sailed from Liverpool June 26, 1883, taking passage on the City of Rome, then the largest and fastest passenger vessel afloat. He arrived in New York July 5 and came to Bridgeburg, where he took up his trade as a stone mason and contractor. It was a year later when he was employed in the building of Christ Church, Riverton, that he decided to move to Delaware avenue, Palmyra, where he has lived ever since. Mr. Aspinall is past 71.

Fire Company Elects

The Palmyra Fire Company held its annual election of officers at the fire house Monday evening. T. Winfield Land was re-elected president; County Freeholder George W. Rogers is again vice president; George Spencer continues as secretary and Lewis Wallace was re-elected treasurer. Chief of Police C. Morris Beck was again selected to be fire chief and will have as his assistant Edward B. Hoff. William Stack is foreman.

FERRY IS BUSY

Chief Beck Catches Careless Motorist in Traffic Jam

It is estimated that the Tacony-Palmyra Ferry Company handled 2000 cars last Sunday. Most of the cars returned to the Pennsylvania side earlier in the evening than usual, owing to the severe storm.

Chief of Police Beck and Officers Rodgers, Wallace, Lutz and Melcher were all on duty prepared to handle a record-breaking crowd such as that of the previous Sunday.

Chief Beck showed his ability as a detective when he caught a Pennsylvania driver who had hit a car near Union Landing, before the offender could escape over the ferry. It seems that the owner of the car which was hit had been having engine trouble and had gone in search of a mechanic. The man who hit the car failed to stop and when the owner of the car- wrecked machine returned he found his car driven off the road into a field.

The collision was immediately reported to Beck who was able to distinguish the offender's car by the bent fenders. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Fichter and told to appear at a later date when he must settle for the damages.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Heim, of Springfield, Delaware county, Pa., spent Sunday with Mrs. Elvira S. Craig, of Horace avenue.

NEW PLAYGROUND OPENED

Sweating Children Find Relief from Heat Under the Shower Baths

Last Monday about a hundred boys and girls enjoyed the opening of the new playground at the Field Club Park under the auspices of the Palmyra Community Playground Association. The swings, sliding boards and see-saws kept most of the younger boys and girls busy during the day while the older ones enjoyed themselves at tennis, baseball and volleyball.

In the afternoon when the sun was the hottest the children kept cool under the new showers which were recently installed. Nothing could be more desirable for the children than a cool shower these hot days after a few hours of good hard play. A cordial invitation is given to the children of Palmyra to use them at all times. Some of the children bring their bathing suits which is an excellent idea. Do not neglect to take a towel with you.

The Association is certainly very much gratified at the large number that turned out, and hope to make the playground so interesting that every boy and girl will be there every day and take advantage of all the good things the Association has planned for them.

There will be a baseball league started soon for boys from 8 to 12 years of age and for boys 12 to 16 years. It is the desire of Mr. Ivory, the athletic instructor, to have each Sunday School get two teams in readiness for the opening. The Boy Scouts and M. C. A. will have teams on the field also. Further announcement regarding this will be made at a later date.

A word to the parents: Be a pal to your boys. Come down with him, enjoy his playing and show him how you used to do it when you were a boy yourself. It will do you worlds of good and also help the association to put over something which in time will be a valuable asset in making the boys and girls of Palmyra bigger and better—physically, mentally and morally.

The playground will be open every day from now on until school opens in the fall, 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Pennsylvania Efficiency

Prompt initiative and energy commensurate with the greatest railroad corporation in the world have been shown by the Pennsylvania in the marvelous rapid restoration of the Broad Street Station to public use.

By tomorrow evening it is expected a nearly normal tide of travel will be passing through the main building. No one who did not view the appalling devastation wrought in the gigantic trainshed by the fire can appreciate the wonderful achievement in reconstructing the tracks and platforms in three or four days.

Coordination of engineering skill and direction appeared to have risen superior to an emergency that could scarcely have been foreseen. At a time when a shortage of both labor and materials for construction might have been supposed to hamper the operations, the Pennsylvania Railroad has been able to mobilize its resources in workmen and assemble enormous quantities of lumber, iron, steel, rails and miscellaneous material.

Thereby the maximum of work is pushing night and day to the end that there may be a minimum of public inconvenience.

Not only Philadelphia, but the millions of people who are served by main arteries of travel which converge at Broad Street Station, should appreciate this enterprise. Most of the present work is necessarily temporary, but so far is this fact from reducing the credit due to the officials who have conducted the work, that it establishes the high sense of duty to the public which has been shown in providing a remedy for the widespread inconvenience caused by Monday morning's disaster.

Would a Government bureaucracy, bound with red tape, have been similarly equal to the task?

L. G. E.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle will hold their annual picnic at Cinnaminson Park, on Thursday, July 12th. Bus will leave Riverton at 9 o'clock. There will be no meeting of the Temple until Thursday evening, July 19th.

A Splendid Example of Enterprise and Organized Effort

THE KIND OF SERVICE A GREAT ORGANIZATION IS CAPABLE OF GIVING IN A GREAT EMERGENCY UNDER PRIVATE OWNERSHIP.

The Philadelphia Inquirer on Wednesday, June 13, published the following editorial:

"AN OBJECT LESSON IN RAILROAD EFFICIENCY"

The world efficiency has been greatly overworked in recent years, but it can be applied in all justice to the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad who are meeting the emergency produced by the destruction of the trainshed of the Broad Street Station.

While the conflagration was still in progress, heads of the engineering and construction departments were in consultation, and the fire had not been extinguished before numerous wrecking crews were at work. In the meantime the traffic department was called upon to make a readjustment of service, and special bulletins promptly informed the traveling public of the disposition of trains.

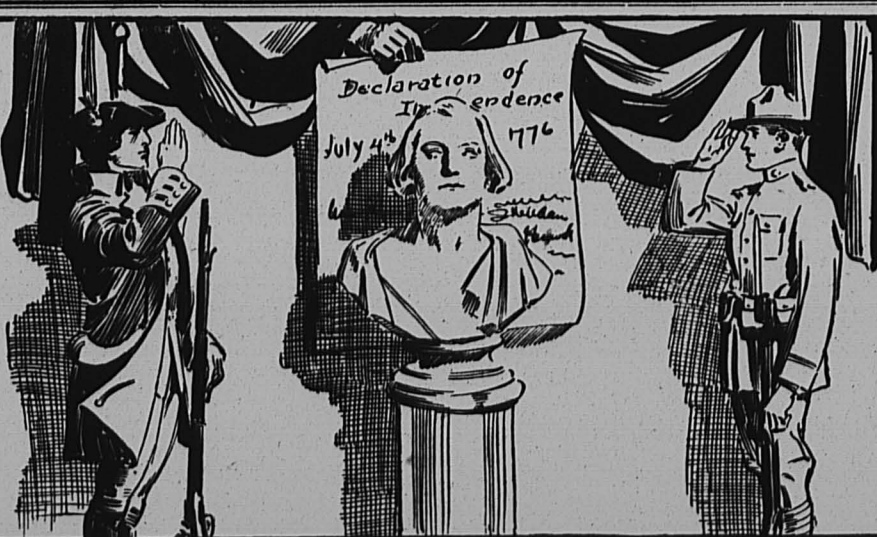

In less than twenty-four hours after the fire started the builders were employed in restoring platforms. Men had been summoned from everywhere, but there was a minimum of confusion, because every squad had a definite duty. It has been a splendid object lesson in efficiency on the part of the world's greatest railroad. In these days of speed, demoralized train service spells general congestion, and that this should have been so largely and quickly overcome is a matter of congratulation.

The American spirit is shown at its best when meeting seemingly unsurmountable difficulties. Say that a thing is impossible in this country and, as if by magic, men will appear to make it possible. Those who travel may be subject to some temporary inconvenience, but if the public be as patient as the railroad company has been enterprising, there will not be much reason for complaint.

Train service in and out of Broad Street Station has already practically been restored to normal conditions.

Cinnaminson Township

Westfield

On June 21st, Jacob Richman, residing on the Burlington Pike between Fairview and Bridgeboro, and employed by George Shaner, was injured badly while working at the Westfield public school. Richman was handing up hardwood flooring from the first to the second floor, when a board split and the sharp point pierced his shoulder, running down his back just under the skin. Dr. Phillips, of Moorestown, and a visiting nurse from Riverton, dressed the wound and Richman was taken home, where he will be confined for at least a week, or probably two.

On Sunday, June 24, Paul Bohs, narrowly escaped drowning, while swimming at Five Points with some of his chums. When half way across the creek he was taken with cramp in his arm, and being unable to proceed he yelled for help. Some of the boys succeeded in dragging him to safety.

Robert N. Wood and Edward Wood, Jr., started last week on an automobile trip down through Pennsylvania to Baltimore, and returning will spend some time in the Pocono Mountains.

On June 21st, Richard R. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Wood, of Cinnaminson, and Miss Nancy Morris, of Olney, Pa., were married. They received many fine presents, and a large number of guests attended the wedding. After the wedding reception the couple departed on their honeymoon in the State of Maine. They will be gone two weeks and on their return will reside in Germantown. On June 20, Mrs. E. S. Wood entertained on the lawn of her home the ushers and bridesmaids who took part in the wedding.

Last Sunday afternoon Clarence Griffith, James Barr and Andrew Oliver narrowly escaped what might have been a serious accident, while enroute to Riverton in a Ford coupe driven by Griffith. A car ahead stopped suddenly and in order to avoid a collision, Griffith turned out and crashed into the rail separating the driveway from the passageway for pedestrians. The boys were thrown from their seats, but escaped injury. Their car was only slightly damaged. This week or early next Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans and family are planning to take a three weeks' trip to New England.

On Sunday afternoon William Oliver fell from the tire rack of a car on which he was riding (going at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour) but only sustained bruises and scratches of the arms and shoulders.

The 1923 crop of Japanese beetles appeared this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Wood, Jr., of Harmony Hall, sailed from New York June 23rd by the White Star liner "Majestic" for Southampton and Cherbourg.

Asbury

Mrs. Melvin Underhill and son, Melvin, of Belmar, were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giberson, of Union Landing, last week. They also attended the picnic at Rancocas Park on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Baines, Jr., of Bristol, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, William H. Baines, 3d, born June 19th.

Mrs. Baines will be remembered as Miss Edith R. Pittman, granddaughter of Rev. P. R. Pittman, our former pastor.

Prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. John Parker, Parry, on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Harry Slade and daughter, Virginia, were visitors in Philadelphia on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Giberson and son, of Riverside, were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Clayton Hunter, on Sunday.

The annual Sunday School picnic was held on Saturday at Rancocas Park. Thirty people attended. All those who were present had a good time, those going by way of truck shelving especially. Leaving Asbury at 8:30 a.m., they went by way of Bridgeboro and Lumberton Road, and entered the park the back way, arriving at 10:30 a.m. When they arrived at the park, five truck loads from Camden and one auto bus from Blackwood, also several small cars were there, having brought the people from State Street Church, Camden. Leaving for home at 6:45 p.m., we came by way of Mount Holly and Fom Brown road, thence to Cinnaminson and up the Burlington Pike to Asbury, arriving at 9 p.m. On our way home we passed the farm property of Mrs. Albert Hines at Masonville, where they were holding the lawn fete for the benefit of the Burlington County Tuberculosis League. The place was beautifully decorated. The music consisted of both piano and violin selections. There were over a hundred cars parked in the rear of the buildings and more going in. The vegetables and flowers looked very nice, as well as the other things.

Ward Brothers, of Asbury, put a new roof of shingles on one of their barns during the dry weather.

Parry

The new officers for the Parry Fire Company for the next six months are, president, George Schuck; vice president, Melvin Cromwell; recording secretary, Eugene Aydt; corresponding secretary, Thomas Wood; chief, Howard Bender; assistant chief, Harry Schuck; foreman, Herman Voitenheimer, and assistant foreman, John Williams. Practice for 8-month term, Joseph Higgins.

Harold Schmierer and Howard Harris were camping at Lake Hopatcong over the weekend.

John Williams and a party of friends from Germantown report that they made a large catch of fish at Wildwood last Sunday.

Mrs. C. Nelson Sperling will be in charge of the services at the Moravian Church next Sunday. She will substitute for her husband, the Rev. C. Nelson Sperling, who is in Ohio on his vacation. Her subject will be "A Message for Tried Ones." The Bible school and morning worship will be at the usual time. The evening service has been discontinued for the summer.

George Swain will spend his vacation at Toms River.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grant are receiving congratulations on the birth of a nine-pound girl born Tuesday morning.

The Rev. C. Nelson Sperling conducted services in the Cinnaminson

Home last Sunday afternoon. So large was the crowd that attended the Children's Festival at the Moravian Church last Sunday that it was necessary to open the wing of the church building to accommodate the people.

A carnival will be given under the auspices of the Parry Fire Company this Friday and Saturday evenings. Free transportation from Palmyra station and return will be furnished. The Parry Fire Company is making an effort to parade with full membership in Palmyra on the Fourth.

FORD NEWS STORY

Manufacturing output of the Ford Motor Company during the month of May reached the enormous total of 201,038 units, it is just announced through the Ford News.

The divisions are as follows: Ford Cars and Trucks, domestic and foreign 189,177 Fordson Tractors 11,083 Lincoln Motor Cars 778

Detroit, Mich., June 27—June finds the Ford Motor Company undertaking the greatest task of its career, that of attempting to fill an order for Cars and Trucks which totals 311,000 for the month.

Popularity of the Ford never has been so strikingly illustrated as this year, for every month has brought increasing orders with June topping them all. And the demand for the Ford extends into every section of the country, for dealers from the smallest town to the largest city all have asked for increased allotments of Ford Cars and Trucks for delivery to their customers.

Production has been steadily moved upward right along and the enormous manufacturing facilities of the company are daily being taxed to the utmost in an endeavor to meet the demand, and to assist in delivering cars with as little delay as possible.

During the present month production is on a schedule which calls for approximately 6,700 Cars and Trucks a day, another increase in the record-breaking output which sales demands make necessary.
