STRONG PENN MUTUAL TEAM BOWS TO HINKLE'S TWIRLING

Riverton's Mountman Holds Visitors to Five Hits and Two Runs

WILKINSON STARS FOR VISITING TEAM

"Doc" Hinkle hurled Riverton to its sixth consecutive victory last Saturday afternoon. The Penn Mutual team, of Philadelphia, champions of the Financial League for the past four years, was the victim of Hinkle's twirling. Riverton's pitching "ace" fanned fourteen of the invading batsmen and had five assists in the field. Ward, of Penn Mutual, struck out seven of the local batsmen and had one assist in the field.

The visitors jumped into a 1-0 lead in the first frame. Green singled. Wilkinson singled to right and Harvey threw wild to home, allowing Green to score after he had taken third on Wilkinson's single. Yost fanned. Doc hit Hughes with a pitched ball. Hinkle then redeemed himself by sending Hinkle out at first. Montgomery was retired on strikes.

The local boys were unable to score until the third. Bennett walked. Johnny Faye, with a count of two and two, "laid out" for a triple, scoring Bennett. Faye hit the ball so hard that it did not "come back to earth" until it reached seventh street, the boundary of left field. No measurements were taken but it is generally conceded that Johnny's triple is the longest hit that has ever been made at Memorial Park. Mendenhall scored a timely single which earned Faye, putting the locals ahead 2-1. Truman slid out to Green in center and Wallace fled to Wilkinson at short.

Mutuals Tie Score
The fourth and fifth frames were rather tame but the sixth was more exciting, when Penn Mutual tied the score. Yost singled, stole second and third while Hughes fanned and Hinkle was taking two strikes. Hinkle hit to Hinkle who tossed him out at first. Yost scoring. Montgomery slid to Gaffney. In the seventh Hinton and Gaffney singled. Bennett fanned. "Dunny" and Jimmy pulled a double steal. Dunny scoring on Faye's infield out. Ward threw Mendenhall out at first.

Gaffney, Bennett and Wallace were the big guns of Doc Hinkle's hitting support, each getting two hits. Bennett had a double and a single while Jimmy and Nick had two singles.

Penn Mutual could reach Doc for only five hits, all singles. The local sluggers tagged Ward for the total of ten hits, eight singles, a double and a triple.

Leading Hitter
Wilkinson led the insurance boys with two singles, three put outs, and three assists.

ROASTIN' EARS

Palmyra Lions Have Something Real to Sharpen Their Teeth Upon

The Palmyra Lions Club continues to grow apace. At the Tuesday luncheon it was big enough to accommodate a couple of dozen big "Roastin' Ears" with the able assistance of Frank Kates, the Lion Hamper.

It was the first time the writer had heard the prosaic sweet corn of the effects that called "Roastin' Ears" since the days on the banks of the Wabash some long years ago and the Lions who mistook corn-on-the-cob by its regular name was none other than the Rev. William Erhardt, new pastor of the First Lutheran Church.

A new face at the festive board was that of J. Harry Williams, the well known butcher, who will no doubt be able to provide plenty of raw meat for the Lions. Several other new members are expected to be with the club shortly.

A ball game is in prospect just as soon as the Secretary gets news enough to send out challenges. The Riverton Rotary Club and the Riverside Athletic Club are being considered as likely victims.

DISORDERLY

Colored Pair Arrested in West Palmyra

Emma and Joshua Truitt, colored, of West Palmyra, were arrested Saturday evening by Chief of Police C. Morris Beck and Officer Joseph Rodgers.

The Truitts were creating a disturbance while under the influence of liquor and the neighbors complained.

They were arrested and placed in the Police Headquarters overnight. Sunday morning they were tried before Justice of the Peace William Fisher and were released after a $1000 bond.

They were arrested about four years ago on the same charge and this was the first disturbance they had created since then.

Palmyra Defeats Merrill Pros.

Wenger's Superb Twirling Wins Impressive Victory For Field Club

Allowing only two hits, Wenger, Palmyra's twirling ace, was the outstanding star in the impressive victory scored over the Merrill Professionals Saturday afternoon at the Field Club grounds. The score was 5-1.

The playing of the entire team is worthy of mention, but the superb pitching of Wenger is beyond the average in this section. For seven innings Wenger held the visitors to no hits and no runs and the only two that were registered were lucky bunts that Fisher and Butler of the visitors beat out.

Krauss and Weikman gave Wenger wonderful support. Besides pitching a fine game Wenger led with two hits and was the only man on either side to register that many.

This game is the second out of eight that the "Pros" have lost on Jersey soil and the local boys deserve a lot of praise for annexing so important a victory.

DULL FOR FERRY

The Palmyra-Taney Ferry experienced one of the duller weeks in its history when only about 4500 cars used the ferries Saturday and Sunday.

Chief of Police C. Morris Beck said that although the traffic was very light, little of it came from the ferries and most of it came from Camden, probably from those using the new Delaware span.

The new span, coupled with the ferry, has almost doubled the work of the Palmyra police in directing traffic.

STOLEN CAR

New Hudson Found Stripped in White Lily Park

A Hudson brougham, the property of Norman Moran, Jenkintown, Pa., was found abandoned in the old "White Lily Park", Cinnaminson avenue, Palmyra, last Friday afternoon by Officer Lawrence Betty.

The car had been stolen from 15th and Girard avenues, Philadelphia, and apparently had been driven to the woods and stripped of every movable thing.

The tires, bumpers, battery, dashboard, windshield wiper, mirror, and all other accessories had been removed.

The auto itself had been driven only 2000 miles but its mechanical condition was not affected by the vandals.

The Philadelphia Police Department was notified and the owner called for the car Saturday morning. This is the second stolen car to be left in Palmyra during the past few weeks. A short time ago the Police found a Ford touring car that had been stolen and was abandoned on Cinnaminson avenue.

PENNIMORE—MARRIAGE
Miss Phyllis Matlack, of Palmyra, became the bride of Walter Pennimore, of Bridgeboro, Saturday morning, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. E. J. Pennimore.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was enjoyed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. Carr, Perry avenue, Palmyra. The young couple then departed for Beach Haven where the parents of the bride have summer home.

INSPECTS PALMYRA'S NEW FIRE TRUCK

Mayor West Visits Seagraves Plant at Columbus, Ohio

The new Seagraves combination hook and ladder truck built for the Palmyra Fire Department in Columbus, Ohio, by the Seagraves Company, was inspected by Mayor James T. West last week. The Mayor is on a motor tour to his birthplace, Independence, Ohio. The truck will be shipped August 15th and is expected to arrive here about August 25th. This truck will place Palmyra's equipment among the best in South Jersey.

The Packard truck has been returned to the company after being repaired and completely overhauled.

The work on the new hose tower will be started very shortly. The entire structure will be built of brick and will have a suitable place to place the hose at the top. It is expected that it will cost about $1500.

All Join Hands For Old Home Day

Palmyra Organizations and Citizens Working For Big Event

The spirit of "Old Home Day" is gripping Palmyra following a meeting of the general committee in the Legion Home, Broad street, last Thursday evening.

Every organization in town has responded and each has appointed a committee of two to take part in the activities of the general committee and full co-operation has been pledged to the entire project.

The following letter has been delivered to every home in Palmyra by the Boy Scouts and the answers of the citizens will be collected Saturday evening, August 7th, by the volunteers who have offered their services to the executive committee.

Letter to Citizens
To the Citizens of Palmyra:
The greatest celebration ever held in this community will be the "Old Home Day" of Palmyra on Saturday, September 25th, 1936.

A full entertainment, day and evening, has been arranged for you and your family, your out-of-town friends and relatives. We want you to serve as hosts and hostesses to them on this big day when hospitality will reign.

The enclosed cards are for three purposes:
Card No. 1 is for you to supply the names and addresses of former residents of Palmyra who may know so that official invitations may be sent to them by the Executive Committee. Return this card in sealed envelope to collector.

Card No. 2. On this card please place your name and address and the amount of your contribution. If you wish to make payment in contribution later than August 7th, fill in the amount you wish to contribute by September 15th. Fill in name and address, as collectors will not give receipts, but acknowledge them by mail.

Each resident of Palmyra who has interest in what is requested to make a contribution as large as he cheerfully can.

The size and quality of the celebration will be limited only by the amount of contributions received for this purpose and you are urged to invite your friends and relatives on this big day, as the celebration will be worthy of our town.

At 7 p. m. on August 7th, 1936, the fire siren will blow as a signal for collections to commence, and you are asked to aid our collection collectors by handing in the return envelope promptly and speed them on their way.

In the return envelope please place the two cards No. 1 and No. 2, together with cash contributions, if contribution is made in that way. Contributions should be placed in the return envelope and placed in the box at the entrance to the Legion Home, 15th and Girard streets, Palmyra, N. J., before September 15th.

If envelope is not collected, advise Committee headquarters.

This is an opportunity for us all to have one real big day and to feel big time. We ask you for your moral and financial co-operation and assure you that every effort will be made to help you happily remember Palmyra Old Home Day, 1936.

Sincerely yours,
THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:
George R. Wimer, Chairman.
J. Edwin Lewis, Vice-Chairman.
Walter D. Lamon, Secretary.
George W. Rogers, Asst. Sec'y.
F. G. Fromuth, Treasurer.

A meeting will be held this Thursday in the Legion Home and Friday Thursday until "Old Home Day".

RIVERTON WILL MEET MARINES

Big Attraction Scheduled For Saturday, August 7, at Memorial Park

DON'T FAIL TO SEE—THE BULL DOG MASCOT

This Saturday afternoon the Riverton baseball team will play the United States Marine Corps team from the Quantico Marine Base located at Quantico, Virginia. Captain Howard, the Marine manager, will bring twenty men fully uniformed and the world's ugliest bull-dog, the team's mascot, to Riverton for the contest.

This game will be a real test for the local boys will win. The Riverton team has played eleven games, winning nine and losing two. With this record behind them, the team feels confident that they can defeat the Quantico team.

The Marine team is one of the two teams which will play for the championship of service teams in the Essex stadium Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. The other team is the Second Navy.

Every organization in town has responded and each has appointed a committee of two to take part in the activities of the general committee and full co-operation has been pledged to the entire project.

The following letter has been delivered to every home in Palmyra by the Boy Scouts and the answers of the citizens will be collected Saturday evening, August 7th, by the volunteers who have offered their services to the executive committee.

BITES, BUT NO FISH

Charley Conrad's Nibble Were Candy Menushoes Things

As a Seagraves Charley Conrad isn't considered to be so good. With a number of friends he spent Wednesday at Beach Haven in search of the "daisy inhabitants" of the sea.

Charley has been trying for years, according to his friends, and he gets lots of bites but they are mostly menfish.

The members of the party were: John Ellis, John Warner, Fred Seebor, Ward Lowden, Charles Hawke and Clarence N. Hinkle.

Firemen Register Another Victory

Independence Company Team Undeclared in Palmyra-Riverton Twilight League

The third triumph for the Palmyra Firemen, of the Palmyra-Riverton Twilight League, was registered Monday evening when they defeated the Riverton Grays by a score of 5-1.

The Firemen are playing good ball and they have yet to taste defeat in the second half race.

The Firemen, if they continue their winning streak, will play the Methodists, winners of the first half series, in a final three-game series for the championship and for the cup that will be donated to the winners.

Ed Atkinson, pitching for the victors, eased up in the last frame and the Grays amassed five runs. Harder was the leading hitter, registering two hits.

GRAYS WIN

Riverton Twilight Team Defeated Methodists 4-3

The Riverton Grays nosed their way to second place in the Palmyra-Riverton Twilight League by winning Monday night's game over the Methodists 4-3.

The teams of the league are beginning to tighten up and prepare for the final games to decide the winner of the season.

The score stood 1-1 at the beginning of the fifth and final inning and the Methodists staged a rally netting two runs. The score looked bad for the Grays but they came to bat and made the winning margin after one out was already against them.

The hitting was light and both pitchers deserve praise for their work. Lyle, hurling for the winners, allowed three hits while Watson was nipped for five.

HIT CHIEF'S CAR

Colored Man Didn't Recognize Morry Beck's Machine

Richard Jackson, colored, 1814 Oliver street, Philadelphia, is regretting that he didn't see the official license on the car driven by Chief of Police C. Morris Beck, of Palmyra, Friday afternoon.

Chief Beck was towing a car to Palmyra through Pennsylvania and was struck by Jackson's car.

Jackson was arrested and turned over to the Pennsylvania police. He was fined $15.00 and costs.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Freemaid Competition Will Be Started on Palmyra Courts

Russell Davis, Tournament Chairman of the Palmyra Tennis Club, announces that the annual pyramid tournament will start this Friday evening.

The list of players and their rankings by handicap will be posted and every player will have an opportunity to improve his ranking by challenging some one in the bracket immediately above him.

Russell also has in preparation a tournament with Collingwood which he expects to stage Saturday afternoon and challenges to Riverton and Moorestown are being considered.

The courts continue to be well patronized in the evenings, the young ladies especially showing much interest this year.

DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING
Mrs. Mary Hinkle, and son, John Hinkle, attended the funeral of Harry Arnold, of 1834 N. 5th street, Philadelphia, last Thursday. The lad was a member of a swimming party at Lanes Park on Monday and was seized with cramps while swimming. He sank before help could reach him. The body was recovered by Charles Dougherty, a fellow swimmer, and physicians were called over the body for two hours.

Palmyra Men Will Be Guests of Sea Gilt

George N. Wimer, and Walter D. Lamon will be the guests of Captain Charles R. Laven, of Palmyra, at Governor's Day, Sea Gilt, N. J. Friday.

George W. Rogers will be a member of a party composed of Burlington men who will be the guests of Colonel Edward H. Stone.

It is the custom each year to entertain numerous guests at the National Guard Camp and dinner is provided by the officer.

COLLISION

Mountain Man and Freeholder Fisher in Clash-Up

Morris W. Willey, of Moorestown, while driving his Buick coupe, collided with a Ford sedan driven by Freeholder Curwen B. Fisher, at the corner of Garden and Cherry streets, Mount Holly, Wednesday of last week.

Mr. Willey was going out Garden street and Mr. Fisher was coming out Cherry street, when the accident occurred. Both machines were forced onto the sidewalk in front of the American store at the corner.

In the opinion of Republican State Chairman Edward C. Stokes, America is not without danger of the same turmoil and chaos in government that now exists in several of the European countries, the most notable instance of which is at present found in France.

The recent record-breaking heat wave had serious effect upon some important crops of the State, according to Secretary W. B. Dwyer of the State Department of Agriculture. As a result, the potato crop has been most seriously damaged, and it is doubtful whether the yield will exceed the unusually short crop of last year.

In order to divert travel from the White Horse Pike and other roads the State Highway Commission is considering the improving of a number of what are known as back roads. Among those under consideration is the pike road from Chatsworth to Bridgeport which connects with the State Highway at New Gretna. This road is about fifteen miles in length and the state will provide 75 per cent of the funds if the townships of Ham River, Woodland and Washington can furnish the balance, or 25 per cent between them.

Complete returns of the June Primary election compiled by the office of the Secretary of State, show that the total vote throughout the state was less than 1 per cent of the registration. There were 1,241,484 names on the registration books and of that total, according to the official count, only 408,444 ballots were cast. Even Hudson county, which seldom fails to poll a heavy vote, was indifferent. There were 81,040 ballots cast, just about half the majority polled by Governor Moore last year. In Essex county the registration was 100,612 and the vote 52,160.

The S. S. Thompson Company, of Red Bank, has been awarded the contract to build the concrete road from Toms River to the Seaside Park Hotel.

A resolution asking that the Camden County Board of Chosen Freeholders take over Gray Road from Marlton Pike to the Moorestown Pike near Maple Shade, has been introduced by the Delaware Township Committee. It was pointed out that the road is in such condition that it is impassable for four months of the year. A petition has been introduced signed by persons living along the road asking that the supervision of the thoroughfare be given into the hands of the Freeholders and that it be paved as soon as possible.

A general cleanup of coast guard forces has been ordered as a result of the alleged confession of twelve of their number that they had accepted bribes to permit rum runners to land liquor on Long Beach, Ocean county. In all, twenty of the guards are said to be involved in the scandal. The story is that the officers received $2 per case for all liquor which was permitted to pass unnoticed. The expose of the rum-running has led to a suspicion that Coast Guard Samuel Galt, who was stationed at Beach Haven, Tennessee, and recently was found dead, supposedly from apoplexy, was murdered for fear he would tell about the rum-smuggling. Ocean county authorities are investigating the Galt death.

VISITING NURSE

Additional Worker Employed by Moorestown Association

The Visiting Nurse Association of Moorestown has employed an additional trained nurse, Miss Anna Hoffman, who will carry on the work of the Association after August 1, in conjunction with Miss Adelaide Curley.

Two trained nurses will greatly facilitate the service of the Association.

One nurse will be on call at any time for the regular Visiting Nurse work; more extensive follow-up work will be done in the "Baby Clinic" and one nurse will be available for nursing in private homes for periods of a few hours when needed.

DEMOCRAT OUTING

County Members to be Guests of Governor at Sea Girt Friday

Members of the Burlington County Democratic Committee and other Democrats are to be guests of Governor A. Harry Moore at Camp Moore, Sea Girt, Friday.

All Democrats have been invited to take advantage of the opportunity and stage an old-fashioned rally day, become better acquainted with members of their party and meet the county candidates, who will be present.

Let's leave home early in the morning, taking all the family, a basket lunch, and our bathing suits. Then let's forget our troubles and have a good time," say Frank R. Abelson, of Florence, and Francis J. Mulrany, of Moorestown, chairman and secretary of the county organization.

The program includes bathing and sight seeing in the morning, the Governor's official reception at noon and a review of troops at 4 o'clock. Burlington County troops will take part in the demonstration, being camped at Sea Girt at the present time.

State Committeeman William H. Vandergift, of Burlington, is arranging for transportation and has scheduled a bus to run from Burlington and is arranging for motor machines to start from other communities where the party of Democrats and friends number more than twenty-five.

PRIZES

Audubon Society Offers Fine Awards for Jersey Children

The New Jersey Audubon Society, in conjunction with its campaign for undomestication and the creation of a model bird sanctuary, is seeking to enlist the interest of the children in bird protection work, and to this end, is offering special inducements for their co-operation.

The Society is urging that the children, who appreciate the beauty and value of birds, often more readily than do their elders, try to interest the latter.

Prizes are offered by the Society to the children obtaining the greatest number of new members for the New Jersey Audubon Society.

The first prize is a Mirakel 8-power vent pocket field glass for bird observation; $25.00.

Second prize, Harcourt Thompson Society's Bird Book Library of Pioneering and Woodcraft; six volumes on Hiking and Camping, Animals and Birds, Indiancraft, Woodcraft, Earth and Sky and Wild Animals; $11.

Third prize, Reed's Pocket Guide to the Land Birds East of the Rockies; $1.50.

The offer is open to all New Jersey boys and girls under the age of eighteen. Those desiring to compete should address the New Jersey Audubon Society, 164 Market Street, Newark, N. J., for equipment and particulars.

If we improve ourselves, we improve others by our example.

Roosevelt Meets His Old Sergeant

Scene of World War Re-Enacted As Colonel Visits Pottsville Camp

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt stood on a little bench overlooking the Pottsville street scene, as he met his old sergeant, Murphy, who was now a young American, as represented by sixteen hundred recruits of the United States Military Training Camp, Pottsville, was getting its first introduction to the hard-battled life of our soldiers.

Sharply a distinguished officer upon the still air. The first growl of the parental life surrounding the camp and school across the waters of Lake Champlain. With curious speed, targets were lowered, examined and aimed. Pottsville again lay winged the results.

Then: "Sergeant Murphy!" he bellowed.

Up came a weather-beaten veteran in a red uniform. He halted: the two saluted stiffly. A few terse phrases from the Colonel, another stiff salute, and the soldier strode back to the firing point, determination apparent in the setting of his arms, the set of his head.

Nothing further.

That incident strikingly recalled another meeting which occurred nine years ago in France. The First Division, A. E. F., was poised to launch America's opening blow in the World War. It was in the commensurate sector, and then, as today, Roosevelt was in command, and "Jimmy" Murphy one of his sergeants. Both were with the 26th Regular Army Infantry, the same outfit that now garrisons Pottsville, and their regiment had been picked as the first to "wave in."

Zero hour approached. There was no sign of wavering in the ranks, but it was decided that the capture of a prisoner would be an excellent tonic for the morale of the regiment.

Roosevelt bade for Murphy.

FLAT TIRE

Two Women Automobile Got a Share From White

The police whistle blew shrilly and a car in which four women were riding suddenly came to a stop Sunday afternoon at Chatham and Broad streets, Palmyra.

Chief of Police C. Morris Beck walked over to the car and the women expected a reprimand for violation of traffic rules.

But that was not so. Chief Beck merely stopped the car to tell the ladies that they had a flat tire and after placing their minds at ease he proceeded to play the role of "good Samaritan" and fixed it for them.

SUCCESS

The truth about success is that the whole discussion of it is confused. There is need of a book which might be called "The Common Sense of Success."

In this country most of the intelligent people get just about what they want. If the burning desire is to accumulate dollars, it is really not extremely difficult to acquire a sizeable bank account. Thousands are doing it, chiefly by sacrificing the present for the future. They are living on a scale below their incomes now, in order to have an independent income later.

However, making and saving money are perhaps only one-fourth of a successful life. The other three-fourths are the satisfaction and fun one gets out of life from hour to hour.

It is not surprising that so many poor boys become rich. To a poor boy the accumulation of property seems the most desirable thing in the world. Having experienced the bitterness of poverty he is stimulated to get just as far away from it as he can. His sons, however, may not feel the same. It does not seem to them that economic independence and security are the only things worth while. They strive for success in other directions. Therefore, we often find the sons of wealthy men turning to careers which offer little prospect of financial reward.

In fact, the wonder is not that many poor boys succeed in making money, but that so many rich boys go forward as far as they do. A poor boy is strengthened and disciplined by his obstacles. A rich boy is softened and broken by his so-called advantages.

The average poor man says to himself that if he were rich he would loaf. He is therefore giving due credit to the son of the rich man, who, enjoying all that money can buy, shuns the opportunity for ease and leisure, and goes to work. In a letter advertising a book, the editor of the Review of Reviews says:

"Do you know what is worrying the big, successful men in this country today? Not the income tax; nor the high cost of labor; nor any threatened slump in business. These are mere incidents in the day's work. The thing that is worrying them is how to bring up their sons in such a way that they can stand on their own feet. I know one very rich man who bought a whole town just to give his son a job. And the probabilities are that he has thrown away his money. For you can't pick a young fellow without experience, without special training, put him at the head of a business and expect him to succeed. He may have the instincts of a mechanic—or a doctor—or a lawyer—and you are trying to make a business man of him! You can't buy success for your children ready made."

The point the average father misses is that his sons want the satisfaction of accomplishing something themselves. Most young men despise being "dummies"—on the payroll with no responsibilities. In the Rotarian, Ellis Parker Butler, the noted writer and humorist, discusses this subject of success with a good deal of acumen:

"It seems to me," he says, "that a man is a success when he has accomplished something he wants to accomplish and, by and large, there are five big wants that the five kinds of men feel urging them. These are: The want to own, the want to seem, the want to know, the want to do, and the want to be. I've a notion that the 'want to be' is the biggest and finest of these, and that the 'want to seem' is the cheapest and tawdiest and, possibly, one of the most common."

Butler then goes to the heart of the subject in this paragraph: "If a geranium in California does not grow all over the neighborhood it has a right to consider itself a failure; but if a geranium slip that is picked up in the gutter and stuck in a tin can and set on the window ledge of an air-shaft tenement manages to put forth one blossom, it can call itself a success. Success is not doing what you can't do, but doing what you can do."—Imperial Type Metal Magazine.

THE QUESTION BOX

Population of Belgium and Holland
J. Y. Riverton—What is the population of Belgium and Holland respectively?

Ans.—Before the world war broke out Belgium had 7,423,784 inhabitants, and Holland had 6,212,701.

Cablegram
Reader, Palmyra—Will you please answer in your Q & A column how long it takes a cablegram to go from France to America?

Ans.—It all depends upon the connections. The actual transmission is almost instantaneous.

Double-Yolked Egg
B. T. Riverton—Last Tuesday I broke open an egg and there were two yolks in it. Can you tell me what causes that?

Ans.—Double-yolked eggs are usually caused by fowls being over fat.

October 12, 1492 Was Thursday
G. A. Riverton—Will you please answer what day of the week was Oct. 12, 1492?

Ans.—Thursday.

Republican Form of Government
L. T. Palmyra—What countries in the world have a republican form of government?

Ans.—The United States, all of South and Central America, Russia, France, Portugal, China and Switzerland.

Fourth Wedding Anniversary
J. P. Palmyra—What is the fourth wedding anniversary?

Ans.—Fruit and flowers.

Millimeter and Centimeter
F. S. Riverton—How much is a millimeter when applied to guns; also a centimeter? (I saw a picture of a 320-millimeter gun).
Ans.—A millimeter is thirty-nine thousandths of an inch, and a 320-millimeter gun would be one in which the bore is a little over 12 inches in diameter. A centimeter is about three-eighths of an inch.

"Errata" Means Errors
Subscriber, Cinnaminson—What is the meaning of "errata"? I can't find it in my dictionary.
Ans.—Errata is Latin and is the plural of erratum, which means an error in printing or writing.

The Dixie Lane
G. F. Asbury—What is meant by Mason and Dixon line, where is it and how did it get its name?
Ans.—Originally it was the line separating Pennsylvania and Maryland, named after Jeremiah Dixon and Charles Mason, British astronomers. It was considered the dividing line between the free and the slave states in the east. Later it was extended westward to Missouri, following along the Ohio river to the Mississippi river.

Tin Is Tenth Anniversary
A. H. Cinnaminson—Kindly inform me what is the tenth wedding anniversary?
Ans.—Tin.

1451 B. C.
Mary, Riverton—Will you please tell me when Moses died?
Ans. According to the Bible Chronology, Moses died 1451 B. C.

Little Boy Blue
R. F. Asbury—Will you please state in your column who wrote "Little Boy Blue."
Ans. There are two poems entitled "Little Boy Blue." One is by Abby Sage Richardson, and the other by Eugene Field.

Engagement Ring
Reader, Five Points—For an engagement ring is a diamond necessary?
Ans. A diamond ring is very nice, but not necessary. Any kind of a ring will serve; bracelets also are used.

Industrial Workers of the World
R. Y. East Riverton—I am just a little curious to know what I. W. W. stands for? I notice the papers never spell out the words.
Ans. I. W. W. as generally used are the initials of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Woolworth Building
M. D. Palmyra—I wish to ask you what is the tallest office building in the world?
Ans. The Woolworth building in New York City is the tallest building in the world. It has 51 stories.

When Are You Sleepy?
J. T. B. East Riverton—Kindly answer this question in your valuable paper: Why should a person go to bed at night when they are not sleepy, and get up in the morning when they are sleepy?

Ans.—Because nature is so perverse. To remedy this state you could try going to bed in the morning when you are sleepy, and get up at night when you are not. Why not sentence reckless drivers to walk awhile?

Three cows belonging to S. N. Ellis, near Tabernacle, were killed by lightning in the pasture field on Friday.

Among those who contemplate erecting cottages at Seaside Park next season are Mrs. Daniel Sutter and Benjamin Deacon, both of Mount Holly.

Senator Parry's mammoth sweet potato patch of over fifty acres at Hainesport looks thrifty. Over 100 persons were employed in setting out the plants.

The will of the late Pierre Lorillard, of Jobstown, filed in the Secretary of State's office, Trenton, on Thursday, bequeaths the stock farm at Jobstown, with all its live stock and appurtenances, to Lily Barnes Allen, of New York. To his wife, Emily C., is bequeathed $24,000 a year during her life, and some household furnishings. The residue is left to children and grandchildren. The estate is estimated to total $4,000,000.

Charles Raymond, of Smithville, has gone to Woodstock, Vt., to spend some time at Captain Elton A. Smith's summer home. Mr. Raymond recently has been in failing health.

Although ten or twelve cottages have been erected at Seaside Park this season there is not an unoccupied home in the place. Many families have been turned away on account of lack of accommodations.

Riverside Band Uniforms
The Riverside cornet band has uniforms louder than its music, which is saying considerable.

Thomas B. Thorne, will soon close out his shoe business at Medford, having accepted position in Mount Holly with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The Medford Grangers' excursion to Atlantic City on Saturday was a howling success, over 300 persons taking advantage of the day's outing.

The outbuildings on the farm of John Davis, near Pointville, were struck by lightning on Monday night and totally destroyed by fire.

Cantaloupes, tomatoes and sugar corn are bringing high prices in the city market. Burdett, Burdett county farmers are realizing splendid returns.

When the affairs of the defunct Taylor Manufacturing Company, of Mount Holly, are wound up, it is said the creditors will get about 25 cents on the dollar.

Samuel R. Wetherill died at his home on Garden street, Mount Holly on Thursday morning from Bright's disease. For many years he conducted a general merchandise store at Jobstown. Recently he was editor of the Democrat, a Mount Holly newspaper. He was 49 years of age.

Hound Hangs Itself

A valuable boogie hound belonging to County Clerk Warrick hung itself on Thursday when it jumped over a fence and a chain to which it was fastened prevented the animal from reaching the ground.

The contract for the erection of the new bridge of the Pennsylvania railroad over the Delaware river at Trenton has been awarded to Charles A. Sims & Co. Mr. Sims is a resident of Mount Holly.

While some closets were being torn down to continue the alterations at St. Andrew's Church, Mount Holly, last week, a golden dove and other altar furnishings and a communion service were found that were used when Mount Holly Episcopians worshipped in the building on Church street, now used as a foundry, as far back as the year 1786.

The Alcott-Ridson Turbine Company, with an authorized capital of $125,000, is one of the recently incorporated company formed to operate both the water wheel plants in Mount Holly. The incorporators are Thomas J. Alcott and his sons, Edgar A. Alcott and Howard E. Alcott.

Miss Harris Stuart Baquet, of Burlington, who for a number of years conducted a girls' boarding school in Mount Holly, died at Orr's Island, Maine, on Monday.

The largest oak tree in this section can be seen on the George H. Abrams farm, near Vincentown. Its spread is 55 feet and its trunk is six feet in diameter.

Unless there is a break in the plans there will be regular trolley service between Camden and Trenton, along the river section of the county, in a few days, when the trolley road will be completed. The work on the tunnel at Edgewater Park is progressing rapidly.

Theophilus Zurburg, the Riverton watch manufacturer, left on Thursday for Europe for the benefit of his health. He will go at once to Carlsbad for six weeks' treatment, after which he will visit his parents in Switzerland.

The Mount Holly Methodist Sunday School went on its annual picnic on Thursday in the woods near Vincentown. Mrs. Samuel I. Budlock was slightly burned when her dress caught fire from a cook stove and young Lloyd Stewart came near drowning when he fell into the creek. In other respects the picnic was a success.

Mount Holly residents who gave silverware to a strange woman who promised to replace it with new ware, will be pleased to learn that they will get back their old articles. Detective Mills H. Parker having located the woman and the lot in Pittsburgh.

Guard Against Fire

More than 15,000 lives are lost annually by fire in the United States, the statisticians declare. At least that number of persons are seriously injured. It has been estimated that 65 per cent of these fires occur in homes, and the greatest percentage of the victims are women and children.

The majority of fires could be prevented in their incipency if proper methods of extinguishing them were at hand. There is a growing need for every household to be equipped with some form of fire extinguishers. There should be one at hand on each floor. While the fire department is rushing to the scene there are always a few minutes in which the occupants can do something to put out the blaze.

City Financially Easy

Fes, the "Holy City of Islam in Africa," boasts of being a city which owes nobody, has no municipal or other debt, and has never raised a loan either at home or abroad. Its budget in 1925 amounted to 5,500,000 francs entirely covered by revenues, from taxation and the sale of concessions. Si Mohammed Tazy, pasha of the region of Fes, is also mayor of the city and every city document must bear his signature. The city government is composed of three distinct municipal commissions—Moslem, Jewish, and French.

Aa and Zythos Enrolled

Though the name Aaron Aarons usually is the first name on any alphabetical list in which it appears, the roster of the Australian forces which went overseas during the World War started off with the leader of all lists. It was the name of a half-caste islander who had enlisted with the "Diggers" and bore the simple name of Aa. The last name on the same list was Zythos.

Millions in Pearls

This pagoda, a part of the Japanese exhibit at the Sequi-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, is made entirely of pearls and its value exceeds $1,000,000. The exposition continues until December 1.

"A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever"

This is one of the beauty spots of the Sequi-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia. The exposition celebrates the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The view shows the tower of one of the main exhibit buildings rising in the background from among the gorgeous landscape which artists have built around the giant structures which house exhibits from forty-three nations of the world. The exposition continues until December 1.

Peace, Goodwill

Columbia, Peace and the spirit of brotherly love have been joined in one person, a beautiful woman. This young lady was one of the central figures in a pageant staged at the Sequi-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia, celebrating 150 years of American independence. The exposition continues until December 1.

Added to Vocabulary

What, asks the Mentor, is the ratio of the words you use to those that are your birthright? Are you rich or poor in verbal currency? If you are an average American, making your wealth of language, your drawing account on the dictionary is not more 8,000 or 4,000 words. Shakespeare's plays contain 15,000 different words. Milton's works half that number. These were writers of poetic thought and phrase, yet even they did not make heavy draft upon the store of nouns, pronouns, verbs, adverbs and adjectives in the English language. For there are a hundred thousand of them in all.

Some of the authors whose choice and variety of words we most admire—Browning, Stevenson, Benjamin Franklin—made a systematic business of adding to their fund, and there are interesting stories as to their methods of doing this.

"R. L. B." who became a supreme artist in the exercise of words, began as a boy to enlarge his vocabulary by deliberate means. Whenever he went he carried in his pocket two books, "one to read and one to write in. As I walked my mind was busy fitting what I saw with appropriate words; when I sat by the roadside I would either read or a pencil and a penny book would be in my hand to note down the features of the scene or commemorate some halting stanza. Thus I lived with words. And what I wrote was for no ulterior use; it was written consciously for practice."

Robert Browning's novitate as a poet was spent in "reading and digesting the whole of Johnson's dictionary"—and many an exotic and little-known specimen did he uncover. Emerson prescribed conversation for an impoverished vocabulary. "Science, religion, politics, letters, art, war, or love has its vent and exchange in conversation, and it follows that conversation properly conducted helps to the power of expression in all of these."

GREAT SOLDIER MET DEATH LIKE CAESAR

Wallenstein One of Greatest Military Leaders

The man who probably came nearer to making himself a Napoleon than any other in Europe, from the assassination of Caesar to the appearance of the Corsican, was Wallenstein, whose tremendous influence made him an outstanding figure in history.

Just three centuries ago, in 1633, Wallenstein raised an army for the Holy Roman empire to oppose the Bohemians, after the latter had been augmented by the Danes and other northern Protestants. He crushed the forces opposed to him and drove them through Hungary. Then he drove north, clearing great sections of Germany, but was repulsed in an attempt to capture Stralsund on the Baltic. He had, however, been so thoroughly victorious that his foes seemed conquered. But as so often happens, the triumph had been too complete. Wallenstein had been arrogant in his treatment of the princes for whom he was fighting and they suspected he planned to overthrow them and make himself a dictator over central and eastern Europe. They brought about his dismissal by Emperor Ferdinand.

Mistakes Go on Forever

"Men may come and men may go, but mistakes go on forever." Such were the thoughts of one of the city librarians yesterday when a timid-looking girl of perhaps nineteen years accosted her, asking if she had a book entitled "Oranges and Peaches."

A most diligent search proved that no such book was in the possession of the library.

"Are you sure that 'Oranges and Peaches' is the title of the book?" asked the librarian.

"Yes, I believe that's what the professor said to get," was the answer. "Who is the author?"

"Darwin."

Imagine the surprise of the librarian when it "dawned on her" that the book desired was Darwin's "Origin of the Species."—Indianapolis News.

Gossip

Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, was talking rather bitterly to a New York reporter about his sentence to a year and a day in jail.

"Gossip," he said, "is what made all the trouble. There was too much gossip. I remind me of the anecdote:

"A very loquacious lady talked a man pretty nearly to death at a dinner party, and then, as she got up with the other ladies to go into the drawing room, she tapped him on the arm with her fan and said:

"I talk a lot, don't I? But if you men told the truth I believe you'd all admit that you like talkative women better than the others."

"The others?" said the man. "What others?"

Steam Shovel Digs Up Fossils

Fossil hunting for generations has been a back-breaking process of laboriously picking and shoveling remains of prehistoric fauna out of rock and clay "way out in a sun-baked desert. But times do change. Today a huge mechanical shovel, using electric power from the Cleveland service system, is excavating fossilized fishes which lived in the Devonian period. It is doing it in a suburban region that some day will be overgrown by Cleveland and thereby will be rendered forbidden ground for the excavations of paleontologists.

The shovel is digging up geologic information by the ton, its electric power having removed all backbreak from the process.

Waterproof Stockings

Mud and rain splashed stockings may soon be things of the past. It is claimed that a new shower-proof stocking, made from artificial silk and treated by a patented process, cannot be marked by mud or water. These stockings can be dyed any color, and in appearance are exactly like any other artificial silk stocking. Another interesting invention in the artificial silk industry is a process to diminish the naturally bright luster of the fiber. By the adoption of a special finish artificial silk goods can now be made with the characteristic dull luster of real silk.—Chicago Daily News.

The Solution

"The crossroads postmaster has gone coast hunting and expects to be gone a week or so," said Toke Sarg of Sandy Mush.

"Did he leave anybody in charge?" asked a young acquaintance.

"Nope! If you want your mail right bad you can follow him you find him, and then he'll dig through a bunch of letters in his pocket and probably tell you these here letter's for you from your gal!"—Kansas City Star.

ROTARIANS ENJOY FAMILY PICNIC

Held at Sylvan Lakes Wednesday Afternoon Last Week

About eighty Rotarians and their friends attended the club picnic held at Sylvan Lakes, Wednesday of last week. Swimming and boating were enjoyed in the afternoon, and games for children and grown ups were in order after the meal. Quilt pitching contests were only halted long enough to enjoy the dinner and program, and then resumed with added zest.

Tables were set on the point of land in front of Ellwood Thum's cottage and well away from the park proper. Broiled chicken and sugar corn with speeches and singing mixed in, and ice cream and cake for dessert were enjoyed by the group which then played games until dark drove them in to Ell's cottage. The lodge built largely by Mr. Thum personally was most interesting to every one. It is a log cabin type with all modern conveniences and many interesting trophies and curiosities are included in the attractive furnishings.

At its regular meeting Thursday evening, July 29th, the Rev. Dr. William J. Lee, of Palmyra, was inducted as an honorary member of the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club.

It was noted with regret that Paul Burr had suffered a relapse. The members sincerely hope that Paul will soon be out again.

"Boys Work" was the topic of discussion and was led by Joe Evans, chairman of that committee. Charles Mohrfield and George Anderson have been active in this work, and their discussion of it was interesting to all the members. The policies of this committee as outlined are good, and will be heartily backed by the members, both in co-operation and moral support.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

ONSLAUGHT PILLOWSLIP

ONSLAUGHT PILLOWSLIP banged his fist down on the table. "Where are we drifting to?" he demanded hoarsely of Penspod Canebrake, who had just dropped in. "That's what I want to know, where are we drifting to? This country is going to the dogs and the pigs, and it's high time the decent people that are left did something about it."

"For one, Canebrake, don't propose to sit idle and let this great land go to wrack and ruin in the hands of a lot of vile plunderers, robbers, self-seekers, highway robbers, and poltroons! Mark my words, Canebrake, if something isn't done, and quickly, utter chaos will overwhelm us."

"Are we going to sit with folded hands, I ask you, until the flood of lawlessness, famine and despair overwhelms us and carries us under?"

Action, Canebrake, action, that's what's needed. I for one intend to assert myself and help rescue our institutions from the mire into which they are already being dragged."

"Pillowslip, I'm glad to hear you voice those sentiments," approved Canebrake. "Because, the fact is, the very reason I came to see you was to ask you to vote for Pinhead Timbler, who stands for reform."

Onslaught Pillowslip's face underwent a curious change.

"By Jove," he muttered, "I forgot to register."

Penspod Canebrake left, but not before he had left Pillowslip prone on the floor with all the dining room furniture piled on top of him.

The Hotel Stenographer

By George Fulkerson

"KELLY, a good swift punch where it hurts is good for us now and then," said the Hotel Stenographer.

"Been getting your apple cart upset?" asked the House Detective.

"Yes, and then righted again and all the apples picked up, wiped off and put back so I would see what a bird of a cart it was and what a fine lot of fruit I had on it."

"I am a dancing fool. They put something in my feet when I was made like that instinct which makes a cat come home from any place, only mine is an instinct telling me which way the guy I dance with will shift his feet next. I never had a man dance with me yet who didn't come back for more. Add that the mirrors in the ladies' dressing room tell me that I am not alarmed hard for the nude eye to rest on and you know why there are few dances in my voting precinct little me does not get a bid to."

"Well, they organized a social club in my neighborhood and all the best dressers in the vicinity went in on it. They began a series of Saturday night dances a couple of weeks ago. I got a new dress made. But when all the invitations were out little mister was left at home to do a solo dance to a phonograph."

"Last Saturday night I got an invitation from a nice man, Kelly. I did not know how nice a dance was till I got left out of one. I had been upstage and haughty with a lot of men who might have taken me. From now on I melt like a plate of ice cream. I smile at every one of them that has two arms and legs. I had the time of my young life because I was left out of the one Saturday night before. If it never rains you don't appreciate good weather. Every bump is good for what ails you, Kelly."

"Dark Horse" Is Swimming Star

Roberts Captures Many Points Despite Stiff Competition In Moorestown Tank

A dark horse by the name of Ed. Roberts galloped madly into the Moorestown Community House Tank Tuesday evening and walked away with every event open to those of more than 17 summers. Not only did he outclass the greater majority of competitors in the races but nosed out Harold Potts in the diving.

Perhaps the greatest thrill of all was in the final event. Eighty yards, or four lengths of the tank was the distance and against such opposition as "Ham" Clifton and H. Potts, the diminutive north-sider rated first place with the fast time of 52 seconds flat.

Every Tuesday evening, for the following five weeks these events will take place. Every age for both sexes is given an opportunity to prove its aquatic powers and at the end of the affair medals will be awarded to the winners in each event. If the first frame is any token of the success of the program the events forthcoming should give to the many spectators and contestants value received.

The events and winners follow: Boys 40 yd. dash, John Griffen 1st, Fitzgerald 2nd, 32 seconds.

Girls 20 yds. Emma Murphy 1st, Ethel Hanley 2nd, Marguerite Ballinger 3rd, 17 seconds.

Men 40 yds.—Ed. Roberts 1st, H. Potts 2nd, S. Haines 3rd, 24 seconds.

Women 40 yards—C. Fitzgerald 1st, C. Elston 2nd, 43 4-5 seconds.

Men 80 yds.—Ed. Roberts 1st, H. Clifton 2nd, H. Potts 3rd, 62 seconds.

Boys diving—J. Griffith 1st, T. McGann 2nd.

Girls diving—E. Murphy 1st, E. Hanley 2nd, M. Ballinger 3rd.

There is still ample opportunity for any other local swimmers to sign up and enter the sports for there are five more opportunities to run up enough points to cop the prize in any event. Handicaps are still being awarded to those of lesser ability so that one has as much chance as another.

GREEN TOMATO WORM

Pest Evidently Causing Great Injury to County Vines

Judging from the number of inquiries received, the green tomato worm is evidently causing severe injury to tomato vines throughout the county. The following recommendations are offered for their control:

Spray, using 2 lbs. of powdered arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. Apply at the rate of 100 gallons to the acre.

Dust, using 4 to 5 lbs. of arsenate of lead, or 3 to 5 lbs. of calcium arsenate, with 25 lbs. of hydrated lime added as a carrier, to the acre.

The essential thing to keep in mind when either spraying or dusting is to apply the recommended amount of arsenical poison to the acre.

This will depend on whether the spray machine has 1 or 2 nozzles to the row, or on how heavy an application of dust is made. If it is not possible to get the recommended amount of arsenical to the acre with one application, increase the amount of poison accordingly.

Poultrymen Vigilant

Want to Know If Early Hatched Pullets Have Started to Lay

Have the early hatched pullets started to lay on the range? This is the question that leading poultrymen in New Jersey are asking themselves in mid-summer, as the method of handling these birds has everything to do with their production record this fall.

The men know that the expected molt can sometimes be avoided if the weight of the pullets after they come into production is maintained by feeding plenty of scratch grain.

Growers contemplating doing any summer budding should request a copy of Circular 158, entitled "Propagation and Top-Working of Orchard Fruits," which is fully illustrated and describes the process of budding in detail. A copy of this bulletin will be mailed free upon request.

Just before the pullets begin to lay, or when they are laying about 10 per cent on range, they are removed to their permanent laying quarters. Here the poultryman endeavors to get them in prime condition and, once he does so, tries to maintain it.

Proper feeds and a good system of management have been found essential if maximum feed consumption is to be secured. To lay eggs, feed is needed and the bird which consumes the largest quantity of a well-balanced ration, lays the most eggs.

Some poultrymen will be disappointed in the early-hatched pullets unless the birds have been carefully managed during the growing period. It takes from five to six months to grow a Leghorn pullet properly. Longer than this is required for heavier breeds. Birds starting to lay at a younger age are often small and undersized and their eggs are likewise small. Give the birds time to develop, furnish them with the necessities for proper development, and then have pullet eggs which can be sold as extras.

Grey hounds are supposed to be the oldest members of the canine race, one enthusiast tracing their pedigree back for 50,000 years.

SUMMER BUDDING OF FRUIT TREES

Only a few growers were present at the peach budding demonstration that was conducted at the farm of Howard Rums at Delanco, last Thursday evening. Evidently the hot weather influenced a number of other growers who would otherwise likely have attended.

Summer budding is done from late July to early September, or as late as the bark will slip. The order of budding will vary with the season, and the time for the different fruits will more or less overlap in general, for New Jersey cherries, pears and apples will be ready for budding about the third week in July. The peach and plum follow about August 15th.

The danger of budding too early in the summer is that the bud may start growth the same season. This growth is always weak and sappy, and even if it is not winter killed, the resulting tree is likely to be inferior. There is danger of delaying the operation until too late in the season for the natural fall maturity of the stock, or a dry spell in the late summer will cause the bark to "set" or adhere to the trunk. This usually results in the buds failing to unite with the stock.

NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME Sam Kline, thirty-two-year-old veteran of the mound, with more than a decade of service in semi-pro baseball behind him, Saturday carved a niche in baseball's Hall of Fame when he twirled Medford to a no-hit, no-run victory over Mount Holly in a Burlington County League game. The score was 2-0.

Kline faced only thirty-one batters, four more than the minimum number for nine innings. Three reached first on errors and the fourth got on by virtue of a pass.

BURNED TO DEATH

Francis Driver, of 1114 S. Second street, Camden, who has been working on a farm in Fellowship, was fatally burned Sunday evening, when he poured gasoline on a pile of burning rubber. The flames leaped up and burned practically his whole body.

The victim was rushed to the Burlington County Hospital where he died Monday evening.

Pure Foods and Their Preparation

Rice—It's Life History

All authorities on foods agree that rice is one of our best foods, and yet the consumption rate of rice in the United States is far below that of any other country. Rice is one of our most inexpensive foods, nourishing, easily digested, and can be prepared in a great variety of appetizing dishes. It is surprising that it does not enjoy a much wider use in America.

The origin of rice as a food dates far back into antiquity, and our first records show it to be an oriental grain. It has since spread to all lands which have a tropical or sub-tropical climate. India, China, Japan and other countries of south-eastern Asia lead in its production. Europe now produces some in the southern part, and our own southern states produce enough for export.

In South Carolina rice is sown in trenches 18 inches apart and then covered with water to a depth of several inches till the seeds germinate. The water is drawn off only to be flooded again for slightly more than a fortnight to kill weeds. The fields are flooded again just before the grain ripens. In many parts of China, and other warm countries two crops of rice each year are common. Rice is shelled and quickly dried before being brought to market. Sometimes the rice is submitted to polishing, bleaching and coating to improve its appearance. These processes while not always injurious to the consumer, detract from the nutrition value of the grain.

Rice contains over 75 per cent of starch and while not an all-around food in itself, fills the place in a meal held by potatoes and other starchy foods.

Rice enjoys a great variety of uses throughout the world and can be prepared into a number of inexpensive dishes. Why not economize and eat a health giving food at the same time? Following are a few ideal rice recipes compiled by Gertrude E. Conant of the University of Arkansas:

Boiled Rice

Wash the rice several times, first in cold, then in hot water. Have ready boiling water—eight times as much water as rice—adding 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of water. Add the rice slowly to the water, taking care not to let the water stop boiling. When done pour into a colander to drain and wash off with clear hot water. When prepared in this way, each grain will appear distinct and should be swollen to four times its original size.

Rice Salad

2 cups cooked rice (very cold)
1 small onion (chopped fine)
2 red or green peppers chopped
1 red apple (leave skin on) cut in cubes.
Mix well with mayonaisse.

Rice and Salmon Salad

3 cups cooked rice (cold)
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 can salmon
Salad Dressing
Drain salmon, separate flakes with fork and combine with rice and onion. Season with salt and pepper and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonaisse dressing.

Spanish Michael

1/2 cup rice (washed thoroughly)
1 onion
1 green pepper
1 red pepper
4 slices bacon
1 pint cooked tomatoes
Wash rice and soak in cold water one-half hour. Cut bacon in small pieces, try out the fat and fry in it the onion and peppers chopped fine. Add the drained rice and tomatoes; cover and let simmer on back of stove until rice is done.

Rice a la Mode

2 cups cooked rice
4 eggs
1 tablespoon parsley
Salt and pepper
6 slices bacon
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/4 cup milk
Cook bacon, remove from pan and fry onion in fat until yellow. Beat eggs, add milk, salt and pepper and cook in pan with onions. When done add parsley. Place a mound of cooked rice on platter, pour eggs over mound and arrange the bacon around sides of mound.

Rice au Gratin

1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1 1/2 tablespoons butter
Buttered cracker crumbs
1-3 pound grated cheese
Cayenne
Milk
When cooking rice use one tablespoon salt. Butter a baking dish and cover with a layer of rice; dot over with butter, sprinkle with a thin layer of cheese and a little cayenne. Repeat until rice and cheese are used. Pour in milk to one-half depth of baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown and cheese is melted.

Rice Croquettes

1 cup cold cooked rice
2 eggs
Press rice through sieve and add egg yolks. Shape in balls the size of an egg. Roll in egg white, then in crumbs. Make a depression in one side of ball and fry in deep fat. Drain on unglazed paper. Fill depression with tart jelly and serve hot.

Rice Custard

Cook one cup of cold boiled rice and one cup milk in a double boiler until the rice is very soft. Beat one egg light with three tablespoons of sugar and a pinch of salt. Pour hot rice and milk slowly over egg mixture. Pour into dish in which it is to be served, grate nutmeg over top, bake and serve very cold.

Baked Custard

1 cup cooked rice
1/2 cups milk
4 eggs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar
6 drops vanilla or grating of nutmeg
Wash rice and place with sugar and raisins in a baking dish. Scald milk and pour into dish. Bake in slow oven, stirring occasionally, until the rice has dissolved in the milk.

1/2 cup seeded raisins
Reheat the rice, and melted butter beaten egg mixed with milk and all other materials except flavoring. Cook five minutes in double boiler. Add flavoring, put into buttered baking dish and bake until custard is set—about 35 minutes. May be served warm or cold, plain or with whipped cream.

Old Time Rice Custard

1 cup boiled rice
4 egg yolks
4 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
Nutmeg to taste
Beat yolks, sugar and butter together. Add milk and rice. Cook in double boiler until custard coats a spoon, then remove from fire; add whites stiffly beaten and nutmeg. Serve in custard cups.

Frozen Rice Pudding

1-3 Wash Pineapple Compote
1 cup water (boiling)
1 1/2 cups milk
Yolks of 3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups whipped cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
Add water to washed rice and cook in double boiler 30 minutes. Drain and return to double boiler, add milk and cook until tender. Rub through a strainer. Beat egg yolks light, add sugar and salt; pour over hot rice and cook until mixture thickens. Cool, fold in whipped cream, fill around mould and pack in ice for two or three hours. Drain slices of pineapple. Add 1/2 cup sugar to juice and two pieces of orange peel. Place over heat and cook to a thick syrup. Cut slices of pineapple in half and lay in syrup two hours. Unmould pudding and garnish with pineapple—placing out side down.

Note: Peaches may be used instead of pineapple.
Old Fashioned Rice Pudding
1 quart milk
2 tablespoons rice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup raisins
Wash rice and place with sugar and raisins in a baking dish. Scald milk and pour into dish. Bake in slow oven, stirring occasionally, until the rice has dissolved in the milk.

It is not possible to attain our wishes in this particular, even in a comparative degree, unless we regularly shake the whirling clouds of dust and move steadily ahead in the clean, clear atmosphere of pure thinking and righteous doing.

To make ourselves worthy in the eyes of others it is necessary to acquit ourselves worthily in the eyes of ourselves.

And this cannot be done until we have searched our body and soul and brushed off every particle of grit that causes disfigurement and holds us back.

A FRIEND

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE MADE a friend farewell today. And covered him with flowers. There was a preacher there to pray, And one old friend of ours.

And his eyes and gently said Some simple things about the dead. I looked around the quiet room, And every one was there—

Yes, hearts had blossomed like the bloom. That made the chance fair— For Charlie, Eddie, Dick and Jim Had gathered there to honor him.

And millionaires walked down the aisle. To all beside the poor, To hold communion as a while With all that will endure.

The greatness of a city stood And wept for one so greatly good. In life we thought our friend had made A failure out of his.

In death we knew how unafraid He faced the life that lay— For souls will swiftly mount above When borne upon the wings of love.

There was no pomp of pageantry, There was no roll of drums, But angels crowd the wall to see When such a pilgrim comes—

Yes, all God's host arose to say A welcome to a friend today. (By the Author's permission.)

French "Independence Day"

The name "Day of the Bastille" is given in French history to the 14th of July, 1789, because on that day the mob, assisted by the Gardes Francises, rose in insurrection and destroyed the prison fortress of the Bastille. During the years 1790-1792, the anniversary of this event was called "Le Fete de la Federation." The Day of the Bastille is also known as the "Day of July," and is celebrated by the French as a patriotic holiday, much as the Americans celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July.

Asked for It

Said the teacher: "Now, boys, quadruped and biped, you know, are two kinds of animals. Quadruped, animal with four legs, such as cow, elephant and horse. Biped, animal with two legs, such as—well, ah— You, there is a biped—pointing to a picture of a goose on the wall—"and I am a biped, and you are all bipeds. Now, what am I?"

A breathless pause, then one of the bipeds answered, "A goose, sir!"

Cold Feet

"Do you suffer from cold feet?" the doctor asked the young wife. "Yes," she replied. He promised to send her some medicine. "Oh," she replied nervously, "they're not cold feet."

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

The young lady across the way says some people like salt codfish but for her part she'll take the fresh variety.

Why does the man who sells advertising "bunk" get a fever when he reads his competitors' ads? Now does selling add to the cost of goods when the salesman is always cutting the price?

Hot Dawg! and Other Games

A dusky lady hurried into the drug store the other day and said she wanted a cent's worth of insect powder. "Hot lady," said the druggist, "that's not enough to wrap up."

"Man," exclaimed the lady, "Ah doesn't ask you to do no wrapping up—jus' blow it down mah back."

"Well, I think we can fit you in after the next patient. Go in this room and take your clothes off."

"Oh, if I have to, I will," replied the applicant.

Presbyterian Church

Next Sunday the Rev. J. S. Dargatzis, of Moorestown, will preach at the morning worship at eleven o'clock. During August there will be no evening service.

Occasionally you find the carcass of a loyal man out among the melon rinds, chicken heads, and tea leaves. But loyalty pays.

Some men get positively stooped shouldering carrying around the responsibility of things that don't concern them in the least.

RIVERTON LOSES GRILLING BATTLE TO U. S. MARINES

"Devil Dogs" Use Four Pitchers In Taking Hard Game From Riverton

MARINES OUTHIT RIVERTON 8 to 6

Last Saturday afternoon the Riverton baseball team lost a hard fought game to the U. S. Marine team from Quantico, Virginia, by a 8-6 score. This was only the third game out of twelve played, that the Riverton boys have lost.

The visitors had to use four twirlers in order to get the game, while Riverton used only the one— "Doc" Hinkle, the old reliable. But for a bit of faulty playing in the first frame the boys probably would have won the struggle. One slip in the fifth gave the Marines their last marker.

Play by Play

Ed Faye, playing first for Riverton, gathered up Chenoweth's roller and stepped on first. Hall fled out to Bennett. Freeny raised one to left which Nick Wallace let slip through his hands. Duncan singled. Hinko's tap for one base scored Freeny and Duncan after Freeny went to third on Duncan's tap and stole second. Hinko fled to King. Hinko tossed Hylton out at first. Ed Faye was safe when Freeny dropped Madden's throw at first. King fled out to Chenoweth. Johnny Faye singled. Gaffney fled to Chenoweth.

Second Inning

Levy hit to left and tried to stretch a single to a double but Wallace threw to Hylton who tagged Levy. Hudson popped to Hylton. Stollie slammed a triple but died on third when Chenoweth fled to Wallace.

Bennett fanned. Mendenhall singled. Wallace hit into a double play, Freeny to Hinko to Freeny.

Third Inning

Hall walked but was caught stealing second. Mendenhall to Johnny Faye. Freeny was out at first. Hylton to Faye. Duncan fled to King.

Hall tossed Hinko out at first. Hylton fanned. Ed Faye was out at first. Madden to Freeny.

Fourth Inning

Hinko fanned. Madden fled to Wallace. Gaffney threw out Levy at first.

King fled to Freeny. Johnny Faye singled to right. Parker threw out Gaffney at first. Bennett lifted one to Levy.

Fifth Inning

Hudson singled. Parker sacrificed Hudson to second. Hinko to Ed Faye. Chenoweth hit to Johnny Faye who tried to get Hudson at third but lost his footing when he threw to Gaffney at first. Hudson stole home. Johnny Faye threw. Hall out at first. Freeny fled to Bennett.

Sixth Inning

Mendenhall drew a pass. Wallace fanned. Hinko was hit by a pitched ball on the elbow of his pitching arm. King ran for Hinko. Hylton singled and Ed Faye singled scoring Mendenhall. Bennett took King's place on third, who was running for Hinko. King fled to Duncan. Johnny Faye was looking for the "scapple" and Parker slipped the third one over on Johnny.

Seventh Inning

BOOST REEVES

Palmyra Camp P. O. S. of A. After State Office

Active plans are being made by the Palmyra delegates to the State Convention of the P. O. S. of A. to be held in Paterson August 15th, to boost Leslie W. Reeves, as candidate for State Master of Formis.

William "Dad" Davison has been named chairman of the "vote getting" committee and they will do everything in their power to place Reeves as the new Master of Formis.

The committee is "Dad" Davison, George N. Wimer, George W. Rogers and Walter D. Lamon.

Highways delegates will make the trip and they will be accompanied by George N. Wimer, Past State President, William H. Davison, State Finance Officer, and Leslie W. Reeves, of the State Auditing Committee.

While at Paterson they will make the Hotel Alexander Hamilton their headquarters and when they return late Wednesday evening, August 19, it is hoped that the Master of Formis will be from the Palmyra Camp.

FRIGIDAIRE PRICES GREATLY REDUCED

Increased Production Given As Reason For Cut by Company

Dramatic price reductions effective immediately on all lines of Frigidaire were announced this week. The cut in price ranges from $20 to $50. Increased demand for Frigidaire, followed by increased production, is assigned as the reason by W. G. Bioehrer, president and general manager of Frigidaire.

The price cut effects Frigidaire metal cabinet models, residential and commercial installations, and also cooling units designed for use in the standard makes of ice boxes. Rapid strides are being made by Frigidaire in the commercial refrigeration field. Sales to grocers, restaurants, meat dealers, drug stores and florists have more than doubled in the past year. The tremendous increase in this field is altogether due to the great economies and added convenience by electric refrigeration. Mr. Bioehrer stated.

MORAVIAN CHURCH

The regular service at the Palmyra Moravian Church will be held next Sunday morning: Sunday School at 9:30, with church service at 10:45 followed by Holy Communion. The pastor will be in charge. Christian Endeavor at 7 o'clock in the evening.

A NEW LION CUB

There were six members away from the weekly luncheon of the Lion Club in the basement of the Lutheran Church, Tuesday afternoon, but a roaring good meeting took place anyway.

William H. Buck was elected to membership and he is the newest of "Nippers."

The baseball game was brought up for discussion and it was decided to wait until it would be more comfortable weather than at the present time.

The club is growing and it is believed that the entire quota of twenty-five charter members will be reached by the middle of September.

Peaches 25 Cents Per Half Peck

Yes, But No More—This Was The Quotation of 50 Years Ago

Following are some interesting items which appeared in the August 3 and 10, 1876, issues of The Mount Holly Mirror:

Poor peaches are quite plentiful at 25 cents per half peck. Eggs plants of home growth are scarce yet and command a good price—15 to 25 cents.

A 600-pound tarble was captured in the Delaware at Trenton on Monday, an unusual visitor so far from the ocean.

George Deacon, the coal dealer on Washington street, Mount Holly, received a lump of coal from Philadelphia on Monday that weighed over 1,500 lb. and is to be used as a sign.

Rubbing the face with vinegar is said to be a certain cure for sunburn if applied early.

We peeped into the Mount Holly opera house yesterday and found the artist, Mr. Smith, at work on the scenery and drop curtains. The curtain, designed and painted by this artist, is said to be the finest in the State. The opening performance is said to be booked for August 30th.

Convict Labor Competition

At a meeting held in Burlington on Thursday night, a protest was made against the ruinous competition of convict labor as fostered by the system of selling State prisoners to shoe manufacturers. It is claimed that orders amounting to $50,000 have been diverted from Burlington shoe manufacturers by this unjust competition.

The Hanover tract was sold at public sale at the court house on Thursday, by David S. Canon, Master in Chancery. All three tracts were bought by George B. Upton, of Boston, for $21,100.

The annual picnic of the Mount Holly Baptist Sunday School was held yesterday in the Smithville grove. A pleasant feature was music by the Smithville band, which was sent by Henehiah B. Smith. The kind act of Mr. Smith was much appreciated, as it came uncollected and unexpected.

During the past few weeks three pairs of twins were born at Birmingham and two pairs at Vincentown. Prolific communities, those.

Recent Rains

The recent rains have done wonders for the corn crop and farmers are reviving their doleful estimates. The promise is for a fair yield in this section.

Allen Hubbs, of Palmyra, reports a yield of 185 bushels of wheat from five acres. Half that much is counted a good crop.

Winners are coming late greater favor in the State. Several have been put up within a circle of a few miles.

One of the managers of the Children's Home last week took the children out to the farm of Abel Hury for a few days' recreation. They occupied the homestead mansion.

It is stated that the Amyris band of Mount Holly, has been disbanded by the Catholic priest because of disobedience in not leaving the picnic ground on Saturday night in compliance with his order.

Pierre Lorillard's Parole won the 1 1/2 mile race for the Second Stake at Saratoga on Thursday. Time, 3:10.4. His Bombast was second in the three-quarter mile race for two-year-olds.

The Agricultural Society has decided to erect 30 more stalls at the fair ground. That decision was reached by the committee in charge at a meeting in the office of secretary E. J. Collins on Monday.

Robert Grand Range

James M. Smith, of Mount Holly, was elected grand range and George S. Stewart, of Burlington, grand guard at the recent annual meeting of Red men of the place at Trenton.

At the recent Monmouth races, Pierre Lorillard's winstons aggregated $5,000.

Ocean county just has completed an "Iron" bridge at Toms River, 51 feet 10 inches long, for $1,500. The job was done by contract with a wooden bridge over a stream that you can skip across in Burlington county, under our system of not getting bids. But the taxpayers do not seem to care and evidently the freeholders do not.

At the Historical Society's meeting on Saturday the Harwar report that 685 books had been taken out during July and 10 new ones added.

The trustees of the Beverly public school have elected William K. Haines, of Vincentown, principal.

Prices of best Lehigh coal: chestnut, $6.75; coke, $7.25.

The death of August H. McPherson, of the firm McPherson, Willard & Co., of the Union steam forge, White Hill, was the result of a fall on the 3rd of July at the corner of Front and Market streets, Philadelphia, which splintered a bone in his arm and severely shocked his nervous system. Three weeks later the infection assumed a serious aspect and finally caused death. He was 44 years of age.

PROTEST ON PAVING WORK

Big Delegation Calls on Palmyra Borough Council to Discuss Ordinances

MATTER IS REFERRED TO STREET COMMITTEE

Palmyra Borough Council was treated to an unusual visitation Tuesday evening when forty or fifty property owners appeared to discuss the question raised by the decision of the town fathers to lay curbs and sidewalks at many various points all over town where such work has never been done to date.

For the most part there was no objection to the proposed work, except in regards to Charles Street which extends all the way across town three squares south of Broad Street. This street for a considerable part of its way extends along the side of properties instead of in front and since it is not used as much as streets leading toward Broad street there was some question in the property owners' minds as to whether they should be compelled to bear the expense of both sidewalk and curb at this time.

The matter was referred to the roads and streets committee for a decision at next Tuesday's regular meeting.

Among those present was William Tromb, who 27 years ago was the lamp lighter in Palmyra. "Each day he lighted and extinguished forty oil lamps for the fee of one dollar per month for each lamp. He was in the kerosene business at the time and spent the rest of the day retelling oil from house to house."

Councilman George N. Wimer announced that a meeting of the finance committee would be held next Monday evening at the police station and that all bills must be in by that time.

PUBLIC SERVICE REPAIRS TRACKS

Rails Raised to Level of Roadway on Broad Street

Motorists and others are well pleased at the improvement just made on Broad street by the Public Service when it raised itsrolley tracks through the Borough of Riverton to the level of the roadway and corrected the bad condition at the Thomas avenue crossing.

Nearly a year ago the grand jury asked the freeholders to give the Public Service a vote of confidence to do this work wherever needed between Burlington and West Palmyra. After numerous delays and some urging on the part of borough authorities and the freeholders the work was done.

The new level of the highway department should work on is the removal of the pole at the station so that the public may have full benefit of moving back the railroad gates which was done several months ago. The pole is now inside the track and cuts off several feet from the space which would otherwise be available to traffic. There is also a bad hole in the roadway at this point which should be fixed.

COLONEL ROEBLING LEAVES $20,000,000

Mon and Wife Receive Bulk of Bridge Builder's Estate

The will of Colonel Washington A. Roebbling, president of the John A. Roebbling Son's Company and builder of the Brooklyn Bridge, who died recently at the age of eighty-nine, was filed for probate with the Surrogate of Mercer County. An associate estimate his estate is in excess of $20,000,000.

John A. Roebbling, of Barnardsville, the colonel's son, and Mrs. Cornelia Farrow Roebbling, his widow, inherit the bulk of the estate. Mrs. Roebbling's share is a third, the remainder going to the son, with the exception of specific bequests.

Legacies for charity total $50,000 and are as follows: $25,000 to the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y.; $15,000 each to Mercer and St. Francis Hospitals, Trenton; in addition Colonel Roebbling directs his executor, the Trenton Trust Company, to distribute $5,000 among the servants employed at the time of his death.

Colonel Roebbling left personal bequests to Mrs. Margaret B. Roebbling, of Barnardsville, daughter-in-law, $50,000; Hegfried Roebbling, Trenton, and Donald Roebbling, Barnardsville, each $10,000; and to Mrs. F. Farrow, stepson, $20,000; Emily Warren, daughter of the late General G. K. Warren, $10,000; Victor Norman, Panama Canal Zone, for many years Mrs. Roebbling's companion, $500.

LENA'S NEW JOB

Blackburn to Manage and Play Russell "Lena" Blackburn, former major league star and well known resident of Palmyra, has signed to manage and play third base on the Ocean City Seaside baseball team for the remainder of the season, according to an announcement made Saturday by Ralph Chester, owner of the club.

He will succeed Art Hiram, former manager, who has resigned, was requested by the manager.

"Lena" has played ball for the greater part of his life and up to a month ago when he resigned to be managing the Little Rock, Arkansas, team.

He first stepped into the limelight of the sporting world when the Chicago White Sox purchased him in 1910 at the then enormous figure of $10,000.

Since has been called one of the best fielders that ever played professional ball and his throwing arm has proven a big asset in his work.

ROBERTSON WINS DISTANCE RACE

Only Three Boats Finish 25 Mile Course

Last Sunday morning the five L. I. boats of the Riverton Yacht Club started down stream on their annual long distance race. Going down, the race shaped up with Crowell leading, Robertson second, Mattis third, and Miller fourth. Shovel dropping out because of a breakdown. After holding the lead for one-half the course, Crowell fouled the Horseshoe buoy while coming about to start up the river in first place. This incident left but the three boats in competition. Robertson crossed the finish line first with Mattis only five seconds behind him. The three leaders were very close together on the first lap and the first two coming up stream sailed very close. A heavy northwest wind blew throughout the entire race. After getting underway the boats did not change their positions. The regatta committee followed the boats over the course in Captain Belknap's motor launch. Hopkin's big yawl also accompanied the race.

Horsemen Busy at Mount Holly Track

Harry M. Fory and John Hartman Among Fanciers Who Boast Promising String

Writing in the Times-Advertiser, of Trenton, "Web" made the following statement in regard to action being taken by the horsemen at the Mount Holly track:

While there have been no fair races held over the old Mount Holly Fair grounds track for a number of years, it is still quite a busy place, and a number of trainers are shaping their charges over it for the coming fair races, which will open the month in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

John Hartman, the well-known Trenton reiner, is giving a stable of twelve trotters and pacers their early training down at Mount Holly at present. Harry Fry has sixteen head on the move these days. Harry Decker is preparing his exhibition outfit over the Burlington county track.

Hartman is now working his aged horse along at a pretty stiff clip, especially on the last half of their miles. The colts in his stable are being trained at a fast clip. He will not race his horses before the yearly fair open.

Lewis F. Castor, the aged Philadelphia horse fancier, is the chief patron of the Hartman stable. He has five head in training at the Mount Holly track. Harvey Lester, E. H. by The Harvester, which showed his ability to step the half-mile in 2:10 last season, is eligible to be in 2:10 class this season, and should prove a real factor in that class at the fair, as he is taking his work very nicely this year.

Dr. Nelson, 2:17 1/4, by Dr. Dillon, is one of the first products of the young sire. He is eligible to the lowest classes and looks like a good prospect for next fall's races. Washington is a four-year-old, by Worby Peter. He had been trotting, but has been turned to the pace and will be seen racing this year at that way of going. The other two Castor horses are two-year-olds, Baron Belvue, by Belvue, and Betty Blake, by Major Speedy.

St. Peter, 2:12 1/4, is a speedy pacer, owned by H. L. Stout, of Flemington, N. J. He will be seen in the 2:13 class races this season, and appears quite fit for such fast company. Last year he demonstrated his ability to step the "twice arounds" in better than 2:10. As he has wintered well and is taking his training nicely, how to doubt prove a heart in his class this summer, when he is two.

Hartman is training a pair of two-year-olds for Mrs. E. A. Turner, of New Hope, Pa. They are well bred youngsters. E. W. Damon, of Trenton, has Mole Volo, which is showing promise.

Trainer Hartman has four colts himself, a pair of three-year-olds, Alma Volo, by Peter Volo, and Pussy McKiyo, by Peter McKiyo, the former a trotter, while the latter takes to the pace. The two-year-olds are Mandy Peter, by Worby Peter, C. Morris Heck, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Fry's Bunch Fine

Harry Fry, as usual, has a fine bunch of aged record horses, several unmarked ones, and a nice bunch of colts. He is training for Mr. Quire, of Albany, N. Y. Don the Orphan, 2:22 1/4, a 2:18 class prospect, are a fast pair of pacers. The two-year-old trotter, Sultan Volo, by Peter Volo, looks good.

Judge Sale, 2:05 1/4, owned by Willie D. Shinn, of Mount Holly, is the outside horse in the stable. Blingfast, 2:16 1/4, by Trampant, is a 2:17 class pacer this year which will win. Blingfast, 2:17 1/4, by Blingfast, was secured in the West and is eligible to the 2:20 class. He is a likely trotter and should step to a fast record.

Abby Direct is a five-year-old, unmarked pacer by Worby Peter, which shows some King of the Mountain. Anna Dillon is a five-year-old Dillon Asworthy trotter. An unmarked trotter, of unknown breeding, has been named Prince. He shows considerable speed these days.

Remaining Members Collie

The remaining members of the stable are colts. Peter Jolla is a three-year-old pacer, bred by Chester and Peter. He has shown 2:00 speed in his work and is up to right with the best. He is a bit right and soon right all the time.

Iona Dillon, by Dillon Asworthy, and Adoption by Guy Asworthy, are a pair of trotters, three-year-olds, which show well for the work they have done. The two-year-olds include the pacer, Peter K. by Peter Volo, The Great Eye Dillon by

LAKE AT MEMORIAL PARK BY DAMMING POMPESS CREEK

TURN LEFT ON AMBER

New Traffic Regulation at Broad and Main, Riverton

The traffic problem at Broad and Main streets, Riverton is a difficult one. Just how to handle cars so as to minimize the danger of collisions at this point had caused the police department much concern. Last week a new system of turning left on an amber light was installed and worked satisfactorily with the heavy traffic over the weekend.

According to the plan, left hand turns are made on the amber light while all other traffic is held. This removes the danger of crossing through traffic when turning on green light as heretofore. The police feel that as the traffic officers feel that as soon as the drivers become accustomed to the new signal the problem of handling cars at this point will be very much simplified.

Spanish Homes Are Popular

Those Built on Palmyra Extension by Fred Green Have Many Visitors

The four Spanish houses built on the Palmyra Extension by Fred Green are attracting a lot of attention. Every evening and on Sunday hosts of visitors are inspecting these uniquely handsome houses, two of which have already been sold. While Mr. Green's present plan contemplates the immediate erection of eleven houses, a total of forty will be built in the near future.

Into these homes are built the advantages of the experience Mr. Green has had in similar construction work in Florida and Cuba, and in addition to their distinctive architecture they are the acme of economy. No painting is required on the outside except the doors and window frames, and the finish of the inside walls does away with the expense of papering, besides being very much more attractive.

These homes are built of concrete and finished with stucco. The color is not painted on but mixed right into the stucco material, insuring a permanency not to be otherwise obtained. They will not wash off and they will not fade. These are Spanish features which even the $20,000 homes in Atlantic City do not have.

The fire-proof construction of these buildings entitles the owner to the minimum insurance rate which is in itself an item not to be overlooked, while the saving on maintenance costs will pay the taxes twice over. There is another big saving in heating—five tons of coal will keep these warm all winter. The heating plants are of the hot water type.

All the latest improvements and conveniences are built into these genuine Spanish homes—no extras need be added.

Until August 30th these homes will sell for $7,000 to $7,500.

The development extends on both sides of Lanes road from Cinnaminson avenue to the Public Road at West Palmyra.

This extension is but a few minutes walk from the Palmyra station and ten minutes from the new Palmyra bridge which will be started this year.

The erection of this bridge is bound to have a big effect on real estate in this neighborhood, and those who buy now will be getting in on the ground floor.

Mr. Green has a plan for financing these properties for which no additional charge is made. One house has been furnished and is open for inspection every day and evening and on Sunday.

REPRIMAND

Colored Man Nabbed For First Drunk

Walter Harris, colored, a second and Arch Streets, Palmyra, was arrested Saturday evening by Chief of Police C. Morris Heck, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

He was tried before Justice of the Peace William Fichter Sunday evening.

At his hearing it was learned that this was his first offense and in view of this fact he was discharged with a reprimand.

GEORGE W. E. HALL

George W. E. Hall, 500 Locust avenue, Palmyra, died Saturday morning following a long siege of illness.

He had resided in Palmyra for the last thirty-six years and was esteemed by a host of friends.

The deceased was a charter member of the Independence Fire Company, a member of the Knights of the Golden Eagle and the P. O. S. of A.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah M. Hall and son, Ellsworth.

Funeral services were held at his late home by the Rev. W. Lee, pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church. Interment was made in the Morgan Cemetery, Palmyra. Frank A. Snover, Funeral Director in charge.

DIVIDEND NOTICE

The Directors of The Palmyra National Bank have declared a semi-annual dividend of three per cent, payable August sixteenth, to stockholders of record August second.

Dillon Asworthy, and Peter Maine, by Peter Volo, are the other youngsters in the fry stable now being judged into racing form.

Project Sponsored by Prominent Citizens; Permission of War Dept. Asked

SWIMMING IN SUMMER SKATING IN WINTER

For some time there has been talk of doing something to improve swimming conditions in the creek at Riverton's Memorial Park. Recently a plan has been proposed to dam across the stream at the railroad bridge. The matter has been taken up with the war department to see if the necessary permission can be obtained.

If this dam is constructed it will back up the water on an area half a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, affording excellent boating and swimming in summer and an ideal place for skating in winter.

Under present conditions there is a small swimming beach which can be used only for a short time at high tide, and the boating facilities are worthless.

It is understood that this proposition will come up for discussion at the meeting of the Riverton Borough Council Thursday night of this week.

When Memorial Park was purchased several years ago a comprehensive plan was prepared at a cost of $200, marking the various improvements which it was planned to make from time to time, including a sports field, playground, etc. These improvements were to be made as the borough's finances would permit, and the proposed improvement of this section of the creek would be in line with the general plan.

There is also some talk of a playground where the children of Riverton could play in safety and under supervision. While it is too late to get it in operation this year it is hoped that it may be started in time for next summer.

One of the possible uses contemplated for Memorial Park when it was purchased was a site for a school building. At that time it was foreseen that before a great while additional school facilities would be needed in Riverton. The present school building is now overcrowded and in the fall the supervising principal will be obliged to give over her office for a class room and use one of the hallways for office purposes. The erection of a new school building on Memorial Park is being discussed by the school board and will probably be brought before the borough council tonight.

The fire-proof construction of these buildings entitles the owner to the minimum insurance rate which is in itself an item not to be overlooked, while the saving on maintenance costs will pay the taxes twice over. There is another big saving in heating—five tons of coal will keep these warm all winter. The heating plants are of the hot water type.

All the latest improvements and conveniences are built into these genuine Spanish homes—no extras need be added.

Until August 30th these homes will sell for $7,000 to $7,500.

The development extends on both sides of Lanes road from Cinnaminson avenue to the Public Road at West Palmyra.

This extension is but a few minutes walk from the Palmyra station and ten minutes from the new Palmyra bridge which will be started this year.

FIREMEN CHAMPIONS OF SECOND HALF

Win Palmyra Twilight League Crown For Second Legs of Summer Series

The Palmyra Firemen were acclaimed the champions of the second half series of the Twilight League when they defeated the Methodists Monday evening by a score of 8-1.

The Methodists were the winners of the first half series and were the logical rivals for the "fire eaters" but they were forced to acknowledge defeat.

Lady Grant, twirling ace of the victors, allowed only four hits while Lamont and Watson were picked for seven timely singles which, with the four errors of the Methodists accounted for the eight runs.

Wenger and King were the batting stars with two hits apiece, while not one member of the Methodists was able to gather more than one hit.

The Firemen have won five successive victories and with only one more game to play they cannot be set back.

Baptists Win

The Baptists were victorious in the game Tuesday evening between themselves and the Riverton Grays by a score of 8-1.

The pitching of Art Reeves was the feature of the game. Art allowed the first man at bat to get a hit and then pitched air tight ball.

If the Baptists had played the same type of ball all season they certainly would have been in the running for the championship.

Which was the point the advertisement failed to mention.

See Burlington Span Within Year

Fine Plans Proposed For Bridge To Be Erected Over Delaware by Private Capital

When Burlington celebrates its 25th anniversary next year, it will probably be able to dispense an outstanding feature of Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial by opening a Delaware river bridge of its own.

Plans for the Burlington-Bristol span, for which Congress granted a franchise to Joseph R. Chesman, Burlington publisher, and Mayor Anderson, of Bristol, have gone forward so rapidly that engineers, after a conference this week, announced that if the proper site for bridge heads can be procured without further delay, the new bridge can be completed and open for traffic in October, 1927.

Five sites for the proposed span are said to be under consideration by the bridge promoters. Two of them include a plan to use Burlington Island, spanning both the north and south channels with draw bridges.

This plan is widely favored among citizens, as it would open for development the land on the island, which is within the city limits, and part of which is owned by the city and controlled by the board of island managers for the benefit of public schools of this city. A large amusement park occupies the southern end of the island.

Both the city and the Park management stand ready to grant a right of way across the island if this economical type of structure is agreed upon by the builders.

Opening of the Camden span has served to forcibly indicate the need for another bridge midway between that point and Trenton, where there is no bridge crossing for a distance of forty miles.

A small ferry at this point, operating only in fair weather and never at night, usually handicaps hundreds of motorists, who have crossed at Camden. They hope to find another crossing at the ferry here in the evening.

Now Highway Anticipated

With the opening of the Burlington span, it is now indicated, will come the early construction of new highway from the Delaware to the sea, rivaling the White Horse Pike in popularity.

The Burlington County Board of Freeholders, the Highway Commission, agreed upon a plan last week, to straighten the old Buddtown road, near Four Mile, that leads to the Plains and across the state direct to Barnegat. The present highway takes a swing toward Chatsworth, which is at the apex of a long triangle. The improved link will cut across the base of this triangle, clipping five miles from the river to the sea route.

Rapid development of Ocean county ocean front resorts has thrown heavy traffic on this route since it was improved and traveled by tourists every week will benefit by the new link, which state Engineer Sloan says will open for travel next spring.

To Open New Shore Route

It is the general accepted belief among Burlington county officials that this improvement of the Buddtown road is a move toward the early construction of a broad route, which will run in an almost straight line from Burlington to Barnegat.

The new bridge will be a great feeder for this proposed highway and will, in fact make it a necessity. Further extensions of the highway to the ocean end are said to contemplate the construction of a broad bulkhead and concrete viaduct across Great Egg Harbor in place of the present wooden bridge, which has grown too small for the flood of week-end motor traffic to and from the resorts along the eighteen miles of the island to Long Beach.

Commenting today on the engineering process, Joseph R. Chesman said that the type of construction contemplated would permit rapid building of the bridge, once the foundations for piers are laid.

Toll Bridge

The span will be opened as a toll bridge, but under the franchise may be bought by the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, after a span of years, and opened as a free bridge.

Fruit and truck growers in Burlington county are enthusiastic over the promised building of the bridge, which will give another route to the Pennsylvania markets.

Much custom already comes from Bristol and other Bucks county towns, but the little ferry boat is limited in carrying capacity and Pennsylvania buyers, other than bucksters, who must have fresh supplies from the big market, will not put up with the delays and inconveniences of the interstate trip. Fruit farmers say the bridge will be a big advantage to them also in shipping by truck to interior Pennsylvania towns, where there is a big demand for Burlington county's famous peaches and apples in season.

STATE ENTOMOLOGISTS VISIT RIVERTON LAB.

Trip to Riverton Part of Program of Insect Tree Conference

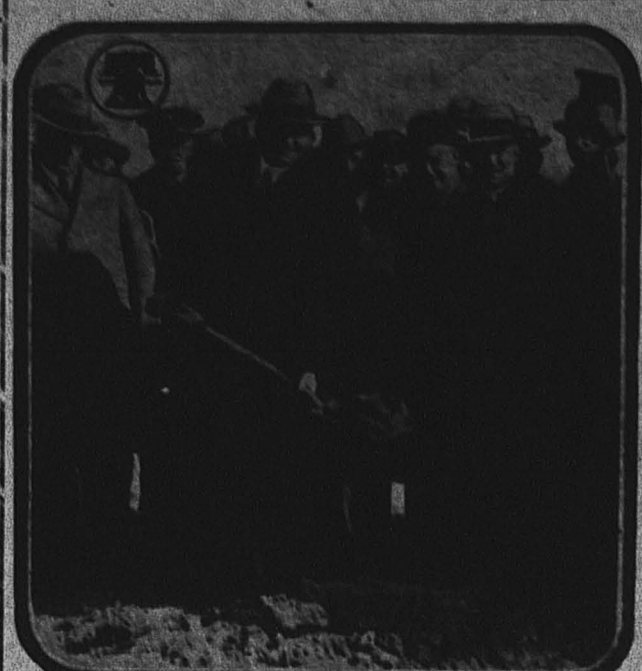

The third annual Shade Tree Conference was held in Philadelphia, Aug. 3 and 4. A trip to the Japanese Beetle Laboratory at Riverton was one of the features of the program and many well known tree surgeons and entomologists availed themselves of this privilege to inspect the work being done at the Riverton station.

Among the entomologists present were A. P. Burgess, in charge of the Gypsy Moth Laboratory, Melrose Highlands, Mass., Dr. W. E. Britton, State Entomologist of Connecticut, Dr. T. J. Headley, State Entomologist of New Jersey, C. H. Hadley, Director Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania, and Dr. E. F. Felt, Albany, New York.

PRINCESTOWN NOTES

Next Sunday Rev. Philip Vail, Ph. D., D. D., of Princeton, will preach at the morning worship at eleven o'clock at the Riverton Presbyterian Church, Sunday School at ten o'clock. During August there will be no Sunday evening service.

Haddons Continue As Tennis Champs

Win West Jersey League Crown For Tenth Consecutive Year

For the tenth consecutive year, Haddon Field Club wears the crown of champions of the West Jersey Tennis League.

Demonstrating clear-cut superiority over the other four members of the league, in every one of the season's five tournaments, the Haddons amassed the sensational total of 11 1/2 points.

Haddonfield brought their titanic season to a glorious climax by sweeping to victory in all classes of the final day's competition at Moorestown Field Club Saturday.

Although the Haddons could have afforded to lose in all five classes, and still win the 1926 honors, so splendid a conclusion put a touch of gilt to the lily-like campaign, and made the record of the champs one for other clubs to shoot at in the future.

The outstanding feature of the day was the remarkable work of Charles Orr, Haddonfield's stellar racketeer. Orr, who had won the singles honors two weeks ago, repeated Saturday, and his victim was none other than the brilliant Lieutenant R. Morgan Watt, representing Woodbury. Charles won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, and his triumph was all the more noteworthy in view of the fact that he had lost to Watt earlier in the season, in straight sets.

On Inevitable

Orr was inevitable Saturday, however, and he secured revenge with a vengeance.

Harold Furness, Haddon's veteran star, returned to the court for the first time this season in league competition, and teamed up with Bill Cummings to win the doubles laurels.

As expected Miss Laura Pittenger and Dr. L. L. Glover won the mixed doubles, while Miss Matilda Glover gave Haddonfield six more points in the singles. The Taylor sisters seemed on their way to victory in the doubles when rain intervened and the match was postponed indefinitely.

Saturday's competition was singularly free from extra-set matches. Only three matches required more than the scheduled two sets, and two of these were in men's doubles. Mack Green and Tom Slater, Merchantville's youthful pair, forced C. A. Johnson and F. H. Bergheim, of Woodbury, to an extra set to defeat them, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, while Malcolm Kraft and Charles Roth, of Riverton, after getting off to a flying start on Furness and Williams by annexing the first set, 6-3, weakened and lost the next two, 6-4, 6-8.

But of these sets, were history-concealed, as shown by the fact that they were deuced.

Miss Ruth Walton and Walter C. Holmes, of Woodbury, and Miss Dorothy Wood and R. Roberts, of Moorestown, staged a hard-fought mixed doubles match which saw the Burlington countess win the first set after going to deuces, 7-5, only to drop the next two to their Gloucester county adversaries, 6-2, 6-3.

The greatest individual set of the day was that between Miss Grace Ellsworth and Miss "Tatie" Craft, of Riverton, and Miss Elizabeth Dougherty and Mrs. William Ricord, of Merchantville. The first set of their match went to thirty-four games, before the Rivertonians broke through to win, 18-16. They then walked off with the second set, 6-2, to take the match.

The summaries of Saturday's events follow:

Moorestown Centre of Bus Struggle

P. R. T. Trying To Crowd Out Independent Owners Operating From Town

Moorestown is in the very heart of the war between the P. R. T.—Public Service combination and independent owners for the bus supremacy of this section.

The war opened Tuesday morning when Penn-Jersey Transportation Company, an offspring of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, inaugurated an interstate bus line between Moorestown and Philadelphia over the new bridge.

All day Main street presented a picture of great bus activity with the Penn-Jersey machines, which were running on a twenty-minute headway, the Moorestown-Philadelphia Transit Company cars, the local line which was inaugurated two weeks ago, and the Camden concern's buses, the service which started about the same time the local company began operation.

Another Penn-Jersey line between Harrington and Philadelphia started Tuesday morning.

These lines operate on a headway announced as 15 minutes and use a fare-system with a minimum charge of 15 cents and maximum of 25 cents.

At the Philadelphia side, the terminal of both lines is the City Hall. From this point, the lines cross the Camden bridge. In Camden, the Moorestown line proceeds by way of Seventh street to State street, out State street to Federal, and onto the Moorestown pike.

On the Moorestown side, the fare zone is at Twenty-first and Federal streets in Camden, at Maple Shade, Lenola and Moorestown.

Passengers entering or leaving the buses at any point east of Lenola pay 15 cents, from Lenola to Maple Shade 20 cents, from Maple Shade to Twenty-first and Federal streets 15 cents.

The buses start from the Philadelphia City Hall at 5 o'clock each morning and operate until midnight, and from Moorestown terminal from 5:55 a. m. to 12:55 a. m.

The Penn-Jersey Company has obtained from the Delaware River Joint Commission authorization to operate buses across the bridge and, through this contract, is now able to run its buses at a lower cost than independent interstate operators.

At the time the agreement was reached between the Commission and the Penn-Jersey Company, it was explained that the company was being granted merely a "wholesale rate" on tolls, paying a 25 cent toll charge for single deck buses—such as are being operated on the new Moorestown and Harrington lines—while independent operators must pay the regular toll rate of approximately 40 cents.

A move which was seen as one phase of the war between the "Mitt" management and independent bus operators in Camden and Barrington was made Tuesday in Philadelphia.

CONGESTION OF TRAFFIC ON MARKET street, Philadelphia, brought about by the many interstate buses operating across the bridge, will be lessened, it was announced, by Philadelphia City Council in its latest action.

Definite steps have been taken toward passing an ordinance forbidding all bus stops on Market street, it was stated after Mayor W. Frederick Kendrick had conferred with traffic authorities.

The move, it was pointed out, is a move favoring the "Mitt" management in the new battle, as it was regarded as unlikely that P. R. T. buses would be barred from Market street inasmuch as that company possesses a blanket franchise for the entire city.

This Wednesday morning an official of the Moorestown-Philadelphia Transit Company reported that the line had not been affected by the ordinance during the first day of the bus war, but that the local line's patronage was as great Tuesday as any day since the company has been operating. It was also intimated that the local concern was considering the purchase of additional machines.

The Penn-Jersey buses are of the gas-electric type used extensively by the P. R. T.

BAND PROGRESSES

Campaign For Funds In Moorestown Proves Successful

According to Business Manager Joseph Bohnerieth, the campaign for funds for the recently organized Moorestown Community Band has proved very successful and is meeting a big response from the business people of Moorestown.

The members of the band are making a drive to raise $200 with which to purchase music and instruments, which will enable it to begin activities on a larger scale and become self-supporting.

Equipment purchased by this fund will be the property of the community and should the band at any time disband, it will revert to the people of Moorestown.

Rehearsals are held every Tuesday night in the Community House. The band does not intend to make another public appearance until September, when more of the members will have returned from their vacations. There has been some talk of a series of concerts to be started in September. No definite action has been taken along these lines, however.

The members are also interested in organizing a juvenile band, so if there are any boys in the community who would care to join, they are requested to communicate with Mr. Bohnerieth.

A. K. Salmon is the leader of the Community Band. Anyone who has had any band experience and would care to become a member of Moorestown's new musical organization is instructed to report at the Community House at 8 o'clock any Tuesday evening.

A regatta for blinded oarsmen was held at Putney, England, recently.

Fine Plans Proposed For Bridge To Be Erected Over Delaware by Private Capital

When Burlington celebrates its 25th anniversary next year, it will probably be able to dispense an outstanding feature of Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial by opening a Delaware river bridge of its own.

Plans for the Burlington-Bristol span, for which Congress granted a franchise to Joseph R. Chesman, Burlington publisher, and Mayor Anderson, of Bristol, have gone forward so rapidly that engineers, after a conference this week, announced that if the proper site for bridge heads can be procured without further delay, the new bridge can be completed and open for traffic in October, 1927.

Five sites for the proposed span are said to be under consideration by the bridge promoters. Two of them include a plan to use Burlington Island, spanning both the north and south channels with draw bridges.

This plan is widely favored among citizens, as it would open for development the land on the island, which is within the city limits, and part of which is owned by the city and controlled by the board of island managers for the benefit of public schools of this city. A large amusement park occupies the southern end of the island.

Both the city and the Park management stand ready to grant a right of way across the island if this economical type of structure is agreed upon by the builders.

Opening of the Camden span has served to forcibly indicate the need for another bridge midway between that point and Trenton, where there is no bridge crossing for a distance of forty miles.

A small ferry at this point, operating only in fair weather and never at night, usually handicaps hundreds of motorists, who have crossed at Camden. They hope to find another crossing at the ferry here in the evening.

News Tid Bits

Items of General Interest Picked Up About the County and State

Work on paving of the road from Egg Harbor City to Mays Landing, a distance of about seven miles, has been started. Thousands of motorists use this road to and from shore points and in going to Mays Landing and Cape May Court House, the county seats of Atlantic and Cape May Counties. Workmen are strengthening and widening bridges along the road. Traffic will be maintained on one side of the road, while the improvements are being made. The new road will be eight feet wide, one of the broadest in the state.

Extensions of the Beverly telephone system are planned by the Delaware and Atlantic Telephone and Telegraph Company according to announcements made by the officials. Nearly one thousand miles of wire will be added to the present plant, and the cost of the work is estimated at $13,000. The extension work is to begin in October and be completed in February.

Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the Brotherhood Cemetery, Washington street, Mount Holly, to a company headed by George Bittling, undertaker, on Garvin street. The cemetery, which is owned by Marion Gresh, No. 5, Brotherhood of America, of Mount Holly, was started by that organization in 1897. It comprises seven acres of land fronting on Washington street and extending back to the Pennsylvania railroad.

The new Samuel Miller school, on Clifton avenue, Mount Holly, is now complete except for the installation of furniture, plumbing and lighting fixtures. The school, which must be ready for occupation in time for the opening of the fall term of school, will be finished in two weeks' time, at the most, unless some unforeseen delay prevents. The T. M. Gibbs Construction Company, the builders, have made wonderful headway during the summer months and as a result the school has been built in record breaking time.

Additional transportation facilities for New Jersey's traveling public were granted by the Public Utility Commission in approving municipal permits for 32 motor passenger buses one day last week.

The exclusive old building known for years as the "Indian Chief Hotel" at the corner of Main and Union streets, Medford, N. J., is to be extensively remodeled by J. A. F. Weiss, of Atlantic City. It is reported that the new owner will start with the operation in about two weeks.

The next regular meeting of the Burlington County Farmers' Association will be held at Delanco, on Wednesday evening, August 18.

The annual Atlantic County Agricultural Fair and poultry show will be held this year on the Egg Harbor fair grounds for four days and nights, August 2, 3, 4 and 5. Every effort is being made to make this year's exhibition bigger and better than ever. The superintendents of departments of the fair promise that their exhibits will far outclass those of former years.

Visitors will no longer be confused by the mass of streets in Haddonfield. At a recent meeting of the Borough Commission, Commissioner Fred T. Holloway announced that new street markings will be ordered placed at every street intersection. He stated many street signs erected three years ago had been knocked down by motorists or boys.

Preparations are under way to begin the construction of new curbs and sidewalks on thirty-two streets in Beverly, together with the repaving of the curbs on eight streets. The cost of the work is estimated at $200,000.

"BETTER LAWNS"

In an effort to assist New Jerseymen to beautify their lawns the State College of Agriculture at New Brunswick has run off for free distribution an edition of 12,000 copies of an illustrated handbook entitled "Better Lawns" and is prepared to double or even triple the next editions if the demand is sufficient.

To facilitate prompt distribution the 15 county agricultural agents in the state as well as the college mail room have been supplied with copies of the booklet.

Both the care and improvement of established lawns and the making of new lawns are discussed by the author, Herbert R. Cox, state crops specialist.

Contrary to common opinion, late August and September is the best time for seeding new lawns, says Mr. Cox. This he points out is the first step toward combating the weed nuisance.

The old questions of what kind of seed and fertilizer to use, how much to use, what to do for shady lawns, and how to revive lawns that are getting "run down," are treated thoroughly and with a brevity that a busy person will appreciate. The entire discussion occupies only 8 pages.

The booklet is mailed free on request and, in accordance with a federal provision, no postage is required.

MORE MARRIAGES

But Divorces Increase Too, According to New Jersey C. of C. Figures

The Department of Commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 27,672 marriages performed in New Jersey during the year 1925, as compared with 27,691 in 1924, representing an increase of 71, or 0.3 per cent.

During the year 1925 there were 2,338 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 2,000 in 1924, representing an increase of 338, or 16.9 per cent.

The estimated population of the state of New Jersey on July 1, 1925, was 3,599,803, and on July 1, 1924, 3,522,440. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 7.69 in 1925, as against 7.84 in 1924, and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 0.65 in 1925, as against 0.57 in 1924.

SHOPPING FOR MODEL

The housewife who goes shopping for labor-saving equipment for her kitchen, will surely be confused by the multitude of pieces shown to her by an interested clerk. Unless she has her needs carefully budgeted, her list made out, and takes it along, she may find herself tempted to purchase something not on the list and which she could well do without. Thus, a little will power is needed for effective buying. Intended Editor C. T. Tule, state home management specialist at the New Jersey College of Agriculture, she continues: Looking neither to the right nor to the left, holding her curiosity in check, the housewife must go after and purchase the articles she has listed. Then, and not until then, may she wisely relax and go visiting in the department in order to see about new equipment which is being shown. She puts down the names of several pieces for future study as to their value to her, but buys none. Should any of them prove to be labor or time saving for her in her "business as a housekeeper," she will add them to her list. By giving herself sufficient time to study the necessity of each piece to her in her home, the housewife will be running her house-keeping as a successful man runs his business.

Thoroughly Threshed

Since 87 per cent of the money which goes into the yearly running of the homes of the United States is spent by women, it is a part of woman's job to learn how best to spend this money. Many, many kitchens are cluttered with various kinds of pots, pans, patent holders, and other contrivances that never were and never could be of any real help.

SAVING LIGHTHOUSE

State Protecting Historic Barnegat Beacon With Series of Jetties

Tides of Barnegat Inlet, which have threatened the destruction of historic old Barnegat Lighthouse for five years, have been checked in their destructive surge by the first of a series of jetties which the state is building to preserve the light. Storm tides were lashing the gravel foundation within fifteen feet of the brick tower when the federal government this year conveyed the lighthouse and adjoining acreage to the state as a public park. Fear was entertained by many that the state's relief had come too late and that the old tower would topple into the sea before jetties could be constructed. Contractors rushed the work, however, and have practically completed the first stone jetty on the seaward side of the lighthouse.

CONVERTS 500

William P. Young, Burlington's blacksmith by day and evangelist by night, who recently preached for six weeks in Philadelphia, has received several letters from prominent Philadelphians who highly compliment him on his work.

Mr. Young converted over 500 persons to the Christian faith, and in addition distributed 2,000 copies of St. John's Gospel and over 300 sacred pictures and supplied the police along the river-front towns with copies of the Gospel of St. John, which were prepared especially for the police department.

The Philadelphia meetings of which "Billy" has charge were held in the open, the last one being held at Washington Square, at which there were nearly 1,000 people present. One Sunday Mr. Young preached all day at Ontario and 11 streets, Frankford.

"No, her parents do that—I love her, you know."

HAT?

That Queer Head-Piece Receives Classification at Last

Great is the judicial mind. Trained and accustomed, it cleaves to the line between speculation and certainty, fancy and fact. For a sounder insight it concerns itself with problems large and small, and by no means the least moments of its recent contributions to contemporary knowledge is the classification of the weird device, part eye shade, part bandage.

The thing, Magistrate August Glasmeyer, of New York, decided in his night court, is a HAT. A defendant spectator in court supplied the vehicle for a decision and precedent when, on being enjoined by an attendant, he refused to remove the one he was wearing. The layman held that the contraption was an eye shade, and so appropriate for indoor wear. Justice Glasmeyer pronounced it a hat, and off it came.

This latticed vision is the most conspicuous, if not the preponderant, manner of summer headgear this present season. An impression is that it was originated, or at least given its first boost toward popularity, by Miss Helen Willa, the almost redoubtable tennis luminary.

There has been at least one instance of atrocious assault and battery charged to it: a hunky laborer having resented with a shovel the application to himself of the feminine name because he had donned one of the protective peaks.

Motorists, messenger boys, golf players, bricklayers and bikers in French heels are wearing these Helen Willas, once regarded as hybrid and ludicrously hazy. Having been classified and so robbed of their poor little secret, the articles under consideration probably will not be long in disappearing—Newark News.

TWO ACCIDENTS

No One Seriously Injured in Moorestown Crash

Police report two automobile accidents in Moorestown over the weekend. No one was seriously injured, however.

Saturday afternoon a woman occupied was thrown from a Buick touring car when it ran into an Oldsmobile coach driven by George W. Wright, of South River, at Pleasant Valley avenue and Haddonfield road. The woman, who refused to give the police her name, was treated for lacerations.

The Buick, which was driven by Robert C. Mitchell, of 2805 South Norwood street, Philadelphia, made a left hand turn at the intersection and piled into the machine driven by Wright, completely demolishing the front of the coach. Wright, the only occupant of his machine, escaped injuries.

Sunday evening a speeding "hit-and-run" driver sideswiped another machine, forcing it off the road at Second street and Camden avenue, and then sped off in the direction of Mount Holly.

The machine hit by the reckless driver, which was a cream colored Nash roadster, was disabled and considerably damaged. Although some of its occupants were injured, one of its women passengers fainted after the accident.

Chief of Police John Bradshaw, who was notified after the accident, set out to round up the hit-and-run driver, but was unable to find any trace of him beyond Mallowville. The chief was seriously handicapped for traffic was very heavy and the fugitive had a half-hour's start.

SWIMMING MEET

Second of Moorestown Community House Series Held

The second lap of the swimming events held at the Moorestown Community House Tank was held Tuesday evening with an audience of over two hundred. The situation remains practically the same as the week previous with Ed. Roberts as high scorer.

Rhéal Hanley, however, sprang a surprise on Emma Murphy when she was the close winner of the 20 yard dash. The former was given 7 seconds start and as the time was around 20 seconds, she did not look quite so bad. Carr Eklston was high scorer for the weaker sex, being victorious in both the 40 yard dash and diving. Events and winners in their order follow:

Boys—40 yards, Roberts, Rhéal Hanley, time 19.45.

Girls—20 yards, Hanley, Murphy, time 20.25.

Women—40 yards, Eklston, Englehart, Johnson, time 21.5.

Men—40 yards, Roberts, Price, Workman, time 22.

Men—40 yards, Roberts, Haines, Krusen, time 22.15.

Boys—Diving, Rhéal, Dowager, Roberts.

Men—Diving, Roberts, Krusen, Bentel.

Women—Diving, Eklston, Englehart, Johnson.

Girls—Diving, Murphy, Hanley.

Five points are awarded for the winner in each event for 1st place, 3 for second, and 1 for third. At the completion of the contests, the total points in each event will be counted and the one securing the greater amount will be the winner. Prizes will be awarded for 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and with only four more opportunities to compete, new entrants should sign up at least before the one Tuesday evening, Aug. 17.

PALMYRA OLD HOME DAY

COLLECTING-LET UNLAWFUL WAY

The opening drive for funds for the celebration of Palmyra's "Old Home Day" was held Saturday evening.

The drive was held at 7 o'clock the faithful workers that had gathered started to canvass the town, despite the fact that it was raining.

There were twelve collectors in all, about half the number that had planned to appear, but it is thought that the inclement weather held many persons in.

Only 135 donations were received from a possible 1200 and the collectors will continue the work until the quota is filled.

Adrift at Sea in Small Boat

Tells Moorestown Rotary Club of His Adventure While Fishing

R. Russell Perkins entertained the Moorestown Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon in the Community House last Thursday noon with a very interesting account of a boating day and night which he was stranded at sea in a small launch.

The story was very convincing. Although the situation was very serious at the time, the speaker, in his characteristic manner, told of the night in a very amusing fashion.

Mr. Perkins went on to narrate that on the previous Thursday he had decided to forsake the Rotary Club for a few days' vacation at the shore. Thursday morning he went tuna fishing with Col. and Mrs. Chance and their two sons.

All was well in the morning, declared Russell, and they spent the time trolling. Finally reaching a point twenty-five miles out, at noon they weighed anchor and started for shore, but were only under way about ten minutes when the motor sputtered, lapsed into a coma or something, and gave all indications of being dead.

An investigation showed that it was not the motor, but the storage battery which had assumed a lifeless aspect, and after some tinkering, the colonel decided to use another method to start his engine, but this too failed, and some other bit of mechanism became jammed, the motor backed up, and the craft was flooded with gasoline.

Then, of course, it was impossible to touch the motor, and the party faced the plight of being stranded at sea with a dead motor, no sails and nary a ship in sight.

Russell was enjoying a delightful luncheon at the time of the mishap, but the appetite utterly disappeared when they became stranded, he declared.

Finally, as a last resort, the two boys rigged up a square sail of ponchos. With the aid of the makeshift rigging they got within twenty miles of the coast when a heavy fog set in.

Menaced by Big Ships

This made their position still more precarious, for the small craft was then in the outside steamer lane, and although they could hear the shrieks of the fog horns of the huge vessels, they could not see them through the dense fog, or attract attention. On several occasions, they were within the wake of the great rolling waves created by the ships.

Just before dark they sighted ahead and found they were off Beach Park, showing they had drifted fifteen miles in and seventeen miles north. At dusk they began to send up distress signals every hour. At 8 o'clock the Seaside Coast Guard station answered, then the members of the party felt they would soon receive aid.

Their hopes, however, were shattered, and when 11 o'clock came and the wind changed from southeast to south-west, forcing them out to sea again, they still were without assistance.

They cast over the anchor at midnight and continued to send up signals hourly, but with no response until 6 o'clock when members of the Barnegat Inlet Coast Guard station went to their rescue in a whale boat, which the speaker declared was one of the most welcome sights he had ever witnessed.

No Dreaming

At the conclusion of Mr. Perkins' discourse, Ian Forbes suggested the club sing "Drifting and Dreaming."

"Plenty of drifting, but no dreaming," retorted the speaker.

He then explained that he later learned that the Seaside station had tried to communicate with them by the blinker light system, which they did not understand.

According to weather reports, a heavy storm had been predicted for the Eastern shore last day, and night and this helped to add to the fears of the party and the relatives of the stranded fishermen.

P. H. Metcalf, of Madison, Ohio, father-in-law of Dr. Howard C. Curran, a guest at the dinner, some of the members had heard that Mr. Metcalf has a splendid voice so when he was introduced they requested he favor them with a solo. He graciously responded and sang two verses of a Hawaiian song the club joining him on the chorus.

AGAINST CHILDREN

There are two "crimes against children" that are committed daily and many times daily—and not by so-called enemies of the children but by dotting parents and other relatives.

One of these is the telling of children over and over "You're a bad boy," "You're a bad girl," "You're just as mean as you can be."

Perhaps these same parents and relatives fail to realize the power of suggestion.

Let us suppose then that children in infancy are pure and sweet and good. From what source then do they learn evil? Surely from example and suggestion.

Back time a little child is told he is bad, he will have less confidence in his innate goodness. Soon he will begin to believe he is bad and eventually he will grow to be bad.

Tell him instead that he is good. Praise him for every good deed. Ignore his mistakes as often as possible. Point out his wrong habits in as far as you are able to help him to see them and to overcome them and above all things—live and speak before him as you would want him to live and speak. Too many of us parents have heard our children imitate our very tones of voice when these tones were full of fretfulness or anger and then we have realized just how initiative are their plastic minds and how great an influence we have upon them.

The second common "crime" against our little ones is the habit of frightening them in order to get them to do what we want. "If I see you don't do what I tell you to do, a great big dog will come and bite you." Worse still, "The policeman will come and take you to jail if you don't mind what I say." Thus the child is made to fear his animal friends and the law—the very protectors of his peace and his home and his liberty.

When you are tempted to tell a child he is bad or to frighten him into obedience think twice and then—don't do it—Mounds Independent.

ACCIDENTS OF NATURE

Great voices are rare and undoubtedly owe their wonderful purity of tone to an accidental combination of those physical characteristics which conduce to the production of song. The human musical instrument, though built of living tissue, resembles in structure the reed organ pipe fitted with a vox humana stop. In both cases the note depends on the vibrations of a column of air produced in the organ by a reed and in the voice by the vocal cords. The human air chamber corresponding to the organ pipe is composed of the larynx and the bronchial system beneath it. The throat, mouth and nasal cavities form the resonators which, by alternation in shape and size, are able to pick out and emphasize component parts of the fundamental tones produced in the larynx. The lungs form the bellows which produce the upward blast of air, and upon their quality depends the loudness of the voice.

World's Pipe Smokers

In the Far East pipe decoration constitutes an honored branch of art and the most eminent of designers, of carvers, of etchers, of lacquerers, engravers and metal workers may contribute their quota to the embellishment not alone of pipes, but also of the tinder boxes, tobacco boxes and pipe cases that are associated with them. The production of these pieces for delicate shape and size has had its influence on the pipe-makers of other nations with whom they have been brought into contact. As, for example, on those of the Indians and Red Indians—in northern America, where the Tongue pipe has made a home, the native pipe shows marked Chinese characteristics, including the small hole, which contributes to the slow consumption of the smoke.

ANCIENT MORTGAGES

Ancient mortgages that had been paid but had not been discharged from record at the county clerk's office were ordered erased from the records after testimony, taken before Judge Haubert, showed that no demand for interest or principal had been made for many years.

One, given in 1794, was on land in Burlington township which was owned by Aaron W. Johnson in 1894 and recently was sold to Samuel Roemer and William Grass, and was for $60 pounds sterling. When making a search to prepare the deed of transfer the record of the old mortgage was found uncancelled. Charles M. Riggs, of Burlington, was counsel for the petitioner.

Application for the discharge of record of three other mortgages was made by George M. Gillman, representing Richard P. Allen, of Moorestown and C. Floyd Hancock, of Springfield. Two mortgages on the Gilbert farm, near Moorestown, recently given to Mr. Allen, one for $125.50, dated 1816, the other for $225.50, dated 1816, were ordered discharged also. One for $25.00 on the Hancock farm in Springfield township, given in 1821, recently sold to John M. Kelly.

Adrift at Sea in Small Boat

Tells Moorestown Rotary Club of His Adventure While Fishing

R. Russell Perkins entertained the Moorestown Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon in the Community House last Thursday noon with a very interesting account of a boating day and night which he was stranded at sea in a small launch.

The story was very convincing. Although the situation was very serious at the time, the speaker, in his characteristic manner, told of the night in a very amusing fashion.

Mr. Perkins went on to narrate that on the previous Thursday he had decided to forsake the Rotary Club for a few days' vacation at the shore. Thursday morning he went tuna fishing with Col. and Mrs. Chance and their two sons.

All was well in the morning, declared Russell, and they spent the time trolling. Finally reaching a point twenty-five miles out, at noon they weighed anchor and started for shore, but were only under way about ten minutes when the motor sputtered, lapsed into a coma or something, and gave all indications of being dead.

An investigation showed that it was not the motor, but the storage battery which had assumed a lifeless aspect, and after some tinkering, the colonel decided to use another method to start his engine, but this too failed, and some other bit of mechanism became jammed, the motor backed up, and the craft was flooded with gasoline.

Then, of course, it was impossible to touch the motor, and the party faced the plight of being stranded at sea with a dead motor, no sails and nary a ship in sight.

Russell was enjoying a delightful luncheon at the time of the mishap, but the appetite utterly disappeared when they became stranded, he declared.

Finally, as a last resort, the two boys rigged up a square sail of ponchos. With the aid of the makeshift rigging they got within twenty miles of the coast when a heavy fog set in.

Menaced by Big Ships

This made their position still more precarious, for the small craft was then in the outside steamer lane, and although they could hear the shrieks of the fog horns of the huge vessels, they could not see them through the dense fog, or attract attention. On several occasions, they were within the wake of the great rolling waves created by the ships.

Just before dark they sighted ahead and found they were off Beach Park, showing they had drifted fifteen miles in and seventeen miles north. At dusk they began to send up distress signals every hour. At 8 o'clock the Seaside Coast Guard station answered, then the members of the party felt they would soon receive aid.

Their hopes, however, were shattered, and when 11 o'clock came and the wind changed from southeast to south-west, forcing them out to sea again, they still were without assistance.

They cast over the anchor at midnight and continued to send up signals hourly, but with no response until 6 o'clock when members of the Barnegat Inlet Coast Guard station went to their rescue in a whale boat, which the speaker declared was one of the most welcome sights he had ever witnessed.

No Dreaming

At the conclusion of Mr. Perkins' discourse, Ian Forbes suggested the club sing "Drifting and Dreaming."

"Plenty of drifting, but no dreaming," retorted the speaker.

He then explained that he later learned that the Seaside station had tried to communicate with them by the blinker light system, which they did not understand.

According to weather reports, a heavy storm had been predicted for the Eastern shore last day, and night and this helped to add to the fears of the party and the relatives of the stranded fishermen.

P. H. Metcalf, of Madison, Ohio, father-in-law of Dr. Howard C. Curran, a guest at the dinner, some of the members had heard that Mr. Metcalf has a splendid voice so when he was introduced they requested he favor them with a solo. He graciously responded and sang two verses of a Hawaiian song the club joining him on the chorus.

AGAINST CHILDREN

There are two "crimes against children" that are committed daily and many times daily—and not by so-called enemies of the children but by dotting parents and other relatives.

One of these is the telling of children over and over "You're a bad boy," "You're a bad girl," "You're just as mean as you can be."

Perhaps these same parents and relatives fail to realize the power of suggestion.

Let us suppose then that children in infancy are pure and sweet and good. From what source then do they learn evil? Surely from example and suggestion.

Back time a little child is told he is bad, he will have less confidence in his innate goodness. Soon he will begin to believe he is bad and eventually he will grow to be bad.

Tell him instead that he is good. Praise him for every good deed. Ignore his mistakes as often as possible. Point out his wrong habits in as far as you are able to help him to see them and to overcome them and above all things—live and speak before him as you would want him to live and speak. Too many of us parents have heard our children imitate our very tones of voice when these tones were full of fretfulness or anger and then we have realized just how initiative are their plastic minds and how great an influence we have upon them.

The second common "crime" against our little ones is the habit of frightening them in order to get them to do what we want. "If I see you don't do what I tell you to do, a great big dog will come and bite you." Worse still, "The policeman will come and take you to jail if you don't mind what I say." Thus the child is made to fear his animal friends and the law—the very protectors of his peace and his home and his liberty.

When you are tempted to tell a child he is bad or to frighten him into obedience think twice and then—don't do it—Mounds Independent.

ACCIDENTS OF NATURE

Great voices are rare and undoubtedly owe their wonderful purity of tone to an accidental combination of those physical characteristics which conduce to the production of song. The human musical instrument, though built of living tissue, resembles in structure the reed organ pipe fitted with a vox humana stop. In both cases the note depends on the vibrations of a column of air produced in the organ by a reed and in the voice by the vocal cords. The human air chamber corresponding to the organ pipe is composed of the larynx and the bronchial system beneath it. The throat, mouth and nasal cavities form the resonators which, by alternation in shape and size, are able to pick out and emphasize component parts of the fundamental tones produced in the larynx. The lungs form the bellows which produce the upward blast of air, and upon their quality depends the loudness of the voice.

World's Pipe Smokers

In the Far East pipe decoration constitutes an honored branch of art and the most eminent of designers, of carvers, of etchers, of lacquerers, engravers and metal workers may contribute their quota to the embellishment not alone of pipes, but also of the tinder boxes, tobacco boxes and pipe cases that are associated with them. The production of these pieces for delicate shape and size has had its influence on the pipe-makers of other nations with whom they have been brought into contact. As, for example, on those of the Indians and Red Indians—in northern America, where the Tongue pipe has made a home, the native pipe shows marked Chinese characteristics, including the small hole, which contributes to the slow consumption of the smoke.

ANCIENT MORTGAGES

Ancient mortgages that had been paid but had not been discharged from record at the county clerk's office were ordered erased from the records after testimony, taken before Judge Haubert, showed that no demand for interest or principal had been made for many years.

One, given in 1794, was on land in Burlington township which was owned by Aaron W. Johnson in 1894 and recently was sold to Samuel Roemer and William Grass, and was for $60 pounds sterling. When making a search to prepare the deed of transfer the record of the old mortgage was found uncancelled. Charles M. Riggs, of Burlington, was counsel for the petitioner.

Application for the discharge of record of three other mortgages was made by George M. Gillman, representing Richard P. Allen, of Moorestown and C. Floyd Hancock, of Springfield. Two mortgages on the Gilbert farm, near Moorestown, recently given to Mr. Allen, one for $125.50, dated 1816, the other for $225.50, dated 1816, were ordered discharged also. One for $25.00 on the Hancock farm in Springfield township, given in 1821, recently sold to John M. Kelly.

Moorestown Recreation Commission Accomplishes Wonderful Work

Organized Play and Interesting Instruction Makes Summer Fun of Fun and Profit for Children

Few realize the splendid work which is being accomplished by the Moorestown Recreation Commission's playground program. Not because they do not want to know, but because they haven't availed themselves of the opportunity, which means entering into the spirit of the work and spending some time at the centers.

When one hears the laughter, witnesses the keen enthusiasm of the children at play, and the deep concern given the various tasks assigned them in the handcraft work, the realization of the worth of this splendid movement then dawns upon us.

In the past year, the kiddies were allowed to scamper about the streets heedless, always in search of some new entertainment during vacation. They were allowed to play from morning until night, but with no real object in view.

Today, the child enjoys his play more for it is the right kind of play and is designed to bring out the greatest amount of fun and sport and only the most interesting and clean-cut games are played.

Then, too, when he tires of play, as it is only natural for the child to do, he is quickly given some instructive handcraft work which regains the interest. This, too, will become monotonous in time, and then the group will return to organized play.

Organized programs spells the success of the work. There is no wild scampering about the playgrounds at heedless play, but every move is directed by a skilled instructor who is in attendance every minute the recreation centers are open.

It is through them that the kiddies are taught respect and discipline. Not with harsh treatment, but kindness and firmness, the youthful devotees of the playgrounds are taught to obey and when the instructor speaks, the children are quick to come to attention ready for the next activity without a murmur.

And the secret of the playground instructor's success is that he loves his work. It is not merely a means of livelihood, but an opening where he can also be of service to mankind; a work that holds his interest by the satisfaction of its benefits and results.

Big Help to Yankees

First baseman Gehrig has been of great assistance to Manager Miller Huggins in landing the Yankees on top in the American league pennant race. Not only is he a clever fielder, but he is also a mighty hard hitter.

point where the number of birds is about twice the number of eggs received daily.

This may seem rather severe in some instances but it is a good economic practice. After September 1, one may be more lenient with the flock and allow production to fall to 40 per cent before feeling called upon to cull.

In culling at this season the distance between the pelvic or lay bones, is the most important consideration. It indicates whether or not the bird is actually laying, the distance between the pelvic bones being about the width of one finger if the bird has stopped laying and two or more fingers if the bird is still in laying condition.

Other indications of a non-producer are yellow shanks, yellow vent, dry vent, shrunken comb, and the moulting of feathers. Dispose of such birds. Don't keep chickens; let the chickens keep you.

WID CONROY TAKES CONTROL OF CAMDEN

Famous Moorestown Star Again Assumes Duties When Club Falls to Produce Results

"Wid" Conroy, the famous Moorestown star, has once more assumed command of the Camden Baseball Club. The former major league star was appointed field leader of the Schuylkill Saturday afternoon team and was in uniform for the 10th time with the Brooklyn Royal Giants.

Conroy created an enviable record as manager of the club during the years of 1924 and '25. In 1924 he led the team to second place in the Penn-Jersey League and was only saved out by a few points by the Chester Club.

Last season Camden was regarded as the poor of independent clubs and held the edge on every team within a radius of ninety miles. Most of the success of the club was laid to Conroy's hustle and winning spirit, and when the Schuylkill failed to come up to expectations this season he was finally prevailed upon to again take up the managerial reins.

Conroy is a local product and ranks along with Bill "Kid" Gleason in making South Jersey baseball history. He gained his baseball fame as a youngster and eventually reached the heights in the national pastime.

He always has been aggressive and is noted for his ability to get the best results from his players.

He started his career with Milwaukee, of the old National League, in 1901. The following season Conroy was with Pittsburgh and the next season he jumped the Buccaneers to play with the newly organized New York club, of the American League.

Conroy was with the Highlanders until 1908, when he was traded to the Washington Senators. He played third base for the Nats until the close of the 1911 season, when he was released to Rochester, N. Y., of the International League.

Conroy coached the Phillies in 1923, when Kaiser Wilhelm managed the Quakers. He is one of the best varied baseball leaders in South Jersey.

Four Are Injured in Auto Crash

Two Children, Aged Woman and Driver Hurt on North Church Road

Two children, an aged woman and the driver were injured when a Packard touring car crashed into a telephone pole on North Church Road, Moorestown, at noon Tuesday.

The touring car, driven by Charles Hesser, of Holmesburg, Pa., was headed toward the Palmyra ferry when it was sideswiped by a Chevrolet touring car which came out of a driveway on Lester Collins' farm, North Church Road. After being sideswiped, the big machine continued a few feet and crashed head-on into a telephone pole.

All of the occupants of the machine were badly dazed, suffered shocks and were covered with blood when pulled from the wreckage.

An emergency call was put in for physicians, but none could be reached. The visiting nurses, Miss Adelaide Curley and Miss Anne Hatman, and Miss Emma Chandler, of the Moorestown Church Federation, rushed to the scene and rendered first aid.

The most seriously injured was Daniel Marley, 9 years old, who was riding in the front seat of the machine. The lad was either thrown through the windshield or was cut by flying glass. In addition to suffering from shock and bruises, he had several deep gashes about the head and face which required at least fifteen stitches.

Mrs. Martha Hesser, 69-year-old mother of the driver, suffered shock, bruises and a deep gash in her abdomen.

Hesser was badly lacerated about the side of his face and chin and suffered some bodily injuries, while Dorothy, his 9-year-old daughter, was bruised and received a badly sprained wrist.

After receiving first-aid treatment, the victims were rushed to the Community House where late Tuesday afternoon the aged woman and the seriously injured lad were reported to resting easily.

Antoni Ragalak, the driver of the machine which sideswiped the Pennsylvania car, escaped unscathed. Only the left front fender and hub cap of his car were damaged. Hesser's auto was almost a complete wreck, the entire front of it being demolished.

This is the second accident within a block on North Church Road during the past four days. Saturday evening a large sedan, driven by a Philadelphia woman, skidded, went over into the ditch and turned turtle before the woman could regain control.

No one was injured, although the sedan was considerably damaged.

STEALS CAR

Colored Youth Quickly Caught After Moorestown Theft

A colored youth was in the hands of the state police within a few hours after stealing a car from Moorestown late Tuesday afternoon.

The youth, who gave his name as Joseph Wood, 16 years old, of Wilmington, N. C., stole a Dodge sedan, the property of George Kern, of Mount Laurel, from in front of Dugan's garage, Plum street, between 5:30 and 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

A few hours later he was caught by the New Jersey state police near Jobstown. He lost control of the car near Bordentown, turning it over. State Trooper Hamilton, of Bordentown, was quick to pick up his trail and soon made the arrest.

Escape for the youth was almost impossible, for Chief of Police Bradshaw was quick to get on the job, notifying the police for miles around and all of the ferries and bridge authorities.

Wood had been seen loitering around Dugan's garage several times Tuesday afternoon and a neighbor saw him drive off in the machine.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace Wolf in the Moorestown police headquarters this (Wednesday) morning Wood was committed to the county jail at Mount Holly for court trial.

Bogus Detective Meets Waterloo

Moorestown Police Play Part in Apprehending Man Who Mugged Autoists

According to newspaper reports, Thomas Baker, Jr., of Gloucester City, arrested by Camden police as a bogus detective, was wanted by Moorestown police for impersonating an officer, extortion and carrying a revolver.

Chief of Police John Bradshaw immediately rushed to Camden, having no knowledge of the man ever having violated the law here, and found he was wanted by the Mount Holly police and not Moorestown.

The chief, however, relieved the Camden police of the responsibility of harboring the fake sleuth, and took him to Mount Holly.

Baker, who is alleged to have passed himself as "Detective Howard Smith" and to have "shaken down" several motorists for "hush money," was arrested by the real detective of that name.

Complaint against Baker was made by August Visio, 2218 Moore street, Philadelphia, who said that the defendant mugged him of $300. Baker denied the charge but was identified by Visio as the man who "shook him down."

According to Visio the man under arrest came upon him and several friends on a road near Mount Holly on the night of July 27. Visio and his friends were drinking wine.

"I caught you this time," Baker allegedly said as he flashed a badge and told Visio and his friends that they were under arrest. Visio declared that Baker said he was "Detective Howard Smith" and that the matter could be "fixed up" for $300.

Declaring that he only had $90, Visio said Baker told him he could bring the balance to him the following night. He said Baker demanded his driver's license and registration card as security for the unpaid balance.

The next night Visio returned to the place suggested for the meeting accompanied by his brother-in-law, Anthony Dinubille. He said Baker became suspicious and pulled his revolver when he saw the other man. Visio said he told the "detective" that the man was his brother-in-law.

Meets Real Detective
Visio said he paid the balance and demanded his automobile cards but Baker said he had left them home.

"Call me up at Camden Police Headquarters and ask for Howard Smith and I will tell you where to get the cards," Baker is said to have declared.

Calling at police headquarters Visio was informed the Detective Howard Smith was connected with

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Smallest Church

The original "smallest church in the world" was that at St. Lawrence, Isle of Wight. It is 35 feet long, 11 feet wide, and about 8 feet high. It originally accommodated 12 people. the county detective force. Visio went to the court house.

"I want to see Detective Howard Smith," he said to an office attaché. Smith was sent for and meeting Visio asked him what he could do for him.

Not Same Man
"You're not Detective Smith," said Visio.

The sleuth insisted that he was and other detectives corroborated him.

Then Visio told his story about the "shake down."

Chief Doran took a hand in the investigation and Visio accurately described the phony "detective."

Accompanied by county detectives William Cleary and James Wron Smith started out to get his man. The trail led to Gloucester and back to Camden.

"That's my man," confided Smith to his fellow detectives when he saw Baker standing at Broadway and Kalish avenues.

Visio identified Baker as the man who took him for $300. Baker insisted that Visio was wrong.

ANOTHER SWIM

Outdoor Meet Will Be Held at Water Works

Another one of the popular outdoor swimming meets will be held at the Moorestown Water Works pool Wednesday evening, August 18.

The pool, which is under the direction of the Moorestown Recreation Commission, continues to be the scene of great activity, being frequented by a large number of bathers and swimmers.

A series of aquatic sports events, which opened last week, proved very popular, according to an announcement by Director Ian Forbes, and a large number of contestants are expected to appear next week.

Quilts, volleyball, and boxing are very popular diversions at the park, which is under the supervision of Walter Trudau, the Recreation Commission's lifeguard who is on duty every day, including Sunday, from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m.

SHADE TREE COMMISSION ASKS $1000 TO REMOVE OLD TREES

Twenty Trees Must Be Taken Out on Main Street and New Ones Planted

ORDINANCES FOR NEW CURBS AND SIDEWALKS

James S. Cude, chairman of the Shade Tree Commission, appeared before the Riverton Borough Council Thursday night and asked for an additional $1000 for this year's work. Mr. Cude explained that about $1100 of the appropriation of $1500 had already been spent and that it was absolutely necessary to take down at least twenty of the large trees on Main street between Broad and the river and plant new ones in their places. These trees, he said, had been ruined by injudicious trimming which had doubtless shortened their life by twenty years.

When asked about spraying the shade trees to protect them from the Japanese beetle, Mr. Cude said that it had been given up owing to lack of funds. While the commission could get the free use of the spraying apparatus used at the laboratory at Westfield, it would have to pay for the operators who would run the place. He said he had examined the shade trees, and while they had been attacked by the beetle he did not consider the damage done so far at all serious.

After a brief discussion of the situation a council unanimously voted to appropriate the additional $1000 requested by Mr. Cude. This brings the commission's appropriation up to $2500, the amount originally asked for.

New Poles O. K. D. The highway committee reported that the Public Service had agreed to place the poles to supply the electric light on Main street, and that it also appeared to be the signal for wet weather to begin and the General Committee which started on the work was greeted by a heavy shower.

Of the 23 General Committee members appointed by the various organizations aside from the Old Home Day Committee, only ten helped in the collection.

The object in requesting appointment of members to represent each organization in Palmyra was to aid in the collection of funds and to meet each Thursday night at the General Home with the Executive Committee to aid in formulating and executing plans for the best Town celebration Palmyra has ever had.

Notify Mr. Wimer. Through physical inability or absence some of the Committee members were unable to serve and have notified Mr. Wimer, the Chairman of the Old Home Day Committee. Any other committee member not able to serve will help the work by advising Mr. Wimer.

Reports show that 53 out of about 100 professional and business men have sent their contributions and returns have been received from only about 325 homes out of an approximate number of 1200.

Only about 30% of total reports are in, leaving much to be done. The Committee is pleased by the amount of contributions received but needs immediate cooperation in securing returns from the 800 homes not yet visited.

Any business or professional men who have not yet been called on will help considerably by leaving their contributions, with name and address on a card attached, at the General Committee Headquarters, Mr. Wimer's Office, 15 E. Broad street, or mailing check payable to Old Home Day Committee to the same address.

The committee Treasurer, F. O. Fromuth, 115 W. Broad St., will be glad to receive names of volunteers who will aid in making calls. Only five weeks to go—let us go big!

5329.02 Collected. Five hundred and twenty-six dollars and ninety-two cents have been collected by the "Old Home Day" committee from the residents, business and professional men toward defraying the expenses of the gala affair to be held Saturday, September 25.

FINE PALMYRA MAN $200 AFTER CRASH

When Troubles Came to C. Bates, of Delaware Avenue, Palmyra, They Came in Drove.

Sunday afternoon he was driving from Riverside on the Burlington Pike and was turning Five Points to come to Palmyra. His car crashed into the auto driven by Herman Wilson, 65 S. 27th street, Camden. Constable Dorworth, of Barry, who was busy at the corner taking care of traffic, saw the accident and placed Bates under arrest.

He turned Bates over to the Palmyra Police Department and then took Herman and his wife to the office of Dr. Bauer where they were treated for cuts and bruises. Bates was held for trial Monday evening in the Police Headquarters before Justice of the Peace William Fichter.

At the hearing Dr. Bauer testified that Bates had been under the influence of liquor when he examined him Sunday.

Bates' license was revoked for one year, he was fined $200 and the insurance company holding the policy on Herman's car have instituted proceedings to recover for the damages.

More Funds For Old Home Day

Only One-fifth of Required Amount Raised; Time Getting Short

When the siren blew on August 7th as a signal to begin the collection of Old Home Day Contributions it also appeared to be the signal for wet weather to begin and the General Committee which started on the work was greeted by a heavy shower.

Of the 23 General Committee members appointed by the various organizations aside from the Old Home Day Committee, only ten helped in the collection.

GROCERIES AFIRE

New Tenants Put Packages on Top of Pilot Light

The Palmyra Fire Department was summoned Tuesday evening to extinguish the flames that were burning in the kitchen of 921 Garfield avenue.

It was learned that the people who had rented the house were preparing to move in and they brought some groceries in and piled them on the gas stove.

The pilot light of the gas stove had been burning and ignited the bundles on the stove.

The neighbors next door investigated and then notified the fire company.

The damage was slight.

Palmyra Lions Growl a Bit

Complication of Circumstances Cut Down Attendance Last Tuesday

The Palmyra Lions had a limited attendance last Tuesday noon, but there was ample reason therefor. Lion planist, the Rev. William Erhard, was away at Baltimore getting married.

Lion Secretary Walter Lamon was away at the P. O. S. of A. convention, managing Len Reeves' campaign.

Lion Treasurer William A. McCann had to stick close to the Palmyra National Bank, owing to Bert Marple being on his vacation. Lion Song Leader Frank Katen was away, goodness knows where.

For the next ten days Lion President Dr. Francis Voorhis will visit his wife at Ocean City.

Despite all this a wonderful dinner was served by the Lutheran ladies and not a Lion was able to eat a mouthful of the food of the day. They weren't sick either.

Plans were laid for the charter banquet in September and it was decided that on Old Home Day all the Lions would wear badges so that visiting Lions would feel at home.

The first attendance prize, a beautiful Lion watch chain, donated by Lion organizer Al Mundorf, was won by Charles Augustus Buchi. Next week Lion Charles Augustus Buchi will have to donate a prize to be won by the lucky member.

LOCAL YOUTHS WILL ENTER UNIVERSITY

Charles J. Miller, of Riverside and Josef E. Martin, of Palmyra, Admitted at Penn

Charles J. Miller, of Riverside and Josef E. Martin, of Palmyra, were among the first group of candidates for entrance to the University of Pennsylvania to be admitted under the new scholastic aptitude test.

It is announced by Dr. Karl G. Miller, Director of Admissions of the University.

The scholastic aptitude test, according to Dr. Miller, is supplementary to the scholastic record of the student and aims at measuring the ability of the candidate in other terms than school subjects or making academic marks. It was conducted for the first time this year and was administered by the College Entrance Examination Board in approximately 300 cities for the benefit of over 100,000 students seeking admission to various institutions of higher learning.

Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller, 434 Bridgeboro street, and is a graduate of Palmyra High School.

Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Martin, 14 Charles street, and is also a graduate of the Palmyra High.

Both will enter the Arts and Science course of the University, in September, preliminary to studying medicine. Despite the increased tuition fees and more stringent requirements for entrance, the University of Pennsylvania has experienced no let-up in the great numbers who seek admission to its halls. Applications being placed as far as two and three years ahead of the desired time of admission.

U. S. ARMY TO PLAY RIVERTON

1925 Champions, District of Columbia; 18 Men in Playing Squad

PLAYED TWELVE GAMES; WON ALL BUT THREE

This week the Riverton baseball team will play the Fort Washington Post Army team on the home grounds. This team, from Fort Washington, Maryland, and the 1925 champions of the District of Columbia. The Army team is stationed at the Sequi at the present time. Since coming to Philadelphia the soldiers have lost but three games in twelve played. They have played such teams as Wildwood, Southwark, West-Oney, Girard Estates, and Newton Coal. The Army lads are bringing the post band from Fort Washington and a crowd of rooters.

It will be up to THE PEOPLE OF RIVERTON TO COME OUT AND ROOT FOR THE HOME TEAM this Saturday afternoon. The visitors carry a playing squad of eighteen men.

The management wants to see the field crowded with fans this week to give the home boys some real support. The time—Saturday—3.30 p. m. The place—Memorial Park.

Club Steward Drops Dead

John E. Watts Dies Suddenly While Alone in Riverton Yacht Club House

John E. Watts, steward at the Riverton Yacht Club, died of apoplexy at the Club House on Friday evening August 13.

About noon Friday Watts called Charlie McCordell's home and left a message for McCordell to bring him some oranges. It was three o'clock before Charlie could get to see Watts. The steward asked McCordell to make him some orange juice and was not feeling well.

Watts was on the floor beside a chair with his pipe and a can of tobacco in his hand. McCordell immediately notified Officer Quigley who called Dr. Rogers and Coroner Belton. Dr. Rogers had been treating Watts some time for kidney trouble.

Two weeks ago, when Watts was taken with a stroke, he fell and sustained a severe laceration of the head which necessitated taking several stitches.

The body was removed to Snover's funeral home for viewing. The funeral was held Monday with interment at Fernwood cemetery.

Mr. Watts is survived by two sons and a daughter. Before coming to the club house Watts was a waiter in the Bellevue-Stratford.

Bus Lines Here on Bridge Route

Two New Lines Provide Quick Transit For Riverton Town

Two different bus lines are now to carry people of Riverton, Riverside and Palmyra to Philadelphia via the Camden bridge.

The bridge route provides the quickest transportation to Philadelphia ever given this section, the trip being made from Riverton to 13th and Market in 25 minutes with the utmost comfort and convenience.

Harry McCloskey and William Worth, of Beverly, were first in the field, starting a line last Saturday from Burlington to Philadelphia, stopping at all the river front towns enroute. This line is equipped with luxurious Studebaker buses and has been well patronized from the start.

This weekend the Philadelphia Coach Line, which has made such a success with its line across the ferry to the Frankford "L", will start a 20-minute service via the bridge on 15th and Market, using the fine new gas-electric machines which have recently been put into use.

FIRST PARTY

Little Lois Hillman, Gaily Celebrates Second Birthday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hillman, East Fifth street, Palmyra, was the scene of a pretty little party as their young daughter, Lois, celebrated her second birthday Monday afternoon.

The rooms, wherein Little Lois' first social function was held, were gaily decorated and the little tot and her guests, Lois Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, of Parry avenue, who recently won the "Best Baby" contest held in conjunction with the South Jersey Exposition, and Carolyn Bauer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Bauer, of Maple avenue, gaily attended to the party needs, lent a delightful effect to the color scheme.

Lois, who is the "pet of the neighborhood," received many fine gifts from relatives, playmates and many of her family's neighbors.

RAIN STOPPED GAME

Visitors Got Away to a Good Start But Only One Inning Was Played

The game between the Dunkirk A. A. and the Riverton nine was called after the first inning on account of rain. The Philadelphia boys gathered three runs in their half of the opening frame. The Riverton lads did not score. Painter, of Riverside, who is playing left field during Sammy Rogers' absence, made a pretty catch of a hard fly in the solo inning.

From the way the game opened the fans were all set for a battle royal, and there was great disappointment when it was found it would be necessary to call the game. Riverton has been pretty well treated by the weatherman, however, for this is the first time he has actually broken up a game this season, though the skies have threatened several times.

Owing to the weather no accurate judgment as to the quality of the Dunkirk team can be given. Pitcher Wright, by the way, could have given a good account of himself on a dry day. "Doc" Hinkle is glad the game was called because with a wet ball "you can't slide 'em across on the batter."

PALMYRA COUNCIL PASSES ORDINANCES

Broad Street To Be Widened and Sewer Extended

Palmyra Borough Council Tuesday evening passed an ordinance authorizing the construction of an extension of the sanitary sewer from West Boulevard along Sixth street to Delaware avenue on first reading.

An ordinance providing for the widening of Broad street some 23 feet in front of the Wimer and Lipkovich and Schwartz properties was also passed on first reading.

The property owners are to be paid one dollar each for the deed to the necessary ground.

Mayor Weart instructed Solicitor Low to start condemnation proceedings necessary for the construction of West Boulevard from Broad street to the High School building.

The Mayor also announced that owing to the fact that the proposed sidewalk and curb work on Charles street was an open question, Council was ready to defer action pending the development of public opinion on the subject. He requested all citizens with an idea on the matter to make known their thoughts to the councilmen.

SOME STORM

Palmyra Lights Go Out When Lightning Hits Wire

The storm that wreaked havoc along the entire section, particularly at Wildwood village, Palmyra Saturday night and left the entire city without lights for over an hour.

Lightning struck the electric wires at Thomas avenue and the town was plunged into darkness. Several trees were uprooted and one that was blown down on Morgan avenue blocked the roadway for several hours until it was removed by Borough workmen.

NEW GAS STATION

Free Oil Will Be Offered on Opening Day

A new gas station will be opened on the River Road below West Palmyra Station within the next few days, according to the announcement by the owner.

The opening has been delayed due to the rainy weather that has made it impossible to lay the cement drives.

Three pumps will be installed and on the opening day which will be announced later, a gallon of oil will be given to every purchaser of ten gallons of gasoline.

It is the purpose of the proprietors to give full measure with service and to serve only 100 per cent. "Standard Precedent."

Huge tanks will be placed in the rear of the building and it will be used as a distributing point for the other five stations of the Company.

HARBOR—MYSTER

Mr. and Mrs. August Meyer announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise Christine, to Edward Joseph Harbour, of Camden, on August 12th, at St. Andrews Church, Camden. The Rev. Elmer Christie, of Riverside, officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harbour are spending a honeymoon at Lake George.

BOAT RIDE

The Ladies' Aid of the Lutheran Church will take a boat ride down the Delaware on Thursday, August 26. Come along and have a good time.—Adv.

PAGE KING SOLOMON; COUNTY PROSECUTOR WANTS ADVICE

CRASH ON PIKE

Three Are Seriously Hurt at Westfield Road

Three persons were seriously injured when two cars came together at Westfield Road and Burlington Pike about half past five last Saturday afternoon. One was a Dodge driven by Roman Knapp, 245 Adams street, Trenton, and the other was a Hudson driven by Roy G. Peterson, 60 Main street, Rahway. Mrs. Knapp and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Schuler, were taken to Cooper Hospital in the Palmyra ambulance. Mrs. Peterson was treated by a local physician.

While both cars were badly damaged the driver of the Dodge was able to proceed under his own power, but the Hudson was towed in by a wrecking car. Officer Dorworth, of Five Points was summoned immediately to the accident and took charge of the affair.

Just how the collision occurred and who is responsible has not been ascertained, for, while there were a number of eye witnesses, they all refused to give any information, apparently being afraid of getting "mixed up" in the legal complications which will probably follow the smash-up.

Rotary Will Help Equip Playground

Immediate Steps To Be Taken To Provide Skating Park

At its regular meeting August 5 the Rotary Club welcomed Mayor Jim Weart back to the fold. He reported a pleasant and uneventful trip as far as his motor car was concerned, and the club was officially advised by the mayor that he had been in New York City in Buffalo or some other place.

Expensive Business. It is unnecessary to say that to send our officers to a distant city to investigate the whereabouts of an accused is more or less expensive and to bring the accused back adds more expense.

My idea in declining to take measures to extradite every husband who had thus deserted his wife and family is solely to save expense to the County.

Some well meaning philanthropists throughout the county criticize me for not taking proceedings to bring back these deserting husbands. They call it the office and at times a rather offensive.

I would like to have an expression from your Board as to whether or not you think I should pursue a different course from that which I have indicated.

I have no objection to taking proceedings for the extradition of every man who deserts his family and goes to a distant state; neither have I any objection to having our officers make an extensive search to discover his whereabouts, but I have felt that it was not the part of wisdom to put the county to the expense attendant upon such action.

You are the custodian of the funds of the county. If you think I should incur the expense of doing so, I have no objection to doing so.

I would be very glad to have an expression of your opinion in this matter.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) George M. Hillman, Prosecutor.

Up to Judge Wells. Freeholder Curwen B. Fisher said that there was a growing tendency on the part of husbands to disregard their marriage vows, and he did not think that the board should take any action which would practically insure them immunity from punishment in doing so. He thought that men who ran off and left their wives and children to shift for themselves should be brought to book.

The rights of the deserted families seem to have been ignored in the prosecutor's letter. It was solely the matter of expense to the county in enforcing the law.

The members of the board did not very strongly favor letting men of this class go unpunished, and they questioned in their own minds whether it was any more expensive to apprehend these careless and indifferent husbands than it was to support the wife and children owing to the husband's disappearance.

The board took the position that about all that keeps more husbands from deserting their families was the fear of the law.

The board decided to place the question before Solicitor Harold B. Wells, who will take the matter up from all angles and then make a report to the board.

Is Burlington County on Her Coast? A few weeks ago the Board of Taxation sent a communication to the freeholders requesting that an increase in salary be made. The matter was referred to Solicitor Wells. Under the new salary-raiser passed by the last legislature the members of the Tax Board had their salaries increased from $1,600 to $3,000.

On Friday Solicitor Wells made a report on the matter, the gist of which was "that if Burlington county borders on the Atlantic Ocean the secretary is entitled to $3,000 a year, but if it does not it is within the province of the freeholders to fix the salary, with the provision that it cannot exceed $3,000."

The solicitor in his opinion stated that in his mind the salary of Mr. Tilton rested in a great measure on the interpretation of whether Burlington county was a seaboard county. The law which applies to seaboard counties is different from that which applies to inland counties.

HAS BEEN REFUSING EXTRADITION For Runaway Husbands Owing to Expense

HAS BEEN CRITICISED; ASKS FREEHOLDERS' AID

At the last meeting of the Burlington County Board of Freeholders a letter was read from Prosecutor Hillman asking the freeholders to advise him what course to pursue in cases where husbands desert their wives.

The letter follows: Burlington County Board of Freeholders. Gentlemen:

There is a matter concerning which I would like to have your opinion.

As you doubtless know, there are numerous cases of husbands deserting their wives. In some instances the accused goes to another state. It is a criminal offense for a man to thus desert his wife and family and where the defendant is in this state of course, upon complaint being made he can be arrested. In cases where he has gone to another state he can only be brought here upon extradition.

I have made it a rule not to extradite the whereabouts of her husband, who thinks he may be in New York City or in Buffalo or some other place.

Expensive Business. It is unnecessary to say that to send our officers to a distant city to investigate the whereabouts of an accused is more or less expensive and to bring the accused back adds more expense.

My idea in declining to take measures to extradite every husband who had thus deserted his wife and family is solely to save expense to the County.

Some well meaning philanthropists throughout the county criticize me for not taking proceedings to bring back these deserting husbands. They call it the office and at times a rather offensive.

I would like to have an expression from your Board as to whether or not you think I should pursue a different course from that which I have indicated.

I have no objection to taking proceedings for the extradition of every man who deserts his family and goes to a distant state; neither have I any objection to having our officers make an extensive search to discover his whereabouts, but I have felt that it was not the part of wisdom to put the county to the expense attendant upon such action.

You are the custodian of the funds of the county. If you think I should incur the expense of doing so, I have no objection to doing so.

I would be very glad to have an expression of your opinion in this matter.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) George M. Hillman, Prosecutor.

Up to Judge Wells. Freeholder Curwen B. Fisher said that there was a growing tendency on the part of husbands to disregard their marriage vows, and he did not think that the board should take any action which would practically insure them immunity from punishment in doing so. He thought that men who ran off and left their wives and children to shift for themselves should be brought to book.

The rights of the deserted families seem to have been ignored in the prosecutor's letter. It was solely the matter of expense to the county in enforcing the law.

The members of the board did not very strongly favor letting men of this class go unpunished, and they questioned in their own minds whether it was any more expensive to apprehend these careless and indifferent husbands than it was to support the wife and children owing to the husband's disappearance.

The board took the position that about all that keeps more husbands from deserting their families was the fear of the law.

The board decided to place the question before Solicitor Harold B. Wells, who will take the matter up from all angles and then make a report to the board.

Is Burlington County on Her Coast? A few weeks ago the Board of Taxation sent a communication to the freeholders requesting that an increase in salary be made. The matter was referred to Solicitor Wells. Under the new salary-raiser passed by the last legislature the members of the Tax Board had their salaries increased from $1,600 to $3,000.

On Friday Solicitor Wells made a report on the matter, the gist of which was "that if Burlington county borders on the Atlantic Ocean the secretary is entitled to $3,000 a year, but if it does not it is within the province of the freeholders to fix the salary, with the provision that it cannot exceed $3,000."

The solicitor in his opinion stated that in his mind the salary of Mr. Tilton rested in a great measure on the interpretation of whether Burlington county was a seaboard county. The law which applies to seaboard counties is different from that which applies to inland counties.

Moorestown Man's Gas Buggy In Much Excitement 25 Years Ago

John Rogers Resented Stories Which Became Current About County That His Automobile Was Responsible for Large Number of Runaway Horses

Following are some interesting news items published in the Mount Holly Mirror August 14 and 21, 1901:

John B. Rogers, the Moorestown contractor, resents the stories that have become current in the county that his motor carriage is responsible for all the runaway horses on the public highways. He says he is blamed for runaways that sometimes occur when he has not been within ten miles of the scene.

"Rogers' automobile has caused another runaway," he says, has become a common expression, whereas, Mr. Rogers contends, while driving over 3,000 miles of highways in this and Camden counties he never has caused one horse to become uncontrollable.

His carriage, which cannot go over 20 miles an hour, except when going down hill, always in under control and he stops whenever he sees a fractious horse.

He also raises his bell to give warning of his approach. "I can stop in 40 feet, whereas a horse traveling a three minute gait, which is quite common, cannot be stopped in ten times that distance, he says."

Clothing Hints by Mrs. Griebel

Extension Specialist Discusses Proper Choice of Dress For Women

By Mrs. Griebel
Extension Clothing Specialist
"Would you wear a dance dress when you worked in your garden?" "No, of course not," you will reply. And yet, within a week, I have seen a girl wearing a pair of silver slippers on the street.

It is more difficult to decide what to dress-up in the way of clothes these days to be sure. Years ago we pulled on our black cotton stockings, laced up our sturdy shoes and went forth to earn our daily bread and cheese; now we are more likely to choose a pair of alk hose of a delicate shade, and, if by chance black shoes are worn, nine times out of ten they will be dainty things of patent leather. A few do wear the ordinary oxford but I've stood for ten minutes at a time watching the crowds and not a substantial shoe was to be seen.

One notices footwear first of all these days and the woman is unlucky indeed if she hasn't slender feet and ankles. No matter how attractive the rest of her costume may be, the shoes and hose can spoil it. I noticed this particularly one evening as I sat watching the women and girls who passed me on their way to dinner at a large resort hotel. Many were nice, of course, but others were doing the very thing I spoke of at the beginning of my letter only they had reversed things and were wearing every-day shoes to a party.

Imagine a lovely frock—even as conservative as black satin—and then picture a pair of broad, low-heeled, black leather shoes—not peeping out as our shoes used to—peep—but staring the whole world in the face. I know that many women have foot ills. It is a pity too, but even with fallen arches or bunions or what-not the matter, is there any reason why the woman cannot afford to buy a lovely gown and also afford to have lovely shoes? If she must wear low heels and broad toes, why not get them in black satin with maybe an inconspicuous buckle or even a

Historic Town to Be Inundated

Conowingo, a historic Maryland town of 300 souls, situated in a prosperous farming area about forty miles north of Baltimore, is to give way to the press of modern economics and progress. The little town, that has been in existence since the years preceding the Revolution, is in the center of the land that will be utilized for the new projected dam that will bridge the Susquehanna river to furnish power to the system of the Philadelphia Electric company, a distance of seventy-five miles away. Therefore Conowingo will soon be deep under water. The photograph shows a view of the village's main street with the old post office.

strapped effect? I see many of the so-called approved shoes of this type.

For daytime the heavier type of shoes are permissible, but, again I'd take pains to choose my costume accordingly. There are sensible shoes in white and brown and in some of the blond shades, but if black must be worn, then stick to all black or black and white costumes. They say that patent leather or will be as good this fall as it had been for the past year, and for street wear, nothing is smarter. I would not choose patent leather for wear with a dinner or an evening dress however; satin is much more suitable. The light-colored shoes are lovely and for the woman who has a good pair of feet, there is a wide choice. Most of these are in the blond shades—parchment, champagne, beige, etc., and these are worn with matching hose.

Every little while I read in my newspaper that certain shops have predicted a particularly popular style months in advance; sometimes a fashion magazine calls attention to the fact that its publication presented a two-piece frock or a scalloped cape weeks before anyone else did. I'm feeling the same degree of satisfaction over my prediction that flesh tones in hose were the most promising. There was talk of grey and black but in the face of it I stood my ground and now there is no question about their leading every other shade. Even with white shoes the hose of light flesh or the shade called atmosphere by some are much preferred by the woman who knows.

Remember you just cannot be too particular about your hose and shoes so don't buy an extravagant frock and hat and gloves and then have no money left for these most important items of clothing. Plan for them and if need be cut down on the rest of your costume so that you may put your best foot forward.

Cordially yours,

Lightning Injures Moorestown Folks

Eight Badly Shocked When Bolt Strikes Seaside Home of Joseph E. Roberts

Eight persons were injured when a bolt of lightning struck the home of Joseph E. Roberts, of Moorestown, at Seaside Park. In one of the most severe electrical storms the resort has suffered in years, last Thursday.

Gertrude Smith, 14 years old, also of Moorestown, a guest of the Roberts, was the most seriously injured. Miss Smith was rendered unconscious when the flash struck her in the left shoulder and for a time her condition was reported to be critical. Her arm was badly torn.

Mrs. Roberts, her two daughters, Edith, 14 years old, Rebecca, 8 years old, and son, Joseph, 5 years old, all suffered temporary deafness, while Doris, the eight-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, who was sleeping in the room adjoining Miss Smith's, miraculously escaped unscathed.

The other victims were: Mrs. Charles Kirby, of Medford, a guest, suffering from temporary deafness; Lois Kirby, fourteen years old, her daughter, knee badly torn, and Angie Kirby, five years old, the son, temporary deafness.

The bolt, which struck a light pole before hitting the Roberts' residence, put the resort's lighting system out of commission for several hours.

Poor insulation of wiring on a radio set attached to a chimney is blamed for the damage. The bolt struck the chimney and turned downward going through several rooms.

Mrs. Kirby and Gertrude Smith, who is the daughter of Charles P. Smith, supervisor of the Field Club grounds, had been visiting there for several days. When the storm reached the resort Miss Smith was in a room dressing.

The vacationist had been in swimming the greater part of the day and returned shortly before the storm.

Relief Company Altering House

$7,000 Worth of Improvements
Being Made to Chester Avenue
Fire Station

When alterations have been completed, Moorestown Relief Company, No. 2, Chester Avenue, will have a fine two-story firehouse that will extend to the building line, which is but a few feet back from the sidewalk.

The alterations, which include lowering the floor about a foot and extending the building about twenty-five feet, are to cost approximately $7,000, according to figures submitted by one of the officials.

The new flooring, which will be of reinforced concrete, replacing the old wooden floor which was laid when the house was constructed in 1910, will be just slightly above grade, just enough to give it a proper pitch.

By extending the building the twenty-five feet to the building line, Relief Co., No. 2, will have apparatus space sixty-five feet in depth and a greatly enlarged club and meeting room on the second floor.

Brick finish, similar to that of the old portion of the building, will carry out the style of the addition, and the old marble front will be used on the new front. There will also be the same double door, except for the division in the middle. When the doors of the building are thrown open, there will be no obstructions in the middle, as the new front is designed to eliminate the objectionable center posts.

The building is owned by the company and is not encumbered with notes or mortgages against it. The company has a membership of 150, thirty being on the active list which the remainder are contributing members.

Chief Ellis H. McAllister heads the entire Moorestown Department, which comprises both companies, and Harvey Fish is the Relief Co., No. 2, foreman.

The alterations are being made by William Herman, local contractor.

Arthur W. Luce, Charles Laesele, Sr., and Samuel Smith, trustees, Benjamin Haines, Walter Inman and Chief Ellis H. McAllister form the building committee.

DROWNED IN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE GUEST

Nephew of Surrogate's Wife Jumps Overboard From Yacht to Save Girl

Sadness came to the home of Surrogate and Mrs. M. L. Matlack, of Mount Holly, when they were notified of the death by drowning of Mrs. Matlack's nephew, Robert C. Bold, aged 30 years, of New York City. The young man was cruising in his yacht with some friends seven miles at sea off Long Island on Saturday, July 31, when an accident happened that brought forth an act of heroism from young Bold, but cost him his life.

One of the young ladies in the Bold party was riding in a yawl that was being towed behind the yacht when it was suddenly swamped by a large wave. Without waiting to divest himself of any of his outer garments or shoes, Bold jumped overboard in an attempt to save the girl, who was clinging to the overturned yawl, but hampered by the weight of his wet clothing and the roughness of the sea he was unable to reach her and was swept away and sank. The girl, however, managed to stick to the swamped boat and was rescued by others in the party.

The young man's body was found the following Tuesday, off Smith's Point, Long Island, and funeral services were held in Trinity church, foot of Wall street, New York, on Thursday.

The deceased had the prospect of a particularly bright future. Although young in years he held a responsible position with a substantial New York brokerage house and held the confidence and esteem of a large acquaintance among the financially prominent men of the metropolis, hundreds of whom attended his funeral.

Prior to his death he had issued for some time once a year a satire on the Wall Street Journal, which he called "The Bull Street Journal." From his acquaintance with the busy men of the street he was able to publish in this paper many quips about them that were relished by his readers, and his connection with this paper had helped to enlarge his acquaintance.

His was a heroic death and all the more sad because he gave his life unnecessarily.

Young Bold visited his relatives in Mount Holly occasionally and was known by several people there.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Public Service Installs Latest Type of Purifying Machinery

Public Service Electric and Gas Company is having installed in its new Harrison Gas Works a new type of purifying equipment. Two distinct refining processes will be used, one for removing tar, the other for taking out sulphur.

Removal of the tar is accomplished by pumping the gas through an electrically charged chamber where the small tar and water particles are thrown against vertical walls. Thence they flow by gravity to the bottom of the chamber and out to the tar separators where the tar is removed.

Elimination of sulphur is brought about by passing the gas through a solution of carbonate of soda in a indirect tank. Sulphur in form of hydrogen sulphide is absorbed by the solution which flows from the base of the tank to a plant which recovers the sulphur in cake form.

The gas then goes through a third cleansing process. It is pumped into iron oxide purifying boxes to insure the complete removal of hydrogen sulphide. From these boxes the gas goes to the storage holders to be distributed as needed.

Rotary Enlivened By Herr's Songs

Popular Baritone Renders Delightful Selections For N
Moorestown Club

The clever entertainment work of Prescott Herr greatly enlivened the Moorestown Rotary Club luncheon last Thursday noon when the popular local baritone favored with several delightful numbers.

In fact the meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable the club has held in weeks and its success can only be attributed to Prescott, for he was the chief and only means of entertainment.

His program included many popular airs, among which were "Mandelay," "So's Your Old Lady," and "When the Red, Red Robin Comes Bob, Bob, Robin Along."

The spirit of song seemed to be thoroughly imbued in the Rotarians, President Bill Grobler was in a big rush and made several attempts to adjourn the session before he was successful. Each time he would tap the Rotary Bell with his gavel, some member would suggest another song.

The publicly committee, headed by Henry Stiles, was authorized to order three large Rotary welcome signs, to be placed at the main entrances of the town. The signs are to be of duco finish on metal and will be made by A. K. Salmon, local sign painter.

Two visitors from the Camden club formed with the president what some of the members alleged was a "conspiracy."

After the two gentlemen were introduced, Ed Meichling suggested they give their classifications. The gentlemen, shyly, coyly, or what ever it may be, refused, but the information soon leaked out.

It seems that one Camden Rotarian is a tombstone man while the other is in the cemetery business, and between the pair sat Bill Grobler, which explains the "conspiracy" without further discussion.

NOT ON RED

No Right Hand Turns Allowed in Moorestown Against Danger Signal

"No right hand turns on red." That's the edict of Chief of Police John Bradshaw on traffic regulations in Moorestown.

In several surrounding towns motorists are permitted to make a right hand turn when the automatic traffic control lights show red. Recently, especially since the additional traffic lights have been installed, the question has been raised as to whether or not such turns were permitted in Moorestown.

After putting the ban on the turns, the Chief went on to explain that in the majority of the towns where right hand turns are permitted on red the streets are wider than Moorestown's, thus reducing the possibility of accidents in case a driver, darting ahead on green, is surprised to find another machine driving out in front of him.

Officer Frank Bolton, too, strongly opposes such turns in Moorestown.

COMMUNITY DANCE

The special features of the dance have not yet been announced, but it is expected that some of our home talent will also present a short, interesting program.

Excellent music will be furnished by the famous Royal Commodore dance orchestra, of Palmyra.

There will be a concert by the Hopewell Boys Orphanage Band from 2 until 6 p. m. All park amusements free to the children until 6 p. m. There will be many athletic events with prizes for the winners.

MOSQUITOS DON'T WANDER

When a pecky mosquito bothers busily about your head, console yourself with the thought that he is probably a one hundred per cent home-grown mosquito and not an immigrant from the next town.

Mosquitoes do not generally suffer from wanderlust and the average respectable mosquito lives his entire lifetime without straying more than a few hundred feet from the place of his birth.

These facts came to light at a meeting of the Monmouth County Mosquito-Extirmination Commission of Sea Bright.

After attending various band concerts on his recent tour Leader A. K. Salmon has gathered a number of new ideas which he hopes will be beneficial to the Community Band.

Thursday evening, the quoit tournament from Lenola Playground swooped down on the Community House Recreation Centre, and in the class over 16 years of age were decidedly the superior. Only two games were necessary to clinch the tournament, both with the score of 21 to 8.

Bob Murphy and Alexander Verharen represented the popular West-end annex, while Ed Roberts and Brinkley Price performed for the locals.

In the class for boys under 16 Moorestown evened up the score by winning the first game 21 to 13, and the second to the tune of 21 to 20. It was a hotly contested affair and Sam Whitcraft, with Merit Boyer and Sam Whitcraft, showed considerable experience in the art of "sticking them." E. Slagle and J. This Saturday the team will go to Beach Haven and it is hoped that many followers of the team will be on hand to help and cheer the team to victory.

State Police Jobs Lure 550

Promise of Adventure and Action Attract Big Crowd For Sixteen Vacancies

Adventure and the open road, with the prospect of an occasional gamble with death, obtain a ready response from the youth of New Jersey.

State constabulary, which in its short career has already acquired a reputation, has just sixteen vacancies. But when the preliminary written tests for the jobs were held Monday and Tuesday, 550 young men from all parts of the State "mixed it" in a mental joust for the openings.

Of the applicants, sixteen young men will eventually go to the Wilburtha barracks, to emerge next June as troopers if they bear up under the rigorous training.

The troopers are paid $1200 a year after their first six months of service. As recruits they receive fifty dollars a month for three months and seventy-five dollars a month for the following three months. Food, lodging and equipment are furnished. The enlistment period is for three years.

To become eligible as entrants in the preliminary tests, the applicant are required to answer under oath a form questionnaire attesting to their moral character and physical soundness. The following are typical of the long list of questions.

"Can you stand criticism without shirking your duty?"

"Are you willing to face death in the performance of your duty?"

"Have you sufficient self-restraint to hold your temper when you are personally insulted or assaulted in the performance of your duty?"

"Will you recognize the upholding of the honor and reputation of this organization as your highest duty?"

"The Cohens and the Kellys" will be the big feature at the Broadway Palace next week on Monday and Tuesday evenings. There will be three shows—6.30, 8.00 and 9.30.

ADDITIONAL PHILBURCO COACH SERVICE

The Philburco Coach Company, the pioneer inter-state bus line from New Jersey into Philadelphia, started operating over the new Delaware River Bridge last Friday, August 13th. A regular half-hour service will start on Saturday, August 21st from Delanco, Riverside, Riverton, Palmyra, Delair and Camden to Philadelphia and return.

Starting this weekend the buses will leave the above named towns every thirty minutes and after going over the Bridge will go down Sixth Street to Market Street, out Market Street to Thirteenth and Market Streets where any remaining passengers will be discharged. Returning the buses will come down from Thirteenth and Market Streets and pick up passengers on all corners. A stop of a few minutes will be made made at Gimbel's Store.

This service, with new thirty-three passenger Gas-Electric buses, alternating with a thirty minute headway over the Tacony-Palmyra Ferry will give the river-front towns a fifteen minute service with Philadelphia.

The fare and running time to Thirteenth and Market Streets will be as follows:

Delanco	30 cents	50 minutes
Riverside	30 cents	46 minutes
Riverton	25 cents	38 minutes
Palmyra	25 cents	34 minutes
Delair	20 cents	28 minutes
Delaware Gardens	20 cents	23 minutes
Cramer Hill	15 cents	20 minutes
Camden	15 cents	14 minutes

This bus line has carried approximately two million passengers to and from Philadelphia without a single casualty to passengers or travelers on the road. These buses adhere strictly to their posted and published schedules and their schedules are not arranged to run just ahead of other existing transportation.

The buses of the Philburco Coach Company are operated under permits granted by the local municipalities and Certificates of Necessity and Convenience granted by the New Jersey Public Utility Commission and the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission.

A Trip to the Sequel

We had planned a Sunday trip to the Sequel for several days, and when we awoke Sunday morning it was pouring rain. However, we believed the sun to be close to the clouds, and nearly noon we started off. In a short time by bus and trolley we found ourselves within the gates of the place where many peoples of many lands had gathered treasures and handiwork to exhibit them. A couple of hours were spent in looking at a few of the exhibits. Then we attended the interdenominational meeting held in the vast auditorium.

A chorus of five hundred voices was led by William Gordon Thunders, and it was interesting to note the number of people who came for the music and left before the speaker started. And music lovers, both old and young, enjoyed the wonderful harmonies, and then left quietly. And this thought occurred to me: Why do they go away? Are people losing interest in religion, or are they finding more of the spirit of religion in music and less in creed?

The speaker was the Honorable Joseph R. Wilson, known to many in this vicinity as the author of "A Chapel in Every Home." His appeal was made to have a chapel, a room, or even a corner, that could be dedicated to communion with God, and emphasized the inspiration of such a spot.

KIND WORDS ABOUT RIVERTON

A newcomer in Riverton recently wrote as follows to the Riverton Chamber of Commerce in response to a letter of welcome sent him by that body.

"I thank you for your letter of July 12. I already feel very much at home in Riverton. I like your town and I like your people, and I wish your honorable body much success in your field of endeavor."

A lady who was visiting in Riverton lost this message. An advertisement was placed in The New Era which resulted in the lost article being returned to the owner, who wrote as follows:

"Am in receipt of your recent letter regarding my lost 'forgotten' and I take this means of thanking you for your promptness and courtesy which I appreciate so much. While my stay in Riverton was a short one, I was impressed by the beauty of the town and the courtesy of the people."

TWO ACCIDENTS

Triple Crash at Horton's Landing Road Last Sunday

During the heavy rush of traffic through Morton's Sunday night two accidents occurred. No one was seriously injured, however.

A triple crash took place on the pike at Horton's Landing Road when the front car of a line stopped abruptly. The second machine was unable to stop and a sudden stop and neither could the third car halt on the spur of the moment.

The leading car escaped unscathed, but the other two were not so fortunate and suffered badly. The first car, a Buick, was driven by an elderly woman, the occupants of the second machine, was badly shaken and had to be taken to the office of a local physician for treatment.

Later, about midnight, two cars crashed in what Chief Bradshaw terms a "head-on side-swing" on Camden avenue. The front of the auto driven by Frank Alberger, of Chestnut street, Maple Shade, was considerably damaged, while the other car, driven by Peter Blawchett, of Merchantville, escaped with a few scratches.

SIXTY DAYS

Palmyra Colored Man Must Serve Time for Disorderly Conduct

Sixty days in the county jail was the sentence meted out to William McKinley, colored, of West Palmyra, Monday evening by Justice of the Peace William Fichter.

McKinley was arrested Sunday evening by Chief of Police C. Morris Beck on the complaint of neighbors and he was lodged in the jail Sunday evening on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Monday evening he was tried and Tuesday morning was taken to the county jail, Mount Holly to start serving his time.

EXHIBITION AT ITALIAN SCHOOL

Interesting Program Prepared for Public Viewing, August 27

The final exhibit of the work at the Italian Mission School will be open to the public on Friday evening, August 27, 1926, at the little yellow school house in Cinnaminson.

There will be a program in two parts. The first part is intended to give a peep into the everyday work including the morning exercises, tooth-brush drill and the afternoon closing exercises. The remainder of the program will consist in songs, sketches, recitations, and stories.

This school is maintained by the Farm and Cannery Migrant Committee of the Council of Women for Home Missions, together with a local committee which cooperates with both money and personal services. The children are carried to and from school in a car loaned by Mrs. Charles Evans, a member of this committee.

The teachers who the Council employs are undergraduate girls interested in social service, or who expect to become life missionary workers.

The purpose of the Council in establishing stations similar to this throughout the country is to take care of children who otherwise would have no one to care for them while the family is at work. Incidentally the opportunity to teach patriotism, right kind of home making and good citizenship, presents itself.

The project is supported by various church boards, and a rather extra appropriation of $15,000 for extra expenses. This brought out that the appropriation for the running of the school for 1926 was estimated at $15,000 would pay the bills along this line for the balance of the year. Emergency notes will be issued to cover the extra appropriation.

The Hainesport bridge, which is narrow and is considered a rather dangerous spot, is to be repaired by being decked. The roadbed of the bridge is to be widened when the trolley tracks are removed by the trolley company.

Mr. Lippincott said that while the subject of the Hainesport bridge was up for consideration he would like to have the other two bridges on this road between Moorestown and Mount Holly looked into with a view to have them widened, as many accidents had happened owing to the bridges being narrower than the roads.

A truck with trailer carrying a Deery steam shovel, ran off the road between Marlton and Medford, Thursday night, and the paving was badly damaged. The combined weight of the outfit was estimated at 35 tons, and belonged to the General Construction Company of Philadelphia and was on its way to Trenton. As a result of the accident the driver was held on a charge of having no permit to operate the trailer being about 13 feet wide, and he also was a license for the trailer.

The damage to the road was estimated to be about $50 by Supervisor of the county roads, and the board decided to hold the truck and trailer until this amount is paid. The owners of the outfit will also have to load it on a freight car and ship it the balance of the distance to Trenton, as it will not be permitted on the county roads.

To Placard Roads

The Keystone Automobile Club applied for the privilege of placarding the roads of the county, state roads excepted, with warning and danger signs, and as there is no expense attached to the signs will probably be erected in the near future.

The matter of giving attention to the large trees in front of the court house at Mount Holly was acted on favorably. The F. A. Bartlett Tree Export Company, of Philadelphia, agreed to doctor and trim the trees for $95. It was shown that the sturdy oaks and pines need attention.

Mr. Fisher reported the Branch street bridge in Medford in need of repair, the guard rail and abutment being in bad shape. It was thought the work could be done for $500. Bids will be asked.

A bill of Chemist Baybar, of Bound Brook, a witness summoned by the state in the recent conspiracy case, but who was not used, which has been investigated by Solicitor Wells, was ordered paid. It was for $163.50.

The collector reported that the matter of the responsibility of the Public Service for maintaining its right of way in good condition between the rails and for the required distance on each side, was now being tested in the courts by the city of Newark, and advised that Burlington county await the outcome of this trial before taking any further steps in this direction.

The following bills were ordered paid: Roads, $12,249.70; bridges, $4,479.47; public buildings, $13,014.92; public affairs, $3,594.93; finance, $529.35; making a total of $24,867.37.

one-class counties, or counties having a population of between 50,000 and 100,000, has a clause inserted, "or counties bordering on the Atlantic Ocean."

The Attorney General's office has certified that Burlington county borders on the ocean. But the situation is so complex that the freeholders decided to receive the report of the solicitor and the matter ordered continued.

New County Garage

The county has purchased two and seven-tenths acres of land at Clermont, at the edge of Mount Holly, and the road department will erect suitable garages and buildings for the storage of the county machinery. The road department has outgrown its present property on Charles street, in which is kept tractors, snow scrapers, trucks and road supplies. The land was purchased from William L. Blinger and Fred Boyd.

Bids for the supplying of furniture and furnishings for the new Nurses' Home at New Lisbon were opened and Henry Rosenfeld, of Mount Holly, on his proposal of $2,296, was the low bidder and was given the contract. Other bidders were: J. B. Vansilver Co., Camden, $3,020.83; L. J. Brothers, Philadelphia, $2,843.11.

Expenses Exhausted

Director of Finance Wright offered a resolution providing for an extra appropriation of $15,000 for extra expenses. This brought out that the appropriation for the running of the school for 1926 was estimated at $15,000 would pay the bills along this line for the balance of the year. ## Pure Foods and Their Preparation

By Wm. H. Dodge, Jr.

Modern Preserving Methods Popular

Dehydrated Foods Preferred—As The Food of The Future

During the World War few people knew that the reason for Germany's inability to sustain her war effort was due to the lack of food. It was not until the war was over that the world began to realize the importance of food. Since that time, however, a number of these plants have come into being throughout the country, and their products enjoy a wide distribution.

It is only natural that southern New Jersey should be the home of one of these plants. The Louis G. Osborn Food Company was organized in Vineland two years ago, and has since attained national proportions, selling its products to hundreds of thousands of housewives throughout the country. This company manufactures under the name of "Time Brand" a variety of pure vegetable soups, and a cream of soups.

These products are prepared from fresh vegetables, after all of the water has been extracted. They come in powdered form, and contain all of the properties of the fresh vegetable, with the exception of water, which can be readily added. Delicious soups can be instantly prepared by the addition of a little milk or water to several tablespoons of this powder. Cream of celery, mushrooms, asparagus, or what will you? If you have not tried this wonderful preparation, it is time that you were enjoying its convenience and wholesomeness.

FIRE IN AUTO

A peculiar accident occurred Saturday evening at Main street and Chester avenue, Moorestown, when an auxiliary car of gasoline carried along the front seat of an Overland sedan caught fire.

The battery terminal post came in contact with the gasoline can, which was in the trunk of the car, and caused a flash. As a result, the gas caught fire as it began to leak out.

The driver became excited and tossed the flaming can across the street leaving a path of liquid behind it, which soon was ablaze. Dennis Duran, a bystander, stopped a passing automobile from which he borrowed a fire extinguisher and put out the fire.

The upholstery in the front seat of the machine was badly burned but no further damage was done. Chief Bradshaw attempted to call the fire department but the electrical storm had put the alarm system out of commission.

Plan For Financing Highway Construction After 1927

Senator Pierson Outlines Scheme to Supply Funds for State Road Improvement by Continuing One Mill Tax

The following address was delivered by Senator Arthur N. Pierson, of Union county, before the August meeting of the State Association of Freeholders, at the Woodbury Country Club on Monday, at which time President Charles R. Stout, of Burlington county, presided.

After 1927—What? Apply this question to the State Highway problem and we will have one of the biggest, and yet the most important problems that confronts the State today.

Five years ago, when it was approved that the old so-called "pay-as-you-go" plan for financing the construction of a State Highway System had utterly failed; when we found ourselves obligated to State highways, when the future prospective revenue from our mill tax had been mortgaged for three years in advance; when the State was facing the certainty of a three or four-year construction holiday; the Road Association of New Jersey requested me to draw and present a bill for the relief of the situation, the seriousness of which had never been fully realized by our people.

$20,000,000 Bonds
The plan was to capitalize the mill tax by issuing $20,000,000 of bonds for the completion of what constituted the mileage of our State highway system. The plan made simple provisions for paying the interest and sinking fund charges on the bonds issued, as well as the payment of the State's debt to the counties for State highway construction farmed out to them under the reimbursement act.

Both of these obligations have been met with an abundant margin of safety in the way of surplus from the mill tax each year. The program has proved all and more than its advocate promised. It has been a success, not only because it has proved a practical and economic way of meeting the situation, but it has afforded a great measure of relief to the traveling public and been of great benefit to the agricultural, social and commercial interests in our State. With the issue of $20,000,000 bonds in the next year, the end of this program will have been reached.

At the end of 1927, practically all our main routes of the highway system will have been constructed with permanent pavement. The great Victory Bridge at Perth Amboy and many modern type bridges of lesser importance along our State highways will have been constructed.

Gateway Projects
The very comprehensive gateway project which couples up the highways of South Jersey with the Camden-Philadelphia Bridge, will be largely completed and substantial progress will have been made upon the Great North Gateway project which couples up the North Jersey metropolitan area with the Holland Tunnel to New York.

With the accomplishments of the past, we have hardly kept pace with the traffic demands and when we consider that the motor vehicle registration in our State has more than doubled in four years, we must but we cannot view the highway transportation problem alone from the State's viewpoint. Our counties and municipalities are bearing a great burden in providing the necessary facilities for this form of transportation.

I have made something of a study of the increased costs to counties arising from the ever-growing facilities and I believe it is a fair statement of the proposition to say that at least two-thirds of our counties find themselves overburdened, if not overwhelmed by this phase of their county expenditures.

I am convinced the State must step in and take over a greater mileage and include it in its system of highways. This I believe is fair because so much traffic is foreign.

I mean by this not only the traffic that originates without the State and is bound for points beyond the State line, but because so large a percentage of traffic does not originate in nor is it bound for any point within the county. It is foreign to the county, and consequently becomes at least a State problem.

You will recall the resolution passed in the Legislature last winter, instructing the State Highway Department to plot out a larger and more comprehensive State Highway System. The purpose of this resolution was to get an up-to-date picture of the needs for an enlarged and greater State highway system, which will approximate a total of 2,000 miles, or about two and a-half times our present system.

Two Class Roads
The plan is to divide this mileage into two classes. First, the primary roads, which will, of course, include the present State Highway System, with some additions, possibly bringing the total mileage up to about 1,000 miles. Then the secondary system, which I would picture as being about an additional 1,000 miles. The secondary system will be roads of lesser importance, that will be feeders to and connecting links to the primary system.

It is after such a program has been worked out and the Legislature sees fit to adopt it as its program of State highways, I believe we will have gone as far in planning for future needs as it would be wise to undertake at this time.

Certainly such a mileage will entail large appropriation, but I believe it is a justifiable proposal, the accomplishment of which will be a profitable investment for the State.

Let us consider the problem with this mileage adopted. I have this to propose, that the additional primary roads be taken over and constructed with the full burden of cost met by the State fund, of the secondary system, I imagine that at least one-third of the mileage is now constructed with high-type modern pavement.

Two Secondary Roads
This will leave us with between six and seven hundred miles of secondary roads to be constructed, many of which have a number of years of life under their present construction, but will ultimately have to be replaced with a permanent type of pavement.

If the State will pay to percent of construction costs, I believe a fair division of costs will have arrived at. While the State will have increased its burden to substantial degree, on the other hand counties will be relieved of a tremendous burden, as it is thought to place the cost of upkeep of both primary and secondary roads upon the State highway funds.

We will find that many of those who opposed the $20,000,000 program five years ago have been converted to the wisdom of that plan for State Highway financing, as their fears have been set at rest and they have seen, as we all have, the wonderful value of the modern highway to every phase of activity.

The farmer appreciates it, the users of pleasure cars have increased their comfort and value, and those who find it more economical to transport their goods by automobile than by horse-drawn vehicles, know the value of good roads.

$20,000,000 Bonds
We will hear from many quarters, and it will come as a great alarm from some, and in the form of serious inquiry from others, that we are plunging our State hopelessly in debt.

Let us analyze the situation from this viewpoint. The total indebtedness of New Jersey today is $28,000,000, but $20,000,000 of this burden is for the financing of the construction of the Camden-Philadelphia Bridge and the vehicular tunnel from Jersey City to New York.

This amount is simply a loan to these projects, to be repaid with interest to the State from tolls charged for the use of each.

The tolls from the Camden bridge have already proved that these revenues will be sufficient to take care of the bonds issued for this project. Indeed the receipts thus far are double the amount necessary to make these bonds self-supporting.

After the first of the year, who will doubt but that the tolls from the Tunnel will take care of the interest and sinking fund charges on these bonds.

So, after all, I think it is fair to claim a reduction of the $28,000,000 as these bonds are really self-supporting and will be no longer a burden upon the taxpayer, after all the real burden of debt today is a total of $22,000,000, $28,000,000 of which are abundantly supported by the Mill Tax.

We have left, as a debt that is a tax burden, only the $12,000,000 Colson Roads bonds, and the same situation will be true with the proposed issue of bonds, so long as they can be supported by the Mill Tax.

To my mind, the investment of $20,000,000 in good roads has brought abundant dividends to the people of our State, not only in the way of transportation facilities, but also in the increased values of real estate, which this year alone amounted to $750,000,000. I believe a large part of this increase in value can be credited to this investment.

We have had the Mill Tax for the last ten years without it being a burden to anyone, so it can be fairly and sagaciously said that we can finance a further Highway program construction without increasing our taxes in any way.

LIKE JACK AND THE BEANSTALK
What corn in Moorestown garden attracts attention?

The unusual spectacle of corn growing as high as the second-story window greets the eye of resident commuters on their way to the trains and buses in Moorestown.

A garage looks like a playhouse under the towering corn stalks.

Miss Rosa B. Rogers, of Chester avenue, does not profess to be a farmer or an agricultural expert, but one thing she does know—that's how to raise corn.

The stalks are from 12 feet to 15 feet in height, and add more inches to their stature every day.

When Miss Rogers cuts the corn she will be obliged to climb a step-ladder, as the lowest ears on the stalks are far above her head. Residents of the town bring their visitors to the yard of the Rogers home where they gaze with astonishment at the phenomenal giants.

Farmers are trailing toward the Rogers domain for many miles around to examine the corn.

Resurrect Old Papers
Richard S. Folwell, of Mount Holly, received from the Philadelphia office of the Royal Insurance Company, several copies of the by-laws of the old Mount Holly Insurance Company, which discontinued business about 1880, when it sold out to the Royal Company.

The oldest by-law, adopted December 25, 1855, shows the following board of directors:

John Black, William N. Shinn, Moses Wills, Jonathan J. Spencer, Charles Stokes, Benjamin Shreve, Zebulon M. Wills, James Logan, Edward Brown, John R. Black, Allen Penimore, Daniel Wills and Joseph

Black. The president was John Black and George Maywood was secretary.

The first article, relating to the terms of insurance, is as follows:

"The terms of rates of insurance are as follows: Upon the class of buildings insured."

Incidentally, it may be stated that those rates are nearly double those now charged.

FINISH MAUSOLEUM
The granite mausoleum erected in the Mount Holly cemetery for Andrew J. Kelley, of Miami, Fla., has been completed. The entire exterior is of Vermont granite, with an entrance flanked with Ionic columns and containing a door of bronze. A window in the rear is of art glass, protected by a bronze grille.

The structure weighs 71 tons, of which 50 tons are granite, 5 tons slate and 6 tons marble. The roof, entirely of granite, weighs 15 tons.

The interior, which contains eight crypts, is of beautiful Tennessee marble.

Mr. Kelley, a former resident of Mount Holly, who has been very successful in the real estate business in Florida, at present is in his summer home in Maine, accompanied by his wife and mother and sister. He will go to Mount Holly next time to arrange for and supervise the building of his father and other relatives and placing them in the mausoleum.

PALMYRA GIRL SCOUTS AT CAMP "BE PREPARED"

Well Arranged Schedule Provides "Something Doing" Every Minute

KINDLY "NATIVE" SENDS 5-16 BOX OF CANDY

(Report of the Palmyra Girl Scouts week at Camp "Be Prepared" by Eleanor Baker.)

The Girl Scouts left Palmyra at 8:30 a. m. After having trouble with the truck, the girls relayed into camp by car. The first arrived at four o'clock, the second at five o'clock and the truck at 8:30 p. m.

It was rather quiet at camp on Sunday until Sunday night, when the third four girls who had been following the following schedule:

8:00 a. m.	Rising, washing, setting up exercises, flag raising and morning dip.
8:30	Dress and tidy rooms.
9:30	Mass call.
9:30	Inspection.
9:45-10:30	Swimming.
10:30-11:30	Girl scouts work and signaling.
11:30-12:30	Games.
12:30	Mass Call.
1:00-2:00	Rest Hour.
2:00-2:45	Swimming.
3:45-4:45	Girl Scout Work.
4:45-6:00	Recreation.
6:15	Mass Call.
7:30	Evening Devotion.
9:15	First Whistle.
9:30	Lights Out.

The girls were divided up into four groups to do the camp work. We almost called the dishwashers the small group, for it took them hours and hours to do the dishes.

We had a bathing suit which mysteriously disappeared and we were kept out of the bathing one morning, but we did not find it. We took a hike on Friday to Orley. We had a fire to cook our lunch, but we did not cook it. We also went in bathing in the ocean on Friday and ask our Captain three why she uses her toes as ball for crabs.

The most exciting time of the day was ball time. We certainly had a ball game exciting than to others. If you don't believe it, ask Lulu, otherwise known as Miss K. Hemmingsway. We were taught table manners and had to exercise them. Lulu and Captain were always seen with a white in their mouths. The means were used didn't present them with a rattle. We started to have a parade, but Captain and Lulu met us on the steps and decided that was the proper place for us.

The scouts are really indebted to several kind citizens for treats which they sent to us. Especially the man who sent the five-pound box of candy to Captain. The scouts are especially indebted to The Shipper (Mrs. Powers), Lee (Mrs. Haezel), and Pete (Mrs. Haezel). The means were used didn't present them with a rattle. We started to have a parade, but Captain and Lulu met us on the steps and decided that was the proper place for us.

EDGAR QUEST ON "THE ROTARY SPIRIT"

New Member Welcomed and Constitution Furnished. Entertainment.

At its regular meeting August 19th, the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club welcomed C. Ridgley Sweeney into membership. He is classified as automobile retailer and is the proprietor of the Burlington Dodge agency on Broad street. Robert C. Bittling was present as Fred Sweeney's guest.

The club's committee on Rotary Education is in charge of the program. Harry Sweeney, president of the club, is in charge of the program. The speaker they had invited failed to show up at the meeting, but Harry assisted by Clem Lewis and Paul Vanant put across an entertaining if not an instructive program. Dr. Mills added some well chosen extracts from a Rotary bulletin among them a poem by Edgar A. Guest which portrays his conception of Rotary.

The Rotary Spirit Red roses for the living and hand-clasp warm and true, A heart that's tuned to giving, and strength to dare and do, The sound of honest laughter, the joy of honest toil, For those that follow after, to leave a finer soil, All this has been and ever will be the Rotary plan, A man's sincere endeavor to serve his fellow-man.

A little less self seeking, a little more for men, Less chatter in our speaking, more kindly with the pen, A little less of swerving from paths of truth and right, A little more of serving and less of dollar might, More peaceful with our neighbors, and stauncher to our friends, For this is Rotary labor, on this its hope depends.

To smooth the way for others, to make the life of life, To make the phrase "our brother" mean more than idle boast, To praise sincere endeavor, when praise will spur it on, Withholding kind words never until the friend is gone, This is the Rotary spirit, this is the Rotary plan, God grant that we may bear it, before we cross the stream.

—Edgar A. Guest, Detroit.

Miss Core Lanes and Miss Joyce Watson of New Brunswick, Pa., arrived with Mrs. A. J. Harke on Sunday.

RAIN, NO GAMES FOR REALTY CO.

Due to the continued rain of the past few days, all of the games scheduled in the Burlington County League were postponed last week.

This Saturday, should clear weather return after its brief absence, the time will have to be postponed. The games have been discontinued for the year and league contests are started on Saturday afternoons only.

The team is playing a greatly improved brand of the national sport and has French, who assumed the management of the team, is "pulling hard" to get the club out of the cellar position before the curtain is lowered on the season.

Football Team For Moorestown Seen

Much Interest in Development of Town Team Is Being Manifested

With fall rapidly approaching, thoughts naturally turn to gridiron and then comes the question "Will Moorestown have a town football team this year?"

Will it? That depends upon the enthusiasm of the wearers of the cleated boots and the interest of the tandom at large.

The sport is popular in Moorestown and in addition there is a wealth of grid material in the town to form a cracker jack eleven.

Football is rapidly gaining as much popularity as enjoyed by the so-called national sport, baseball, and in addition to the great local and school interest, the professional eleven that draw thousands of spectators, it seems that almost every town and hamlet today supports its own football combinations.

From the amount of interest which has already been aroused among the athletes of the town and with the knowledge that Moorestown people can be depended upon to support such a movement, without a doubt South Church street grounds will be the scene of many thrilling grid contests during the fall and winter months which will soon be here.

It is understood if the interest is quickly and sufficiently aroused, several men who have a thorough knowledge of the game and have the ability to develop a formidable team are ready to take the reins and give Moorestown a good, home town football team of which the sporting element may be justly proud.

NEW SALES RECORD FOR GRAHAM TRUCKS

For the first time in the history of Graham Brothers more than 1000 of their motor coaches have been delivered in a single week at retail by Dodge Brothers dealers in the United States and Canada.

The record of 1041 during the week ending July 14 follows closely the record of 898 delivered during the week ending July 14, and in more than twice the figure for the best week last year. Compared with the corresponding week of 1921, when 347 were sold the gain is 694 trucks or 200 per cent.

During five weeks ended July 11 delivery of trucks and motor coaches totaled 4080. The increase over the preceding five weeks was 15.7 per cent and over the five weeks ending August 1 last year was 2408 units or 143 per cent.

This rapidly growing demand for a dependable transport motor coach, "the Graham," declares Mr. C. Ridgley Sweeney, local Dodge Brothers dealer, "is evidenced by the increasing ratio of this capacity to the heavier trucks, 2159 or 65.6 per cent of the total deliveries of Graham Brothers trucks and motor coaches during July were of this capacity. The fact that prior to introduction of the G-Boy, Graham Brothers new 1-ton truck, less than one third of their output was of that capacity and that now, over half are of that type shows clearly the constantly increasing approval of this sturdy little truck."

ENGLIS-DRITS

A very quiet wedding took place at the Central Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon, August 20, at four o'clock when Miss Esther M. Delis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Delis, of 333 Morgan avenue, became the bride of Mr. William P. Englis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Englis, of Rosborough, Pa. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George H. Lockett.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe marcel, trimmed with lace, and was attended by Miss John Warner, of Riverton, at matron of honor, who was dressed in brown georgette crepe.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of yellow tea roses, and the matron of honor carried a bouquet of salmon colored roses.

The wedding march was played by Miss Edith Trees.

After a short trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will reside at 333 Morgan avenue, Palmyra.

CLARK OF THAMES Mrs. I. M. McLaughlin, who was forced out of the dry goods business which she conducted in Palmyra for twenty-seven years, because she carried her share in the business during that time, died at her home.

FOND FAREWELL TO PLAY A C.

Moorestown's "Jenny Lady" bids farewell to seven of her valuable offerings as they started on their journey to seven different parts of the world last week.

The box, on Monday, after belonging to J. Harry Barlow, of Second street, former postmaster of Moorestown and at present postmaster of the South-Central post office in Philadelphia, had a list of eight packages. Seven have become the property of wealthy gentlemen to compete in the big boat races.

Mr. Barlow has kept one of the litter and has named it "Jenny Lady," while visitors to the Barlow home have added the name of "Queen" to it on account of its beauty and intelligence.

These dogs will be placed against the best in the United States and Canada. Their sire is "Bob Brick," out of "Moorestown's Jenny Lady," which was sired by "Jersey Prince," while her dam is "Indiana Eugene's Lady," a high-class shooting dog owned by a wealthy gentleman in Mississippi.

"Bob Brick" was sired by the great "Napoleon," one of the best-known English setters in the world, while his dam was "Queen Maltwe," the record-holder for the best gentleman's shooting dog in this state.

CHILDREN TO HOSPITAL

Ellen and Mary Loper, colored, Parry, N. J. were taken to the West Jersey Hospital, Philadelphia, Monday afternoon in the Palmyra Ambulance.

Their brother Zeke is seriously ill with typhoid fever and Dr. H. Bauer, in charge of the case, deemed it advisable to have the two children removed to a hospital.

George W. Rogers was the driver of the ambulance.

Bridge Route Buses Approved by Public

Comfort and Speed Are Features of Cars on Camden Bridge Route

The McCloskey Bus line which inaugurated service last week between Burlington and Philadelphia, has proven even more popular than was anticipated by its promoters. The buses, which are of the parlor car type, have appealed to the public so strongly that the line has been unable to care for the many who wish to avail themselves of this speedy, convenient and economical method of reaching the shopping district in Philadelphia.

It was planned to take care of all traffic between Burlington and West Palmyra, and from there make an express trip to Philadelphia, but during the past week many have been disappointed and were unable to secure accommodations on the buses.

Four new buses are expected within the next ten days, which should enable the management to maintain a regular half hour schedule to and from Philadelphia, the buses discharging and receiving passengers at the Strawbridge & Clothier store.

Wednesday morning of this week one of the buses now in operation began its trip from Riverton to Philadelphia, thus insuring better service for Riverton and Palmyra than was possible when the bus ran all the way through to Burlington.

CUT BY GLASS

Automobile Driven Into Palmyra Traffic Sign

Mrs. H. M. Graham and Mrs. A. Gropp, both of Trenton, were cut about the arm and face Friday morning by flying glass when the car driven by R. M. Graham in which they were riding struck the concrete base of the traffic signal at the corner of Cinnaminson avenue and West Broad street.

They were driving in from Parry, and Mr. Graham was looking for a detour sign that pointed toward Camden. For a moment his eyes left the road and he crashed into the "silent cop."

The windshield of the car was broken and a front axle tire cut in half.

The women were taken to the office of Dr. Charles Francis Voorhees, where they were treated. Mr. Graham suffered only from shock.

PYTHIAN FIELD DAY

Knights Will Enjoy Outing Saturday at Trenton

Pythian Field Day will be held at Woodlawn Park, Trenton, Saturday, August 25. The park is situated at Greenwood and Logan avenues.

All members of the active Workers Association of Burlington County Knights of Pythias, comprising New Jersey Lodge No. 1, of Mount Holly; Olympic Lodge, of Bordentown; Hope Lodge, of Burlington; and Palmyra Lodge, of Palmyra, are invited to attend, and can bring a brother or two along.

Pythian States Temples also promise to be on hand to enjoy the amusement which will be reduced to the Knights and admission to the Park will be free. Bring a box lunch and come along.

Prizes are offered for sports of all kinds, such as pitching, swimming, races, foot races and baseball. The president requests that the Knights get their tags on their arrival at the Park.

NO GAME AGAIN SATURDAY; RAIN KEEPS ARMY OFF FIELD

Visitors Brought Band and Were All Set for Big Game

ARMY TEAM WILL BE ATTRACTION LABOR DAY

For the second consecutive week the Riverton baseball team has not been able to play because of the inclement weather. The T. B. Army team from Fort Washington, Maryland, was to have been the attraction last Saturday.

About two o'clock Saturday afternoon five trucks full of uniformed men arrived in town. One truck was carrying the players, a second the band and the other three were filled with rosters from the army camp.

The local club's treasury was not able to stand the expense of a band, but a few public-spirited citizens of Riverton contributed enough to cover the expense.

When it is considered that only one or two of the donors could possibly get out to hear the music they helped to bring here, it may well be said that these few men have the right idea of how to support the local athletes.

The management wishes to take this opportunity to thank those who contributed so willingly to help give the fans something unusual. George D. Stevens donated a bus in which to take the band around the town before the game as an advertisement for the same.

So far this season the local ball club has lost but three games out of twelve played, which gives an average of .750.

Johnny Faye, who took Joe Luciano's place at short, has become a Riverton at Crystal Pool, Wood side Park. John's brother Ed will play short to finish the season. While Joe played with Riverton he had quite a following and now that he is gone the boys say that if he ever plays in "Philly" they are going to see him.

Joe said in a letter to "Marty" Welch that if Riverton had any games scheduled after the Dover team finished its season he would come back to play those games with his Riverton buddies for the local team. The Dover team is in first place at present and is fighting hard for the pennant.

This Saturday August 25 the Dunkirk A. A. of Philadelphia will oppose the local sluggers on the home diamond.

This Saturday will be MOORESTOWN DAY. Every fan is urged to attend this week's game and give REAL support to the local team.

ITALIAN MISSION SCHOOL CLOSING

Program and Exhibition of Work Done by Pupils Friday Night

The teachers at the Italian summer school in Cinnaminson are eager to make the program on Friday evening, August 27, entertaining, worthwhile, and one in which the public will be interested. The entertainment will be given in the Cinnaminson public school at 8 o'clock.

They and the local committee wish to see the people come and familiarize themselves with the unique work being done among the Italians.

Miss Alice Randall, executive and student director will direct the music. Miss Grace McHaffey, kindergarten teacher, will play the song accompaniments and lead exercises, drills etc.

Miss Celeste Turley, who has had charge of domestic science and arts and crafts, will act in the capacity of stage manager, directing the work behind the scenes.

The program follows: Greeting from the Staff. Song: Onward Christian Soldiers. Welcome. Mary Caswell. Song: Holy! Holy! Holy! Morning Prayer. Psalm 28. Song: Jesus Loves Me. Psalm 121. Hymn 100. Dramatization, Baby Moses. Sketch.

Old Mother Goose Nursery Rhymes Recitation. Song—Little Tine Fiddle. Tooth Brush Drill. Song: Singing "Ninth the Old Apple Tree Song—Ump Pa.

Solo by Miss Randall. Song—The Italian School. The program will close with "The Flag Drill" followed by "America." The audience will be asked to join in the singing of "America."

An exhibit of the work done by pupils of the summer school will be held in the little yellow school house, where the summer school has been conducted.

OPEN HOUSE

Camp 25, P. O. S. of A. Palmyra, Will Celebrate Old Home Day

Following a resolution passed at the meeting of Camp 25, P. O. S. of A. Palmyra, Monday evening it was decided to observe open house during the celebration of "Old Home Day" Saturday, September 25.

At this time it is planned to have a reunion among the "old timers" who were former residents here and members of Camp 25.

A special program has been arranged and many surprises in the line of entertainment are promised by the committee in charge.

The committee is: Charles Kopp, president; John White, Charles Mallock, Edson Calkins and Furman Wood.

Leslie W. Reeves was appointed Historian to arrange the history of Camp 25 for publication in the "Old Home Day" edition of the Palmyra News.

Camp Dix Will Soon Be Busy

Many Bodies of Troops To Arrive at Campment This Fall

Preparation are under way at Camp Dix for the reception of a considerable number of troops during the early fall as the result of orders issued from the headquarters of the Second Corps Area at Governor's Island. It is expected that each organization will spend about two months in training and range work at Dix.

The following organizations are under orders to proceed to Camp Dix on the dates given:

Seventh Infantry, about five hundred men, coming from Fort Hancock on September 1 and probably reaching Camp Dix two days later.

Headquarters Company, First Brigade (with Eighteenth Infantry), about fifty men, leaving Fort Hancock at the same time.

Sixth Infantry (less Second Battalion and Company C and Company M), about four hundred and fifty men, leaving Fort Hancock on September 2.

Sixteenth Infantry, Second Battalion, Sixteenth Infantry, (less Company H), about two hundred and ten men, leaving Fort Hancock about October 1.

First Ordnance and First Tank Companies, about sixty men each, coming by motor, the first named on September 4 and the latter about October 1.

All the other organizations will march from Fort Hancock to Camp Dix.

There are now about two hundred soldiers at the campment, although as far as the appearance of uniformed men on the streets of the nearby towns is concerned, no one would suspect it. The reason is that the men are now allowed to wear civilian clothes when on leave. It is said that every night there are numbers of soldiers in Mount Holly, enjoying a brief respite from the military routine but that few people know it because they are all in "civies."

To be Permanent
There is said to be no longer any doubt as to the permanency of Camp Dix. It will probably be about a year before the reconstruction work actually starts to put the somewhat reduced camp on a permanent basis, however. There will be no funds available until July of next year, other cantonments retained in the army post list, having obtained the jump on Dix this year.

The fortunate ones in this area were Camps Vall and Devero. The latter cantonment obtained money for reconstruction work, which otherwise might have come to Camp Dix this year. It will be another story, some military men say, for those interested in the future of Dix will exert all pressure possible to have Dix given due consideration in the matter of funds for building the buildings in condition suitable for the shelter of the officers and men who will be quartered there.

One of the permanent additions to the Camp Dix Post is likely to be a regiment of cavalry, there being no adequate provision at any of the other cantonments in the area for the cavalry outfit which belongs to this area and which for that reason has been stationed in the Second, of which Camp Dix is a part.

FEWER COWS BUT MORE MILK IN N. J.

A marked increase in the efficiency of New Jersey dairy farming is indicated in advanced reports from the special agricultural census taken in 1935.

Although the number of dairy cows has fallen in the period between 1920 and 1935 from 189,500 to 123,800, a decrease of 7,700 animals, the output of milk has increased 5,000,000 gallons. In 1920 the production was 10,000,000 gallons, whereas in 1935 it was 15,000,000.

Elimination of scrub cows on many farms and more careful feeding and breeding of the remaining good cows are largely responsible for the increased output. In the opinion of dairy authorities at the state college of agriculture, New Brunswick.

Investigation on many farms has shown that animals giving 5,000 quarts of milk or less a year hardly pay for their feed. Ordinarily they eat almost as much feed and require practically as much care as high grade animals giving 4,000 to 5,000 quarts of milk a year. For this reason college authorities have for years been urging dairymen to keep only the animals that give two to four times as much milk without running up the feed bill to any appreciable extent.

Numerous cowtesting associations have been organized throughout the state for the purpose of assisting in this elimination, and it is pointed out as significant by the college that the average profits of members of these associations is considerably higher than that of non-members.

Coincident with the increase in output per cow has been an improvement in the quality of the milk sold. This is considered by the foremost dairymen of the state as highly important in expanding the market for milk. By increasing the per capita consumption of the product as recommended by health authorities, physicians, and dietitians, it is hoped that the occasional depressions in the milk market will be avoided.

Economists hold the opinion that as the ability to produce more discriminating in the quality of milk it accepts, dairy farmers will find it increasingly necessary to clear herds of poor cows in order to offset rising costs of handling milk in a clean and sanitary manner.

Fast on Rocks, but Refuses Help

With water pouring into her forward hold, the Garand freighter Norton which recently went on the rocks at Horseshoe Point, 100 miles north of San Francisco, was still fast on the reef when this picture was made. Despite his position, the ship refused to accept aid of ships standing by. The crew of 40 men was still aboard the vessel, which was about 100 yards off shore.

Makes Report on Fertilizer Test

County Agent Gives Detailed Results of White Corn Experiment

By Charles A. Thompson
County Agricultural Agent

Following is a report of the results obtained by members of the Soil Department of the Agricultural Experiment Station, of the fertilizer test conducted on Burlington County White corn at the farm of John Heak, Beverly.

In comparing the data and looking over the results, growers should keep in mind the fact that these results have been secured from only one year's observations, and they are published only with the understanding that growers should not take this information as indicative of what the results are likely to be from those obtained from several years' average.

In comparing the data, more attention has been paid to the number of ears than to the other data, as this was the basis on which the crop was sold. In nearly all cases, except where the treatment was injurious to the germination and decreased the stand, the treatment increased the yield over the untreated plots. This is true also of some of the plots where the germination was decreased.

Except in the case of the plots where the treatment was injurious to the germination, and where a large percentage of replanting was required, there seems to be little relation between the amount of replanting and the yield. In this connection, I wonder if any of the growers have ever watched hills that have been replanted to notice if these hills have ever matured ears.

There was in general a fairly close correlation between the earlier appearance of the growth and the yield per lot. This is true both with poor appearance and low yield, and with good appearance and high yield.

There is little difference between the results from the plots where the fertilizer was applied in the row and where it was applied on top, either as to total production or percentage in the first cutting. The side-of-row application gave an average yield per plot which was slightly less than those from the other methods.

The treatments hastened maturity of most plots, giving a larger percentage of ears in the first cutting than did the checks. In general, maturity as shown by this method was hastened more by the application on top of the row, except in the case of the sulfate side dressing, where the in-row method gave the most in the first cutting. The treatment on the side of the row roughly paralleled the on-top treatment, with the same side dressing "outlets" in yield, but maturity was a little slower.

Few Differences
The different mixtures show no consistent differences except with cyanamide, which injured the germination very much when applied in the row and also retarded maturity in most plots. The plot which obtained its nitrogen, 1-3 tankage, 1-3 nitrate of soda and 1-3 sulfate of ammonia, also tended to retard maturity.

This concentrated fertilizer which contained 84 per cent plant food (10-10-10) which was used at the rate of 250 pounds per acre, gave very good results, and no injury was apparent from its use.

The high organic fertilizer (1-3 nitrate and 1-3 tankage) gave good yields but a somewhat slower maturity when applied in the hill. When used on top it gave a crop which matured rapidly but yielded slightly below the average. There was no special benefit to be noted from the use of the side dressing either when the fertilizer was applied in the row or on top.

1000 Pound Treatment
The 1000 pound application gave a yield greater than the average, and did not appear to cause any injury. The 1500 pound application decreased the germination, lessened the stand and gave the lowest yield of any plot in the field. This would indicate that 1250 pounds was too much fertilizer to put in the row under the seed. Although no injury was caused by the 1000 pound application, the results do not ## show that, under the conditions, it gave any better results or was as profitable as the 500 pound treatment.

The use of the double manure salt as a source of potash did not appear to materially decrease the yield, but it did delay maturity very much. It will be recalled that it was the double manure salt that was accused of causing the injury to the corn last year. The complete data is on file in the Agricultural Extension Office, at Mt. Holly, and a copy of it will be mailed to anyone making a request for it. If any of the growers have any suggestions or comments to make regarding the work, we will be pleased to receive them.

OLD HOME DAY

At a meeting of the sub-committee on Entertainment held last Friday evening, Mr. Colsey was selected as Chairman at the request of Mr. Morris who had personal reasons for not desiring to act in that capacity. The committee as now constituted is as follows: William B. Colsey, Chairman; DuWitt Morris; Harold H. Leyer; Luke K. Sherry; Herbert H. Parsons; Harry Curry.

The committee promises some startling surprises in the way of entertainment on the evening of Old Home Day and feel sure everyone, citizen and visitor, will be satisfied with the features that are planned.

ASHBURY

Miss May Ward entertained at a birthday dinner and supper in honor of her aunt's birthday, Mrs. Emma Ward Anderson, of near Moorestown Sunday August 22. Among those present were, Mrs. Emma Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen and son, Amos, of Fairbairn; William Brown, Mrs. Isaac Brown and son, William, of Indian Mills; Miss Martha Cotton, of Vincentown; Preston Worrell, of Medford; Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Anderson and son, Melvin, and Clifford Holts, of near Moorestown; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colsey, Sr. of Riverside; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giberson and son Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter and son, Freeman, Isaiah Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Ward and daughter, May, all of Ashbury.

Miss Louis C. Southwick returned home on Saturday evening, after spending seventeen days as a practical nurse at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Munyon, of Five Points.

Miss May Ward entertained on Friday Miss Mary B. Van Vane, of Riverside, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hewitt, of Bridgeboro.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED TO FRUIT GROWERS

Horticultural Society Stimulates Interest in Annual Show

In order to stimulate interest among fruit growers at the annual show, the State Horticultural Society is offering substantial cash prizes to those who will take the time to select fruit for exhibition purposes.

This year Burlington county fruit growers will have plenty of opportunity to show their wares. At the horticultural meeting at Atlantic City which, in all probability will be held this year during the second week in December, premiums of $25 for first prize, $15 for second prize, $10 for third prize and $5 for fourth prize will be offered to growers in each of the separate fruit classes. The best half bushel basket of the home, Stayman and Delicious varieties.

Burlington county farmers will compete only with other growers in the same county. Premium money for these prizes has been very kindly donated in Burlington county as follows:

Moorestown Trust Co., $50 for home beauty; Mt. Holly National Bank, $50 for Stayman; Burlington County Board of Agriculture, $50 for Delicious. These prizes will be in addition to those that are ordinarily offered in the annual premium list.

This year a new local fruit show will be started which should induce growers to exhibit their fruit. The Beverly Co-operative Growers' Association, the Burlington Kiwanis Club will cooperate with the Burlington County Extension office in conducting a combined fruit and potato show in one of the riverfront towns this fall. It is planned to hold this show at such time previous to the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society at Atlantic City so that prize winners at the county show may enter their fruit at Atlantic City.

The Junior Sweet Potato Clubs which held their first annual show in the Burlington City Loan & Trust Company building last year will combine their exhibit with the riverfront fruit show. Premiums will also undoubtedly be offered for senior exhibitors of sweet potatoes.

Jack Hermann, Camden's popular song writer, has returned to that problem after several years in other fields. Hermann has written several popular numbers, among them "Alabama Rose," "You Make Life Worth While" and "Lonesome for You."

Opposes Proposed Road Bond Issue

Senator Richards Views Plan as Extravagant

Opposition to a proposed $100,000,000 bond issue for State road purposes as advocated by Senator Arthur N. Pearson, of Union County, has been voiced by Senator Richards, of Atlantic in an open letter to the Union County representative.

In support of his contention Senator Richards argued that it was the duty of legislators to maintain Government within reasonable financial limits. Mr. Pearson's address, in which he proposed the bond issue to increase the State highway system by adding additional routes approximating 2,000 miles was delivered before the New Jersey Association of Freeholders at Woodbury last week.

In connection with his declaration that the indebtedness of the State should be kept within certain limits, Senator Richards said it was but a few years ago that New Jersey boasted of no debt, but now it approaches $100,000,000, and if Senator Pearson's proposal is to be taken seriously, will be well on the way toward the second hundred million indebtedness. He asked the question whether such a move was economically sound.

Exception was taken by Senator Richards to the statement by Senator Pearson that the one-mill tax would support the additional bond issue. "You say that the State one-mill tax has become an institution," continued Senator Richards. "That was precisely what we feared when we first plunged into the bond proposition. At that time the public was assured that it would not become an institution, and now it threatens to become an intolerable burden."

Instead of continuing the one-mill tax, Senator Richards suggested the imposition of a gasoline tax and an increase in motor vehicle fees. That revenue together with what is now being expended for highway construction, continued Senator Richards, would produce at least $25,000,000 annually to spend directly on the improvement and maintenance of the State highway system. Shortly, Senator Richards inquired, why should not the automobiles, who are primarily insuring upon the elaborate expansion of the road system, pay directly for their use, rather than the general taxpayer.

Infraction Revokes Enforcement of Compulsory Insurance

Vice Chancellor Dill, of Jersey City, has issued an injunction restraining Motor Vehicle Commissioner William I. Dill from enforcing the provisions of the compulsory Liability Insurance act passed by the last Legislature against the Drexel Brothers Auto Livery, Inc., of Jersey City.

The suit was instituted as a test case to determine the validity of the act, which makes liability insurance compulsory on all livery cars. Mr. Dill threatened revocation of the license in a letter to the firm dated July 25.

Talk on Clothing By Mrs. Griebel

Extension Clothing Specialist
Gives Valuable Suggestions
To Housewives

BY MRS. GRIEBEL
Extension Clothing Specialist

Quite by accident I have found a way of cutting a jabot in one with the front of my permanent pattern and it has worked out so easily and satisfactorily that I am writing you about it. It started with a desire for a blouse to wear with my suit coat. I have several that button up the front to the very top of their standing collar but these are not comfortable on hot days, and then I wanted a jabot for a change. The sort that set onto the fronts of one's blouse are lots of work and they never launder well because of the bias cut along the joining—and I must consider laundering for a day's travel by train or, at most, two days' wear anytime means a trip to the washbasin for any light-colored garment.

This is what I did: I placed the front portion of my permanent pattern on my material, which was washable rayon 35 inches wide, and folded lengthwise to allow for cutting two fronts. The underarm seam was as near as possible to the fold so that several inches of the material extended beyond the center front edge of the pattern. Instead of gathering the front shoulder into the blouse, as we usually do, I joined it without fullness letting the extra material go into the jabot.

The outline of the jabot may be varied. I cut the first one on a slant from the neck end of the shoulder seam to the lower edge of the blouse and then a slant there. I scalloped it, faced it with a broad piece that came well back onto the wrong side of the blouse but which was the right side of the jabot when finished. The blouse was cut five inches below the natural waistline on my pattern but this length may be varied to suit your needs. After the seams were finished and the jabot scalloped and lined, I stitched two half-inch vertical tucks in each half back to hold the extra fullness in place and then I faced the lower edge. There were no sleeves as it was worn only with a coat so the armholes were bound with bias strips of the silk. I set a straight collar across the back of the neck—in this case the edges were scalloped to correspond to the jabot.

I tried it on for the placing of the snaps. The upper ones held the jabot together so there was a pleasing V-shaped neckline; the lower set held the blouse comfortably together at the lower edge and the other set came about half way between.

Instead of snapping the jabot to the V opening, it is possible to let it fall from the shoulder line and insert a ventee to take care of the neckline. The edge of the jabot may be left plain in outline if you wish and, if you cut a long slant from the shoulder, that may be plain and the lower curve may be scalloped. This last outline is especially good for the woman who has a prominent diaphragm as it lies without tipples over the bust but falls in soft lines over the of-

"A GOOD DAY" By E. W. Fletcher

I passed thru part of the fruit belt of the Hudson River Valley on a Sunday in late August. The roads were jammed with cars, and the wayside markets—five or six to the mile—were thronged with buyers. It was, as one gratified fruit grower said to me, "a good day." He had sold several hundred dollars worth of fruit. Yet neither he nor any of his family had been to church. His boys had been too busy helping father to go to this school. It was "a good day," yet no member of that family had reverently worshipped his Creator. It was "a good day," yet three small boys were taught that money getting is more important than character building. It was "a good day," yet it swelled the rising tide of indifference to the fundamental moral law. A day divinely ordained for rest and worship was turned into a day of barter.

tending fullness of her figure.

I made a one-piece crepe dress using the same idea. This jabot was fuller because my crepe was 40 inches wide and I bound the scallops with a tiny bias which was put on by hand. The back was cut in one piece but the fronts were cut across about five inches below the waistline and a full width pleated on to form the shirt portion. I used a scalloped strip that turned down over the pleats to hide the joining of blouse and skirt and the whole thing was pretty nice, I think.

If you have difficulty in understanding these directions, call your county extension office and ask to have a mimeographed sheet sent you. This sheet has a drawing that shows the exact placing of the pattern and will be much easier to follow than this letter.

Cordially yours,

Dairy Show For County Farmers

Governor Moore to Speak at Tallman's Farm on Sept. 3

Since the passing of the Mount Holly Fair a few years ago many of the dairymen of Burlington County have been talking about having a dairy show and now they have made plans for such an affair.

It will be held at the farm of C. Craig Tallman, near Columbus, on Friday, September 3. It will be not only a dairy show, but will have many picnic features that will serve as an attraction for those who are not directly interested in cows as regular dairymen.

A program has been worked out under the guidance of the Burlington County Cow Testing Association and the County Board of Agriculture and the committee of these two organizations promises something big.

In substantiation of this promise, they announce the positive acceptance of Governor A. Harry Moore to be present and make an address. When it was decided to have this general farmer's picnic the committee felt that they would like to have a few big speakers and the first person thought of and approached was Governor Moore.

He had to readjust some of his engagements to comply with the request, and he did this to the great pleasure of the committee. A few of the farmers went to see him at Sea Girt and they now have his written acceptance and assurance that he will be present. Governor Moore is a most entertaining speaker and it is certain that many people hereabouts will take advantage of this opportunity to be in touch with him.

Dr. John B. Thompson, head of Rutgers College and an outstanding man in the field of practical education, is also expected to be present, but this is not yet assured. The complete program will be announced as soon as it is arranged.

Dairy Show

County Agent Thompson is giving his special attention to arrangements for the dairy show and he expects that there will be no less than one hundred head of high grade cattle from various parts of the county at the Tallman farm on this big day. It will give the dairymen an excellent opportunity to see just what kind of dairy stock is being kept and raised in the county.

There will be cattle judging, various demonstrations, exhibits of dairy equipment and other interesting events connected with dairying. The picnic features will include horseshoe pitching contests. A band will be present to give the occasion some musical life.

Those back of the movement express the hope that hundreds of Burlington county people will turn out to help make the day a success and pay a fitting tribute to the foster mother of the human race—the dairy cow.

Referring to Governor Moore's acceptance of the invitation sent to him, the Trenton Times says: "That Governor Moore has agreed to address a meeting to be held next month under the auspices of the Burlington County Cow Testing Association and Board of Agriculture is no little tribute to the dairymen of this part of the State. An interesting exhibit of dairy cows will be an added feature, according to County Agent Thompson. The session should be of much education value to all farmers in Burlington County."

Good Name

priceless and therefore jealously upheld . . .

Dodge Brothers have kept the faith. Year after year their motor car has continued to mature into a better and better product.

Beauty has been added to dependability, comfort and silence to beauty. Endless refinements have been made, and the basic sources of Dodge Brothers quality maintained in every detail.

As a consequence, the NAME Dodge Brothers is even more valuable than the great Dodge Brothers plant itself, and eminently worthy of the public confidence it everywhere inspires.

The public may rest assured that a Good Name so priceless will be safeguarded jealously by those who hold its destinies in their hands.

USED CARS

Yards of Ticket or Miles of Car?

A lot of folks are discovering that they can buy twenty or thirty thousand miles of good automotive transportation for the price of a yard of railroad ticket. And have more fun. Here's one of the many on our floor that will prove it:

Stutz Coupe, model KDKH. Six new tires, completely overhauled. New gun metal duco paint. Car looks like new.

"Feather" Says:

Did the Fairies Help?

A trip ending thirty miles from Philadelphia brought me to a place filled with memories and mementoes of the past. My destination was a stone house, one of the many places where General Washington has stayed one night. The house was filled with Colonial furniture and spirit of our great leader seemed to be very near.

My hostess took me to see a mill on the property that had made flour during the Revolutionary War and showed me the great mill stones between which the grains were ground. And then the house sifters with their alternate rows of wood and gauze. It was a misty sort of day, with the sun almost shining through, and it seemed to be the proper setting for my hostess to tell me a story, which she said had come to her from the house from some of the old residents.

General Washington needed finer flour for the hospital nearby, so he came to inquire from the miller as to how he could get it. The miller told the general that he could be very glad to make the flour, but the gauge on his sifter was worn out. His reserve stock of gauze had been confiscated by the English for bandages. In the spring there was some hope of getting more gauze from the South and then his family would weave some suitable gauze. But what to do that winter they did not know.

Unnoticed by them the miller's two children had been listening.
Now these children, John and Pricilla, were ardent patriots and wanted to help. They did not know how so they slipped out their toilet pot gander all about it.
Billy, the gander, was immediately interested, and he too wanted to help. So he told them that that night the fairies were going to hold a meeting down under the old walnut tree and would tell them queen. That they were to go in and go to bed, and then in the morning visit the mill and see what had been done.

Shortly after daylight the general and the miller decided to inspect the mill and see if the gauge could be mended so as to do for a time.
John and Pricilla went along, very quiet in their demeanor, but wildly excited inside because while they were sure the fairies had helped, they did not know quite how.

And when they looked what did they find. Wonderful pieces of gauze, fine and yet strong. The miller inspected it carefully and said that it certainly looked different from what it had the night before, and that he did not understand the many ways of John's of the gauze. Then John spoke "Oh father! may I tell you about that gauze?" "Certainly my son," but how can you possibly know what happened?" "Well we do, father. Last night we told Billy the gander all about the worn out gauze and the flour that the soldiers needed, so he said he was sure the fairies would help. And they did. They took all the gauze off their wings, and the moths gave the gauze to them back to things the gauze together with, and the fairies came up here last night and fixed all your sifter so that the soldiers can have flour; and the fairies all have to stay down under the old walnut tree until the first foggy night because they make gauze out of the fog."

The general and their father looked puzzled but as the evidence was before them and flour was assured, they could not doubt that the children's faith had wrought a miracle.
And I could not doubt it myself as I was given a piece of this magic gauze to bring home.

"As ye have faith so shall your powers and blessings be."

THE QUESTION BOX

Nearly Four Miles

D. J. Palmyra—What is the highest altitude ever made by any aviator?
Ans.—The highest we have any record of was made by Hawker, a British aviator, on April 28, 1916, when his ascent was nearly four miles.

Colors of French Flag

H. S. Palmyra—What are the colors of the French flag, and how are they arranged?
Ans.—Blue, white and red in three perpendicular stripes of unequal width.

German Emperors

E. M. Cambridge—Will you please answer in your question column who the emperors of Germany have been since 1871? Also I would like to ask how deep the Panama canal is?
Ans.—Wilhelm I, Frederick and William II were Germany's em-perors from 1871 to 1917. The minimum depth of the Panama canal is 41 feet and the maximum depth is 87 feet.

Various Explanations

A. H. Cinnaminnon—Will you please answer the following questions which I have asked in your column: (1) What is meant by "fried eggs with eyes open"? (2)
Why is every fourth year a leap year? (3) Who is Dr. George Grenville? (4) Who was Mrs.
Grundy? (5) Who was Simon
Legree? (6) Why are cigarettes called "coffin nails"?
A.—"Fried eggs with eyes open are eggs fried on one side only."
(2) Every fourth year is a leap year in order to properly divide time in accordance with the cycle of the sun. It requires a fraction of a day more than 365 days to make a year, hence every four years a day is added to make up the difference lost by the preceding four years. (3) George Grenville was an English statesman who died in 1770, aged 58 years. He was the author of the British stamp act that caused the revolution in 1776. (4) Mrs. Grundy is a person frequently referred to in Morton's comedy "Speed the Plough," where Dame Ashfield is continually saying "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" when anything happens or is proposed. (5) Simon Legree was a slave driver in slavery days in the United States, and is a character in Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." (6) "Coffin nails" is a misnomer, probably so-called because of their injurious effects.
Don't ask so many questions at once, lest we'll think you don't know anything.

History of Jewish People

L. S. Palmyra—Will you please answer in your valuable paper how far back does the history of the Jewish people extend?
A.—The history of the Jews begins with the return of the remnant of the kingdom of Judah from the Babylonian captivity in consequence of the edict of Cyrus. This was about 538 B. C.

Rights of Occupant

J. K. Riverton—When a person moves out of a house he has leased may he take the shades and fixtures?
Ans.—Yes, if they belong to him and the fixtures are not nailed.

Rights of Parents to Children

S. G. East Riverton—I would like to ask the question editor this one: There were five girls in our family, and we were all brought up in a comfortably fixed home, but always from childhood we were impressed that as soon as we finished high school we must do for ourselves. I longed for a college education but I knew it was hopeless to ask for it; yet I knew my father could have managed to send me—as all of us, for that matter—to college.
Now I have a daughter just about ready for college, and I am determined she shall have every advantage. My sisters say: "Why don't you let her work for it? Why don't you let her do it? Why don't you let her do it? Why don't you let her do it?" Who is right, my sisters or myself?

A.—We believe entirely that parents' duties to their children are much greater than children's duties to their parents. We are not decrying the latter, but just accentu-ating the former. Parents who bring children into the world should give each and every one of them every possible advantage for their mental, moral and physical development, no matter what the sacrifice may be to themselves. The child of good breeding never forgets his parents when the time comes. Therefore, it is our opinion that you are right.

Tom Ford—In what round did Fibro knock Dempsey out of the ring?
Ans.—It was in the first round that Fibro knocked Dempsey out of the ring.

Burlington, Pa.

Qualities That Give Fern a Staple Value

Hawaii has an especially interesting species of fern which is so thickly covered with fine wool that it is gathered for stuffing pillows and even mattresses.

The columnar trunks of the tree fern of the tropics are frequently used for telephone poles and are so highly prized for upright supports in the construction of native huts that they are never left behind but carried on when the family moves as a valuable piece of household furniture. The fern stem is a well-known source of supply for the manufacture of rope and, since it is impervious to the action of water, it is in most cases superior to hemp. The great strength of the fern stalk is thought to come partly from the hard outer shell and partly from the intricate network of dark strands within.

The Boston fern finds a ready commercial value in annually supplying millions of American homes with living ferns, while the danger fern and the fancy fern of the northeastern part of the United States are gathered in enormous quantities in late summer and autumn and put in cold storage for winter use. When taken from the refrigerator months later these ferns are still as fresh as when cut, and supply the ever-increasing commercial demand as a setting for bouquets of roses and other cut flowers.

Living Organism That Possesses No Shadow

At night a host of small creatures found safety in being divested of all pigment. In the course of evolution they had scraped off all the mercury from the back of the skin, becoming so transparent that the food which they swallowed was the most conspicuous and opaque part of their anatomy.

I could never quite escape from a decided Alice in Wonderland feeling when I looked into a dish of night plankton scooped from the surface.
By keenest scrutiny I could perceive only the usual hosts of small fry, when, reaching down and lifting out what seemed only an area of clear water, there would materialize before my eyes a phyllosoma. This was a creature who cast no more shadow than the thinnest skin of clear ice.

Yet it was a living animal, more than three inches long, with all the general organs which we ourselves possess—eyes, mouth, feet, stomach, nerves, muscles and a strong will to live.

Phyllosoma, or "leaf person," was the only name I could give them, although glass crab would be more appropriate, for they were the young of some lobsterlike crustacean and nothing is known of the intermediate stages.—The "Arcturus Adventure," by William Beebe.

"Dog Days"

What are the "Dog Days"?
Beginning on July 3 is the period supposed to be the hottest of the year, and which in ancient astronomy was associated with the rising of the Dog star.

Astronomy and religion being then closely connected, it was thought that the pestilences and drought of vegetation often occurring at the period in the heats of Italy could be warded off by propitiatory offerings to the rod of the star, and red dogs were, therefore, sometimes sacrificed.

From this old belief has survived our modern Dog days, though the term is often confused with the hot period during which dogs used to be supposed to be especially subject to madness.

The Automower

An American motorist touring this country pulled up at the roadside, where an aged countryman was mowing.

"Are you a native?" asked the tourist, and receiving an affirmative reply, added: "Then you don't know what this is?" He indicated his luxurious car.

"Aye, that be a motor car."
"No, it's an automobile."
"Aye, said the aged one. 'An' you won't know what this be." He pointed to his scythe.

"It's a scythe."
"You be wrong! It's an automow-grass."—London Tit-Bits.

Age of Figureheads

The age of sail was pregnant with strange belief and sentiment. To the imaginative and superstitious sailor the figurehead not only expressed the individuality of the craft, but it made her a living thing. To many, it was the guardian spirit in whose sacred care the inexplicable future lay. More than one old salt has refused to go to sea behind a naked bow, and when owners skimped in the matter of figurehead, shaggy eyebrows contracted and doleful predictions thundered forth as to the fate that awaited the unlucky craft.

Nature's Largest Plants
Scientists are now turning their attention to submarine farming, for the ocean beds contain rich pastures of vegetables. In the northern Pacific alone there are 2,000,000 square miles of unexplored sea bottom. As good to eat as any vegetables grown in the garden are the giant seaweeds covering 10,000 square miles of the Straits of Juan. These kelps, as they are called, are the largest plants in the world, for the stem is often 100 feet long and carries a tuft of leaves 30 feet across.

The young lad used to get a real thrill out of his first pair of long pants and now the old man gets the same kind of thrill when he puts on his first pair of knickers.

Beards were first imported into this country four hundred years ago for the Indians. Civilized Americans

Dorothy Mackall in an Ermine Wrap, Fox Collar

Under the classification of "Furs for Next Winter," Dorothy Mackall, the motion picture actress, is shown wearing an ermine wrap with collar of white fox, in "Subway Station," her latest success. This garment is an advance style for the coming season. A fashion show is one of the interesting features of "Subway Station" in which, paradoxically enough, the heroine falls in love with a prosaic subway guard.

WHAT TO EAT

THE daily problem of thinking up something reasonable, seasonable and economical with a minimum of work is not an easy thing for the housewife who has everything to do. Some find the breakfast a hard meal to plan with variety. As it should be a simple meal the food served should be reasonably digestible. In general the favored breakfast menu is, to begin with, fruit, then a cereal either cooked or prepared, eggs or bacon, toast or muffins, sausage and cakes, depending upon the season of the year.

For luncheon, if dinner is served at night, some simple hot dish like macaroni and cheese, scalloped potatoes, hot potato salad, baked potatoes, codfish or a fish chowder. This meal depends too upon the season, as to variety.

For a hot-weather luncheon a good potato salad with sliced cold meat, muffins or rolls, peaches and cream with cookies, make a good one.

In cold weather a hot soup is always a good beginning and often the main dish for luncheon. Those who have cultivated the taste for them, like cold fruit soups which are especially liked in warm weather.

For dinner a vegetable soup, roast beef, spinach, lettuce salad and ice cream with cakes and coffee.

If dinner is served at noon and supper at night the supper dishes may follow the same plan as the luncheon menus.

Banana Lemon Whip.

Boil together two cups of water, two cups of sugar, the grated rind of a lemon until it boils from the spoon. Soften one package of gelatin in two tablespoons of water and add to the hot sirup. Stir until dissolved, then add the sifted pulp of four ripe bananas and the juice of two lemons. Pour into a large bowl to cool and when it begins to harden, beat the mixture with a large-sized dory egg beater. Continue to beat until the whole is foamy, then pour into a mold and set away to chill. Serve piled in sherbet glasses.

Tuna Fish Salad.

Take one can of tuna, add twice as much celery cut fine, as fish, cover with a tart salad dressing and serve on lettuce.

Elephants Must Be Allowed to Increase

Elephant hunting in the jungles of India is becoming more difficult because of the thinning of the herds. There was a time, not many years ago, when the elephant drive always yielded a good harvest, say 100 or more young ones, from which a number of perfect specimens could be selected. But now the hunters are fortunate if they get eight or nine good ones from a hunt.

Some of the young elephants are selected for training and are divided into groups of various numbers, depending upon the circus acts for which they are to be used. Others are taught to carry a howdah and allow children to ride on their backs.

Elephants always are caught in the dry season, says John T. Benson in Popular Mechanics Magazine. At that time their natural food is the poorest and they have to tramp for miles to get a good meal. As a result, they are in poor condition and have to be fed for weeks before they can stand their first sea voyage.

Elephants are subject to numerous ills. They require much nursing, but they become acclimated to wild life, with proper care, live to a great age.

"Miss" Not Old Title

Denmark's decision to abolish the equivalent of "Miss" and address all women, married or single, as "Mrs." recalls the comparatively recent origin of the distinction in feminine titles in England. Until the Seventeenth century "Mistress" was the correct form for all women, and the diminutive "Miss" dates only from the time of Charles II. Contemporary evidence goes to show that the term was not intended to flatter, but rather to denote the inferior status of the person who lacked a husband to provide her with the more dignified title. But it evidently passed into general use except among the purists. Lady Mary Wortley Montague records that in her childhood dignified old ladies refused to use the new term, and, as a result, even little girls as "Mistress."

An Ordinance providing for the construction of curbs on both sides of Howard Street

HOW ADVERTISING HAS ENRICHED LIFE

It Has Made Us Want More and Consequently We Produce More

Any one who thinks that advertising is a waste because it adds huge expenses to the cost of manufacturing is dead wrong, according to Frank Presbury, former publisher who spent many years in advertising. It is our lavish spending on advertising that has made us the world's richest nation.

"The old indictment that advertising adds to the cost of goods has been quashed by experience," he writes in World's Work. "Advertising is a machine to aid in distribution. The public never questions the cost of a machine in a manufacturer's plant which adds to volume production. If the public didn't pay for the new machine it would pay for the more costly hand labor. No more is the machine of modern advertising, wisely employed, a subject of query and speculation as to expensive methods of selling and distribution.

"Look at the condition of our country today. Compare its activity, its prosperity, its standards of living with those of the rest of the world. It is no accident of nature that we are going ahead and that our prosperity is unprecedented. The natural resources of China or Siberia are as great as our own.

"But the masses of our people have a disconcerting inferiority standard of living. Advertising has made our people want ever a higher standard than before. They have worked to get what they wanted and their ever-increasing wants have increased consumption and thus purchasing power.

"The manufacturer who formerly objected to his workers coming to their jobs in automobiles is glad now to welcome their ownership not only of cars but also of radios and other comforts, conveniences and luxuries. They have produced more, and he knows that their increased wages due to their increased production are keeping other factory wheels turning. Advertising, the thing which has helped to make them dissatisfied with poor standards of life may rightly be called an essential of this, our modern industrial prosperity."

HOW TO UTILIZE JERSEY VEGETABLES

Various hints for utilizing the great variety of vegetables and fruits now on the market are offered by the food specialist of the New Jersey Extension Service.

Vegetables left over from a meal may, of course, be served the second time as a combination salad. This salad is more tasty if several tablespoons of French dressing are combined with the vegetables (each one separately) for an hour before serving. Arrange the salad on a large platter garnished with lettuce, placing each vegetable in a mound by itself, rather than combining all the vegetables. In this way the whole dish looks more attractive and each person may select the vegetables desired.

Left-over lima beans and corn should not be forgotten for succotash.

What is more tasty than a good vegetable soup? This hearty soup with several servings for each person and father's favorite dessert would be a meal easily prepared on days when there is canning to be done.

Fruits, too, are just waiting to be served. Shortcake made with peaches is almost as delicious as when made with strawberries. Blackberries and blueberries are always good served with sugar and cream. Steamed puddings offer another variety for serving these berries. Apples at this season make a delicious pie, and apple sauce or baked apples may be served to young and old.

75c PER DAY FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Cost of Education Compared With That of Other States

New Jersey spends 75 cents per day for each pupil attending school. This is five cents less than New York, but 10 cents higher than Pennsylvania. The annual cost per capita of population in New Jersey is $22.94, which is higher than in four contiguous States.

Of the 75 cents paid per day for each child attending New Jersey schools, 57 cents goes for current expenses, and 18 cents for capital outlay in new buildings, grounds, and equipment. By the year, this means $9.84 for current expenses for each child enrolled, and $23.95 for capital outlay, or $167.20 for current expenses for each pupil attending, and $34.56 for capital outlay per pupil attending.

Of the total cost of $78,968,680 spent by New Jersey for education in 1924, the latest for which the United States Bureau of Education has the figures, exclusive of bonds and sinking funds, 51.6 percent went directly for instruction; 2.4 percent for general control, including the cost of school boards, superintendents and their offices, administration of the school census and compulsory attendance; 21.6 percent for miscellaneous current expenses, and 24.4 percent for capital outlay.

The money to pay these education bills comes mainly from taxation, as the State has only a minor income from permanent school funds and leases of school lands. Taxation and appropriation provide 98.7 percent of the New Jersey child's 75 cents a day education, and 7 percent comes from sources of permanent income and 4 percent from other sources.

Of the total taxation, 77.3 percent is provided by local school divisions, .3 percent by the county and 22.5 percent by the State. The Federal Government contributed $117,580 in 1925 to help New Jersey provide vocational education for its children.

Easy Silver Cleaning

Tarnish on silver can be removed by the electrolytic method. Various commercial devices for this can be bought for use at home, or it can be done in the following way: Fill an enameled or glassware kettle partly full of water in which has been dissolved 1 teaspoon of either washing soda or baking soda and 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of water, heat this solution to the boiling point, put in strips of aluminum or bright zinc, add the tarnished silver, and boil it. The silver must be covered completely by the water and each piece must be in contact with the aluminum or zinc, either directly or through other silver. When the tarnish has disappeared, the silver should be removed from the kettle, washed, and dried with a clean soft cloth.

More than 200,000 volunteer firemen in the State of Pennsylvania are affected by a decision of the State Compensation Commission. The effect of that decision is that all such are entitled to compensation when injured. This question had not been decided since the Compensation act went into effect in Pennsylvania, and there has been doubt among lawyers whether firemen who work as unpaid volunteers at fires are entitled to compensation when injured.

J. P. McTierney, city pound master, Oakland, Cal., has added a funeral wagon to his department and has increased the revenues of the city. One month 132 private dog funerals were held at a charge of a dollar each. The owner of a goat was assessed $3 for a funeral.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT MEANS MORE EGGS

The use of artificial light in the houses of the laying hens in September and October is proving a profitable practice on many New Jersey farms. It has the advantage of prolonging the length of the day in the early fall and seems to give an increased egg production in the months when large eggs are demanding a premium price. This is an extension in the use of artificial lights, which heretofore have been used exclusively on pullets and solely in the winter.

Any system of artificial light may be used, starting it when the daylight or working hours for the hens fall below thirteen. If the morning system is used, the lights are put on from 4:30 a. m. until daylight. The evening system calls for lights from dusk until 6:30 or 7 p. m., and the evening lunch system from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m.

The purpose of the light of course is to increase the food consumption. For best results 100 birds should consume from 10 to 12 pounds of grain daily and an equal amount of mash. Moist mash may be fed to good advantage. The light should be discontinued about November 1, and the birds allowed to go through a resting period of two or three months.

The spoilage and molding of foods can be considerably reduced by keeping the refrigerator scrupulously clean. Cleanliness is the first essential of any refrigerator to keep food in good condition.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

By JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—David Barnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of America, was a ship inspector.

WHEN I was twenty-one the position I occupied was that of ship radio inspector with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company. During my spare time I also acted as instructor at the Marconi Wireless Institute.

As to my ambitions at that time, they were none other than to make good in the work I was engaged in, knowing that the degree in which I succeeded would be directly responsible for my promotion to the next step.

Today—David Barnoff is the vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, the greatest factor in the field of radio in America. If not in the world.

Barnoff's life is a true inspiration and lesson as to what one of the most humble beginnings can achieve in this country. He came to the United States from Russia when a youth and immediately began selling newspapers on the East side of New York in order to help support the family.

By the time he was thirteen he saw that more money was needed than he could earn by his street peddling, so by dint of the most arduous efforts, he managed to borrow a little money from friends and opened a news stand on a street corner.

This business paid more and in time he was able to leave it in charge of some members of his family, while he earned additional money by taking a job as a telegraph messenger boy.

In spite of the fact that he now had to look after two jobs, he yet found time to study telegraphy at night and his studies were so successful that, as Mr. Barnoff states above, by the time he was twenty-one he was already an inspector and instructor of the Marconi company.

When, several years ago, radio suddenly shot out into its present magnificent development and the Radio Corporation was organized the officials chose David Barnoff to manage it, as being the man who knew more about practical radio and was more fitted to direct it than anyone else of his time.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"KILLING THE GOOSE." WHEN a person is led through greed to overthrow himself and destroy the very source of benefit to himself he is said to have "killed the goose that laid the golden egg." The saying is popularly used in everyday speech, very frequently with reference to a man who, having a successful business, wastes every more than the income it yields and draws from it so much that he destroys it and finds himself ruined.

The saying comes to us from one of the tales known as "Aesop's Fables" called "The Goose With the Golden Eggs." Traced back through the centuries this tale is said to have been of East Indian origin, having been taken from an identical one in the Indian "Jataka's."

As the story goes, a farmer going to the nest of his goose found there a large, glittering, yellow egg. About to throw it away, he felt of its weight and discovered that the egg was gold. To his delight, the goose presented him each morning with such a golden egg, the sale of which soon made him rich. Under the influence of greed and avarice, however, he thought to get all the eggs at once without waiting from morning to morning, so he killed the goose and opened it, to find—nothing!

SCHOOL DAYS

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

SHOE ON, SHOE OFF

IN SOME sections of the country they say that it is "bad luck" when putting on your shoes and stockings to completely dress one foot before beginning on the other. But in most places the superstition is that bad luck is brought on by having the left foot shod and the right foot bare; though there is a feeling among the superstitious that having one foot shod and one not, should, without reference to right or left, be avoided on general principles, even though right bare and left shod is the most orthodox form of the superstition.

The custom of having one foot bare and one shod at solemn or critical times existed from the dawn of history and many learned men have disputed over its significance. The fighting races of antiquity went, many of them, thus to battle. The oracle, warned Pelias, king of Iolcus, to beware of the man with his left foot shod and his right foot bare and when Jason appeared thus attired Iolcus knew that the "Jig was up." On an ancient Greek vase is a picture of a man with his bare right foot on a sacrificial victim, his left foot shod and on the ground. When Dido was deserted by Aeneas and prepared her funeral pyre she appealed "To the gods and the stars" with her dress and hair loosened, one foot bare and one shod.

Professor Fraser of Cambridge thinks the explanation is to be sought in the belief in the magic virtue of knots, which tied sandals—as they now tie shoes—to the feet; and the learned Roman, Servius, in his commentary on Virgil, says that Dido went with one shoe off and one on in order that Aeneas might be entangled and herself released. But whatever the explanation it was practiced only at times of peril or distress and it is that fact which has brought it down to our own day as a "bad luck" omen.

Fifty Years Ago In Mount Holly

Interesting Items of Centennial Year Published by County Seat Paper

Following are some interesting items published in the Mount Holly Mirror in August of Centennial year, 1876:

The Judges of liquor exhibits at the Centennial have about 8,000 samples to test. The duties of that committee should be divided.

Prof. J. M. Fouts began on Thursday the erection of his school house on Mount Holly avenue, above Garden street. The building will be one story brick, 28x35.

Steward Theodore B. Gaskill has about 15 pigs for sale at the almshouse. They are above the number needed for the institution's use. Go early, for "pigs in pigs" this year.

Headings Lippincott, of Chester, has raised this year 440 bushels of wheat on ten acres, and Judge Parry, of Chinnasson, 240 bushels on six acres. The wheat is known as the "Heart of Black Papa."

The first attempt was frustrated when a native discovered that a coconut handed the white man contained minute slivers of bamboo in the nut's milk. If swallowed, these bits of fiber would penetrate the delicate tissues of the vital organs, causing inflammation and eventually death.

Later Taylor narrowly escaped death from a snake which crawled toward him while he was walking along a narrow path. The sorcerer had captured the poisonous reptile, tied a noose of plant vine back of its head, and placed it in a pot over a fire with a handkerchief owned by Taylor. Tortured by the heat, the snake associated with its torture, and when released sought to attack the person whose scent was similar to that of the handkerchief.

The witch doctor then became resigned and disappeared into the jungle until the white man had departed.

Institutions Commissioner William J. Ellis is making preparations for the 1927 building program of his department for expenditure of the half-mill tax sanctioned by the present legislature to be imposed on real and personal property next year. The institutions department with the approval of the State House Commission, has authority to prepare for bids and specifications, advertise for bids and enter into contracts.

Twice Escaped Death Plans Carefully Laid

Sorcerers in Papua, or New Guinea, seldom attempt to employ their "puri-puri," as native magic is termed, against white men, but twice one Miriam did seek to avenge a fancied wrong by bringing about the death of Merline Moore Taylor, the writer relates in "The Heart of Black Papa."

The first attempt was frustrated when a native discovered that a coconut handed the white man contained minute slivers of bamboo in the nut's milk. If swallowed, these bits of fiber would penetrate the delicate tissues of the vital organs, causing inflammation and eventually death.

The fourth race of the season for the championship of the Riverton Yacht Club took place at Riverton on Saturday afternoon. Four yachts competed. The Ethel, Captain E. Perot Ogden, was winner and this gives her a majority of the races of the season and entitles her to the championship of the club and the commodore's challenge cup for the season of 1926.

The Mount Holly Concert Hall or Opera House will be opened next week, August 29 and 30. The creditable new building is completed and furnished. The management takes great pleasure in announcing the engagement of Mr. Sam Humphe, the celebrated comedian and character actor, supported by members of the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia; also Miss Julia Snyder, accomplished vocalist, and the Irma Glee Club, acknowledged the finest in existence. The first night, following the musical program, the highly exciting and sensational drama, "Our Country's Flag," will be presented in three acts; the second night, "Husbands to Order." Reserved seats $1; admissions, 75 cent. Get your tickets early and avoid the rush.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS—DUTIES TO MAN

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Commandments About Man.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Serve Man.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—DUTIES TO MAN.
SENIOR TOPIC—DUTIES TO MAN.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ideal Human Relationships.

1. The Fifth Commandment (v. 12).

1. How this commandment may be broken.

(a) By showing disrespect to parents. Disrespect is shown to parents—

(b) By speaking of them as "the old man" and "the old woman."

(c) By being ashamed to be seen in their company.

(d) By disobedience.

(e) By not supporting them in their old age.

2. Promises annexed to this commandment.

(1) "That it may be well with thee" (Exh. 6:3).

(2) That thou mayest live long upon the earth.

II. The Sixth Commandment (v. 13).

This is a bulwark thrown around human life. Man was created in God's image. Every attempt to take human life is a thrust at God. This commandment may be broken:

1. By sinful anger (Matt. 5:22).

2. By hatred (1 Jno. 3:15).

3. By immature recreation.

4. By employers having unsafe surroundings, thereby causing the death of their employees.

5. By sending children to toll in shops and factories before maturity.

6. By suicide.

7. By infanticide.

8. By wars.

III. The Seventh Commandment (v. 14).

This is a bulwark thrown around the home. This commandment may be broken:

1. By unclean thoughts, affections, purposes and imaginations (Matt. 5:27, 28; 15:19).

2. By unchaste conversation.

3. By wanton looks (Isa. 3:16; 1 Peter 2:14).

4. By immoral apparel.

5. By actual adultery.

6. By divorce.

IV. The Eighth Commandment (v. 15).

This commandment strikes at the sin of theft. This commandment may be broken:

1. By taking that which actually belongs to another.

2. By false weights and measures.

3. By extortion.

4. By employers defrauding employees and the employees failing to do honest work or put in full time.

5. By borrowing and not returning.

6. By going into debt, knowing that payment is impossible.

7. By graft.

8. By lying advertisements.

9. By making assignments to escape payment of debts.

10. By strong nations oppressing the weaker ones.

V. The Ninth Commandment (v. 16).

The sin aimed at by this command is a most deadly one—that of lying. This commandment may be broken:

1. By perjury—swearing to falsehoods by the name of God.

2. By slander.

3. By tale-bearing (Lev. 19:16).

This is commonly done by repeating a report without investigating its truthfulness.

4. By creating a false impression (Isa. 58:1).

5. By a breach of promise.

6. By withholding the truth.

7. By exaggeration.

8. By flattery.

VI. The Tenth Commandment (v. 17).

This commandment strikes at the desire for that which is unlawful for one to have. The sin does not lie in the desire to possess things, but in the desire to possess that which belongs to another. It is not wrong to have lands and personal property which one may have acquired honestly, but it is wrong to have the lands which belong to another. It is right for a man to have a wife, but it is sinful to have another's wife. This commandment goes back of all the rest. It deals not only with the open violation, but with the inner desires and motives. It strikes at the very purposes of the heart.

MRS. MARY WHELAN

Mrs. Mary Whelan, 109 West Broad street, died at her late residence Monday, August 23.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Gordon Brown, of Newbury.

The deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. E. Henshaw, Philadelphia; one brother, J. Henshaw, of New York; and four children, Edward C. Frank B. A. Harry, Jr., and Mrs. Helen D'Astous.

Interment was made in the Mount Cemetery, Palmyra, Frank A. Henshaw, Funeral Director, in charge.

THANK YOU!

The local telephone operators in all the surrounding towns including Camden the latter part of last week discontinued repeating telephone numbers. Now they simply say "Thank you" when you give the number.

According to Miss Cabina Brodie, Moorestown chief operator, the primary object of the new method is to save time. In addition to saving time, the failure of the operator to repeat the number asked will prompt the caller to give the number distinctly the first time and thereby save much discussion and confusion.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MENTAL RUTS

IF a lower general condition prevails than usual in the person or in the community in which he lives, the probabilities are that this state of things is due to the loose mode of thinking rather than to the affected manner of expression.

By words we convey our thoughts to one another.

If our impressions and musings are made of flimsy stuff, words soon become commonplace, lose their charm and inspirational influence.

Yes and may suffice for answers until conversation lags or dies of its own inertia.

Men and women who are intent in work, taking but a passive part in the world's activities, doing what they are obliged to do by rote rather than by thought, will be found, if but indifferently examined, to be wedged in mental ruts from which they lack energy to wrench themselves.

But whether they concern themselves over their plight or not, the habit grows upon them with advancing years, and buries them in its rut.

Such persons become old before their time, fit subjects to be wrapped up in their own seamy material and stored away upon dusty shelves.

If you would be alert, have the sparkle and the spirit of youth at sixty or seventy, you must look around at the world as it is, not as it should be.

Such minds are in perpetual flower—keen, intense, trenchant and bristling as quicksilver.

To these brilliant intellects the world is indebted for the wonderful radio concerts.

At the swing of their wand music leaps through vast spaces of ether and gives unalloyed enjoyment to peoples in their homes hundreds of miles away from the voice of the singers and the stirring strains of the bands.

Keeping youthful by avoiding mental ruts is, after all, an end and done but holding to the faith that over time mountains and topples them into the sea.

MOONLIGHT

Riverside Knights of Golden Eagle Enjoy Excursion

Riverside Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle went on a moonlight excursion down the Delaware, Monday night.

Two buses were required to take the "knights" to and from the boat landing.

George T. Lacey, William Brenley, Stewart Brush and Carl Thorbecke were the committee in charge of the excursion. Although the party was composed mostly of the knights and their ladies, a great number of their friends were invited and attended.

The marriage of Oswald Howard Pettit, of Moorestown, and Miss Marion E. Bowne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowne, of Mount Holly, took place at the bride's farm home Saturday night, August 15, according to the ceremony of the Society of Friends, with Edward Phillips, of Plymouth Meeting, Pa., and Mrs. Caroline Warrick, of Burlington Quarterly Meeting, as the designated witnesses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Bowne Pettit. Her maids were Miss Florence Sharp, of Mount Holly, and Miss Mary Ann Bowne, her sister.

The best man was Russell Pettit, of Rancocas and the ushers were Harry Paul, of Moorestown, and Eugene Kaufman, of Masonville.

The bride was attractively attired in white georgette, trimmed with orange blossoms and having white tulle veil. Her flowers were pink and white asters. A reception followed the ceremony.

Canada increased its exports of wool to the United States by 2,000,000 pounds last year, while its shipments to the United Kingdom fell off 5,000,000 pounds, according to a report issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Cotton raisers in Louisiana, Mississippi, parts of Georgia, Arkansas and Texas have become alarmed at the appearance of the Mexican cotton flea or hopper. In some parts of the south, the flea is being fought by dusting the crops.

GRASSHOPPER CIRCUS

THEY showed pictures of members of our family the other night," said Mr. Grasshopper.

There was a meeting of naturalists. Naturalists are creatures who study creatures such as we!

"And, of course, they study other animals and insects and birds and so forth and so on."

"So on?" asked George Grasshopper.

"Just an expression, George, meaning that they study others along the very same lines."

"But grasshoppers haven't the same lines as lions," said George Grasshopper.

"Oh, I don't mean such lines," said Mr. Grasshopper. "I mean along the same branches of life—of the animal kingdom and no more."

"Oh, well, I suppose I understand," said George Grasshopper. "Maybe if I hop a few times I will see it clearly. Sometimes when I am tired and I'm not feeling smart and bright, if I hop a few times it seems to brace me all up."

"Oh, hopping is as good as a tonic to a grasshopper any day," said Mr. Grasshopper.

"Well," he continued, "I was going to tell you about these pictures they showed before learned people of our ways."

"Are naturalists learned people?" asked George.

"Learned about nature," said Mr. Grasshopper. "Or, at least, if they're not so learned they're always studying nature creatures and trying to be learned."

"They showed pictures of the naughty Fraying Mantis. You know, or at least you have heard, how it looks as though she were prying to bite from people the fact that she is really a very naughty creature. She's a humping, though her name is Fraying Mantis."

"And they showed pictures of the compound eyes of the fly, and how the fly sees the same thing so many times over—at the same time, too."

"That may sound curious, but you know what I mean. A fly has so many eyes so many times over with the eyes he has because of their being compound eyes. And then they showed pictures of us as I have told you."

"They were splendid pictures. I heard, and the people laughed with delight over the wonderful circus stunts we could do."

"Now, that makes me think I'd like to get up a circus now," said George Grasshopper.

"The value thought that just went through my grasshopper mind," said Mr. Grasshopper.

"Let us tell the other grasshoppers about it," said George.

So Mr. Grasshopper and George Grasshopper went about and told the other grasshoppers that they were going to give a circus.

And all the grasshoppers joined in the preparations.

Some formed a band, others decided they would do tricks or twigs—pulling themselves up and over the twigs and doing really nothing short of fine trapeze stunts.

Then others began thinking of all the funny things they could say and do so they could take the parts of clowns.

Still others decided they would ride each other and have races and superlatives. And still others said they would have famous grasshopper hopping races.

They all practiced and practiced and Mr. Grasshopper was chosen as the ring master.

They invited the mothers and fathers in the grasshopper families to come, and they invited the very young grasshoppers, too.

And when they all arrived and then saw the circus—well, there was such applause and such excitement.

They, too, hopped about with excitement and cried:

"Bravo, grasshoppers, bravo!"

And Mr. Grasshopper and George Grasshopper were delighted at the success of the Grasshopper circus. (Copyright.)

HOUSE FIRE TRUCK

Riverside Company Taken Part in Burlington Ceremony

The Riverside fire company traveled to Burlington Saturday to help the Burlington company celebrate the housing of a new apparatus.

The new apparatus costing $9,500, replaces a chemical engine which has been in use for the past ten years.

Promptly at 9:30 the Burlington companies with members of the Union Company of Mount Holly, the White Horse Company, the Hurling Fire Company with a band, the Burlington Fire Company, Riverside Fire Company with a band, the Beverly Fire Company and the Independent Company assembled and headed with Mayor Thomas S. Mooney and members of Common Council paraded through the city's prominent streets. Both the Metro-Politan and Smith's bands of Burlington were also in line.

The machine was formerly housed by the Union Company, of Mount Holly and the address for the occasion was made by Michael Metlack, of Mount Holly and surrogate of Burlington County.

After the exercises the visitors and paraders were entertained by the members of the Endeavor Fire Company with a lunch.

Community Hop

is Big Success

Third Dance Last Saturday Evening Demonstrates Increasing Popularity

Good music, a splendid crowd and fine leadership all helped to spell success for the third community hop given under the direction of the Social Recreation Committee of the Moorestown Community House Association in the Community House Friday evening.

With each affair, the hops have rapidly increased in popularity and from all accounts, those who attended Friday evening will return with an overflowing representation at the next dance.

The hops are not merely dances, but under the able leadership of the committee, are great social gatherings with everybody joining in on all of the fun.

The popular "Johnny" Powell acted as director-general of Friday evening's dance and in his spirited manner, kept the evening brimful with activities and added much fun to the Paul Jones and other novelty numbers.

Jan Forbes, director of the Moorestown Recreation Commission, was the chief entertainer. "Scotty" scored his hits singing popular ballads, especially with his "Gimme a Little Kiss" Number.

The Carr sisters, the Misses Catherine and Anna, favored with Charleston numbers which were also roundly applauded.

The Royal Commodores, Palmyra's popular dance outfit, made their debut and scored a triumph with the large crowd, which included folks from all of the river-front and neighboring towns.

The Social Recreation Committee held a meeting during the course of the evening, after which Chief Announcer Powell told the folks that the next hop would take place Saturday, September 11, with the Royal Commodores booked for a return engagement.

Miss Emma Chandler, of East Main street, motored to Seaside Park Monday.

BETA TAU PLAY

Delancey Fraternity Plans Interesting Entertainment

"Wedding Bells," "Excuse Me," or "Live Ghosts," will be the play presented by the Beta Tau Fraternity of Delancey, in the new school auditorium about the last week in October.

The committee has not decided definitely on the play that will be chosen for production. But either of the three are worthy of consideration and will provide an evening of splendid entertainment for those who witness it.

Some talent of Delancey has presented several plays in the last few years, and some wonderful talent has been uncovered and from the character of these plays and the reputation that they have in the community they are always well attended.

Charles Williams, president of the fraternity, says that every effort will be made to make the production a success and the cast will include a number of people of this vicinity that have had a great deal of experience in production of this kind.

WEDDING BELLS

Miss Elizabeth Dean Wilbur, daughter of Bertram J. Wilbur, of Lawrence, Pa., and Hugh Horton, son of C. Walter Horton, of Prospect avenue, Moorestown, will be married at the home of the bride's parents in Haverford, September 1.

Miss Wilbur is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, while Mr. Horton is a graduate of Haverford College. Mr. Horton was president of the college YMCA for two years.
