Farm Organizations Hold Conference

Take Up Many Questions of Interest To Growers at Annual Meeting

Legislation requiring compulsory automobile liability insurance in New Jersey was discussed at the annual legislative conference of farm organizations of the State at Trenton, N. J., on September 27th, held under the auspices of the New Jersey Federation of County Boards of Agriculture and the New Jersey State Grange. The farmers' position is in line with similar action of their associations in various parts of New Jersey during the last year, and will be one of the planks in their farm legislative program to be carried out in the coming year by a joint committee representing both of these State organizations.

Uniform rules and regulations governing traffic was favored by the conference, and a special committee authorized to study suitable legislation which would correct irregularities and make the same system mandatory in all parts of New Jersey. Other matters affecting traffic and the highways were discussed, the farm organizations going on record as favoring a thorough study of further road improvement either by gasoline taxation or a new bond issue or both. The farmers' angle will be handled by a committee of five farm leaders, with Senator David H. Agans as ex-officio member. The conference also appointed a committee with power to act, to consider the advisability of separate roads for heavy trucks in various parts of the State.

Several amendments to the game laws were proposed, notably the addition of two open days on wild does in 1927, when hunters may take a bag of one doe on either December 27 or 28 at which time no buck deer may be shot. Secretary H. E. Taylor of the New Jersey Federation reported that this experimental legislation has the backing of the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission and that a bill to this effect will be presented to the coming legislature. Absolute protection for quail was also proposed, the conference standing behind county rather than State-wide protection at such time as the farm constituents of any county convinced the Federation-Grange that their membership favors such action.

Distribution of School Money

The redistribution of State school money to the counties so that the rural sections would have greater assistance came up for a spirited airing. At the meeting the distribution of such money on the basis of days attendance rather than on the basis of ratables would satisfy the needs of organized farmers throughout the State, and general endorsement of a suitable measure to this effect was approved by the delegates.

New Jersey's interest in the disposal of Muscle Shoals was discussed in detail, the two current proposals which will occupy the time of Congress in this connection being viewed in the light of the most economical manufacture of fertilizer. The farmers took the position that the ultimate disposal of the government plant at Muscle Shoals should be for the production of agricultural ingredients, reaffirming the continuous effort of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Washington of which New Jersey farmers are a part.

The conference also favored fire protection for marsh lands on the basis as that now given to forests, and authorized the farmers' joint legislative committee to take such action as would bring this under the control of the fire warden. The cleaning up of weeds and brush along the highways was discussed. It was reported that the State Highway Commission is soliciting bids for the planting of shade trees along some of the main highway routes of the State.

Would Advance License Date

Fruit growers reported a hardship because the date for issuing automobile tags for the last half of the year by the State Motor Vehicle Department comes a month too late to help them in the marketing of early apples and peaches, without the payment of a full year's license fee. The conference authorized its legislative committee to confer with the proper officials to the end that the date be advanced to July first. The question of a timber sales tax, advanced at last year's annual conference of the farm organizations, was discussed and laid aside without action.

The placing of New Jersey under the so-called "area plan" for tubercular testing of cattle received considerable encouragement at the conference. Dairymen and state officials spoke at length on such a measure as it has been worked out successfully in a number of other states. The gathering endorsed the plan for New Jersey, which would permit counties to extend the plan as rapidly as conditions warranted, legislation to this end will be included in the farmers' program this winter.

Secretary W. B. Durfee of the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture commented on the new fruit tree law, which was passed by the legislature last winter and goes into effect this January first. In calling attention to the provisions of the law, he stated that fruit men buying nursery stock under the guarantee permitted by the new statute must file a planting diagram with the State Department of Agriculture.

Representatives from practically all the state farm organizations, Senators with agricultural constituents and agricultural institutions and agencies attended the conference, which was one of the largest and most comprehensive ever held by the agricultural groups.

Have liver and bacon for dinner rather than breakfast. For one thing, people are not demanding the heavy type of breakfast formerly eaten. Liver is one of the most important meats in regard to the protein and coloring it furnishes the body, and it also contains all three vitamins. Recent experiments have shown it to be one of the most valuable sources of iron in cases of anemia. No distinction in food value is made between the various kinds of liver.

P. S. Company Raises Pensions

Liberal Allowances Made To Provide For The Old Age of Employees

Changes in the Welfare Plan Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and its subsidiary companies which provide what is practically half pay pensions for employees upon retirement, announced today by President McCarter, combined with the sick and death benefits and group insurance already assured the front, put Public Service in the forefront of employers throughout the country in the matter of caring for the welfare of employees both while in active service and upon retirement.

The Public Service Welfare Plan was established January 1, 1911, and up to the first day of the present year more than $1,800,000 has been paid to employees under its provisions, in addition to payments made to the beneficiaries of employees insured under the group insurance plan. Benefits provided included pensions upon retirement and in the event of total and permanent disability, death benefits, sick benefits, all without cost of any kind to the employee, and group life insurance available without physical examination and at a nominal premium.

Increase in pension rates was announced by President McCarter in a letter sent to every Public Service officer and employee in which Mr. McCarter said that the new provisions were voted by the Boards of Directors "as a further recognition of the faithful and loyal service rendered by Public Service staff."

The new provisions are retroactive and apply to the 192 former employees now receiving pensions as well as to all other eligible employees. Employees upon retirement will receive a pension computed upon the average yearly wage or salary received during the five years next preceding the date of retirement. For each year in the company's employ they will receive two per cent. of such average pay, this allowance being double that which was formerly made. The maximum pension payable after twenty-five years will be half pay, but no pen-

Annual Charity Ball by K. of C.

Big Social Event To Take Place Next Tuesday at Riverside

Extensive preparations are being made by Burlington County Chapter, Knights of Columbus, for their fourth annual charity ball, which will take place in St. Peter's Hall, Riverside, on Tuesday night of next week. The proceeds of the ball will benefit St. Joseph's Home, Beverly.

Because of the popularity of the charity balls given by the Knights of Columbus and because of the worthy cause in which it was undertaken it is expected that the event will be one of the largest and most successful thus far staged.

At the present time there are ninety residents at the Beverly institution, fifty-five men and thirty-five women, all of whom must be maintained on the work done by the six sisters in charge and through such charities as the annual ball to be given by the Knights of Columbus. All of the work at the home is done by the sisters, four of them attending to the needs of the inmates and two going out to seek donations from generous hearted people. The home is not a sectarian one. The door is open to any aged person of any denomination who has reached the age and condition where assistance must be given. A visit to the place best shows the beauty of the work that is being done. And visitors are invited.

A musical program is being arranged in connection with the dancing. There will be a concert by the

Lesson for October 10

THE REPORT OF THE SPIES

LESSON TEXT—Numbers 13:17-33. GOLDEN TEXT—We are well able to overcome it.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Brave Spies. JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Against Ten. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Brave and the Cowardly Spies.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Courage of Faith.

1. The Spies Sent Out (13:17-20). Less than two years have passed since the Israelites were delivered from Egyptian bondage. They are now at Kadesh-Barnea within sight of the promised land. Moses urged them to go in and take immediate possession (Deut. 1:21).

The record in Deuteronomy 1:19-28 shows that God did not take the initiative in sending out the spies, but that the people because of lack of faith made the request. There was a threefold purpose in sending out the spies.

1. To see whether the land was as God had told them (v. 18). 2. To see whether the people who dwell there were strong or weak, few or many (v. 18).

3. And to see whether the cities were made up of strongholds or of tents (v. 19).

ii. The Commission Executed (13:21-23). They entered the land from the south and traversed it to its northern limits. On their return from the north they gathered some specimens of the fruit of the land.

iii. The Spies Rendered a Report (13:26-33).

1. The majority report (vv. 26-29). (1) The land floweth with milk and honey (v. 27). As a proof of it they displayed the fruit.

(2) The people who live there are strong (v. 26). (3) The people lived in walled cities (v. 28).

(4) The land is inhabited by giants (v. 28, cf. 33). In comparison with the inhabitants of the land they saw themselves as grasshoppers. Furthermore, they saw the people so distributed—the Amalekites in the south country, the Hittites, Jebusites and Amorites in the mountains, and the Canaanites along the seacoast—that it was impossible to conquer them.

2. The minority report (vv. 30-33). In part this report agreed with the first. It did not ignore the difficulties, nor dispute the facts, but it did deny the conclusion of the majority. They did not minimize the task before them, but asserted with God's help that they were well able to get possession of the land, and urged immediate action.

iv. The Rebellion of the People (14:1-40). This rebellion began by crying (vv. 1-3). They lifted up their voices and cried, and the people wept that night. They even wished that they had died in the wilderness or in Egypt. God took them back to wander in the wilderness for thirty-eight years.

2. Proposition to return to Egypt (vv. 4-10). Their crying was followed by a proposal to organize for the return to Egypt. They proposed to select a captain as their leader. Joshua and Caleb protested against this, which was exasperated the people that they were about to stone them. At this point God interposed in their behalf.

3. God's wrath upon the people (vv. 11-12). Because of their unbelief He proposed to smite them with pestilence and to disinherit them, supplanting them with a nation mightier than they.

4. Moses' intercession in behalf of the people (vv. 13-19). Moses pleaded with God against this judgment because the Egyptians would hear of it and blaspheme and this they would pass on to the other nations, saying that God was not able to bring them into the land.

5. The Lord's response to Moses' plea (v. 20-25). He assured Moses that He had granted pardon according to His intercession, but told him that although He would bring them into the land according to His promise, yet with the exception of Joshua and Caleb the men of that generation should be debarred.

6. The presumption of the people (vv. 40-45). Having in unbelief refused to go up at the command of Moses, now in presumption they go. Moses advised them against such presumption, saying, "The Lord will not be with you."

Not All Legumes Like Lima Legumes as a rule take large quantities of lime from the soil. In fact, many such crops do not grow well or not at all where acid conditions exist. This is particularly true of alfalfa and red clover and perhaps to a less degree of sweet clover and vetch. Cowpeas and soybeans, on the other hand, usually do not respond to liming, and white clover grows well on acid soils. Corn is ordinarily considered to be tolerant of acid conditions, and such grasses as redtop, Bermuda grass, and lespedeza grow well on acid soils. Root plants, such as blueberries and cranberries, require an acid soil, and such fruits as strawberries and raspberries apparently are not benefited by application of lime. The great majority of garden and truck crops and cereals usually are improved by liming.

Slilage Odor When silage is fed to cows immediately before milking, the odor of the feed may be imparted to the milk. If fed just after milking, however, the silage odor will have passed from the cows' bodies before the next milking.

County Court Levies Fines

Riverside Man Sentenced To 45 Days In The County Jail

Thursday of last week had been set apart for Naturalization Court only but on account of the fact that several defendants had signed waivers the Court and prosecutor agreed to dispose of these matters, so the following criminal business was taken care of before the opening of the naturalization business:

Tony Altadonna, of Palmyra, whose place was raided on Saturday by Detective Cain and Carabine, with the assistance of the Palmyra police, pleaded guilty to having about three gallons of liquor in his possession when the officers called, he being busy at the time filling half pint bottles for the Saturday night and Sunday trade. Altadonna has a brother who was in Court on a similar charge about a week ago.

He was fined $200, after Attorney Harold T. Parker had made the usual professional plea in his behalf. Felice Fillipino, of Burlington, also pleaded guilty to liquor violations, about three quarts of liquor being found in his house by the detectives. He also drew a $200 fine.

Walter Rudski of Riverside, a second offender, had a quantity of liquor and a bottle of coloring matter in his possession when the detectives raided his home on Saturday. The officers were not able to confiscate all the liquor, however, because Mrs. Rudski smashed a large container when the raiders made their appearance.

He will spend the next forty-five days in jail and will not be out in time to vote.

Charles Kelly, formerly of Mount Holly and Beverly, another old offender, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor in a road house he was operating on the Moorestown road in Delran township and also to possession of liquor in another road house at Cambridge, which was under his watchful care.

Notwithstanding that Attorney Frank A. Henderson made a plea in his behalf he went to jail for sixty days, and he also received a warning from the Court that if he came back again he would go to state prison.

George Sav and Melvina Sav, husband and wife, were two familiar personages before the Court. They hail from Roebbing and this time George was accused of pointing the accusing finger so strongly at Melvina that he blackened her eyes.

He didn't deny it and was sentenced to pay a fine of $100. Parker Hutchinson, of Burlington, pleaded not guilty to a charge of deserting his wife and his case will be heard next Thursday.

Maple Shade Man May Lose Right To Drive

Herbert Silverstein, who claimed his home to be at Vineland, but who has been found to be a resident of Maple Shade, failed to appear before Justice Kingdon last week at the time fixed for the hearing of a suit brought by Edward L. Minster, of Point Pleasant for damages in an automobile, received in a recent collision at Hainesport. The result is that a complete report of the accident has been sent to Motor Commissioner William L. Dill with a recommendation that Silverstein's license be revoked.

Several witnesses corroborated Minster's evidence that the collision was the fault of Silverstein. The latter refused to show his license card at that time and also refused to give his name. He assumed a belligerent attitude not only on the day of the accident, but also when he came to Justice Kingdon's office Tuesday, considerably later than the time fixed for the hearing.

Additional Autos Motor vehicle registration figures still continue their upward climb, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, which reports 13,977,822 vehicles registered in the first six months of 1926. This is 1,927,141 more vehicles than were registered in the corresponding period of 1925 or an increase of 16.8 per cent.

Items of Interest Published by Mount Holly Mirror, Sept. 28, 1876

Rev. Anson Crawford, late of Holy Trinity Memorial Chapel, Philadelphia, has accepted a call to the rectorship of Trinity Church, Mount Holly, and will enter upon his duties October 8th.

The Dobbin Memorial Chapel in St. Andrews' burying ground, Pine street, Mount Holly, about which reference was made a few weeks ago, is being erected speedily. The corner stone was laid last Thursday by Bishop Scarborough, assisted by eight clergymen. The chapel is of early Gothic architecture. The walls are of Trenton brown stone; the roof of slate, and the floor of tile. A handsome memorial window will be placed in the chancel.

Samuel Jones, Moorestown undertaker, has just bought a handsome pair of black horses to be attached to his hearse at funerals. He has buried upward of 5,000 persons since he has lived in Moorestown.

Hayes and Wheeler clubs have been or are being organized in nearly every town in the county. Last night the Hainesport club was formed. Robert Love is president and Thomas W. Pepper, secretary. Over forty members were enrolled. Several of them heretofore have voted the Democratic ticket.

Saloon Licenses

At a session of the county court on Friday, hotel and saloon licenses were granted, including one to John F. Smith, Mill street, Mount Holly, hotel, fee $20, and Samuel J. Smith, saloon, Mount Holly, fee $20. Three Medford hotel licenses were granted to Oliver P. Whistler, Isaac E. Shivers and Barzilla Pickett, at $20 each. The application of Wm. D. Hartshorne for a hotel at Cookstown was refused because of defects in his petition.

The grand jury returned 32 bills of indictment on Wednesday. Nearly all the charges are for larceny or assault and battery. One case is against Samuel Crowley, late freeholder from Washington township, for malfeasance in office. It is alleged that he fraudulently drew money from the county for work never performed. The aggregate amount involved is $700. Prosecutor Hendrickson represented the State at the trial and Messrs. Voorhees and Cannon appeared for the defendant. He was found guilty by the jury.

From Mirror of October 5, 1876. Dr. William C. Parry has returned to Mount Holly and resumed the practice of medicine.

Remember that the Republican nominee for Congress is J. Howard Fagh, of Burlington.

Burlington city council has made an offer of $25,000 for the water works in that city, subject to approval of voters at a referendum election.

The annual inspection of Company F, National Guard, Mount Holly, takes place on Saturday. The company has presented a new drum to its drummer, Charles E. Reill. It cost $25.

James Lippincott, living on the Jacksonville road, has obtained a patent for an improved corn sheller.

Reading railroad stock has run down to $20 per share as compared to $44 a week since. The coal roads are not as safe as was supposed a few months ago.

The 50th annual exhibition of the Burlington County Agricultural Society opened yesterday with an attendance below that of the usual opening day, due perhaps to the counter attraction of the Centennial or to the increase in admission from 25 to 50 cents. The fair continues today. Entries of good horses for the races are unusually good.

A committee from the Burlington County Agricultural Society visited the farm of Charles C. Shinn (the old Thomas Haines place) near Pemberton, yesterday, to view a field of corn thought to be worthy of the society's first premium. The field contains ten acres. The stalks are eleven feet high. Careful estimates were made as to the crop and allowing 70 pounds to the bushel, it was found that the yield is 154 bushels to the acre. Five pounds to the hill was the average estimate. A sample of the corn, 10 hills yielding 85 pounds, is on show at the Fair today. For a poor corn year this is a good showing. The crop was grown on a piece of meadow.

Beverly base ball club was defeated by the Mutuals, of Philadelphia, 8 to 7, in an exciting contest on Saturday.

Items of General Interest Picked Up About the County and State

Former Sheriff Edward H. Flagg, Jr., of Riverton, was made vice president for Burlington county at the annual convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association held in Atlantic City. General Bird Spencer, of Passaic, was re-elected for his fiftieth term as president of the Association, and the other officers handling the executive work were re-elected. One of the interesting developments of the convention was talk about celebrating the fiftieth anniversary next year, when the convention will meet for three days instead of the customary two days.

Referee in Bankruptcy Thomas L. Gaskill, of Moorestown, whose offices are in the Security Trust Building, Camden, has just been reappointed for a third term of two years in the federal courts. Mr. Gaskill, who is a prominent member of the Camden bar, has made an enviable record for efficiency and the exercise of business judgment in his conduct of this responsible post.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has been granted permission to run buses in Lakewood township which is the first to give a franchise for a railroad-owned bus line in Ocean county. It is the company's plan to run buses between Lakewood and Barnegat, to do away with some of its steam trains.

The second annual convention of the New Jersey Council of Religious Education will be held in Camden, November 16, 17 and 18. This convention will also be the 68th annual State Sunday school convention. Preliminary to the above event there will be conventions in the 21 counties of the State. That for Burlington county will be held at Palmyra Epworth M. E. Church on October 14.

Charles E. "Budd" Wilson, sergeant of police on the Delaware River bridge, and Mrs. Wilson returned Wednesday from their honeymoon. They were married Monday of last week. The bride was Miss Edna May Humes, 125 North Thirty-fifth street, Camden. Wilson formerly was a sergeant of the New Jersey State police and at one time was stationed in Burlington county. He is a member of Mount Holly Lodge of Elks.

Shinn Brothers, Mount Holly contractors, are remodeling the property of Morris Platt, at Pemberton, the dwelling house which is reported to have been the first Methodist Church in Pemberton. This church formerly stood on the site of the one destroyed by fire, and was moved to its present position on North Main Street, Pemberton, when the second church was built. The timbers in the house are in good condition.

Depredations by the Japanese beetle have so advanced into northern New Jersey that the new quarantine area, to be put into effect by the middle of October, will include the entire State instead of only the central and southern portions, as formerly. A bad infestation has been found at Elizabeth, which Federal Horticultural Board experts have been unable to exterminate. The beetle also has been found in East Orange and in Newark, where the entomologists succeeded in wiping out the infestation.

THE QUESTION BOX

He "Steps On It" H. S. Cambridge—I'd like to know what has become of the old-time fool whom we used to read about when we went to bed he blew out the gas?

Ans.—He now rides in an automobile and "steps on it."

Good Grammar K. M., East Riverton—Will you please answer in your paper which of the two expressions is correct: "Some one's else," or "some one else's." "Our news are scarce," or "our news is scarce?"

Ans.—The two correct expressions are: "Some one's else," and "our news is scarce."

Battleships Named After States E. P., Cinnaminson—Are all the United States battleships and cruisers named after the states?

Ans.—All battleships, except the Kearsarge, are named after the states, and all the cruisers are named after the various cities of the United States.

I. O. U. H. S., Cambridge—Is an I. O. U. a promissory note, and can the maker be made to pay?

Ans.—An I. O. U. is not treated as a promissory note, because it contains no promise to pay. However, it can be used upon an account stated, without proof of the debt.

St. Vitus Dance J. M., Riverton—I would like to know how St. Vitus Dance got its name?

Ans.—St. Vitus dance is so-called because St. Vitus is thought to have control of hysterical complaints.

Origin of "Moonshine" S. F., Palmyra—Will you please answer in your paper how the term "moonshine" as used in bootlegging, originated, I thank you.

Ans.—Both terms originated in the south of the United States when it was the habit of the mountaineers to make illicit whiskey. It was presumed (and often justly so) that their only light was the moon, or fear of attracting revenue officers, hence "moonshine" whiskey. "Bootlegging" was the act of carrying this illicit whiskey in bottles tucked in the sides of the long boots which were then almost universally worn by the countrymen and mountaineers.

Venus Probably L. F., Five Points—Will you please answer in your question column the name of the star that is more brilliant than all the others and some times appears after sunrise and some times before sunrise?

Ans.—Venus is the most brilliant of all planets. When it is east of the sun you will see her in the southwest after sunset, but when west of the sun you must look for her just before sunrise.

Stepfather's Fathers Name for Children G. J., Palmyra—Is there any law to prevent a man from marrying a widow and giving his name to her children by her former husband?

Ans.—No. After the marriage the children can be legally adopted and given the family name of the new husband. But when they attain their majority they may, if they so choose, resume the name of their real father by due process of law in the same manner the change was originally made.

Christian Nations P. F., Cinnaminson—Can you tell me in your interesting column which are the Christian nations?

Ans.—Nearly all those that use cuss words.

A Modern Doll H. C., East Riverton—Where can I get a modern doll that will say "mamma" when you squeeze her, and will it say anything else?

Ans.—Dealers have all kinds, but a modern doll says "Oh, boy!" when you squeeze her.

If She Doesn't Care to Dance M. J., Palmyra—When attending a dance and a fellow asks a girl for a dance what should her reply in the event that she doesn't care to dance and doesn't want to offend the gentleman and what should she then do if asked to dance by a gentleman she would like to dance with after having refused the first man?

Ans.—If a lady doesn't care to dance she should simply say "I am setting out this dance," and she should say the same to others during the dance regardless of how well she would like to dance with them.

"Feather" Says:

YOUTH

Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips, and supple knees; but it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions. It is a freshness of the deep springs of life. Youth means a predominance of courage over timidity, an appetite of adventure over love of ease. This often exists in a man of fifty more than in a boy of twenty. Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old by losing their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair, these are the things that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust. Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the sweet amazement at the stars, the starlike things and thoughts that come into the mind from the unfurling childlike appetite for what next, and the joy and the game of life. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubts; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In the central place of your heart there is a wireless station. So long as it receives messages of hope, beauty, love, cheer, grandeur, courage, and power from the earth, from men, and from the infinite, so long are you young. When the wires are all down, and all the central part of your heart is covered with the snows of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then you are grown old indeed, and may God have mercy on your soul. —Anon.

CATALINA ISLANDS

A Rivertonian "Seeing California," Writes of an Interesting Experience

"My trip to the Catalina Islands was wonderful. The boat ride is two hours each way, and I fortunately took the day when the big new boat was on. It is forty-nine miles from Los Angeles, so we were really 'at sea.' It was a rough and lots of people staggered daily down into the cabins, but I did not mind. "We reached there at 12, and I at once embarked on a glass-bottomed boat. It was a weird feeling, looking down into the ocean bed at the plants and fish and seeing the diver swim under the boat. "I took my lunch on the beach and then took a motor boat to Seal Rocks. A misjudged soul confidently told me that she knew she would be all churned up inside. One look at her already slightly green complexion convinced me she was not prevaricating, so I kindly told her that I felt sure that the middle of the boat would suit her better—and she meekly went. "At the Rocks, there were lots of seals, and they were most entertaining. "Back at the island, I took the jaunting car and went on the sky-line drive, up to the top and past Mr. Wrigley's house, which cost $125,000. Here's a problem for the kiddies: "If the house cost $125,000, how many chews of Wrigley's gum would it take before the house could be built? Mr. Wrigley owns the island. "I left at 4 p. m., very regretfully, and reached home at 9, tired but happy."

NEW TEACHER

Owing to crowded conditions in the grammar school there has been added another teacher. Since not a single room is vacant at the present the first graders must divide their sessions. Some must attend from 8 until 12 while others from 12 until 4. There are other regular sessions from 9 until 12 and 1 until 3.30.

From time to time this will be changed. Those who attend in the morning will change and attend in the afternoon. Thus the same pupils will not have the same schedule the whole year round. The new teacher is Miss Robidoux.

The Board of Education has obtained the services of Miss Sleight, formerly of Syracuse University, to be Physical Instructor and Coach of the girls. Miss Sleight comes to Palmyra High highly recommended and with several years experience in the physical training departments.

The public schools will be closed Friday, October 8th, because of Teachers' Institute that will be held at the Riverside Public Schools.

PHILATHEA DOINGS

"The biggest, best, most mammoth and bountiful thing ever," is the way ladies of the Philathea Class of the Central Baptist Sunday School describe the Grand Bazaar which they are planning to hold in the P. O. S. of A. Hall for two days in November, the 19th and 20th. Sounds like an advance agent's description of the coming circus. Maybe it will be.

A few of the actual things to be housed under the single roof of the Hall, however, will be a complete cafeteria; an exact recreation of a Japanese Tea Garden, (the Japanese Ambassador may attend); numerous booths; Ye Olde Book Shoppe; a fall orchestra; and many other attractions.

Ye Olde Book Shoppe alone will be an attraction well in itself. Many will be the kinds and varieties of old books that will be found there by all those disposed to inspect the same. Some of the old books will be rare editions, it is said. Ye collection of the same is being diligently made and an exact recreation of such are invited to telephone Riverton 718, whereupon they will be called for.

Another big event under the auspices of the Philathea is the "Old Folks" Concert to be given in the Baptist Church soon (date to be announced). This also will be "rare."

The Philathea Class is the largest women's class in Burlington county and one of the largest in the state. All women who do not attend any Sunday School are invited to its Sunday morning sessions at 10 a. m. Mrs. Thomas R. Moore, of Riverton, is the teacher.

MERCHANTVILLE

While it is a matter still more or less visionary, the discussion of a plan to build a new municipal building for Merchantville was the most interesting subject at the meeting of borough council last week.

Councilman Smith is responsible for bringing a matter to an indefinite but more tangible situation, that has been in the minds of the borough fathers for some time. The members agreed that Councilman Smith prepare data and endeavor to present ways and means for financing a new building to succeed the present borough quarters.

It is admitted that Councilman Smith has some ideas he believes could give the borough the building next year, commencing its construction in the spring.

Members of the board of education, with Arnold H. Moses, architect, attended the meeting and exhibited plans for the proposed new high school.

MRS. GRIEBEL'S LETTER

Sleeves seem to be attracting much attention this fall. It is interesting, is it not, to watch such things and then try to reason out just why they happen? And so I would like to go back a little to see if it is possible to account for the style interest in sleeves.

The pendulum of fashion swings far and wide always; and after a few years of bare arms, the grace of sleeves appeals to women generally. Last spring there was a strong tendency toward elaborate sleeves in their design.

A dolman-like coat was offered too, perhaps you remember it, a graceful coat with a bloused back and, of course, large armholes and huge sleeves. It met with some favor.

Altogether, however, who designed the coat, also offered frocks with deep armholes and large, wing-like sleeves. Most often they are called by her name but one hears "dolman sleeves" and now and then "dolman frocks."

For frocks these sleeves are cut in one with the bodice which means a special pattern but there are many evidences of the "dolman" with a seam joining the bodice proper. And when sleeves are of contrasting material this method must be used.

The width of the armhole of this type of sleeve is marked—some call it the waistline. This width diminishes, however, as the elbow is approached and from a point just below the elbow to the wrist the sleeve becomes very snug—very snug indeed. It is a charming sleeve and the woman who has a large upper arm and arm going to suggest it for the extremely large person but I know very many who could use it to advantage.

Even if you do not care to use it on a new gown, it does offer possibilities for the making of lovely things in the shops of neckline and velvet, made with such sleeves of lightweight metal brocade, embroidered chiffon or georgette, and some of self material banded with contrasting fabric. This last suggestion is especially good for the handings cover pleating and allow for the use of left-over scraps.

The one I noted particularly had a band of velvet set at the top of the sleeve portion, following the large armhole, and two narrower bands decorated the sleeve between the upper band and the elbow. And, if you are short of the silk from which your dress is made, you may add a deep cuff of velvet or whatever you choose for handings.

Don't make such sleeves to wear under an ordinary coat, will you? The close sleeves of the coat would ruin your draped one. But if your coat happens to be of the dolman type or if the gown is to be worn for afternoon or evening when a type will cover it, do try them for you will enjoy a change of sleeve silhouette I am sure.

Berlin beerhouses complain that Americans insist upon ordering eight-ounce steins which are meant for family parties and not for individuals. The report, written by cable, is hard to swallow. It is as if it were, too much of a good thing.

Another Point of Approach Health Mrs. Eddy writes: Christ's Christianity is the chain of scientific being reappearing in all ages, maintaining its obvious correspondence with the Scriptures and waiting all periods in the design of God.

This is not only a profound but also a radiant statement. It teaches the philosopher and the scientist alike that the philosophy of the pearl diver and the physicist, the water and rice with a prize, so Mrs. Eddy, in lonely and consecrated endeavor, plunged beneath so-called material causation and brought up from the depths a clear apprehension and comprehension of the eternal kinship of all good.

She alone of all who have written commentaries on the Bible has given us a key to the Scriptures which makes the Jewish and Christian writings into a world of harmony.

Recovery of words is the first step of good writing.

"Women I Should Like To Meet," By Henry Corneau Diller

Philadelphia Poet Writes Entertainingly of Thoughts Stirred Up By Perfumery Advertisement

The following essay was read recently by Henry Corneau Diller, a Philadelphia poet and president of the Society of Arts and Letters, at the annual banquet of the Men's Club of Palmyra:

Let me begin with a confession. In the secret places of every masculine heart there is a longing for more experience with femininity than the ordinary course of a lifetime affords. Often just in proportion as a man is honest, upright, happily mated, will this desire have a hidden force to lead him only to break forth in some mad escapade, which is unintelligible only to the superficial.

It is not so much whether a man is tied or not, (though he is observed that the longer there are not apt to be strained as the shorter ones) it is not so much whether a man has splendid or poor opportunities for association with women,—all that is really beside the point. The point is that though associated with the conventional society a man should be satisfied with what he has, the fact remains that he has not, and whether his life is rich or poor in feminine family and friends, there are always just around the corner women he would like to meet.

What I propose to do then is to lift the veil from the recesses of my existence, drag up in a brutal manner as it were some of the unconscious "hibidos," if that is the correct name, and thus endeavor to free myself from the baleful effect of my suppressed desires, which according to Mr. Freud is a possible fate for most of us ere we stagger into eternity.

Recently Awakened

But the curious part of it is this, that these desires of the truly unconscious nature which I have been living as I thought normally; eating, sleeping, working, reading, thinking, at times, and all the while absolutely unknown to me, these hidden forces were boring a hole in my nervous mechanism. I don't know really whether a nervous mechanism can be bored into, but let it pass, I'm not trying to write a scientific treatise, but a popular essay)—well, I say, all the while the inner defenses of my conscious were being slowly undermined. Now, however, I face these specters openly, twelve of them, all of them women too, thanks to the genius of a perfume advertisement. No, I am not going to tell you what line, this is strictly an amateur undertaking, but when I read that advertisement—Oh, I think one should keep oneself constantly informed on the subject of—advertising.

Well, when I read this advertisement giving information about twelve kinds of perfume for twelve types of women, I said to myself, "There it is, I've always wanted to meet those women, they're different from anything I have ever encountered in the course of my prosaic existence. I surely should like to meet them, if only for a fleeting smell."

Ug and Abuse

In the first place, let me give a few general observations on perfumes, their use and abuse. I would mightily hate to say that one woman in a thousand knows how to use perfume, so do not quote me at all. But at the theatre I generally draw one or both of them—a group of about a half dozen and dumb to whom the other half have to explain or comment on the play as it goes along, or somewhere in the offing a lady who uses perfumes, and doesn't care who knows it. The first group of offenders one can attack with "shushes" and looks that in screen parlance register great annoyance. The second offender one who can not deal so openly with.

But to our utons. The first perfume that struck my eye was one advertised as "Fairy bells of Lily of the Valley—perfume of youth and joyous springtime." Youth and springtime, as if youth, real youth, ever needed a perfume to make it sweet, after false use of soap and water. As if springtime could be caught up, distilled, and bottled and poured out in drops to give the illusion of that feeling in the air and in the blood. "With a hey, and a ho, and hey nono."

Everybody loves Spring and pretty nearly everybody writes Spring poems, and Carolyn Wells has written the most delightful parody of Spring poems; but alas, poor me, who at times aspire to write poetry, should never have perpetrated one on Spring, or on that other subject which all true poets apparently have written about, Pierrot and Pierrette, Columbine and Harlequin.

Springtime we always have with us, but in late years it seems to me that Youth has slipped away somewhere. We have today a widely spread but not wholly successful remedy of Youth on the part of those who should know better, and we have a certain feverish activity and hectic pursuit of pleasure in other quarters, but Youth as a creature of simplicity, timid expectancy, innocent joyousness, such as portrayed by Ruth Draper as the orphan's daughter in the series of characterizations in "The English House Party,"—that Youth has taken itself to the Land of the Fairies, but it still will remain, though as echo, a beautiful echo, in the Land of Heart's Desire of all sentimentalists over—whatever your age is.

Then we have a perfume—"Sighs of a thousand roses—breathing of women of honey hued hair and eyes of laughter." That must be a wonderful odor, after false use of hued hair women are allowed to breathe into this mixture is not explained in the text or footnotes.

We next have one that is the "fragrance of dream gardens—delicately accentuating the loveliness of flower women." That is really poetry, and I quote it directly from the advertisement. But outside the page of Masterlink, where can we find flower women, who dwell in dream gardens? This surely would be the perfume of Heloise and Abaelard, and Agnes and Goli, and all their sisters. Who has not fallen under the spell of these creatures of Masterlink's fancy and fantasy? Of course Masterlink prevails, but not so dominantly. A probable cause is that women have not until recently been subjected to the influence of the democracy of every day life. But the idea of exclusiveness pervades everything. Was it not Cotton Mather who contended that the pleasure of exclusiveness was increased by the contemplation of the sufferings of the damned in Hell? A terrible idea, a vicious idea from the modern ethical standpoint, but after all, only an expression of exclusiveness pushed to the nth degree. But anyhow, we all have it, who want to go to a Heaven where anybody can get in? Exclusive—Exclusive

But if a woman can't be exclusive, she can at least be elusive, though it is somewhat difficult to day with the modern habit of turning inside out all their physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual attributes of humanity. We know so much about ourselves that we are loath to be developing wonderful human beings. But I am afraid that a cog will somewhere, and the mental ruts of common sense will continue as heretofore. We live too fast to bother much with twilight, shadows, memories, and deep dreams.

We are incapable of reflection, and we want all our knowledge projected, boiled down, reduced to words of one syllable. I should think that a certain elusive quality in a woman might make a bit today in contrast to the modern Johnny-on-the-spot, call-me-up-on-the-phone girl. But then I don't know. There is nothing so common as each individually, and they are right in hating it if it is nothing more than a pose, as it frequently is. But then with that ancient herd instinct most of us feel better in a crowd. It takes supreme courage to accept Dr. Stockman's doctrine that "The strongest man in the world is he who stands alone." Only he who can bear to be called "An Enemy of the People" had better attempt it.

Let us seek the woman who uses the perfume of the "disturbing spell of the East—expressing dark, oriental woman of swift tempestuous emotions." At least one will never be bored in the presence of these creatures. I should think one evening spent in the company of a lady of this type would be interesting, but sufficient.

Lost Opportunity

The publishers of "The Sheik" certainly missed their opportunity when they did not arrange to distribute a small bottle of this perfume with each copy sold. The modern girl may have after methods of the desert, in a book, but I am sure that the average man would be somewhat terrified with "primitive directness of passion," as one novelist phrased it. If I recall it correctly, the portrayal of roles of swift tempestuous emotions on the stage will always be enjoyed even by the most staid and reserved of us, and we can I suppose get used to living in a region of earthquakes and volcanoes. But the feeling of complete insecurity in I suppose as far from ideal as living in an atmosphere of complete security, lethargy, and calm.

Something Different

Our last perfume, though, is a wonderful one, in that it is "ever new, different, subtly with a woman who when the warmth of her skin intensifies its fragrance." I should think that would have the widest sale. There is nothing more than each woman desires than to differ subtly from some other woman, except that she wants to be like other men's clothes, and does not care a hang whether he does it subtly or not.

Here then we have the gallery of women I should like to meet, more or less, as you have seen. Perhaps in this exposition I have also laid bare the skeleton in my closet, and I am sure that the most valuable persons are quite likely to be the least informative; which observation may be applied to this essay or not, as you desire.

RESPONSIBLE DEALER ADDS TO CAR VALUE

"In the final analysis, regardless of cost, design, or reputation, the value of any automobile rests squarely upon its ability to render satisfactory transportation to its owner," says Frederick E. Rein, of the Rlen Motor Company. "No manufacturer can make his influence benefit the motorist save through the car dealer in the place where the car is delivered to the ultimate owner. In practice, if not in theory, the responsibility of the manufacturer ceases when the car is delivered to the dealer. The motorist must look to the local dealer for responsibility for the operating needs of the car. The dealer is responsible for the purpose and when he has failed to equip himself to undertake it the car owner suffers."

Old Baseball Days Recalled at Dinner

"Wild" Conroy and Russell Blackburne Tell of Days Gone By

Speaking at the second annual dinner of the Burlington County Industrial Baseball League in the Masonic Hall, West Union street, last Thursday night, "Wild" Conroy, a former big league player, carried his hearers back to the old days in baseball, and the names he mentioned were music to the ears of those who knew the game in the time of Delahanty, Monte Cross and Roy Thomas.

Mr. Conroy went as far back as 1895, twenty-one years ago, when he was playing with Conale Mack. This was just before the American League was organized, and baseball in a way was revolutionized. Colonel John I. Rogers then owned the Philadelphia National League team, and he thought the millennium had come when he saw his stars drifting from what undoubtedly was one of the greatest baseball organizations on earth to the Philadelphia Athletics, principally owned by Benjamin Shibe, with Conale Mack as part owner and manager.

In those days of which Mr. Conroy spoke Roy Thomas would foul until he was walked to first; then Jimmy Slagle would sacrifice and when the bases were full along would come the mighty Delahanty with a masterly swing of his great stick and bring the chicken home. Small wonder that Colonel Rogers almost wept when some of the players, including the famous Lajoie, went over to the competing organization.

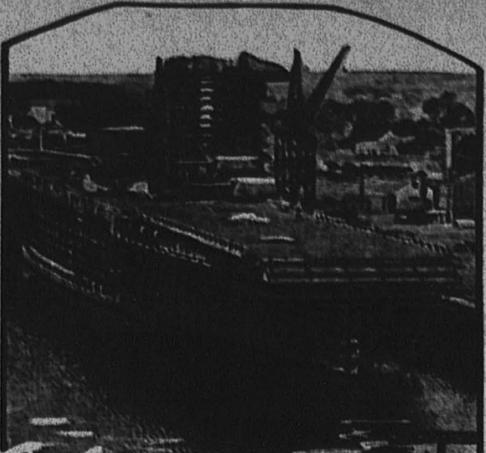

Recalls Charles Dryden After the meeting Mr. Conroy spoke of Charles Dryden, of beloved memory. Dryden was a humorous baseball writer. He boasted of the fact that he graduated from a boiler foundry. His home was everywhere. During a waiting moment in the scorers' stand at Philadelphia ball park one afternoon Dryden smilingly told how he had walked from Chicago to San Francisco during the summer months. Half way over his money gave out and he had to pick hay to make enough coin to carry him on. At night, he said, he slept in the open, with his coat wrapped around his shoes for a pillow.

Dryden would work only in the summer time. He had a shack and a boat down on the lower Mississippi river. As soon as the baseball season was over he would go south and fish until spring. One summer the season finished at six o'clock. At 6.05 Dryden was shaking hands with the writer and other baseball scribes and at 6.10 he was headed for the shack and boat. He had taken his grip to the Broad street station, Philadelphia, before the game began.

A few months ago at an Elk meeting in North Jersey, the writer inquired of Pat Powers, baseball magnate, another man of beloved memory, relative to Dryden. Powers said that he had been stricken with paralysis. Later came the news that he was dead. And a short time after that Powers himself went over the great divide to meet the comrades who had gone before. And so many of the others have gone and the baseball of which Conroy spoke so well and so entertainingly has become almost a mere memory.

Another speaker at the industrial dinner was Russell Blackburne, also a well-known baseball player. He is now associated with Conroy on the Camden team which Conroy manages. Blackburne told first of his basketball experience; how he had stacked up against Burlington boys—one of them Pop Morgan—in Mount Holly and other places, and then drifted to baseball experiences. Both Blackburne and Conroy gave some excellent advice to the players of today and told them how to move if they were thinking of heading for the big league. They laid especial stress on the habit of smoking cigarettes on the field. They said the player could not do himself a much

Had Interior Use For Canned Heat

Vincetown Man Finds "Stereo" Has a Hundred Per Cent "Kick"

The widely advertised "canned heat" should now be labeled "canned stimulant, recommended for either internal or external use."

At least, one Vincetown resident found it to meet his requirements for internal usage and his neighbors are willing to testify to its ability as a stimulant.

Last Saturday, during the course of a series of raids, State Trooper "Doc" Hammond, stationed at Moorestown, and County Detectives Cain and Carabine arrested Carlton Kline, of Vincetown, charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Kline had been on a jamboree of the wildest kind, playing havoc with furniture and generally disturbing the entire neighborhood. Naturally, an investigation was made to learn from whom the bottle which produced such terrible results had been purchased, and much to their amusement, the officers found that it was not illicit liquor but Stereo, the canned heat, which had given Kline "inspiration" for such a rampage.

Kline was given a thirty-day rest period at the county jail to recover from the effects of the canned heat. The judge volunteered the information as to whether or not he will continue drinking Stereo.

The notorious Jennie Reptinger, of Red Lion, the seasoned bootlegger who has been before the courts regularly every few weeks since prohibition went into effect, once more was arrested. Jennie attempted to hide a five-gallon keg of bootleg in the woods near her home, but the officers experienced little difficulty in locating the evidence.

At the home of Bertha Lehman, of Centerton, Trooper Hammond and the detectives found two gallons of rum. Bertha was more cautious than her Red Lion contemporary and had concealed her liquid evidence in a secret closet.

Both Jennie and Bertha were arraigned before Commissioner Haines at Mount Holly who placed them under $1,000 bond for grand jury hearing.

Collins Tells of Florida Disaster

Moorestown Man Delivers Interesting Talk Before Local Rotary Club

The Moorestown Rotary Club, at its weekly luncheon in the Community House last Thursday noon, was given some first-hand information of the conditions on the hurricane swept area of Florida.

Irving Collins, who had just returned from the devastated section where he rushed to inspect the damage to his own property in Miami, gave a very interesting account of the Southern cities which were badly damaged by the terrific storm.

His talk somewhat paralleled that given by Thomas Pancoast, president of the Miami Chamber of Commerce a few weeks previous. Mr. Pancoast advanced the theory that the collapse of the big boom which was really prices say high in Florida was not without its advantages for it had shown people that business must be conducted on a more sound and reasonable basis. Mr. Collins said that the hurricane caused much property, made many homeless and put some families in destitute circumstances. It was not without its good points.

Need Strong Buildings
It has shown, he said, that construction business must also be established on a more firm and substantial foundation. The recent forced concrete or concrete blocks without the sale while the more stumpy type of buildings were literally ripped from their foundation and blown in every direction.

Mr. Collins said he was told that the terrific wind came from a south-westerly direction with little or no warning. The rising wind put the sea in a turmoil and huge waves, twenty feet high, swept barges and vessels loaded with building materials up on Miami beach. The wild sea cut one large cargo craning into one of the bridges at the causeway.

Freaks can always be found in the wake of a hurricane. The Florida storm picked up a section of trolley track, both ties and rails, tossing it from one side to the other of a causeway, as it might have been mere splinter of wood. A piano floated out of its owner's home and deposited in another home further down the street. The phenomenal part of this performance was that there was barely enough room to nail the instrument in or eyes of either side of the buildings, but the storm did not seem to have much difficulty in accomplishing the feat at either entrance.

Roofs Turn Off
Only the window panes suffered in the well-constructed buildings. Awnings that were ripped loose caused much trouble, leaving destruction in their path as they were swept through the streets. Among the other victims of the gale were homes of Spanish architecture. The low tile eaves formed pockets for the wind and many of the roofs were torn from homes of this type.

One of the biggest and quickest rehabilitation jobs was accomplished by the Florida Light and Power Company when it put one thousand men in the field working to restore service within twenty-four hours after the hurricane struck. The electrical motors at all of the water pumping stations were also idle until the electrical system began to function.

Automobiles were at a premium after the storm. Those that were not wholly destroyed were put out of running order.

Home Must Be Destroyed
Mr. Collins' water home was so badly undermined on the south wing that it will be necessary for him to dynamite the entire building. His garage remained intact, but was filled with four feet of sand. The first floor of the home of Mr. Collins' father, John S. Collins, was flooded. The family was driven to the second floor, as the water rose to within a few inches of the first floor ceilings.

One section of the Pancoast Hotel, which is owned by Thomas Pancoast, was destroyed and an eight-story building, one of the largest in Miami was so badly ruined that it will have to be torn down. The roof of the mammoth grandstand at the Miami race track was also swept across the country.

One of the biggest projects now faced by Florida is the restoring of bulkheads on the ocean front at Miami Beach.

A feature which made the talk of great interest was the showing of lantern slides from photographs taken by Clarence B. Worrell while

AUTO MOTOR USED AT SEA

Chevrolet Motor Used To Run Auxiliary Lighting Plant on Steamship

Not satisfied with playing a leading role on land, the automobile motor has now taken up a career at sea.

Away up on the sea deck of the Steamship President Lincoln, which sailed recently from San Francisco for the Orient, is an iron cabin—the loftiest place on the ship. It is water-proof, air-tight and strongly built to protect its contents from sea and weather. Inside and out, the house is neat and ship-shape and the chief engineer is the only person aboard with a key to its lock.

This cabin houses an auxiliary room houses an electric power plant operated by a Chevrolet motor, for emergency use only.

In case of an accident should everything else on shipboard fail or be below water this motor generates electricity for the wireless set and for lights around the life boats. It is one thing that passengers and crew may depend upon in case of disaster, for as long as there is a spar above water the auxiliary will function.

It is entirely independent of the ship's regular machinery and will operate without interruption, supplying current for distress calls and strong light for launching the small boats.

While in these days the possibility of a disaster at sea is practically nil, the auxiliary room gives an added feeling of security. Chief Electrician T. Armstrong of the President Lincoln opens up the little cabin once a week to test the emergency rig.

This feature of modern steamship travel indicates the degree of perfection to which automobile motors have been developed. It is nothing short of marvellous that those faltering pieces of mechanism which first propelled automobiles less than three decades ago, have been so perfected as to be selected now to serve as lifesavers in case all else fails.

LUTHERAN NEWS

All children twelve years of age or over, who have not yet been confirmed, will meet in the auditorium of the church for catechetical class organization Friday at four in the afternoon. At this time, the work will be explained, courses outlined, and the time of meeting decided. It is most important that we have all present for organization.

Prayer meeting, Thursday at eight o'clock with "First Martyr" as the theme of discussion. Come out and enjoy the inspiration to be had from these early founders of the Christian Church.

All parents of children enrolled in the Sunday School should use their best influences to get the pupils out for the entertainment rehearsal, Thursday at four and Saturdays at two-thirty in the afternoon. We are going to make this entertainment, which is to be given in the High School auditorium on November 20th, a great credit to our school and church, but it will be necessary to have the co-operation of every child and parent before we can succeed in doing so.

Regular services next Lord's Day morning and evening. The installation of new council members, which were elected the past Sunday, will be held in conjunction with the morning service.

Lutheran Young People's Society meets at 8:45 Sunday evening. We have been having very inspiring talks from our leaders and we feel that you are missing something if you have not been attending these devotional services.

MAINTAIN ROADS BY GASOLINE TAX URGES SENATOR ABELL

Tells State Association of Board of Freeholders Our State Is Out of Step

ALL BUT FOUR STATES NOW HAVE "GAS" TAX

More than two hundred freeholders and one thousand members of the New Jersey Association of Boards of Freeholders, held at Lakeland, near Blackwood, in the new Camden county Tuberculosis Hospital, on Monday of this week. The meeting was presided over by Charles H. Stout, president of the association, and member of the Burlington county Board of Freeholder.

Other officials attending from Burlington county were Freeholders Curwen B. Fisher, Fred Lippincott, Director Howard Russ, Alfono Adams, clerk, and Treasurer Treasurer Joseph Bright, Henry Worrell, superintendent of the Almshouse; Robert W. Cox, superintendent of the Inmate Asylum and Surrogate M. E. Matlack.

Freeholder Morris B. Rudderow, of Merchantville, was toastmaster. The address of welcome was made by Albert R. Burling, counsel for Camden county Board of Freeholders.

Mr. Burling said the Camden board laid down a plan for new county institutions two and one half years ago and is now realizing its dream. He said the county now has $3,000,000 invested in its institutions as follows: tuberculosis, $1,650,000; dentention home, $200,000; county farm, $291,000; insane hospital, $448,000; central plant, $311,000; additional land, $35,000.

Dr. John Ellis, New Jersey Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies paid a glowing tribute to the Camden freeholders.

"Camden county has put itself in the forefront of the state and in fact the East in county institutions," declared Dr. Ellis. "These institutions are built for hospitals and are manned by trained staff."

Lauds Sanatorium Head

He also paid a tribute to Dr. Martin Collier, superintendent of the sanitarium as a "trained man on the job." Dr. Collier declared that 98 per cent of the cases admitted to the county institutions are bedridden patients beyond help. He urged that patients be sent to the institution in the early stages of tuberculosis. He said the children's hospital, connected with the sanitarium is now being used as a pre-ventorium to help undernourished children from developing the disease.

Dr. O. W. Saunders, president of hard work to realize the new institution, declared it was plenty of hard work to realize the new institution and he paid a tribute to the Camden board for its generous assistance.

Advocate Gasoline Tax

If a two cent gasoline tax is imposed by the New Jersey Legislature, $4,000,000 will be collected in revenue next year and enough to build 75 miles of new highway in the year, said Senator Frank Abell, of Morris county, in making the closing address of the day.

Senator Abell declared a big truck carrying from five to fifteen tons was a menace to the public pocketbook and should be compelled to pay as much license fee in this state as in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

He said if the license fee on big trucks was increased in New Jersey to equal the Pennsylvania tax revenue would be increased $5,000,000 a year for highways.

The Senator declared that pneumatic tires do very little damage to state highways. He said railroads maintain a private right of way to haul freight, but large trucks traverse our highways and they are merely great freight vehicles.

The speaker declared New Jersey is one of four states in the United States which does not collect a gasoline tax. He said there is not a state which adopted this system has dropped it. He pointed to Connecticut's law as a model.

Respectful Far Below Maintenance

The speaker declared that money received by the various counties from the state motor vehicle taxes does not pay for the maintenance of state roads by 80 per cent, let alone create new highways out of secondary routes.

He said he would like to see the state highways financed as the Delaware river bridge and the Jersey City tunnel are being paid for. He declared $100,000,000 has been invested in the roads of New Jersey and they will be obsolete before they are paid for.

"The opposition to a gasoline tax is not based on an economical study of state and county debt," said Senator Abell. "A gasoline tax is the only fair and sane method of raising additional taxes needed for secondary highways."

PALMYRA FIREMEN GET MUCH APPLAUSE

Forty-eight in Uniform With All Apparatus Parade in Philadelphia

The Palmyra Fire Company had a big turnout at the Firemen's Parade in Philadelphia last Thursday. All the local apparatus and the ambulance were in line. The Riverton company was all set in case a fire broke out in the vicinity.

Forty-eight uniformed men from Palmyra participated. This was a splendid showing and Chief Morris Beck was very much pleased. The boys received a big hand as they "strutted their stuff." Although the grind from the Parkway at Twenty-third street down Broad to the Squig grounds was a good march, all the men were congratulated as they were receiving congratulations all along the line on the great showing they made.

Mrs. Hullings Dies of Injuries

Struck By Automobile While Alighting From Her Car; Lingered Two Days

Mrs. Sarah A. Hullings, of Riverton, died at the Baraburg Memorial Hospital, Riverside, Tuesday afternoon from injuries received Sunday afternoon when she was struck by a car driven by Carl Bruses, of Riverside. Mrs. Hullings never regained consciousness after the accident.

According to eye witnesses, Mrs. Hullings stopped her car in front of the Murphy roadside market, near Riverside, to purchase some flowers, and was struck while crossing the road.

The injured woman was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist, where it was found she was suffering from scalp and head wounds and other injuries.

In the car with Mrs. Hullings were two of her grandchildren, Mildred, eight and Jack, five, who witnessed the accident.

Mrs. Hilda Smith, who is a sister of Mrs. Robert Hullings, was on her way home from the Riverside football game with her husband and passed the scene of the accident immediately after it happened. Mrs. Smith returned to Riverside for Chief of Police Voshele while her husband remained at the Riverside hospital. Mrs. Hullings was held without bail by Justice of Peace Lester, of Riverside, but later released by Prosecutor Hillman under bond of $100.

The Riverside physicians declared that Bruses was intoxicated, but a Riverside man who was talking to him after the accident denied this. The Riverside man says that Bruses was not driving fast or recklessly.

He said that he stopped his car immediately and assisted in getting Mrs. Hullings into the car which took her to the hospital.

Funeral services will be held at the residence of her husband, Hudson Hullings, Lippincott avenue, Riverton, on Thursday at 2 p. m. Interment will be private in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Burlington. Friends may call Friday evening.

C. of C. Worried About Shade Trees

Palmyra Seeks Citizens Willing To Serve on Shade Tree Commission

The precarious condition of Palmyra shade trees occasioned the attention of the Palmyra Chapter of the Commercial Club at its meeting Tuesday evening.

Little or no attention has been given the trees, long considered one of the chief beauties of the town, for a considerable time and many of them are rapidly being destroyed by pests and suffering from lack of trimming and other useful attention.

Mayor Wurst stated that he had had much difficulty finding men who would serve on a shade tree commission to look after this matter, so the Chamber of Commerce decided to seek out three public spirited citizens who would undertake the work and recommend their names to the Mayor for appointment.

Edwin Lees, president of the Chamber, announced that he was working on the proposition to erect signs at the corner of Broad street and Clannamnon, pointing out routes and distances to motorists passing through town.

Mr. Lees has consulted with the Standard Enameling Company, of Palmyra, concerning the manufacturing of these signs and in all probability the order will soon be placed.

Group Chiefs From Four Counties To Hold Conference at Ockanickon

TAKES THE PLACE OF FORMER INSTITUTE

In line with a very happy arrangement which has been worked out by the Executive Committee of the County Association, "CHIEF" is good, the new full-time Assistant Secretary on the County "Y" staff, took up his residence at Burlington after having spent a period of three similar weeks in the vicinity of Ockanickon.

Mr. Ergood comes to Burlington after having spent a period of three similar weeks in the vicinity of Ockanickon.

This is the weekend when "Y" Group Leaders from four counties, Monmouth, Burlington, Camden, and Gloucester, will convene at the new Ockanickon camp site for a conference, which will be held with a supper Saturday night and extend through until after dinner on Sunday.

Helpful Conference

This conference of leaders, coming together in the Fall, at the outset of the season, when many are just rearing their group work under way, will certainly be exceedingly helpful to many men—and it is planned with just this thought in mind, and now with a permanent "home" for Camp Ockanickon, and in view of the fact that it is possible to accommodate a conference the size of this bids fair to be, this Get-Together is taking the place of the "Institute" that was formerly held for years, just before the opening of camp at New Egypt.

In favor of such a Conference as this, then, is the most favorable time of year, the opportunities the new camp site affords for entertaining such an enlarged group, and the strongest command the program committee can give, to all men of recognized standing in boys' work, by combining forces and making this a four county affair.

List of Speakers

Heading the list of those who will participate in the first Fall Ockanickon four-county Leaders' Conference, is Harold I. Donnelly, Philadelphia, assistant editor of publications of the Board of Christian Education, Presbyterian Church. He will appear on the program three times, and his line of thought will center around discussing answers to these three questions, "How Shall I Tackle My Job as a Leader?" "What Shall I Do About a Program?" and "How Can I Be Sure I Am Succeeding?"

A second speaker is the Rev. John F. Lennon, pastor of the M. E. Church, Burlington. Mr. Lennon will conduct the opening devotional period on Saturday evening. He is well acquainted with the County "Y" program in at least two counties, and helped a third county originate a "Y" work.

Another is a worthy in Burlington county, Charles A. Green, general secretary of the YMCA, Trenton. He will deliver two of the devotional messages on Sunday.

A fourth man, and one not previously announced, in connection with the program is Mr. Walter M. Hume, a YMCA Secretary on the Foreign Work Staff in India, who is home just now on a furlough and plans to accept the Committee's invitation to present, particularly in view of the fact that a part of the support of rural YMCA work in India is provided by members of various "Y" groups organized on the county work basis.

Must Pay Bills

The Builders' Supply Company, of Trenton, has $11,000; the Trenton Milling Work Company, of Trenton, $1,000; National Supply Company, of Mount Holly, $550; Joseph Haines & Company, of Medford, $1,009.96; all of which are owed by the contractor and have been received by the county.

The authorities are still holding back about $4,000 on the contract price of $13,465.

The Freeholders want the home finished and consequently have called upon Toth to complete the work according to the specifications, and the Guarantee Surety Company, of New York, which furnished the contractor's bond, will also be notified of Toth's plight.

When the contract was given out there were rumors that Toth was not what might be termed a responsible bidder, but as the low bidder by about $5,000, the Freeholders being later informed that he was all right, awarded him the contract.

The new nurses' home is being erected at a cost of $15,500. The architect is Henry A. Brown, of Burlington.

Under a resolution by Charles R. Stout, of Florence, the county board will co-operate with Beverly Township in repairing a bad place in the county road at Burlington avenue and Willow street. Delancey Adam Scheller was given the contract to do the job.

A communication from Joseph R. Malons, city clerk of Bordentown, stated that the affairs of that city, which that portion of the Bordentown-Chesterfield road paved which lies in Bordentown, and is willing to pay the extra costs. The board agreed to this proposal.

The board will place a concrete valley gutter at the intersection of the county road and Willow street in Delancey. There was a cave-in at that point leaving the road in a dangerous condition. The cost will be about $150 and will be equally divided between the county and the township.

The following bills from the various departments were ordered paid: Roads, $9,511.95; bridges, 7,351.55; building, $35,334.65; public affairs, $2,533.15; Finance, $45.50, making total of $45,245.40.

ENGAGED

Mrs. Mary A. Clelland, of 622 Main street, Riverton, announces the engagement of her daughter, Anne Rowan Clelland, to Mr. Arthur Doughty, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Doughty, of Trenton.

Must Pay Bills

The Builders' Supply Company, of Trenton, has $11,000; the Trenton Milling Work Company, of Trenton, $1,000; National Supply Company, of Mount Holly, $550; Joseph Haines & Company, of Medford, $1,009.96; all of which are owed by the contractor and have been received by the county.

The authorities are still holding back about $4,000 on the contract price of $13,465.

The Freeholders want the home finished and consequently have called upon Toth to complete the work according to the specifications, and the Guarantee Surety Company, of New York, which furnished the contractor's bond, will also be notified of Toth's plight.

When the contract was given out there were rumors that Toth was not what might be termed a responsible bidder, but as the low bidder by about $5,000, the Freeholders being later informed that he was all right, awarded him the contract.

The new nurses' home is being erected at a cost of $15,500. The architect is Henry A. Brown, of Burlington.

Under a resolution by Charles R. Stout, of Florence, the county board will co-operate with Beverly Township in repairing a bad place in the county road at Burlington avenue and Willow street. Delancey Adam Scheller was given the contract to do the job.

A communication from Joseph R. Malons, city clerk of Bordentown, stated that the affairs of that city, which that portion of the Bordentown-Chesterfield road paved which lies in Bordentown, and is willing to pay the extra costs. The board agreed to this proposal.

The board will place a concrete valley gutter at the intersection of the county road and Willow street in Delancey. There was a cave-in at that point leaving the road in a dangerous condition. The cost will be about $150 and will be equally divided between the county and the township.

The following bills from the various departments were ordered paid: Roads, $9,511.95; bridges, 7,351.55; building, $35,334.65; public affairs, $2,533.15; Finance, $45.50, making total of $45,245.40.

PHS Loses Close Game To "Colls"

Touchback Is Only Score of Contest, Making Result

In a loosely played game Collingswood beat Palmyra 11 Thursday on the latter's grounds by the narrow margin of 2-0. In the first quarter the ball saw-sawed back and forth with neither team having a decided advantage over the other. In the second quarter the "Colls" kept the ball well within the Palmyra territory largely due to fumbles by the Red and White. But whenever Collingswood got within scoring distance Palmyra's line would tighten and hold like a stone wall. Just before the end of the half Palmyra received the ball within the shadows of their own goal posts after holding the "Colls" on downs. Here Captain "Pop" Mathers brought the ball out of danger on two line plunges and then completely fooled the opposition by getting off a 40-yard punt from a box formation. At the end of the half the score was deadlocked at 0-0.

In the third season Palmyra got the ball near the goal after a steady march down the field, only to lose the platoon by a fumble on the first down with the goal to go. Here Collingswood punted out of danger and the ball was in the middle of the field the remaining of the quarter.

In the final chapter a few passes were tried by both teams, each fighting hard for a score and victory. The aerial attack was unsuccessful. Both teams were powerful in the defensive.

In the waiting minutes of the game a Palmyra back let a punt get away from him and, although he recovered the ball in time, he was thrown behind his own goal posts for the only score of the gripping struggle. This is the game in a nutshell that the Red and White had to concede to the "Colls."

Captain "Pop" Mathers and Sloan were the big guns for P. H. S. Mathers' backing up of the line was superb. Kalknowski and Little were the strongholds of the Palmyra line. The Minot brothers and Graupner starred for the "Colls."

The line up:

E. Jachins quarterback (Capt.)

EVANS' AFIRE AGAIN

Roof Ablaze for Third Time in Less Than Year; Quickly Put Out

For the third time in less than a year the roof on the lumber warehouse of Joseph T. Evans was set afire by a spark from a passing locomotive, about 8 o'clock last Monday morning. The fire was discovered before it gained much headway and the Riverton Fire Company was able to put it out before it assumed the proportions of a conflagration.

It has been most fortunate, indeed, that these fires have happened at a time when there was someone around to discover and put them out. If this building ever gets afire in the night, the flames will make headway in the combustible contents of the structure and will soon be beyond control. Under such conditions it would be reasonable to expect a clean sweep from the railroad to the Bank building and probably beyond that.

Rotarians Plan Splendid Lecture

Frank Branch Riley To Give "The Lure of the Great Northwest" Nov. 1

At the regular dinner Thursday evening the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club completed arrangements for the lecture to be given at the Palmyra High School auditorium, Monday evening, November 1, Frank Branch Riley, of Portland, Oregon, has been secured to give his popular travelogue, "The Lure of the Great Northwest."

Mr. Riley has appeared frequently before the University of Pennsylvania and the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia and was secured by the Camden Rotary Club last spring. While the local club had some qualms as to the financial outcome of the proposition, it was the general feeling that the two communities would appreciate the opportunity of hearing one of the country's foremost lecturers at less than half the cost of his usual public appearances.

Mr. Riley's lecture is illustrated by exceptionally fine stereopticon slides, which will be shown by an expert operator who accompanies him on his tours. Striking images in effect are achieved, one being a transition from bright sunlight to sunset and dusk with a single slide, and another a sunrise on a snow capped mountain.

A roaring fire in the large fireplace in the Porch Club welcomed the Palmyra-Riverton Rotarians and their guests. The chilly night helped to emphasize the bright cheerfulness of the interior of the building, and the home informality of the dining room is appealing strongly to everyone present.

Frank C. Cole, classification clerk, retelling, was formally inducted into membership. Frank's name was proposed by Ross Mattis, and he was very cordially welcomed.

Hobart A. Graupner was present as the guest of Secretary Fred Seiber.

Harold Horner, of Mount Holly Rotary Club, visited the club to make up attendance. He reported that Mount Holly had just put over two one hundred per cent. The Palmyra Ford agency, provided an interesting program of moving pictures of the Ford industries which were much enjoyed.

Lions Hear of Fire Menace

Chief Kelly, of Camden, Tells of Huge Losses Through Carelessness

Chief Kelly, of the Camden police and fire alarm system, was the speaker of the evening at the meeting of the Palmyra Lions Club Tuesday evening.

Fire prevention was the topic of Mr. Kelly's address and he presented many convincing statistics showing the huge losses suffered by the United States from carelessness and lack of precaution.

Not only is there an appalling loss of property, but lives are also sacrificed, and the cost of living is increased to a remarkable degree by the ravages of fire. The fact that a man has his home or business insured against fire is not enough. The insurance can hardly over-compensate completely for the discomfort resulting from fire and the interruption to business and the normal life of society.

The fact that everything must be insured against fire at all times adds greatly to the cost of every commodity. If by means of fire prevention methods the rates for insurance could be reduced to the minimum, then the prices of these commodities to the consumers would be materially lowered.

Chief Kelly has been promoting an educational fire prevention program among the school children of Camden and the results have been remarkable. Last year the per capita loss from fire in Camden was only 34 cents as against over three dollars in Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Trenton and other big cities.

During the enjoyable dinner served by the ladies of the Lutheran church the Lions enjoyed much of their own singing and also were entertained by several numbers from Frank Carter, jazz band.

Walter Lamson was the attendance price donated by James Paton.

On Thursday evening, November 4, the Palmyra Lions will entertain the Mercantile Club, whom the local clubs recently visited. Jimmy Loughran, the famous artist of the Camden Lions Club, will be on hand with a force of fellow entertainers to make things merry during the evening.

George M. Harris was welcomed into the Lions den as a new cub.

Sonny Wright Has The Team; All That Is Needed Is The Crowd

OVERGELL STARS WITH SIX FIRST DOWNS

Riverton's gridiron gladiators turned in another victory last Saturday by defeating the Beverly team 12-0.

Beverly elected to receive the opening kick-off which was booted by Horace Richman. The visitors were held for downs and forced to punt. The first period was played with neither team having a large advantage over the other.

Stewart Hollingshead took the ball for seven yards and a first down. Big Bill Overgell, not to be outdone, smashed through the line for twelve yards and another first down. On the next play the Riverton quarterback fumbled and the Beverly team recovered.

Beverly tried to start a pass which was intercepted because Biddle Fitter forced the hurriedly to throw hurriedly and inaccurately. Beverly was forced to kick. "Tinker" Holvick caught the punt, fumbled and then recovered. One dashing quarterback slid off tackle and gained enough for a first down. After the Beverly line had been pounded three times in succession Horace Richman dashed through left tackle for another first down, just as the first period ended.

Overgell Scored

Dan Clifton replaced Furter at guard in the beginning of the second quarter. Riverton lost the ball on downs. The local line was impenetrable and Beverly was forced to punt. Riverton marched down the field for four first downs. Dick Hollingshead and Horace Richman going off tackle for two first downs, while "Big Bertha" Overgell pounded the middle of Beverly's line for a first down. A kick-off came from "Big Bertha" to "Tinker" Holvick, who netted the locals their fourth consecutive first down. Riverton lost the ball on an incomplete pass on the last down. Beverly kicked but it was blocked and Beverly recovered.

The visitors kicked a quarter back. Werner, right tackle for the Beverly team, caught the punt on its first bounce which is contrary to the rules thus causing the referee to penalize them five yards. A crisp cross by Overgell and Stewart H. netted the locals four yards. The next thing the spectators knew "Big Bertha" was across the last white line for the first touchdown. Richman missed the extra point try by inches. On a kick-off Richman ran the platoon back 25 yards. Beverly was penalized for off sides. Richman's

The structure was leveled to the ground and its fine furnishings also were destroyed. The loss is about $20,000, partly covered by $5,000 tornado insurance.

OILED ROADS

Treated Gravel Highways in Ocean County Prove Satisfactory

Ocean county's experience with oiled roads is satisfactory, the engineer of that county reports. The summer of 1926 is the third that oil has been used experimentally. The original experiments were looked upon with considerable questioning, as previous attempts some years ago to use oil on gravel roads had been a failure.

This season oil was put on all the old oiled roads again and in addition other roads were oiled. The Toma River to Brown's Mills road, which carries heavy traffic, keeps a pretty good surface under oil, but previous to oiling was always a poor road.

Nations of Europe Get Together

Nearly Every Country Represented By Delegates At Peace Conference

The Sixth International Peace Congress, organized by Marc Sangnier, was held this year during the month of August, at Bierville, an old chateau standing in beautiful grounds, about 40 miles from Paris.

Each week something quite different was planned. The first week's program consisted of various meetings and demonstrations in towns in the north of France, including Rheims. During the second week, there was a sort of Summer-school at Bierville dealing with various international problems.

The Congress was made up of persons of all ages and of many opinions, from extreme conservative to extreme radical. A special effort had been made to bring young people of all nationalities together, and one had the impression that the Congress was a predominantly youthful, though a great deal of the speech-making seemed to be done by older people.

The big camp, up on the hill, provided for about half the Congress. This camp had been installed by the French War Minister, due to the interest in the Congress of Mr. Painleve, who was in attendance one day. Splendid new hospital tents were used for dormitories, and the big mess tent, over a hundred yards long, able to seat at least 2,000 people, was really impressive.

The Congress met in the open-air theatre, the admirable acoustics of which were supplemented on occasion by specially installed loud-speakers.

ROLL CALL

Judge Wells to Head Annual Red Cross Drive in County

Plans for the tenth annual membership enrollment of the Burlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, are already well under way, and those especially interested, are looking forward to an unusually successful canvass.

The enrollment, as usual, will start on Armistice Day, November 11, and continue until Thanksgiving Day.

On Saturday, former Judge Harold B. Wells was called upon at his home in Bordentown by officers of the County Chapter, and asked if he would serve during the enrollment, as honorary chairman. He readily consented and said that he would gladly do all in his power to further the cause for the Red Cross.

The demands on the national organization of the Red Cross have been unusually heavy the past year, owing to numerous disasters, of large proportions, notably that of the Dover explosion in this State and the Florida hurricane.

Trenton Woman Stages Treasure Hunt in Burlington Backyard

But Huge Hole Fails To Reveal Gold Supposed To Have Been Hidden by Blackbeard, Bold Pirate of Colonial Days

That treasure hunting does not exist solely in the mind of the novelist is shown by a great hole in the backyard of the house at 217 Wood street, Burlington, owned by Miss Florence Steward, of Trenton, a former resident, a hole in which an automobile easily might be parked, a hole that has considerably excited the people of Burlington and turned the curious in that direction.

The hole was dug for the purpose of recovering the gold that Blackbeard, a famous pirate of colonial days, is supposed to have buried in Burlington when seeking a safe place for his spoils. The treasure hunters are Miss Steward, who now lives at 316 Maple avenue, Trenton, and her brother, Frederick Steward, who also lives in Trenton.

Miss Steward doesn't care to talk about the search for the Blackbeard gold, but admits that it was at her instigation and that of her brother that the hole had been dug. Miss Steward, it seems, is seeking to sell the Wood street property, which has been owned by her family for many years, and she felt that the gold rightfully belongs to her and should be recovered previous to the sale of the house.

Miss Steward said that she had no great hope of recovering the Blackbeard treasure, but wanted to make sure that it was not in the yard of her house before finally breaking the Wood street ties.

Up to the present time the treasure has not been found although the digging has been considerable. Whether the work will be continued, Miss Steward was not prepared to say. The hole was dug several days ago and Miss Steward and her brother remained in the Wood street house during the two days required for making the excavation. This was for the purpose of guarding the Blackbeard spoils from other treasure hunters that possibly might become interested.

The digging was done by two men which Miss Steward and her brother brought to Burlington for that purpose. The point attacked was close to a black walnut tree that stands in the Steward yard. Earth from beneath the roots of the tree was removed, but neither the gold, nor the silver, nor yet the jewelry that was pillaged from the brave and the fair on the high seas was found.

According to tradition Miss Steward is not digging in the right spot to recover the Blackbeard treasure. The gold, if we are to believe the story that has been handed down from one generation of Burlingtonians to another for nearly two hundred years, was buried beneath a large black walnut tree which stood on a lot which afterwards became John Broomhead's yard.

Blackbeard Tree Seedling
The lot on the east side of Wood street, south of Pearl street, Howard Eastwood's house stands on a part of it. The site of Miss Steward's house also has been a part of the lot in the days of the famous pirate. But the black walnut tree was further to the north. There still are some people in Burlington who remember the dead stump of the old forest monarch. Miss Steward's tree probably is seedling from the Blackbeard tree.

Had Miss Steward found the treasure she first would have discovered the skeleton of a man. When Blackbeard buried the treasure in Burlington he asked for a volunteer to guard it.

was shot in the centre of the forehead and buried with the gold, silver and jewels.
Queer indeed were the doings in Burlington in those old days. Even while Blackbeard was burying his treasure beneath the black walnut tree the Burlington witches were dancing around the witches tree, a short distance away.

Witches Tree
The witches' tree is supposed to be the large sycamore on the lawn of the home of C. Ross Grubb which, according to tree doctors, majestically has overlooked the Delaware River for more than five hundred years. Even in the days of Blackbeard and the witches the sycamore must have been a big one.

Miss Steward's treasure hunt is not the first in Burlington. It is said that in the old days the Blackbeard treasure was searched for so frequently that the sycamore couldn't rest. And then there used to be a sycamore tree on what is now High School Field where some thought treasure was buried and used the shovel extensively.

Another treasure spot was up along the Assisunk Creek where a large flat stone used to lie. Several people thought that gold was buried beneath it and the stone changed its position a number of times.

No small interest is taken in Miss Steward's attempt to recover Blackbeard's gold. An soon as the report spread that a hole was being dug in her yard many went that way to see it.

TUNNEL BARNEGAT

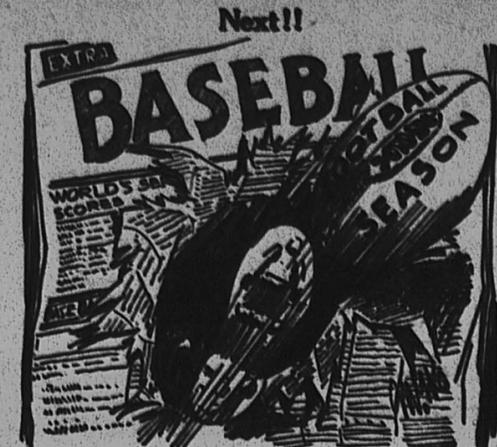

Advance Plan to Send Vehicular Traffic Under Inlet

A tunnel under the inlet, instead of a bridge spanning it, has been suggested by engineers who have been studying the problem of getting vehicular traffic across Barnegat inlet, in providing the proposed boulevard along the ocean front from New York to Atlantic City. The inlet separates the island of Long Beach from Island Beach and Ocean county officials plan to present a bill in the next Legislature permitting the building of a bridge, unless convinced that the new tunnel project is the more practical solution.

The tentative plans provide for a bridge that will be constructed partly over a crescent of islands about a mile inside the actual inlet. This would connect Bay Boulevard, on Long Beach, on the south, with the new boulevard on the north, which the Phillips estate is building for ten miles through a $50,000,000 development below Seaside Park. Another group of engineers, after a study of the inlet, according to county officials, have reported that a tunnel can be built under the inlet as economically as a bridge over it.

To Mend Broken China
Mix a teaspoonful of alum and a tablespoonful of water and place it in a hot oven until it is quite transparent. Wash the broken pieces in hot water and, while warm, coat the broken edges thinly and quickly, as it sticks instantly. Your china thus mended will bear hot water and ordinary usage.

Familiar Attitude
"Most everybody sympathizes with the poor," said Uncle Eben. "for de reason dat most everybody feels kind o' poor hisself in comparison with somebody else."

MANY MOVING IN SOUTH JERSEY

Exceptionally heavy moving activities in Southern Division and in fact throughout New Jersey over the October 1 period are indicated by figures compiled in the gas and electric departments of Public Service Electric and Gas Company. In every home and in every apartment where there was a change of tenant and where gas and electricity are used, a gas meter had to be shut off and turned on and an electric meter disconnected and reconnected. In the four days previous to and including October 1, there were in Southern Division 123 gas shut-offs and turn-ons and 703 electric disconnections and reconnections.

The figures for Camden, Trenton, Burlington and Princeton follow: Camden 395 shut-offs and turn-ons, 373 electric disconnections and reconnections; Trenton, 277 gas and 279 electric; Burlington, 32 gas, 32 electric; Princeton, 16 gas and 19 electric.

In the state at large there were 16,074 gas shut-offs and turn-ons and 14,889 electric disconnections and reconnections.

To fill such an unusual number of orders most of the shops employed twice the number of men to care for the October 1 moving work than are required in other months.

Captain Mehler, of Colgate

The photograph shows Capt. "Nick" Mehler of Colgate. Much is expected this year from the clever little quarterback. He hails from Sharpville, Pa.

and a few reports three and four times the usual number of men were necessary.

At the present time there are about 1,350,000 gas and electric meters in the territory served by Public Service throughout New Jersey.

Ocean Shouldn't Boost Salaries

Trenton Times Editorial Writer Discusses Official's Pay

It is about time that the Legislature stopped passing laws making the fact that a county, city or town bordering on the Atlantic Ocean or any other body of water, for that matter, the basis for increasing official salaries. That never has been a good reason in itself for boosting salaries, but the practice has been followed pretty generally since the law was passed, many years ago, classifying counties, cities and towns according to population. Last winter an act was passed increasing the salaries of County Tax Board members and secretaries in counties bordering on the ocean.

Though the law was intended to apply only to Atlantic county, someone discovered that Burlington might horn in on it; and the Attorney General's department is said to have ruled that the claim was just. For a time the Burlington County Tax Board members enjoyed the boost from $1,400 a year to $3,000. Then someone else discovered that Burlington does not border on the ocean, but upon a bay, and the salary increases have been held up and request made that the overpayments, amounting to $550, be returned to the State Treasury.

Division 30 Years Ago
Litigation will follow, and the lawyers may find light by referring to the records of thirty years or more ago, when the Legislature dropped off a portion of Burlington county and added it to Ocean, in order to redistrict the State for the election of members of Congress. Until that time Burlington extended from the Delaware River to the Atlantic Ocean, and the change was made for the sole purpose of enabling the politicians to establish Congressional district lines that would suit their purposes.

But the mere fact that a county or municipality borders on the ocean is not a good reason why official salaries in that county or municipality should be made higher than in other counties and municipalities that happen to border on Barnegat Bay, Shark River, Ritten Island Sound, Greenwood Lake or other body of water or stream. The basis for salaries should be quantity and quality of service rendered to the people, whether of the entire State or of one or more counties.

COUNTY RED CROSS ENROLLS MEMBERS

Former Judge Harold R. Wells to Serve as County Chairman During Campaign

Plans for the Tenth Roll Call of the American Red Cross are already under way and those especially interested are looking forward to an unusually successful canvass.

The enrollment, as usual, will start on Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, and continue until Thanksgiving Day.

Former Judge Harold R. Wells has consented to act as County Chairman of the Roll Call and promised to do all in his power to further the cause of the Red Cross.

The demands on the national organization of the Red Cross have been unusually heavy the past year, owing to numerous disasters, of large proportions, notably that of the Dover explosion in this State, and the Florida hurricane.

TRAP DOGS

Dear Editor:
Is there any law to punish people who set traps and catch innocent dogs?

Last Friday while we two Boy Scouts were out for a hike we found two dogs in steel traps in a large field near Oak and Stanwick avenues. One dog was caught by the right front foot and the other dog had both front feet caught. They had probably been there a long time for they were terribly weak looking and one could not stand up. We wrapped him in a coat which we took from a scare crow in the field and carried the poor thing to the home of Mr. Roberts on Stanwick avenue where we saw the other dog run. Both dogs belonged to Mr. Roberts.

We do not like to see animals hurt and hope something can be done to stop people setting traps to catch innocent animals.

THE QUESTION BOX

Natural to Imitate
M. G. Palmyra—What makes a little boy of 5 years repeat to himself the things he hears grown-ups say? He is a very bright little fellow and can remember things that happened a year ago. Do you think he has an abnormal mind?
Ans.—The boy is all right. That is a child's nature and you should not be disturbed about it.

Checkers
P. S. Five Points—Will you be kind enough to answer in your Question Box which moves first in a game of checkers—black or the white? And does each player keep the same color in all games of a series?
Ans.—The black always moves first. The colors change after each game in a series, and in doing so, the board should be turned, as the black occupies the squares from 1 to 13 and the white from 21 to 33. This is necessary if you play by numbers.

Expert Necessary to Test Diamond
S. F. Cincinnati—How can anyone test a diamond to see if it is genuine, and what materials are imitation diamonds made of?
Ans.—There is no way that anyone except an expert can test a diamond. Only imitation diamonds are synthetic white sapphires, others are rhinestones, and still others are glass or pop bottles and other colorless materials.

Correct Weight for Men and Women
E. K. Cincinnati—If a man is 6 ft. 1 inch tall should his weight be 160? Also if a woman is 5 feet 2 inches tall how much should she weigh?
Ans.—The correct weight for the man is 160 pounds and that of the woman 115 pounds.

Pensions
B. I. L. Beverly—Does the Federal Government grant pensions to the Confederate veterans?
Ans.—There is no provision of the Federal law granting pension to Confederate soldiers, but many of the former Confederate States make provision for pension in such cases.

What a Coward is
M. F. Palmyra—Will you please tell us what a coward is?
Ans.—Our idea of a coward is a man who knows he is wrong, but refuses to admit it.

Restaurant Etiquette
E. L. Cambridge—Should one fold up one's napkin after eating at a hotel or restaurant? And does a lady remove her gloves when partaking of a light lunch?
Ans.—Under no circumstances should you fold your napkin if you are not a regular boarder. If you are such, it is not improper to fold your napkin, although it is not essential in keeping with etiquette. A lady should always remove her gloves.

80 to 100 Words per Minute
C. S. Riverton—I am studying shorthand. How many words a minute must I be able to write to take down a speech or to hold a job?
Ans.—The average stenographer is supposed to take from 80 to 100 words per minute.

Furniture Remains in White House
G. J. Palmyra—Did ex-President Wilson take the White House furniture with him when he left Washington?
Ans.—No. The furniture in the White House belongs to the people of the United States and always remains there.

Autumn Fair
An autumn fair will be held in the gym of the Epworth Temple, Palmyra, October 22 and 23. Beautiful and useful articles at small cost. Toys for the children, good music, and up-to-date fashion show and other attractions.
Don't miss this fair, Friday and Saturday evenings, October 22nd and 23rd.—Adv.

Lutheran Church Five Years Old

Local Clergymen To Have Part On Church Birthday Program

The Lutherans of Palmyra and Riverton have planned an unusually elaborate celebration for Thursday, October 21st, the fifth anniversary of the organization of the First Lutheran Church of Palmyra and Riverton. It is the aim of those who have charge of the program to feature this event with both a feast of good speaking and music.

The Rev. Dr. Silas D. Daugherty, the organizer of the congregation, will give reminiscences of his early work here and you may be assured that he brings a message of vigor and interest. Dr. Daugherty conducted the first services in 1921 and found results so gratifying that he was able to organize a congregation with ninety charter members. He has kept in close touch with the local Lutheran congregation during the five years of the church's existence.

Many Will Participate
The local ministers will have a part in this celebration. We welcome most heartily to our symposium of good cheer, all members of the local churches as well as those who have no church home. This event is to be in the form of an entertainment rather than of a strict devotional service.

Professional instrumental musicians from Philadelphia will render a program of classical numbers in keeping with the occasion. This part of the program should be sufficient to challenge the interest of all our friends in itself. You will rarely have the opportunity to hear such a program without an admission charge.

Our own newly-organized choir under the leadership of Lee Milton will have an important part in this celebration also. If you have heard this choir in its splendid renditions last Sunday, you will surely be with us on the twenty-first to enjoy their part in the program, if for no other reason.

Building Fund Offering
A voluntary offering will be taken, which will be used for the building fund.

Come and catch the spirit of jubilee which will characterize the occasion. In so doing, you will be doing three things: enjoying yourself, encouraging your church, enhancing her building fund.

Regular services next Lord's morning and evening with special numbers by our new choir. Don't forget the meetings of the Lutheran Young People's Society at 6:45 Sunday evening. It is a great satisfaction to see the attendance at this service pick up, but we cannot be satisfied until all of our young people have affiliated themselves with this organization.

REACH $75,000 GOAL

Presbyterian Church Building Fund Campaign Is Successful
At the morning worship last Sunday at Calvary Presbyterian Church, Riverton, the pastor, the Rev. Charles T. Bates, announced to the congregation the successful completion of their campaign to raise $75,000 for the building fund of the church. This campaign was started last May and $42,000 was subscribed on the first day. In addition to a provisional subscription of $20,000 to be available when $50,000 should have been reached. The loyalty of the entire congregation and the able assistance of the finance committee, headed by Francis B. Elwell, the entire amount has now been subscribed.

Actual building on the Sunday school unit was begun in August and will be followed immediately with alterations on the church building. When completed Calvary Church will have a modern church plant which will be a credit to the community and will enable it to meet growing needs in every way. As part of the morning worship on Sunday, October 24th, there will be a service for the laying of the cornerstone.

PRESBYTERIAN

Fourth Street & Lippincott Avenue

Calvary Presbyterian Church announces that its regular services will continue during the period of building and alteration. The back door is closed but the front door stands wide open to welcome any one in the community who has no regular church home. You need be a stranger but for a moment; for this is your Father's house and you will be at home. Come, enjoy fellowship and worship with us.

Next Sunday the pastor will preach at both services, in the morning at eleven o'clock and in the evening at eight o'clock.

The main Sunday School will meet in the church auditorium at ten o'clock and the primary and beginners' department in the afternoon in the same place.

Each Sunday morning the pastor gives a short sermon for the children. All children of the congregation are invited to come. An opportunity is given to the little ones to withdraw before the regular sermon.

The mid-week service is held in the church auditorium each Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. The pastor is giving a series of lectures on the abiding value of the Old Testament. A growing interest is being shown. If you are interested in the Bible you are invited to hear these lectures.

THE FOOTPATH TO PEACE

To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Christ; and to spend as much time as you can, with body and spirit, in God's out-of-doors. These are 'little guide-posts on the footpath to peace.' —"Poems of Henry Van Dyke"

Cooper Loved America Even While He Scolded

Telling of the Great Burlington Born Author Who Spent All But a Few Years in the Country He Helped to Make Famous

Seventy-five ago Fenimore Cooper, America's first great novelist, died—Tuesday, September 14, was the anniversary. By a coincidence 1926 marks also the centennial of the anniversary of his most popular work, "The Last of the Mohicans."

Rightfully, says Eunice Fuller in the New York Times, New Yorkers should swell with reminiscent pride. It was in New York State that Cooper spent all but eight of his sixty-two years. New York witnessed the birth of the great novelist at the hamlet of Crounsville, near the village of Otsego—form the background for his best known novels. It was in New York City and its environs that he originated the two types of stories that gave him permanent fame—the Indian romance and the sea yarn.

Indeed, some of his wildest Indian scenes were written in Greenwich Village behind the blanketed of brownstone fronts, thus providing an authentic precedent for the modern literary reputation of that part of town. He was here, in fact, just a century ago, that he formed the first important intellectual coterie in America, and here he achieved for his country its first striking literary fame abroad.

Yet with all these associations, few even of the pilgrims that mark the anniversary of the author's death at Cooperstown (which his father founded, and where he spent his earlier and later years), will be likely to think of Cooper as distinctively a New Yorker. It is a curious fact that New York has, in respect to her literary history, a modest amounting to an inferiority complex. She has never, like New England, tagged or grouped her men of letters. She has always bowed to New England's claim of primacy in the literary reputation of America. So efficient has been New England's publicity campaign that the average American always thinks of Longfellow or Whittier, for example, as New England poets.

Yet American literary history was made in New York a quarter of a century before the famous New Englanders began to write. Washington Irving and Cooper crashed through the wall of foreign disdain and reached world reputation. Moreover, the first famous American poet, William Cullen Bryant, who is usually grouped with the New Englanders lived and wrote during most of his long life in New York City.

Quarrels With N. Y.
Cooper's later quarrels with New York may account for this city's neglect of him. But in 1816 she claimed him heartily. Many a best-selling novelist of today might envy Cooper the swift fame of his early years in Greenwich Village. In 1819 at the age of 30, he had not written a word for publication. He was even loath to write letters. Four years later his second book, "The Spy," was famous in England, France and America. When his third, "The Pioneers," was published, 3,500 copies were snapped up three hours after it was placed on New York counters. That was only the beginning. By 1826, with the publication of "The Last of the Mohicans," he was one of the foremost literary lions of the world.

This leap into fame came apparently by the mere chance of his reading a poor novel. Expelled from Yale in his junior year, he had shipped before the mast in a merchant vessel, later enlisting in the navy. Then he married, resigned from the service, and took up the life of a gentleman farmer—first at Cooperstown, later on his wife's farm near Mamaroneck. For ten years he drained swamps and cleared fields. Then one day he chanced to read "The Spy" in a newspaper. A modest success encouraged him to try again.

The next year, cutting loose from English tradition, he wrote, anonymously, the first successful American novel on an American subject. It was "The Spy," a story of our Revolution, with the scene laid in the Westchester country he knew so well. Almost immediately it was translated into French and was dramatized in America, playing to crowded houses at the old Lafayette Theatre on Broadway, near Canal.

Cooper's career was fixed. He moved to New York city to be near his publishers and plunged into the business of authorship. His first home was on Broadway, above Prince street—then almost out of town. Later he moved to Greenwich Village—to 3 Beach street, near Hudson, in the then fashionable region about old St. John's Chapel. It was a big brick house, more than usually ornate and comfortable. Cooper lived in it for two years, finally leaving it for 345 Greenwich street, just around the corner from the home of the poet Bryant.

Greenwich Village Years
It was in these Greenwich Village years, from 1822 to 1826, that Cooper first introduced the Indian and the sailor as important characters of fiction. The Indian he first developed in "The Pioneers," and "The Last of the Mohicans." At sea atmosphere in "The Pilot." At the end of a century he still occupies a unique place in the field of Indian romance; but the sea story has had such a vogue that many later men, like Conrad, have eclipsed his fame.

America when he began to quarrel with the Americans, individually and collectively. To be sure, he could scarcely have sailed with an open mind, for his friend S. F. B. Morse, had been warning him. "New York," Morse had written, "is too absorbed in commerce for you to reside here with any comfort. You will be welcomed here, but come prepared to find many, very many things in taste and manner different from your own good taste and manner. At another time Morse said: "There is an alarm of fire every half hour as usual, and the pigs have the freedom of the city as usual."

Everything Changed
It was no wonder that Cooper on his own arrival felt that everything had changed for the worse. To his general contempt for the American absorption in commerce was added a partly unconscious personal resentment. One of the chief changes that had taken place during his absence was that of the literary and dramatic novel of adventure was no longer the demerit cri. A depreciatory tone began to creep into the reviews of Cooper's novels. He resented this and started controversies, ending in libel suits against no less than eight newspapers.

Instead of being the pride of the intelligentsia, he was their active foe. All the cordial feeling that marked his earlier residence in New York was gone. To be sure, when he had landed in America some of his friends invited him to a testimonial dinner in honor of his return and because of his defense of America while abroad. If he had only accepted this overture, believes one of his biographers, some, at least, of the later alienation might have been avoided.

Finally the whole storm of Cooper's wrath against America burst in a scathing novel, "Home as Found." New York, which only nine years before had been shown as an earthly paradise, was now resort of money changers, and its liberal a knot of second-raters employed in "puffing each other into celebrity."

Tranquillity Invaded
All this he wrote from his new home on the east side, in St. Mark's Place. But as he grew older, more and more of his time was spent at his boyhood home, on the beautiful lake at Cooperstown. Even here his hoped for tranquillity was invaded by a quarrel with his fellow townsmen about part of his lake frontage. And here, in 1851, he died, still enveloped in the midst of his countrymen's hostility.

Even in our line these mists have not entirely lifted. Though their cause is almost forgotten, they have probably contributed to keep New York from flaunting a claim of Cooper. But at the time of his death, in this city which he so violently attacked, his famous contemporaries, as a meeting under the aegis of Bryant, Irving and Daniel Webster, gathered to pay him tribute. For it was recognized that it was his bold and highly colored art that had first "rendered our native soil classic ground and given to our early history the enchantment of fiction."

"PLEASE DON'T PARK"
Asbury Park Shows Acme of Politeness With Signs
Municipal authorities the State over, and perhaps, outside of the State, as well, will watch with tense interest the result of the introduction of the honor system by the government of Asbury Park in seeking to control the traffic situation.

No more annoying tagging of cars, no prowling traffic cops and inspectors keeping tabs on parked autos and summoning to police headquarters those owners guilty of overstaying the time limit.

Simply, polite signs requesting car-owners not to park cars any longer "than necessary." In the past automobilists have persisted in disregarding parking signs and posted notices limiting the length of time in one location, so the municipal officials, always ready to give anything a trial if it promises to solve a difficult traffic problem, hit upon the idea of "requesting" car owners to have a heart, to attend to whatever they had to do in the business section of the city and then get out.

Sounds reasonable, and besides, not all residents and visitors to the seaside resort are summer hotel keepers, so maybe the signs will be effective and the auto drivers down that way will show compassion for the fellows by co-operating with the unique signs which say "please" in the hope of getting results which stern orders failed to bring forth.—Exchange.

"WORLD SERIES"

R. D. Wood and Oaklyn to Stage Twin County Championship Tournament
R. D. Wood, of Florence, and Oaklyn, pennant winners this season in the Burlington County and Camden County Baseball Leagues, are expected to stage a three-game series for the championship of the two counties.

One game will be played in each town and if a third contest is necessary it probably will take place on a neutral field.
An interesting incident will be that Bill Everham, former Florence twirler, will be on the mound against the Wood team. He has been on the pitching staff of the Crisfield, Md., team, but also has twirled two games for Oaklyn, the latter part of the season, in the play-off with Haddon Heights winning both games and the championship for Oaklyn.

Lesson for October 17

MOSES HONORED IN HIS DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 34:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Seen the Promised Land. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons from the Life of Moses. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the World Owe Moses.

I. Moses Views the Promised Land From Mount Pisgah (vv. 1-4).

At the Lord's bidding Moses ascended the mountain from which he got a view of the promised land. He obeyed, though he knew that he was to die there (Deut. 32:50). He greatly desired to go into the land (Deut. 3:25), but graciously submitted to the will of the Lord. Though he was not permitted to enter the land, God gave him a view in its fullest dimensions of the land which was to be the inheritance of the people which he had delivered and led for forty years. The reason given by the Lord for refusing an entrance into the land was Moses' failure to sanctify the Lord at Meribah (Deut. 32:51, cf. Num. 20:1-13). This was too glaring a sin for the Lord to pass over, though Moses had served Him faithfully for many years.

II. The Death and Burial of Moses (vv. 5-9).

1. His death (v. 5). Though he died in the vigor of manhood, his work was done. He did not die before his time. God put him into the world for a purpose, and as soon as that work was done He called him home. Though Moses was a great man he was not exempt from death.

2. The burial of Moses (v. 6).

God buried him. Most likely this service was performed by the angels. Likely this is the time and circumstance when the devil contended with Michael, the archangel, over the body of Moses (Jude 9).

3. The time of mourning for Moses (v. 8).

They mourned for thirty days. It is not wrong to lay away earthly friends even with tears, but as Christians we should not mourn as those who have no hope. Indeed, it is much better to express our appreciation and love for our friends by showing the proper courtesy and respect while they are alive, than to mourn over them when they are dead.

III. The Successor of Moses (v. 9).

Joshua, who had been the minister of Moses during all the years of the wilderness journey, now became the military leader of the Israelites. That Joshua was a fit man as a leader of the Israelites is seen.

1. By the fact that he was full of the spirit of wisdom.

While the Lord is not dependent upon human wisdom, He does select as His representatives men whom He has endowed with the proper wisdom.

2. He was divinely ordained for the work at the hand of Moses.

This he had done at the command of God (Num. 27:18-21).

3. The people owned him as their leader.

"The children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the Lord commanded Moses."

In order for successful leadership a ruler must have the individual affection and allegiance of the people.

IV. Eulogium Upon Moses (vv. 10-12).

In this eulogy Moses is given a place at the head of the Old Testament prophets. With the exception of the Greater Prophet (Deut. 18:15-18), of whom Moses was a type, he stands as the greatest prophet of Israel.

1. He was great because of his intimacy with God (v. 10), "whom the Lord knew face to face."

2. He was great in that he gave to the world a code of laws unequalled in the world's history.

3. He was great as a general in that he liberated the Israelitish nation from the oppression of the greatest nation of the earth.

4. He was great because he led two or three million Israelites through the desert for forty years.

5. He was great because he gave to us in the book of Deuteronomy three orations which, according to the judgment of competent critics, stand at the head of the world's literature.

Faith

What a wonderful ship is faith. She discovers worlds beyond anything found by Columbus. What a freight she carries. Riches beyond the treasures of Solomon's ships of gold. To what a glorious realm she transports.—W. L. Watkinson.

Looking into the Future

When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each one of us to do, we realize after all what a beautiful thing it is to work, and to live to be happy.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Shining and Singing

You may sing "O for the wings of a dove!" but it is better to shine in the ways of God. Shining is the best kind of singing, and makes the singer shine to purpose.—Prophetic News.

Taking Out Ink Spots

In order to remove ink spots from a walnut table put a few drops of spirits of niter (nitric acid) in a teaspoonful of water, touch the spot with a feather dipped in the mixture, and as soon as the ink disappears rub immediately with a rag wet in cold water or it will leave a white mark. The spots should then be polished.

"The women who are worth anything at all in this world are the ones who are the most troublesome to manage."—From "Race," by William McFee.

Civil War Foes Meet Once More

In the Battle of the Wilderness in the Civil war, Henry Hoyt of Massachusetts (left) was shot down and captured by a detachment under command of Augustine Royal of Virginia, of the Confederate army (right). After a lapse of more than half a century, the two met again when they attended the convention of the Atlantic Deep Waterways association in Richmond, Va., a few days ago. Mr. Hoyt is a retired rector of the Episcopal church in Philadelphia.

CHEVROLET BREAKS PRODUCTION RECORDS

81,158 Passenger Cars Built During the Month of September

The Chevrolet Motor Company, largest manufacturer of three-speed cars, shattered two of its marks during September when it established a new monthly record of 81,158 passenger cars and trucks and attained a production total of 593,281 units for the first nine months of 1926, eclipsing the half-million production of the entire 12 months of 1925, Chevrolet's greatest year.

Neither of these figures ever has been approached by any builder of cars with three-speed selective transmissions.

The September production averaged 3,381 units daily for the 24 working days of the month. This also is a new record. The 81,158 total for September followed several recent months of record-breaking production. April, May and June with respective productions of 71,157, 74,617, and 77,241 each established successive production records. July production was restricted somewhat to permit the tooling and other changes necessary to effect several further improvements in the Chevrolet models. August production then snapped up to 76,551 units, only 690 fewer cars than were built in June which stood as Chevrolet's high record until outdistanced by September.

Chevrolet's entire 1925 production was 519,060. This is 74,221 units less than the 1926 production to the end of September. The 1926 total was passed during the second week of September.

Chevrolet's remarkable progress may be shown by the fact that the company has produced so far during 1926 a number of units approximately equal to the entire Chevrolet production from 1912 to 1920 inclusive, the first nine years during which Chevrolets were manufactured.

"These records are primarily the result of public confidence," said W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor company. "We are all grateful for this confidence and will continue our efforts to merit the high endorsement which the public has conferred upon the Chevrolet car."

Steam navigation was begun on Lake Erie in 1817.

LOOKS AT CAR AS FINAL STEP

Buyer Pays More Attention to the Operating Expense of Auto Than to First Cost

"The present-day car shopper starts in by looking up the things which the automobile buyer of former years never thought of until long after he had bought his car," says Frederick E. Rein of the Rein Motor Company.

"Today you've got to show the 'educated' shopper that you are disposed, and able, to assume full responsibility for his permanent satisfaction. You must convince him that you are prepared to render up-to-date service at a clean-cut rate, and that you are established in a way that contemplates a long life of business."

"The car buyer today wants to know that somebody in the community is permanently interested in his car and its performance, and is equipped to provide everything that it will ever need. "He is even more interested in these, which are the essentials of low cost operation than he is in the detailed specifications of the car."

SALE OF P. S. STOCK MEETING SUCCESS

8,837 Shares of Stock Sold During The First Three Days of Sale

The third popular ownership campaign of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey to sell its six per cent. cumulative preferred stock is more than keeping pace with the two previous offers of the same stock.

In the first three days of the present campaign, which started October 1, 8,837 shares were sold. For the corresponding period in the first offer of this stock 4,656 shares were sold and in the second offer 5,278 shares. The goal in the present campaign is 50,000 shares.

Since the popular ownership plan was started in 1921, the number of stockholders of the corporation's preferred stock has increased from 2,100 to 52,000. There have been two issues of eight per cent. preferred, four of seven per cent. and two of six per cent.

The Greeks were very fond of radishes.

Recalls Desperado of 25 Years Ago

One of Murderers of Riverside Man Made Desperate Effort To Escape

Recently an account came from Butte, Mont., of a prisoner, sentenced to die on the gallows, who armed himself with a three-foot length of lead pipe and an improvised knife and, when the jailers came to conduct him to the gallows, made a desperate attack upon the officers, delaying the execution for a considerable time. Finally the condemned murderer was overcome with tear bombs and carried to the gallows, where he paid the extreme penalty, demanded by the law.

This recalls a similar scene which took place in the Mount Holly jail 25 years ago. Charles R. Fenton, now deceased, was Sheriff then. It was before condemned murderers were sent to the State Prison at Trenton for execution and antedated the days when the electric chair supplanted the hangman's noose.

A gang of desperadoes from New York who had visited the isolated home of Washington Hunter, at Riverside, to rob him at night, had so badly injured the old man when he resisted their attempts to make him tell where he kept his supposed wealth that he died from loss of blood immediately thereafter.

Make Good Escape

The murderers made good their escape without anyone seeing them and after weeks of futile effort to obtain clues as to their identity it was generally supposed that the crime would join others that had remained unavenged by the law.

County Detective Parker, then a young man, young in years and young in experience, kept on working upon the case and finally got hold of a clue through a hat left behind by one of the gang, which led to the arrest of three of the four men implicated.

A sensational trial followed indictment of the men who had been rounded up and brought to Mount Holly jail. Two of them faced juries. Otto Keller, the youngest of the party, a mere boy in years, turned State's evidence and got off.

with a sentence of ten years in State Prison. The other two, were convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to be hanged.

Charles Brown was sentenced to die on Tuesday, December 3, 1901. Preparations for the execution were made. The death watch, kept on the prisoner, who was surly and regarded as a dangerous man, was instructed to keep a vigilant watch over the prisoner as he could be depended upon to take advantage of the slightest opportunity to make a break for liberty.

Gruesome Spectacle The usual jury, officially representing the State at the execution, was formed and others, including newspapermen, invited to view the gruesome spectacle when Brown should be led to the gallows to answer with his life for the killing of Washington Hunter.

But Brown was not going to die without a last fierce struggle to escape the mandate of the law. At eight o'clock his spiritual advisor, the Rev. R. J. C. Diehlinger, arrived and spent an hour with the murderer. Then Brown requested the clergyman to withdraw, saying he wished to have a little time alone before going to the scaffold.

Readily complying, the minister started to go out of the cell through the unlocked door, outside of which stood Constable Jess Woodruff, a blacksmith. Brown, seeing his chance instantly darted through the opened door, brushing the clergyman aside and howling over the high constable.

Cry of Warning

Other guards hearing the commotion set up a cry of warning as Brown, carrying a piece of lead pipe which he had wrenched off the plumbing fixtures in his cell and concealed under his coat, rushed down the corridor toward the door leading to the Sheriff's office. Arriving there he flung open the unlocked door and was taken aback to find the office filled with men, most of them jurors and others who had been summoned to the execution. After an instant's hesitation he turned and darted back down the corridor, down the steps to the basement where he grabbed up an axe in his flight and continued on out through an open door into the jail yard, which at now, was surrounded by a high stone wall.

The officers, with drawn guns, cornered Brown in the jail yard and there he stood like an animal at bay, threatening to brain anyone who dared come within reach of his weapons. The officers argued with him, but could not get near the crazed man. Finally, through threats to shoot they succeeded in closing in on him and leading him back to his cell. Soon afterward he was taken under heavy guard to the waiting scaffold in the jail yard and hanged, defiant to the end.

FRIGIDAIRE provides greater food space than other electric refrigerators of equal size. This is because the highly efficient and economical frost coil, an exclusive Frigidaire feature, occupies less space than the brine tank previously used, permitting greater food storage capacity in a cabinet of any given size. Larger supplies of perishable foods can be carried at one time.

Greater food capacity, quieter operation, freedom from vibration, lower operating cost, a wider range of models, the more precise engineering and manufacturing methods of General Motors, greater beauty of design, proven dependability in service—these are the things that have made Frigidaire the choice of the overwhelming majority of users of electric refrigerators.

600 Teachers at Institute Friday

W. A. O'Leary and Dr. Abbott Deliver Interesting and Educational Addresses

Assistant Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, W. A. O'Leary, used as his subject, "Vocational Training" for his address to the Burlington County Teachers Institute held at Riverside last Friday.

Dr. M. A. Abbott, Head Master of the Lawrenceville boys' school, was another notable speaker on the program. Dr. Abbott spoke about "The Teacher."

He told the assembled educators what their duty was towards the coming generation, how the children should be fitted morally as well as mentally for the duties of life.

Following this part of the program the teachers were divided into departments, according to the grades they taught. Each department was put in a room in the school. An instructor was appointed to each department. The instructors gave short talks and then answered questions of the teachers in the discussion period which followed.

The instructor of the first and second grade teachers was Mrs. Hausman, of the State Normal School. The other instructors were: Mrs. Chappel, of the State Normal School, grade 3; Miss Richmond, helping teacher in Camden County, fourth grade; Miss Haver, helping teacher of Hunterdon County, grade five and six.

A great number of the teachers, as they were leaving the Washington Street School, voiced the opinion that the institute was the most successful that they had ever attended and the Riverside organization received a great amount of praise for the manner in which every detail that would add to the comfort of the visitors was taken care of.

The body was taken to the Riverside Hospital in a passing truck, and later released by Coroner Sartorius to Funeral Director Frank Snover.

STATE TROOPER TO CHECK SPEEDERS

Following Fatal Accident Near Riverside State Police Detailed to River Road Through the efforts of Riverton Borough authorities State Trooper Hammond has been detailed for service along the River Road in an effort to break up speeding and reckless driving between Palmyra and Riverside.

The stretch of open road between Riverton and Riverside is a great temptation to motorists to "step on it" and they do not always temper their speed with judgment. Several times within the past few months cars have crowded the road into trolley tracks by cutting out. It was only this morning that a car was twice obliged to come almost to a stop to avoid being run into by cars cutting out of line.

The Mayor and Council and the police department are to be congratulated on their successful effort to secure State Trooper protection, and it is hoped that with him at the trooper will check up on some local offenders who have seemed to get by the town officers.

THROUGH RAILING

Auto Turns Turtle in Field at Buck's Bridge An automobile crashed through the railing along the river road near Buck's bridge last Sunday night about nine o'clock and turned over three times, landing upside down in the field below.

Chief of Police William Voshel was called to the scene and, inquiring about the occupants of the car, was told by a bystander that the man who was driving was taken to the hospital. Chief Voshel made inquiries at the surrounding hospitals but could not find any trace of the missing driver.

Of course, it is impossible for the two regular officers to cover the town in addition to doing traffic duty at the booth, but the State patrolman, being a free lance, will have a better opportunity.

RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT

James Schwartz, 163 Linwood avenue and William Rutkoski, 804 Stewart avenue, Trenton, were picked up in Burlington by Werner Horton, Jr., driver of one of Lit Brothers' trucks on Wednesday and turned over to Officer Walter G. Miller at Riverton. The lads are 13 years of age and refused to give any reason why they ran away from home. They were called for by their fathers Wednesday night and their adventure came to the usual ending.

MAY CLOSE THOMAS AVENUE CROSSING

According to a reported interview with Director of Public Safety William A. proposition will be submitted to the Riverton Borough Council at its meeting tonight to close the railroad crossing at Thomas avenue in exchange for moving the freight station to East Riverton and making some desired alterations at the Riverton station. It is the opinion of the Council that the citizens of Riverton are interested in either side of this question they should appear before the Borough Council tonight and express their opinions.

Nash Company Declares Dividends

The Nash Motors Company, at a meeting of the directors held Tuesday, October 5, declared the regular dividend of $5.50 per share quarterly and also declared an extra dividend of $5.50 per share, both dividends payable November 1, 1926 to stockholders of record at the close of business October 30, 1926.

Although earnings for the third quarter of this year were somewhat below those of the second quarter, President Nash pointed out that they were quite satisfactory in view of the fact that despite the unusual demand it had been necessary to arbitrarily curtail production during June and July in order to bring new models into manufacture.

In commenting upon the condition of the Company and the business outlook, President Nash said: "The splendid business we have been enjoying was greatly stimulated by the introduction of the new models and the demand throughout the country is exceeding our expectations. The product is meeting with exceptional popularity and through our September production was the greatest ever achieved for that month were forced to carry over 3200 unfilled orders. The Company has entered October with more orders on its books than it can fill although October production will surpass the best previous October."

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS IN SPRING

The growing of bulbs for winter and spring blooming has become an extremely popular feature, because it is invariably successful, inexpensive to attempt, affords an unusual pleasure, provides your own flowers in winter and spring, and is an education and pastime for both young and old.

The growing of bulbs has many advantages over that of any other class of flowering plants, in that many of them produce their flowers early in the spring, at a season when few other plants are in bloom.

At this season, in a sheltered sunny spot, we have the Snowdrops, Scillas and also the Crocus with its mass of color, while the snow is still found in shaded places; these are followed by Hyacinths with their delightful fragrance, soon after which we have the Narcissus or Daffodil and the showy Tulip.

Any of our readers can secure free of charge, an instructive 72 page Catalog from Mitchell's Seed House, 518-516 Market Street, Philadelphia, which enumerates a complete list of bulbs with much information on their culture. Write today for a copy—it is free.

RIVERTON BATTLES REXALL TO SCORELESS TIE SATURDAY

Poor Headwork Prevents Home Team From Scoring; Locals Outweigh Rexall

VISITORS HOLD LOCALS ON ONE YARD LINE

Riverdale's Rexall A. A. held Sonny Wright's grid machine to a 0-0 tie last Saturday afternoon in a game played on the Memorial field.

Three times the local machine marched down the hundred yard lot only to be stopped by the stubborn defense which the Riverdale boys put up when in the shadow of their goal posts. The most interesting point of the game came when the visitors held Riverton for downs on its one yard line. This was the local's most favorable chance to score, but owing to some poor headwork the Riverton eleven could not push the planks across the last white line.

Riverton Missed Obergfell.

"Big Bertha" Obergfell was sadly missed in the Riverton lineup but as Hill coaches the Rexalls he could not very well play with fairness to both contesting teams.

The game was interesting and well played according to the comment of spectators. When it came to ground gaining the Riverton team had a slight edge on the visitors because the visitors were out-weighted nearly fifteen pounds to a man, but they made up this deficiency in the amount of grit they showed in tackling such an enormous proposition as Dick "Goliath" Hollingshead when he came thundering through the line.

Jack Graff also starred for Riverton, receiving forward passes and doing excellent defensive work.

Twice the Rexall boys were near the home team's goal but both times it was "breaks" which placed the ball in that position near the last white line. Once the ball was put there by a fumble and the second time the Riverdale boys broke through to block one of Riverton's punts, but both times the locals held the line and then punted out of danger.

Vogelman Worried Riverton Back.

Rexall's fullback seemed to have gotten onto the Riverton signals because every time the ball was put in motion Vogelman was right in the play. He was so determined to stop the Riverton machine that time after time he rushed into the line and helped hold the Riverton backs from gaining ground. Vogelman pounded the line so much that he got groggy from mauling "Goliath" Hollingshead and had to be removed from the fray.

Ed Coyle fooled the Riverton tacklers when on a kickoff he started up the left side of the field and then cut over to the right so quickly that the locals had no time to think how cleverly the youngster had "foxed" them.

"Faking the game as a whole it was very well played except when Riverton was within scoring distance and started arguing among themselves and losing the opportunity to score," was the comment of one of the team's followers.

The lineup:

P. R. R. Would Close Crossing

Railroad Officials Will Lay Plans Before Riverton Borough Council Nov. 11

Taking immediate action on the suggestion of the mayor made at the last meeting of the Riverton Borough Council, that officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company be invited to meet with council to further discuss the subject of closing the Thomas avenue crossing and the improvements which the company is willing to make in exchange for this concession, Director of Public Safety Williams has arranged to have Division Engineer J. M. Kinkaid present at the next regular meeting of council, on November 11, to explain in detail the whole plan which contemplates closing the freight station, cutting back the station platform and roof on the north side, allowing about eight feet more for traffic at this point on Broad street, where it is badly needed, putting the roadway on the south side of Broad street from Thomas avenue to Main street in good condition for traffic, and placing suitable protection at the Elm avenue crossing.

Director Williams says that since the subject was broached at the Borough Council last week, many citizens have spoken to him about the subject, some favoring and some condemning it. The director himself is very enthusiastic over the whole plan which he believes will secure for Riverton tremendously important improvements at no cost to the borough, and at the same time close a crossing which has been a veritable death trap for many years.

Palmyra Objects to Big Bill Boards

Erection of Huge Sign at Broad and Market, Palmyra, Criticized

The erection of a large bill board on the vacant lot at the corner of Market and Broad streets drew the fire of Palmyra Borough Council at its meeting Tuesday evening.

The sign is being built on the lot formerly occupied by the old car factory, which was finally torn down after being an eyesore for many years. The lot is said to be owned now by W. R. S. Flux.

Solicitor Joseph S. Low was instructed to draw up an ordinance fixing a height as feasible on such signs to restrict their erection in the future.

Members of the Board of Health, including Dr. H. W. Bauer, Charles K. Mervine and John Kenschaw were on hand to make a plea for the erection by Palmyra of the Child Hygiene Bureau. This nurse, who has been here on trial, devotes her time to children of the pre-school age, pointing out weaknesses that should be corrected before becoming serious and giving valuable advice to mothers.

Mr. Mervine said an ounce of prevention was worth several pounds of cure and that many thousands of dollars of doctor bills could be saved the public, as well as making future generations stronger and better citizens.

The salary of the nurse is $1600, half of which is to be paid by the borough and half by the school board.

Mayor Weart announced that the matter would be taken into consideration when the 1927 budget was taken up.

Councilman Randel called attention to the fact that a good deal of the gas tank at the borough's tank at police headquarters seemed unaccounted for and asked a different system of dispensing the fuel so that better records could be kept. This gas is used by the police car, the road tractors and trucks and the fire trucks and ambulances. Bills are supposed to be signed each time gas is taken, but it seems there has been a slip up some where.

Mayor Weart put the matter up to the finance committee to work out.

An assessment commission will be appointed to assess the sidewalks and curbs in Riverview Extension.

Twelve building permits, covering three new houses and a number of other jobs, totalling $24,125 were issued during the past month.

If you want something out of the ordinary in printing we shall be very glad to go over the matter with you. We may have some suggestions that will help. Telephone The New Era office, Riverton 712, and our representative will call.

OFFICER QUIGLEY HURT AT BALL GAME

Knocked Down While Forcing Line Off Field—In Bed With Bad Knee

While on duty at the football game last Saturday officer William Quigley was injured when three players bumped into him.

In the last period of the game some argument arose and the spectators crowded onto the field. Quigley was getting the crowd back of the ropes when the accident occurred. The ball had been downed on the side of the field near the Officer and another player ran off too quickly to give Quigley time to get out of danger.

Stewart Hollingshead was rounding right end and was tackled by two of the Rexall men, all three players hitting Quigley and knocking him down. Bystanders helped the injured officer to his feet. He did not feel any discomfort then, but a few hours later he went off duty because the pain was so great that the Officer called a doctor. Bill is confined to his bed, but is looking forward to getting around again in a few days. Some time ago he injured his same leg and was out of duty for thirty-four days. Bill took a visitor Wednesday morning that the leg was feeling much better and that he was anxious to get back on the job again.

Director of Public Safety Williams took Quigley's place in the traffic booth Sunday, and says that from personal experience he believes the officers can't ever get they get.

Russell Hylton is taking Quigley's place until the injury is healed.

MANY ENTRIES FOR K. OF C. TOURNAMENT

Interesting Tills Mark Initial Contests—Burns Wins First Game of Pool

The regular business of last Tuesday's meeting did not take up much of the Knight's time, as everybody was on edge for the opening contests of the many tournaments.

Lecturer Francis J. Barr, who is the man responsible for the Council's entertainment, certainly struck the right key when he formulated the program for these tournaments as the largest turn-out of the year was on hand. Even Theo Schneider had time to stay and snoot over a few on the boards.

The battle for the pool honor started between Harry Burns and Joe Schuler, Jr., and several times even the shuffle board sharks stopped their game to watch Harry cut one in on Joe or make a difficult bank shot. After a hard battle Harry won the first game, 50-48.

Yearly are going to have a hard time keeping it the front.

In quota the first real upset came when Jimmy Goodwin neared Eddie Burns for the No. 1 position by the score of 39-37.

Pool—Harry Burns 50, Joe Schuler 48, Lawrence Schuler 25.

Shuffle boards—J. Stroehlein 58, J. F. Yearly 54, J. Goodwin 49, H. Bradshaw 47.

Quota—J. Goodwin 39, E. Burns 36, L. Schuler 33.

The opening games on the new baseball field was postponed until Thursday night because the "grounds" were not in shape.

Beginning early next week the Pinchoke games are scheduled to get under way.

STRIKES SIGNAL

Haddon Heights Woman Backs Car Into Palmyra Sign

The car driven by Mrs. Huguetta E. Algayer, 251 Seventh avenue, Haddon Heights, struck the traffic signal at Broad and Cinnaminson avenue, Palmyra, Tuesday morning at 10.30. Mrs. Algayer was going south on Broad street and had turned to the right. She inquired the way to Camden on an electric sign working on the new Warner building.

When she was told she was going in the wrong direction, she backed up, striking the signal and moving it two feet. The back bumper saved the car from being damaged.

She was taken before Justice of the Peace Fichter by Officer Lawrence Betty. Here she was fined $5.00 which will go to the Borough to pay for repairing the damaged traffic signal.

THE NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Lions Hear Talk On Architecture

Hettle Gives Interesting Address on Ideals of Modern Construction

The Palmyra Lions Club heard a splendid talk on architecture by Lion Hettle, last year's president of the Camden Club, at its meeting Tuesday evening.

After tracing the development of architecture from its beginning in the cave dwelling era, down through the Greek, Roman and Middle Age periods, Mr. Hettle said the greatest triumph of modern American Architecture was the skyscraper.

Art Architecture has always expressed the highest ideals of a people, declared the speaker, and has illustrated the progress made in religion, politics and business.

The skyscraper of today is especially significant in American life and typifies the vast and ever-increasing scope of the industry and business which has seized the American mind.

Next Tuesday evening Coach Diamond, of Palmyra High School, will deliver an interesting talk on modern athletics.

There was a goodly number of Lions present, with much singing of a kind, and after the meeting impressario Frank Kates assembled his jazz band together and heretofore from the way the iron, teaching it a little harmony. Things were going along quite uproariously until the lights went out and the Lions had to go home.

Lay Cornerstone Next Sunday

New Building For Calvary Presbyterian Church Progressing Rapidly

Laying of the corner stone of the new building of Calvary Presbyterian Church, Riverton, is to take place as part of the morning service on Sunday, October 24th at 11 o'clock. As a large gathering is expected special preparations are being made for seating the congregation in the church auditorium, and also providing room for the actual corner stone laying which is to be held at the close of the morning meeting. Owing to the possibility of inclement weather, the entire service will be held in the building except the dedication of the stone which will take place on the outside at the new tower entrance.

Miss Mary Brooks Elwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Elwell, will lay the mortar on the stone after the corner box containing all the church records has been inserted. This little girl will represent the children of the church and will signify the next generation in consideration of whom the new church building has been planned.

The new building is the outcome of the rapid growth of the church organization during the last 18 months and is attributed to the active work of their present pastor, the Rev. Charles T. Bates.

The first congregational meeting held in March, 1925, the congregation appointed a committee to investigate what could be done to improve the Sunday School building at a cost not to exceed $5,000. After a number of months this committee reported back with rough plans which were decided to be inadequate to meet the growing needs.

G. T. Dold was then made chairman of a new committee and after months of diligent study on church buildings, etc., presented plans for a complete new Sunday School unit and for the alteration and renovation of the present church auditorium. When completed the entire building will appear as a new structure throughout, at an estimated cost of $75,000, which has been completely subscribed by the members.

The edifice which is being erected by George W. Shaner & Sons is to be modern in every particular and will have the newest features for religious, educational and recreational purposes. The entire building is to be erected and faced with Fox-croft stone which comes from a quarry near Chestnut Hill, Pennsylvania.

George E. Savage, the architect, is one of the foremost in the profession and has planned many of the newer church buildings in this part of the country.

Passes Resolution Nullifying Borough Ordinance; Welsh Doubts Authority

EDICT REFERRED TO SOLICITOR FOR OPINION

Two subjects of far-reaching importance were discussed by the Riverton Borough Council last Thursday night.

One was, has the Shade Tree Commission the authority to veto an ordinance passed by the borough council? This was referred to the borough solicitor.

The other was, who is responsible for the cost of changing the location of a fire hydrant when it stands in the way of the installation of a driveway leading to private property? The decision reached in this case was that it was up to the property owner.

The question of the authority of the Shade Tree Commission to decrease that sidewalks need not be laid where called for by a borough ordinance came up when the clerk read the following resolution passed by the commission and asking the Dreer property on Fulton street. The resolution was dated October 13 and read as follows:

RESOLVED, That the Shade Tree Commission has given further consideration to the ordinance regarding the laying of a pavement and curb on the north side of Fulton street, and has come to the conclusion that so many trees would be either destroyed or injured that we are unable to give our consent to this work.

Arthur S. Lewis
Secretary.

Councilman Welsh questioned the authority of a commission appointed by the borough council to nullify ordinances passed by the council and made the appointment. He said in his opinion it was most unfair to make others put down pavements and curbs and let people like the Dreers off. Mayor Hemphill replied that the Shade Tree Commission was a law unto itself under the State statute which created it.

His Honor said, however, that the members of council were in doubt as to the authority of the Shade Tree Commission in this matter. It could be taken up with the borough solicitor, whereupon Councilman Lynch offered a motion which was unanimously passed that the resolution of the Shade Tree Commission be received and referred to the solicitor to ascertain what power the Commission had over the governing body of the borough.

Mayor Hemphill said he thought it carried over to the next meeting question the authority of the Shade Tree Commission in this matter, and hoped the members of that body would not get the impression that they were being criticized for their action in this matter. He said differently, however, and said that the commission should not attempt to override an ordinance passed by the borough council, and that its members could not properly take offense if council say "No" to their plans just where the authority rests in this case.

Councilman Lynch said that he had served on the Shade Tree Commission for a number of years and he believed it had the authority to take the action outlined in the resolution that had been submitted to council. He further said, however, that when sidewalks and curbs were being laid along the Collins property on Lippincott avenue, the Shade Tree Commission had permitted the removal of a number of trees where it would have been necessary to change the lines of pavements and curbs had they remained where they were.

Councilman Fleg suggested that the Dreer's difficulty might be overcome by running the curbs up to the trees and stopping there, and then continuing on the other side of the trees, so as not to cut away any of the roots.

Whether or not the curbs and pavements will be laid along the Dreer property, however, will be determined by the decision of the borough solicitor as to the Shade Tree Commission's power to prevent a borough ordinance from being carried into effect along this property.

This is the first time a Shade Tree Commission in Riverton has rendered an opinion in the enforcement of an ordinance for public improvements. Such action is forehanded, however, by a letter from the Shade Tree Commission read at the meeting of the Borough Council held on September 27, in which it was stated: "We find that several of the trees will certainly be killed by the obvious necessity of bringing the sidewalks down to grade, while the others will be severely hurt by the cutting of the feeders." This opinion was confirmed by the representative of the Davey Tree Expert Company.

At the same meeting at which the above opinion was announced, it was stated that council could go ahead and pass the ordinance and the Shade Tree Commission could, at its option, direct that certain pavements should not be laid.

Borough Disclaims Responsibility

The question of who should pay for changing the location of fire plugs came up when Councilman Lynch presented the case of Eugene Carly, on Thomas avenue, where it had been necessary to move a fire hydrant a few feet in order to permit him to construct a runway for a garage. The Water Company had made a charge of $25.00 for doing the work, and Mr. Carly (Continued on Page 5)

Field Club Wins Over "Merchants"

Peditto and Reagle Both Score Touchdowns in Fast Game

The Palmyra Field Club downed Merchantville Saturday with the score of 13-0. Palmyra had a slight advantage in weight but the "Merchants" had a fast club that made up for this handicap. The losers were by no means easy, but were dangerous at all times. The local boys played good ball throughout the game and are improving each week.

Reagle and Peditto did the scoring for the winners. Reagle plunged through the line for his touchdown. A trick play, well executed, in which the line shifts and the guard is eligible to catch a pass, was responsible for the other touchdown. Peditto, left guard, snatched a 30 yard pass and ran 10 yards. This play was cleverly worked and completely fooled the opposition. A pass, Reagle to F. King, added the extra point.

Besides Reagle and Peditto, who did all the scoring, Diamond, Westcott and Kersey played good ball for the Field Club.

Palmyra's line-up:

F. King, left end; Diamond, left tackle; Peditto, left guard; H. King, center; Felon, right guard; Oliver, right tackle; Westcott, right end; Williams, quarterback; Swain, left halfback; Kersey, right halfback; Reagle, fullback.

This Saturday Palmyra will play Riverton at Riverton. Riverton and Palmyra have always been the keenest of rivals and a great game is expected.

MECHANIC HURT

Palmyra Man Suffers Concussion of Brain at Garage

Edward Bridgett, mechanic employed at Marshall's Garage, Broad and Delaware avenues, Palmyra, cut a deep gash over his eye and temple Monday afternoon while under a car tightening a nut.

A large wrench slipped and struck Bridgett's forehead, blowing over the eye. He was rushed to Dr. Mary's and had his head bandaged. He went home for dinner at noon and returned to work in the afternoon.

When he went to go out, the double doors at the side of the garage, only one side was open. He bumped into the closed door. Employees at the garage noticed that Bridgett seemed dizzy and out of his head. He was taken to the West Jersey Hospital in the ambulance. Here it was found he had concussion of the brain.

Mayor Objects to Criticism

Cooperation Essential To Solve Modern Transportation Problem

Municipal Authorities, Companies and Public Must All Work Together, Electric Railway Convention Learns

Thomas N. McCarter, President of Public Service Railway Company, has issued the following statement: "The convention of the American Electric Railway Association, just held at Cleveland, was the largest meeting of local transportation men that has ever been held. More than 3,000 delegates were in attendance, and the exhibit of street cars, motor bus and other equipment was extensive. Not only were the leading electric railway executives of the country in attendance but a very large number of the large cities of the country were represented by one or more of their municipal officers.

"From the deliberations of the Association and from the interchange of experience between railway men and governmental officers certain aspects of the local transportation situation stand out prominently as of the highest moment not only to the companies but to the municipalities and especially to the great car and bus using public.

Cooperation Necessary
"It was uniformly recognized that cooperation between public, municipal officers and the companies is necessary to comprehensive and adequate service. In those cities where such cooperation exists, service is satisfactory; in those cities where it does not exist transportation affairs are in chaos. The days when the quality and extent of service depended upon the company alone have passed. The great increase in street traffic and consequent highway congestion which have added immensely to the cost of operating both cars and buses have made the efficiency of operation dependent upon the manner in which traffic is regulated.

"The key note of the convention was the distinct recognition of the fact that coordination of all forms of local transportation under unified management, with, of course, proper supervision, was the beginning and the end of successful modern operation and that wasteful and irresponsible competition is not only disastrous to the company, charged with the main responsibility of operation, but equally so to the public because of the economic waste involved therein. A most scholarly and learned discussion of the whole subject was contributed to the convention in a paper written by the Right Honorable Lord Ashfield, Managing Director of the local transportation system of Greater London.

Cleveland as an Example
"To a greater and greater extent this truth is being recognized and cooperation and coordination are resulting in better service. Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, to name but a few of the many communities where the parties at interest are working together, are profiting through the application of the principle. The service of Cleveland, both car and bus, where this principle has been thoroughly applied, was a joy to look at. Given proper coordination of service, made possible by the cooperation of the public authorities, with a fare that will pay the cost of the service, there is no reason why the municipalities of New Jersey should not have just as good service as Cleveland enjoys.

"Information and data made available at Cleveland demonstrate that all over the United States there is public acknowledgement and acceptance of the economic principle that revenues of local transportation companies must be sufficient to pay the full cost of the service they provide.

"The average street car fare in American cities, New York City excluded because in New York a large share of the cost is paid by the city and levied against the taxpayer, is approximately seven and three quarters cents; the almost universal bus fare is ten cents; in a growing number of cities the street car fare is ten cents and, most significantly, Cleveland has long prided itself upon being a low fare city, has amended the franchise of the Cleveland Railway Company to permit if necessary a ten cent fare. The fare in the immediate future is to be seven cents.

Team Work Evident
"In this community more than any other it is evident that cooperation between public, public authorities and the company is necessary. Only by team work can the kind and extent of service which the public demands be provided and the fare kept down.

"It devolves upon the public authorities and not upon the companies to regulate traffic in the interests of the millions of car and bus riders, so as to permit their quick passage through the streets; it rests with the public authorities whether or not competition that adds nothing to the essential service but results in waste that saddles unnecessary cost upon the riders, shall be eliminated; it is up to the public authorities whether or not the users of the street cars shall continue to bear unequal tax impositions and burdens such as paving costs that increase the cost of transportation service to them; it requires the assistance of the public authorities to coordinate street car and bus service that each may perform the service for which it is best fitted and so add to the comfort and convenience of the public and at the same time cut out unnecessary expense.

"Public Service seeks the cooperation of the public and of the public authorities to achieve these objects and provide the best possible service for those who use its cars and buses. It has not hesitated to carry out its duty. It has assumed losses that run into the millions and it has under circumstances that would have discouraged other investors, put millions of new capital into the business in order to provide adequate and comprehensive service. But Public Service cannot do the impossible; it cannot provide transportation at less than cost, nor can it give proper coordinated service without full cooperation on the part of the authorities."

TIRE BLOWS UP—MAN IS INJURED

Here is another freak accident. A man blowing up a tire is painfully injured. And Frank Murphy, of West Third street, Moorestown, is willing to testify that it is painful although "freakish" to be injured while inflating a tire.

Last Thursday evening, a tire into which he was injecting some air proved defective and blew out or "up," as you will have it. The rim flew, and Mr. Murphy suffered a cut along his lip which required three stitches.

The accident occurred at Jim O'Donnell's service station on East Main street.

NEW BRIDGE

Camden County to Share Cost of Haddon Heights Bridge

Camden County will bear one-fourth the cost of construction of the new King's highway bridge over the tracks of the Atlantic City Railroad Company and the Public Service Railroad Company, at Haddon Heights. The Atlantic City Railroad Company will pay one-half of the cost and a one-eighth share each will be borne by the boroughs of Haddon Heights and Audubon.

The Camden County Board of Freeholders yesterday authorized a contract on this basis. Refusal of the Public Service to bear any part of the cost had delayed the project for over a year and it is intimated by county officials that the company will be used for a proportionate share. The new bridge will be of steel and concrete and the road will be widened and graded to eliminate existing hazards.

FRED ECKERT, Sr.

While engaged in unloading tomatoes recently, Fred Eckert, Sr., a well-known farmer residing near Hainesport, was accidentally knocked from his truck and received injuries which resulted in his death on Tuesday of last week.

The deceased was sixty-three years of age and had been a successful farmer for a number of years. He was a member of the township committee of Hainesport township and took a prominent part in the affairs of his community.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon from his late residence on the Hainesport-Mt. Laurel road, with interment in the Lutheran cemetery.

Gives 52 Ways To "Get" Speed Cops

This Writer Has Some Very Unusual Ideas on Subject

1. Upon seeing a cop behind you, draw up at the side of the road, and sitting on the step, peruse a half finished crossword puzzle. You will both stay there for some time.

2. When cop is close behind you, suddenly throw in reverse. When you have fished the top out of your gas tank, he will be only too glad to accept your spare tire as a souvenir.

3. Leave a fake bottle of Johnnie Walker on the road. But be sure to be out of the state before he discovers it is only rain water.

4. Never drive over eight miles per hour. This always gives un-failing results, and should be tried when other methods fail.

5. Mix a little mustard gas with your exhaust. Ten gallons per hour is sufficient for roads not to be infested.

6. Construct your auto so that its back is a duplicate of the front. Then when you sight a cop, jump on the back seat and drive to meet him. This never fails to work.

7. Wear heavy shoes so that you can step on the gas harder, thus escaping by dint of superior speed.

8. Camouflage your car so that it looks like a bootlegger's and you will not be disturbed.

9. Paint your buggy red, put a bell in front, and carry some hose (no, not silk) behind. This works well in the great open spaces where men are men, and cops are Klansmen.

10. Empty bags of tacks behind you. One pound for each 300 yards is suggested.

BUYS FACTORY

Mount Holly Textile Company Growth Requires More Floor Space

The Mount Holly Textile Company has arranged to purchase that portion of the former Archer carriage factory on Washington street which it has occupied for several years, from William G. McIlvain, the present owner.

The company also plans to erect another building to meet its increased demand for room. The deal includes the land between the building and to the east as far as the railroad right of way.

The other building on the property, occupied by Mr. McIlvain in his china and cut-glass importing business, as well as the land occupied by the Sinclair Oil Company, will be retained by the present owner.

Mr. McIlvain also intends to put up another building, to give him needed additional room and facilities in his business.

May Change Date of Autumn Court

Judge Lloyd Considers Request To Open Hearings in September

County Clerk Reeves called Judge Lloyd's attention last week to the fact that there was a movement on foot among the members of the Burlington County Bar looking toward having the date of the fall term of Court advanced from October to September.

Judge Slaughter, appearing as spokesman for the lawyers, said that he personally favored the change because of the large amount of work that accumulates during the summer period, there now being six months between the April and October terms, while only about ten weeks lapse between the October and December terms. He said he thought the change would be welcomed by all who had business in the Burlington County Courts.

Judge Lloyd replied that he saw considerable propriety in the request and did not know of any reason why the date could not be changed from the second Tuesday in October to the second Tuesday in September. He suggested that the matter be brought to his attention in a formal written request sometime between now and next May and practically assured the petitioners that the change would meet with his approval.

For many years the fall term of court began the second Tuesday in September, but due to the fact that the Mount Holy Fair invariably opened the same week, when many officers were engaged at the fair, and it was also hard to get jurymen to serve at that particular time, the change to October was made.

Now, with the amount of business there is to be transacted at the Court House, the change back to September would seem to be the proper move.

The woman who used to blush if seen wearing an evening hat before 3 p. m. has a daughter who goes to business in less than her mother thought necessary for going to bed.

The newly-weds are not as foolish as the newly-weds who are not so foolish as the never-weds.

Judge Declares War on Speeders

Justice Lloyd Urges Grand Jury To Indict Reckless Drivers Who Take Life

In his charge to the grand jury at the opening of the October term of court Wednesday morning, of last week, Supreme Court Justice Lloyd called attention to the number of deaths caused by automobiles and directed the jury to find indictments for manslaughter in all cases in which there was any negligence upon the part of the offending driver. Unless there is an entire absence of responsibility for such deaths, criminal action should be brought against the negligent operators of cars that caused the taking of life.

In some cases, he said, he had been informed that intoxication of the driver was an element of cause. This is obviously gross negligence upon the part of the driver and indictments should be returned.

Another danger to the community, he said, is the practice of carrying weapons on the person or in cars by a considerable number of people. This is against the law, unless such persons have obtained permits, and the jury was directed to investigate and return indictments against such offenders. The promiscuous carrying of weapons is the cause of much crime.

Justice Lloyd directed attention to one homicide case, in which a negro named Thomas killed a white man in Burlington, during a debate.

It is understood that there are eight cases of homicide or manslaughter to be investigated by the jury. The total number of criminal cases to be considered is about 150.

The grand jury is composed of the following:

F. Wallis Armstrong, Moorestown.
George F. Ried, Lambertown.
Francis H. Reed, Northampton.
Lena R. Haines, Medford.
Joshua M. Garwood, Medford.
Samuel V. Cooper, Evesham.
Elsie Brueker, Bordentown.
Anna P. Chaney, Pemberton.
Bronse E. Smith, Wrightstown.
Loring S. Borton, Burlington.
Henry H. Lippincott, Cinnaminson.
Ella Iriek, Southampton.
Alburtus Doherty, Florence.
Howard M. Rogers, Chesterfield.
Rowman S. Lippincott, Evesham.
Barclay H. Allen, Southampton.
Selden R. Probasco, Burlington.

MARRIED TEN YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Staveley Married Ten Years Last Saturday

A surprise party was arranged by Mrs. William Engle for Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Staveley, who celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary last Saturday night. A number of guests were present from Palmyra.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Staveley was Miss Florence Fox, of Palmyra. The Staveleys have been residents in Palmyra since they were married, and Mr. Staveley has built up a nice business for himself as carpenter. He was formerly associated with Joseph H. Smith, of Riverton, but has been in business for himself for the last six years.

DANCING CLASSES

Miss Alexine Lowden Will Have Charge of Community House Teaching

Dancing instruction is being added to the Moorestown Community House "curriculum" and a number of prospective pupils have enrolled for the aesthetic and social dancing classes.

The classes will be under the competent direction of Miss Alexine Lowden, a product of the Cowanova Studio of Dancing, Philadelphia, which has produced many of America's leading dancers.

Miss Lowden has had a wide experience in the work and is thoroughly qualified to instruct in all of its branches.

Director Ian Forbes has announced that the initial class will be for aesthetic and social work and that there has already been a very encouraging response.

The aesthetic class will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 and social dancing will be taught at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Miss Lowden will be available for several other classes each week, such as elementary work for little tots, tap, and acrobatic classes for both the children as well as older folk and will probably arrange for additional social classes, should there be a demand.

All of the dancing classes will be held in the Community House gymnasium and anyone interested in joining is requested to leave his name at the Community House desk.

"CITY OF TRENTON" TO BE BROKEN UP

Sixth of River Boats to be Taken Out of Service Within Few Years

Another Delaware River steamboat has followed her predecessors, the famous Columbia, the John A. Warner, Twilight, Nolly White and the Edwin Forrest into the discard.

This time it is the City of Trenton, one of the Dolphin Line fleet, familiar to thousands of people in the towns along the Delaware River between the State Capital and Philadelphia.

The City of Trenton, which sank in the municipal basin at Trenton a year ago, was raised last week and left her old berth forever for a last trip down the Delaware to Fieldsboro where she will be salvaged by the Reeder Company, a sand dredging concern. The work will be started as soon as the bill of sale is drawn and dredging company becomes the actual owners.

MAY VO WINNING

Discarded Mare Now Showing Splendid Form in Races

The same New Jersey trotting mare, May Vo, was given one of the hardest races of her career, to win the 2.18 class trot stake at Bloomsburg, Pa., from a high class field recently. As a matter of fact, the speedy Norristown trotter, Blackstone Dillon, won the opening heat from May in 2.13 1/2, and forced her to equal her previous record of 2.12 1/2, to win the next three heats and the race.

Incidentally, the history of May Vo is an interesting one. She was about as well thought of as any ordinary "roadster" when acquired by her present owner-driver, Tom McFarland, the well-known veteran reinsman, of Burlington, who quickly developed the racy-looking mare into a real race horse.

She was tried out by several capable trainers. Billy Loner, of Monroe, N. Y., had her in his stable, but passed her up as of little promise. She then went into the stable of C. Earl Pitman, of Trenton, who after training her for a while considered her of little use as a race winner in the company in which he races, and she passed on to another Trenton horseman at around $200. John Hartman was the purchaser of the then little thought of daughter of Peter Volo, for the very low figure quoted above.

Hartman failed to get any thrill out of her performances and passed her along to the "farmer-trainer," Tom McFarland, of Burlington, who found something of promise in the new fast race mare, and kept her on the move, until she did show some promise of future extreme speed. McFarland got her in a trade for another horse. This was in the spring of 1925.

Feeble Minded Hold Exercises

Keen Interest Taken in Event by Many at Four Mile Colony

Keen interest was taken in the annual exercises at the New Jersey State Colony for Feeble Minded Males, six miles from New Lisbon last week. The exercises which continued throughout the day were attended by about three hundred people.

Among the visitors were John Ellis, head of the Department of Institutions and Agencies, and Ellis P. Earle, chairman of the State Board of Control.

Others present included President Henry B. Cole and Mrs. Ward Keelin, of Moorestown; Miss Elizabeth C. White, of New Lisbon; and Miss Sarah T. Pollock, of Trenton, all members of the board of managers.

In the morning a concert was given by the colony band of twenty-six pieces, this number being only the first band chosen from a total of over twenty boys who are now receiving musical instruction on one or more instruments.

All departments of the institution were open for visitation and a great interest was shown in the handicraft that has been done by the patients. Three and four-piece suits of furniture equal to that which is generally on sale in the open competitive market were on display. This furniture is made of the paper and pressed over substantial wooden frames, and in addition to this, a fine display was made of the work done in the occupational therapy department, consisting of reed work, reed and raffia work, basketry, bird houses and toys.

The canner and the work done in it during the season just closed was a department which surprised many of the visitors. In this canner over five thousand gallons of fruits and vegetables have been taken entirely from the surplus of the farm and preserved almost all of the work being done by the patients who take a keen interest in it. No extra help was employed by the administration to do this work.

TO ENLARGE PLANT

Kieckhefer Container Company to Erect New Building at Delair

That a permit has been issued to the Kieckhefer Container Company for the construction of another building at its Delair plant, was announced in the report of the Pensauken Township building inspector last week. The permit calls for the expenditure of $23,000. It is believed the new building will be used for the storage of waste paper bales. These, stored in the open, have caught fire on a number of occasions from sparks shooting from passing locomotives.

That building continues to hold its own in Pensauken Township is told by the total of $137,024 for the building authorized by the inspector during September.

FREEHOLDER FAVORS VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS

Board Does Not Oppose Schools, But Cannot Afford Them, Says Fisher

Vocational training, advocated by the Burlington County Industrial Association some months ago, came back for another turn at a meeting of the Edgewater Park League of Women Voters. Strange enough, it was resurrected by Curwen B. Fisher, of Mount Holly, member of the Burlington County Board of Freeholders, who is one of those who helped to lay it to rest.

Mr. Fisher said he was in favor of vocational training schools and spoke of their great advantage in fitting young men and young women for useful occupations. He went into some details along this line and gave much valuable information.

Mr. Fisher also spoke of the attitude of the Board of Freeholders with regard to a vocational training school, explaining that the members of the board were not against the proposition, but entertained the thought last winter that because of the expense that would have to be born by the taxpayers the time was not ripe for the establishment of such an institution.

The speakers said that the Board of Freeholders had made an exhaustive study of the question, securing data from several cities where vocational training schools were operated and as a result of the investigation they thought it wise to delay the project until the county was in a better condition to undertake the work.

The first municipal highway lighting system was installed in Paris in 1668. Pitch or resin were burned at night.

JERSEY CITY BUS

Proposed Line To Run Through Bordentown, Mt. Holly and Moorestown

William Nevins, proprietor of the Nevins Bus Company, and George J. Cassidy, superintendent of the company's fleet in Jersey City, visited the Lions Club of Bordentown recently and enlisted the support of the organization in their endeavors to establish a deluxe passenger line between Jersey City and Camden, stopping in Bordentown.

The proposed line will make stops in Newark, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Bordentown and Camden, and if the company can so arrange, the route will be from Bordentown through Mount Holly, Moorestown and Merchantville to Camden.

The proposal to have the line connect Bordentown with Mount Holly came from the Lions, who pointed out the dearth of satisfactory connections between that city and the county seat and also stressed the beauty of the route suggested.

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD PICNIC AND DINNER

Fig's White Inn at Browns' Mills to be Scene of Festivities Saturday

The Burlington County Democratic Club is arranging to hold a picnic and dinner at the Fig's White Inn, Browns' Mills, on Saturday evening, October 22, when it is expected that all enthusiastic Democrats of the county will make a special effort to attend and join in the good fellowship that is surely going to be a part of the occasion, as well as partake of an excellent dinner and listen to a good speaking program.

The arrangements contemplate picnicking and fraternizing from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., at which time dinner will be served by the management of the inn at the popular price of $1.50. There will, of course, be a limit to the number of reservations that will be available, owing to the size of the dining room, and those who anticipate attending are urged to procure tickets from the committee at once. This committee is composed of W. M. Hargrove, Pemberton, chairman; George Mellichamp, Bordentown; Mrs. Carlisle Gaunt, Jostown; William F. Murphy, Bordentown, and Hans Froelicher, Jr., Moorestown.

The committee on speakers is made up of Richard P. Hughes, William B. Vandegrift and Mrs. Florence Mellichamp. Invitations have been issued to Governor Moore, Senator Edward I. Edwards, Secretary of State Fitzpatrick and Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, and it is confidently expected that some, if not all of these gentlemen, will be present. It is also hoped that Mrs. Mary Norton, the only Democratic Congresswoman, will be present. Although Mrs. Norton is in the midst of conducting her own campaign for re-election she is making a strong effort to arrange her engagements so that she can be on hand.

The dinner hour has been set for five o'clock, in order that there will be plenty of time for speech making by those invited guests, who will be followed by short talks from the Burlington county Democratic candidates for office.

All of the speech making is expected to be finished by nine o'clock, when the affair will be turned into a general reception and dance. A seven-piece orchestra has been engaged, together with a vocalist, and it is expected that this will be one of the most enjoyable occasions of the kind that Burlington county Democrats have held for a long time.

Moorestown Fire Department Fights Blaze on Senator Roberts' Farm

The Moorestown fire department was called out to a blaze on Senator Robert's farm Wednesday morning of last week, when two fifty-gallon gasoline tanks caught fire and exploded.

Through the efficient work of the department, very little damage was done. Only the roof on a small out-building was destroyed by the flames.

SERENADE NEWLYWED

Mr. and Mrs. Dolly Given Surprise By Community Band

The Moorestown Community Band serenaded Mr. and Mrs. James Dolly, the newlyweds, at their home on South Washington avenue, Moorestown, last Thursday evening. The musicians were not treated as most serenaders, and instead of being chased, were invited into the house of their "victims" and a jolly party resulted.

The band assembled at the Community House and marched to the scene of the "surprise attack." After favoring with several romantic numbers, the entire party was invited to enjoy the Dolly hospitality. The band once more set up with several tunes and a party of the couple's friends, who were also on hand for the celebration, enjoyed dancing. Mrs. Dolly also served a very delightful repast.

Donald Donovan and Thomas Murphy were the instigators and leading lights of the serenade.

The Republican Dinner at Mount Holly October 20

The Burlington County Republican campaign for the fall election opened Monday night when the county committee met in the courthouse at Mount Holly. Recommendations for challengers were submitted to be forwarded to the County Board of Elections.

It was decided to have the Republican dinner at Brainerd Memorial Hall, Mount Holly, Friday evening, October 20.

Congressman Bacharach and Judge Wells will be among the speakers.

Both sessions will be held in the church. At seven o'clock on Sunday evening, and all young people in the community are invited to attend. After the installation of officers the meeting was turned over to President Young.

Atlantic City Press Says Hearty Protest Should Be In Deeds. Monmouth assessors demand that a law be enacted requiring all deeds for the sale of real estate to set forth the sum actually paid, in place of the optional statement.

There is little to be said against this demand except by those who profit most by keeping the present law on the books. The value of property is what it will bring in a fair market, and there is no reason why the assessors should not be assisted with a plain statement of selling price.

For the first three months of operation the Delaware River Bridge has upset all calculations and estimates as to revenues to be realized.

Hallowe'en Plans at Moorestown

Moorestown's community Hallowe'en celebration, to be staged Saturday evening, October 29, is on a fair way to surpass, by far, the fondest hopes of the most optimistic workers.

White throats behind the movement anticipated a fair response, nothing of the wide-spread interest which has been aroused was expected, and this has given rise to the charge the encouragement to spare no effort in making the town party all that will be expected of it.

Large Crowd Expected. As the result of the publicity given the project throughout the section, it is expected that many visitors will be in town when Moorestown turns out for the big parade which will start at 7 o'clock.

Senator Elmer Roberts, on one of his splendid mounts, will lead the parade as grand marshal and will have as his assistant Township Solicitor Harry Roney.

Although the invitation committee has not had sufficient time to receive replies from the various organizations to date, it is expected that many will be represented, either with comic, fancy or historically attired groups.

Irving Hollingshead and Bert Edgar, who represent the Rotary Club and form the float committee, report a splendid response from the business people.

Director Ian Forbes is being besieged by concerns who sell torches, fares and other necessary equipment for such celebrations.

Plans are rapidly being whipped to shape and everything will be in readiness for next week.

County News of 50 Years Ago

Interesting Items Published in Mount Holly Mirror October, 1876

Following are some interesting items published in the Mount Holly Mirror issues of October 12 and 19, 1876.

Ocean county reports not more than about a quarter crop of cranberries.

The Centennial knocked the spots out of our county fair last week. Well, it cannot be done again, as the pig said when a man cut its tail off.

Joseph H. Gashill has disposed of his present residence on Garden street, Mount Holly, to John Brown, of Lumberton, for $2,000.

Dr. Samuel J. Woodson, of Vincentown, very good authority by the way, informs us that oiling peas with raw linseed oil will prevent the blight and will cure it in most cases if applied soon after the blight appears.

Fair Attendance Falls Attendance at the Mount Holly Fair on the two days it was held last week was less than half of that of last year, the decrease being attributed to the Centennial and to the doubling of the price of admission, which now is 20 cents.

Last year about 15,000 tickets were sold in the two days; this year only about 5,500. The society has suffered a considerable loss but will not be seriously embarrassed. The fastest heat on the race track was in the 2.25 class, made by Thomas W. Atkinson's S. M. Flora Windsor in 2.34 1/2.

Exhibits in the various departments were not quite as large as usual, but there was a creditable display and many prizes were awarded.

At the quarterly meeting of the Burlington County Agricultural Society, held on Saturday, reports were received about the county fair being held on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Henry I. Budd, chairman of the finance committee, stated that receipts from the sale of tickets amounted to $2,457, and from other sources, $1,379; total, $3,836. Expenditures to be paid amount to $5,100 and other expenses $3,300; a total of $8,400. This leaves a deficit of $2,564. The officers were authorized to borrow $2,500 on bond and mortgage to pay the shortage.

Water Company Meets At the annual meeting of the Mount Holly Water Company, held on Saturday, it was reported that the company has contracted with Henry Worthington, of New York, for a new pumping engine and boiler to cost $5,700. A new building is to be erected and a larger supply pipe from the creek installed. The new apparatus will pump at the rate of 400 gallons of water per minute, which is double the capacity of the old pump.

Richard C. Shreve was elected president; Henry O. Risdon, secretary; Franklin B. Lewis, treasurer.

The Republicans of Mount Holly met in Arcade Hall on Monday night and formed a Hayes & Wheeler Club. Stirring addresses were made by Charles E. Merritt, Samuel Taylor, Walter A. Harrows and James N. Stratton.

Vincentown formed a Hayes & Wheeler Club on Thursday night with Captain S. B. Smith as president.

State House Gossip

State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Edward Hanson has appointed Joseph F. Hammond, of Roselle, Union county, to be the new chief of the Banking Bureau in his department, to succeed the late Thomas K. Johnston, of Trenton. He also selected Hugh H. Wilson, also of Trenton, to be Chief Examiner of the Banking Bureau, which is a newly created post. Both men were candidates for the post of bureau chief and the salaries of each will be $7,500 in their appointed positions.

Hammond is a Democrat and Wilson a Republican. Prosecutor Wilfred H. Joyce, Jr., of Ocean county, has obtained a divorce decree from his wife, Mrs. Edith M. Joyce. Chancellor Walker has signed the final divorce decree which was granted on the ground of desertion.

The preliminary decree was obtained six months ago and the final one is a formality in such cases. Mr. Joyce has served as Deputy Attorney General in the investigation of Prosecutor James H. Dolbech, of Morris county, who was convicted of improperly conducting his office and was sentenced to two years in State Prison. The latter's appeal is now pending in the State courts.

Assessed valuations of real and personal property in New Jersey for 1932 is $2,448,217,717, an increase of $27,254,555 over the figures for 1931, according to the annual report of the State Board of Taxes and Assessment just made public.

This increase in the main represents enhanced real estate values, as the advance in the assessment of personal property was very little. Remarkable growth in land values and unusual activity in construction are evidenced by this extraordinary increase in one year of approximately seven hundred million dollars.

While the report shows that the upward trend of values in general is apparent in all the counties of the State, the increases in shore front and industrial districts are proportionately greater than those of the rural or farming counties.

Chancellor Walker is expected to reappoint the two Vice Chancellors whose terms are nearly out. One is Malcolm G. Buchanan, of Trenton, whose seven year term ends on Friday of this week, and that of former

WEST POINT

Twelve New Jersey young men can be admitted to the United States Military Academy at West Point next year, according to announcement made by the Secretary of War on Monday.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 22 are eligible and the examinations will begin on March 1, 1932.

Of the twelve young men to be appointed, United States Senator Edward I. Edwards will have the selection of one applicant, while Congressman Bacharach, of this district, will also have the selection of one aspirant for military honors.

NEW GOLF COURSE

Committee To Examine Site For Burlington Country Club

At a meeting of men interested in forming a Burlington country club, a motion was made by Abraham Ferguson, of Bridgewater Park, to appoint a committee to examine the various sites offered for the use of the club, learn their cost, look into other details and report at another meeting about two weeks later.

In their work the committee will have the services of a well known golf architect who Thomas R. Lee, of Beverly, said he could secure. Mr. Lee said the architect had worked in connection with building many golf courses.

The committee appointed includes Richard Gilliam, Cooper H. Pritchett, Walter E. Robb, Frank H. Wood, all of Burlington, and Harold B. Wells, of Bordertown.

The farms to be examined are on the American Legion Highway about midway between Burlington and Mount Holly; one on the Columbus road about three miles from Burlington; another on the Oxford road, about two miles from Burlington, and still another in Willingboro Township, near Cooperstown.

Mrs. Morby was instructing her trial maid-of-all-work regarding the proper names of certain articles.

"And, Bridget," she said, "these are ewers—ewers—don't call them 'jugs.'"

"Sure an' I won't, mum," said Bridget. "An' in all the little basins mine too, mum?"

BEEBLE SPREADING

Cause For Real Alarm Found in Official Report, Says Trenton Times

Cause for real alarm is to be found in the official report that the Japanese beetle is spreading its devastating work and that it has been found to be necessary to place the entire State of New Jersey under quarantine, which means that certain plants and plant products may not be shipped out from the nurseries and farms. Government experts have not yet succeeded in finding a means of exterminating the pest, which first made its appearance in New Jersey at Riverton ten years ago.

At present the beetle is to be found within an area of about 6,000 square miles. Many of the bugs have been found in Mercer county, and the prediction is made that it will be very troublesome next summer. While the experts have been unable to discover a means of extermination, they ought to be able to educate the public in methods of checking the spread of the beetle. At least those discovered may be destroyed and not left to breed new swarms. Not one person in twenty has ever seen a Japanese beetle to know it—Trenton Times.

GUNNING SEASON OPENED SATURDAY With the close of the fishing season, sportsmen welcomed the wild fowl season which began last Saturday and will remain open until the last of January. According to indications there will be few ducks and geese in the bays in the early part of the season, the weather having been too warm, and good shooting as a rule does not start until the first of November.

JOSHUA, ISRAEL'S NEW LEADER

LEADER TEXT—Josh. 1:1-9.
GRAND TEXT—Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord the God with thee whithersoever thou goest.

THE BOOK OF JOSHUA, from which our lesson is taken, is a history of the conquest of the promised land and its division among the tribes of Israel. It takes its name from its principal character, Joshua.

Joshua, the New Leader of Israel (Josh. 1:1-9).
The people were not to be left in doubt as to a leader when Moses was gone. The leader was to be appointed and given recognition before all the congregation.

During the wilderness journey Joshua was Moses' minister and the captain of his army. When Moses was called the privilege of going over the Jordan, Joshua was appointed to the leadership of Israel.

Joshua Commanded to Take Charge (Josh. 1:2).
Moses was dead, but God's word must go on, therefore God issued the command for the new leader to assume his duty.

God Renews His Promise to Israel Concerning the Land (Josh. 1:3-6).
This promise had been given to Abraham and renewed to Isaac, Jacob and Moses. It is now renewed to Israel as they were about to enter upon its possession.

Joshua was entering upon a perilous and difficult enterprise, but the Lord said as he was with Moses, so he would be with him. The difficulties before him were:

- 1. The Jordan river (v. 2). This river was now at its flood (Josh. 1:15), making it impossible for Israel to cross.
- 2. The people were living in various cities (Josh. 1:10).

- (1) "I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee" (v. 5).
- (2) "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee."
- (3) "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee." Joshua had been with Moses throughout their forty years' experience from the Egyptian deliverance to the time of his death. Because he believed that God was with his master, he was willing and ready to cross the Jordan at its flood-tide and courageously meet the enemies on the other side.

3. Conditions of blessing in the Land (Josh. 1:6-9).
"Be strong and of good courage" (v. 6).
His mission was to go in and divide the land among the tribes for an inheritance. It required strength and courage to do this.

4. Unwavering obedience to the Word of God (v. 7).
In a land of idolatry it required much courage to be true to God. Prosperity and success were conditioned upon unwavering obedience to God's commands. In all his work he must conform his life to the law of God. To pass from the path outlined there-in would bring disaster and ruin. In order to accomplish this the law of the Lord must be in his mouth continually. He was to meditate therein day and night.

Joshua rendered prompt obedience, he did not stop to cavil, but at once gave order for the march. God made the plan and gave the directions.

Culture
We hear so much nowadays about "culture." Culture is all right when you have something to cultivate. First make sure that you have the divine nature, then cultivate it.—D. L. Moody.

An employer is responsible for workmen's compensation damages to an employe shot or killed in a "hold-up." This is the ruling of the State Supreme Court in providing an award of $1,750 for Michael Willner, of Newark, against his employer, Samuel Katz, chicken dealer, of Newark. Willner was slain by a bullet fired from a car while he was carrying a parcel containing $1,000 in cash.

Constructive Projects Advanced by State Agriculture Board

Program in Eradication of Bovine Tuberculosis, Both as Public Health and Farm Economic Measure, Emphasized in Report

Several fundamentally constructive new projects for the advancement of the agricultural industry were outlined by the State Board of Agriculture during the fiscal year as indicated in the annual report of the department which has been presented to Governor Moore by Secretary William B. Duryee of the State Board.

Included in the category of new projects are: A survey of the possibilities of increased use of electricity for farm and farm home; improved transportation of products to reach markets when demand is greatest and prices highest; strengthening of the financial structure by an economic survey of credit and general financing conditions affecting farmers, in cooperation with the State Bankers' Association; and eradication of bovine tuberculosis on the area plan together with the opening of a laboratory for control of contagious abortion in cattle.

The additional projects, Secretary Duryee asserts, have been undertaken without an increase in personnel and while the department has maintained the constantly increased service required in general regulatory and market activities.

Agricultural industries of the State, with all of which the department is concerned in a constructive way, yield $25,000,000 of farm products annually. Taking all of these industries as a whole, Secretary Duryee says farming in New Jersey is on the up-grade, and this is more apparent when compared with many other states that are located farther from good markets. That some of our areas are not even beginning to emerge from depression is, said the Secretary, distressingly evident, and it is in these areas, where marketing problems are particularly acute that the department will direct its efforts.

Acting with other state agencies, the department has effectively cooperated in the spray residue problems, an economic emergency which occurred in important fruit growing sections of the state.

Effective prosecution of the department's work is due in a large measure to the support obtained from all branches of the State government. In this connection Secretary Duryee emphasized the fact that the Legislature has passed enabling acts and made available the largest amount of funds yet entrusted to the department for its pressing needs.

Milk Dealers Licensed
Under the 1917 law for licensing of distributors of milk who purchase from producers, 234 distributors were licensed and 93 exempted during the year, the largest number licensed in any one year.

"We are confronted with the spectacle of unworked farms throughout the state and the apparent ability of our competitors to transport farm products directly by these same farms and sell them at a profit," said the secretary. "This is a condition, not a theory, and challenges the thought of leaders of the state and all those citizens who desire to see agriculture a well-balanced and successful part of the state's life and activity. For its part the department pledges its efforts in coordinating along commodity lines the knowledge and ability

P. H. S. Will Play Temple on Friday

Football Eleven Strengthened By Addition of Gilliland and Jenkins

Palmyra High School will tackle the strong Temple University High School at the Germantown boys' club grounds at 25 West Penn street, Friday. Temple has always put out good teams and gives Palmyra stiff opposition in all branches of sport.

P. H. S. will endeavor to break in the win column on Friday. To date they have lost two hard fought games. On both occasions the breaks have been against them. They were defeated by the "Purple Avalanche" 7-0 at Forest Hill Park and 3-0 by Collingswood, recent co-champions of Atlantic City, by the victors of two field goals.

The team will be greatly strengthened by the addition of "Lerry" Gilliland, last year's varsity tackle and "Hank" Jenkins, another player of no mean playing ability. Both these veterans were out of the Collingswood game.

Palmyra has arranged one of the stiffest schedules in the history of the school. They are out to win the Class B title, held by them two years ago. The schedule includes games with Moorestown, Haddonfield, Haddon Heights and Vineland, last year's Class B champions. They also have renewed relationships with Burlington and will play them at the Field Club grounds on November 11th. This will be the first time Palmyra has played Burlington in any line of sport for three years. Now that the old feud is broken each will try its hardest to win the first game of their renewed relationship.

Coches Diamond is working hard with the boys daily, preparing for the Temple game. He has given the squad a few new trick plays that are sure ground gainers.

RIVERTON COUNCIL

wanted to know whether or not the borough council would pay it. The mayor held that the cost should be paid by the property owner. It was agreed on the other hand that the property owner had no voice in the placing of the fire hydrant, the location of which was determined by the borough council, and therefore it had to be moved if he should not be put to the expense of having it done. This opinion was overruled and Mr. Lynch was instructed to inform Mr. Carthy that the borough council would not pay the bill. During the discussion it came out that no permission had been obtained from the borough authorities for moving the fire hydrant, which the mayor claimed should have been done.

Councilman Lynch, chairman of the highway committee, reported that the pavements already existing on Cinnaminson street were pretty good, and while they were slightly below grade, would not have to be disturbed as long as they all remained intact, but if some of them were reconstructed to grade, it was possible that the others would have to be raised also. Mr. Lynch further reported that the Public Service had made arrangements to remove the pole at the station on Sunday, the 17th. When the railroad gates were moved back it left one of the poles standing out in the roadway, obstructing traffic. Director of Public Safety Williams had had the pole removed, and the Public Service to move this pole for some time, just as soon as they could arrange to have it done.

The Police Department came in for a little chaffing when bills for gasoline for the police car were read. A hurried computation seemed to indicate that during one day period twenty-seven gallons of gas were used, which it was said would at a very conservative estimate amount to a mileage per gallon mean that the car had been run sixty-five miles a day. Fifty-seven gallons were used in August and eighty in September. Councilman Lynch observed that if it was expected to have the town patrolled it would require gas to do it. The upshot of the whole discussion was instructions that who-ever had gas put in the police car should always secure a bill before the date, the amount and by whom ordered.

Dogs Annoy, and They Don't. The police department reported a communication received complaining of a kennel of dogs which were said to be an annoyance to the people in the neighborhood where they were kept. The matter had been brought to the attention of the owner of the animals, and he later presented a statement signed by virtually all of his neighbors, to the effect that the dogs did not bother them in the least. The mayor said that it was rather peculiar that folks would raise such a high and then sign a paper that they had nothing to kick about. Such being the case, however, he did not see that council was called upon to do anything further in the matter. It was the consensus of opinion that it was a case to be settled by the individuals concerned, anyway, and not one for action by council.

Councilman Welch said that the big problem in Riverton was dogs confined on private property, but dogs that ran the streets. He recalled that in the early summer a movement had been started to gather up stray dogs, but that it had failed out. Police Director Williams stated that the work was going along satisfactorily when the dog catcher threw up his job, claiming that he was making more money than his compensation. He dog catcher was worth. The mayor agreed that dogs running at large on the streets were a nuisance and said that the only thing to do was to get outside of the town and hire a dog catcher.

Director Williams also reported that Margaret Schick, a small child, had been knocked down by an automobile and slightly injured. An investigation had been made by Mr. Williams and the child was not hurt. This incident brought up the matter of small children making a nuisance of the streets, and the mayor said that the only thing to do was to get outside of the town and hire a dog catcher.

Baptist Young People are Busy

Committees and Leaders Appointed at Meeting at Rev. Lockett's Home

The executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of the Central Baptist Church held a very enthusiastic meeting at the home of the Rev. George Lockett, last Monday evening.

The following committees were appointed:
Membership—Chairman, Cecil Thompson.
Music—Chairman, Florence Harvey.
Missionary—Chairman, Irene Snelson.
Educational—Chairman, Dorothy Randolph.
Social—Chairman, Ruth Reeves.
Financial—Chairman, Mrs. Helen Andrews.

It was decided to divide the Society up into four groups, each group to have entire charge of the meeting one night in the month. The following leaders were appointed together with those in the groups.
Group No. 1.—Leader, Miss Emily Harvey. Members of the group are Mrs. L. Reeves, Anna Yerkes, Franklin Miller, Ruth Abdill and Edward Bridges.

Group No. 2.—Leader, Miss Myrtle Pickett. Members of the group are May Hawks, Mrs. Lockett, Ruth Reeves, Norman Thompson, Katherine Johnson and Evelyn Weart.
Group No. 3.—Leader, Cecil Thompson. Members of the group are Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Eleanor Yerkes, Weston, Florence Harvey, Elizabeth Birkenbach and Hilda Hurlings.
Group No. 4.—Leader, Miss Dorothy Randolph. Members of the group are Esther Yerkes, Emma Murphy, Irene Snelson, Eunice Thompson, Ethel Grifflenberg and Evelyn Walker.

That the Society is waking up was evidenced by the turnout at the "doggie roast" last Friday when 55 were present. We ought to have at least fifty at every meeting. We are planning a big Halloween party and numerous other things.

The next rally will be at Westmont on October 25. Let everybody go that can go and show what kind of a society we have at Palmyra. Everybody is cordially invited to the meetings and we are sure you will enjoy yourself and that you will get something very helpful out of the meetings.

Palmyra Lassies Beat Collingswood

Locals Take Third Place in League As Miss Kuskat Scores Three Goals

Palmyra High School's hockey team moved into third place in the South Jersey Hockey League by a victory over Collingswood Friday. The last year champs were surprised by their defeat at the hands of the Burlington county lassies. Palmyra's 3-2 win certainly upset the hope in the interscholastic league. Everyone thought the "Colls" would run away with an easy victory.

Miss Kuskat scored all three points for the winners. Palmyra took the lead right at the beginning of the game when Miss Kuskat tallied a goal in the first few minutes of the game. Miss Lingo tied the score, but Miss Kuskat came through with her second score and so gave Palmyra a 2-1 lead at half time.

Just before Miss Greyanmiller, of Collingswood, collided with a Palmyra player and was forced to leave the game, Miss Kuskat made a goal and knotted the count at 2 all.

In the final period, with but two minutes of the game to be played, Miss Kuskat tallied her third goal, and that won the game and third place for Palmyra.

The summary:
Collingswood Palmyra
Adair right wing Burr
Williams right inside Gorman
H. Lingo center forward Kuskat
Greyanmiller right halfback Mathews (capt.)

Scottdale Observer Prints Page on City's Water System

Forrest W. Buck, formerly of Palmyra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Buck, of Morgan avenue and River Bank, is now manager of the Scottdale Water Company. Mr. Buck is an ex-service man, having served with Major-General William G. Price in the 38th Division in France.

When Mr. Buck returned from France in 1919 he was connected with the Palmyra-Riverton Water Company of which his father, William Harry Buck is superintendent. In 1920 he took a position in Pittsburgh. Here he did not remain long, but went, six years ago, to Scottdale and has been in charge of the Water Company ever since.

F. W. Buck is now manager of the City's Water Company, Scottsdale's $1,000,000 water system. At the present a $250,000 improvement is being made in the chlorination plant. The reservoir has been increased to 187,200,000 gallons capacity which furnishes water to 2,700 consumers. There are 36 miles of water-supplying pipes. A whole page has been printed in the Scottdale Observer, praising Mr. Buck's great achievement.

HEAVY TRUCKS DESTROYING COUNTY BRIDGES SAYS FISHER

Two wrecks within fortnight; Repairs will cost nearly five thousand. ALL BIDS REJECTED FOR PORCH AT ALMSHOUSE

These bridges will be financed by the issuance of improvement notes, it being the desire of Mr. Fisher to find any more bond issues if possible.

Mr. Fisher said that owing to the increasing use of the roads and bridges in the county by heavy vehicles the problem of maintaining the highways and bridges was becoming extremely difficult and expensive.

Mr. Fisher pointed out that many of the roads in the condition referred to by Mr. Lippincott were too low or too high, which meant that trucks hit the deck with a terrific bang, which could be avoided by keeping the approaches level with the bridge deck so that the truck would roll onto it without jar.

It was agreed, however, that it would be extremely difficult to get the necessary cooperation of county engineer suggested that next year a small bridge maintenance crew, equipped with a light truck, that could look after these matters and keep bridges and their approaches in tip-top condition all the time.

Director of Bridges Fisher reported that a request had been made to him by the authorities at Lower Bank to do something to prevent the roadway from being washed out by high tides of the stream at that point.

Cornerstone Laid 'Neath Cloudy Sky'

Threatening Rain Did Not Mar Attendance at Services Last Sunday

Inclement weather could not dampen the ardor of the congregation of Calvary Presbyterian Church at its corner stone laying last Sunday. The present church auditorium was filled to its capacity and chairs were necessary.

The service was unusually impressive and long, reminding the memory of those who were present. The corner stone laying was preceded by the morning worship.

Men and nations have assailed it, without and within. Men have distorted and denied and even defiled it.

Immediately following the pastor's address the trustees gathered on the pulpit platform, and George T. Dold, as the representative of the building committee, whose untiring efforts have been such a large factor in the building program of Calvary Church, presented the pastor with the documents for the corner stone, among which was the copy of The New Era, of the Camden Courier and a Sequi-Centennial fifty-cent piece.

After a prayer of dedication, the congregation sang "Hallelujah to Thee that Binds" and was dismissed by the Apostolic benediction.

When completed the property value of Calvary Presbyterian Church will amount to about $125,000, and the new church will enable the growing congregation to enter more fully into its service in Riverton and Palmyra.

PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL SOON

Riverton Clerk Tells Parents Plans Will Be Ready at Annual Meeting

MEMORIAL PARK SITE FAVORED BY HEMPHILL

A subject that is uppermost in the minds of those who know the conditions of a new school building to Riverton—was briefly discussed by Mayor Fred P. Hemphill, who is also school district clerk, at the reception given by the Riverton Parent-Teacher Association last Thursday evening.

Mr. Hemphill said that the school is now so crowded that it had been decided primarily as a part of the auditorium to use as a manual training room and to convert the principal's office into a classroom, moving Miss Chew out into the hallway.

Notwithstanding Miss Chew had been calling attention to the rapid approach of this condition for three years, Mr. Hemphill confessed that none of the members of the board had fully realized the seriousness of the situation until school opened this fall and it was found that some of the classes had more than fifty pupils.

Mr. Hemphill said he personally favored abandoning the present building and erecting a new and up-to-date plant on one end of Memorial Park.

Senator Roberts was the speaker of the evening. He said that two institutions were represented by his address, the one and the other, the school and the church.

R. E. Wilson Talks To Palmyra Lions

Speech on "Extravagance" Full of Pithy Thought and Instruction

Most people, said the speaker, think only of extravagance as unwise, foolish expenditure of money. It is much more than that, he explained. There is extravagance in thought, in energy, service and in human actions of all kinds.

Extravagance and its results form one of the greatest of human paradoxes. Considered usually as a thing to be avoided and deplored, yet at the same time it is usually the cause of the greatest of human actions of all kinds.

Yet despite all the wonderful things that have come from some extravagance, a general rule, Mr. Wilson contended, the world is better off without extravagance. Moderation is the best policy for the average man or woman.

Project of Riverton, Palmyra and Cinnaminson Joining Hands Discussed

ALL AGREE IT WOULD BE A DESIRABLE MOVE

The proposition that Riverton, Palmyra and Cinnaminson township get together under one form of government, was presented to the members of the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club, and to the officials of these three municipalities who were guests of the Club, at a get-together dinner at the Riverton Porch Club Thursday evening of last week.

Riverton's president, Dr. Charles Street Mills, said that Rotary had suggested a joint Fourth of July celebration this year, but that the idea was presented too late to get any action, the committees having already practically completed their arrangements. He hoped, however, next year to see the three municipalities get together in one big, rousing celebration in which residents from all this section would join hands, making it the biggest thing of its kind ever put on in these parts.

Mills Makes Prophecy

Continuing, the president said that soundings are now being made for the Teacony-Palmyra bridge, and that the more than another generation Riverton, Palmyra and Cinnaminson township would be a city of 125,000 population.

Mr. Hemphill held it true that the two towns must, of necessity, get together, but just how it was to be accomplished seemed to be the question.

World Improve Memorial Park

In speaking of Riverton's memorial park the mayor said that a few years ago a splendid tract of land had been purchased with the view of making it an athletic field as a memorial to the boys who went from here to serve in the World War.

Mr. Taylor said he recalled when Cinnaminson township was a part of Chester township, which at the time reached from Mt. Laurel to the Delaware River and from the Rancocas creek to Pessauken creek.

A drive for subscriptions is being carried on by the pupils in the schools above the fifth grade. Each school will receive 25 cents for each new subscription and there will be a $10 prize for each school in which each family represented is a subscriber.

A duplicate card system had been planned, whereby each local will have cards assigned to it which must be used in applying for an operation. These cards must be signed by the local president and by the Hospital chairman. Mrs. Coale, of Riverton, representing the Hospital directors, spoke of the desire of the Hospital to cooperate.

Miss Helen Powell, State College of New Jersey, gave a talk on the clothing program of the Junior Club work in the extension service, offering help to any group who would carry on the work.

Dr. Phyllis Blanchard, of Philadelphia, was the last speaker. She brought to us a psychological study of the relation between home and school. The Council then adjourned to meet in Delanco in January.

Ferry Company Robbed of $100

Richard P. Furman, of Palmyra Injured by Hold-Up Men

A hold-up occurred at the Pennsylvania side of the Palmyra-Tacony Ferry Monday morning shortly after midnight. Richard P. Furman, of Palmyra, was the man attacked by the robbers, who took every cent in the cash drawer, amounting to over $100.00.

The twelve o'clock boat had just pulled out from the slip when the two thieves drove up in a Ford car. They at once demanded the company's money. At first Furman thought they were a couple of friends playing a joke. As he backed off, one of the thugs hit him in the face with the butt end of his gun. This blow sent Furman sprawling into a corner. Before he could gain his feet the robbers sprang upon him. One stuck a pistol in his side and grabbed his hands, forcing them behind him. Then they locked him in a closet.

The bandits cleaned the cash drawer of its contents and escaped in their car. As soon as Furman recovered, he notified the Pennsylvania Police who later informed the Palmyra police department. A thorough search was made which continued into the wee hours of the morning but no clue was found. Furman said he could identify the men if he saw them again. Monday he went to the Philadelphia rogues' gallery to see if any of the pictures there were of the men who attacked him. It is believed the robbers have pulled off jobs of this sort before as it was executed perfectly, leaving no trace whatsoever.

PHARMACY COLLEGE

Rutgers University May Take Over New Jersey Institution

The Board of Trustees of Rutgers University has appointed a committee to confer with representatives of the New Jersey College of Pharmacy at Newark concerning the possibility of Rutgers taking over the latter college as a part of the State University. President John M. Thomas today appointed Judge Alfred P. Skinner and Charles M. Mason, of Newark, and Dr. William E. Myers of New York City, as the committee to represent Rutgers at a joint conference of representatives of both institutions.

At the same meeting of the trustees it was voted to establish a Department of Plant Pathology at the University and a Department of Water Supplies and a Sewage Disposal. The trustees also confirmed the action of President Thomas in excusing members of the senior class from compulsory attendance at Chapel exercises.

Now, for the first time since Rutgers was established 151 years ago, all students at the university are not required to attend daily chapel exercises. The new ruling was made because of the fact that there are only 720 seats in Kirkpatrick Chapel to accommodate an under-graduate body of over one thousand. Final figures announced by the Registrar place the total undergraduate enrollment in the men's colleges of the university at 1,040, and at the New Jersey College for Women, 875.

Palmyra Police Chief Injured

C. Morris Beck's Auto Collides With Fire Truck After False Alarm

While going down Broad street in his car to a fire alarm at 8th and Race streets, Palmyra, about 8.45 Sunday evening, Chief of Police C. Morris Beck hit the back wheels of the new Seagrave pumper which was coming out of Vine street. He threw on the emergency brake and skidded around striking the back wheels of the pumper and puncturing one of the tires. Had the road not been wet, the accident would, no doubt, have been more severe as Beck would have struck the pumper head on.

The Chief suffered severe cuts about the face and head when the windshield was broken. Firemen on the truck wanted to rush him to the hospital but the Chief did not think he was injured badly. The Chief's Dodge sedan was badly smashed, the radiator, wheels and fenders being damaged. An axle was also broken. Women witnesses screamed when they saw the Chief's face covered with blood. Later Beck was taken to Cooper Hospital, Camden. His chest was badly bruised and it was thought some bones were broken.

He returned home and was treated again at the hospital Monday morning. He was driven to Camden by Mayor James T. Weart. The fire alarm which resulted in the accident was false. An Italian family was having a celebration and had a number of candles burning in a front room. A passerby thought the house was on fire and turned in the alarm.

PREDICTS HARD WINTER

George Brown, venerable weather prophet who lives at Montclair, says this winter will be of the kind grandfather talked about. He has figured that there will be sixteen snowfalls, including three old-fashioned blizzards, and that the ground will be white about two weeks before Christmas and remain that way until next March.

Actions of the caterpillar, he says, leaves no room to doubt his prophecy. However, there will be eight more days of warm weather this fall and three killing frosts within the next few weeks.

A meeting, reported to have been held by the Ku Klux Klan, was held at James W. Harshorne's large lumber shed on South Church street, Moorestown, Saturday evening, attracted a crowd estimated at 150 people.

The speaker, who was attired in the Klan regalia but not masked, gave an address on Law Enforcement, the Constitution of the United States and other patriotic subjects.

Freeholders

some discarded lumber from a bridge that is to be built in the vicinity of Lower Bank if they wanted to furnish the labor to help themselves out of their difficulty. This offer was made once before, but no advantage was taken of it.

To Honor Was Here John S. Haines, representing the Moose Lodge in Mount Holly, appeared before the board with a request that the Washington street bridge which is now being reconstructed, be named after William H. Caldwell, a Mount Holly boy who was among the first to enlist for service in the World War, and who made the supreme sacrifice on September 26, 1918.

The county engineer was instructed to prepare a suitable tablet to be erected on the bridge.

A resolution by Mr. Wright, who is the financial head of the county board, provided for refinancing the remaining $120,000 of the 1919 road bonds. The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids. Heretofore the debt has been carried on temporary loans, the time limit of which has expired.

Will Ask New Bids When bids were opened for the construction of a porch at the county almshouse it was found that the "alternate" bids were somewhat complicated, and that the cost would be in excess of the sum appropriated for this work. All the bids were rejected and it looked as though the porch would not be built.

Henry Worrell, steward of the almshouse, was present and stated that the kind of a porch he wanted could be built for $2000, the amount set aside for this purpose by the board. He said that the old folks in his institution had no place to sit except inside the building, where they were largely deprived of sunlight and fresh air. He urged that something ought to be done.

The freeholders decided to draw new and simpler specifications and re-advertise for bids.

Wide Range in Figures Evidently the contractors got varying ideas of what was required, for the highest sum asked was more than double that of the lowest amount.

The bids were as follows: T. G. Clotts, Mount Holly, $3,800.00; G. W. Brannin and A. J. Boyd, Vincentown, $4,835.00; Ralph S. Herzog, Philadelphia, $4,850.00; Joseph E. Kolster, Beverly, $4,896.00; Hugh B. Miller, Edgewater Park, $5,131.00; William C. Cook, Mount Holly, $6,565.00; Fred G. Lowden, Florence, $7,305.00; H. E. Eichner, Palmyra, $8,470.00. The average of these bids was $5,737.75.

Department bills were ordered paid as follows: Roads, $2,377.66; bridges, $6,206.11; finance, $418.61; public affairs, $1,730.33; public buildings, $10,005.06. Total, $21,835.77.

Attorney General Katzenbach has been requested by Governor Moore to take whatever legal action is necessary to remove the embargo on New Jersey voters imposed by the Federal Government for a "floating" process which the Federal Government insists constitutes adulteration. The "floating" consists in transplanting the voters from their original beds to voting waters in Delaware Bay where the voters are cleaned by the waters.

Henry Harrison, of Newark, whose term will be over this year, and who did not seek renomination, is responsible for the 1926 law which allowed the registry of boards to function three years in succession for registration purposes, in municipalities of over 15,000 the board met between 7 and 9 p. m., October 12; and between 7 and 11 p. m., October 13 and 14, the city boards convened for additional registrations. The Harrison permanent registry law becomes effective January 1 next and operates during 1927. Those who register during 1927 will thereafter become permanent registrants, the voter only being required to notify the board of change of residence or change of name by marriage or court proceedings.

Extravagant and illegal campaign expenditures to secure nomination of candidates for United States Senators were condemned by former Governor E. C. Stokes, chairman of the Republican State Committee, in a statement that he believes is the demoralizing influence of the direct primaries as practiced by the self-seeking candidates. Chairman Stokes goes so far as to predict that some of the nominees, in the event of success, will be finally unseated because of having practically purchased their seats in the United States Senate.

Mr. Stokes' prediction came as an aftermath of his cancelling a debate with Charles R. Hardin, Democratic candidate for State Senator in Essex county. E. Garfield Gifford, chairman of the Republican County Committee of Essex, cautioned the State chairman against debating the modification of the primaries with Mr. Hardin at this time. Hardin's opponent, Joseph G. Wolber, and eight of the twelve Republican candidates for the Assembly, are seeking election November 2d as supporters of the primaries. They are opposed to the plank in the Republican State platform which favors enactment of a law to restore the convention system of nominating candidates for Governor and to have debated with Hardin, the latter a primary supporter, before the League of Women Voters of the Oranges. In a letter to Mr. H. V. Cooke, of Orange, chairman of the league, Mr. Stokes accepted the advice of County Chairman Gifford, but reiterated that he would gladly expound his views as an anti-primaryite after the November 2nd election.

Stokes did not want to embarrass the Republican legislative candidates in Essex, who were in a near-revolt when they learned that the State chairman planned to debate the merits of the convention system.

while the G. O. P. candidates in question were opposed to that plan.

THE VOTELESS VOTER

A well-known humorist, when asked what church he belonged to, answered:

"Well, I haven't gone to church for years, but the one I stay away from when I don't go is the (so and so)"

A good many American citizens might say something like this when asked what ticket they vote. They have not voted for years, but the ticket they stay away from is the Republican—or Democratic, as the case may be. Their activity in politics begins and ends with street corner talk.

We seem to be rapidly becoming a nation that avoids the polls. This is more odd because the ballot is better safe guarded than ever before. Direct primaries, popular election of United States Senators, the initiative and referendum, corrupt practice acts and the Australian ballot are all here after a long struggle. Now that everybody can vote as his conscience dictates, and be sure the vote is counted, the pathway to the election booth is grass-grown and disused.

In Great Britain about 82 per cent of the electorate votes, in Germany nearly the same, Australia 70 per cent, Canada 71 per cent, Italy 64 per cent, but we are somewhere below any of these figures. President Coolidge, over the radio, recently delivered a lay sermon to the nation on this very topic.

"It is not in violence and crime that our danger lies," he said. "These evils are so perfectly apparent that they very quickly arouse the moral power of the people for their suppression. A far more serious danger lies in the shirking of the responsibilities of citizenship, an evil not so noticeable but more insidious and likely to be more devastating."—The Ambassador.

Breaks Arm When Auto Hits Horse

Ellis Clifton Collides With Team On River Road; Horse Killed; Clifton To Hospital

Last Friday evening as he was on his way to Camden, Ellis Clifton, of Riverton, ran into a horse and wagon while returning a curve near the River Road Sand and Gravel Company's plant on the River Road. The horse was so badly injured that a Pennsauken policeman had to kill the animal. Clifton, who was driving a Ford roadster, suffered a compound fracture of the left forearm. Arthur Gray, colored, of Morrisville, who was driving the horse, received bruises when he jumped and fell over a fence at the side of the road. Clifton's car gathered the horse on the running board and crushed it against the fence. The wagon was picked up by the front of the car and the shaft crashed through the windshield breaking Clifton's arm.

Gray claimed that Clifton was driving on the wrong side of the road and travelling at about 50 miles an hour. Clifton denied both of these statements and said that Gray was on the wrong side of the road and without a light. The Pennsauken Chief of Police, Gen. Clifton said, told him that the wagon had no light when he arrived at the scene of the accident. Gray wanted to argue with Clifton but he stopped a passing auto and asked for help for Gray. The man who stopped got Gray back on the road and asked him if he was hurt. He answered in the negative, and the "Good Samaritan" took Clifton to Cooper Hospital where his arm was set and X-rayed. When the X-ray plates were examined it was found that Clifton had a dislocated elbow in addition to the compound fracture.

Chief Cox told Clifton to appear for a hearing the next morning but it was postponed because Clifton was not able to appear, and will be held Sunday morning, October 31st.

DON'T DOPE YOUR BATTERY

Users of storage batteries should beware of the various substances marketed from time to time as manures for battery life. Only within the last few days the National Better Business Bureau has exposed the fraudulent claims of two concerns that are selling a substance which is supposed to lengthen the life of storage batteries, keep them always fully charged, prevent their freezing or overcharging, and produce many other effects of great value.

Investigation of these claims by the National Better Business Bureau showed them to be entirely groundless, the products of both companies being nothing else than common salts to which had been added some potassium-aluminum sulfate. Batteries in their functions perform according to definite laws of electro-chemistry. All electrical engineers insist that batteries cannot be doped or tricked into better performance. Care as recommended by the battery makers is the only treatment of value to batteries.

Mrs. Wall has spent some time in California and moved from there to Florida during the time of the cyclone. She came to Palmyra from Florida about three weeks ago. The recent storm that blew roofs off houses in Camden only strewed the streets in Palmyra with tree limbs. The borough's trucks were used to clean the streets. A large limb broke and was lodged in the tree in front of Harold B. Lever's insurance office. The borough workers removed it for fear it would fall and strike pedestrians. Outside of a few damaged trees, the town escaped any serious loss.

At the coming masquerade dance to be held in the K. of C. Following are some interesting items published in The Mount Holly Mirror issues of October 23 and 30, 1901.

The crop of chestnuts this year is below normal. The Lydia Lippincott farm, near Moorestown, containing 20 1/2 acres was sold at public sale on Wednesday to Heulings Lippincott for $150 per acre.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lydia Lippincott to William Duns Rogers, both about 78 years of age. The ceremony will take place in Moorestown in the near future.

The total attendance at the recent Mount Holly Fair, paid admissions, was 23,764 for the four days. This was highly satisfactory to the association and numerous improvements are contemplated, including painting by ballastum.

Candidate in County Franklin Murphy, Republican candidate for Governor, visited Burlington county on Monday and was received with great enthusiasm by the voters. His address in Mount Holly was delivered at the court house.

Mount Holly's football team defeated North Penn Club, of Philadelphia, on the local field Saturday, 25 to 3. It was the strongest team that has come here this year.

The Columbus, Kinkora and Springfield railroad, running from Kinkora to Lewistown, was sold at the court house on Saturday, under foreclosure proceedings, for $5,000 the bondholders being the purchasers. The bonded indebtedness amounted to $129,800. This is the third oldest railroad in the United States, having been built about 75 years ago to extend from Kinkora and Hanover to Patuxent, the latter being a valuable iron section. It flourished for about 25 years and then business began to fall off.

John Young and Charles Brown, guilty of being implicated in the murder of Washington Hunter, at Riverton, was sentenced by Judge Garrison, on Monday, to pay the death penalty for the crime. Both were sentenced to be hanged in the fall yard on December 3.

Edison's life-size moving pictures will be shown at the Mount Holly M. E. Church next Thursday evening.

Thomas, oldest son of Prosecutor Atkinson, fell from a high fence while playing at his home on Friday and received a compound fracture of the collar bone.

Edgar Haas, for twenty years superintendent of schools for Burlington county, died at his home in Bordentown on Saturday, at the age of 74 years. He was engaged in educational work all his life.

Lippincott, best man. The couple will reside at Atlantic City.

Fred Lippincott Marries The marriage of Anna M., daughter of John E. Darnell, of Mount Laurel, to Fred Lippincott, of Moorestown, took place in the Friends' meeting house, Moorestown, on Thursday. After returning from their honeymoon, the bride and groom will reside on the Joseph Lippincott farm, near Moorestown.

The electric generating power house of the Burlington and Mount Holly railroad, located near the Mount Holly passenger station, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning from a cause unknown. The plant was constructed about six years ago and was equipped with a 300-horsepower Westinghouse engine, boiler and generator and other electrical equipment, all of which were ruined. The plant was established by the Pennsylvania railroad as an experiment in running electric cars. The company ran trolley cars between the two towns in the place of steam trains. It is not thought the plant will be rebuilt.

Tomorrow is donation day at the Burlington County Hospital and all citizens are urged to loosen up and contribute something to this worthy institution.

The Mount Holly railroad station being repaired. What really is needed is a new station.

WHY LOCAL TAXES INCREASE In our Federal Government, the President and Budget Commissioner make a constant fight to keep down and, wherever possible, reduce the national tax burdens.

The Federal Government is working for direct reduction of taxpayers' only think up schemes to increase burdens, while most state politicians seem unable to retrench, and use official functions and keep up new burdens of taxes and debt.

The petrified brain of a prehistoric man, believed to be 35,000 years old, has been found at Odessa, Russia.

Miss Geister will receive a warm welcome from the young people of the county.

Miss Geister's books "The Ice Breaker," "It is to Laugh" and others, are used by all organizations in Burlington County. Miss Geister will receive a warm welcome from the young people of the county.

The adviser of every Girl Reserve club in Burlington County is going to have a real opportunity at the "Study Course for Girl Reserve Advisers," which will be a series of four meetings to convene at intervals of two weeks. The first one of the series will be on Saturday morning, October 30th, from ten to twelve in the Mount Holly YWCA club room. A background, giving an idea of the girls with whom they are working will be the main emphasis for this first meeting.

"The Spirit of the Youth of Today" will be presented and a discussion of "More Complete Living and How to Achieve It," will follow. There will also be a practical demonstration of singing and story telling at this meeting. It is hoped that every Girl Reserve Adviser will avail herself of these opportunities to know more about the splendid work she has undertaken.

The Colored Conference held at the Baptist Church in Moorestown was one of the most interesting programs ever put on by the colored members of the YWCA. Delegations from Burlington, Riverton and Mount Holly were present for the meeting. The conference was led by Mrs. Edward Smith of Mount Holly was one of the most impressive parts of the program. The Junior Girl Reserves of ten years of age led the procession, followed by all of the girls and women of the older clubs.

The speaker for the conference was Mrs. Addie W. Dickerson, a prominent worker in the YWCA in Philadelphia. Mrs. Dickerson made a strong appeal to the race to stand together in the training of the young people of the county so that they may be able to find their place in the world as Christian citizens.

Rev. Hill, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Davis, of Philadelphia, gave short talks. The colored work in the county is led by Mrs. Smith of Mount Holly with a fine group of club leaders. The county secretary supervises and assist with the work.

There were two Girl Reserve

Clubs which met in Riverton recently. The club to which Miss Grace Davis is adviser met at the Presbyterian Church. The following officers for the coming year were elected: Ruth Patterson, President; Jane Blackwell, Secretary; and Irene Sippel, Treasurer.

The rest of the time was given to the making of lamp shades by some of the girls. Those who are not making lamp shades are working on a series of posters which will be illustrative of the Girl Reserve Code.

The other Girl Reserve Club in Riverton is a new club formed by the colored girls of the community under the leadership of Mrs. E. J. Young, Miss Helen Ross, Girl Reserve Secretary, met with them, telling them of the breadth of the Girl Reserve Movement, the meaning of being a Girl Reserve, and the many kinds of activities that girls can do. Dorothy Johnson was elected President of this club.

Other Girl Reserve Clubs which met for the first time this fall during the past fortnight were the Allen School Girl Reserves of Burlington, the Burlington High School club, Maple Shade, Erverson, and the Junior High School Clubs of Moorestown and Mount Holly.

SWEETEST WORDS

Not the sweetest "Yes," but the "Yes" that says "Yes, I will do this Time!"

Perhaps, if you asked a dozen men "What were the sweetest words ever spoken?" you would get as many different answers. One would say, "The 'Yes' that my girl answered when I asked her to marry me." Another might reply, "The first words spoken by my baby daughter." Still others would have a different idea of the sweetest words ever spoken. Maybe, harkening back to the days of the polisher and the brass foot-rest, one of the dozen would tell you that "What'll you have?" always sounded best to him.

But ask the automobile driver who has been held up by a hard-boiled traffic cop for some infraction of the regulations, with visions of the police court staring him in the face, who has finally been let off with the parting injunction, "I'm going to let you go this time but watch your step hereafter."

That driver doesn't have to think twice for his answer when asked "What are the sweetest words ever spoken?"—Mount Holly Mirror.

Fine Dogs Win in Field Finals

Haddonfield Setter Places First in Successful County Game League Event

Very successful field trials of setter and pointer dogs were conducted last week under the auspices of the Burlington County Game Protective League. The trials took place on the farm of the Friend of the Hunting Dog, near Medford. There were two classes, the All-Age and a Derby, the latter, restricted to puppies whelped since January 1, 1925. Dogs that had been placed in their field trials were barred in this class. Entries were open to all dogs owned in Burlington county and to those belonging to members of the Game League, some of whom reside in other municipalities.

Selection of the winners of the Derby was in accord with the judgment of the spectators, of whom there were over one hundred. There were 16 entries in the All-Age class and eight in the Derby. The dogs in the All-Age class had lots of work and the winners stood out prominently in almost every trial, their work being clean-cut and locating the birds perfectly and steadily to wing.

The trophy, a fine silver flower vase, was donated by William W. Worrell, of Mount Holly. Derby winners were as follows: Bellevue Eugene Jack, English setter dog, owned by Frank Queral, Landisville, N. J.; first; Cedarbrook King, setter dog, owned by C. L. Doble, Cedarbrook, N. J.; C. Blasing Pine Knot, pointer dog, owned by E. H. Curtis, New Gretna, third.

The trophy, a carving set, was presented by J. W. Davis, Burlington.

The United States consumes about one-fifth of the total sugar production of the world.

SIX MEALS TOO MUCH

Heavy Eating Caused Death of William Jennings Bryan, Says Expert

Six meals a day, according to Shanes Gordon, writing for Howe's Magazine, were what really killed William Jennings Bryan. Gordon who traveled with Bryan on all his "presidential campaigns," says "It's probable that few more intemperate men ever lived."

Not in drinking, but in eating; as to drink, Bryan was more than a temperate man—he was an absolute prohibitionist. But when it came to eating, Shanes Gordon is sure that "Bryan ate into an untimely grave."

Gordon remembers one huge breakfast eaten by Bryan on a Virginia plantation in 1890. First, a large cantaloupe. Then two quail, followed by Virginia ham and a half dozen eggs. After that he accepted a full plate of butter cakes swimming in butter, and a second helping of the same. In addition, there were many cups of coffee and fried potatoes and side dishes of various kinds before he left the table, and ready to begin a day of speech-making for temperance.

And William Jennings Bryan, at 65, died in his sleep after eating a hearty Sunday dinner on a hot day in Tennessee.

ESTABLISHED AT 307 E. BROAD STREET, PALMYRA, N. J., ONE YEAR AGO

OUR FIRST YEAR of serving the territory embracing Palmyra, Riverton, Riverview, Moorestown and intervening communities with Dodge Brothers Motor Cars and Graham Brothers Trucks has been a year of deep satisfaction, a feeling that comes only from selling a trustworthy product to satisfied customers.

SERVICE, more than complete and cheerfully given, is a watchword that has long been identified with Dodge Brothers products, and as a part of that great organization we have found real pleasure in furnishing to our own territory a full measure of automotive transportation service.

THE RIGHT TOOLS

Nobody knows better than a good mechanic how necessary it is to have the right tools for a good job.

Every different make of car requires different sets of tools, even for the same operation. Without the right tools the job requires much more time, which is wasteful and expensive to the car owner, or the job is poorly done.

We are Dodge Specialists. We have complete tools for every part of a Dodge repair or overhauling job. More over our mechanics are thoroughly experienced in Dodge mechanics and Dodge troubles, few as they are. Let us service YOUR Dodge.

ONE BIG FAMILY

Owners of Dodge Brothers Cars are like one big family. All share alike in their pride and faith in the car they own and all share alike in the trustworthy and efficient service extended to them by Dodge Brothers organization.

It is one big ideal of this agency to develop and perpetuate this family feeling among our customers by rendering at all times dependable and courteous treatment and maintaining a real interest in their welfare.

DEPENDABILITY

Little need be said here of the worth of the Dodge Brothers Motor Car. Its reputation has been soundly established by years of the most satisfactory service to the motoring public.

Dependability has been built into the heart of the Dodge product. The finest steel, tested and selected expressly for the part it is to play; the finely adjusted mechanisms and the latest triumphs of engineering skill are all combined to make the Dodge Automobile a car with an attractive color combination, luxurious comfort, exceptional utility, and a car in which all owners can find the same pride and joy that we have in our product.

Items of General Interest Picked Up About the County and State

Kenneth DeVergnes, a soldier connected with the Brigade Headquarters Company at Camp Dix, was arrested by Policeman Claypool in Mount Holly Saturday, October 16, on a charge of attempt assault on a nine-year-old girl. At the request of camp officials he was turned over to the military authorities, by whom he will be given trial by court martial.

Uncle Ike King, the oldest fireman in Burlington and one of the oldest in the state, celebrated his sixtieth birthday at his home on Stacy street, Thursday of last week. Many friends called with well wishes and a number of congratulatory cards were received.

Some of the stockholders of the Burlington County Transit Company are hoping that the long-drawn-out negotiations in connection with the formal transfer of the property, which was dismantled and altogether abandoned trolley road to the Public Service Electric Company, will be completed in time to allow them to enjoy the use of their pro rata share of the sale price before they are gathered to their fathers. As some of the said bond holders are no longer young they express serious misgivings as to their being in the land of the living when final settlement and distribution of assets is made. It is said that the delay has been occasioned by reason of difficulties before the Board of Public Utilities over the question of the disposition of the present trolley tracks located on public roads and streets.

The arrival of United States Senator Edge, a passenger on the Leviathan with Queen Marie of Roumania, marked the start of a vigorous campaign by New Jersey Republicans. The Senator, acknowledged state leader, will be called upon to smooth out a number of problems, and it is expected his initiative will be utilized in putting fresh impetus into the campaign, now within a fortnight of its crisis.

Under a Supreme Court decision sustaining the Ocean county court judgment, Ovid Feaster, of New Egypt, known to many people in Burlington county, must now serve the sentence of four years in the state prison imposed upon him in the Ocean county court in August, 1922, after he was convicted of robbing the farm house of Herbert Prentice Crane, a rich New Yorker, near Feaster's home, and taking the booty to Cumberland county for disposition. Lawyers say that his fourteen months' stint in the Ocean county jail at Toma River will not count on his sentence in the state prison, as he was there as a result of his appeal and in the absence of bail, and his incarceration cannot be attributed to any action on the part of the state.

Upon her statement that she has not seen her husband since September, 1917, when he is said to have left her after eighteen years of married life, a degree of divorce has been advised by a special master for Mrs. Stella T. Newell, of Bordentown. She brought suit in Chancery Court on the ground of desertion. The act said to have led to the departure of the husband was a gift by the wife of an antique chair to a friend.

Workmen started last week on the tearing up of the old dock of the Hainesport bridge and travel was detoured for a few hours, but due to the failure of some supplies to arrive the detour was lifted. It has been announced, however, that work will be started in earnest on this structure this week, and then it will be necessary for persons traveling between Mount Holly and Philadelphia to detour by way of Hancocks and Centerton.

The building erected by the Knights of Columbus at Wrightstown during the war, and used as a recreation center, which has recently been converted into a moving picture theatre and operated by the Government, under the management of Sergeant Jess Smith, was with its contents of scenery, chairs, picture machines, etc., totally destroyed by a fire of unknown origin on Saturday night, October 16, following the regular performance.

Miss Isabelle Troxell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Troxell, of Warren street, Beverly, former residents of Burlington, was twenty-one years old on Wednesday of last week, and as a birthday gift she received a diploma from the King's County Hospital, Brooklyn. There is no doubt about the age. Miss Troxell admits it, an easy thing to do when a girl is only twenty-one.

A point system based on the character of the students will be in operation in the secondary schools throughout the state within three years. That was predicted by Prof. Charles L. Mauer, historian, in an address to the male students of Camden High School, in describing the system. Prof. Mauer said that the points would be based on the department of the student, and would play a large part in his or her credit upon graduation. This system is already used in some states.

Dr. and Mrs. George W. VanDerveer left Mount Holly on Wednesday of last week for Atlanta, Georgia, where they will spend the winter months with their son-in-law, Alexander Gallenham and family. Dr. VanDerveer recently disposed of his medical practice in Mount Holly and Medford to Dr. R. E. Malsman, after fifty-four years of service in the capacity of a physician, and he and his estimable wife have a host of friends throughout the county who regret to see them break up their home ties here. It is pleasing to learn, however, that they plan to come back north in the spring, with the expectation of occupying their summer cottage at Spray Beach next season. This will give them an opportunity of meeting old friends and acquaintances hereabouts.

Cases Disposed of in County Court

Riverside Man Fined $150 For Part in Stealing Ford Automobile

Where to draw the line between slick methods and false pretenses was a question Judge Slaughter had to wrestle with last week when Ridd Easton and Thomas B. McAulley, both hailing from Omaha, Nebraska, and representing the Associated Trade Press, of Chicago, in the canvass for subscribers to "Industrial Justice," an alleged trade magazine, were before him after having their cases heard by the Court without a jury.

The men were charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in that by sharp practice they secured subscriptions for their paper from Thomas Hedrick, of Indian Mills, and Willis Delleit, of Aston.

The price of the journal was $1 a year, and Hedrick claimed they took his money—$2, for two years when he didn't subscribe at all, while Delleit only wanted to subscribe for one year and when he awakened he found that he had paid $2 for two years, also.

Peaceck's Defense.
The defendant's were represented by Robert Peaceck, who claimed the state had failed to show any false pretense and the Court agreed with him. There was evidence however, that the transaction could be placed in that class known as "shady."

The Court rendered a verdict of not guilty in both cases, but he warned the men that if the publications did not come to the subscribers as agreed upon, the Federal Courts would act on their names, on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

John Miller, of Riverside, charged with stealing a Ford car at that place on March 17, 1922, was before the Court and pleaded guilty. Miller and Daniel Welsh, who was with him at the time, were arrested Philadelphia for having a stolen car in their possession and both were sentenced to serve terms in Norristown, Pa. Jail. Welsh completed his sentence some time back and was released when it was shown that he was merely a passenger with Miller.

Miller's term expired on Friday and he was brought here by Detective Cain.

The Court sentenced him to pay a fine of $150 and he will remain in jail until it is paid.

"Young Griffith" Missing.
Richard Grant alias "Young Griffith," known to the police as the Lenola bootlegger, again failed to appear when his name was called, and if he fails to be on hand when the prisoners are arraigned this week his bail of $1,000 will be ordered forfeited.

William Cole, of Mount Holly, pleaded guilty to stealing milk and cream from doorsteps, the complainant being the Holly Dairy Company and he was fined $40.

Walter Raymond, of Palmyra, a sixty-five-year-old carpenter, was before the Court charged by a representative of the state with failure to properly provide for his two children, both of whom are under ten years of age, and he was ordered to pay $4 a week apiece for their upkeep. It being understood that their grandmother, who lives in Connecticut, will look after them.

Raymond was before the Court only a few months back on a similar charge. He is the father of seven children, but it appears that the other five had been provided for since his first appearance.

Morris Polberg and Max Galman, of Riverside, charged in eight indictments with forgery and embezzlement, had the cases against them nolle prossed.

Martha Green, engaged in the hair dressing business in Mount Holly, who counts among her clientele some of the best people in Mount Holly and vicinity, was charged with practicing chiropody without a license. While this case was being pushed by the medical board there were two medical doctors of Mount Holly who appeared as character witnesses for Mrs. Green. Dr. H. E. Longsdorf and Dr. Daniel F. Reiner. Judge Slaughter reserved his decision until November 5.

Mrs. Frons Bowen, of Riverside, pleaded guilty to infractions of the medical laws, and was fined $200. Jennie Levine, of Burlington, also pleaded guilty to similar charges, and was similarly fined. Mrs. Bowen was represented by V. Claude Palmer, of Mount Holly, and Mrs. Levine by Attorney Ernest Watts, of Burlington.

Walter C. Bewley, of Riverside, a chiropodist, was tried for an infraction of the medical laws, and was convicted. A fine of $200 was imposed. Joseph W. Bewley, a Burlington chiropodist, who had been fined in a previous conviction, had his case dismissed.

Vulcanizing was first achieved when a pot of rubber upset and came into contact with sulphur.

mission township, and thought it would work to the advantage of all in many ways—at this particular time in the matter of a sewer disposal plant.

"Nothing impossible," says Vice Mayor James T. Wren, of the Borough of Palmyra, confirmed that the accommodations of the dream of the three municipalities lying down peacefully together in one town looked a little distant to him. "But," he added hopefully, "nothing is impossible." He said that he had seen many indications lately of a better feeling between the towns, and had noted with much satisfaction a growing spirit of cooperation.

Criss, in an illustration, the five townships of the two towns, he said that he remembered the early days when each town had a little four-wheel horse cart. "Then," he said, "you dragged your little cart to town and called us a lot of junk, and we dragged our little cart up to your town and called you a lot of junk. But it is all different now. We each have good equipment, we respect each other, we work together for the common good and our streets function in harmony. There is no harmful rivalry between them when in action in conjunction with it."

"Now," said Mayor Wren, "if this can be done with the five townships, it can be done in other matters, too." If not under one government, then under two governments working together, he believed lay the road to future progress and development. He suggested that Riverton take in the section of Cinnaminson adjacent to it, and that Palmyra do the same, and then the two enlarged municipalities pool their interests whenever practical. He closed by saying that while he did not expect to live to see the two towns together under one form of government, his support could be counted on whenever there was any chance for cooperation.

President Mills said he hoped "Mayor Jim" was wrong. He believed that the two towns would be forced together for mutual protection against outside pressure. Camden, he said, would in a few years extend right up to the Pennsauken creek, with all the advantages a city has to offer, and that if these two towns are to hold their own they must effect the savings that come from having a larger population over which to distribute the overhead items of municipal government.

Senator Roberts offers to help. Senator Emmor Roberts was the final speaker of the evening. He said that two towns situated as Riverton and Palmyra are would naturally be rivals, but that there need be no spirit of antagonism. Both, he said, bordered on the same river, were traversed by the same transportation lines, served by the same telephone and telegraph facilities, their main streets ran in the same direction and led from one town directly into the other. Under such conditions, he said, a spirit of cooperation was most desirable and the only logical one. The Senator said that over his way folks thought of Riverton and Palmyra as one community, in fact they are geographically, adding that "when your towns are so close together that the dividing line is indistinguishable to strangers and must be pointed out to them, it would not be impossible to eliminate it between ourselves." He said that when it came to the point where legislation could help get the people of the two towns together, Assemblyman Powell and himself would be very glad to do what they could be of service to the towns.

Turning from local problems to the larger aspect of the State, Senator Roberts delivered that splendid address of his which makes every one of his hearers glad and proud to be a Jerseyman. Starting with the proposition that progress and success in a community depend on three things—resources, climate and accessibility, the Senator pointed out that New Jersey is situated between the water and the safety miles of inland waterways, it is forty-fifth in area but tenth in population, and first in proportion to area, in railroad mileage—one mile of rail to every three square miles of territory. The Senator gave a lot of other interesting facts about our State, but the reporter could not keep up with his notes, and thought to get the data from the Senator after the meeting. His notes, however, that the Senator was scheduled to speak at the Parent-Teacher reception immediately after the rotary dinner, and there was no chance to get the desired information. And so, the reporter asked for the notes from which the Senator spoke. They were cheerfully given, but with a twinkle of the eye which the scribe did not fully appreciate until later—when he turned to the notes to finish this article.

Then the meaning of the temple became apparent. The notes were undecipherable, at least to the reporter. They must have meant a lot to the Senator, for he proceeded with his speech with speed and assurance, but they were all Greek to the man with the pen and pencil. However, if you ever have a chance to hear Senator Roberts talk about New Jersey, do not miss it. He can tell you more about your State in five minutes than you ever dreamed of. He is said to be one of the very best informed men of this subject in the State—or out of it.

up a Palmyra pass. McGuire gained three yards through tackle. After Patton passed Cinnaminson went through tackle for four yards, then Herb Schuster rounded right and for a first down. Roberts and Carhart fought with each other as to who would catch a pass from "Rob" and the result was neither caught the ball. Palmyra gained possession of the ball on down and sent in the third quarter center Wagner skirted right and for a first down.

Wagner kicked field goal On the first play of the last period a Palmyra back field man fumbled. Wagner was thrown a loss by the Hyton. Wagner, who used to drop kick for Palmyra High stood on the 37-yard line and booted a beautiful drop (which scored three points) as was ever seen since the days when "Dun" Coe booted the oval for Riverton. Wagner was not the best at hand or nerve, he simply took the pass from center dropped it and kicked it with perfect rhythm which is a thing very few footballers can do.

Wagner kicked off Don Williams fumbled the ball and "Big Bertha" Hollingshead for Palmyra's left end so fast that the visitors' line never saw him go. "Goliath," "Pomposi"

Richman, and Big Bertha gained another first down. Deertoot brought out the Palmyra boys for a pass of thirty-five yards around left end. An attempted pass by Riverton was downed behind the goal line and the ball was put in play on the 25-yard line. Big Bertha intercepted a Palmyra pass. Collins and Big Bertha gained another first down through the center of the line on two plunges. Again Deertoot gained 12 yards around right end. Palmyra took the ball on down, but Wagner fumbled and lost eight yards on the churning white blow.
