Increased gas rates on all bills running from 600 cubic feet up to 3,000 were granted to the Public Service Electric and Gas Company by the State Utility Commission in a decision announced Monday.

Below 600 cubic feet consumption the charge is to remain as in the past, namely, $1 flat. Hitherto this has been the rate on bills up to 800 cubic feet.

Beginning with 3,100 cubic feet there is a gradual reduction in rates recommended up to 4,000 cubic feet over the present charges in this class.

The decision found that the present rates are unjust and unreasonable and further that they discriminate between the different classes of customers, resulting in serious consequences for the company.

Compromise Rates

Therefore, the Public Utility Commission made up its own rate schedule for the company to adopt, which seems to be in the nature of a compromise between the present charges and those the Public Service wanted to put into effect. The board's rates are "recommended" to the company for adoption, not ordered. But it is understood they will be accepted.

In December last the Public Service filed new schedules for both its electric and gas rates, the former carrying a reduction and the latter an increase. The reductions were approved without opposition.

The decision says the schedule proposed by the company would have increased its revenue approximately $400,000 or about one and a half per cent., but that the rates recommended by the board would bring to the company, on the basis of 1928 sales of gas, no more gross revenue than is realized under the present schedule of charges.

Board Justifies Action

"The president of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company stated very clearly in this hearing that the main purpose of the company was to secure the rate which would induce a larger use of gas and that the increase in revenue from the present volume of sales was a mere incident," commented the Utility Board decision.

Answering the criticism that the company wanted to heap the increase on the smalled consumers and to decrease the charge for the big users of gas, the decision makes this comment.

"It should be emphasized that the charge of $1 for the first 400 cubic feet is imposed on each and every customer, large or small, and that each customer must pay the identical rate for all gas consumed by him at the various block rates. Contrary to the opinion expressed by some parties at the hearing, the record does not show that the very small consumers are necessarily poor people, on the other hand the evidence indicates the frequently well-to-do residents in apartment houses use very little gas."

Up to this time the flat $1 charge has been in effect on all bills rendered up to 800 cubic feet. The Public Service wanted to charge this to increase the charge to $1.19 beginning at 400 cubic feet. The decision refused to permit this, however. So that the first increase permitted begins in the 600 cubic feet block. Here the company proposed to jump from $1.00 to $1.38, but the Utility Board recommends $1.22. From this point on in the scale of consumption the board allows an advance, over present charges on every added 200 cubic feet of gas used.

Charges at 3100 Feet

By studying the table of charges recommended by the Utility Commission decision it is shown that the first decrease over present rates begins at 3100 cubic feet. At present this charge is $3.72, and under the board's suggested rate is will be $3.71.

The company's own proposed schedule, which was rejected, planned the first reduction at 3400 feet, which would have been $4.04, as against the present $4.08.

"Not only are the present rates discriminatory, as between different classes of customers, but they have serious consequences for the company," commented the decision today from the commission.

"Under modern social and industrial conditions the gas industry has practically lost its lighting business and is dependent principally upon the use of gas for fuel. Here it is in competition with other fuels, such as oil and coal. And so the cost of gas must be placed more nearly on competetive basis in order to prevent loss of business and to create an additional demand for gas for cooking, water heating, house heating and industrial purposes so that the future stability of the industry may be assured."

To arouse interest in the contents of a book he was selling, [redacted] gentle with ourselves, we'd become still gentler. Truly a "still," "small" voice.

The Law, the Prophets, and all the Apostles warn us repeatedly that the "tongue is an unruly member." "Behold, how much wood is kindled by how small a fire!" If we kindled the fire within us instead of sending it forth into the world we, perhaps, would be less eager for the opportunity.

Words — the product, the tongue — the tools. What a powerful combination; what a power for good or for evil. We aren't inclined to preach but we are still inclined to the belief that a period of being constructed with our tongues hinged at the front would be beneficial to the world and to ourselves. It would be a "telling sitution" and give us much time for "introSPITion."

Paving recently completed on State Routes is shown in the new map and roads under construction are also indicated.

Attractive views of several important bridges and highways constructed by the State Highway Commission are shown on the map, including an interesting photograph of the bridge now being constructed across the Raritan River southeast of New Brunswick. The view of the span was taken from an airplane and portrays the progress being made on this concrete arch bridge.

The new map also carries cautionary and directionary signs and highway markers.

An artist's sketch of Holland Tunnel Approach Roads around Jersey City, Newark and Elizabeth helps to visualize this great road construction project in a new way.

The high standard of the work of the State Highway Commission has won nationwide commendation and this new map in its convenient size will be of assistance to the motoring public in finding and using roads built by the State for their benefit.

Data for the map was compiled by W. T. Campbell, of the State Highway Department.

YES, A GOOD 5c CIGAR AT LAST

It Knocks Out All Previous Ideas You Ever Had

Men, forget the many times you've lit a five-center, taken a few puffs and thrown it away. Try one more brand: Bayuk's Havana Ribbon. You sure will hold on to this one!

Bayuk's Havana Ribbon is a five-cent cigar in one respect only; Price. By every other comparison, it belongs to a considerably higher-priced class. And the reason is—It's ripe tobacco! Many five-cent cigars contain the poorer leaves of the tobacco plant—under-ripe top leaves (usually bitter); or over-ripe bottom leaves (usually flat-tasting). Bayuk's Havana Ribbon contains only choice fully-ripe middle leaves. Imagine getting, for five cents, all the fragrant, mellow-mild goodness of tobacco at its best! You can prove it in two minutes. Plank down one jitney at the next cigar counter and ask for Bayuk's Havana Ribbon. Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

Hints for Motorists

If you repaint Old Faithful yourself this Spring, be sure to clean off all rust streaks and spots first. The new paint will come off wherever rust is left on the body.

Under-inflation is more damaging to balloon tires than to the old high-pressure kind because the side walls of an under-inflated balloon flex more than do the walls of a harder tire.

QUIET SUNDAY AT CAMP OCKANICKON

Burlington County Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Plays at Outdoor Chapel Service

Since Wednesday and Saturday are the regular visiting days at Camp Ockanickon, Sunday was spent very quietly by the campers, for only a few people who could not come any other time visited the Camp.

Robert D. Hughes, Chairman of the Burlington County YMCA Board of Woodbury, was the speaker, along with Charles R. Scott, State Boys' Work Secretary of the YMCA, in the outdoor chapel service in the morning. In this beautiful setting among the trees, Mr. Hughes spoke on the "Religion of the Presidents," bringing out how the leaders of our country rely upon God for strength and guidance in their great offices. Mr. Hughes stated that most of our 30 Presidents were members of church. Many interesting specific instances in the lives of Presidents were brought out, showing that their moral and spiritual life was obtained through the Bible and communion with God.

Charles R. Scott followed up this thought with the idea that not only the Presidents of our country are deeply spiritual, but many boys today are living deeply spiritual lives and are doing some real thinking along moral issues of the present day. He illustrated this by the story about Harry Foster, an old Wawayanda camper, whose life was such an inspiration to cowmen while he spent a few months on the plains.

The Burlington County YMCA Orchestra, led by Guy C. Hendry, provided instrumental music during the chapel service and also for the camp following the chapel service.

A novel program was put on by the campers for the benefit of the visitors on Saturday evening in the form of radio broadcasting from Station C-A-M-P. Many of the features were acted out after being announced by the radio announcer and proved to be quite interesting.

During the past week there have been about 275 in attendance at Camp, and no less than this are expected for the remaining four weeks. The quota for the fifth week has already been exceeded, and no other applications will be accepted for it. There are still a few openings for the fourth and sixth weeks.

CINNAMINSON GIRL IS SERIOUSLY HURT AS BUS HITS AUTO

Miss Susan Lippincott Suffering With Fractured Ribs and Internal Injuries

4 CARRIER PASSENGERS ARE SLIGHTLY INJURED

Debutante Thrown Through Top of Car, Landing on Edge of Cornfield

Miss Susan Lippincott, popular South Jersey society debutante, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lippincott, of Riverton Road, Cinnaminson, was seriously injured when the car she was driving was sideswiped by a bus at the intersection of Riverton Road and Branch Pike Monday afternoon.

Although Dr. S. Emlen Stokes, of Moorestown, who was attending her, had been unable to give a complete diagnosis, due to her condition, Tuesday at noon she was reported to be suffering with internal injuries, the extent of which were not known, and fractured ribs.

Corporal Horn, in charge of the State Police Station at Bridgeboro, who was called on the accident, had been unable to obtain a statement from Miss Lippincott up to Tuesday noon. It was reported that she had been in a semi-conscious condition since the accident.

Four passengers on the bus, which is operated by the White Way Tours and was headed for New York, were slightly injured. They were treated by Dr. R. Ernst Imhoff, of Moorestown, and were able to leave on the bus.

Miss Lippincott's Cadillac touring car was almost a total wreck. The big carrier skidded on the wet macadam as it turned onto Riverton Road from Branch Pike, the rear sideswiping the rear of Miss Lippincott's machine, which was travelling toward Riverton.

The girl was thrown through the top of the car, landing on edge of cornfield.

Both cars left the road after the crash, the young woman's machine stopping as it hit a tree. Her machine was almost completely demolished. Windows in the rear of the carrier, on the left side, were broken, and the body was dented in. After being pulled up on the road by another bus, the big machine departed under its own power to continue the trip to New York.

Two girls, who gave their addresses as Drexel Park and Ocean Grove, were among the bus passengers treated by Dr. Imhoff. They suffered minor bruises. Abe Schwartz, of Asbury Park, and Petty Officer Cromley, of the U. S. S. Concord, were the other two injured bus passengers. Schwartz suffered body bruises while the sailor was treated for a glass cut of the left ear.

George R. Loeb, 3115 West Dakota street, Philadelphia, the bus operator, was released under $1,000 bond, pending the outcome of Miss Lippincott's injuries, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Walter F. Middleton in his office at Moorestown, Monday evening.

Miss Lippincott, it is understood, was rushed to her home, which is not more than a city block from the scene of the accident, by a passing motorist. She was alone in the car.

PUBLIC SERVICE TO ACCEPT NEW RATE

President McCarter, Thinks Gas Schedule Inadequate, But Willing to Give It Fair Trial

Following is a statement given out by Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, in regard to the Public Utilities Commission's recent decision on gas rates:

"Although the gas rate schedule recommended by the Utility Board is not what we had hoped to receive nor, in my judgment, what we had the right to expect, nevertheless we have determined to accept the Board's recommendation and give the new rates a fair trial.

"It was made clear at the outset of the case that we were endeavoring to set up a new rate structure that would promote the larger use of gas and at the same time be more equitable to all classes of consumers.

"We believe that the Board in its suggested schedule has recognized the principle for which we contended, namely, the establishment of rates which will induce larger use of gas for both domestic and industrial purposes, and while we feel that the schedule which we filed would more nearly have served this purpose, we are hopeful that the rates recommended will bring about a condition beneficial alike to the public and the company."

MRS. ANNA SCHRAMM

Interment was made in Arlington Cemetery near Camden.

RIVERTON SCHOOL WILL OPEN LATER

Board Defers Fall Opening Until September 9 Instead of 4th

Twenty-four pupils applied to the Riverton Board of Education for admission to High School at the meeting of that body last Thursday night, twelve designating Moorestown High and twelve the Palmyra High.

At a previous meeting a suggestion was made that school open one week later in September, owing to the probability of the weather being warm but no action was taken. Thursday night Mr. Rutherford put the matter officially before the Board in the form of a motion that the opening date be September 9 instead of the fourth, and it was unanimously carried.

In order to the protect the hedge bordering the front walk to the school building, Mr. Steedle recommended that the iron fence that now runs from the building to the sidewalk be continued across the front and up to the building along the walk. He was given permission to have this done providing the cost does not exceed $125.

Mrs. C. P. Mayfield, president, appointed Messrs. Elwell and Steedle to serve on the committee to audit the books of the District Clerk.

Three bids were received for painting the school building, inside and out. The bid of S. J. Coddington Estate was $425. To this some extras will be added, costing probably $50.

Darlington, of Mount Holly, asked $460 to do the work, while Grau & Rice bid $960.

The mater was referred to the Property Committee with power to act.

Miss Chew, supervising principal, submitted her final report for the year.

Miss Chew's Report

Since the meeting of the Board on June 3rd, the various departments of the school finished the outlined work of the school year.

All children who had not received a physical examination because of late entrance into the school were examined by the medical inspector in June.

Results of toxin-anti-toxin innoculation are as follows:

Number of children innoculated previous to campaign	56
School innoculation	117
Total	173

The school records showed very few returns of cards signed by parents stating that attention was being paid to physical defects reported. We are hoping for better follow-up work next year, through the operations of the school nurses.

There were 138 cases of contagious diseases which caused children to be excluded from school, classified as follows:

Diphtheria	2
Whooping Cough	35
Measles	67
Chicken-Pox	32
Mumps	2

The annual examinations were made very early in the year, for which the medical inspector should be commended, and also for attention given to 175 children sent to his office for various suspected ailments.

Probably the long periods of epidemic accounted for some lack of

Glaesser — Ackerman

Miss Katherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ackerman, Kresson avenue, Haddonfield, and Mr. Russell Glaesser, of Palmyra, were married at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon, June 29th. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert H. Morris, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

The bride was attended by Miss Edith Hart, of Haddonfield, and given away by her father. The best man was George Glaesser, of Palmyra, a brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held and the happy couple left for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Glaesser will live in Haddonfield until their new home is finished on the Palmyra Extension.

THREE FINED IN COUNTY COURT

Case Against Palmyra Girl Said to be Incorrible, Deferred

Judge Rigg had several criminal matters presented to him for disposition in Court Thursday of last week, chief among which was the case of Armanda Bellini, of Florence, charged with atrocious assault and battery on John Agostenelli, a Florence storekeeper, on March 29.

Bellini attacked Agostenelli with a knife, after, it was claimed, he had lain in wait for him. After the assault he jumped into his waiting automobile and supposedly fled to Trenton. He has been at large until a few weeks back, when he was picked up on bench warrant, and on coming before the Court entered a plea of not guilty.

Last Thursday he was taken before Judge Rigg and made a retraction of his plea, after the charge been modified to plain assault and battery when he pleaded non vult contendere. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $250.

Charles Kelly, convicted of the sale of liquor at a roadhouse kept by him in Burlington Township, which was raided by the State Troopers, and also convicted on a charge of maintaining a house where liquor was kept, was before the Court for sentence.

Kelly has been a persistent offender, having been fined and also having served a term in the County Jail for offenses against the prohibition laws, and this time he was sentenced to three months in jail on the sale charge, and was fined $300 on the charge of maintaining a house.

David A. Steele, colored, of Burlington, tried and convicted on a charge of embezzling $32 from a Burlington woman who trusted him, was fined $75 and given two weeks in which to pay the amount; otherwise he will be committed to jail until it is paid.

Willis Emmons, of Mount Holly, charged with failing to support his wife and four children, will have to pay $10 a week and furnish a bond for $500 guaranteeing the payment, or go to jail. He was placed on probation for two years.

Emmons has been before the Court before on a similar charge.

Erma Fitzgerald, an eighteen-year-old colored girl from Palmyra, came in on a waiver and pleaded guilty to assaulting her mother, by hitting her in the head with a stone.

The girl had been reported to Prosecutor Hillman as being incorrigible, but due to the absence of the parents, Judge Rigg thought he would rather hear more about the case, and it went over for a week.

WORK ON STREET NEARLY FINISHED

Improvement of Palmyra's Main Thorofare and Lighting System Soon Ready

Work on the widening and improvement of Broad street, Palmyra, in the business section is practically finished. It will be several days before the new pavement can be used as considerable time is required between the time the concrete is poured and the time it is settled enough to be used without damage.

An improvement which is receiving almost as much favorable comment as the actual widening of the street is the lighting system being installed. The new lights will make Palmyra the brightest spot between Camden and Trenton and will do much to create a favorable impression on all who pass through.

The new system consists of 600 candlepower incandescent lights mounted on boulevard standards along the curb line. There will be four of these in each of the three main business blocks with additional standards on the northwest corner of Broad and Leconey and the northeast corner of Broad and Morgan. Also one on Cinnaminson avenue.

The standards for the lights have already been erected and electricians are expected to have the installation completed with a very few days.

NO CASES BEFORE DISTRICT COURT ON ITS OPENING DAY

Last Thursday was the date set by Judge Frank A. Mathews for the opening of Burlington County's new District Court, over which he will preside, and the Judge and his retinue of officers were on hand ready for business, but there were no cases to be heard and an adjournment was taken until Thursday, July 11. The Judge optimistically informed a scribe that there would be several cases to be heard at the next session.

ICE WAR TOO HOT TO SUIT ICEMEN

Manufacturers Agree to Patch Up Differences and Return to Old Prices

The ice war which has been warmly applauded by the ice-buying public has finally gotten much too hot for the gentlemen who are engaged in the business of selling the cooling substance.

Announcement was made last week by all the dealers that, effective Monday, July 1, the price of ice would be the same as it was before the recent price war. The new rate is 75 cents per hundred, 35 cents for fifty pounds and 18 cents for 25 pounds. The "war" price was 25 cents per hundred, 15 cents for fifty pounds, and 10 cents for 25 pounds.

Hostilities started about two months ago when the summer ice season opened. There are two ice plants in this territory, the Fay Sales Company, East Riverton, and the Riverside Ice and Cold Storage Company, Riverside.

Each of these companies blamed the other for cutting the price and began to take retaliatory measures. The result was that territories where one company was serving ice at the regular price was invaded by the other at the lower price and thus forcing both to sell their product at the very low price of 25 cents per hundred pounds.

According to the ice men the cost of producing and delivering ice is much more than this and the result was that business was done at a loss during this time.

The new price, which is said to represent a fair profit, is in effect by all local dealers. The dealers were not responsible for price-cutting competition, but were forced into it when the ice manufacturing firms which supply the dealers began to cut each other's prices.

Coward — Hitchner

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Jessie Hogan Hitchner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Hitchner, of Camden, to Charles Waddell Coward, of Riverton, on June 29.

The ceremony was performed in the Dutch Reformed Church at New Paltz, New York, with only the immediate members of the two families present. Rev. Thomas H. Hicks was the officiating clergyman assisted by Robert D. Coward, a brother of the bridegroom.

Mary Coward, vocalist, rendered two selections, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because."

Miss Kathryn Adams, of Lebanon, Pa., attended the bride as maid of honor and Harold W. Coward was best man for his brother.

Following an extended wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Coward will be at home after September 1 at 215 Thomas avenue, Riverton.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS BEING CHANGED

Problem of Palmyra's Busiest Intersection Simplified by Widening Broad St.

The widening of Broad street has made changes necessary in Palmyra's traffic control system at the town's busiest intersection.

Chief of Police C. Morris Beck has made plans for handling the heavy traffic the new bridge is expected to bring and is arranging the traffic lights accordingly.

There will no longer be lights in the middle of Cinnaminson avenue, which is a State Highway. The standards supporting the lights which were formerly placed on either side of the railroad have been moved.

The one on the south side of the tracks has been set back onto the curb so it will be to the right of northbound traffic. The main control box and the four way light has been moved from Cinnaminson avenue and located just off the line of this street and in the center of Broad street. Here the light can be seen clearly from all sides and will make it possible to move all traffic signs at the intersection with the exception of the two lights.

Broad and Cinnaminson had represented a very troublesome traffic system for many years, owing to the many complications caused by two main highways, the railroad and trolley line in addition to an offset in the street.

The widening of the street will do away with the offset and will greatly facilitate the handling of the traffic at this point.

LEGION AUXILIARY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Charles A. King, President; Mrs. Maurice Sandoz is Vice President

At the business meeting of the Legion Auxiliary held in the Home on Wednesday evening, June 19, the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Charles A. King; vice president, Mrs. Maurice Sandoz; secretary, Mrs. Ralph A. Fisher; treasurer, Mrs. William J. Cassidy.

At the State Convention held last fall in Bridgeton an amendment was made to our by-laws requiring all units to elect new officers during the period from June to the month of the next State Convention, which will be September 5, 6 and 7 this year. To any members, not familiar with this amendment, this will explain the election taking place so early in the year.

All members are urged to arrange to attend the rally at Bordentown, Saturday, July 13. A big time has been planned and if you know what a Legion rally means you'll be sure to be on hand. If you don't know—come and see! The parade has been arranged for 6 p. m. and this should give us all ample time to get to Bordentown and be in line.

County meeting will be held in Beverly on Friday evening, July 19. This meeting is one of importance as election of county officers will be held at this time. It is not very far from home so we should all make a special effort to go.

The carnival was hard work, but we feel repaid for our work since it was quite successful. To everyone who helped make it so — whether by work or donations, we would say a hearty Thank You.

We are going to have a picnic soon, so get out the lunch baskets and the bathing suits, you'll need them! Details will be announced later so watch for the time and place!

SCOUTS ATTENTION!

Scouts who have sent in their applications for camp will please be at the Palmyra R. R. station at eleven o'clock next Saturday morning. They are to bring with them all their equipment. Transportation will be provided. Please be prompt.

LUTHER H. CHAMBERS

FEARLESS PILOT TO THRILL CROWD

Will Do Aerial Stunts Over River Before Fourth of July Parade Starts

Chick Boule and his new Commander biplane will provide the aerial thrills for Palmyra's Fourth of July celebration.

Chick will arrive early with one or more of his buddies in separate planes and will make his headquarters on the Harvey Sharpless farm between Palmyra and Moorestown. Arrangements have been made for a landing field by the P. O. S. of A. which is sponsoring this event and passenger hops will be made during the day.

The Sharpless farm is located on the Palmyra-Berlin road about two miles south of Palmyra. A large crowd is expected to be at the field to enjoy the thrills and take "hops." Several tickets have already been sold. Those not purchasing tickets in advance may obtain same on the field.

The Field Club grounds will not be used, as at first intended, owing to limited space. The aerial program will be carried out otherwise, as previously advertised. Many valuable prizes will be given away to holders of the lucky tickets. Prizes will be awarded on the landing field after the parade and the ceremonies in the Grove.

Daring aerial maneuvers will open the day's celebration. The fearless Chick will go through his complete repertoire thousands of feet above the Delaware river. Bombing maneuvers, loops, wing-overs, barrel rolls, and a full bag of aerial tricks will be on view for the people of Palmyra and Riverton before time for the parade.

The airplanes will return to the landing field before the general parade starts, so as not to distract attention from this event.

Several well known aviators have expressed their intention of dropping in and paying a visit during the day. Former State Senator Eamor Roberts, popular amateur pilot, has promised to fly over from the Moorestown airport and take part in the day's proceedings.

Arrangements are being made for bus transportation from Palmyra Station to the field at a cost of 10 cents.

Among the prizes to be given to holders of the lucky numbers are a boudoir lamp, donated by Ellis Hardware Store; a man's tie from Freeman's Economy Store; a flashlight, by Schwering's Hardware Store, and boxes of candy given by Eberly's Drug Store and L. G. Rogers' United Cigar Store. Another prize will be a ticket good for having a suit French dry cleaned at J. L. Young's.

William Blackburn

Funeral services were held Tuesday for William Blackburn, 82, who died suddenly of heart disease Saturday at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Mervil E. Haas, Fourth street and Elm avenue, Palmyra. Service took place at 8 a. m. at the home, followed at 9 o'clock by High Mass of Requiem at Sacred Heart Church. Interment was made in New Cathedral Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Mr. Blackburn, for many years a resident of Camden, had been living with another granddaughter, Mrs. Frances Haas, Riverside. He was a retired mechanic and is survived by two sons, William, Jr., Philadelphia, and Thomas, Merchantville; two daughters, Mrs. S. L. Haines and Mrs. Arthur Lovitt, Cleveland; ten grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my many friends who so kindly remembered me with flowered and in other ways during my recent serious illness.

MRS. CLARA B. PERSON.

The purpose of higher education is not to reform young men or to amuse them, or to make them technicians in any field. It is to teach them to think, to think straight if possible, but to think always for themselves.—Robert M. Hutchins.

BEAUTIFUL NEW "INVALID COACH" TO BE IN PARADE

Palmyra Ambulance Association Receives Splendid Machine for Community Use

WORTH MOTOR COMPANY WAS SUCCESSFUL BIDDER

Committee Made Careful Investigation Before Deciding on Make to Purchase

The Palmyra Ambulance Association has received its handsome new "Invalid Coach" and will have it in the Fourth of July parade so that all may see it.

The machine is one of the finest that money could buy and is, indeed, a credit to the community which it will serve. It is a Studebaker DeLuxe Samaritan model and is powered with a Studebaker straight eight motor of ample power to meet any possible requirement of speed and stamina.

The new car, unlike the old one, is built throughout as an ambulance and requires no alterations to fit it for use. It was built complete in the Studebaker factory and delivered to the Palmyra Association by the Worth Motor Company, of Beverly, which was the successful bidder.

Service Available

The Worth Company, in addition to being lowest bidder, is also nearby so that an added advantage in service is readily available.

The cost of the new machine was $3,165.00, complete and delivered. An allowance of $665.00 was made on the old ambulance, making the net cost $2,500.00. This amount the association had on hand as a result of its cake sale held a few weeks ago and donations which have been made from time to time.

The new machine is the latest type of ambulance on the market today, having all of the approved features. It is fitted with a special type cot which is on wheels and can easily be moved from the ambulance to the bed of the patient.

Entrance is made from either the side or the rear of the machine. It is not necessary to back up to the curb to load. The machine is beautifully finished in Omaha gray and represents an unusually fine appearance.

Careful Investigation

The purchase of this machine was approved by the committee appointed for the purpose only after careful investigation of many makes and models. The committee was composed of Joseph Stack, C. Morris Beck and Ed Bennett.

Some of the specifications of the machine are noted in the following description:

Rear compartment—Invalid compartment is fully upholstered in special deep buff gray rose brocaded genuine leather below the belt line. The head lining and side is of high grade linoleum permitting the use of antiseptic after use.

The heater is of fresh air type, obtains heat from the exhaust pipe which supplies an abundance of fresh warm air.

A spacious medicine cabinet is fitted against the back of the front seat and is equipped with two one-quart vacuum thermos bottles. A towel rack is also included.

Other equipment includes two dome lights in rear compartment, one flower vase, one Loraine spot light, one electric fan, two attendants chairs.

The motor is the Studebaker Commander straight eight which develops eight horsepower.

FRATERNAL ORDER IS CONGRATULATED

Artisans in Fine Financial Condition According to Bank Examiners

Three high authorities have congratulated the Artisans Order of Mutual Protection recently on its standing in the fraternal field. The organization, which is a mutual concern, has more than 32,000 members, many of whom live in this vicinity. With no paid officials except for necessary office help, the organization occupies a high place in organizations of the kind.

"The order is in a healthy financial condition and, in the opinion of the examiners, well managed," said the insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania.

I heartily congratulate you on the splendid condition disclosed by the valuation of your society," wrote Clarence L. Alfred, a famous actuary of Nashville, Tenn., and a firm of auditors in Philadelphia said. "We are pleased to state that we found all records well kept and in order."

STATE GIVES $50,000 TO IMPROVE STREETS

The State Highway Commission appropriated $50,000 at its meeting in Trenton Tuesday, to be used for the improvement to the approaches to the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge.

Hilton road, Broad street and Market streets will receive the bulk of the appropriation, which will be largely of a temporary nature. Permanent improvements will be made later.

It is already been announced that Market street will be paved with concrete and used as a temporary outlet.

PLYMOUTH MOTOR CAR HAS BIRTHDAY

Automobile Introduced Last 4th of July to Celebrate First Anniversary

Observing the first birthday of the Plymouth motor car, which coincides with the birthday of the Nation, Sweeney-Brooks, Inc., local Plymouth dealers, threw open their showrooms last night on one of the most unusual and attractive displays of automobiles seen here for some time. Similar displays are being conducted by dealers throughout the country until July 13.

The improved Plymouth cars in a variety of new color combinations feature the showing. They are being displayed in a patriotic setting of red, white and blue decorations. An unusual amount of interest was evident among the many who thronged the showrooms during the opening evening, according to Mr. Sweeney.

"Inauguration of the policy of offering the Plymouth in more than one standard color combination is a further indication of the desire of the Plymouth Motor Corporation to give to the public a product that is outstanding in appearance as well as inherent quality and performance," Mr. Sweeney remarked in commenting upon the display. "In addition to these new color combinations, the improved Plymouth now possesses a number of engineering refinements in both the body and the chassis. Body engineers at the factory have been working consistently with the thought in mind of making the Plymouth bodies even stronger, more roomy and more comfortable than they have been.

"Those who visited the showrooms last evening and inspected and drove one or more of the models, were particularly impressed with the roominess and the comfort of the full size bodies that this car possesses. Women who drove the cars were enthusiastic concerning the Plymouth's ease of operation and handling.

"Although this is only the first birthday of the Plymouth, production at the factory in Detroit has already reached enormous proportions. In less than ten months from the time the first car was produced, production figures reached one thousand units a day—a record for the entire industry."

NEW SHOWS SATURDAY AT TRENTON THEATRE

Capitol Falls in Line With Larger Cities to Obtain Best Programs

In co-operation with the nation-wide movement of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Circuit of theatres to have its shows all open on the same day, Saturdays, B. F. Keith's Capitol Theatre, of Trenton, will fall into line starting with Saturday, July 6th.

In other words, all weekly engagements at the Capitol Theatre will start on Saturdays, beginning with that date and every week thereafter. The Metropolitan cities of the country have set the opening days each week as Saturday, and in order that cities the size of Trenton may have equally good attractions the change in opening day is made necessary.

When two different attractions are given on the one week, the first part of the week will be figured as Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, and the latter half of the week as Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The Saturday openings will put Trenton in a class with the larger cities.

P. S. AIRPORT MARKERS

Airport markers will soon be placed on top of gas holders in the New Jersey territory served by Public Service Electric and Gas Company. The first of the markers will be attached to the Harrison holder, which has a capacity of 15,000,000 cubic feet and is one of the largest in the world. Other holders to be so marked in the near future are those at Caldwell, Dumont and Somerville.

The TOWN DOCTOR
(THE DOCTOR OF TOWNS)

What Good Is a Fourth of July Celebration?

A man recently asked me, "What good is a Fourth of July celebration to a town?" And he expressed a question that undoubtedly is in the minds of many, especially those past the age of getting a kick out of any kind of celebration.

It is true that much of the original intent and purpose of Fourth of July celebrations has been lost or at least overlooked in modern ways of celebrating. Have you ever stopped to consider how many of those that shoot firecrackers, never stop to consider why they are doing it? I have often wondered at the percentage of people who make hurrah on the Fourth of July that really pause in commemoration of the deed representative of the day. Leaving unsaid the honor due the day, a Fourth of July celebration has a material value to every community, whether that community holds a festival or the inhabitants go elsewhere to spend the day.

If your town is putting on a celebration, pitch in and do everything—go to the organization committee or whoever is sponsoring it, and offer to do something.

Get busy and invite your friends to join you and yours for the day. Make it an invitation worth while. If you haven't any friends you can induce to join in the festivities, help somebody else to entertain their guests or appoint yourself a committee of one to do your utmost to help entertain the casual stranger in your midst.

Start now on brightening the corner where you are. Make your yard, your house, your store, your entire town look clean, bright and attractive; put on your best behavior and your most winning smile, and when the company comes, show them around, introduce them to the place where you live, and "sell 'em" on your community.

If the Fourth of July isn't worth anything else to a community, it is worth the opportunity it gives you to sell everybody that comes to your town on what a real place it is and that the people in it are real people.

RIVERTON SCHOOL WILL OPEN LATER

attention to the school notices, but we trust that next year we shall all co-operate to maintain a healthful environment in the Riverton School.

The total enrollment for the year was: Boys, 202; girls, 166; total, 368. There were 32 colored children in the school. The average enrollment was 338, and average daily attendance 309. Fifty-eight children were neither absent nor tardy, and received books as awards for the year's record. Howard Elliott, an Eighth Grade graduate, has had a perfect record throughout the elementary school.

Promotions and Failures

In order to have another basis besides the teacher's judgment, tests were given to all primary children, especially in reading. In the grammar grades, where tests were given, children were exempted under the old rules—except in the Eighth Grade, where State and County standards require that the entire class be tested.

Ninety-one per cent. of the children were promoted. The failures are the children who have not mastered reading sufficiently to progress.

Most parents realize changes in methods of teaching, realize that some of the newer technique of teaching get results, and that children are as a rule more interested in school than children were in the past. They also know that schools have more supplies and equipment than they used to have, and that we teach more subjects.

There are also other changes which make greater demands upon the schools than ever before, about which they ought to know.

The "New Education," about which there is so much in theory and an increasing amount in practice, is founded upon the "New" psychology of childhood.

In 1915, Mr. Dewey published his book, "Schools of Tomorrow." Since then many books have been written and much research and experiment carried on. Educational ideas work slowly. For the new ideal and its application, the testing, the checking of results, the comparison with previous results, all take time. After that the adoption by educators in authority, the training of teachers in service, and new teachers, the conversion of members of Boards of Education, and of the general public to newer ideas, take more time. So that fourteen years is not a long time, in fact is a very short time for the changes which have taken place in Education. Verily, there is a working, wide if not yet deep, of the new leaven.

Now, what has this to do with promotions in Riverton School? Just this. That the New Education, in breaking up hard and fast divisions between grades, make it possible, if given a chance, for children to progress, without being marked as failures if their progress is not equally as rapid.

We have learned that there are better ways of caring for the educational needs of children than passing them all along according to chronological age on a basis of 70 per cent., until some reach a place where deficiency accumulates and they fail with a general average of 68.5 per cent.

We have learned that there are individual differences in children, even children of the same family.

We have also learned to face the fact that all children do not learn at an equal rate.

There are laws of learning as well as laws of teaching which have to be taken into account. The doctrine of interest and effort is as sound as ever, but we have gone beyond the point where we think that motivation alone on the part of the teacher will produce interest in every child. The child is self-centered, and we must appeal to his interest, but in order to know what his interest is, we must know the child.

We must know him physically, mentally, socially. And in school practice we are fast growing to know each child in all these ways, and to keep records of our findings in order to give to each child the educational opportunity which is his right.

To this end we test and classify children according to ability. Test progress of children. Test on subject matter taught, and on general achievement. Test to discover mistakes made in order to find child's difficulties and apply remedies.

In addition to these tests given from the office, classroom teachers have given their own tests for review and remedial purposes, in order to check their work every step of the way.

With such school practice, we know our pupils better, at this time of the year, and their ability to undertake the work of the next grade.

With such a program the old-fashioned essay-type final examination has no place. A standard achievement test given to every member of the class to show whether the child has arrived at a stage of maturity to undertake advance work, and the records of the teacher as shown by the report cards, are far more reliable measures for determining promotion.

If all parents evidenced as much interest in the reports as they are sent home throughout the year as they do in the idea of a final report, some of the obstructions in the way of pupils and teachers might be removed, greatly to the advantage of their children.

It is impossible to judge present day school procedure by past practices. We are living in a different age, and schools must meet the challenge of the times, foreseeing as well as possible the future needs of the children, as well as caring for their present activities.

In the elementary school must be mastered the tools of the three R's, as well as lay a foundation of habits of health and mind; of thinking, study, accuracy, truth, consideration for the rights and feelings of others, etc.

LAWYER FINDS LINCOLN LETTER

Mount Holly Man Recognizes Famous Signature and Has Copies Made

While going through some of the papers belonging to the Wallace estate, over which a legal contest is being waged in the Monmouth County Courts, Lawyer Norman W. Harker, of Mount Holly, one of the attorneys engaged in the case, recently found an autographed letter, sent to Dr. Edward Wallace by Abraham Lincoln, on October 11, 1859. This was before the Great Emancipator became President, yet he showed the same uncanny capacity for seeing into the future, that he did in later life.

Although the writer at the time requested that his letter be treated as confidential, it is not likely that the great man who wrote it and was then mounting to heights in his profession, would have objected to its publication at this late day.

Mr. Harker has had photostatic copies made of the letter which was written in the martyred President's own handwriting.

The letter follows and so far as known it has never before been published:

Office of the Circuit Clerk and Recorder of Dewitt County, Illinois,
Clinton, Oct. 11th, 1859.

Dr. Edward Wallace;

My dear Sir:

I am here, just now, attending court. Yesterday, before I left Springfield, your brother, Dr. William S. Wallace, showed me a letter of yours, in which you kindly mention my name, inquired for my tariff views; and suggest the propriety of my writing a letter upon the subject. I was an old Henry Clay tariff Whig. In old times I made more speeches on that subject than on any other. I have not since changed my views. I believe yet, if we could have a moderate, carefully adjusted, protective tariff, so far acquiesced in, as to not be a perpetual subject of political strife, squabbles, changes, and uncertainty, it would be better for us. Still, it is my opinion that, just now, the revival of that question, would not advance the cause itself, or the man who revived it. I have not thought much upon the subject recently, but my general impression is, that the necessity for a protective tariff will, ere long, force its old opponents to take it up; and then its old friends can join in, and establish it on a more firm and durable basis.

We, the old Whigs, have been entirely beaten out on the tariff question; and we shall not be able to re-establish the policy, until the absence of it shall have demonstrated the necessity for it, in the minds of men heretofore opposed to it. With this view, I should prefer, to not now, write a public letter upon the subject. I therefore wish this to be considered confidential.

I shall be very glad to receive a letter from you.

Yours truly,
A. Lincoln.

FREEHOLDERS IN SHORT SESSION

Little Business Claimed Attention of Board Last Friday

Last Friday's meeting of the Burlington County Board of Freeholders holds the record for brevity. Just eight and one-half minutes from the time the Board was called to order "recess" was announced by Director Russ.

The business transacted consisted of giving the Public Service permission to erect a pole on Locust road near the railroad crossing, and deciding not to accept the offers of C. F. Seabrook, of Bridgeton, and Pizzimenti Bros., of Bridgewood, to buy some of the gravel in the County gravel pit.

These two concerns are bidding on doing some road work on the road between Oak Lane and Hammonton, and wanted the gravel for shoulders. After some discussion the Board came to the conclusion that it would eventually have use for all the gravel it owned.

Department bills were ordered paid as follows: Roads, $14,569.15; bridges, $1,169.24; finance, $60,003.80; public buildings, $11,708.15; public affairs, $5,814.08. Total, $93,864.47.

Cross Crossings Cautiously

With the coming of summer and the great increase of traffic, your attention is directed to the increased need of protecting yourself, especially when crossing railroads and highways.

Railroads and street crossings have been the scene of a great many accidents within the past few years, but these accidents were the result of carelessness in most cases.

There is usually some kind of a sign or signal at every crossing, few regard them and in doing so, endangers their life and that the people riding with them.

There are three ways of preventing railroad crossing accidents: 1. A full appreciation of the real danger which lays at the crossing. 2. Knowing the meaning of signs and signals. 3. The exercise of caution equal to the danger.

The United States Supreme Court has said, concerning crossing accidents: "When a man goes upon a railroad track he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows that he must stop for the train, not the train stop for him."

"It seems to us that if he relies upon not hearing the train or any signal and takes no precaution he does so at his own risk."

By no means is the railroad crossing the most frequent scene of disaster. The highways and streets are the places where the most accidents usually occur. In 1912 75% of the crossing accidents occured at the street and highway crossings and 25% at railroad crossings. In 1927 a decided change in the relationship of these percentages took place, the change showed 92% of all crossing accidents occurred at street and highway crossings and only 8% at railroad crossings.

It is well to remember this slogan when crossing any highway or railroad, "Look both ways before crossing."

Help the Policeman Protect You

Going away time is here. Homes will be closed for periods ranging from a day or two to a month or two. These homes will be subjects to interest the sneak thief or seasoned burglar.

It is an unpleasant thought to carry away on a vacation, but there is no good coming from making a bet with yourself that a thief will overlook your place. You may win and you may lose. Give it thought and make it as hard as you can for the burglar in case he happens to pick on you.

First, be sure it is not going to be a simple case of lifting a window to gain entrance. Next call or write your police department and the policeman on your beat will look your place over as he passes.

The police cannot be everywhere at once, but a policeman can see a burglar open your front door with a skeleton key and think nothing of it unless he knows your home is unoccupied.

The man with burglary insurance may go away and forget about danger. The man who cannot afford insurance can leave his silver and such valuables as might attract a thief, at the home of a friend.

Steel for Safety

Any and all means whereby the appalling loss of life and limb by automobile accidents may be lessened deserve the earnest consideration of the motor public. The best brains of the country are being devoted to this great problem.

Among the innovations of the last few years which tend to minimize the dangers of traffic is the all-steel automobile body, which by its great strength and rigidity has already demonstrated its worth as an aid to safety.

Edward G. Budd of the manufacturing company which bears his name announces that six million automobiles, or about one-fourth of all motor cars now in service, are equipped with all-steel bodies made by his firm; that more than 170 repair stations especially equipped to serve their owners have been established in principal cities, and that this service will be rapidly extended.

While a steel body will not prevent collisions and other accidents, it will serve to protect in a great measure the occupants from serious injury, just as the all-steel Pullman has proved its superiority over the old wooden coach.

Earnest Young People

In spite of all the loose talk and writing about the wild youth of the present day, recent statistics from the Bureau of Education indicate that the percentage of earnest young people is still very high.

These statistics show that one-half of the young men and one-fourth of the young women in the colleges and universities of the United States are earning their schooling in whole or in part through working outside of school hours. In one year more than $33,000,000 was earned by the labor of students.

Among the part time jobs held by students are office work, automobile repairing, specialty selling, teaching, hotel and summer resort employment, household service, farm work and other activities.

In the face of such a showing as is being made, it can hardly be maintained that the young generation is as frivolous as its critics would have us believe.

New Air Monsters

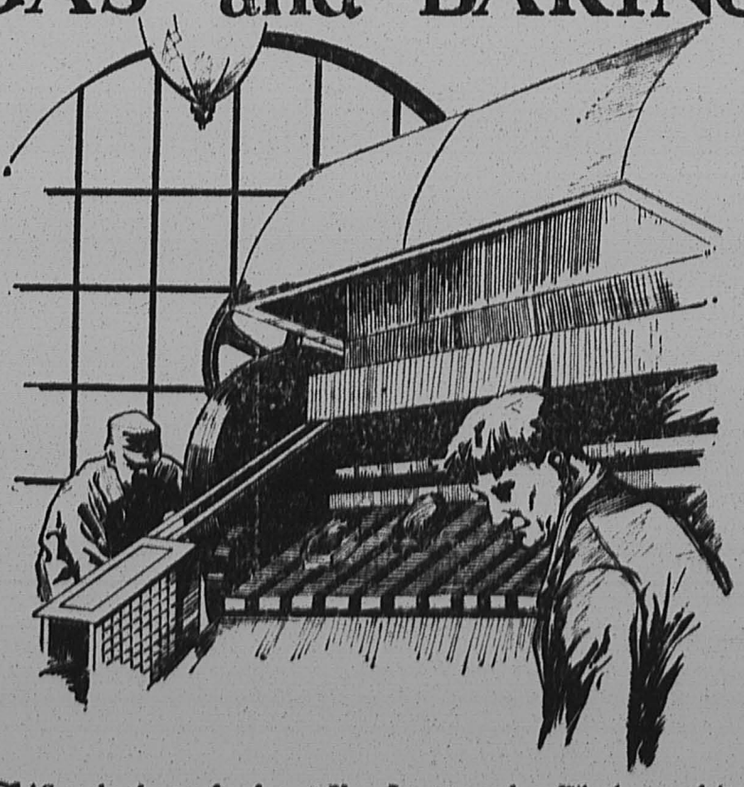

Germany's Graf Zeppelin is at present the world's largest airship. England will soon complete two which will exceed the Graf Zeppelin in size. But the largest aircraft ever designed are now being built for the United States Navy—two super-Zeppelins with a gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet each.

The relative size of these monsters of the air may be imagined by comparison with present Los Angeles with 2,500,000 cubic feet, and Graf Zeppelin with 3,700,000 cubic feet.

The new American ships will have a maximum speed of 85 miles an hour, with a cruising radius of between 6,000 and 8,000 miles without refueling. Each will carry a number of airplanes which may be launched while in flight.

These two great ships promise to be the monarchs of the air for some time to come—until Uncle Sam or someone else builds a bigger one.

GAS and BAKING

GAS cooks the meals of most New Jersey people. Whether used in the home, in bakeries, or in factories where other food stuffs are prepared, it has proven itself the ideal fuel for baking.

In the giant ovens that turn out 250,000 loaves of bread and 175,000 pounds of cake a day, the use of gas makes possible the same control over temperatures, the same constant heat, and the same distribution that the modern oven regulator range affords the housewife. Clean, economical, dependable, gas produces better baking results than any other fuel.

If you have any kind of a heating job to do, our heating engineers will be glad to show you how it can be better accomplished with gas.

HOOVER'S COMMON SENSE.

WHEN TO MARRY.

TEACHING HOW TO THINK.

CRIME NEVER PAYS.

The House, rejecting the debenture plan, depriving middlemen of a comfortable profit on farm exports.

Intelligent farmers know that it wouldn't have given them much if anything.

The President is supported in his common sense attitude.

Thirty-five, for men, is a good age to marry, although forty-five is a better age.

Thirty-five for women, forty-five to fifty-five for men, would be the best from the eugenist's point of view.

So at least said the Greek philosopher. Modern commonsense says the best time to marry is when you fall in love, that when you marry young you keep out of mischief, if you stay away from Reno and Paris.

Why should men marry after forty and women after thirty? Because children get intellect and health from the mother. They should be born when the mother's health and intellect have reached highest development and before either begin to fail.

Children inherit intelligence chiefly from their fathers, when the fathers HAVE it. In men that develop fully, about 1 in 1,000, full intelligence is not developed until forty-five or fifty.

Dean Hutchins, soon to be head of the University of Chicago and youngest president of any big college in the United States, says the teachers' real work is teaching students to THINK.

"A university is not made to reform or amuse young men, but to teach them to think, to think straight if possible, but to think always for themselves."

No educator ever said anything more important or expressed more accurately the purpose of education.

But how can you teach men TO THINK? That is the question. You must take them young. Professor Hutchins says, "It is sad but true that at eighteen or nineteen it is too late to take a boy and make a man of him and interest him in his studies. He is solidified too often in more ways than one."

Dr. Cowley, Chicago University's specialist in psychology, testing forty gangsters and racketeers for mental speed, found them pitifully slow.

That might have been expected.

The criminals tested could not even answer quickly questions as to what they would do in an emergency while committing a crime.

Because their minds are slow they are criminals.

If they were not slow they would know that crime never pays.

Lindbergh broke half of the young female hearts marrying. Now the Prince of Wales, it is said, will marry Princess Ingrid, of Sweden. Nothing left for the dreams of young ladies.

Miladys Beauty Secrets

Everything dost pass away;
There is danger in delay:
Come, come, gather then the rose,
Gather it, or it you lose.
—GILES FLETCHER.

There are so many problems of the hair that it is difficult to begin even to classify them correctly. The first, and perhaps most prevalent, is dandruff. Dandruff, contrary to current opinion, is not an exaggerated condition of dry scalp. Dandruff is an actual germ disease which has become tremendously widespread since women frequent barber shops as they do. And it is a disease that must be checked promptly if one is to preserve the health and beauty of the hair.

The most sanitary measures in the world do not seem capable of preventing the spread of dandruff. Fortunately, it is sufficiently disagreeable to manifest itself at once, and the only remedy for it is to attack the cause, the tiny long-lived germs which prosper and multiply so rapidly.

There are two kinds of dandruff—one, the dry dandruff (Sicca) and the other—far more virulent and difficult to check—oily dandruff (Oleosa), where the glands emit an abnormal amount of oil. This condition reveals a red, irritated, scalp.

In treating oily dandruff, frequent shampoos are advisable. A medicated scalp food will serve to nourish the weakened hair roots and restore normal, healthful activity to the glands.

After this, the actual dandruff corrective may be applied, left on over night, and the hair shampooed the following day.

Dry dandruff may be treated in exactly the same way, except that a weekly shampoo will be adequate. It is important to remember that dandruff lotions must be medicated. Alcohol, which is very often a base used in inferior correctives, will not aid the condition.

Next on the list of hair problems in excessive oiliness, another highly unpleasant condition, and here is a simple home treatment which I am sure you will find very effective:

Separate strands of hair into parts and brush common salt into them. Go over the whole head carefully, shaking the salt into the uncovered scalp, and follow with a good herbal shampoo. Be sure to wash the hair and scalp very thoroughly, using several rinse waters, or, better still, a good rubber spray, and lather two or three times. Hot oil treatments are excellent, but be careful not to have the oil too hot for comfortable application. Very hot oil has been the cause of much hair trouble.

Falling hair can best be corrected through scalp food and scalp stimulation.

Go to Bed Stories

By Farmer Smith

"Isn't this the birthday of Billie and Bobbie Rabbit?" asked Mister White Rabbit one evening.

"Upon my soul—I believe it is and I haven't a thing for them," replied Mrs. White Rabbit.

"Ahem, ahem! Why not give them a surprise party?" asked Mister White Rabbit.

"The very idea. How bright you are. Hurry home from work and I'll have the children all spick and span so that we can get over there by early candle light," said Mrs. White Rabbit.

That evening Mrs. White Rabbit called her children in from their play a little bit early and when her husband had come home and supper was over Mister White Rabbit telephoned the ice cream parlor and asked to have six quarts of ice cream sent to Br'er Rabbit's home at nine o'clock sharp.

"It's bright moonlight tonight," said Mrs. White Rabbit.

"Let's go!" shouted Mister White Rabbit after a while and away they went to Br'er Rabbit's home. "Bang, bang, bang!" he went on the door.

"Who is it?" asked Mother Rabbit.

"It's the White Rabbit crew," laughed the head of the family outside.

Billie and Bobbie were all dressed up and Mrs. White Rabbit suggested that the children go outside and play leap frog. This they did in the full moon until the wagon from the ice cream parlor drove up and then they rushed inside for their supper. In the center of the table was a great big cake. Br'er Rabbit at the end of the table asked the blessing and then they began to eat and oh! how hungry they were.

Br'er Rabbit asked Mrs. White Rabbit to cut the cake and when the time came and they began to eat it, Mrs. White Rabbit found a diamond ring in hers and so did Mother Rabbit. Br'er Rabbit and Mister White Rabbit found pipes and the children all got nice new ribbons.

It was SOME party!

Did you ever know a fat man who was out of work?

HINTS FOR THE HOME

By Nancy Hart

The average rural family consumes almost five tons of food annually, or, to be exact, 9,371 pounds, according to the figures of the Toledo Scale Company compiled a short time ago.

Of this amount the average man accounts for 2,177.7 pounds, or slightly less than one-quarter of the family's food. (This small percentage was as much of a surprise to us as to you!)

The largest single item of food consumed is milk—2,669 pounds being consumed annually. And the average farm family uses 484 pounds of eggs a year. Speaking in dollars and cents—of every dollar spent by Americans for food, 24.8 cents goes for milk and milk products. This is by far the largest single items in our food bill. It explains why doctors, inventors, business men and public commissions are constantly trying to devise ways to safeguard the quality and purity of milk.

Cold rice may be re-heated by steaming and served on a platter surrounded with carrots and peas and grilled tomatoes. Or add to cold rice enough thick cream to make of a good consistency for re-heating. Season with pepper, add a lump of butter and serve instead of potatoes.

Heart

FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

We hear a great deal about the illustrious framers of our Constitution—all of it to their credit, by the way.

They must have been good men. I cannot believe they were ignorant, tricky or designing; the destiny of a great nation depended on their integrity of purpose—their wisdom of action. They lived at a time when, "an appeal to arms, and to the Lord of hosts," was all that was left for them.

One of their permanent creations was metallic money—a highly essential medium in any sort of commercial transaction. These men caused to be stamped deep into the precious metal, "In God We Trust." I do not doubt the absolute sincerity of the declaration. I believe they were right, not wrong.

We are supposed to be living today, in a stage of great enlightenment—in a day of supermen. We are drifting rapidly from the old ways. In this particular and highly-important declaration of our forefathers, some of us rush into print with the assertion that we don't do anything of the kind—if not hypocrisy it's just plain lying!

Fortunately for our beloved country, the people who live in the "Faith of Our Fathers," are in the majority. I can't help shuddering at the growth and publicity of the tribe who don't believe in anything but themselves! ance! If that be true, then, why not do away with the rest of the historic document?

To trust in a supreme being does not fit into the ideas of some of our people. They can't bear to admit their dependence on any higher power. Listen, now: They will, in time, come to a defiance of all law; if we can't trust in a just God, as our forefathers did, shall we put our trust in Man? Men who today "swear by" the sacred Constitution—who preach adherence to the sacred document, peddle the propaganda of the very people who seek to overthrow it?

To proclaim a trust in God when

RHEUMATISM IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Sufferer Not Only Relieved of Pain but Entire System Was Built Up by New Medicine

MR. MICHAEL ALEMI

"I had tried every sort of medicine and treatment for inflammatory rheumatism," said Mr. Michael Alemi, 2831 Iseminger street, Philadelphia. "The rheumatism all settled in my wrists. The pain was so terrible that I could hardly endure it by day and it kept me awake at night. The wrists were swollen to twice their natural size and my general health was failing rapidly.

"Konjola certainly worked like a charm. At the end of the fourth week, just four bottles, the pain and swelling were gone, my appetite had returned and I could sleep at night. I shall be glad, upon request, to write to anyone about what Konjola has done for me."

Konjola is sold in Riverton at L. L. Keating's Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

CONTROL BEETLE WITH LEAD SPRAY

All Plants Should be Treated Now, State Experts Advise

With the Japanese beetle already making its annual appearance in many portions of the State the New Jersey Department of Agriculture states that the beetle can be controlled provided the proper spraying material are applied in a thorough manner and at the right time. Years of investigation have proved that spraying is the most important means for combatting the beetle. The sprays should be applied now, as the beetles do their greatest damage between July 4 and August 20.

One thorough application of lead arsenate coated lead arsenate, in the proportion of 4 pounds to 50 gallons of water, usually gives protection to shrubs or shade trees during the entire beetle season. Lead-arsenate coated lead arsenate adheres to the foliage longer and kills more beetles than a spray composed of lead arsenate and flour. These insecticides can be purchased at most hardware, fertilizer and seed stores.

Flowering plants or shrubs should be treated with lead-arsenate coated lead arsenate. But no satisfactory spray has yet been found for the protection of flowers. Certain flowers are very attractive to the beetle and it is not possible to keep the expanding bloom covered with a film of protective poison.

Individual flowering plants, or groups of plants, can be protected by enclosing them with cloth mosquito netting. Frames for holding the netting can be constructed of wood or iron pipe at moderate cost. Several growers of choice roses have successfully protected their flowers by this method. Where mosquito netting is used it may be necessary to make one or two applications of a fungicide during the months of July and August, because enclosed plants are more subject to mildew than plants grown in the open.

More failures to control the Japanese beetle are due to the use of insufficient spray, to poor application or to improper timing of applications, than to all other causes combined. As beetles will search out and feed upon any unsprayed portion of the plant, it is necessary to wet all parts, including both the upper and lower surface of the leaves. The first attacks of the beetle occur on the top or upper portions of the plant, whether a small shrub or a large shade tree. It is therefore very essential to have these parts well protected with a coat of spray. If the beetles can be prevented from injuring the upper portions of the tree very little injury will take place on the other parts.

The necessity for thoroughness in spraying cannot be too strongly emphasized, and it should be remembered that there is greater danger from underspraying than from overspraying. Once the plant is thoroughly wet, the liquid will run off and be wasted, but it is more economical to waste a portion by overspraying than it is to use insufficient spray to secure protection.

Wherever a few beetles are allowed to accumulate on a plant they attract many others and it is difficult to control them when they occur in large numbers. It is therefore apparent that the wisest course is to prevent the first infestation, and every plant susceptible to injury should be sprayed, whether beetles are present or not.

Information or publications on the Japanese beetle can be obtained without cost by writing to the State Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J., or the Japanese Beetle Research Laboratory, Moorestown, N. J.

Emma D. Ellis

Mrs. Emma D. Ellis, wife of B. Frank Ellis, of 312 French avenue, Moorestown, died at her home Monday morning from chronic heart disease. Mrs. Ellis was 61 years old and, although she had been in ill health for the past several years, her death came as a great shock to her family and many friends.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hass, of Moorestown, and had lived here all her life.

Funeral services will be held from her late residence this Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, with the Rev. Robert W. McKay, of East Main street, former pastor of the Trinity Episcopal Church here, in charge. Interment will be made in Colestown Cemetery.

Mrs. Ellis is survived by her husband, two sons, Harry A. Davis and Calvin F. Ellis; one daughter, Stella M. Ellis, all of Moorestown, and one step-son, John N. Ellis, of Mount Holly.

Levers — Herr

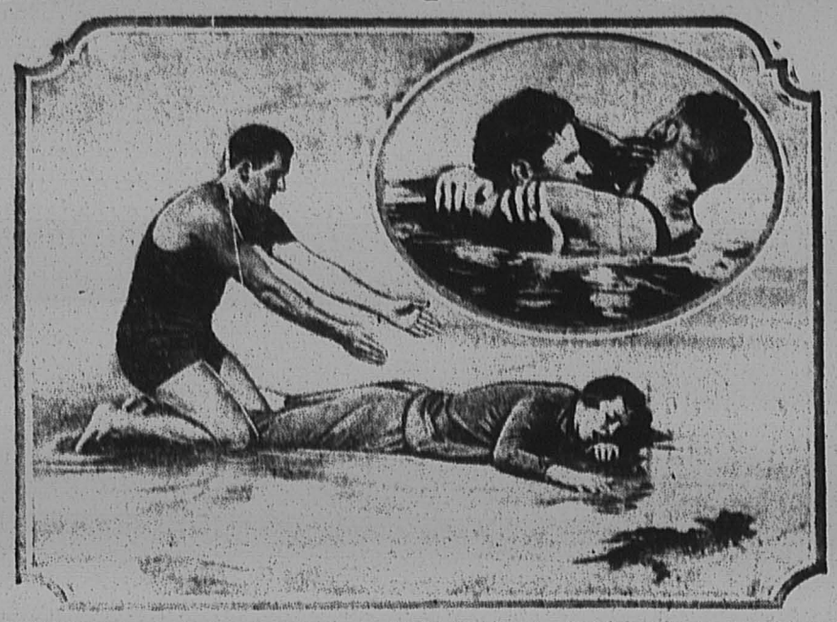

Miss Florence Herr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anson M. Herr of 226 Penn street, Burlington, became the bride of Dr. Warren E. Levers, of Philadelphia, on Saturday afternoon. Nuptial rites were performed by Rev. A. C. Brady in the Broad Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

Decorated with palms and ferns, the scene of the ceremony was most attractive. Miss Elsie Hoover, of Jones avenue, played the wedding march. A large number of friends and relatives of the couple witnessed the marriage.

A gown of white georgette, trimmed with orange blossoms, was worn by the bride, who carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Ralph Blair, of Fernwood avenue, was matron of honor. The best man to the bridegroom was Matthew Hunt, of Philadelphia. Ernest Adams, of Burlington, and William Dickson, of Williamsport, Pa., were ushers.

Dr. and Mrs. Levers went on a wedding trip to the South. On their return they will make their home in Philadelphia. The bride is a graduate of Burlington High School and well known to the young people of this town. Dr. Levers is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry.

Red Cross Life Saving to Be Taught Here

USING the prone pressure method of resuscitation, this American Red Cross life saver is reviving an unconscious girl just rescued from the surf. The insert shows a life saver breaking the front strangle hold, one of the common "death grips" of drowning persons. These are some scientific methods of life saving which the American Red Cross expert will teach you here.

The County Chapter of the American Red Cross inaugurates its campaign this week in spreading information on Methods of Water Safety and Instruction in Life Saving. Victor H. Hartshorn, who was employed last year during the months of July and August, will again undertake the difficult job of covering every place where swimmers congregate to instruct in Methods of Water Safety. Such things as are shown in the above picture are taught boys and girls, and men and women interested in water work, so that they may be prepared to help others when in danger, and also that they may spread the gospel of safety about Burlington County's miles of waterways.

Since all Life Saving work is based on swimming, the Life Saving Committee is anxious that a large number of boys and girls be taught to swim this summer. To that end they are running what is known as the "Beginners' Contest." Any boy or girl under the age of seventeen years may enter. Those who enter the contest are to see that the other boys and girls in their community are encouraged and taught to swim well enough to pass the Beginners' Test of the American Red Cross. Two prizes are being offered by the committee to the boy and the girl who succeed in getting the most to pass this Test during the months of July and August.

First prize is expenses for a week at Camp Ockanickon.

Second is a bathing suit. It is hoped that some merchant interested in this contest will donate one for the cause.

The rules of the contest are as follows:—

1. See that those who do not know how to swim, or who only know how to swim poorly, learn to swim so as to pass the Beginners' Test.

2. Official passing of the Beginners' Test must be under the supervision of a person qualified as a Senior Red Cross Life Saver or Examiner.

3. Persons who supervise the passing of the Beginners' Test must fill out and send to the County Red Cross Headquarters official Test Sheets and see that the person receives his Beginners' Button.

4. Persons interested in receiving the awards for having persons pass the Test, be sure to have his name and address put on the Test Sheet after the name of the person who has qualified for the Beginners' Test.

5. Contest is to run during the entire months of July and August. The boy and girl whose name appears on the Test Sheets the greatest number of times, for getting persons to pass the Beginners' Test, will be the winner, providing such test sheets reach County Red Cross Headquarters not later than September 10th.

For information and Test Sheets write to Miss Mary W. Samson, 24 W. Union street, Burlington, or see Mr. Hartshorn when he comes to your favorite bathing place.

Posters will be placed about the town telling when he will be in your town each week and his schedule is printed below, subject to change:

MEDFORD HOST TO FIRE CHIEFS

Ellis McAllister Presides at Session; Planning Permanent Organization

A meeting of the fire chiefs of Burlington County was held in the Fire House, Medford, Wednesday evening of last week, to take further steps toward permanent organization of a Burlington County Fire Chiefs' Association. The meeting, presided over by Chief Ellis H. McAllister, of Moorestown, was well attended and by-laws and other matters in connection with the proper regulation of such an association were presented and thoroughly discussed.

The purposes of the association is for closer co-operation of chiefs, to advance the efficiency in the fire departments in fire fighting, to formulate and advance ideas for the betterment of each company in its fire fighting units and to assist the County Fire Marshal in the prevention of fires.

William Smith, County Fire Marshal, was present and gave a report of his activities, showing the system he had adopted and the good results that have emanated. He closed his report by stating that the fire chief in each municipality in the County have been appointed by him Deputy Marshals, to co-operate with and assist him in his fire prevention work.

The next meeting will be held in the Fire House, Riverton, on Wednesday evening, July 10, when permanent organization will no doubt be effected.

PLAIN AND PRINTED

Have you tired of the combination of plain wraps with printed dresses? Then wear about your shoulders a flowing cape-like wrap of the same patterned fabric that fashions your frock. The more modernistic, the larger the design the more effective it will be, if we are a judge of loveliness.

ACCESSORIES FOR THE SPORTS FROCK

In general it is wise to choose white or pastel tones for the tennis or golf frock, introducing flashing color in accessories. Colored fabric shoes, vivid socks, belts, scarfs and kerchiefs may be had in unending variety. Used interchangeably with the same frock, they give the effect of an entirely different costume, and so serve economy.

Women from All Branches of Association Work Will Discuss Problems

Mrs. Katie Bounds, of Moorestown, and Mrs. Arthur Miller, of Rancocas, will represent Burlington County at the Eastern Community YWCA Conference to be held at Silver Bay, New York, July 9-17. Some of the topics chosen for discussion are: "What is Happening to Community Life"; "Conditions Surrounding the Earning of a Living"; "Unemployment"; "Progress of Women in Adjustments to New Relationships"; "The Place of Religion in the Changing Life of Today"; "The Relation of Women to Publications — Domestic and Foreign."

Girl Reserve Fall Conference

A committee of high school Girl Reserves and leaders of Camden and Burlington counties met Tuesday evening, June 25, at the Moorestown Community House to begin plans for the fall setting-up conference held annually by the girls of the two counties. The Burlington county representatives were: Margaret Coulter, Chesterfield; Margaret Cornwell, Medford; Bertha Johnston, Moorestown; Mrs. C. S. Backwith, Pemberton, and Miss Dorothy Backwith, Pemberton, and Miss Dorothy Gebhart, County Girl Reserve secretary.

These were pictures and descriptions of many trees and flowers seen in New Jersey, also of various types of small gardens.

BIG HOLIDAY BILL AT WALT WHITMAN

Willard Mack Will Be Heard in All-Talking Feature, "The Voice of the City"

The Holiday program arranged for the last half of this week at the Walt Whitman Theatre is replete with many unusual features and surprises in abundant quantity and of exceptionally high calibre.

Heading the list of acts is "Gus King and His Melody Land Revue, offering "Music As You Like It," an original creation by Mr. King, filled with comedy, music and harmony.

Petey Wells, a man about town, and better known to the theatregoers as "The Broadway Jester," will act as master of ceremonies for this Independence Day Bill, and will also entertain with comedy, songs and dances a la carte.

The feature photoplay brings back to the screen that famous author-actor, Willard Mack, who has not appeared before the camera since 1915. "The Voice of the City," an all-talking cosmopolitan production, is a definitely melodramatic and highly entertaining bit of play construction. It is a story of gangland, with all the secrecy, fear, bravado, double-crossing, crime, sudden happenings and death of the underworld, running rampant through its reels. It also has a love story of unusual sweetness and tender appeal.

There will be a special Matinee Fourth of July at two-thirty p. m. with all the features included at the afternoon performance, with no advance in prices over the usual matinee scale.

Fred Waring and his famous Pennsylvanians, known throughout the world by their talking machine records and tours, as well as throughout the greater part of the United States by reason of their long engagements in the larger picture houses, are to be seen and heard in "Syncopation," the radio pictures' all-talking feature, that will be the attraction next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The best work in the world is that not done for money, nor necessity, but for fun.—Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D.D.

BOARD OF HEALTH URGES VACCINATION

State Authorities Ask Citizens to Guard Against Typhoid

Vaccination against typhoid fever for the thousands of New Jersey residents who go away for vacations is recommended by the State Department of Health. It is suggested that the innoculations, three in number at intervals of a week, be given before the vacation period begins.

The summer months usually reflect an increase in typhoid fever cases. With protected water supplies and adequately pasteurized milk, the most fertile source of infection is the human carrier. It is estimated that about five out of every hundred cases of typhoid fever develop into carriers of the disease.

Last year there were 410 cases and 60 deaths. In 1927 there were 384 cases and 51 deaths. For the first five months of this year only 40 cases were reported throughout the State, with every indication that the record for the year will be low.

The department said vaccination is a precautionary safeguard today when thousands of residents plan to travel by motor to various parts of the country where due precautions against infection are neglected. Vaccination is also recommended for those staying at home for the summer. In cities where efforts to trace cases has been made it has been found that many cases are due to carriers.

In co-operation with local boards of health, the State Department attempts to check up on known carriers, and prohibits them from working as handlers of foods for public consumption.

"A person may be rendered comparatively safe from infection by vaccination," said the department. "The duration of the immunity is not definitely known, but it is certainly safest to be vaccinated at least once in three years. The slight inconvenience attending the innoculation is a small price to pay for protection against so prolonged and dangerous an illness as typhoid."

GRANT MITCHELL IN 'THE CHAMPION'

Garrick Presents Popular Star in His Second "Play of the Week"

For the second week of his engagement with the Play of the Week at the Garrick Theatre, Philadelphia, Grant Mitchell will follow "A Tailor Made Man" with another of his greatest comedy hits, "The Champion," beginning next Monday evening.

"The Champion," by the way, was probably the first tale of a "white collar," big business, erudite hero to reach the stage, anticipating the reign of Gene Tunney and his Shakespearean sparring with George Bernard Shaw. It can be thus seen that "The Champion" is very pertinent and timely theatrical material right now.

Written about ten years ago, it was first intended as a stage vehicle for "Jim" Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world and was played by Gentleman Jim for a brief period. However, its collaborators, A. E. Thomas and Thomas Lowden rewrote their play, and presented it to Sam Harris for production.

In 1921, it made its Broadway debut with Grant Mitchell as star and became one of Mr. Mitchell's greatest successes. The story briefly, is that of a smug English countryside family — nouveau riche who are trying to "break" into society, when a long lost son reappears and with him the astounding information that he has been a pugilistic champion in "the States" though now a successful lawyer. The return of the prodigal is hailed with dismay—for prizefighters did not then climb into the Social Register. However, in the unexpected and very funny denouement, the "champion" proves himself a champion in more ways than one.

Mr. Mitchell will be supported by the excellent Play of the Week Company, augmented, as usual, by well known Broadway players and the production will be on the same elaborate scale which characterized "A Tailor Made Man."

For the following week, beginning Monday, July 15, the Play of the Week will present Robert Emmet Sherwood's comedy, "The Queen's Husband" with a well known star in the leading role.

MOORESTOWN A. A. IN TIE FOR LEAD

Locals to Play Burlington and Vincentown Fourth of July

By "Andy Zip"

No, gentle readers, there was not an earthquake on the South Church street field last Wednesday evening. The tremors that you heard were base hits exploding from the bats of the Moorestown sluggers as they handed R. D. Wood the worst defeat the "Iron-slingers" have taken in recent years. The final score was 6-0.

Ernie Potts, our local ace, was in fine form, holding the champs to five scattered hits. So effective was Ernie's pitching that only one opponent reached third base. Back of this pitching the defense played wonderful ball, and at bat our boys routed "Big Bill" Everham in the first inning when they pushed over four runs. The famous "Morrie" Lippincott, who relieved Everham, was also hit hard and often.

Space does not permit me to give a play by play description of our games, but I might say that every player played his best in Wednesday's game and did his share toward the much sought shut-out victory over the champs.

Besides Ernie's splendid hurling, Jerry Bartellow's sensational fielding and hiting also stod out. Jerry handled five chances in center field, while he had a perfect day at bat with a double, two singles and a base on balls.

Inspired by their shut-out over Florence, Moorestown journeyed to Delanco Saturday afternoon and knocked the "Young Men" out of first place in the Burlington County League. The final score was 7-4, and the victory placed the local boys in a tie with Medford for first place in the league. Five hundred rabid fans packed the Delanco park to see this crucial game, in which first place was at stake.

Walter Dann, with a no-hit, no-run game and a one-hit game to his credit, drew the pitching assignment for Delanco, while Ernie Potts went to the mound for the locals.

Our batters looked "No-Hit" Dann over in the first inning by pushing a pair of runs across. The locals added another in the third, but in the fourth Delanco found Ernie for four hits and three runs to tie the score.

The Moorestown boys didn't think so much of this, so they hung up a couple of more smackers in the sixth to make the score 5-4. In the seventh Moorestown shoved over another, when Heppard singled and Brodie hit one of Dann's hooks for a double over the center fielder's head. Not satisfied with this two-run lead our sluggers scored another in the eighth.

Ernie got in trouble again in the ninth as the first batter got safe on an error. The next batter walked, which, incidentally, was the only base on balls that Ernie issued during the game. Manager "Cy" Young himself, one of the most dangerous hitters in the league, strutted to the plate, pinch hitting for Shaw. "Cy" rolled a weak one to Riley, but both men advanced. Orfe hit to Headman and Schele was run down between third and home. Two outs and a man on third and one on second. Loveland was delegated to bat for Robinson. Ernie showed his unusual pitching ability and why he is considered one of the best hurlers in the league by fanning Loveland, ending the game, and boosting Moorestown into a tie for first place.

Fans, Fourth of July is here and the first-half race ends on the afternoon of the holiday. Moorestown has two games to play on Thursday, and by winning both means at least a tie for the first half title. The opponents are Burlington, at 10.15 a. m., on the South Church street grounds, and Vincentown at Vincentown in the afternoon.

Come one and come all, root and cheer for the locals. They are fighting hard to bring a championship to Moorestown, and they deserve your support.

George Smith Makes Brilliant Showing In Open Golf Match, Places Fourteenth

Young Moorestown Field Club "Pro" is Most Consistent Entry in Big National Match, Besting Many Links Greats With Four 77's

Allow us, ladies and gentlemen, to introduce a coming golf champion.

That's right, he's a favorite son, but he is also picked by many experts as a favorite contender for the laurels now held by one Bobby Jones.

We are, you know, introducing none other than George Smith, Moorestown Field Club "pro" who turned in a brilliant performance in the U. S. open golf championship at Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., last week.

Playing in his first open championship, George made a splendid showing at New York last week. Proving his golfing mettle under conditions that cracked former crown holders and made it hard going for the best of them, George proved himself the steadiest man on the field, turning in four 77's for a score of 308.

And that score of 308 is no mean card in any golf match. The uncanny consistency of George enabled the Moorestown star to top all Easterners in the tourney, to place ahead of such links greats as Johnny Farrell, title holder; Jim Barnes, the former U. S. and British open champ, and a host of other luminaries including Walter Hagen, Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot king; Joch Hutchinson, Joe Turnesa, Bob McDonald and Freddy McLeod.

Tenth Best Score

That stellar performance of George's not only placed him to finish in the money, but gave him the tenth best score of the open championship. Several ties however, shoved George down to fourteenth place.

One of the Philadelphia experts, after bewailing the fall of some of the greats of golf, wrote, "But to turn to the records of good performances, let us type of George "Consistency" Smith, Philadelphia's professional champion, and his 77-77-77-77—308 that brought him into the money. This was the young Moorestown professional's first open tournament and he certainly made good."

George certanly was the essence of consistency. There was no indication of a "rattled youngster," for when it came to a steady game, George bested the best of them. His card reveals that out of 72 holes, he only shot over five in one hole. And if that isn't consistency, the word has been misused down through the ages!

Time and time again George played identical shots, hole-for-hole, and his score revealed it, reading, 39-38—77, 38-39—77, 38-39—77 and 38-39—77.

And now, it might be interesting to note what might have happened. IF our popular young Mr. Smith had not been so consistent, he might have probably finished nearer the top. George's putting was consistent alright, but it was consistently poor for George. He missed at least eight putts that he would have made with ease under ordinary circumstances, and four of these, on the last nine holes, were two-foot shots.

Oh, That Putting

So what would have happened had George's putting been up to par? Without a doubt, his score would have been under 300, giving him eighth place, at least.

And then, when it is considered that George scored a 70 on the practice round, just one shot over the record of Champion Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., what would have happened in the tourney if George had of hit his stride? The winner's card was 69-75-71-79.

But that is neither here or there. George made a wonderful showing for his first attempt. With a little tournament practice, he is capable of doing much better, so be prepared to watch our George's dust in the open next year. That is not just the prediction of an enthusiastic local Smith roter, but the opinion of cold, hard-headed experts who really know their golf.

When asked if the crowd "bothered" him, George said, "Well, a little bit at first. As I started to tee off I was a little nervous. But then I stepped back a moment, thought it over, and decided that I'd never get anywhere with that way, and proceeded to put all of my fears into the swing. And it worked great too. I was later told I made the longest drive of the morning and I guess I must have really 'shot' all of my nervousness with that opening drive, for the crowd didn't worry me, from then on."

Encouraged by Doctor

George, who is 23 years old, has been in the "golf game" for about five years and virtually all of the time he has served as "pro" at the Field Club. He was formerly a caddie, but was encouraged to take up the game by Dr. S. Emlen Stokes, who tutored George in his early days on the links. The doctor is still interested in George and greatly encourages the young pro. Dr. Stokes accompanies him on his last round at Mamaroneck.

In addition to holding the "pro" championship of the Philadelphia district, Smith won the qualifying round of the Professional Golfer's Association and tied for first place in the Eastern district qualifying round for the open championship. This year's performance automatically qualifies him for the open tournament in 1930.

When asked if he was the youngest entry in the open championships, George replied, "No, there were several younger entries. And as for this blamed 'diminutive stuff', you can tell them there were a lot of smaller golfers than George Smith, too."

Afternoon—Palmyra at Burlington; Delanco vs. R. D. Wood at Florence; Moorestown at Vincentown; Brown's Mills at Medford.

Independence Day will see the wind-up of the first half of the Burlington County Baseball League schedule. Moorestown, Medford and Delanco are tied for first place with nine and three each.

Palmyra is not in the running for the first half championship, but may improve its standing by winning two games if Burlington loses, as both are in a tie for fifth and sixth places.

Palmyra will play Vincentown in the morning at Mount Holly and will meet Burlington in the afternoon at Burlington.

In last Saturday's game Frank Keith of Blackwood, former recruit for Connie Mack's Athletics, twirled the Palmyra aggregation to an easy victory over the Brown's Mills team in a Burlington County League tussle at Brown's Mills.

Keith held the "Pinies" to six scattered bingles, getting a 2-1 lead in the second round. A seven-run spree in the eighth inning ruined the rather effective work of Harold Haines. The winners collected 14 safe swats, Krause, Arenz, Harder, Wenger, Keith and Sack leading with two each.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO BUILD SHIP CANAL

Powell Introduces Resolution Seeking National Aid for Bordentown-Morgan Waterway System

Congress is asked to co-operate in every way possible in the construction of the proposed New Jersey Ship Canal from Bordentown to Morgan in a resolution adopted by the Legislature before adjournment last week. It was offered by Senator Powell, of Burlington County.

The canal is an important link in an inland waterway system from New England to the South. Governor Larson has endorsed the project, but the Federal authorities, it is reported, have not yet joined in the preliminary plans as outlined by the State.

Senator Davis, acting for Senate President Mathis, put through the upper branch a bill to release for immediate use an appropriation of $150,000 by the State for the opening of Manasquan Inlet. Under the original act, the money would not become available until the Federal authorities appropriated $300,000 for the work. Government engineers have informed shore residents that such a sum will not be available until next year, but that a portion of the money can be had at once and that work can be begun as soon as the State funds are released.

MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE INVADES BURLINGTON COUNTY

Last year two individual specimens of the Mexican Bean Beetle were reported found in this section and this year they may be observed without much trouble on beans in various sections of the County. This past week they were observed on several farms in the heart of the bean-growing sections, around Beverly.

This insect is a native of Central America and Mexico and has been known for a period of possibly 70 years. Since that time it has spread to the Middle West and along the Atlantic seaboard until at the present time it has been reported in practically all sections of New Jersey. Last year it was present in Cape May County in sufficient numbers to be of economic importance. The host plants of this insect are primarily string beans and lima beans. However, when these host plants become scare, it will feed on cowpeas and soy beans and clover, but will not reproduce itself on these plants.

The insect hibernates as an adult beetle which emerges in the spring at the time beans are coming up. It feeds from 10 days to two weeks before laying eggs. The female is capable of laying 1,600 eggs, but will not average over 500. The eggs are laid on the underside of the leaves in clusters of 40 to 60 eggs, very much in the same way that the eggs of the potato beetle are laid, and very much the same in appearance except that instead of being in one compact mass, the eggs of the bean beetle are slightly scattered, although in a group. The eggs hatch in 10 days to two weeks and obtain full growth in three to four weeks. There are three complete generations in South Jersey.

There are several factors that cause this insect to be particularly destructive on late beans. The over-wintering beetles do not die after they have laid their eggs, but may continue to live for several months, thus in the fall we may have an accumulation of three complete generations, all feeding at the same time. The beetles are held in check during the summer by the hot, dry weather, which is unfavorable to their development. From the last of August and on through September, however, the temperature is more favorable for development and it is at this time that the injury becomes most severe.

Control Measures

Fields of early beans in which the insect is found should be plowed to a depth of several inches following picking, turning the beetles under and destroying them. Should the insects be found in any numbers, spraying or dusting will have to be practiced. The application of arsenicals has given excellent results where the application has been made promptly and thoroughly. Spraying must be done so that the spray will be directed to the under side of the foliage. A number of different dust combinations may be used or a spray consisting of magnesium arsenate, together with a sticker. Applications must cease when the young snap beans are forming.

There is some doubts as to whether or not the Mexican Bean Beetle will be found in sufficient numbers to justify applications of spray or dust being made this year; however, late beans may suffer considerable. The important thing at this time is for growers to be able to recognize the insect and its type of injury. The adult is one of the lady bug beetles of a dark brown color, and may be readily distinguished by the fact that it has eight distinct black spots on each wing. The grub is yellow in color and covered with spines. The larva feed on the underside of the foliage and flive the leaf a laced effect. The adult eats clear through the leaf and produces irregular holes in the leaves.

Keep watching the foliage of your beans and kindly report your findings to the County Agricultural Extension Office, Mount Holly, so that information on the general distribution and numbers of this insect may be obtained.

NEW JERSEY POULTRYMEN PLAN CONNECTICUT TOUR

Plans for the annual summer tour of the New Jersey State Poultry Association, which will be held in Connecticut this year during the week of August 5, have just been announced by the State Poultry Specialist and Secretary of the Poultry Association. The tour is being made at the invitation of the Connecticut Poultry Association, whose members visited New Jersey last summer. They wish to entertain the Jerseymen this year, and plans are already under way for a joint meeting of the two State Associations.

As an added attraction, a tour of inspection will be made at the U. S. Naval Submarine Base, located at New London, Conn. A complete itinerary of the tour may be obtained by writing to Chas. A. Thompson, County Agent, Mount Holly.

JERSEY SWEET POTATOES INTRODUCED TO SOUTH

Word has recently been received that the Development Bureau for the Illinois Central Railroad, has begun a demonstration of what they term a new variety of sweet potato, in Southern Mississippi, and certain growers are being furnished with plants of the improved Jersey Yam, with which to conduct these experiments.

The demonstration, according to the Agricultural Agents of the Illinois Central, is to determine just how this variety of potato will yield under southern climatic conditions and on Mississippi soil.

Mississippi and other gulf coast sections now grow great numbers of sweet potatoes. The variety grown in these States is the Porto Rican. This is the type of potato that the southern people like best, due to the fact that it is moist. The varieties grown in the eastern States, particularly New Jersey, are of a dry, mealy sort. Consumptive demands are evidently turning toward the Jersey type of potato and the South is forced to try out a kind that will sell better in the North.

FIELD DAY SPEAKERS TO REVIEW POULTRY WORK

A discussion of the 1928 research work of the poultry department, New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, will feature the poultry program when the station's annual Field Day is held at New Brunswick on Wednesday, June 12. Professor Willard C. Thompson, poultry husbandman, will open the program at 1.30 p. m., daylight saving time, with a talk on "Our New Plans, New Rules, and New Ambitions for the Three New Jersey Egg-Laying Contests." Prof. C. S. Platt, assistant poultry husbandman, will follow with a description of "The Poultry Projects on the Farm." Dr. F. R. Beaudette, pathologist, will bring the speaking program to a close with an outline of "Poultry Pathology Investigations."

FARM ELECTRIC USE TO BE SHOWN ON FIELD DAY

Electricity and its varied uses on the farm will be demonstrated and and explained by W. C. Krueger, extension specialist in rural electrification for the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, on the occasion of the annual Field Day, scheduled for June 12 at New Brunswick. Particular attention will be devoted to an exhibit showing correct electric wiring, to electric equipment for the farm shop, and to such farm machinery as gas engines, lighting plants, and water systems. Mr. Krueger also will explain the part electricity plays in a septic tank sewage disposal system. A model dairy barn, showing construction, ventilation, and lightning rod installation, will be on display.

OUTLINES CONTROL FOR POULTRY LICE, MITES

Fowls cannot be expected to lay heavily or young birds to grow properly if they are tormented by lice and mites.

So states L. M. Black, N. J. Extension Poultry Specialist, who says the effects of the parasites are felt most keenly at this season of the year. He urges poultrymen to inspect their flocks and houses now to determine if pests are present.

If the flock is found to be infested with lice, control may be effected by applying a light coating of nicotine sulfate to the top of the perches shortly before the birds go to roost. This new development in fighting poultry lice is preferred to older methods, all of which required individual treatment of infested birds. Now the poultryman needs only to paint his roosts with nicotine sulfate, which takes but a comparatively short time. Although one treatment is usually sufficient, another should follow a week later if nits, or lice eggs, are observed.

Mites differ from lice in that they live in the crevices of the roosts and nests, instead of on the birds. From these hiding places, the mites venture forth at night to suck blood from the fowls.

Crank-case oil, and certain proprietary coal tar products have been found useful for destroying mites. The usual procedure is to remove the roosts and nests from the poultry house and then make a thorough application of one of the materials suggested. If the work is done on a bright, sunny day, drying will be more rapid. One thorough application ordinarily provides protection for a year.

SCHOOL TO HAVE ATHLETIC FIELD

Will Proceed With Former Plans and Fence in Its Own Grounds

The Palmyra Board of Education has decided to proceed with its original plans for an athletic field of its own.

During the past winter the Board decided to fence in the plot of ground which it owns just west of the Field Club grounds and use it exclusively for High School athletics.

Since then the Field Club grounds have been improved and it was suggested that a field be made for the use of both the school and community activities. In this event the baseball diamond and football field would be partly on the Field Club grounds and partly on the school plot.

It was understood that the Board of Education was in favor of the plan if suitable arrangements as to schedules could be made. The committee appointed by the Board made its report at the regular meeting last week and reported that satisfactory arrangements could not be made and recommended that the Board continue with its plans for a separate field.

The committee based its decision on the fact that under the plans suggested by the Field Club the Club would retain title to the grounds and would not tender them to the Borough of Palmyra as originally planned.

Also the management insisted on the payment of a considerable rent and the committee did not feel that it should rent grounds when its own property was being used. The control of schedules and use of grounds would not be under control of the school and the Field Club would make no agreement of any kind for a period of more than three years.

The report of the committee was received and approved.

DARK AND BRIGHT COLORS

If you have in mind another pastel evening frock — wait a bit. It is whispered that instead of these lighter tones we've just adopted Paris will sponsor dark and bright color for mid-season evening gowns. This note for those who are still planning additions to the wardrobe. Reds are prominent; navy and royal blues, and there is a special emphasis on dark green chiffon. Ivory tints still remain in favor; also ivory and beige combined with black, and certain conturiers have adopted brown for evening.

VERDICT AGAINST H. J. SHARPLESS

Young Joseph Tiver is Awarded $600 in Common Pleas Court

Joseph J. Tiver, of Moorestown, who was shot at by Harvey J. Sharpless while parked in a car in woods on Lenola road owned by Mr. Sharpless on the evening of May 17, 1928, was awarded $600 in the Burlington County Common Pleas Court in Mount Holly Wednesday of last week.

After being heard for three days, the case went to the jury at 5 p. m. last Wednesday and the verdict against Mr. Sharpless was returned after four hours' deliberation. Young Tiver and his father, Joseph W. Tiver, who joined him in the action against the prominent resident, were represented by George B. Evans, Moorestown attorney.

Sometime back Mr. Sharpless was convicted of assault and battery and when the case was tried in the Criminal Court was fined $400.

According to the evidence, Mr. Sharpless shot at Tiver and his companions, Edward M. Calhoun, of Pleasant Valley avenue, and Miss Margaret Hill, of Maple Shade, but only young Tiver was injured.

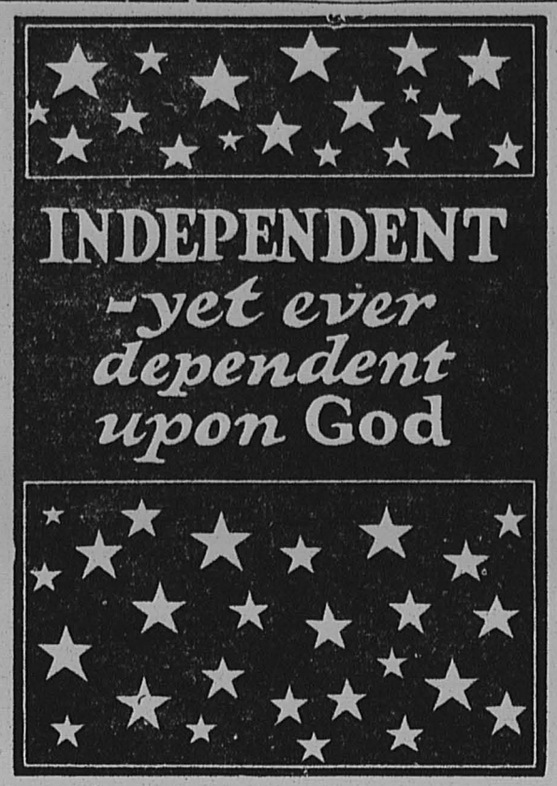

According to the boys' statements to Moorestown police immediately after the accident, Mr. Sharpless shot at them without any warning. They claimed he drove his car into their machine and a few minutes later, when they attempted to drive away, shot at them. He is alleged to have used a double-barreled shot gun.

The first shot, it was said, was directed at the back of the boys' car and tore a large hole in the top of the gasoline tank. The second barrel, which the youths said was fired a few seconds later, was aimed at the top of the auto. Young Tiver was struck and Dr. Joseph Stokes later removed "bird shot" from his head. Although Calhoun escaped injury, shots whistled by his car and scraped hair off the side of his head.

It was reported that 82 shots passed through the top of the machine.

Mr. Sharpless acknowledged shooting at the car. He told the police he suspected the youths of stealing plants. The boys, however, said he did not stop to ascertain what they were doing, but shot without any questioning.

Mr. Sharpless is well known in Moorestown. He was a candidate for Township Committee in 1927, having been defeated by Clarence E. Worrell. His brother, Edward S. Sharpless, is president of the Chamber of Commerce and is a former Township Solicitor.

To declare independence and to be capable of maintaining it are two very distinct matters. When, in 1776, our forefathers boldly signed the document which now reposes in the Congressional Library more was involved than political separation from the mother country. These men proclaimed not alone their faith in their military and naval power to establish the new order but their confidence in the ability of people, then living in the land, to take control of their individual and corporate lives.

National independence is not a thing of declarations or revolutions. Neither is it a splendid isolation achieved by geographic location or man-made fortifications. It is the recognized expression of sovereign power as portrayed by law and order based upon justice and the good of the majority, both within and without the land. "My Country Right or Wrong — but Always My Country" is fast giving place to that sense of responsibility which is coupled with our place in the family of nations. People and races are rapidly becoming world minded. Steadily the fabric of inter-dependence of one nation upon all is being woven. We cannot live independently except in the larger sense of our modern world. It will be more difficult tomorrow than it is today.

Centuries ago Socrates said to the men of his day: "To act justly and wisely both, you and the state must act according to the will of God." In the early days of our history George Washington is reported to have said: "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest may repair. The event is in God's hands." Our present chief executive, when taking the oath of office, evoked the help of Almighty God as we faced the new administration. Such men do not mouth platitudes nor prattle pretty phrases. Dependence upon God with them is a prerequisite of individual or national independence. What they insist upon for all citizens is moral integrity.

Here it is that religion ministers mightily! Socrates and Hoover have different conceptions of God; but both have acted upon their assumptions about God have prompted them to do. It is these assumptions that matter. The strength of the moral forces that must govern our national and world order in maintaining real independence depends primarily upon the vitality of our religious life. The Church faces here one of its great tasks, the training of men and women who are capable of taking control of their own lives, capable of exercising control in national affairs and capable of acting with authority in world relationships because their assumptions about God prompt them to say: "It is in accordance with the will of God for all." How important it is then that the Church should promote a great conception of God. There is none greater than the one given to the world by the man of Galilee.

HORTICULTURISTS SET MEETING DATES

Prof. A. J. Farley, secretary of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, has announced that the 1929 annual meeting and exhibit of that organization, scheduled for Asbury Park, will be held on November 20, 21, and 22.

The exhibit will be staged in the new arcade and the enclosed portion of the boardwalk now being constructed by the City of Asbury Park. Because the facilities for exhibits will be larger this year than ever before, a committee of the society has gone on record in favor of an extensive commercial exhibit of horticultural machinery, equipment, and supplies. The various meetings held by the society during its annual convention will take place in two solariums facing the boardwalk and adjoining the new arcade and casino. A banquet will be held in the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel, convention headquarters for the society.

James C. Hendrickson, of Middletown, is chairman of the special committee in charge of preliminary arrangements for the meeting. Serving with him are John H. Hankinson, of Glen Moore; R. P. Hulsart, of Manasquan; Ellwood Douglass, Monmouth County Agricultural Agent; E. A. Mechling, of Moorestown; and Professor Farley. Prof. M. A. Blake, chief of the horticultural division at the State Agricultural Experiment Station, is chairman of the exhibit committee. Other members include E. E. Beyer, of Mount Holly, and W. Raymond Stone, Bergen County Agricultural Agent.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Roebling Man Denies Charge of Murdering His Wife

Julius Uszkay, of Roebling, indicted for the murder of his wife, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Joseph L. Bodine, at the Court House Wednesday of last week, when the justice made the trip to Mount Holly especially to take the plea.

Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock will represent Uszkay, but it is not likely that the State will call the defendant for trial before September.

FINANCE COMPANY NOW ORGANIZED

Universal Credit Company Developing Organization to Handle Ford Payments

One of the developments of the past year which created national interest in both automotive and financial circles was the organization of Universal Credit Company for the purpose of financing exclusively the time sales of Ford products throughout the country. Ultimately service of a similar nature will be provided in all countries where Ford products are sold.

Universal Credit Company is a specialized financial institution created to provide uniform and authorized time payment plans at low cost for the purchase of Ford products on an instalment basis. The Company in the first year of business just closed has made sound and gratifying progress. The reception accorded the authorized Ford Finance Plans by the public and Ford dealers in the 21 large cities where branch offices have been established is indeed impressive.

Today UCC has purchased instalment contracts in excess of $75,000,000 which establishes a new record in instalment financing for an institution which has only been in operation for one year. It is anticipated that the volume of business handled will exceed $25,000,000 monthly from now on. In the short space of a year the UCC organization has grown from an organization of ten people to one employing almost a thousand.

Already there has come a realization that the Universal Credit Company was created primarily for the sound financing of the Ford dealer and the purchaser, and not with the primary object of profit. Its establishment is thus squarely in conformity with the reiterated Ford policy of creating and developing every possible economy from mine to consumer, for the benefit of the public.

The purpose is to reduce the cost of credit, to the individual who buys on time, commensurate with sound business policies. This reduction in the cost of credit is made possible by the many economies that arise from the operation of an authorized plan on the basis of nation-wide volume and dealing exclusively with the Ford dealer organization. Simplicity of forms, special bookkeeping and statistical machinery and general uniformity of procedure all under centralized control and management, are constantly contributing to cut these costs.

This cost of credit is just as vital as the cost of any of the material that goes into the building of the automobile. It is in every sense a commodity which becomes a part of the completed article before it is ultimately sold to the public.

Thus the Universal Credit Company's low finance charges are equivalent to a price reduction on the Model A car and other Ford products.

Robinson — Graham

The wedding of Miss Marian Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Graham, of 8 East Central avenue, Moorestown, and Harry G. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Robinson, of Trenton, took place at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon, June 29. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Milton H. Craft, pastor of the Grace P. E. Church, of Trenton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Julia Lane, of Riverton, was maid of honor. Thomas E. Robinson served his brother as best man. Louis J. Appleton, brother-in-law of the bride, played the wedding march.

Members of the immediate families were present at the ceremony and the formal luncheon which followed. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left for a wedding trip of two weeks and on their return they will reside in their new home at Pompton Lake, N. J.

The bride is a graduate of Trenton High School and the New Jersey College for Women. Mr. Robinson is a graduate of Trenton High School and of Lehigh University in the Class of 1924.

I can't think of anything more futile than an argument about a historical date.

INDIAN CRISIS and FRIENDS

By LUCY MEACHAM THURSTON

Now that a Friend has been appointed Commissioner of Indian Affairs and another Friend Assistant Commissioner, the particular points of Friends' work among Indians are attracting attention.

It is impossible in so short a space to touch upon even the points which should be especially emphasized, but from the time Friends began preaching in England, soon after the first settlements were made in the New World, Friends manifested a definite sympathy with those people who had roamed over the lands being taken up and claimed by others. Their conditions, their spiritual and physical needs received the greatest interest.

George Fox wrote Friends in America to "go and discourse with some of the Heathen kings, desiring them to gather their Councils and People together that you may declare God's everlasting truth and His everlasting Way of Life and Salvation to them." and when Fox himself was in America he held meetings with the Indians at Shelter Island, on the eastern shore of Maryland, and in North Carolina. One of his last messages to America shortly before his death was, "Let your light shine among the Indians."

William Penn's dealings with the Indians are too well known to need mention, but Friends' basic policy of friendliness and peace in their dealings with the natives was, and is, the outstanding feature of every contact.

And certainly before this in at least two great crises of Indian Affairs Friends have taken an effectual part; in the early days of the republic, when the pacification of the western Indians was one of the gravest questions Washington had to face—after the Civil War;—and now comes the crisis of 1929.

When in the early days of the new republic the capital was at Philadelphia Friends had opportunity to confer with deputations of Indians who came to the President and Congress with their grievances. They often served as intermediates, explaining to them the justice of certain measures, helping them also to gain others. It was then that seeing the need of the Indian for spiritual and physical help the various Yearly Meetings established stations among them, "for instructing them in husbandry and useful trades; and teaching their children necessary learning that they may become acquainted with the Scriptures of truth—and become qualified to manage temporal concerns."—This plan of blending religious and practical instruction was typical of Friends' endeavors among them.

Implements of Industry

Baltimore Friends in 1803 sent out to the then far west of Iowa a gift of plows and axes, "implements of industry," and then, at request of the chiefs, Little Turtle and Five Medals, sent out in 1804 visiting Friends to explain the use of the gifts. Gerard Hopkins, George Ellicott and Philip Dennis, starting in February, made the long journey by horseback over unknown ways, and when at last they held council with the chieftains and their people told them, "It is out of the earth that food and clothing come. We are sure, brothers, that with little labor and attention you may raise much more corn and other grain than will be necessary for yourselves, your women and your children—we are fully convinced that if you will adopt our mode of cultivating the earth and of raising useful animals that you will find it to be a mode of living."

However, the Indians of that land were soon moved; then beyond the Mississippi; at last to the reservations. Nor did they take kindly to the "implements of husbandry." A Quaker missionary in Oklahoma today says, "One of the things we strive to teach in our schools is the dignity of labor."

During Grant Regime

Again, when Grant was President Friends helped to unravel the tangle of Indian affairs. It had become clear that war policy was not successful in dealing with them, the Peace Policy of Penn and of Friends generally was known. Grant determined to try it. In 1869 Friends were approached, "appreciating fully the friendship and interest your Society has ever maintained in their behalf (the President) directs me to request you will send him a list of nmes, members of your Society, who your Society will endorse as suitable persons for Indian agents." Also Friends were promised aid and upholding by the government in all they should do "for the education, improvement and Christianizing of the Indians."

This open door was taken advantage of, valuable work was done, but the Hayes' administration was not so friendly; Friends' work concentrated mostly in Oklahoma and Alaska.

"In the picturesque imagery of Indian oratory," comments a writer on the subject, "repeated around many a council fire, the long line of Quaker apostles to the Indians have been bright links in the covenant chain of friendship that has bound Friends and the Indians together, a chain that will never rust nor break, but will remain bright and strong as long as the sun shines in Heaven."

Now, in these questions of unfair land allotments, unjust handling of timber and oil, zinc and iron Indian properties, of poor schools, bad health conditions, Friends represented by two outstanding Friends and a President of Quaker upbringing, hope to help.

PALMYRA GIRL GIVEN 30 DAYS

County Court Also Fines Moorestown Youth $75 on Assault Charges

Judge Rigg conducted a short session of court on Wednesday of last week, due to the regular session falling on the Fourth of July, and he disposed of several cases that were brought to his attention by Prosecutor Hillman, who apeared in Court for the last time prior to sailing with Mrs. Hillman for a six weeks' trip abroad, they having planned to embark on the voyage Friday morning.

Erma Fitzgerald, an eighteen-year-old Palmyra girl, who had pleaded guilty to assault and battery on her mother, whom she struck in the head with a stone during a quarrel was given thirty days in jail.

Mrs. Fitzgerald was in Court and explained just how the assault took place and also stated that she was unable to control her daughter recently.

Mrs. Amy Bethel, of Burlington, a police character, was before the Court seriously charged. She was in on a waiver and pleaded guilty.

She was sentenced to the State Home for Women at Clinton, where she will get the medical attention she so badly needs.

Joseph Goodwin, of Moorestown, who was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 after he had pleaded guilty to assaulting his crippled brother, was brought over from the jail and told the Court he had no way of getting the money unless he was given the his freedom so that he could work, and Judge Rigg modified the sentence by placing him under the care of the probation officer and giving him three months in which to pay the $75.

Erman T. Griffith, of Moorestown in on a waiver, pleaded guilty to deserting his wife and three small children, but he felt that he could support them if given another chance so the Court suspended sentence and placed him on probation for one year, with the understanding that he would support his family.

Before Judge Rigg and jury the suit of Arthur Saybe, of Beverly, against Wilbur Lockwood, of Arney's Mount, and Charles Yerkes, of Pemberton, was heard, and the verdict of the jury was no cause for action.

Saybe brought suit for damages as the result of injuries received when he alighted from a trolley car at Delanco on April 16, 1928, and was struck by a car driven by Lockwood whom Saybe claimed was driving at excessive speed.

Lockwood alleged that Saybe ran in front of the car, thereby contributing to the accident, while Yerkes disclaimed any responsibility for the accident for the reason that he had loaned the car to Lockwood to attend a funeral and had no knowledge of the accident.

OLD RESIDENT OF TOWNSHIP PASSES

Thomas W. Bell, Former Member of Firm of Bell & Frank, Dies at 76

Thomas W. Bell, a resident of Cinnaminson township for forty-five years, passed away at 7.15 on the evening of Saturday, July 6, in his 76th year. Funeral services were held at the Thorpe Funeral Home, West Chester, Tuesday afternoon, and interment was made at Coatesville.

In his early manhood Mr. Bell was manager of the Westtown school farm in Pennsylvania. In 1885 he accepted a position as grocery clerk in the store of Samuel P. Leeds. After five years, Mr. Leeds expressed a desire to retire from the grocery business, so that he could devote his time to other and larger interests.

Mr. Leeds offered to his two clerks, George C. Frank and Thomas Bell, an opportunity to take over the business, and they decided to make the venture, for a year or two at least.

The new firm was established in 1890 and operated under the trade name of Bell & Frank, doing a grocery and general merchandise business in Cinnaminson, Riverton and Palmyra.

In 1918, owing to various reasons, chief of which was the difficulties caused by the war, the members of the firm decided to sell out their business, and Mr. Bell retired to take charge of the Leeds estate at Cinnaminson.

Thomas Bell was a fine, lovable character. Unassuming and always preferring to remain in the background, was ever ready to bestow deeds of kindness on those who with whom he came in contact. He was highly esteemed as a friend and neighbor, and his every-ready wit was a constant source of enjoyment to his friends. The memory of Thomas Bell will long be cherished by those whose good fortune it was to know him.

LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion will be held in the Legion Home, Wednesday evening, July 17, at 8.15 p. m.

Members are reminded of the big rally to be held at Bordentown this Saturday, July 13. The parade forms at 6 p. m.

Don't forget the County Meeting to be held in Beverly, July 19.

The picnic of the Legion and Auxiliary will be held Saturday, July 20, at Grenloch Park. All members meet at the Legion Home at 2 o'clock. Don't miss this wonderful time.

Music Pavilion Is $2,000 Structure

The new music pavilion which graces the Palmyra grove was erected at a cost slightly in excess of $2,000, most of which has been donated by the business people of the community in labor and material.

The amount already received represents a value of approximately $1,500 and leaves a balance of $500 to be raised to clear up all indebtedness.

Councilman Frank E. Snover originally sponsored the idea of building the band stand and received the consent of Borough Council to go ahead with the work on the understanding that it would not cost the Borough anything.

It is hoped the $500 will be voluntarily subscribed by citizens who appreciate the value of this new addition to the community center.

HAINESPORT MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Victim of Camden Crossing Accident was Recently Robbed by Bandits

A grade crossing claimed another victim about noon on Wednesday of last week when John H. Schierloh, of Hainesport, formerly of Mount Holly, a supervisor for the Public Service Transportation Company, in charge of the bus barns and offices at Hainesport, was instantly killed as he was driving a small truck across the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at Thirty-sixth street, East Camden.

According to the watchman at the crossing, Schierloh drove on the tracks in front of an approaching train despite frantic efforts on the part of the guardian to stop him.

The man was alive when picked up, but he died en route to Cooper Hospital.

Coroner Kaigiin, of Camden county viewed the remains and issued a burial permit, and the body was then taken in charge by a funeral director.

The deceased was about forty years of age and is survived by a widow and three small children, the youngest being but about four months old.

The dead man was very popular with all who knew him. His principal recreation was bowling, he being an expert pinman and a member of the "Outside" Bowling Club of Mount Holly.

Some few weeks back he was the victim of bandits while engaged in his office at the car barns at Hainesport, and was held up and robbed of the day's receipts from the buses, amounting to about $600, which he was counting at the time.

The funeral took place Saturday, with solemn requiem mass at Sacred Heart Church, Mount Holly, and interment was made in Calvary cemetery, Camden.

BOAT FOUND

A twenty foot motor boat owned by H. H. Seabrook, of Riverton, was stolen last Saturday night from its mooring near the Riverton Yacht Club.

Officer Gootee was notified and he communicated with the police and river patrol authorities of nearby towns and asked their assistance in finding the boat.

Sunday evening a phone call was received by Officer Miller saying the boat was at Cornwalls, Pa.

Although the phone call indicated the thieves had tired of the boat and were proceeding by other means of transportation, the Seabrook boys, Henry and Archie, upon arriving for the boat Monday, failed to locate it.

Another effort to find the boat was made Tuesday, but the resuts were the same.

On Wednesday the boys found their boat in the Neshaminy Creek, the top was damaged and the battery in poor condition.

BARS ON BOULEVARD TECHNICALLY DOWN

The Reading Railway Company announced last week that it is prepared to remove the chief obstacle that has stood in the way of opening Crescent Boulevard its entire length from Burlington pike to Brooklawn. The company will construct an underpass beneath its tracks in West Collingswood.

The state will bear half the expense or more which it is estimated the work will cost. Work will not be started until September because of the heavy traffic on the railroad during the summer.

Clark Dillenbach, chief engineer of the railroad, denied the road has been held up by a controversy between railroad company and state. He declared the agreement to build the underpass was reached several months ago.

A detour will be necessary until the underpass is completed. It is expected summer traffic will be moving again next year before the underpass can be used.

The greatest foe to happiness is satiety. Blessed are those who want something they can't get.

TRUCK UPSETS, SIX INJURED

Soldiers Taken to Hospitals After Accident Near Riverton

Six United States Army men were injured when a truck in which they were riding was overturned on the Riverton-Moorestown road near the Henry Lippincott estate last Sunday afternoon.

Three of the soldiers were pinned beneath the truck, which was returning to Philadelphia from the recent war games at Camp Dix with a load of materials. The others, tossed clear of the wreckage, helped passing motorists to release their comrades.

The men injured are attached to Philadelphia headquarters of the Quartermaster Corps, Regular Army. They are Sergeant Joseph A. Trepenier, 31, in charge of the party, whose leg was broken; Private Byron Anderson, 23, back injury and severe body cuts; Private Hyman Zytenberg, 29, body bruises and head injuries; Sergeant W. Wells, 22, bruised shoulder; Private John Delaney, 26, the truck driver, body bruises, and Private J. Emmons, 26, bruised arm.

The wounds of the men were treated at Cooper and West Jersey Homeopathic Hospitals.

The soldiers had been ordered back to Philadelphia after the war maneuvers had led to successful defenses against "enemy" attacks along Rancocas Creek and other South Jersey points. The truck was loaded heavily with quartermaster stores.

According to State Trooper George Small, of the Bridgeboro Barracks, Delaney lost control of the truck as it skidded. A rear wheel went into a ditch and it overturned.

The first motorist to reach the wreck was Harry Emory, 41, of 321 North Fortieth street, Camden. Trooper Small arrived soon afterward, directing the work of rescue with Sergeant Wells.

Sergeant Trepenier was unconscious and apparently the worst injured when the truck was lifted away. Emory placed the commander in his car and took him to Cooper Hospital. The Palmyra ambulance was summoned by Trooper Small and the other injured men were taken to the hospital in it.

"FIVE DAYS" COST OF "SIDE DOOR PULLMAN"

Daniel Cotton Sentenced to Jail By Justice of Peace Harry McCloskey

Daniel Cotton, of North Carolina, colored, did not find the "Side Door Pullman" means of travel quite as cheap as he had expected when he found himself committed to the County Jail for five days, on the charge of being a disorderly person under the railroad act.

Troopers Small and Gaucher, of the Bridgeboro Barracks, were going through Riverside, Tuesday evening, when they noticed Cotton trying to make entrance into one of the empty freight cars on the siding.

They came back and gave a merry chase to Cotton and finally caught him on the brake rods under one of the cars.

Cotton was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harry McCloskey, of Beverly.

BUGLE CORPS IN TWO CELEBRATIONS

Participate in Riverton Parade and Later March to Palmyra to Honor Veteran

The Fourth of July program of the American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps found them leading the Riverton Fire Company and parading in Riverton's morning ceremonies. This is a regular annual contract, being the third successive year the Corps has paraded on the Fourth of July for the Riverton Fire Company, and duly explains why the Corps could not at the same time be in Palmyra's morning parade, although they did escort Senator Clifford R. Powell from Riverton's celebration down to the new band stand in the grove, where they played a special number in honor of Mr. Frank Bates, the sole surviving veteran of the Civil War in the community.

On Saturday next, July 13, the Corps will take part in the rally and dedication an Bordentown. The parade, the feature of these affairs, will begin at 6.30 o'clock, with many Legion bands and corps in line.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has set the date of July 20 for the annual picnic of the Post and Auxiliary. As last year, the place is Grenlock Park, where such a royal good time was had by all. A goodly number was there last year, but indications are that double the number will be present this year. Reservations are being made for those members who have no cars and who wish to take their families. Saturday afternoon, July 20, leaving the Home between 1.30 and 2.00 p. m.

The Legion Carnival of several weeks ago was a financial success, notwithstanding the fact that Friday night's attendance was seriously affected by the heavy rain of the late afternon. The boys of the local Post are greatly appreciative of the moral and financial support given their affair by the townspeople and wish to thank the various organizations of the two towns who aided in many ways.

Palmyra Span to Open August 14

Definite announcement was made following a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Tacony-Palmyra Ferry Company in Camden Tuesday that the bridge would be opened to traffic on August 14 at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Elaborate ceremonies will mark the opening. Arrangements are being made by the Palmyra Chamber of Commerce, as well as other organizations nearby and on the Tacony side of the span.

According to Charles A. Wright, president of the Bridge Company, the span will be free to the public from the opening until midnight, at which time collection of tolls will begin.

The rate has not been definitely decided on as yet, but it is thought the toll for passenger cars will be thirty-five cents and for buses seventy-five.

EMMOR ROBERTS ON FIRST FLIGHT

Former Senator Helps Inaugurate Camden — Massachusetts Airway Line

Former State Senator Emmor Roberts, prominent Moorestonian, was one of the four passengers on the initial flight of the first Camden air line last week.

The line was inaugurated Wednesday afternoon of last week when a plane took off from new Central Airport, Crescent Boulevard, for Wood's Hole, Mass. The return trip was made on the afternoon of July Fourth.

The new airway is the only passenger line operating directly from South Jersey and will form a permanent link with important New England cities. With a tail wind, the first flight was made in excellent time, only two and a half hours being spent in the air, Mr. Roberts reports.

Three stops were made on the 275-mile hop, Newport, R. I.; New Bedford, Mass., and Charlestown, R. I., being visited by the inaugural fliers.

The former Senator is an aviation enthusiast in every sense of the word. He is not only president of the Burlington County Aero Club, but is an active participant, holding a private pilot's license. He spends virtually all of his spare time flying about the County in one of the club's Wacco planes and has made several hops across the State and to other distant points.

Speaking of the trip last Wednesday, Mr. Roberts said, "It certainly was wonderful. The scenery was wonderful. I was thrilled to be able to see all the way from Trenton to the coast from an airplane. We could see long lines of cars causing traffic jams along the roads, but we were up where it was nice and cool, the country looked far more beautiful than it does from the ground and we could speed along in peace without the annoyance of traffic jams. That is the ideal way to travel."

Mr. Roberts has only one regret, however. He heartily dislikes to disappoint anyone and the fact that the return trip was not made in time for him to keep his appointment to fly over Palmyra during the Fourth of July celebration, as he had promised to, took away some of the enjoyment on the flight back to Camden.

The other passengers were David W. Guy, secretary of the Pennsylvania Aero Club; Kern Dodge, of Chestnut Hill, and his daughter, Jane. The ship was a Travel-air cabin plane. The pilot was Sanger Green, manager of the Central Airport.

Immediately before its flight, the ship was christened "Connamassett" by Miss Dodge, who is a debutante of Philadelphia, and a student flier. Simultaneously with the departure of the "Connamassett," Robert Hewitt, who is well known in this section, another pilot, took off for the same trip in a privately-chartered amphibian carrying a party of Philadelphians.

The Cape Cod Airway, as the line is known, will be operated every week-end during the summer. The return trip will be made the following Monday morning.

HOLD CELEBRATION

A celebration, the first of its kind, was held in West Palmyra on July 4. This was accomplished under the supervision of Mrs. Marion Myers.

The school children were formed and lined up on Arch street and headed by Mayor Wimer and Chief Beck, they paraded through the various streets to the music furnished by the Elks Band of Burlington.

Various sports were played on the grounds at Second street above Arch.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Annie Daniel, Mrs. Beatrice Johnson, Mrs. Katie Hodges, Mrs. Sarah Hilton, A. D. Daniel, Wallace Myers, Raymond Hilton and Mrs. Marion E. Myers, president.

BRIDGE TO OPEN AUGUST 14

The new bridge between Palmyra and Tacony will be opened with fitting ceremonies on Wednesday, August 14, according to a statement issued by one of the officials Tuesday night. The bridge will be open to traffic at midnight on that date. A committee is working on a suitable program for the occasion.

COMMITTEES PLAN PARK DEDICATION

Committee of Citizens Working With Council on Plans for Celebration

In compliance with a resolution made by the Riverton Borough Council at a meeting of that body on June 27, Mayor Howard M. Rogers has appointed a committee of citizens to co-operate with a committee from Council to arrange for the dedication of Memorial Park. The citizens' committee is composed of Walter C. Wright, H. H. Murray, F. B. Elwell and R. H. Stackhouse.

Council is represented by Joshua S. Bartley, Charles Delaney and E. R. Williams.

At a joint meeting of the committees last week it was decided that August 10, the date originally proposed by Councilman Williams, would be too early to allow for the preparation of a suitable program and procuring a stone and tablet bearing the names of the boys in Riverton who participated in the World War, and it was decided to have the dedication on some later date.

Another meeting of the committees was held Tuesday night of this week. Just what form the memorial shaft and tablet should take, and various plans for financing it, as well as some details of a tentative program were discussed at length.

Another meeting will be held in the Fire House Tuesday night of next week, at which time Councilman Delaney expects to have prices on two forms of memorial tablet.

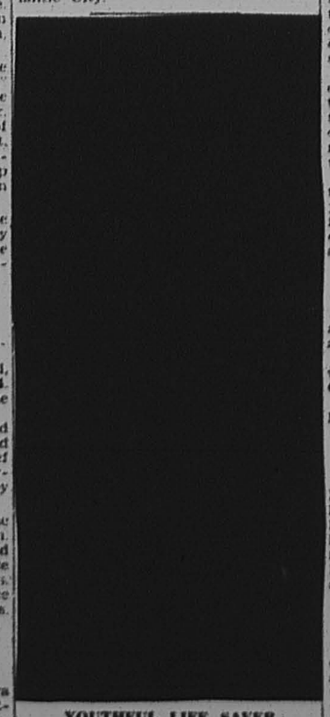

OLD-TIMERS ENJOY RIVERTON'S FOURTH

Declare This Year's Celebration the Finest They Have Ever Seen

Among the old-timers who spent the Fourth in Riverton were Mr. and Mrs. George McIlhenny, of Logan, Pa.; George Tucker, of Woodbury Heights, and Robert Steedle and family, of Atlantic City.

Mr. McIlhenny came to Riverton in 1863 and lived here until a few years ago, when he moved to Logan. Mr. Tucker for many years kept a news stand on Main street, and long before auto delivery trucks operated between here and Philadelphia, he conducted a package delivery for small parcels.

Mr. Steedle is the son of Morris Steedle, and is practicing law in Atlantic City.

YOUTHFUL LIFE SAVER

Young Jack Miller, of Palmyra, played the part of life saver last Friday afternoon, when he rescued little Jimmy Haines, 5 years of age, from drowning at the Memorial Park swimming hole.

TRUCK CRASHES TRUCK

Friday afternoon, last, a five ton Mack truck owned by the Columbus Motor Freight of Riverside and driven by George Forman, 18, of Riverside, ran into a Ford truck at Broad and Main streets, Riverton.

Forman was arrested by Officer Quigley and arraigned before Justice J. M. Coddington who fined Forman $25.00 and costs on the charge of reckless driving preferred by the officer.

John M. Daley, of Philadelphia, driver of the Ford truck was uninjured.

The Ford truck was badly damaged on one side.

RIVERSIDE TO HAVE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Mrs. T. A. MacFarland to Have Complete Charge of New Institution

The old Arndt Homestead at the corner of Washington and Fairview streets, Riverside, is to be converted into a modern, up-to-date general hospital for this section.

The hospital will be under the personal direction and supervision of T. A. MacFarland, formerly connected with the Dr. Week's Hospital. Mrs. MacFarland is making extensive preparations for the opening of the new institution, which is owned by her, on July 15.

New furnishings of the latest design and new improvements in the way of medical and surgical instruments have been added to the equipment. The building has been repaired and remodeled to meet modern hospital requirements.

The staff will include only graduate nurses. Patients may have their own physicians. The operating room will be finished in white tile, with a collection of instruments of the most modern variety.

While the Zurbrugg Memorial Hospital has very kindly accepted patients from Riverside, Delanco, Beverly, Burlington, Moorestown, Palmyra and Riverton, this is a private hospital and was originally intended to care for only the employees of the Keystone Watch Case Company and the Riverside Metal Company.

That the new hospital is to be situated on the site of the old Arndt Homestead is quite a tribute to the Riverside Township Nurse, Julia Arndt. Miss Arndt was born in the house where the new hospital is to be located and she is very much pleased to think her former residence will be converted into an institution which will relieve the suffering just as she has been doing on a smaller scale.

HOUSE-WRECKING CAR CRASHES INTO HOUSE

Driverless Machine Crashes Into Pennel Cooper's Dwelling

A "house-wrecking" truck nearly wrecked a house last Saturday afternoon when the driverless machine headed directly for Pennel Cooper's house and didn't stop until after it had hopped upon the porch and rammed its bumper into the side of the house.

That the machine was a "house-wrecker" was attested by large letters painted in yellow "Blair House-Wrecking Company," which were in plain view of the crowds which gathered within a few minutes.

The driver of the car had just unloaded a load of lumber on Memorial avenue and when he went to crank the motor the machine started up the street. The Cooper property is on Cinnaminson avenue and in the direct path of an automobile going up Memorial avenue.

The car got away before the driver could stop it and headed directly for the house. Mr. Cooper, who was sitting on his front porch, saw the machine coming and ran out into the middle of Cinnaminson avenue to warn traffic of the danger.

The driverless car went straight up the street, across the curb, and jumped upon the porch of the dwelling and stopped only when it bumped into the side of the house. No great damage was done.

RIVERTON HAS BIG PROGRAM ON FOURTH

Parade, Kiddie Karnival, Athletics, Canoe and Water Sports Are Features

BAND CONCERT AND BALL GAME ENJOYED

Splendid Display of Pyrotechnics on River Bank Concludes Day's Activities

Riverton's Fourth of July celebration this year is conceded to be the best ever held in the borough. Weather conditions were ideal, and a program lasting from nine in the morning until ten o'clock at night, provided entertainment every minute.

The day's activities started with a flag raising at Memorial Park by the Boy Scouts, followed by the parade to the river.

This year the line of march formed at Seventh and Main streets. It was made up as follows: First, the Colors, followed by the Mayor and Council, Legion Band, Fire Company in uniforms, and trucks; Troops 50 and 59, Boy Scouts of America; Girl Reserves, children with flags, decorated baby carriages, small floats, decorated trucks.

When the head of the line reached the river, the members of the fire company split ranks and held back the spectators until the marchers had turned the corner, avoiding the confusion which usually exists at this point.

Kiddie Karnival Popular

Early in the afternoon the Riverton Fire Company held its annual kiddies karnival at Memorial Park. More than 600 children, together with their fathers, mothers, uncles, aunts, cousins and friends enjoyed a two-hour program under the shade of the fine trees which surround the park.

The program consisted of a Punch and Judy Show, accordion player, a Hindu magician, "Tom Sawyer" in musical novelties, juggling and acrobatics, and a ventriloquist. Over a thousand "dixies" and packages of crackerjack were distributed.

Music was furnished during the day by Irons Band, and in the evening thousands of people witnessed the finest display of fireworks Riverton has seen in twenty years.

HAT'S IN RING

Moorestown Man on Democratic Ticket for Sheriff

George E. Lippincott, of Moorestown, will have his name printed on the ballot for the general election as the Democratic nominee for Sheriff.

Although not a candidate, numerous friends throughout the County wrote Mr. Lippincott's name in on the ballot at the primary election. The Moorestonian then complied with the law, qualifying before the County Clerk within five days after the primary, and has become a full-fledged candidate and will have his name printed on the ballots.

Frank Ross, of New Lisbon, will be Mr. Lippincott's running mate, having become the Freeholder candidate via the same route.

LONG JAIL TERM FOR FORMER BURLINGTON COUNTY CRIMINAL

Lewis William McCord, formerly of Beverly, who about a year ago escaped from the New Jersey Reformatory, Rahway, was convicted in Philadelphia following his arrest on June 18, on charges of attempted robbery and carrying a revolver. He was sent to the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of from five to ten years. McCord was sent to the reformatory from this county on November 9, 1926, on a charge of manslaughter, he having killed William Trimble during a quarrel in the wall paper factory in Beverly. McCord threw a piece of steel at Trimble, striking the latter's head, causing death.

Palmyra's New Bandstand is Dedicated During Independence Day Celebration

Civil War Veteran is Honored; Powell Makes Splendid Address in Presenting Structure to Borough; Mayor Wimer Accepts and Lauds Sponsor

That Palmyra's new music pavilion is architecturally beautiful is self-evident, but what is even more important, that it is acoustically perfect, is indeed a thing to delight its sponsors.

The bandmaster of the Lyric Band, which played at the dedication ceremonies, is a musician of rare attainment, and at the suggestion of Councilman Frank E. Snover made thorough tests to determine the acoustic properties of the pavilion.

He reported that the results were all that one could hope for and that even when the stand was crowded with two bands the music was clear and undistorted. As far away as Broad street and Elm avenue he said the music could be heard perfectly.

The only thing on which he expressed unfavorable comment was the interference in the grove when the people insisted on talking during the concert. Under these conditions, he said, the best results could not possibly be obtained.

That the new structure was appreciated by people of the community was demonstrated during the dedication last Thursday as a part of the Fourth of July celebration. The grove was crowded to capacity by an enthusiastic crowd, which applauded each number on the program quite heartily.

Councilman Snover received a fine ovation when he appeared to tell of the work done by the various men who supplied labor and materials. Mr. Snover, very modestly, refrained from mentioning his own tireless efforts which were responsible for the construction of the building.

Mayor George N. Wimer, acting as master of ceremonies, called the attention of the crowd to the fine work done by Mr. Snover in behalf of the community and evoked chuckles when he characterized him as "a man who carries out everything he undertakes."

The dedication speech was made by State Senator Clifford R. Powell, who had previously spoken at Riverton and was escorted to Palmyra by the Post Rodgers Drum and Bugle Corps. The Senator made a fine speech, in which he lauded the community spirit which made the new music pavilion possible. The speech of acceptance was made by Mayor Wimer.

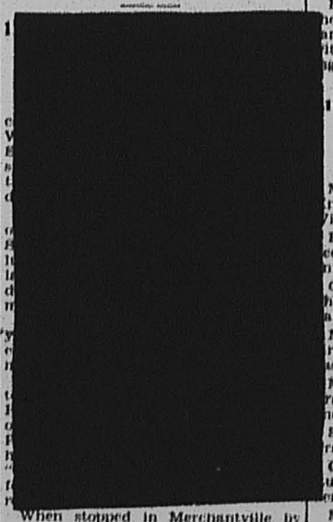

During the ceremonies Frank Bates, Palmyra's only surviving Civil War veteran, was assisted to the platform and honored with special ceremonies. The Legion Bugle Corps played a special selection in his honor, after which he was warmly applauded by the large crowd.

A very fine program was carried out during the dedication ceremonies. Community singing, led by J. Horace Finney, and band selections by two bands were greatly enjoyed. John Ward was the soloist and added much to the program with two delightful solos. The invocation and benediction were by the Rev. William Erhard. The Rev. George Lockett offered the dedication prayer.

A band concert was held in the grove in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. D. Gray Schwartz were the soloists. Band selections and community singing were the features of this program.

Dancing on Weart Boulevard completed the day's activities. This was held under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. William Vogt, assisted by Mrs. Sandoz and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Betty.

BOY IS HELD FOR STORE ROBBERY

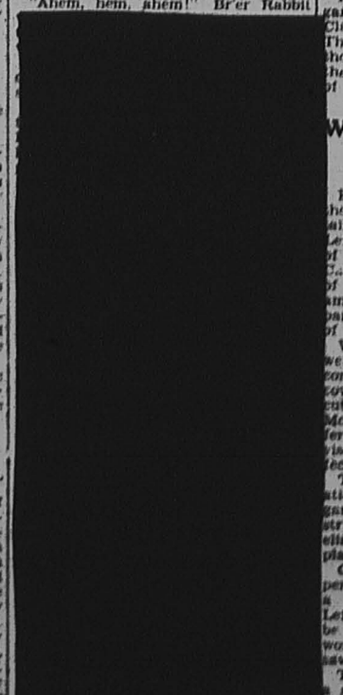

When stopped in Merchantville by a policeman, the pair denied any knowledge of the robbery. A search however, revealed the missing money and the pair were returned to Moorestown.

Chief Bradshaw, after some questioning, obtained the story from the driver. They were placed under $100 bond each for grand jury action. Hines gained his release under bond, while the lad has not been so fortunate and is still confined to a cell at Mount Holly.

LAST WEEK FOR GRANT MITCHELL

Popular Star to Play Lead in "The Whole Town's Talking"

Due to the enormous popularity of "A Tailor Made Man" and "The Champion," the Play of the Week has persuaded Grant Mitchell, to guest star in these two bright comedies, to extend his engagement for one week more in Philadelphia.

Accordingly, next week, beginning July 15th, at the Garrick Theatre, Mr. Mitchell will be seen in the hilarious farce by John Emerson and Anita Loos, "The Whole Town's Talking," in which play, as in the other two of his vehicles with the Garrick company, he created the leading role in the original production.

The brisk comedy, written by the authors of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," was one of the outstanding hits of the 1923-24 season, at which time it played most successfully in Philadelphia at the Walnut Street Theatre. It tells the story of a rather dowdy, subdued young business man, who is advised—in order to further his career in both business and in love—to become spectacular and to have the whole town talking about him.

The most logical way appears to acquire a lurid, if synthetic past, so acting on the advice, the young man confesses an entangling affair with one Letty Lythe, reigning "movie" queen. In choosing the fair Letty as the unsuspecting partner of his crimson past, he chooses well, but not wisely, for the plot is most merrily complicated by the appearance of the lady in person, with a jealous husband in her train. Needless to say, the denouement is merrily explosive.

Supporting Mr. Mitchell will be the expert Play of the Week cast, including Harriett McGibbon, who scored so well opposite him in "The Champion" this week. A newcomer of note to the company will be Georgia Caine, prominent Broadway comedienne, who was seen with Mr. Mitchell two seasons ago in "The Baby Cyclone."

For the week beginning July 22, the Play of the Week will offer that famous comedy, "Charley's Aunt," with a well-known star in the leading role.

WASTE CAMPAIGN SAVES OAKLAND

Evidence of the inventive genius of the modern factory worker is contained in an announcement by Gordon Lefebvre, vice-president in charge of operations of the Oakland Motor Car Company, stating that as a result of a campaign against waste waged among Oakland workers the company will effect projected savings of approximately $1,000,000 annually.

While known forms of waste were well under control, the campaign, according to Mr. Lefebvre, was to discover new methods or processes for cutting down time or material costs. More than $1,200 in prizes was offered plant workers who could devise the most practical means for effecting this end.

The campaign, of two weeks' duration, was conducted under the slogan, "War on Waste," and was instrumental in bringing in 3558 waste elimination plans from the 11,000 plant workers.

Of the suggestions turned in, 35 percent already evaluated will effect a projected saving of $542,000. Mr. Lefebvre said, while those still to be investigated to determine their worth are expected to effect a similar saving.

The grand prize plan recommended a substitute fuel for gasoline for operating Oakland and Pontiac Six motors, while they are being tested before assembly on the finished car. This plan alone will result in the saving of approximately $23,000 in fuel costs over a period of twelve months.

ALMAR STORE FOR PALMYRA

Harry Schaffer is Manager of New Branch Which Opens Today

A new grocery and meat store will be opened in Palmyra today by the Almar Stores Company. The new store is located at 17 East Broad street, next to the Philadelphia Market House.

Almar Stores have proven very popular in other towns nearby and the company is looking forward to great success for its new Palmyra branch.

A local man will manage the new establishment. Harry Schaffer, formerly manager for the American Stores Company, was appointed manager by the Almar Company some two weeks ago and has been busy getting things in shape to open.

Charles Daddino will have charge of the meat department and Jack Windish will be one of the clerks. Other clerks will be on duty when the store opens so as to take care of the needs of all who call.

The new company will use a somewhat different system than the regular chain store. While the "cash and carry system" prices will prevail, arrangements are being made to take telephone orders and have boys make deliveries when desired.

Another feature will be the self-service plan, which may be used by those who prefer it. Shelves and counters are arranged so customers may select the items they wish and pay the cashier without the necessity of having a clerk wait on them.

PHILADELPHIAN TO APPEAL FINE

Motorist, Penalized for Speeding, Says He "Was Only Doing 14"

Charged with speeding Harry Gross, a Philadelphia motorist, was arrested by Officer Walter A. Erickson at the intersection of Church and Main streets Monday afternoon.

At the hearing before Recorder Joseph W. Johnston, in Town Hall, the officer and Thomas Makin, a witness, testified that Gross' car was traveling between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour when he passed the intersection.

Gross insisted they were mistaken declaring he looked at his speedometer when he heard the policeman's whistle, and it was registering between thirteen and fourteen miles an hour.

Gross continued the argument until finally, the Recorder, out of patience, snapped out, "You're fined ten dollars and costs!"

"How much extra will I have to post to appeal the decision?" demanded Gross.

"Ten dollars," replied Johnston.

The extra "ten" was posted and the Philadelphian departed. The date for the appeal hearing has not been set.

Another speeder, Frederick W. Steinborn, of Alden, Pa., whom Chief of Police John Bradshaw had to chase several miles before he could stop him, recently paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Constance Black, of Gilliford, Md., another speeder recently arrested by Chief Bradshaw, likewise was penalized $10 and costs by the Recorder.

O'CONNOR FAMILY AT WALT WHITMAN

Reginald Denny's First Talking Picture Is Also a Feature of This Week's Bill

Beginning Thursday of this week and continuing until Saturday the program offered at the Walt Whitman Theatre promises to be another important event in the local theatrical season.

Heading the vaudeville section will be one of the greatest families now before the public, the famous O'Connor family, in songs, dances, comedy and acrobatics. Merry & Mumford in "A Nickel is a Nickel" are the comedy feature of this all star program. These two boys offer one of the funniest acts in the business and their act this season is a real classic of humor.

Connie Mitchel in his unique act "The Prince of Mimics" is entertaining from the start to the finish with his imitations, mimicry and comedy.

Billie Boone & Company will be seen in a most artistic and pretentious dance offering. The musical end of the bill will be taken care of by Galvin and Flores, an act direct from the Palace Theatre, New York City.

A hilarious farce comedy of the mix-ups that follows a young man's sailing for a sea voyage under an assumed name in the place of a friend, will be the feature photoplay for this gala bill. "Clear the Deck," starring Reginald Denny, is the first talking picture taken on shipboard. It was made almost entirely aboard a Pacific coastwise passenger vessel, especially chartered for the purpose. Denny is supported by a strong cast in which Olive Hasbrouck plays the feminine lead and Lucien Littlefield and Otis Harlan have the chief supporting roles. Not the least important member of the cast was a nanny-goat, untrained. Denny demonstrates in this comedy that his long training on the stage fitted him to be an ideal talking picture star.

Phone Co. Increases Capacity of Office

Installation forces have completed addition of equipment in the Moorestown central office of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, which increases the capacity of the office almost twenty-five per cent., it was stated by E. A. Curtis, manager for the company.

The addition included a section of switchboard capable of serving about 500 telephones, and miscellaneous other equipment additions and changes to improve service.

HOLD YPB STATE CAMP AT DELANCO

Interesting Program Will be Held in Fletcher Grove July 9 to 12

The 1929 State Encampment of the Young People's Branch of the New Jersey Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in Delanco. From July 9th to 12th the Young People will hold meetings in the Methodist Church and very interesting ones they promise to be.

A Grand Gold Medal Contest, Graduation Exercises, Round Table Conferences, inspiring talks by the National Director of Soldiers and Sailors, Miss Rebecca N. Rhodes, and by Miss Winona Jewell, the National YPB Secretary, a picnic and sports are all on the program for this year's Federation.

The Federation will open with a banquet in the Osborne House, Fletcher Grove, on Tuesday evening, July 9th, at 7 o'clock. Miss Jewell will be the speaker of the evening. Any one desiring tickets for this banquet may see either Miss Hazel Blake or Miss Effie Bowen not later than Sunday.

Wednesday morning and Friday morning will be taken up by business meetings. Miss Rhodes and Miss Jewell will discuss their work during these meetings. There will also be interesting Round Table Conferences conducted by the State Directors of the various departments. Wednesday afternoon the young people will participate in sports on the Delanco school lot.

Wednesday evening there will be a Grand Gold Medal Contest. Representatives from four Counties—Middlesex, Somerset, Cumberland, and Atlantic—will take part in the contest. Everyone is cordially invited to come and hear the young people spread the truth concerning Prohibition and the Eighteenth Amendment.

Thursday evening after an all-day picnic at Woodlawn Park, Trenton, the graduation exercises will be held for those who have completed the Y. P. B. Study Course. This year there will be seventeen young men and women graduating.

Miss Winona Jewell will give the address of the evening. Miss Jewell, as National YPB Secretary, is virtually interested in the young people, their work, their welfare, and their happiness, and she surely will have an interesting address to give you.

Residents of Delanco and Riverside are invited to attend any or all of these meetings.

COUNTY BOY SCOUT CAMP IS NOW OPEN

Avery L. Bennett Moorestown Director This Year; Large Number Lads Enrolled

Official opening of the Burlington County Boy Scout camp near New Egypt was featured by the enrollment of a large number of scouts for the first week's encampment. Avery L. Bennett, of Moorestown, and a Mount Holly High School teacher, is director of the camp this year, while Clarence P. Davenport is his assistant. The camp has 12 cabins with a housing capacity of four troops.

Other officers include: Davis A. Simons, camp quartermaster; James L. Bennett, director of athletics; R. Tallis, director of scouting; Clifton Dill, director of scouting; Clifton Dill, director of boating, Red Cross and life guards; Dr. Harold P. Coxson, camp physician.

The committee includes: Edward A. Mechling, Moorestown; William B. Vanoergrift, Burlington; William S. Fryer, Mount Holly; Arthur Zayotti, Palmyra; T. Sherman Borden, Beverly, and W. H. Hutchinson, Riverside.

LIST OF RULES FOR LAUNDERING FABRICS

With the development of new methods of laundering modern fabrics, there also has come a need for testing such fabrics before they are washed. In explanation of this statement, Mrs. Marion C. Bell, New Jersey extension specialist in home management, says that many of the newer manufactured fabrics are quickly ruined by water that is too hot, or by wringing, twisting, or by using hot irons.

"There are certain rules which should be followed in laundering these modern fabrics," Mrs. Bell advises. "Use only a mild soap, one which contains no free alkali or other ingredient likely to injure delicate fabrics. The washing should be done in lukewarm water.

"Remove water from the fabric by squeezing. Never twist or wring. When a mechanical wringer is used have the rolls as loose as possible. Never use a hot iron. Finally, test a sample of the fabric to determine if it irons best when dry or when damp.

FINE LECTURES AT CONFERENCE

Ewan Clague of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Speaks at Y Meeting

Mrs. Margaret Baylor, and Miss Charlotte Roberts, of Moorestown, returned Saturday from Summit Lake, N. Y., where they attended the Eastern Industrial Girls Conference, June 28 July 5. They report the lectures and discussions by Ewan Clague, from the Business Research Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as most worth-while. Mr. Clague used industrial situations confronting delegates as a basis for his lectures and discussions.

Mrs. Baylor was elected chairman of the committee on nominations which will find industrial girls from New York and New Jersey clubs to serve as officers and committee chairmen for the next year's work.

More and more girls in domestic services are finding themselves a part of the industrial department of the Association, and this year their interest was especially noticeable. Both Mrs. Baylor and Miss Roberts are girls from domestic service.

Silver Bay Conference

"How shall I sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" has come to express the idea underlying the plans for the Eastern Community Conference which will be held at Silver Bay, New York, July 9-17.

A study of the interests of local associations with the many complicated problems facing modern women, has made even our own home communities "a strange land" in which we realize our need of learning "to sing the Lord's song." Keeping in mind the world changes, the international responsibilities of association members will also be a part of the conference.

Mrs. Katie Bounds, of Moorestown, and Mrs. Arthur Miller, of Rancocas, will represent Burlington County at this conference.

Miss Elizabeth Howard, of Mount Carmel, Pa., and Miss Fern Kissinger, of Camden, spent Tuesday, July 9 at the county Y. W. C. A. office with Miss Sidonie Schafer making plans for the Y. W. C. A. camp at Ockanickon this summer. Miss Howard will be the dietitian for the girls' camp August 5 to September 2.

Mrs. Florence Irwin, of Rancocas, entertained the members of the Woman's Club at a luncheon at her home Monday, July 8, at one o'clock. Luncheon was served in the garden and a social afternoon followed.

INJURED FROM KICK, YOUTH IN HOSPITAL

John Alden, Jr., Rushed From Camp Ockanickon By Relative; Appendicitis First Diagnosis

Thought to have been suffering with appendicitis John S. Alden, Jr., of Moorestown, was rushed from YMCA Camp Ockanickon, near Medford, where he was assistant leader for the summer, to the office of a local physician and then to the West Jersey Hospital, Camden, Saturday afternoon.

Robert S. Harris, also of Moorestown, a relative of the youth, who is sixteen years old, discovered young Alden's plight when he went to the camp to visit the boy.

Put under observation at the hospital, it was discovered that the lad was not suffering with appendicitis but from the effects of a kick received during a game of water polo at the camp. The boy had also complained of a sore throat, and physicians at the hospital discovered he was suffering with a severe case of tonsilitis.

Although still under observation, John is reported to be rapidly improving, despite the complication of ailments.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Alden, of West Third street. Mr. and Mrs. Alden, who were guests at a house party at the shore when John was rushed to the hospital, made a hurried trip to Camden late Saturday evening.

Do all the good you can as you roll along. Life is a one-way street, and you're not coming back.

ARTISANS TO HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

Will Initiate New Members in Philadelphia Tuesday Evening, July 30

Two special meetings of Artisans will be held during the summer for the benefit of those assemblies which will omit their regular meetings. The special affairs will be for the initiation of new members. They will be held Tuesday, July 30, and Thursday, August 29, at the Grand Fraternity Building, 1626 Arch street, Philadelphia.

The Artisans are engaged in a campaign for production of new members. Each Artisan introducing a new member will be invited to attend a huge producers' dinner which will be held the first week in January. It will be an affair similar to the dinner held on June 5 at the Penn Athletic Club, an entertainment which was attended by scores of Artisans living in this district.

The special initiations will be held to give the greatest opportunity to the members, especially those who will be introduced from now on, that they may also get candidates and become eligible for the dinner. More than 1500 new members were added to the fraternity during the first five months this year and it is expected that twice that number will be obtained before December 31, when the books will close.

Lapsation of membership, which is felt by some fraternal societies, has not touched the Artisan because of the system of obtaining candidates through the introduction of personal friends by those already in the order. It is expected that the Artisans will show a net gain this year of at least 3000 members.

How to Help Your Husband Earn More

MEN know that personal appearance counts in business. Employers are slow to promote shabby employes. Yet, many men are careless about having their clothes pressed. They "forget," and the "forgetting" prevents them from earning the money they are really worth.

"A GOOD CIGAR FOR 5c—WHAT?"

Here's a Cigar Which Knocks All Doubt Sky-high

You've often been fooled on 5c cigars, we admit. We don't blame you if you're "from Missouri." But—will you do this one thing? Risk just one more nickel—try Bayuk's Havana Ribbon. You may get the idea that this is a higher priced cigar cut to five cents for some dark purpose. But there's no catch in it at all. Bayuk's Havana Ribbon is simply an example of what really can be put into a nickel cigar by sincere manufacture and huge production: Ripe, long-filler tobacco—cured, age-mellowed and skilfully put together (no bitter under-ripe nor flat over-ripe leaves). Smoke so sweet, cool, mild and full-flavored, you'll scarcely believe it possible in a 5c cigar.

No question about it, Bayuk's Havana Ribbon is the world's greatest five-cent smoke. Shoot one buffalo coin and see. At cigar counters everywhere. Also Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

The TOWN DOCTOR
(THE DOCTOR OF TOWNS)
says

If I were President of a Service Club or a Chamber of Commerce in a town of from two to two hundred thousand population, I would, one week, invite all of the gasoline station attendants to luncheon, the next week, all of the hotel clerks, the next the soda fountain and drug store clerks, and the next week, I'd have an evening meeting and invite all the waitresses, waiters and restaurant cowh.

At these meetings I'd have some well-liked and popular man who had a lot of humor, snap and pep in his make up, give a booster talk on our town. Not a lot of undue praise, nor an oration on "Our Home Town," but straight from the shoulder, calling a spade a spade I'd tell those men and women on why they should sell everybody with whom they come in contact on what the town offered, what it needed and I'd show them why they should do it for their own pocketbooks, as well as the town in general.

I'd see to it that facts and figures were placed in their minds and hands that would make it possible for them to put up a real sales talk. Among other things, this would include the growth of the town in the last five years and why, population of trade zone and the income derived from the trade zone, historical facts, high lights of interest, and industries. If the town had anything that no other town had, I'd see that these people had all the details.

In other words, I'd start right now to place in the hands of those who come in contact with the potential customers of the town, sales ammunition to SELL the town.

These people are the logical people to start with and through them thousands of dollars can be made for every merchant.

Every day there is a constant flow of gold dollars going through your town, but no community can expect to get an even break unless it ay ask for it.

"You can't sell 'em, if you don't tell 'em," is as true in Town Selling as it is in the promotion of any product.

You Can Afford to Use Gas

MODERN development of appliances, recent adaptations to new uses, and improvements in methods of production and generation have made gas more than ever essential to comfort and convenience in the home and to efficiency and economy in the factory.

Automatic regulation of oven heat has given new cooking value to domestic gas ranges.

Automatic water heating by gas has been perfected so as to provide the best of hot water service in all homes where it is used.

Refrigeration by gas is established as economical, desirable and convenient.

Central house heating by gas is becoming increasingly popular as its convenience, freedom from all forms of dirt and automatic efficiency is better known.

Room Heating by gas as occasion requires; incineration of household waste by gas and many other domestic applications all add to the usefulness of gas the best of fuels.

Industrial use of gas is rapidly being extended to new processes.

Gas, providing heat in its most adaptable, most easily controlled and most convenient form, is destined to be as universally used for heat as is electricity for power and light.

Rates now charged for gas by this company, fix a price of 9½ cents per 100 feet for all additional gas used above 1400 feet, a substantial reduction from the previous rate for quantity use.

You can afford to use gas because of the results that you get.

Ford as a Railroader

When Henry Ford, in 1920, bought the two streaks of rust known as the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, always in the hands of the receiver, the railroad world laughed and said $8,000,000 was an excessive price. He discharged a large number of men as unnecessary, practically reconstructed the road bed and equipment, electrified all but 80 of the 343 miles, paid his employees more than the union scale, prohibited Sunday work, sold his employees stock on which they received 12 per cent, and in 1924 showed a profit of nearly as much as he paid for the property.

In 1926 the Interstate Commerce Commission placed a tentative valuation of $11,826,300 on the railroad but Ford protested that it was worth double that figure, and twice applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to reduce freight rates. He did the thing that railroad men said could not be done. And now the Pennsylvania Company has acquired the property at a price they don't advertise.

Marion Talley's Model Farm House

Not only has Marion Talley, famed opera star who announced she was giving up her career to enter agricultural activities, actually bought a farm, but she has decided to build a farm house to serve as a model for wives in the Kansas wheat belt.

Miss Talley's 300 acres near Colby, Kansas, are level, treeless, unbroken, with rich black dirt everywhere. It is ideal land for wheat.

In the immediate vicinity of her farm, Charles M. Talley, her father, met and wooed her mother, Mrs. Talley.

Soon Miss Talley will begin to build her house on the ground she has purchased, and it will be equipped with all modern conveniences, especially in the kitchen.

Miss Talley hopes she can prove to Kansas farmers that their wives might just as well have the comforts and labor-saving devices of their city sisters. She plans to visit among them, encouraging the comforts and conveniences of new housekeeping methods.

We want to wish Miss Talley great personal success in the operaton of her farm. And express our admiration for her spirit of helpfulness in desiring to make her house a model for others.

Dependent Old Age

The subject of dependent old age has been getting considerable attention in several states. One of the large insurance companies recently reported that fully 65 per cent of persons in the United States over 60 years of age are dependent on their children or others. Social welfare workers make similar reports. The practice of certain industrial organizations in denying employment to persons more than 40 to 45 years of age is largely responsible for this situation, and in most cases individual pension plans have fallen down. Several states have attempted to solve the problem, but these have no fixed plan and legislators are working in the dark.

In 1928 the Canadian parliament passed a law by which the government contributes an equal amount provided by each province.

Great Britain, France, Belgium, Denmark, the Union of South Africa and New Zealand have old-age pensions, recently the subject has been before Congress.

If the states themselves do not act in the matter, the Federal government may be moved to establish old-age pensions as part of the subsidy system.

Farewell, Sherlock Holmes

Sherlock Holmes is dead. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has again announced that he will never revive this world-famous character.

But not only is he dead in fiction—the Sherlock Holmes type of detective is now seen as doomed in fact.

Baffling mysteries are no longer to be solved by cleverness. They are to be unraveled by scientific experts relying upon standardization methods of precise identification

Before the National Conference of Weights and Measures at Washington, William Souder of the Bureau of Standards, some weeks ago made prediction that may eventually take all the romance out of criminal hunting.

He showed how the most cunning criminal of the future will be discovered through super-microscopes that will tear his identity from a typewritten document, a pistol ball, a cartridge shell or a signature.

The coming cut and dried methods may take some of the thrill out of the accounts of the exploits of detectives on the trail. But they may eventually reduce crime to a minimum by making discovery virtually certain.

Wheat a Basis for Money

As a result of the "farm storage laws" of North Dakota and Montana, grain held under their provisions will constitute a basis for negotiable paper, recognized by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul has made arrangements to loan money on wheat stored in North Dakota, to the extent of several millions of dollars. The needs in Montana will be handled through the Intermediate Credit Bank of Seattle.

The immediate control of the operations of the law is in the hands of the state grain storage commissioners. Ten farmers, operating on land tributary to any market center, may petition for designation as a grain storage district. The purpose of this law is to make it unnecessary for the farmer to rush his product to the market, in order to obtain money to meet immediate obligations, as has been necessary in the past.

While it is unusual to issue money based on wheat or corn or cotton, the plan simply follows that of the Federal Reserve Board in issuing money to railroads and industries based on various stocks, bonds and other securities. In fact it is getting back to the old "greenback" system.

BRAINS AND SOIL.

MACDONALD READS HAZLITT.

THE FEAR OF DEATH.

A BRAVE COW.

This nation, with its annual income of NINETY THOUSAND MILLONS of dollars, treats education generously. But the value of education depends not on money, but on the brains on which the education money is spent. A crop depends not entirely on the seed, but more on the soil.

Nearly nine hundred years ago, when Abelard taught logic and theology to young men in the University of Pris, they gathered in Wintertime in a stone lined room, not heated, taking notes by candlelight.

And many, too poor to pay for candles, climbed the church steeple on bright moonlight nights, to continue their studies there by moonlight.

A few such students might be worth more to the world than a thousand million dollars of endowment. Edison gave to the world more money than wealth has ever given to education. So did Pasteur. Neither ever went to college.

Ramsay MacDonald, flying from Scotland to London in a British bombing plane, a parachute strapped over his leather flying coat, read Hazlitt on the way.

Hazlitt, who worked himself into a fury over the French Revolution, quarreling with everybody that did not approve it, little thought that within 100 years of his death, a Socialist Laborite would be Prime Minister of England, without any revolution.

Still less did Hazlitt imagine that a British Labor Prime Minister would fly to his work.

Max D. Steuer, brilliant New York lawyer, says the best cure for any man that fears death is Hazlitt's essay on death.

Briefly Hazlitt says that, since we don't worry because we were not alive 100 years ago, we should not worry because we won't be alive or conscious a hundred years hence.

In rural England, a huge lion, knocked out of his cage in an automobile collision, jumped into a cow pasture. A cow with a young calf dashed at him, and gored him, attacking him again and again, until he killed her. Others, later, killed him.

The cow, not the lion, is the interesting animal in that story, for she represents mother love, with its boundless courage. How many men would have attacked the lion with no better weapon than a cow's horns.

Consider also the marvelous inheritance of memory. The cow's ancestors, probably, had not seen a dangerous wild beast in more than 1,000 years. But, at sight, the cow knew that the lion meant danger to her calf and rushed to the attack. Man is not the only animal "fearfully and wonderfully made."

GOOD POLICY

Preaching is one thing; good business policy is another. Men find things to criticise in preaching; only a dumb-bell oppose the safe and sane business proposition.

If you study your newspaper as you should, then take note of the great number who are overtaken in crime, folly, and other wrongdoing. Set the number down in your memorandum book each day for a month. The number will astonish you—and the sad total will be a shouting, thundering argument for right living.

There is absolutely no excuses for doing wrong—for it is the poorest business policy in the world; why? because it leads inevitably to disaster.

Take intoxicating drink, for instance. Over-indulgence, or, for that matter, taking it under any circumstances save under advice of a good doctor for illness—is a very, very poor business policy? Why? because its victims are legion.

If cheating, defrauding and falsifying were not wrong morally, it would remain one of the worst business policies. Such an operator may apparently succeed for a time, but will surely be exposed in time, and bring sorrow to the perpetrator.

The price of a clear conscience is beyond doubt effort well expended. Compared with the dividends reaped, the clear conscience pays more than the best stocks on the market today. To maintain a spotless character and reputation is to have the best credit and backing in the world.

Every man knows right from wrong by native intuition. Every man has been at the forks of the road. It has always paid to turn to the right. There is no better business.

The square shooter is the happy man; the crook does not know the meaning of happiness, because always apprehensive; he is never sure of being safe; his restlessness becomes self-torture in course of time. The best business policy in the world is—the Golden Rule.

What Is Wrong With Physical Culture?

"There is something all wrong with the idea of physical culture," a man of fifty said to me one day. "Why should it make the young man healthy and strong and the older man uncomfortable and sick? If it's so fine, why isn't it universally beneficial? Take me, for example. Every time I eat something that is supposed to be good for me it upsets my indigestion. Tennis and swimming are out of the question—my heart won't stand it. A long walk exhausts me. Physical culture is a young man's game all right."

Many middle-aged people will agree with this man. They have experienced the same trouble. They feel "better" when going along in the same old rut and taking no unaccustomed exercise. Therefore "something is all wrong with physical culture."

Something IS all wrong but not with physical culture. Ignorance and indifference are the real culprits. In the last fifteen years physical culture has taken tremendous strides, but the biggest stride of all is yet to be taken. That is the educating of people to the real meaning and purpose of physical charm.

In its truest sense it means to begin from the moment of birth to live as we were intended by nature to live. Eating bone and tissue building foods. Regular elimination. Sufficient rest and sleep. Wholesome play. A happy, healthful frame of mind. And a worshipful reverence of the human form—the earthly temple of the soul during the span of life.

In its truest sense it means to begin from the moment of birth to live as we were intended by nature to live. Eating bone and tissue building foods. Regular elimination. Sufficient rest and sleep. Wholesome play. A happy, healthful frame of mind. And a worshipful reverence of the human form—the earthly temple of the soul during the span of life.

Too many people think that physical culture means strenuous and unpleasant exercises, and denying oneself things that the appetite craves. They point with pride to the high standard of athletics in our schools and colleges and call that physical culture. To prudes it is synonymous with immodesty and sex. But those fallacies are gradually being destroyed.

Athletics is not the definition of physical culture; it is merely a part of the whole. In schools and colleges too much attention is paid to training chiefly the bodies of those who are already in good physical condition by making available to them special apparatus that is not available in everyday life. The weaklings are shoved into the background and forgotten.

Physical culture is NOT a young man's game. It is not a game at all. It is the free and glorious privilege of every individual of any age.

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY
Ezekiel 33:7-16
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Object lessons were often used by Ezekiel. At such times he always had a curious if not interested audience. People are invariably attracted when something is being shown. Before the fall of Jerusalem the minister to the captive Hebrews at Tel-abib in Babylonia took a piece of tile and drew the outline of Jerusalem thereon. The Temple appeared in the center and the city was surrounded with implements of war. The siege was indicated as he placed an iron pan between himself and the wall, and lay there for days eating a rationed portion of bread daily. In time a refugee arrived declaring all that had taken place, and that the city was no more a habitation for its founders.

Sick at heart the people suffered. Many were not individually responsible, but they were in captivity because of the prolonged and willful sins of their ancestors as a whole. Up to this time much had been declared about class responsibility. Henceforth more is to be proclaimed regarding personal responsibility. Have you read the second third of Ezekiel as was called for in the study last week? The special portions for today are all of chapters 18 and 33. Nothing can take the place of your own careful Bible reading.

Imagery is used again as Ezekiel is called a "Watchman" by Jehovah and commanded to be very faithful in performing the trust involved in the office. It is a position of great responsibility. Lives of many others are involved. Danger is at hand and at times must be met with life. Failure to do duty as a watchman is often punished with death in times of war.

The question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" is clearly answered. Wicked men must face the death penalty due because of their sins. But what shall be done to those who stood lazily by and never raised a signalling hand or pleading voice to hold them back from the logical consequences of their own ways. The answer from Jehovah, through Ezekiel, is that all are held responsible who could have given any warning. "His blood will I require at thy hand." Excuses are not listed. Just one thing is called for, namely, to definitely warn the wicked concerning the way he is surely going.

Suppose the wicked persists in following his own way after you have spoken? That places an added responsibility on him and frees you from any participation, through knowledge, in his wrong doing.

The very heart of God was laid bare by Ezekiel. In times of despondency it is easier to say "God does not care." Punishment of the wicked is one of the safeguards of society. It helps deter others from transgressing the law and thus becomes a protection to all. God's pleasure is in the restoration of the wicked to a safe and constructive manner of living. Even good deeds in the past will not help under condemnation or sin at God's bar of judgment. Neither will open sins of the past stand in accusation against any one who in true penitence seeks forgiveness in the Father's appointed way.

Milady's Beauty Secrets

By Helena Rubinstein

Beauty clear and fair . . .
Both the wonder and the story
She be yours, and eke the glory;
I am your servant and your thrall.
—JOHN FLETCHER.

Many a woman is judged unfairly by the condition of her hands. If they appear rough and red, coarsened by housework, the nails in bad condition—the smartest costume cannot hide this defect which stamps her as below par in grooming.

But fortunately it is no longer necessary for women to submit to the inevitable results of constant immersion of the hands in hard or soapy water, for there are many simple rules and home remedies that can be used to keep the hands soft and white, the nails free from bruise-marks and hang nails.

I think all who are blessed with common sense realize that it is well worth the small extra amount it costs in the space of a year to purchase pure and non-alkaline soaps for all household purposes. The dish mop and the handled scrubbing brush have completely superseded the old wet rags and hand mops that once spelled early age to the housewife's hands. And last, but not least, we must not overlook the importance of the kitchen beauty shelf which should be hung in a convenient place so that she may minister daily aid to her beauty.

Chief upon the articles on this shelf we should find the hand lotion bottle, the little jar of hand cream and perhaps, just for the sake of good looks, a foundation cream which brings instant beauty to overworked hands and arms.

My advice to every beauty-loving woman is: Cultivate the habit of using these aids regularly and frequently. Determining not to be guilty of that little sin of neglect which sends you out into the open air with wet hands. After every dish washing, rub a little of the hand lotion into the palms and backs of your hands and when your kitchen is ready to be closed for the night, take one more extra moment and massage a little hand cream well into the skin and—if it is not too inconvenient—allow it to remain on overnight.

Let us not for a moment forget the important part that hands play in the ensemble of perfection. A poorly cut garment or passe bonnet is easily forgiven; for them there may be reasons not directly traceable to one's own neglect. But upon us rests the sole responsibility for unlovely, work-worn hands. Chemists and beauty specialists have provided means for their protection; to tend them faithfully, shaping the tips of fingers after washing and drying the hands; softly pushing back the cuticle with the towel; preventing dryness by putting back through good preparation the oils that too long and frequent immersion in soapy water removes from the skin.

OUTLOOK REPORTS FOUND USEFUL BY N. J. FARMERS

Knowledge that overproduction means glutted markets and ruinously low prices explains why many New Jersey farmer are basing their production programs on economic outlook reports of the state agricultural experiment station and federal department of agriculture. This is the belief expressed by W. T. Knowles, economist for the extension service of the experiment station, in reporting on the use of economic information by farmers of the state. The special New Jersey outlook for 1929 was released early in February, and since then close to 150 meetings have been held in many sections of the state to discuss outlook recommendations and their adaptation to local conditions. These metings, which attracted more than 6,000 farmers, have largely been devoted to such commodities as poultry and eggs, fruits, vegetables and dairy products.

GAS

UNEQUALLED FUEL FOR HOT WATER

THE relaxation that follows a warm bath after a busy day; the refreshing comfort that clean linen brings; the attractiveness of food served on china and silver that are sparklingly clean; the satisfaction of knowing that cleanliness is all about you—these little things which contribute so much to the smooth course of your daily life are made possible by the liberal use of hot water.

When the hot water supply is sufficient, a clean house is easily maintained, and the comfort and health of its occupants protected.

The best hot water heating system for the home is the gas automatic storage system, and since gas is the most easily controlled of all fuels, it operates under automatic control devices with unique success.

SPECIAL OFFER

$5 to $10 allowance on your old water heater if you install a gas automatic storage system

LOCAL CHURCH NEWS

FIRST LUTHERAN

Rev. W. M. Erhard, Pastor

Regular services in Sunday School and Church next Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours. Quite a special treat is offered to the people of First Lutheran Church, in the coming of Rev. Dr. M. O. Daniel, a native Syrian, now of Philadelphia, who will deliver an address on his former life and give a comparative study of heathen and Christian religions.

In the evening Miss Elisabeth Emory, a young lady of charm and talent, will address our people on a religious topic. Miss Emory, after six years of careful study at night, has completed the course at the Pennsylvania Bible Institute, and is now on the active field of service for her Lord and Saviour. You will find her most inspiring and edifying.

Ordained ministers will supply the pulpit for the remaining Sunday mornings of the pastor's vacation.

On Sunday evenings special services by visiting speakers or groups from our own church will be held. At 7.45 P. M., July 21st, plans are under way to have a young man of rare ability and broad speaking experience with us. On July 28th the Luther League will conduct the service. On August 4th something quite novel will be tried. The members of Council will conduct a service with male quartette, speakers, presiding officer, and persons taking other parts of the service, all from the membership of council.

"Loyalty the year round" is our watchword.

Jacob M. Hill, aged fifty-eight, fell dead in the store of W. C. Holland last Wednesday night. When Hill was taken ill Holland called Patrolman William Quigley, who summoned Dr. Dean H. LeFavor, who pronounced him dead. Coroner Benjamin F. Farner, of Burlington, issued the death certificate. Farner said Hill died a few seconds after being seized with the fatal attack.

Mr. Hill was living in the Crosta house, at 501 Third street, Riverton. He had been employed at Disston's for many years. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sharkey, and two brothers, Benjamin Hill and Alfred Hill, of Frankford.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Shuver funeral home, in charge of Rev. William J. Lee. Interment was made at East Cedar Hill Cemetery, Frankford.

"Mon Desir."—Lelong calls this elusive, shimmering evening cape in moonlight-colored satin. And isn't it enchanting?

Rows and rows of narrow flounces attached to a sheer foundation ripple softly as a limpid pool struck by a shaft of moonlight—and furnish ideal protection against the dews of evening. For the frocks of cobweb sheerness which at the moment occupy the center of the stage for evening, the little garment is a most gracious accompaniment.

SKIRTS FEATURE ORIGINALITY

Sometimes it is the sleeve, sometimes the neckline or bodice treatment that gives the costume its claim to originality. But this summer it happens to be the skirt.

With the idea of creating fullness and novel ways in which to use it have come all manner of irregularities. Many soft layers cut in long points distinguished the skirts of sheer evening and afternoon frocks. Tiers of flounces or groups of set-in tucks or godets become the chief trimming motif for other models. Floating panels and wisps of fabric attached low on the skirt and transparent skirts with short fronts and dipping backlines—all these vagaries in design find expression in the prevailing mode which has quite forsaken its former sheath-like plainness, and becomes most decorative.

SHALLOWER NECK LINES

Instead of the deep pointed necks that have been featured so frequently, new frocks and blouses will have shallower neck lines. One early model features a halter-like shaping with scalloped lower line; another finishes the broad, shallow neck with a smart and youthful collar which may be worn open or fastened at the base of the throat.

PARRY JUNIORS WIN TEN IN ROW

Beat Uptown Tigers, of Philadelphia; Lost Saturday by 14 to 11 Score

The Parry Juniors won their tenth straight game last Sunday at the expense of Uptown Tigers, of Philadelphia, by a score of 14-11, in ten innings.

The Tigers had Parry beaten up until the eighth, when the Juniors came through with four counters to take a 11-10 lead. Uptown pushed one over in the ninth and tied the score.

Three big markers in the tenth gave Parry the victory. Escheman and Gale did the hurling for Parry, while J. Harrington went the whole route for Uptown.

Schuck led the sluggers with four safeties while Escheman garnered three, a triple, double and a single.

The score:

Parry Juniors— 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 4 4 0 3—20	14	3

Last Saturday the Juniors won from Merchantville Gardens by a 16-2 score. Morris, pitching for Parry, allowed nine hits. Ellis and Bramanta, of Merchantville, were nicked for thirteen. Hutchison, Gale and Schlensal collected three hits apiece for the Juniors.

The score:

Parry Juniors— 0 8 0 1 0 3 0 4 x—13	16	4

Saturday, June 29, the Juniors found themselves up against the big Lenola team, which had been scheduled by mistake, and beat them by a 6-5 score.

Seventh Ward B. C., of Camden, will be the attraction at Parry next Saturday afternoon. On Sunday either Friends' A. C., of Philadelphia, or Penhill, of Merchantville, will furnish the opposition.

In addition to winning ten straight the Juniors have won fourteen, lost four, and had three unfinished in twenty-one starts.

A game has been scheduled with the Palmyra Sportsmen's Club for August 11 on the Parry grounds.

Schedule for This Week

Saturday—Browns Mills vs. R. D. Wood at Florence; Delanco at Medford; Palmyra vs. Vincentown at Mount Holly; Moorestown at Burlington.

The Palmyra Community Movement's entry in the Burlington County League got off to a flying start in the second half of the schedule by defeating Vincentown 3-1 on the Mount Holly grounds last Saturday afternoon.

Frank Keith, who is now doing most of the hurling for the Rappmen, held the slugging Vincents to five scattered blows and did not allow an earned run. The lone enemy marker came in the first as a result of a single by Benny Worrell and two errors. After Benny singled he took second on Harper's wild throw of Reeves' bunt. Zaun let Nelson's roller go past him and Worrell raced home.

The proceedings became more interesting in the second when "Tip" McCarty got a toehold and slammed the old apple out of the park. McCarty repeated this performance in the sixth after his mates had driven a marker across in the fifth on doubles by "Hep" Harper and Harry Krause.

King and Keith also did some heavy hitting, King getting a double and a single while Keith pounded out a double. McCarty got a single in addition to his two home runs and finished the day with three hits out of four "at bats."

The Nation's birthday marked the end of the first half of the Burlington County League and the crowning of the Medford Olympics as the first half champions of the league.

The Olympics, so far, have had an absolute monopoly on the early season honors as they won last year in the circuit's first half, only to lose in the fall playoff to R. D. Wood, of Florence.

Palmyra finished at the top of second division with six wins and eight defeats. It would have required two wins on Independence Day to give the Pals an even break for the early season's schedule and they came near getting it but were beaten by a single marker in the morning by Vincentown.

Frank Keith was the losing hurler in this contest although he pitched a steady game. The Vincents dented the pentagon once in each the first, fourth, eighth and tenth to manufacture their four runs.

Anderson was a puzzle to the Rappmen until the ninth when they broke out with a three run rally and sent the game into a tie which was broken in the next canto when Vincentown scored the winning marker.

SMITH FIFTH IN "PENNSY" OPEN

George Falters in Second Day's Play After Making Brilliant Stand

Following up his fine work in the United States open golf championship, George Smith, popular young Moorestown Field Club "pro" last week finished fifth in the Pennsylvania State open championship at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, Philadelphia.

No doubt the trying ordeal of the week previous, when George faced the most brilliant field in his career, had its effect upon his game at Whitemarsh, for as he neared the end of the second day's battle for the Pennsy crown the putting of Moorestown's favorite links son weakened and he dropped from second to fifth position.

Ed Dudley, the Concord Country Club flash, was the open winner, turning in cards 67 and 70 Tuesday and a 73 and 74 on Wednesday, a total of 283. Tommy Armour, of Detroit, was second, with 294, while Charles Lacey, Pine Valley, 300, and Vincent Eldred, Highland, 301, were third and fourth.

Smith's total score was 302, being tied with Tony Manero, of New York. George's 72 and 76 put him in second place at the end of Tuesday's play. At the end of the sixteenth hole he was but a stroke behind Dudley. Then, however, the trying effect of the previous tourney began to tell and the Moorestown "pro's" putting "went south," as it were. And 77's just seem to be George's hoodoo. After turning in four such cards in the national open he followed through with a couple more on Wednesday.

The local star's game continues to show improvement, however. Last year he placed eighth, just out of the money, in the Pennsy tourney, and this year he came through for fifth place money.

At the close of the first day's play one of the Philadelphia sports writers penned:

"Two strokes to the rear was that consistent mite, George Smith. The Moorestown professional had a 72 and a 76. It was a remarkable showing for the slender wiry lad who had just finished four hard rounds in the United States Open at Winged Foot."

Playing the most consistent games in the U. S. Open George, with a 308, placed fourteenth, placing ahead of such links greats as Johnny Farrell, Jim Barnes, the U. S. and British open champ, and a host of other luminaries including Walter Hagen, Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot king; Jock Hutchinson, Joe Turnesa, Bob McDonald and Freddy McLeod.

Who Cares About 'Whom,' 'Shall,' or 'Will'? Asks Jury

Chicago.—A jury of 222 authors, editors, business men and teachers, who returned their verdict to Prof. S. A. Leonard of the University of Wisconsin, acting for the national council of teachers of English, has put an O. K on misuse of "shall" and "will" and "who" and "whom." Among 45 locutions banned from speech and writing by the jury, however, are these:

"None of them are here."

"Will you be at the Browns' this evening?"

"Who are you looking for?"

"There's a dangerous curve and you'd better go slow."

"It is me."

"There is a bed, dresser and two chairs in the room."

"Can I be excused?"

"That clock must be fixed."

"Try and get it."

Some members of the jury said they would accept all these idioms. Virtually every member of the jury said the hidebound rules of rhetoric were fast giving way. Nice distinctions between "shall" and "will" and "may" and "can" are passing in everyday speech in favor of originality and forcefulness.

ONLY 360 G.A.R. IN N. J.

There are only 360 members of the G.A.R. in the New Jersey department. Originally the muster of the veterans recorded 57,000 names. This was announced by Charles H. Hopper, commander of the New Jersey department of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his report at the sixty-second annual encampment at Wildwood.

BIG TWILIGHT GAME ON JULY 26

The Riverton A. A. is making preparations for the big time at the twilight game at Memorial Park, Friday evening, July 26, at 6.15.

Riverton's opponents at this time will be the strong Palmyra team.

An added attraction will be "Lena" Blackburn, manager of the Chicago White Sox, and a number of his players, who will participate in the game.

BUT ONE SHIP LEFT IN WHALING PORT

New Bedford's Sea Era Drawing to Close.

New Bedford, Mass.—Another heroic chapter in the history of New England, filled with the exploits of strong men in combat with the giants of the sea, is drawing to a close.

This old time port, that has been home to hundreds of sail of whalers, now can boast only one whaling ship. The schooner John R. Manta may be the "last of the whalers," for most of the old time whalemen are dead, and the Manta's only hope of recruiting a crew is to sail across the Atlantic ocean to the Azores.

A few still live who remember the heyday of whaling, when this port teemed with the activity of the whaling barks, when men sailed away on seemingly interminable voyages, when wives and families of seamen and captains haunted the "widows' walks" on the old time houses, hoping to catch a glimpse of a returning ship. But those who remember are growing old and some are nearing the century mark.

Recalls Whaling Thrills.

Among those who remember keenly those earlier days is Capt. Ulysses E. Mayhew of West Tisbury, on the island of Martha's Vineyard. His youthful appearance and spirit belie his fourscore years. In his life he has had adventures and experiences that would cram more than one movie "thriller."

As a boy in his teens he sailed his first whaling voyage during the Civil war. On that trip he learned about stalking the whale in small boats, harpooning, the downward rush of the wounded whale and the peril to the small boat as the rope ran off from the shrieking windlass. And he learned how the "kill" at last was effected, with lance or bomb gun.

Last Survivor of Lafayette Crew.

Captain Mayhew believes he is the last survivor of the crew of the bark Lafayette, burned and sunk with two other Yankee ships off Fernando de Noronha, Brazilian convict island, by the Confederate warship Alabama.

After a series of adventures he was sent back by the United States consul from Brazil and promptly shipped on another whaler. On this next voyage he saw the U. S. S. Kearsarge at Fayal, in the Azores, just after it had sunk the Alabama.

It is a far cry, he says, from those old days to the modern times that have seen the typical old whaling barks Greyhound and Wanderer pass on. Of those proud times, only the schooner John R. Manta remains. And New Bedford has long since turned from whaling to its great cotton textile mills.

Wives Jealous, Taxicab Drivers Change Plans

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A new angle of the bitter controversy among members of the South Brooklyn and Bay Ridge Taximen's association over the advisability of admitting women into the organization came to light recently at a meeting in the Admiral Dewey council clubhouse.

The association was on the verge of capitulating to the amazons of the highways when somehow the wives of several members got wind of what was going on and now the chances of putting through this co-membership plan don't look so good.

This latest development was revealed by Harry Carlson, an officer of the organization, who admitted that when his wife heard about the plan "she wasn't at all in favor of it," Carlson added:

"You know yourself that if the wife of one of our members should come in here during a meeting some night and find her husband sitting between two strange women it wouldn't look so good for him."

And so the resolution which would admit the feminine gear shifters to membership definitely has been relegated to the table, on which it was placed several months ago, and the members admit that the only way it can be taken off is by a change of heart on the part of their better halves, which they seem to sense is not likely.

ART FINDS PROOF IN X-RAY TESTS

Practice Strokes Revealed on Masterpieces.

New York.—The shadowy ghosts of pictures that a painter starts to bring to life on canvas and then impatiently paints out and covers over with a new and better design can be brought out of their state of invisibility and made to testify to the authorship of the paintings, new X-ray tests of famous paintings indicate.

X-ray films of two famous paintings, "Mars and Venus" by Veronese, and Madonna and Child" with the infant St. John by Antonella da Messina, have been completed by Alan Burroughs, working under the auspices of the Fogg museum at Cambridge. Results of the tests reported to the Bulletin of the Metropolitan Museum of Art show that the artist's preliminary experiments with his canvas reveal important information to the art critic, particularly in showing whether the picture is an original or a copy.

"When an artist evolves a masterpiece, he has to correct as he proceeds, if he has not already trained himself to perfection's high point," Mr. Burroughs states. "And the most skillful painters often change their minds. But a copyist or imitator is insensitive to the reasons for such alterations, remaining content to perform his task mechanically. Changes in underpaint are thus an indication of originality when the hidden work agrees in style with that on the surface."

In the case of the Madonna painting, he says, the face of the Virgin "was originally tilted slightly more to her left. Two nostrils on the same side of the nose, two pairs of lips, and two lines for the chin enable one to trace the first version fairly accurately."

The experimental painting hidden under the surface paint of "Mars and Venus" showed that the artist had originally depicted the god and goddess in a realistic love scene. This, however, was too emotional a pose for the calm immortals, and he altered the spirit of the picture by raising Venus' head and shifting her weight away from Mars and changing her expression to one of smiling unconcern.

There is no question that Veronese painted the "Mars and Venus." The X-ray study was made, Mr. Burroughs explains, because of the fact that there is a replica of the painting, and the question might be raised as to which was the original. The test settles the question of priority, he states, since no copyist would have reason to experiment so extensively with the composition of the picture.

Students Slide Into Series of Explorations

Vancouver, B. C.—From a 200-foot slide through the murk and slime of a coal seam opening some 800 feet below the level of the ground, to a 1,200-foot slide down the side of one of the most beautiful glaciers in America, is but one of the experiences which the students from Princeton university who accompanied the summer school of geology on its trip to Jasper National park, are talking about.

Deep within the bowels of the earth the party near Brule, Alb., and within the confines of Jasper park, were examining the geological formations. A point was reached where it became necessary to go to a lower level. No way was available save sliding down a chute for coal in the time-honored fashion of kids on a cellar door. This was done and the party emerged on the lower level looking more like actual rubes than college men.

Within the next twenty-four hours they had climbed up the shimmering glacier of Mount Edith Cavell to a height of 9,000 feet, ice picks were used and almost every step had to be cut in the precipitous side wall. It was the first experience of the students at this type of Alpine work, but under the direction of Prof. Leon Collet of Switzerland, a member of the Swiss Alpine club, the party made the ascent to view some of the formations. Returning by way of a long and inviting snow field and using nothing but reinforced trouser seats as sleighs, the party glissaded down a distance of 1,200 feet to land in snow heaps.

Motor Toll in 8 Years Exceeds U. S. War Dead

Washington.—More people have been killed by automobiles in the United States during the last eight years than the American soldier dead in the World war, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

From January 1, 1919, to December 31, 1926, 137,017 persons were killed by automobiles, while the total casualties of the war in the American armed forces was 120,050. The injured in automobile accidents, however, was 3,569,000 since the armistice.

Twenty-six per cent of the killed and injured were children under fifteen. Last year it was estimated 23,000 persons were killed, an increase of 1,000 over 1925 and the largest death toll ever recorded by automobiles for a year.

15,000 Cypriotes Roam About Without Country

Cairo.—The unhappy plight of the "man without a country" seems to be multiplied many times in the case of Cypriotes, as the natives of Cyprus are called in Egypt, and that entirely without any fault of their own. It will be recalled that Cyprus formally was annexed by Great Britain at the outbreak of the war with Turkey, in November, 1914, and in that act all the inhabitants of the island were made British subjects. There were and are today in Egypt, however, about 15,000 Cypriotes, for whom no provision was made in the act of annexation.

For a dozen years they have occupied an equivocal position, not having renounced their allegiance to Cyprus, and yet not being recognized as subjects of the new sovereign of that island. Now the Egyptian government puts them in an awkward quandry by demanding peremptorily that they either become Egyptian subjects or citizens or else quit the country as undesirable aliens.

The Cypriotes have sent a delegation to London to appeal to the British government for its protection, assuming that if it extends its citizenship to them, as it did to the actual residents of Cyprus, they will be enabled thus to remain in Egypt, where their interests chiefly lie, or else to return to Cyprus as citizens of that island.

Mountain Fort Stands Guard on Adriatic Sea

Vallona, Albania.—Saseno (or Sazan), the mountain in the sea that guards the entrance to the landlocked harbor of Vallona, has acquired the new name of "The Italian Sentinel of the Balkans."

Albanians say the Italians, who acquired it from Albania a few years ago, have so fortified it that it not only protects the harbor but that its guns, uniting their fire with those of Brindisi can close the Adriatic to any sort of navigation. They can also command the Albanian coast as far north as Durazzo.

The island, rising gradually from the sea to a height of 500 feet, is of limestone. Roads the Italians have built to the summit and the earthworks erected there and on the flanks of the mountain may be seen from a distance.

War Delays Hunt for Cradle of Mankind

Tacoma, Wash.—War and science should be divorced. At least so thinks Roy Chapman Andrews of the expedition in Mongolia and the Gobi desert seeking the cradle of mankind.

Because of disturbed conditions in Mongolia and China the scientists have postponed exploration work for a year and all members of the party will return early to the United States.

George Olson, member of the expedition reached here recently on the President Jefferson and reported the scientific equipment assembled at great expense was menaced in the first leg of the journey toward Gobi and that Andrews decided to take no chances of meeting brigands.

"RHEUMATISM GONE; THANKS TO KONJOLA"

"I Shall Never be Without This New Medicine," Declares Former Sufferer

MISS MARGARET DAVIES

"For six years I suffered untold miseries with rheumatism," said Miss Margaret Davies, 20 East Lacock street, Pittsburgh. "Great, corded knots formed on the back of my hands and finger joints. The rheumatism also settled in my ankles, which became swollen and sore. Irregularity of my kidneys kept me awake at night.

"In just three weeks every sign of rheumatism was gone, thanks to Konjola. Today I am as a new person, enjoying life and looking forward to each new day. My kidneys are greatly improved and my appetite has increased. I shall never be without this master medicine, Konjola, in my home."

Konjola is sold in Riverton at L. L. Keating's Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

PERSIAN MOSLEMS OBSERVE OLD RITE

Carry On Bloody Mourning Ceremony in Secret.

Constantinople, Turkey.—Slashing their foreheads and necks with sharp swords, lashing their bare backs with chains and beating their breasts with their palms, 1,000 Persian residents of Stamboul succeeded in evading the Turkish police and carrying on this year as usual their annual mourning for two men slain 1,300 years ago.

The Persians were warned that the Turkish government intended this year to put a stop to the gory demonstration, staged every year on the tenth night of the moon in the Moslem month of Moutharrem.

But they gathered secretly in the courtyard of an ancient han, hidden in a shadowy corner of Stamboul, and laying costly Persian carpets on the cobblestones where camel caravans used to unload their burdens, they constructed an impromptu mosque wherein to follow the spectacular rites.

Persians have performed the ceremony on this night for thirteen centuries in memory of Hassan and Hussein, grandsons of the Prophet Mohammed, who were murdered by an usurping caliph.

Turkish police, arriving on the scene after the barbaric moonlight orgy was over, arrested some hundred of the self-wounded, bleeding participants while a thousand Persians packed in the courtyard rent the night with their wails and sobs of "Hussein! Hussein!"

A black-robed, black-gloved Persian priest, mopping his eyes with a huge black handkerchief, worked himself into a frenzy while he wailed over and over the story of the ancient murder in all its gruesome details, telling of how the young Hassan was poisoned by his own treacherous wife, an accomplice of the villainous caliph, and of how Hussein, wandering half dead with thirst in the desert of Damascus, was found by the usurper's men and beheaded.

Though both Persians and Turks are Moslems, the Persians belong to the Shiite sect, which refused to recognize the line of caliphs founded by the usurper.

I believe in military experts being on tap, but not on top.—Lord Cecil.

County Sealer of Weights and Measures Makes Report to Freeholders

HOW PURCHASING PUBLIC CAN SECURE PROTECTION

Fisher Complimented By State Department on Effective Work Done

Curwen B. Fisher, Superintendent of Weights and Measures for Burlington County, submitted the following semi-annual report covering the period from January 1 to July 1, 1929, to the Board of Freeholders last week.

The Department of Weights and Measures of New Jersey is a well organized and efficiently conducted branch of public service conforming to the fixed determinations of the Bureau of Standards at Washington. It has not received the recognition in the public mind that its importance warrants. Simply because its service and value are not well understood. To the few its office is to round up crooks and assure the consumer a square deal. The fact is the department is of equal value to the honest merchant. Fully as many vendors of commodities are found to be cutting their profits by an unwitting surplus. The rapid multiplication of delicately constructed, automatic measuring devices that often baffle the unmechanically inclined is often the cause. Complaints of shorting in weight are sometimes received, when investigation reveals a clocklike weighing apparatus all askew, and by reason of consequent friction and binding, incorrectly recording.

Modern automatic pumps afford slight opportunity for fleecing the consumer, if the latter applies ordinary business sense when making his purchase. Every effort has been put forth by the manufacturer to aid him in reasonable observation. How many, however, ever look to see that they get their full measure of gallons at the service station? If the vendor has a crooked heart he may reward the unobserving by turning up four instead of the five. Therefore the crook must be detected otherwise than by the erraucy of his measuring device.

A STATEMENT

Important to Citizens, Parents and Bathers.

At the "eleventh hour," before the last primary election a political "telegram" was delivered at the doors of our citizens for the purpose of influencing votes by any means to win for this particular faction's candidates.

In this "telegram" was a sentence casting reflection on the judgment of Mr. Edward R. Williams, who was running for re-election on the opposite faction's ticket. This sentence read as follows: "The appointment of a man who cannot swim as life guard at a swimming pool in Memorial Park is not—in our minds—an extremely brilliant selection."

Inasmuch as the guard declined to accept the position this season, under circumstances that reflected on his word and self-respect, he feels free to express himself with no impression of selfish motive, but to inform the interested citizens of the facts, and at the same time vindicate Mr. Williams, by trying to bring the guilty author of this sentence to time in a substantial manner.

Last season the guard was engaged to prevent accidents among the children, stop rowdyism, and make the pool a decent place for all, without favoritism. Whether or not the results of the methods used met with the approval of all the parents it is not for the guard to say, for he does not know. He does know that there has been no official criticism of his work. The political propaganda was the first intimation the guard had that he "did not know how to swim."

Now, there is only one person who is the cause of this untrue sentence, and if he is not as yellow as the color of the paper the "telegram" was written on, and does not hide behind the skirts of an "incorporation," he will be given a chance to be a good sport if he loses.

The proposition to this person, who is trying to keep under cover by "passing the buck" to others not responsible, is this. That he deposit with the Mayor, or with Mr. Bowen, publisher of The New Era, a certified check for One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) of his own money to be equally distributed for the benefit of the bathers at Memorial Park swimming pool.

It will then be up to last season's guard to demonstrate that he does know how to swim.

In conclusion, this article is written without the knowledge of Mr. Williams or any outside influence, and solely on the guard's responsibility.

WELL DEDICATED PARK SEPT. 28

Final Arrangements In Hands of Committees, Next Meeting July 23

Definite action toward the dedication of Riverton's Memorial Park was taken Tuesday night at a joint meeting of the Citizens' Committee and a committee from Council, when September 28 was set as the date for holding the exercises.

In order that the dedication might be made this year, it was decided to go ahead without waiting for the major improvements which had been previously discussed.

The present plan is to erect a small stone bearing a bronze tablet containing a brief history of the purchase of the park and setting forth the date of dedication.

While the program has not been definitely settled, it is understood that the affair will be on a much more modest scale than previously contemplated. Post Rodgers, American Legion, of Palmyra, and a number of other Posts will be invited to participate and an effort will be made to secure Franklin D'Olier and Senator Clifford R. Powell as speakers. Mr. D'Olier was first National Commander of the American Legion and a former resident of Riverton.

While no definite figures are available, it is probable that the cost of dedication, including stone and tablet, will not exceed $500 or $600.

It is expected that the improvement of streets leading to the park, the erection of a suitable memorial gateway with tablets bearing the names of those from Riverton who participated in the World War, and other improvements to the park which have been recently discussed will be carried out later.

BORO OFFICIALS CATCH BIG FISH

Palmyra Councilmen Haul in Three Big Ones on Last Friday's Trip

Friday was a big day for Palmyra's official family. Not only did it mark the completion of Broad street, which had required several months' work before finally being accomplished, but it was also the day of the big fishing trip as the guests of J. C. Remington, of the firm of Remington and Vosbury, Borough engineers.

As it happened, it was an opportune time for a successful trip as the evening's crowd presented a wonderful opportunity for displaying a fine catch.

Three big drum fish were on display, hanging from the Mayor's porch posts, where all might see and be apprised of the prowress of Palmyra's official fishermen. The three big fish weighed approximately 150 pounds, varying from 45 to 58 pounds each.

The big ones were pulled in by His Honor, the Mayor; Councilman Joseph A. Davis and Board of Health Inspector Strickenbein. A fine catch of smaller fish was also made, so many in fact that all had more than they could use without the big ones, which were given away.

The fishing was done from Mr. Remington's yacht at Parkertown. On the return trip the party stopped off at Tuckerton and enjoyed a tasty dinner.

Those who made the trip were: George N. Wimer, Frank A. Snover, Joseph A. Davis, Arthur B. Cramer, Edwin A. Griscom, James H. Hartley, Rudolph Strickenbein, J. Horace Finney, John A. Eichner, Joseph H. Low, William H. Fichter, J. C. Remington, George J. Spencer, Charles Delaney and Joseph Stack.

RIVERTON PLANS DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL PARK

Council Holds Long Discussion Concerning Proper Measures to Be Taken

POSTPONE DECISION UNTIL 16th OF JULY

Phone Company Promises Name of Exchange Will Remain As Now Used

Plans for the proposed dedication of Memorial Park were thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the Riverton Borough Council last Thursday night.

The park, which was purchased several years ago, and on which the last note was paid off last year, has never been dedicated. Five or six years ago the Borough Council had a plan prepared looking to the progressive improvement of the park. The plan called for an athletic field, tennis courts, playground, music pavilion and many other attractions. Nothing has been done toward carrying out the proposed improvements except the construction of a baseball diamond and a football field. There is a natural swimming hole, which could be made an ideal place for children's bathing at little cost.

Three years ago the Rotary Club of Palmyra and Riverton offered to erect and present to the Borough a memorial gateway, such as is called for on the plan, at a cost of $2,500. At the time it was the thought of some of the members of Council that more improvements should be made to the park, and that the approaches should be paved and curbed, before the gateway was installed. Consequently the offer of the Rotary Club was not accepted.

Plans Become Elaborate

A similar feeling exists on the part of some of the members of both committees, who are now working on plans for dedicating the park, and proposals for the necessary improvements and some form of memorial tablet or gateway range in cost from $1,500 to $15,000.

The proposition of Councilman Williams to dedicate the park as it is, on August 10, has been discarded. The joint committees agreed that this date was too early to allow for proper preparation.

Mr. Williams' plan was to have a big dedicttion program with two thousand or more Legionnaires, bands, marching clubs, etc., participating, and to postpone the erection of a memorial tablet or gateway until some suitable future date. His thought was that a big dedication program would stimulate interest in the park on the part of the townspeople and result in a general desire to have the park improved and equipped.

Favor Smaller Celebration

At the meeting of Council Thursday night Councilman Bartley, chairman of the committee of Council to cooperate with a committee of citizens in preparing plans for the dedication, reported that the Legion had signified its willingness to participate in the exercises with 1,600 men in uniform, who would pay their own traveling expenses. The committees had decided, however, that it would be impracticable to properly entertain that number of men and those who would come with them, and favored a more local celebration, inviting Post Rodgers, of Palmyra, and possibly a few other Posts in the County.

Mr. Bartley said the committees had discussed whether it would be better to erect a memorial shaft and tablet, or a more elaborate memorial in the form of a gateway, with suitable tablets. The subject of financing either project came up, and it was discussed as to whether the cost should come out of general taxation or be raised by popular subscription.

Mr. Bartley referred to the plan or map which Council had made several years ago for the development of the park. This plan, he said, called for a gateway, and if the Borough was to put any money into it, a gateway should be erected, as called for in the plan. He said that if Council was going to finance the dedication, it ought to be made a real job, that a few hundred dollars one way or the other should not be considered, and that the approaching streets should be paved and curbed. Cedar street improved and a suitable memorial gateway erected, even if the cost should run to $10,000 or $15,000.

Protests Against Delay

Mr. Williams agreed that such an elaborate plan would be very fine, but to do all this would mean delay, and as first chairman of the Park Committee he would like to see the Borough's playground dedicated before he went out of office.

Councilman DeLaney, who is also a member of the Council Committee on Dedication, thought a gateway should be erected, the sidewalks on Cedar street along the park graded, pavements and curbs laid, for about $5,000.

Councilmn Randall was of the opinion that a proper start should be made by improving the approaches to the park.

The Mayor said that to complete a pleasing approach to the park, Cedar street should be improved from the railroad to Eighth street.

All the members of Council were agreed that these improvements should be made and a suitable memorial gateway erected. The Mayor, however, pointed out that recreation

PALMYRA BRIDGE TRAFFIC TO USE MARKET STREET

Twenty-Foot of Asphalt Being Laid by State Highway Department

DRAINAGE DISCUSSED AT COUNCIL MEETING

Bell Telephone Company To Build New Exchange Building in Near Future

Plans of the State Highway Commission for handling the Tacony-Palmyra bridge traffic, pending the completion of the proposed bridge outlet road, were revealed in a letter to the Borough Clerk, which was read at the Palmyra Council meeting Tuesday evening.

The plans call for the improvement of Market street with an asphalt pavement twenty feet in width, work on which is now underway. Traffic will be routed from the plaza to Market street to Broad, where it will cross the railroad and go out Hylton road to a point just north of the present Hylton road bridge over the Pensauken creek.

Here it will be routed over Oxford road, which has been extended to intersect Hylton road, and thence out Cuthbert road to Cinnaminson avenue. This plan does not call for the use of the Hylton road bridge, which is narrow and not suited to heavy traffic.

It is understood this entire route will be improved with an asphalt pavement, but no announcement to this effect has been made.

New Phone Exchange

At the Council meeting the listing of Palmyra as a separate exchange in the Bell Telephone Company's directory was discussed. The company plans to erect a new building in Palmyra in the near future, to be used as an exchange, and some of the Councilmen were of the opinion that Palmyra would be listed if the demand were insistent enough.

It was pointed out that the Borough's relations with the telephone company had always been very friendly and it was suggested that careful consideration be given the proposition before any action be taken that might be misconstrued. Under this plan no interference would be made with Riverton's listings.

No formal announcement has been made as to when the new building will be erected, but preliminary borings have been made and the impression exists that it will not be long. The location of the lot is on Fifth street between Morgan and Maple.

Drainage Sewer

The matter of the drainage sewer to be built by the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge Company was again under discussion. The engineers reported that pipe had been delivered for the job and work would soon be underway. Remington and Vosbury, Borough engineers, were instructed to oversee the work and make sure the contractors construed it according to specifications.

Charles K. Mervine, representing the Board of Health, reported that water which drained into pits from which gravel had been taken to use on the bridge was endangering the health of persons living nearby. He asked that the engineers make a survey of the condition with the purpose of effecting a remedy. It is understood the owners of the land on which the pits are located can be made to take steps necessary to overcome this condition.

Various reports were received and ordered filed. The police and building inspector's reports follow:

Camden Blind Have Friend in Palmyra Man Who is President of Service Club

Leonard R. Baker, Well Known Burlington County Resident, Shows Great Interest in Unfortunate Whose Loss of Sight Makes Earning Livelihood Difficult

Leonard R. Baker, well known Palmyrian, and president of Baker-Flick Company, Camden Department Store, presided at the meeting of Camden Lion's Club last week for the first time following his election to the presidency of the organization recently.

Mr. Baker is very much interested in plans for furthering the work of the club among the blind of the city and has appointed William Partenheimer, chairman of a committee to take charge of the work.

"We have placed three men in newsstands at various points in the city," Baker said when interviewed, "and we shall place a fourth man as soon as the necessary permission can be obtained from the owners of the building where the stand will be placed. The exact location has not yet been determined, but several spots are being considered.

"The club has no regular fund for carrying on this work at the present time," Baker continued, "and each member is assessed a small amount for each stand. We are going to stage a series of theatre benefits during the fall and winter, the proceeds of which will be placed in bank as a fund for this work.

"At present it takes about $300 to stock and build a stand, which amount is repaid by the man we place. The money is returned in small installments, which enables us to carry on with another unfortunate citizen," Baker added.

"We have been advised of a training school in Kentucky where dogs are taught to lead the blind. These dogs are driven somewhat after the manner of horses, and are called 'Seeing Eyes.' Later we may be able to place one or two of the animals in Camden, and afford someone an opportunity to gain a livelihood. Many blind men have families, and are willing to do whatever work they can to support them. All they need is an opportunity, which the Lion's Club is trying to give them, and they become at least partially self-supporting.

"Our work in Camden has been commented on by the national organization, and it is the desire of the members to continue this work, in addition to our other civic activities," Baker concluded.

David L. Schwartz, president of the Palmyra Chamber of Commerce, was appointed vice-president. Loyal D. Odhner, executive secretary of the Camden Chamber, will serve as secretary of the committee. Rex MacCrosson, representing the American Legion, was also named to the committee.

The appointments were made at a luncheon held at the Union League, Philadelphia, last Monday. Many organizations on both sides of the river were represented. The heads of each organization were named as members of the general committee on arrangements.

The Palmyra Chamber of Commerce was represented by David L. Schwartz, Walter D. Lamon, George M. Harris and Thomas MacCrosson. Riverton was represented by W. H. Albertson and Joseph Evans.

Governor Larson, according to the plans outlined by the committee, will greet the New Jersey contingent participating in the opening and then shake hands with Governor Fisher. Together, the chief executives of the two States will break the tape dividing New Jersey and Pennsylvania midway over the new span.

Charles A. Wright, of Riverton, president of the bridge company, has announced that the public will be invited to attend the ceremonies incidental to the opening. The span will be free to the public until midnight, at which time the collection of tolls will begin.

BOROUGH ACCEPTS IMPROVED STREET IN FINE CEREMONY

Band Music and Parade Are Part of Program Sponsored By Merchants

MAYOR WIMER LAUDS SPIRIT OF COOPERATION

Lighting System is Finest in Any Town in This Part of State

Palmyra's new business thoroughfare was opened last Friday evening with fitting ceremonies, sponsored by the business men whose stores are located on Broad street along the three blocks between Morgan and Lecoucy avenues.

With one exception all of the twenty-nine business houses in this section took part in the exercises, which represented the first concerted action by the business men of the community in an event of this nature.

The evening's program was opened by the presentation of the improved street to the Borough by J. C. Remington, Borough engineer, after approving the work of the contractors, George T. Dold, in behalf of the Public Service Corporation, presented the new lighting system to the town at 8:40 p. m., just as the lights were turned on for the first time.

Mayor George N. Wimer accepted the improvements for the Borough in a short speech in which he lauded the spirit of co-operation shown by the business men and pointed out the great opportunities which await the business men of Palmyra.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Lyric Band, of Camden. This band is the same one which played in the Palmyra Fourth of July celebration and is one of the finest in this section.

After the official presentation of the improvements a parade was formed, headed by the Mayor and Borough officials, and followed by the band and business men, which marched from in front of the Mayor's home, where the exercises were held, to Morgan avenue and then to Leconey avenue. After this the band played selections in the middle of each of the three blocks.

Broad street now presents a very fine appearance and many favorable comments have been heard during the past few days. The street being cut back has eliminted the unsightly condition which previously existed in the wide space between the curb and the stores. Now the sidewalk extends from the curb to the buildings with no unimproved part between.

The lighting system is a wonderful improvement to the business section and is the finest seen in any town in this end of the State. The lights are of the latest type and scientifically designed to throw the maximum amount of light without creating a confusing blur which would interfer with the drivers of motor cars.

ATTENDS WATERWAY'S ASSOCIATION MEETING

The committee on arrangements for the Twenty-third Annual Convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, which will be held in New York City on September 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, inclusive, met at the Hotel Astor, New York City, last Friday.

William H. Bottger, of Riverton, who is chairman of the Delaware River Port Development Committee, attended this conference. He also represented the Camden Chamber of Commerce and the Camden Kiwanis Club.

This convention promises to be the best in the history of the association and with the assistance of the government's appropriation for the improvement of inland waterways great progress is expected to be made during the next few years.

INSPECTOR FISHER VISITS RIVERTON

Mr. Fisher received a very complimentary letter on his work from J. Harry Foley, State Superintendent of the Department of Weights and Measures, which is also published.

LEGION AUXILIARY

FIRST JURY TRIAL IN DISTRICT COURT

Judge F. A. Mathews Also Hears Number of Other Civil Cases

The new Burlington County District Court got under way at the Court House in Mount Holly Thursday of last week, with Judge Frank A. Mathews presiding, there being a fairly good-sized audience present, consisting mainly of jurors, interested counsel and witnesses.

Oliver E. Evans took care of his official duties as clerk for the first time also, being assisted by Charles N. Ferat, assistant clerk of the Camden County District Court, who has been coaching the Burlington County Clerk in his duties.

Frank J. Holvick is the sergeant at arms of the new court.

There was one jury trial, an action of George B. Martin, of Camden, against his son, Leon J. Martin, of Moorestown, who claimed that the son borrowed $500 from him for the purgarage and had never paid him back; while the father also brought suit against his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Maria Martin, alleging that she had borrowed $500 rom him for the purpose of purchasing a fur coat, and had also neglected to geturn the loan.

Mrs. Martin filed a counter claim, alleging that she had earned more than the amount borrowed in nursing her mother-in-law during a long spell of sickness.

The twelve men and women who comprised the first jury drawn in the new Court was made up of Mount Holly people, as follows:

Mrs. Frances Holeman, Edward B. Haines, Mrs. Lillian Folwell, William B. Pearson, Mrs. Bess Mathis, Logan Goldy, Mrs. L. M. Fryer, Frank B. Kates, Maurice W. Haines, George G. Heisler, George B. Kates and William Chafey, and their verdict was no cause for action, both as to the original eliam and the counter claim.

The jurymen received the munificent sum of seventy-five cents each.

Other cases called and disposed of were as follows:

General Motors Acceptance Corporation vs. Joseph Piergross, judgment by default.

Francis A. Bickert vs. Charlotte Beard, judgment by default.

J. George Grogan vs. Fashion Shoppe, settled.

Halsey Supply Company vs. Becker's Garage, settled.

Riverside Trust Company vs. William F. Kauderer, judgment by default.

BROUGHAM ADDED TO OAKLAND LINE

Addition of a new body type, the Brougham or close coupled 4-door sedan, to the current line of Oakland All-American Sixes, was announced Saturday by W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Production on the new type began late in June, and the car is now being shown at many dealer points throughout the country.

Priced at $1,195 f. o. b. Pontiac, the Brougham lists at $50 less than the standard 4-door sedan in the Oakland line, and brings the number of Oakland body types now on the market to nine. Colors on the new model are the latest Duco combinations.

While the wide front and rear seats offer ample room for five passengers, the Brougham provides the cozy intimacy possible only with this new type of body. The four-door construction provides for a one-piece, full width front seat, rather than the bucket type of individual seat as used in 2-door sedan models. This allows for ready access to the rear compartment without disturbing front seat passengers.

ARREST LENOLA MAN AT SISTER'S FUNERAL

George Camac Jailed in Default of $200 Fine for Drunken Driving

Because he attempted to drown his sorrow over his sister's death, George Camac, of Maple avenue, Lenola, is serving a 30-day sentence for drunken driving in Burlington County Jail at Mount Holly.

Before Camac went to the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Alice F. Thompson, formerly of Moorestown, who was buried at Mount Holly Wednesday of last week, he imbibed too freely, it is said. When he arrived in Mount Holly he drove his car around the town engaging in the little game of chasing pedestrians on sidewalks.

He was arrested, prior to the funeral, by Robert Smires, County Seat policeman. He asked police to release him for the services. They complied, and later re-arrested him.

He was sent to jail in default of $200 fine and $21 costs for drunken driving at a hearing before Recorder Joseph C. Kingdon. Friends and relatives were unable to raise the amount of fine.

NO BEETLE BOUNTY

No bounty is paid for Japanese beetles. That announcement was made by the State Department of Agriculture recently, numerous persons having presented jars of beetles expecting compensation therefor.

Youths Who Escaped County Prison Are Captured, Put in Solitary Confinement

Pair of Mount Holly Boys Gained Exit by Climbing Rainspout During Exercise in Yard; Aunt Returns Second "Desperado"

One of the two youths who escaped from the Burlington County prison at Mount Holly was taken back to the jail early Monday in the automobile of his aunt in whose Philadelphia home he had sought shelter.

The other youth, Leo Stidfole, 19, of Washington street, Mount Holly, was captured at 2.30 a. m. Monday by Night Warden John B. Smith, who found him near a railroad siding of the Burlington tracks. He surrendered without a struggle.

Oliver Bodine, 19, of Risdom street, Mount Holly, is the youth who succeeded in evading a posse of County Seat residents and police authorities and reaching the home of his aunt, Mrs. John Mareney, 210 Long Lane, Upper Darby, Pa.

She told Night Warden Smith that she became suspicious when he arrived at her home. She called Mount Holly to see if he was wanted by authorities there and when she learned that he had escaped from jail she returned with him in her automobile.

Both youths were placed in solitary confinement as punishment for escaping from the prison.

Bodine told prison authorities he became separated from his companion after they had both swum the Rancocas Creek.

The boys, known as juvenile desperadoes, were arrested and held without bail for the grand jury on charges of breaking into and robbing three stores in Mount Holly.

They were in the yard for exercise at 2 p. m. Saturday with a group of prisoners. Watching their chance, they darted to one side and climbed a rainspout to the top of the wall near the southest corner, where they walked on the top of the wall to the roof of a cell block and then gained freedom by leaping to the ground.

They might have got a two-hour start on jail officials had it not been for a woman in a nearby home, who notified police. Day Warden Maurice Stevenson organized the search immediately, with Smith mustering the posse early in the evening.

Stidfole once lived in a house, now vacant, only a few blocks from the jail. Smith reasoned that the boys, being without food, clothing, weapons or money, might go there before they separated, as he was sure they would eventually. Signs of recent occupancy were found at the house, but the fugitives had vanished.

Troopers got blood hounds from the State Police training school at Wilburtha, and the scent was started at the house. The search continued al evening, with the posse going in a body.

Smith dispersed the posse, sending its members in all direction, at 2 a. m. He took the railroad tracks himself, catching Stidfole a half hour later near where the virtually abandoned branch joins the tracks of the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad.

C. B. Fisher's Report

man was found to have been giving every purchaser of five gallons of gas a surplus of one full quart. He had been doing this since last December. Another small dealer was three quarts short in every five gallons. Both were undoubtedly honest men. The machines were out of order, without their knowledge. Both had failed to obey the law requiring the priming of all pumps every morning, by drawing out a definite amount into a graduated measure, before sales are made. Hence the failure to detect the error.

The State Superintendent has recently issued a ruling that all measuring decices must be so arranged that the purchaser may see the operation of the measuring instrument. No longer may scales be hidden by display gods or otherwise.

The State Department urges the co-operation of the public generally, by seeing that the requirements of the Bureau of Standards be observed. Reasonable complaints of suspected fraud or incorrectness in measurements are always welcomed by the Department and will receive proper consideration.

Few Dishonest Vendors

The first visitation of your superintendent emphasizes an acquaintance with men and their instruments. This knowledge will constitute a basis for subsequent determination of any action needed in defense of the public's interests. However, it is the happy conclusion of your Superintendent that Burlington County has few dishonest vendors within its confines.

The responsibilities of your County Superintendent can be more fully estimated when one considers that in addition to a territorial extent the largest of all in the State, his work brings every form of measurement and sale to the consumer, from fractions of a Troy grain to a car or boat load, under his supervision.

New rulings and laws are ceaselessly multiplying the work of this department, as for instance, that concerning potatoes and other produce, the mrking of containers, etc All of vital interest and value.

In detail the following is a summary of the work of your Superintendent for the first six months of his incumbency, ending July 1.

675 Visits Made

We have made 675 visits to places of business and to individual vendors 649 weighing machines were tested

[redacted]

Superintendent of Weights and Measures, 34 Brainard Street, Mount Holly, N. J.

My dear Mr. Fisher:

Acknowledging yours of July 12th enclosing copy of your semi-annual reports as made to your Board of Freeholders, I wish to commend you upon the splendid manner in which you brought to their attention the importance of weights and measures work. It is doubtful if the matter was ever placed before your governing body in just this way before.

Your Board should certainly be pleased with your efforts. This department finds much gratification in the results of your activities. Incidentally, I might say that I recently received a very commendatory report from my assistant, Mr. Schwartz, of the way you are taking hold of your duties down there in Burlington County. This manifests a splendid spirit of interest on your part and I know that we may look for big things from your district in the future.

I also have for acknowledgment your annual report to this department. Of course this covers only the work performed since your incumbency of the office. These returns will be amplified by the addition of the records of Mr. Burtis for the portion of the year when he was active, and also by certain of the statements included in the document submitted to your Board as referred to above.

With very kind personal regards, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. HARRY FOLEY,
State Superintendent.

Hints for Motorists

Automobile clubs and service companies report that a large majority of the emergency calls answered by them are due to troubles in the ignition system. You may avoid having to send in such a call yourself some day if you remember to have the units of the system checked by an expert periodically.

If the pressure in three of your tires is right, and the fourth wrong, it's almost as bad as if all were wrong, because uneven inflation destroys the balance of your car, makes it harder to steer and causes the body to develop those annoying squeaks that make even the finest cars seem tinny and cheap.

When an automobile wrecks a train it's news. It happened recently and the papers played it up on the front page as a rare item. It's usually the train that wrecks the automobile. That's why the intelligent motorist always approaches a grade crossing with both eyes open and his car well under control.

Experts have figured out that the most economical speed, so far as time, tire wear, gas consumption, etc., are concerned, is about thirty-five miles an hour, which is to say that this rate of travel gets you where you want to go without unreasonable waste of time, fuel or rubber.

A good way to prevent the theft of your car is to lock it in every way possible—and then don't leave it parked where thieves can work on the locks unobserved by passers-by.

When breaking in a new car it is as important to hold down your speed in first and second gears as in high. It is engine speed, not car speed that counts, and running twenty-five miles an hour in second is equivalent to about forty in high, so far as the engine is concerned.

Many squeaks can be traced to doors, but the tracing is not always easy. The best method is to drive with each door held open in turn until the squeak stops. When it does, the open door is the one that needs attention.

Nearly everyone knows that spark points ought to be the thickness of a Rockefeller dime apart, but some do not know that, when they need pressing together or separating, the outside wire, and not the center wire, is the one that should be bent.

It is said that the instruments that make talkies records are so delicate that even a pin drop is recorded. And in all probability when it comes out through watever it does come out it sounds like an old-fashioned coupling pin falling on a 90-pound rail.

325 BOYS CAMP AT OCKANICKON

Quota in Completely Filled at Y Camp in Woods Near Medford

There are now 325 boys staying at YMCA Camp Ockanickon, located in the pine belt near Medford. The quota for the fifth and sixth weeks of the encampment is also completely filled. Over a hundred applicants have been turned down, for the present equipment of the Camp capacity is close to 300. With 325, the Camp has as many as it can handle under present conditions.

The program of water events, athletic games, hikes, wood-craft, nature study and other outdoor activities keeps this army of boys busy and happy during the day. Reveille is sounded at 7.00 a. m. and taps at 10.00 p. m. Except for this nine hours of sleep, the boys are on the go most of the time.

The following Burlington County boys have passed Life Saving tests at Ockanickon: Senior, Walter Price, Palmyra; Junior, Howard Rarig, Palmyra; Charles Beck, Riverside; Peter Rodman and Willim Kinsey, Riverton; Ned Marlin and Edward Steinsieck, Burlington; Thomas Fountain, Moorestown; Fred Green, Palmyra; Clarence Woolston, Mount Holly.

Last Thursday evening a contest was held to determine the best handler of a row-boat and canoe. John W. Thacher, of Edgewater Park, was the judge of this contest, as well as the one who thought of the idea and awarded the prizes. Willard Laessle, of Moorestown, won a fine hunting knife as first prize; George Cummings, Cape May, won a baseball as second prize, and Robert Bangard won a flash light as third prize.

The Sunday morning chapel service was slightly shorter than usual last Sunday in the outdoor chapel. The speaker was H. R. "Pop" Maloney, of Haddonfield, who gave an interesting talk about a boy who met a bear and lion in the forest and escaped, after which he was stung by a serpent. After delighting the boys with this interesting talk he turned to Amos 5:19 and showed the boys where was found the plot of his interesting talk. The thought that he left with the boys was that they might escape from the larger dangers of life and be overcome by small sins of dishonesty and untruthfulness. These things should be very carefully watched and overcome in youth, if a man were to become a good and successful citizen.

Many visitors were entertained at Camp Ockanickon by a minstrel show on Saturday evening. The Camp Doctor, Harry Landis, was the interlocutor. The end men were Clayton Cok, Chris. Ebensperger, John Carter and J. Thompson. The show was filled with many novelties, jokes and music was interspersed throughout the entire performance. Mr. Thompson made quite a hit when he sang "A Faw Down An' Go Boom," acting it out all the while with a broom as a horse.

CHESTER TOWNSHIP PLANNING TAX SALE

Many Maple Shade Properties to Go Under Hammer to Remedy Financial Difficulties

Many Maple Shade properties are scheduled to go under the hammer within a few weeks for back taxes. At the Chester Township Committee meeting last week the town fathers passed a resolution authorizing the tax collector to hold the sale. All property owners who owe the township tax money for years up to and including 1927 will lose their property or will be required to pay what they owe.

It is believed that funds derived from the sale will help considerably toward straightening out Chester Township's critical financial condition.

Shortages in the amount of $18,000 were found on Stacker's books and were noted as far back as 1925. The township wants $13,000 in settlement from the company under which the missing tax collector was bonded. The bonding company, the solicitor reports, offers only $10,000 in settlement.

When trying to land a job always ask the bank president for $25,000 a year as a starter.

5c SETTLES A BIG SMOKE QUESTION

Can There Really Be a Good Cigar for Five Cents?

Some say it never was, can nor will be done. But this ad says it is being done—that there's a really fine 5c cigar to be had: Bayuk's Havana Ribbon. And it's been on the market thirty years. A cigar must be good to make such a record.

And Bayuk's Havana Ribbon is better today than ever before. Immense production is doing it. Millions made; tobacco bought in such huge quantities, we are able to use long-filler, ripe tobacco from heart to wrapper. And still keep the price at 5c! Imagine! No bitter under-ripe nor flat-tasting over-ripe leaves. No loose bits to come out in your mouth. But all fine, full-flavored, age-mellowed tobacco, making a delightfully cool, mild, fragrant smoke. If you've one nickel in your pocket, man, put it to work and let Bayuk's Havana Ribbon settle the five-cent cigar question completely. Also Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

CAR RIDDLED, NEW YORKER ARRESTED

High Priced Sedan Carrying '28 Tags Looks Suspicious to Trooper; Driver Held

A motorist, who gave his name as Joseph Bodeck, and his address as Long Island, was committed to the Burlington County Jail at Mount Holly for twenty days, in default of a fine, when he was arrested driving an expensive automobile which carried 1928 New York State tags.

The arrest was made by Corporal Horn, at Cooper street and the Burlington pike, Beverly, Wednesday night of last week, and an examination of the car disclosed three bullet-torn holes through the rear of the machine, for which the driver could not account.

Lying in the rear compartment were two new tires and tubes, which Bodeck claimed he had purchased from a doctor for $5, but he did not know the address of the liberal benefactor. Corporal Horn photographed the man and took his finger prints and will communicate with the New York authorities before the man is released.

RIVERSIDE WOMAN DISCONTINUES SUIT

Reta Buehler Granted Non-Suit in Case Against Moorestown Dentist

An action brought by Reba Buehler, of Riverside, against Dr. Albert Pancoast, of Moorestown, who practices dentistry in Camden, was terminated last week when Robert Peacock, counsel for the woman, was granted a voluntary non-suit. The case was heard before Judge Rigg, sitting in the Common Pleas Court, and a jury. Rulings of the court, excluding considerable testimony that Mr. Peacock wished to introduce, is asigned as the cause for the motion for non-suit. He stated that he now will renew the suit in the Supreme Court.

Suit was brought to recover damages for alleged negligence and carelessness by Dr. Pancoast when he extracted two teeth for Mrs. Buehler on August 20, 1927. A root of one of the teeth, she testified, remained in the cavity and caused serious infection. She said he told her the entire tooth had been pulled.

In consequence of the alleged faulty work by the dentist she said she lost time at her employment, manager of a store in Riverside, and was put to the expense of consulting several specialists to relieve her pain and suffering.

The defense denied any negligence; that Mrs. Buehler, two days after the teeth had been extracted, returned to the dentist's office for removal of the piece of root, but that, due to inflammation of the jaw, it was not extracted. After packing the cavity with an antiseptic, Dr. Pancoast instructed her to return again in a few days. She did not come back and he heard nothing more until suit was brought.

The plaintiff recently entered a suit against Riverside merchants when a disagreement arose regarding her participation in the business men's popularity contest.

AUTO LICENSES REVOKED

Licenses of six South Jersey drivers were among a total of 68 revoked Thursday of last week by Commissioner William. I. Dill for violation of the State motor vehicle laws. Four of the South Jersey revocations were for drunken driving. They included Arthur C. Cole, Florence; William Powell, Michael Cupays and Henry B. Anthony, all of Camden.

DELAWARE CHIEF FACES CHARGES

Trenton Motorist Accuses Police Head of Threatening to Use Blackjack

Charges that Police Chief John Branin, Delaware Township, and one of his policemen threatened a party of Trenton motorists with bodily injury, cursed them and treated them "contemptibly and brutally" when their car was halted near Ellisburg, are being investigated by Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin.

Charles Higgins, 42, of 724 Quinton street, Trenton, driver of the car, who was fined $75 and costs for speeding and disorderly conduct, declared he will appeal the case.

According to Higgins, the party was returning to Trenton from Wildwood. After passing the Delaware Township police station at Ellisburg, he said Branin and Patterson drove up and stopped their car. Branin, he said, ordered him from his car, cursed in the presence of the women, and threatened to "break his blackjack over my head." Patterson, Higgins said, pushed him about and threatened to strike him, and Chief Branin also threatened to hit Mrs. Myer Caplan, also of Trenton, a passenger in the car.

Higgins said he was driving only 40 miles an hour along the pike in open country. The officers charged him with speeding and later with disorderly conduct.

On complaint of Patterson, Higgins was arraigned before Recorder Ashton D. Berry and fined $50 for speeding, $25 on a disorderly conduct charge, and $4.40 costs.

Prosecutor Baldwin questioned Chief Branin, who told him Higgins and his party had not been treated brutally or otherwise than courteously. He said Higgins was disorderly.

"I have retained Clifford R. Powell, Burlington County State Senator, to see this thing through," Higgins said. "Until Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Caplan recover from the shock, I can't tell what steps will be taken, but I'm going to appeal the fines. That is certain. Delaware Township might have been Bolshevik Russia, as far as our treatment was concerned. These police, instead of being protectors and aides, treated us abominably and for no reason at all."

SEE CONTROL OF JAP BEETLE

Parasites Doing Effective Work in War on Pest, Says Smith

Uncle Sam's experts now believe that the Japanese beetle is going to be controlled.

"The numerical increase of the species has been permanently checked in the district occupied for the longest time by the Japanese beetle," says Loren B. Smith, of the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture and head of the Federal beetle laboratory at Moorestown, in a paper contributed to the Year Book of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia.

This checking of increase Mr. Smith ascribes to "success in the researches for development of methods for protection of most economic plants, introduction of foreign parasites that attack the beetle and its larvae and increase in other factors of natural control."

That's not saying the Japanese beetle isn't here! Mr. Smith reports that during certain seasons 2,833 square yards were dug in 652 fields and larvae of the beetle were found to average 175 to the square yard.

But the imported parasites are taking hold, says Mr. Smith. He reports that the tachinid fly parasite on the adult beetle, first known to be established here in 1923, now has spread outward from the point of liberation over an area of approximately ninety square miles.

And Mr. Smith reports that two members of the beetle laboratory force are located in Japan and Korea and one in Northern India to collect and to rear beetle parasites for shipment to this region.

MOORESTOWN DRIVER FINED

John O. Long, of Moorestown, was fined $10 and costs by Recorder Joseph C. Kingdon at Mount Holly Wednesday evening of last week, charged with driving his car recklessly in Medford and also on the Medford-Ashton road. State Trooper Luonge, of the Columbus Barracks, declared he gave the Moorestonian a chance after he had been speeding in Medford.

NEW COURT BUSY ON OPENING DAY

Nineteen Cases Heard by District Court Judge Frank Matthews

Many people gathered in the Mount Holly Court House to watch the workings of the Burlington County District Court, which held its first regular session in Mount Holly last week. This Court was created by the Legislature during the last regular session of that body and Frank Matthews, of Palmyra, was appointed Judge by Governor Larson on recommendation of State Senator Clifford R. Powell.

Heading the opening day's cases was the suit of the Broadway Merchants Trust Company, Camden, to protect the banking house in the settlement of the estate of Frederick Pieffer, of Riverside, who was murdered in 1927, for a note and interest totalling $261.

Pieffer was found slain in the basement of a building being constructed in Frankford, Pa., November 29, 1927. He was employed on the construction of the building. Philadelphia police were of the opinion he had been beaten to death by a fellow workman with a piece of lead pipe. The workman disappeared and the murder never was solved.

Nineteen cases were brought before the Court. Seventeen of these were disposed of.

Other cases heard were as follows:

General Motors Acceptance Company, Philadelphia, vs. Joseph Piergross, Palmyra, judgment, $221; George B. Martin, Camden, vs. Leon and Marie Martin, Moorestown, jury verdict, no cause for action; Francis A. Vicker vs. Charlotte Beard, Beverly, judgment, $172; J. George Grogan vs. Fashion Shop, Burlington, settled; Halsey Supply Company, Newark, vs. Becker Garage, Lumberton, settled; Riverside Trust Company vs. William C. Kauderer, Bridgeboro, judgment, $411; Elmer R. Batterson vs. Ruth Boyer, judgment, $63; Indemnity Insurance Company vs. Rancocas Construction Company, Delanco, continued; Harvey Weiss, Philadelphia, vs. Fred Ostberg, Palmyra, adjourned to August 25; H. J. Heinz Company vs. Raymond W. Prickett, Brown's Mills, settled; Liberty Mutual Insurance Company vs. Joseph Piergross, Palmyra, judgment, $52; Aubrey Bailey, Pemberton, vs. Daniel and Lydia Hogate, Moorestown, continued to August 25; Eldridge Scott, Burlington, vs. Walter Shedaker, Burlington, adjourned to July 25; John W. Latham, Florence, vs. First National Bank, Florence, adjourned to August 25; Commercial Banking Corporation, Philadelphia, vs. Speers J. Kerr, Jr., Palmyra, continued to August 25.

CANDIDATES FILE COST ACCOUNTS

Advertising Was Chief Expense; Farner Tops List With $2,553.59

Who says it costs a lot of money to be a candidate for office at primaries in Burlington County? Stories of big sums spent by candidates for principal offices must be untrue, judging by expense accounts that have been filed in the County Clerk's office. Itemized statements, filed by candidates and sworn to, show quite moderate expenditures at the June primaries. Here they are:

Dr. Marcus W. Newcomb, for Assembly, $114.07, all for newspaper advertising.

Roscoe C. Shinn, for Sheriff, $402.97, for printing and newspaper and movie advertising.

Benjamin F. Farner, for Sheriff, $2,553.59, for sundry methods of advertising, namely, toothpicks, rulers, matches, mirrors, labels, fans, pencils, tire covers, photo plates, films, theatre programs, buttons, campaign cards, calendars, blotters, thimbles and announcements in newspapers.

Lawrence G. Mingin, for County Clerk, $626.03, for advertising in newspapers and motion pictures and for letters and postage announcing candidacy.

J. Aquila Jones, for County Clerk, $218.70, all for newspaper advertising.

William H. Heisler, Jr., for Freeholder, $600, for newspaper advertising, pamphlets and cards.

Charles B. Jessup, for Freeholder, $304.97, advertising in newspapers, programs and movies.

John G. Nack, for Freeholder, $27.75, for printing, gasoline and oil.

Harry J. Ziegler, for Auditor, nothing.

Aspirants for the two nominations for Coroner made either modest or no expenditures. George B. Bitting, successful candidate, spent $162.50 for publicity in newspapers, programs and placards. William P. Young, the other nominee, spent $8.70 for lantern slides, cards, advertising in one newspaper, gasoline, oil and postage. Charles C. Rossell expended $6 for printing; and William W. Barckley, Edward Moorhouse and Irving R. Shemeley made no expenditures.

HAINESPORT MAN CHARGED WITH THEFT FROM FRIEND

James Dolan, who conducts a small store at Hainesport, was held under $100 bail for court by Justice of the Peace Throckmorton last week when he was charged by Lewis Cotton, of Lumberton, with stealing $25 from him. Cotton claimed that Dolan declared that Cotton was intoxicated at the time, and denied the theft. He was released upon supplying bail.

RIVERTON PLANS DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL PARK

facilities at the park were quite as necessary, and mentioned the early construction of tennis courts.

It was decided to lay before the next joint meeting of the committees, on July 16, the sentiment of Council, and to ask the committees to recommend, among other things, how the project should be financed.

No Change in Station Hours

A letter from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company indicated that no relief might be expected from the inconvenience to Riverton residents caused by the early closing of the station in the evening. The letter stated that the station was open from 5.30 a. m. to 9.30 p. m., which was found to be sufficient in similar towns. Some stations are kept open all night, but that was where the operation of a block system is necessary to the movement of trains. The passenger patronage from Riverton did not warrant a twenty-four hour schedule of service, the letter stated.

The letter contained no reference to the complaint made that telegrams could not be sent or received after the hour of closing the station, and the matter was referred to Mr. Randall to investigate and report.

Councilman DeLaney offered to procure without cost to the Borough enough calcium chloride to treat the newly-constructed roadway on South Broad street, from Elm avenue to Thomas, and to borrow a spreader for its application. This is the method Palmyra is using to keep down the dust. The offer was accepted by Council with thanks.

Police Report

Director of Public Safety Williams reported for the Police Department that two arrests had been made during the month for reckless driving and one for driving without a license.

Mr. Williams also reported that complaints had been received about bathing from the river bank without proper clothing. The officers had responded to the calls, but had been unable to catch any of the offenders. He reported that Officer Quigley had returned to duty.

Councilman Randall, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee, said that Chief Armstrong had reported the old pumper to be in need of repairs, and that he had taken the matter up with the company which sold the apparatus to the Borough, instructing them to make an inspection and render a detailed report of the work required to be done, and the cost.

Mr. Williams, chairman of the Borough Property Committee, reported that several trees on the park needed attention. He had been informed by the Shade Tree Commission that the cost of the work would be about $50. He was instructed to have the work done.

Mr. Williams also pointed out the need for a guard at the park. A small boy had been rescued from drowning by another boy only a few days ago, he said, in stressing the necessity for having an attendant appointed. He recommended the appointment of Wilbur Jones, who, he said, rendered very satisfactory service last year.

Jones Can Swim

Mr. Bartley asked whether or not Jones could swim. Mr. Jones, who was present, replied in the affirmative. He said that the story of his inability to swim was a bit of political propaganda used in the primary election. When he was employed as park attendant last year, Mr. Jones explained, he was not supplied with a swimming suit, and was instructed that his job was to watch the children—not to go in swimming. He said he had carried out his orders as he understood them. Mr. Jones said that in order to settle any controversy over the appointment of an attendant this year, he desired to state that he would not accept the appointment.

Mr. Williams pointed out that it was through the efforts of Dr. Jones, who solicited the funds to pay for them, that benches had been supplied at the swimming pool last summer. He said that the services of Mr. Jones had been perfectly satisfactory in every way, and that he had received many compliments on the manner in which Mr. Jones took care of the children. Several mothers had told him they felt perfectly safe about their children when Mr. Jones was on duty.

The report of the building inspector showed construction amounting to $2,375, and $11.00 in fees.

Mr. DeLaney, chairman of the Fourth of July Committee, reported on the celebration, and was complimented by the Mayor and fellow Councilmen for the very fine program that was carried out.

Services Appreciated

Mr. Williams asked to have official recognition made of the services rendered by the members of the Riverton Fire Company and the Boy Scouts in assisting with the direction of traffic on the Fourth. He said that over 3,000 cars were handled in the evening without an accident.

A letter of appreciation was received from the Cinnaminson Home for the courtesies extended to the guests of the Home on the Fourth.

Mayor Rogers quoted from a letter from the Bell Telephone Company, stating that the name of the exchange would continue to be "Riverton" after the exchange is moved into the new building in Palmyra.

Mr. Williams called attention to the menace to motorists caused by the narrowness of the bridge over the Pompeston Creek, at East Riverton, where several accidents had happened. It was suggested by Mr. Bartley that the Burlington County Board of Freeholders be asked to widen the bridge, and the Mayor appointed Councilmen Hubbs, Williams and Clelland a committee to lay the matter before the Board.

Mr. Williams also called attention to the fact that a number of the street markers were broken. Referred to the Highway Committee for action.

Machine Lands on Her, Mrs. Budd Suffers Only Wrenched Back

Miracles do happen! Mrs. Harold H. Budd, of Fairview avenue, Moorestown, is happy to confirm that statement.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Budd was favored by what she considers good fortune, to say the least. But it sounds more like a miracle.

Although she is forced to tell the story of her good luck from a bed, she is overjoyed with the fact that she is even alive to tell it.

And if you don't believe in miracles read this. Mrs. Budd was in a car that not only overturned twice, but when it stopped rolling, landed on top of her. Furthermore, she does not have a broken bone in her body and was not even unconscious when the car was lifted from her body!

And if that isn't good fortune without parallel, the story has not reached these parts. A severely bruised and wrenched back and slight lacerations of the head is the extent of Mrs. Budd's injuries. The cuts of the head were not serious enough to require stitches.

The accident occurred when a Buick touring car, driven by Mrs. Budd, was struck by a Dodge sedan, driven by Francis Murphy, West Third street, at the intersection of Second and Locust streets, about 5.30 Saturday afternoon.

The other victim of the accident was Miss Dorothy Budd, of Mount Holly, who was the only occupant in her sister-in-law's machine. Miss Budd was hurled from the machine for a distance of fifteen feet.

Miss Budd was more seriously injured than the "lucky" driver, suffering severe concussion of the brain and painful body bruises. They are confined to beds at the Budd home.

While it is expected that Mrs. Budd will be up by the latter part of this week, physicians feel that it will be at least three weeks before the young Mount Holly woman will be about again.

Persons attracted to the scene by the sound of the crash freed Mrs. Budd. The two women were rushed to the office of Dr. Joseph Stokes by Lloyd Smith, of West Second street, one of the first on the scene. Later they were removed to the Budd home.

Mrs. Budd's car was traveling westerly on Second street and was struck in the rear on the left side. The Murphy machine was going north on Locust.

The Buick was almost a total wreck. Three wheels were torn off, the top was ruined, and the body, frame work and motor all suffered. The big machine finally stopped rolling more than forty feet from the intersection. Murphy's car was considerably damaged about the front.

Police were called, but made no arrests. No charge were made and the owners will settle for the costs of the accident between themselves.

BANKERS OF COUNTY INTEREST QUESTION

Three Institutions Explain Raising Rate on Savings Accounts to 4 Per Cent.

About forty members of the Burlington County Bankers' Association attended a special meeting of the organization held at the Union National Bank and Trust Company's banking house, in Mount Holly, on Wednesday evening of last week, the meeting being called at the instance of banking officials of Bordentown and Roebling, who took this means of explaining to their fellow bankers just why they had increased the interest rate on savings accounts in their banks from 3 to 4 per cent.

The bankers of the County have always adhered to the 3 per cent. rate, but recently the two banks at Bordentown and the Roebling bank have increased their rate to four per cent., their representatives claiming that close competition on the part of the Trenton banks, who pay four per cent., forces the change in their policy.

The matter was thoroughly discussed from all angles, but the meeting adjourned without taking any decisive action, it being left to the executive committee for further consideration and report.

Why Send Them Away

By LUCY MEACHAM THURSTON
Contributing Editor

The Junior-high was giving a commencement concert. Now came a group of old-fashioned songs, very old-fashioned. Forward swayed a line of girls, hoopskirts swinging, ringlets dancing beside round young cheeks, poke bonnets half hiding their bright eyes. "Mother, mother, I've been thinking," they sang plaintively, "what a happy world 'twould be, If the men were all transported far beyond the southern sea."

Back they swayed and on came the opposing and admiring gallants. "Mother, mother," and the refrain all over again, only sung a trifle more belligerently, and they wished the girls transported to far regions.

Such an old song, yet it typifies a strange quirk in the feeling of today. At the very hour when we are working for internationalism, world peace, consideration of minorities, co-operation among all peoples, we have become somehow most impatient with nearby groups or individuals disagreeing with our own views. Anathema for the man not seeing eye to eye with us on the tariff issues. No use for the man not holding our views on farm relief. Not a particle of sympathetic understanding for the man not thinking exactly as we do about prohibition.

Absurdities, one must realize! Yet a rasping irritability is aroused at the very time when calmness and patience and clear think are needed for meeting the biggest problems the world has ever known. Perhaps the very fact that we are meeting these great p oblems, and wisely and well, calls for the counter demonstrtion of lack of thought and patience in smaller matters, as a mother might say to her child, "Run away, don't bother me. I am thinking—of something worth while," she might add to herself.

Emerson warned long ago that for every one thing we gained we lost something old and precious. For instance, he pointed to the fact that we had watches, clocks, time measuring machinery galore, but man had lost the art of telling time by sun and stars and moon. It must not be possible that for the far and wide vision we shall lose the close and comprehending understnding of standing shoulder to shoulder with our neighbors. Rather it must be the neighbor attitude transferred to the whole wide world.

Small matters of adjustment have to be faced as well as big ones. The way to get rid of them is not to wish them banished to far regions. The very girls and boys singing the flaunting old refrain show the impossibility of so solving the matter. Are they going to banish one another to southern seas? Not by a long deal. They learn how to get along with one another. So can others.

Working Through College

We all of us, parents or not, feel a keen interest in the young people of our community who have ambition enough to go to college, and especially so when they have enough get-up to them to work their way through. There is something about working one's way through such a school that gives him an added benefit from his course. It makes him more keenly appreciate what it is all about, and he is bound to get more out of it.

We always like the things best which we work the hardest to get.

Half the men and a quarter of the women in the colleges and universities of this country today are working their way through, according to the National Educational Bureau of the Department of the Interior. These workers earned over $33,000,000 in a recent year. That looks healthy for this country, doesn't it? Two hundred and eighty-two of these higher schools are lending over $4,000,000 annually to deserving young men and women to help them get through college.

The national educational bureau has just issued a bulletin on "Self-Help for College Students." The government charges 25 cents a copy for it, but if you are a young boy or girl wanting to go to college, and if you want to get suggestions about helping yourselves through, send your two-bit piece to the Secretary of the Interior at Washington for a copy.

It was written by Dr. Walter J. Greenleaf, and is a splendidly helpful thing for young people.

Women's Wealth Increasing

The statistician is always springing surprising things . . . and now he has come out with a new one.

According to figures advanced by one of the tribe of financial statisticians, women now own over forty per cent of the nation's wealth.

Besides, four out of five life insurance dollars will go to women, and seventy per cent of the estates left by men go to women.

It seems as if the wealth of woman is to increase by leaps and bounds, until women will dominate the country financially. This is not at all impossible, in fact everything points to the conclusion that if women keep up their speed in acquiring money they will be far ahead of men in this respect.

Within the past few years, siciologists have been ranting about women's place being in the home, and all that sort of thing, never realizing how firmly intrenched women are in the financial life of the land. It isn't even too improbable that in a century or so the tables will be turned and men will be clamoring for equal rights!

Wanted: A Brave Man

If one touches a toal, one will get warts. So persons have believed for a very long time. Why?

The scientific boods on disease of the skin recognizes the fact that the cause of warts is unknown. The wart, it is known, represents a thickening of certain layers of the skin with projection upward. This process is initiated by an irritation which may be due to poison, to bacteria, to mechanical action or possibly to nerve disturbances.

Says Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association: "There is an excellent way, however, of proving promptly that touching a toad will not produce warts—that is to get a toad and touuch it. It is a safe bet that the warts will not appear in the vast majority of cases when this experiment is tried."

This sounds very convincing.

We are modern, progressive, and far from superstitious. Yet . . . we would rather someone else made the test.

THE BOON OF SLEEP.

EGG STATISTICS.

WONDERFUL LANDS.

EIGHT "BIG MEN."

If you have sound sleep, don't envy any man his millions.

An American, very rich, knighted by King George because of the American money he spent in London, was taken to a hospital, suffering from insomnia.

In the morning he was found dead, clutching a piece of paper on which he had written that, as sleep was impossible, he could endure life no longer. He had poisoned himself.

A majority of us go through life, not appreciating our greatest blessings, especially the "Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleave of care,

The death of each lady's life, sore labor's bath,
Balm of hurt minds, great nature's second course,
Chief nourisher in life's feast."

Until sleep goes, you do not know life's greatest physical misfortune.

Every year two thousand million American eggs are confided to hens and incubators. Every year 800,000,000 of them don't hatch.

Much lost possible wealth, at least $20,000,000, at 25 cents per chick.

The Department of Agriculture owns one hen, laying eggs of which 00 per cent. hatch, and she transmit her qualities to daughters and granddaughters.

This interests millions of women in the United States.

The government has thrown open to settlement government lands formerly covered by the Missippi River. Wonderful lands these are, low, level, deep, heavy black loam.

As the "wind bloweth where it listeth," so the Mississippi flows where it listeth, covering and uncovering land, washing millions upon millions of cubic yards of fertile soil into the Gulf of Mexico.

When will man's intelligence control "Old Man River" and make him an obedient part of the national machine?

President Hoover, whose business is engineering, will attend to that, was "cut out" for that job.

The President seeks eight "big men" to put on the Farm Board.

The big eight and the Secretary of the Treasury will administer funds for farm relief, spending the people's money as intelligently as they know how.

How can you tell " a big man" when you see him, and how can you be sure that your big man understands farm problems?

It would be interesting to put the eight big men, after they are chosen, in charge of some typical American farm to see what they could make of it.

The President signs the Boulder Dam proclamation, thus making operative the Boulder Canyon Dam bill.

And now, perhaps, the able engineer elected President will be able to do what he wants to do, some able engineering.

"Bull Frog sitting
On the river bank,
Along came a Hop Toad
And gave him a jank."

"How beautifully you sing," said Dr. Bull Frog to Mister Jay Bird one sunny afternoon.

"I'm so glad you like my singing. Is it my voice you like, or my singing?"

"What's the difference?" asked Mr. Bull Frog.

"I wanted to know whether it was my voice alone, or my singing.'

Dr. Bull Frog was still a while and then he asked: Do you refer to my deep bass voice?"

"I like it. You can hear it ever so far—but would you do me a favor?"

"I'll gladly do anything I can for a bright bird like you," said the good doctor.

"I wish you would chase up a worm or two," suggested the bird.

"Delighted!" exclaimed the Frog, as he dove into the water. In a few seconds he came with a worm which he put on the grass. The next second it was gone.

"Hey, where's my worm?" asked Mister Jay Bird.

"I got him for you, but I can't keep him all day," laughed Dr. Bull Frog. "How would you like a little fly?"

"I'd like a little fly," said Mister Jay Bird, whose mouth was watering by this time.

Then Dr. Bull Frog waited and in a few moments a fly lit on his nose. He couldn't speak, but just as Mister Jay Bird jumped for him the fly glided down the frog's throat.

"You're kidding me," exclaimed Mister Jay Bird.

"You never can tell," replied the Frog, as he jumped into the water with a splash that soaked the bird.

Mamma: "Well, Johnny, I shall forgive you this time; and it's very pretty of you to write a letter to say you're sorry."

Johnny: "Yes, ma; don't tear it up, please."

Mamma: "Why, Johnny?"

Johnny: "Because it will do for next time."

Those who have witnessed it say that there is no more moving spectacle in the world than a good game of chess.

SUN-BACK SWIMMING SUITS

Ordinarily the only man who is qualified to discuss women's fashions is a dress manufacturer or designer. I am neither one nor the other, but I am taking it upon myself to express an honest opinion.

I had occasion recently to go to a popular seashore resort where there were a great many young people. Some were in swimming, some were playing ball and others were lying on the beach, taking sun baths. With few exceptions they all wore the new sun-back bathing suits, and they were a brown, wholesome, happy looking lot.

"Now there's some sense to that," I thought to myself, recalling that in the early days of my interest in physical culture women trailed into the water with great balloonlike skirts that threatened to drag them down to the bottom of the sea, once they were wet. They always wore hats and some even wore gloves, lest the sun's rays touch their bare skin. I rejoiced when the jersey swimming suits came in and stockings went into the limbo of useless things. And now the "sun-backs" that permit the marvelously beneficial rays of the sun to do their important work.

"Well!" a voice near me exclaimed. "I think it is perfectly disgusting! It's bad enough for the young ones to go around half naked—but that woman should know better. She's a disgrace."

The speaker was a frail type of woman whom I judged to be about thirty-five, although her wan expression made her look easily five years older. She wore a trailing chiffon dress and a big sunshade hat. Her expression was a discontented one. It was hard to picture her laughing and carefree.

All of which is by way of leading up to my original intention to comment upon the prevailing styles. I applaud them. I think they are sensible, healthful and utterly lacking in that baser sex appeal that accompanies the garment that covers but does not conceal. If you have not a sun-back swimming suit or sport dress—by all means get one as soon as possible and get your full quota of sunshine.

We are passing out of an era of the world's history in which the body had been regarded as a shameful thing. We are beginning to learn that the mind and body in order to be healthy must be free. And upon our bodies depends every impulse of our minds, every achievement, every ambition and every fine thought of which we are capable.

Unfortunately, there are those like the lady in chiffon, who associate the physical with the sexual. And—thank heaven—there are others who are learning the simple and beautiful secret of eternal youth.

THE FAMILY TREASURY

THE FAMILY TREASURY

Jimmy Brown was a money maker in a modest way. He had the bungalow almost paid for, and Mrs. Jimmy Brown knew the meaning of team work in the matter of overcoming difficulties.

It was in the late autumn that Mrs. Jimmy began to think about a new rug, and a few pieces of more tasty furniture for the coming spring. She had grown tired, as any good woman must, with the ceaseless dusting, sweeping, changing positions of the antiquated sofa and worn rockers—she just couldn't make the living-room look cheery any more! But the relentless mortgage kept eating its way into the family treasury; until it could be paid off. . . .

The little wife decided to stop every leak in the family budget she could—and to save closer if possible, but how? There was just thirty-five cents in her purse—a dime and a quarter—when her resolution was formed; she would save every dime that came her way. She put the thin little coin in a dime-bank one of her childhood trinkets in the bottom of a dresser drawer. It took ten dimes to open it; that dime slid into the tiny slot, and clinked cheerfully as it fell on the metal floor of the toy. It sounded good.

The laundryman came around with Jimmy's collars—bill fifteen cents. The dime in change joined its fellow in the little bank. When Jimmy came home to dinner, he had three dimes among other coins in his purse; he gave them to Mrs. Jimmy; a half-dollar was "banked" that day, and Jimmy liked the plan.

To shorten this true story, by the next April, Mrs. Jimmy had deposited in the real bank, one hundred and seventy-five dollars—all in dimes. She purchased her new rug, sacrificed several ricketty old rockers, bought fresh new ones, and a neat settee—paid cash, and had some left—all done with dimes that had previously slipped through fingers that had not appreciated the insignificant coins. . . .

This is no fairy tale; any one can do the same.

EZEKIEL'S VISION OF HOPE

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

When half of the Seventy Years of Captivity was over Ekiel had the vision of the Stream from the Temple in Jerusalem. Hope is a wondrous stimulus in the midst of any distressing condition. The heart of devout Jewry was still in the land that Jehovah had given them in perpetuity. God is always timely in His promises, and the things thus assured must come to pass. Meanwhile there is inspiring cheer to encourage in the midst of daily toil.

Read chapters 40-48 as they are an entity. You will go with Ezekiel to Jerusalem, in 40: 2, and behold the Jews restored to their tribal possessions, with a rebuilt Temple in the midst of the Holy City. The prophet declared the vision with assurance, knowing that his Lord could bring all to pass. The people listened with rapture, for their fondest hopes were being portrayed.

With exactness the very footsteps had been traced as Ezekiel tells how he was guided by the angel. Water within the city had always been a problem, and particularly so in time of war. It was startling to behold water flowing continuously from the temple area wall. Usually the most that could be counted on was the water held in some cistern. The only explanation was that the altar was at the source thereof. A thousand cubits were measured as the flowing stream was followed. Since a cubit was from 18-21 inches the distance was about one-third of a mile. Then another standard is used, the stature of man. The water was ankle deep, but it flowed onward, which was contrary to experience in Jerusalem. Another 1,000 cubits and knees were covered. Again the same distance was measured and the stream was now loin deep. A fourth 1,000 brought them to a condition where even a man was out of his depth and could swim at will.

This vision was not portraying a wonder. The waters were flowing for a blessed purpose. They issued from the city wall, entered the Kedron valley and rushed onward and downward to the depth of the Jordan at the Dead Sea. All had been desert desolation. Attention was then called to the conditions at the side of the stream. There was now rich vegetation and productive trees. Though the Dead Sea is five times saltier than the ocean its waters were made sweet as the stream issuin from the Temple altar flowed into it. Now life could be found in the sea that had been called "dead." In fact "everything shall live withersoever the river cometh."

This stream of fulfillment can be followed in the progress of Christianity. One-third of the race has already named Him, and all mankind is helped thereby as Christianizing civilization reaches them. No previous condition of man is too hard but that life can be changed for the better. The Golden Text is similarly prophetic: "If the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end." Isaiah 9: 7. A broader life was pictured for Jewry. Thus far they had lived for and largely within themselves. Though Jonah had given a great teaching they had yet to learn that "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold."

COOK MAKING LANDING FIELD AT CAMP DIX

Contractor William C. Cook, of Mount Holly, started last week to grade an airplane landing field at Camp Dix and he will work on a tract of about one hundred acres, just beyond the Pointville road and close to Wrightstown. In the centre of the field there will be a fifty-foot circle designated by a concrete walk and this will indicate to aviators the centre of the runways. There will be two lines of runways so that aviators going east and west or north and south will be able to land safely without too much maneuvering. When the work is finished this will be an approved field. Mr. Cook is also at work on the grading of the Mount Holly landing field connected with the property of the Victor Metal Aircraft corporation southwest of the town's border line.

There Are No Disappointments When GAS is Used to Heat Water

HOT water contributes so largely to nearly all our personal comforts and to the smooth running of our homes, that when it is lacking, we are seriously inconvenienced.

In restaurants, hotels and club houses interrupted hot water service detracts from the prestige of the house.

In modern homes and commercial houses, gas is used to heat water and interruptions in hot water service are rare. Gas works most successfully under automatic control, and so well designed is the modern water heating appliance—so dependable is the action of the standard thermostat, that the owner of a gas automatic water heating system finds himself relieved of practically all effort in the operation of his water heating system.

There is no substitute for hot water, and gas, most adaptable, most easily controlled and cleanest of all fuels, is destined to be used as universally for heating water as is electricity for power and light.

Rates now charged for gas by this company fix a price of 9½ cents per 100 feet for all additional gas used above 1400 feet, a substantial reduction from previous rate for quantity use.

Considering the convenience realized gas is the cheapest fuel with which to heat water.

Earl Bell and Harvey Sparks, of Toledo, Ohio, who are crossing the continent from New York to Los Angeles on their "uppers," passed through Mount Holly Wednesday of last week on their way from Pemberton to Bristol and attracted considerable attention. They wore regulation scout suits and had special metal knee-caps for their crawling antics. Sometimes they put skates on their knees and travel in that fashion. They are doing the stunt to pay a wager and must raise their own funds by selling pictures of themselves. They left Toledo on June 20 and New York on June 2. They make about eight miles a day and have calculated that it will take them a little more than a year to complete the trip.

DONALD BRIAN TO STAR AT GARRICK

Actor Who Scored Hit in "No, No, Nannette" Coming To Philadelphia

"The Queen's Husband," a sparkling comedy, by Robert Emmet Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome," will be next week's offering of the Play of the Week at the Garrick Theatre, Philadelphia, beginning Monday evening, July 22.

Donald Brian will be the guest star for the occasion and heading the Play of the Week supporting cast will be Ethel Jackson. It is interesting to note in connection with these two nationally known players that they were the original stars of the famous operetta hit, "The Merry Widow."

In addition Mr. Brian is famous the country over for his appearance in the leading role of "The Chocolate Soldier," as well as other famous stage hits, the most recent being "Buddies" and "No, No, Nannette." Miss Jackson has likewise starred in numerous history-making successes. She has been a member of the Play of the Week since its inception five weeks ago and has appeared in "The Royal Family" and "A Tailor Made Man."

"The Queen's Husband" is a satire comedy, having its basis in fact. It describes the adventures of a royal family in a mythical European country. The Queen, a domineering advocate of modern advertising methods, tours America on a lecture tour. In her absence many distressing things occur. The King, who in a less regal personage would be called "henpecked," begins to assert himself, and the Princess throws over the calculated plans of a royal wedding in favor of a commoner. In addition, a promising little revolution starts.

The story is told with the same crisp witty style displayed in "The Road to Rome." In fact the play was hailed on Broadway as the equal of Mr. Sherwod's first play. The Play of the Week production will mark its first Philadelphia appearance.

REALTORS ENJOY MEDFORD LAKES

Members of County Board Are Guests of Developer Leon E. Todd

Members of the Burlington County Real Estate Board, together with their families and friends, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leon E. Todd, a fellow realtor, at Medford Lakes, on Tuesday, July 9.

During the afternoon sports and swimming were enjoyed, after which supper was served in the large pavilion.

As this meeting was entirely a social one, the regular monthly business session was dispensed.

Arthur Cutler, president of the Board, requested Mr. Todd to give a brief history of the establishment of this well-regulated tract of more than twelve hundred acres, which is operated on a club and camp basis. Mr. Todd stated that there are now 141 houses either built or under construction at this time, and that 13 lakes are now being used or will be in readiness within the next few weeks. All those present were desirous of seeing the different type houses located there. Mr. Todd piloted a tour of inspection.

Upon returning to the pavilion a social evening of games was enjoyed.

The Board extended a vote of thanks for the hospitality of their host and hostess and left well wishes for the future prosperity of Medford Lakes.

CITES DISREGARD OF "STOP STREET" LAW

Don't Depend on Other Driver Obeying Traffic Regulations, P. S. Operators Told

An executive order issued to all operators of Public Service Co-ordinated Transport by M. R. Bovlan, vice-president in charge of operation, follows:

"In Elizabeth recently a car driven at a high rate of speed came out of a 'stop' street, collided with one of our buses, with the result that six of the bus passengers were injured.

"This accident leads me again to call attention of all operators to the necessity of keeping constantly on the watch for the many drivers of cars who fail to obey not only the 'stop street' law but other traffic regulations.

"Such drivers are a menace to the safety of all users of streets and other highways. And while the police in many municipalities are doing their best to enforce laws and ordinances, so many violations occur that the protection of your passengers lies in the care you exercise in approaching all street intersections, whether or not you are running on 'through' streets.

"When you observe violations of the 'stop street' law secure the number of the offending car and report it to the supervisor at your garage or carhouse."

A "FAIR" PEACH CROP IS NOW THE PROSPECT

Hot, dry weather during a portion of June caused an unusually heavy "drop" in the peach orchards of Burlington County, with the result that what promised to be a heavy yield will probably only be "fair" in most cases, with only a few orchards having a big crop. The less amount of fruit on the trees is expected to ensure a better quality of peaches, with consequent higher prices for the growers. The early varieties will begin coming into market probably within the next week.

HOUSEWIVES WARNED

Beware of Fake Magazine Subscription Solicitors, Says Chamber

Housewives of Burlington County have been warned by Burlington solicitors posing as college students.

The chamber, in quoting a statement from N. M. McKnight, secretary of appointments at Columbia Chamber of Commerce to beware of University, said:

"The increasingly large number of college students who earn money during the summer vacation by taking subscriptions for magazines have given rise to a most profitable misrepresentation on the part of unscrupulous professional canvassers."

YOUTH IS JAILED, ROBBED STORE

John Walters, of Moorestown, Accused of Stealing $60 Cash

John Walters, 22 years old, of East Third street, Moorestown, Monday night was committed to the Burlington County Jail at Mount Holly in default of $200 bail after pleading guilty to entering and robbing the Virginia Snow dry cleaning establishment, West Main street, Tuesday night of last week.

Walters disappeared shortly after the robbery. He had been suspected since Wednesday of last week. Monday night he appeared at police station and demanded to know what the police wanted of him, denying any knowledge of the robbery.

After Chief John Bradshaw had grilled him for some time, Walters finally broke down and admitted his guilt. He stole between $60 and $65. Being unable to produce the necessary bond to obtain his freedom prior to grand jury action, the youth was committed to jail by Recorder Joseph W. Johnston.

The robbery was discovered about 9.30 Wednesday morning of last week. Officer Walter A. Erickson was called and found that entrance had been gained by opening a basement window on the east side of the building, next to Washington Market. Access to the store from the basement had been easy, as the door was not securely locked.

The officer questioned the clerk and found that Walters had been loitering around the store just before she closed at 6.30 Tuesday evening. After watching her count the money, he remarked that it was not safe to leave it in the store over night, advising that it should be banked daily.

Further investigation pointed the finger of suspicion to Walters. After buying a new suit of clothing, it was found that he had left for a few days' vacation at Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

Walters had recently obtained a position as life guard at Columbia Lakes.

NEED CASH TO PAY FOR BANDSTAND

More Than $500 Will Be Required to Defray All Expenses

The old adage "Those who dance must pay the piper," might well be changed, for the use of Palmyrians, to "Those who listen must pay for the bandstand."

Palmyra's fine new bandstand was built for the enjoyment of the public at a cost of more than $2,000. Most of the cost has already been paid by individuals who interested themselves in the project. Five of them have contributed cash, labor or material in excess of $100.

Councilman Frank A. Snover, who has sponsored the project from the beginning, feels that there are many people in the community who would be more than willing to pay a part of the balance which is needed to pay the cost of the pavilion.

A balance of approximately $550 has yet to be paid. Mr. Snover suggests that if ten persons will make gifts of $25.00 each, twenty of $10.00 and twenty of $5.00, the entire amount will be subscribed.

It has also been suggested that the Palmyra News receive these donations. The office at 9 East Broad street is open daily from 8.30 a. m. until 5.30 p. m.

PASS FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY LAWS

Four States, Within a Week, Take Action to Penalize Irresponsible Drivers

"Within a week, four States approved financial responsibility laws," says Harold B. Lever, Palmyra insurance advisor. "These four States simultaneously saw the need of making drivers financially responsible and of penalizing reckless driving and proceeded to pass legislation which would provide a remedy.

"Between April 4th and 13th New York, California, Iowa and Maine, States which represent four corners of the United States, approved financial responsibility laws which forces drivers of cars involved in accidents to either settle their judgment claims within a certain time or to forfeit their driver's license and their registration plates.

"There are one or two exceptions in the four States which have just recently passed the laws and in the five other States which have had a similar legislation for some time. Reckless driving has also been penalized by clauses which make it mandatory on the part of the State Department to revoke licenses and registration plates of drivers and operators of cars who have been convicted of a certain specified number of times of felonies and misdemeanors arising from driving a motor car."

WHITMAN HAS FINE PROGRAM

Ned Norworth, Late of Shubert Productions, is Star of Stage Play

The Walt Whitman Theatre is continuing to set the pace for theatrical entertainment in this part of the State with the announcement of the attractions listed for the last half of this week and the first half of next week, which includes some very interesting stage and screen entertainment.

Something entirely new in the line of stage presentations will be offered on Thursday, Friday and Saturday that is sure to please the many patrons of the Westfield Avenue institution. "Revue A La Carte" is the name given the stage show. It is served in delicious courses, with Ned Norworth, late of Shubert Productions, presiding as master of ceremonies. There will be special entertainers. Wanda Nash, late feature of Eddie Cantor's show, "Kid Boots," and The Ruth Vernon Girls, a quintette of dancers, heads the list. They are musical comedy favorites, who have been in numerous Shubert and other stellar attractions. Warren Boden, known throughout the east as "The Banjo Wonder Boy," and who has had a long engagement as a feature with Paul Whiteman's Jazz Band, also a full season's stay at the Steel Pier, Atlantic City, is worthy of every praise given him.

Kay and Rose, in "Two Southern Gentlemen," will exchange patter and will offer singing and dancing. "Those Three Boys," a surprise act, round out this wonderful stage show with their songs, steps and bits of humor.

Smiling Jack Mulhall plays a plumber in his present First National picture, "Two Weeks Off," the feature photoplay for this end of the week bill. This picture provides Jack with his initial role as doctor of pipes and sinks. Dorothy Mackaill, who co-starred with Jack in the picture, mistakes the plumber for a movie star and then the fun begins. With this popular screen team in two such admirable roles, there is no doubt that "Two Weeks Off" will provide more than the usual amount of fun and entertainment. A number of well known screen comedians help along in the laughs as well. Jed Prouty, the stammering manager of "Broadway Melody," is in the cast. Kate Price, Irish comedienne, and James Finlayson, the Scotch character actor, contribute their bit, and Eddie Gribbon, the popular comic, plays a life guard.

Disappearing cabinets, crystal balls and all the intriguing paraphernalia of the fortune-telling seer are familiar to millions, and yet each individual mystic and his every individual "Prop" has a unique rascinating appeal. The personality of the mystic is in itself intriguing, wrapped as he invariably is in the seeming inscrutability of his profession. And about such a personality revolves the compelling mystery of "The Cariatan," the Universal feature production, which will be seen on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture starring Holmes Herbert and Margaret Livingston was made from the New York Stage success of the same name.

A carefully selected surrounding program of all sound and talking subjects has been chosen for this occasion, which will give a perfectly balanced eveping's entertainment to all those in attendance.

Joseph T. Powers will render the Theme Song of Mary Pickford's latest picture, entitled "Coquette," at the console of the mighty "Wurlitzer."

Harry C. Worrell

Harry C. Worrell, 68 years old passed away at his late residence, 709 Main street, Riverton, last Thursday, July 11.

Mr. Worrell came to Riverton in 1886 and lived in the double house next to Smith's dry goods store until the completion of his late residence in 1893.

The first plumbing shop conducted by Mr. Worrell was located at Broad and Main, streets, in the building which has been moved to Broad street, and recently occupied by William H. Bishop.

His next location was the place where Joseph T. Evans now carries on his lumber business.

For a number of years Mr. Worrell's brother, William, was associated with him in the business. Later he withdrew, and Mr. Worrell continued it alone.

When J. S. Collins built at Main and the railroad Mr. Worrell occupied the corner store, but moved into the second store when Collins rebuilt after the fire.

Mr. Worrell left the business to H. D. Hullings and his son, John M., who will continue it at the present stand. The elder Hullings has been associated with Mr. Worrell twenty-eight years.

Mr. Worrell's wife, who was Mrs. Mame Bryan, passed away in 1921. They had no children.

He is survived by four brothers, Elwood C., of Moorestown; George and Walter, of Mount Holly, and William, of Lansdowne.

Mr. Worrell was a member of Covenant Lodge, F. and A. M., and Camp 23, P. O. S. of A.

Funeral services were held Saturday and interment was made in the Mount Holly Cemetery.

John E. Flynn, son of Mrs. Ellen C. Flynn, Mount Holly, has won a three-year scholarship in the University of Pennsylvania, one of two that have just been awarded, known as the Dean scholarships. Excellence of standing in scholarship in other colleges is the basis of determining the awards at U. P. Flynn's high rating during his four-year course at University of Notre Dame, from which he graduated last year, after a four-year course, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Economics and Science, brought the honor at U. P.

OUTING AT SHORE PLANNED BY A.O.M.P.

Artisans to Hold Annual Event at Wildwood August 17

Artisans in this vicinity are inviting their friends to accompany them on the ninth annual outing of the Artisans' Order of Mutual Protection to Wildwood. The affair will be held August 17.

The Artisans' outing is always one of the big days of the year at Wildwood. Five to six thousand persons are always attracted to the resort as a result of the outing, in addition to which several thousands more who spend the summer in the resort and nearby are always on hand.

The progrm includes a parade of the uniformed units of the fraternity immediately on the arrival of special trains on the Reading and Pennsylvania. Besides the uniformed units members of Ladies' Auxiliaries and other organizations who care to are invited to join and children in costume will also be admitted. No prizes will be given for the parade.

Early in the afternon a program of beach sports will be held and this will be followed by band concerts by the Artisan Band and the string bands of St. John's and Progressive Assemblies and the Pines' Band. A dance has been arranged also and this will be well patronized in the event of inclement weather.

Robert G. Hoag, a member of the Board of Directors of the Artisans, has been named chairman of the special Wildwood committee by John Lipsey, chairman of the Artisans' Extension Committee, under the auspices of which the outing will be held.

P. O. S. of A.

A letter received from the National Secretary of the P. O. S. of A. advises that the home and orphanage proposition will again be taken up by the National Camp at Columbus, Ohio, in September.

This question will be discussed each meeting night in the local Camp and, as it is a matter of great importance to the individual members, a large attendance is requested from now on.

The new chair officers assumed their stations on Monday evening and promise a real live term.

Brother Raymond Brodton will appreciate the return of the aviation tickets now outstanding. Several of the Brothers have not yet reported and prompt action is desired.

RED LEFT TURN BILL TO BE INTRODUCED

Left-hand turns on either green or red signal lights form the object of a bill to be offered at the next session of the Legislature. The author of the bill is Assemblyman William B. Knight, of Camden, majority leader of the Lower House. Local authorities, Mr. Knight said, will be given the right to designate whatever intersections shall fall under the left-hand turn ruling. Under the proposed legislation, left turns on the red would be permitted only at intersections where local authorities conspicuously place a notice to that effect.

FORK HITS MAN'S THROAT IN CRASH NEAR HOLLY

When an automobile sidespiwed another on South Pemberton road near Mount Holly Sunday night a passenger who was eating was cut internally when a fork was forced down his throat by the collision. Robert Avernathy, 35, Rahway, who was with a party of friends returning from a fishing trip to Fortescue, was eating potato salad when the crash came. His elbow struck the side of the car with such force that part of it was torn away. The fork gouged into his tonsils.

NEW LAW REQUIRES POTATO SHIPPERS TO LABEL PRODUCT

Potato growers' shipments came within the new law which requires that all fruits and vegetables in crates, covered baskets, carriers, sacks or other containers, be plainly marked with the name and address of the shipper. The act is chapter 67 of the laws of 1929 and is an amendment to the original measure which required this identification marking only on crates, covered baskets and carriers. Growers may use tags bearing the name and address, together with the quantity of the contents of the package, said State Superintendent of Weights and Measures Harry Foley on Saturday. He also said his department will enforce the new law.

Schedule for This Week

Saturday—Vincentown at Moorestown; Burlington vs. Palmyra, at Mount Holly; R. D. Wood at Brown's Mills; Medford at Delanco.

A seven-run rally in the eighth canto ruined Palmyra's hopes in its game with Vincentown last Saturday and gave the Vincents the contest by an 11-4 score.

As a result of Saturday's games a very unusual condition existed in the league, with each team having played two games and won one each, an eight-cornered tie for first place—or last.

Palmyra's four runs were scored in the fifth inning on hits by Harder, Keith, Krause, Wenger and McCarty.

Loebel started Vincentown's eighth with a pass; Smith struck out; Novak singled; B. Worrell hit a home run, clearing the bases; Reeves fanned; H. Worrell was same on an error; Nelson doubled; Werking cleaned the bases again with a homer. Chambers singled and scored the seventh run of the inning on Smith's hit.

BOTTGER'S SINGLE BEATS PHILCO 5-4

"Speed" Pulls Spectacular Slide Into First Base While Winning Run Scores

The Riverton baseb ball team, under the tutorship of Benny Edge, is fast developing into a scrappy, fast moving and hard hitting club.

Last Saturday afternon they nosed out the Philco clubbers by a single run, 5-4.

With one out and Eisley on third by virtue of a triple to center, the score tied at 4-all, "Speed" Bottger came through with a smashing liner down to first base, which Masloft gathered in. Eisley scored with the winning run. Masloft saw the only possible way to beat Bottger to the bag was to slide and Bottger thought the same about getting there before Masloft. They both slid at the same time—but Masloft was forced to leave the game, as he suffered torn ligaments in his ankle from the collision with Bottger. When the dust cleared away Umpire Hylton called Bottger safe. This daring slide play was one of the most spectacular ever seen on Riverton's diamond.

M'GUFFIN VICTOR BEATING FISCHER IN TENNIS FINALS

Germantown Cricket Club Luminary Stages Brilliant Rally to Win

THRILLING MATCH GOES TO FIVE SETS

New Champion Also Takes Doubles Crown With Young Murphy

In one of the most brilliant rallies ever witnessed on South Jersey courts Harold MacGuffin, Germantown Cricket Club net star, overcome a big handicap and battled his way through to the West Jersey Tennis League singles championship in the finals played at the Moorestown Field Club last Saturday afternoon.

The match was one of the most brilliant and hard fought battles ever witnessed in these parts and provided a real tennis treat for the large crowd of fans on hand for the big occasion.

The outcome proved to be another of those traditional upsets which make sports so interesting. Dr. Carl Fischer, popular Woodbury star and former intercollegiate champ who once rated nationally among the first ten, was MacGuffin's victim.

The defeat of the Woodbury ace and permanent possessor of the first West Jersey league championship trophy, was an astonishing surprise.

Five Gruelling Sets

The upset was accomplished after five gruelling sets, the scores being 3-6 2-6, 7-5, 6-4 and 6-.

Fischer appeared almost a certain winner as a result of his mastery of the court in the first two sets, but the Germantown recquet wielder plugged on and finally emerged triumphant to break the reign of the Woodbury ostepath.

This marks the first time that a Pennsylvanian has won this crown since the pre-war days when William Tilden gained two legs on the trophy which Dr. Fischer captured last year.

MacGuffin forced Fischer to play the game to his liking and in this manner slowly narrowed the advantage between the two, finally winning out with a display that had the gallery on edge throughout.

It was the greatest victory attained by MacGuffin, who has been coming along in the last two years. He also holds the Philadelphia and district clay-court championship.

The first two sets found both players cautious and relying on the other's errors to gain the advantage. Both played a easy game, refusing to take any chances. Fischer's ability to force his rival into many errors helped him considerably.

He broke through MacGuffin's service twice in the first set. This enabled him to take a lead which he held until he won the set, in the ninth game, when he again found the delivery of the Germantown player to his liking.

In the second set he broke through MacGuffin's service in the second, sixth and eighth games to win. MacGuffin managed to pierce Fischer's delivery in the fifth game. This set was also marred by the many errors on the part of both players.

Third is Close

The third set was hard fought, the score being three all and four all. MacGuffin took the lead at 5-4, only to have Fischer even it at 5 all. MacGuffin then took a hard-fought game on his own service to lead 6-5.

The twelfth game was a close battle. Both players drove hard and took many chances. MacGuffin had set point four times, finally winning out on a pair of errors on the part of Fischer.

The point score:

	FIRST SET
MacGuffin	1	2	4	0	4	3	4	2	2	—22—3
Fischer	4	4	1	4	0	5	1	4	4	—27—6
	SECOND SET
MacGuffin	3	3	1	5	6	2	1	4		—25—2
Fischer	5	5	4	3	4	4	6			—35—6
	THIRD SET
MacGuffin	1	4	1	4	3	2	4	4	2	6	9	—44—7
Fischer	4	2	4	2	2	5	4	0	1	4	4	7	—39—5
	FOURTH SET
MacGuffin	5	3	1	4	5	2	7	5	4	—41—6
Fischer	7	5	4	3	2	3	4	5	3	1	—37—4
	FIFTH SET
MacGuffin	2	4	5	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	—39—6
Fischer	4	1	7	1	2	6	1	6	1	2	—31—4

MacGuffin won his second title when he paired with Richard T. Murphy, of Utica, N. J., the national indoor junior champion, to win the doubles crown. They defeated Bert Hammell, of Swathmore College and Dick Myer of Ocean City, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Dr. Fischer's semi-final triumph Friday afternoon at the expense of young Murphy, a protege of "Big Bill" Tilden, Murphy tried valiantly to overcome the steady-stroking Woodbury vetran, but the latter bombarded the back court and switched his volley repeatedly to the discomfort of his younthful opponent. The scores were 6-2 and 8-2.

MacGuffin stroked his way to the finals by a meritorious triumph over over Harold Lane. Cynwyd net star. Lane put up a stirring struggle but fell a victim of the terrific drives of the Germantown sparkler in straight sets of 6-4 and 6-4.

MacGuffin won through the quarter finals by eliminating Dr. Herbert Fischer, Cynwyd, brother of the title holder, by 8-6 and 6-2.

Fischer Beats Hammell

Fischer came through the quarter-finals by setting aside Bert Hammel, Swarthmore College number 1 ranking man, in straight sets at 6-5 6-1. The Woodbury ostepath's southpaw stroking was too much for the Swarthmore collegiate, who was forced into fault by the remorseless attack of the vanquished champ.

Preston Roberts, Moorestown captain, was the last Field Club entry to be eliminiate. Roberts carried the host club's colors to the fourth round where he met the defending champion. Although defeated, Roberts was roundly congratulated for his brilliant stand against an opponent of Fischer's calibre.

The Moorestonian played a steady game and gave the Woodbury net man all sorts of trouble in the first set, which went to a 7-5 count. The second set was not so close, however, with Fischer emerging a 6-3 victor. Roberts continued his fine game never-the-less.

Parry Discontinues Winning Streak

Parry Juniors won their eleventh straight game when they defeated Camden Junior Moose last Saturday in an eight-inning contest by a score of 9 to 7 on the Parry grounds.

Phelan and Huggins formed the battery for Parry, while Robeson and Glenn did the hurling for the Moose, with Richter working behind the plate. E. Schroeder, with two hits, led the Parry sluggers, while Willis, with a single and two triples, was the batting star for the Moose. M. Zahn, peppery shortstop of the Camden aggregation, slammed out a home run during the proceedings.

A game will be played on the Parry grounds next Saturday, but just which team the opponents will be is not known at this time. Sunday the Juniors will travel to North Merchantville.

Some new faces will be seen in the Juniors' lineup this Saturday afternoon.

Annually in the spring the sports pages abound with the thrilling tales of Mr. Gridiron Hero doing wonderful deeds as he lays the foundation for grabbing further laurels as a big-league baseball player.

Then comes the summer. Where is Mr. Gridiron Hero? Invariably he is in some small minor league doing his utmost to keep in step with his playmates.

Heroes of the football field rarely attain the top in America's national game.

Among the most successful of the leather-toting athletes who tried their hand at baseball is Walter French, reserve outfielder and pinch batsman of the A's, who reaches the 30th milestone of his earthly career today.

Walter Edward French is one of the homebreds of the A's. He was born in Moorestown, N. J., and resided there until last year, when he moved to Chicago to enter the business field.

French is an athlete of many letters. As a youth attending Moorestown High School he was a star in three sports—football, baseball and basketball. In fact, the high school of the small New Jersey town regards him as its greatest all-round athlete.

When he was graduated from Moorestown he entered Rutgers University, concentrating his sports efforts on football. Later he received an appointment to West Point and for two years, he gained national prominence as a brilliant ball-toter as a members of the Army backfield.

As a professional gridder he added to his laurels as a distinguished performer with the Pottsville Maroons.

Walter's greatest claim to fame is his speed. By the same token this fleetness of foot has carried him further in baseball than any other gridder in recent years.

He joined the A's in 1923 and spent the next two seasons in the minors with the Williamsport and Shreveport clubs. French was recalled by Mack in 1925.

During last winter he asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list to devote his time to business. However, when springtime rolled around Walt couldn't stay out of the game.

He applied for reinstatement and signed again with the A's. His work has been confined to pinch hitting and coaching this year.

A. A. WINS FROM BURLINGTON, 3-1

Circuit Teams Tied With One Victory and One Defeat

By "Andy Zip"

The Moorestown A. A. baseball team gained in its winning field when Ernie Potts outpitched "Wench" Foster in a thrilling pitchers' battle at Burlington last Saturday afternoon. The final score was 3-1.

Moorestown collected its first marker in the third frame. Riley got safe on an error by Kelensten, and advanced to second while Potts was being retired at first, and scored a moment later when Jerry Bartello hit a timely single to right center. The other two runs were scored in the fifth after two were out, by successive singles by Bartello, Snyder, Regan and Heppard. Burlington scored its lone run in the sixth when Moffett doubled and scored on Cook's single.

Moorestown outhit Burlington eight hits to six, while Potts had nine strikeouts to Foster's six. Both pitchers showed exceptionally fine control, neither issuing a base on balls for the entire nine innings. The game on a whole was one of the best exhibitions that has been played this year.

At the present time the eight teams in the circuit are all in a tie, each having one victory and one defeat to its credit. Thus, the second half race has all of the marks of being an even closer and more exciting race than the first half, so, fans, don't miss an opportunity of seeing these games.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

By Nancy Hart

You who have tired of formal "overdrapes"—try the simpler method of curtaining with the new printed sunfast voiles. They are entrancing and more effective in simple rooms than overdressed windows.

Make the curtains full width, preferably bound with a simple one-inch binding of a constrasting color found in the pattern. Mount them on gooseneckrods attached to the outside of the window frame and at the etxreme top; allow the curtains to meet at the center and loop them back with tiebacks of the voile. You will love these delicate, airy curtains which nevertheless are long-wearing, provided they are sunfast.

COUNTY GIRLS TO ENJOY CAMPING

Swimming, Music, Handicraft, and Nature Lore Among Delightful Activities

Over one hundred Burlington County girls have sent in their registrations for the girls' camp at Ockanickon, which will be open from August 5 to September 2. The first two weeks, August 5 to 19 are almost filled, but there is still room for a number more the last two weeks, extending from August 19 to September 2, and girls wishing to attend should send their enrollment to the County office at once.

During the week August 26 to September 2, a special feature will be the program for business and industrial girls, which will be under the direction of Miss Eunice Lightowler, Business and Industrial Girls' Secretary of the Camden Y. W. C. A.

Girls who contemplate spending a week or two at the camp will find many delightful activities to choose from while there. Miss Fern Kissinger, National Y. W. C. A. Secretary for South Jersey, who will be the director, has had experience as director of camps in Idaho and Nebraska. It is the plan for this year that girls be given an opportunity to work in whatever interest groups they wish. Because of this many especially capable leaders have been secured.

Swimming is always one of the most popular activities at camp. Mrs. Roy Clement, of Woodbury, comes to Ockanickon for her third year as the director of swimming. Under her direction every girl should leave camp able to swim—and if she comes as a skilled swimmer she will have many opportunities to increase her skill. Miss Glenn Stackhouse, of Pitman; Miss Laura Syphert, of Camden, and Miss Margaret Mair, of Gloucester, will again assist in the swimming. Miss Syphert will give special attention to girls interested in becoming Red Cross Life Savers, and Miss Mair will have the group in diving. Mrs. Clement is a qualified examiner for giving life saving tests, and girls who wish to earn the honor may take their tests at camp.

Music at Ockanickon is one of those always remembered things, around camp fires, at morning worship, at evenin programs. Miss Irma Haney, supervisor of music in the Burlington City Schools, is to be music director this year. Assisting her are to be Mrs. Alma Risly, of Riverton, and Miss Mildred Collar, of Philadelphia.

The craft house will be full of variety work in silver, leather, linen and basketry, wood work, dyeing, modeling and painting. Miss Elizabeth Longanecker, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., the arts and crafts supervisor, will have as her assistant, Miss Marjorie Nicholson, of Camden.

Nature lore, with its many possibilities, will be directed by Miss Myrtle Thompson, of Portland, Maine, and Dramatics by Miss Mary Wells, of Pemberton.

In addition to these there will be story-telling, poetry, interpretive dancing, canoeing, boating, athletics and discussions, all under skilled leaders.

FRATERNITY DANCE

Sigma Lambda Nu Hop at Pitman Masonic Club This Friday

The fourth annual summer dance of the Alpha Rho Chapter of the Sigma Lambda Nu fraternity will be held this Friday, July 19, at the Pitman Masonic Club.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by one of the best orchestras of these parts, namely Roy Ross and his Club Haddon Men. Ross has a clever bunch of both musicians and entertainers, a combination which is often hard to obtain.

"DRAG" AT TRENTON

"Drag," the new First National Vitaphone feature, starring Richard Barthelmess, which comes to the Capitol Theatre, Trenton, for one week, starting Saturday, July 20, is the second Vitaphone feature with dialogue and sound in which Barthelmess has appeared.

Jobholders Off For Four Years With Pay

When easier "jobs" are originated, Frank Hague, boss of Jersey City, should be well qualified to provide them. Read this:

In rejecting five applications for extensions of leaves of absence to four Jersey City and one Hudson County employee, the Civil Service Commission discovered that in one instance the employee had been absent from duty with pay for nearly four years.

The case was that of Patrick J. Fitzgerald a county probation bureau officer, and it was found by the commission that during the time he was absent he had received several salary increases until his pay is now $3,200 a year.

He began in 1924 at $1,800. The commission refused a further extension of the absence which had been requested for ninety days from June 1.

ELDRIDGE JOHNSON GIVEN TAX REFUND

Prominent Moorestonian Over-Assessed $113,785.83 on Stock Sale Profit

Eldridge Reeves Johnson, former chine Company, of Camden, and well-president of the Victor Talking Ma-known philanthropist, Tuesday was allowed a tax refund amounting to $113,785.83 by the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department, it was announced by H. F. Mires, acting commissioner, at Washington, D. C.

The over-assessment was chiefly caused by excessive determination of the amounts of taxable profit derived from sale of capital stock, presumably of the Victor Company, during 1927.

Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue Mires in his signed statement gives $113,649.29 as the refund due to the combined redetermination of the profit from sale of the stock and computation of the tax assessable against the income resulting from the profits, under the capital gain provisions of the revenue act of 1926.

The balance of the refund, $136.54, results from the allowance of an additional deduction for depreciation since an examination of the prominent Moorestonian's records has revealed to the bureau experts that the deduction originally claimed in his return was adequate.

TWO DRIVERS HURT

Marlton and Medford Men in Hospital After Crash

Cars driven by Nathaniel Winchester, of Marlton, and John Farrell, of Medford, collided at Cox's Corner, near Medford, Wednesday night of last week, which resulted in both men being brought to Burlington County Hospital for treatment.

Winchester was injured the worse, he suffering from a slight concussion of the head and has face badly lacerated, requiring several stitches to close the wounds. Farrell was also cut about the face and head.

Both men were rendered unconscious and remained in that condition for some time after being admitted to the hospital. Both cars were badly damaged.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Edith M. Conrow, daughter of Mrs. Maude M Conrow, of 61 East Second street, Moorestown, to Walter J. Ayers, son of Mrs. Bessie Ayers, of Camden, was announced at a bridge luncheon which Miss Conrow gave at her home last Saturday afternoon. The bride-elect is a graduate of Moorestown High School and Mrs. Ayers was graduated from Camden High School. No date has been set for the wedding.

STATE WARNS OF BEETLE SPRAYING

Fruit Must Not Be Treated Within Three Weeks of Harest

Japanese beetles occur in such large numbers in some portions of New Jersey it is necessary to spray orchards as well as plants and shrubbery to protect them from injury, the New Jersey Department of Agriculture announced this week.

Although spraying will protect the orchards, fruit should not be sprayed within three to four weeks of harvest. All fruit which has been sprayed with lead arsenate will have a certain quantity of residue adhering to it. This arsenical residue should be removed by suitable methods when in excess of the arsenic tolerance permitted by the Federal Food, Drug and Insecticide Administration.

To control the Japanese beetles on apples, late varieties should be sprayed immediately with a mixture of three pounds of acid lead arsenate powder, two pounds of flour and fifty gallons of water. Usually one thorough application has been found sufficient for complete protection, but, if followed by heavy rains, a second application should be given three to four weeks later. The same spray is recommended for early varieties, but it will be necessary to wash them to remove the arsenical residue before they are marketed.

Six pounds of freshly slaked stone lime diluted to fifty gallons is a useful substitute for lead arsenate under conditions of light infestation. The advantages of this spray are that it is not toxic and that it is easily wiped off fruits before marketing. Its disadvantages are that it does not remain on the fruit long enough and that it is easily washed off by rains.

A dust composed of one part lead arsenate and nine parts of lime is recommended for early apples. The application should be made early in the morning when the trees are wet with dew. They should also be applied from opposite sides of the tree and care should be taken to cover the upper foliage and fruit of the trees thoroughly. To maintain a protective covering of the dust the application must be repeated weekly. Experience has shown that it is easier to remove the residue from dusted fruit than from sprayed fruit.

To protect grapes it is only necessary to spray the leaves, as the beetles do not feed on the beeries. The spray should be directed from the top down using a very fine mist and coating each leaf thoroughly. Care must be taken not to force the spray up from below, as this might leave too much spray deposit on the berries when harvested.

A circular, "Control of the Japanese Beetle," can be secured without cost by writing to the State Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J.

It will be a starter. Toward the door.

Mexico Pays Tribute to Carranza Memory

Dignitaries of Mexico last Friday made a pilgrimage to Chatsworth, 15 miles from Mount Holly to the South Jersey woods, to hold a solemn memorial service at the death-place of Capt. Emelio Carranza, their country's Lindbergh.

The Mexican consul general and a staff of consults and commissioners carried a huge wreath of roses, designed in the form of an airplane, to leave at the spot where their nation's foremost aviator crashed in a storm July 12, 1928.

While elaborate memorial services were being held at a monument erected to the flier's memory at the Mexican capital, the commemoration in the New Jersey woods was brief.

A movement has been started by Mexican officials and State Senator Clifford R. Powell to erect a monument on the spot. The South Jersey Aviation Club has pledged its support.

TERMS BRANCH PIKE SPEEDWAY

Cinnaminson Man Wants Scene of Many Crashes Patrolled By Troopers

A correspondent, who signs his article "L. H. P., Cinnaminson," advocates the patrol of Branch pike, which he charges has become a "regular speedway," by State Troopers. His article, as it appeared in another newspaper, follows:

"Having read the account of accident on Palymra-Moorestown road on Sunday, July 7, injuring six soldiers, and being one who arrived a few minutes after it happened, would like to say that there was no State Trooper around until after the injured were taken to the hospital.

"I was the person who called the Palmyra ambulance, after one of the men stopped another car for help, and my family stayed there at least ten minutes. Then we started for Moorestown, where we met the Trooper coming towards the wreck.

"It would be a good thing if a State Trooper was stationed to patrol Branch pike leading from Burlington pike to Moorestown, as there have been quite a few accidents along there.

"The road being straight, it is being used as a regular speedway."

COUNTY DEEDS INCREASE

Increase in the number of record books used at the County Clerk's Office during the past ten years is as follows: Number deed books July 1, 1919, 556; June 30, 1929, 735. Mortgage books, July 1, 1939, 142; June 30, 1929, 236.

MOORESTOWN PIKE WILL BE WIDENED

State, County and Townships Will Share Cost. P. S. To Remove Tracks

The road between Moorestown and the Camden County line beyond Maple Shade is to be improved by removing the trolley tracks and widening the roadway by paving the space now occupied by the tracks.

This action was definitely decided upon at the meeting of the Burlington County Board of Freeholders last Friday.

The cost will be $85,000 or more. The State will pay $50,000, the County $35,000, and if the cost exceeds these combined amounts the Townships of Moorestown and Chester will pay in proportion to the mileage in their municipalities, the sum to be paid by either Township not to exceed $7,500.

The Public Service will remove its tracks, poles and wires, but reserves the right to reconstruct its system it at any time in the future it desires to resume trolley service.

The material to be used for widening the road is bituminous macadam.

At Friday's meeting notice was served on the Board that T. R. Finley had brought suit against the County in the new District Court to recover $150 claimed to be due him for services rendered the detective's office. Finley was called in to assist the detective's office while Detectives Cain and Carabine were on their vacations.

County Solicitor Wells held that Finley should be paid, but that the County should recover the amount from the detective's office.

The Board referred the matter to the Solicitor for adjustment.

The request of the Public Service for permission to lay gas mains along the Lumberton road for a distance of 11,200 feet, was referred to the Road Department.

Walter W. Marrs, clerk of the City of Burlington, sent a communication to the Board stating that the city would grant the use of City Hall for sessions of the District Court on Tuesdays from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. without cost.

Department bills, were ordered paid as follows: Roads, $15,653.23; bridges, $3,705.67; finance, $254.44; public buildings, $13,048.40; public affairs, $6,838.34.

INTEREST RATE RAISED

The Bordentown Banking Company and the First National Bank, Bordentown, have announced the payment of 4 per cent. interest per annum on money invested in their savings department. Previously the interest rate has been 3 per cent.

FIFTEEN MINUTE RIDES TO COST FIVE DOLLARS

Many Well-Known Citizens Express Intention of Taking Sight-seeing Trip

Ford dealers are again demonstrating their progressiveness by sponsoring the tour of a giant Ford Tri-Motored Allmetal Monoplane which is being made to promote interest in aviation. The tour is nationwide and is being made under the auspices of Ford dealers all over the country. "Being the Ford dealers in this locality," said Mr. Schwartz, speaking for the Lester S. Fortnum Agency, "it is our privilege to sponsor the project here, thereby making it possible for the people in this community to see and ride in this modern Airliner."

"Practically every city and town in the country is active in the development of local aviation. From a community standpoint aviation has developed to the stage now where civic interest is merited because of its importance to the city or town. We believe the slogan, 'Boost your community for aviation and aviation will boost your town for you,' is a good one," said Mr. Schwartz.

At Central Airport

Due to the great amount of territory which the plane must cover on its tour it is obvious that it cannot be scheduled to operate in every town that would like to have it. While it is regretted, of course, that the plane will not be brought here, Mr. Schwartz, local manger for Lester S. Fortnum, has co-operated in having it brought to Central Airport, Camden, so people in this community can go over and see and fly in this safe Ford plane.

The Fortnum Agency has even arranged to provide free transportation over to the flying field to any one who wants to fly. Unless the schedule is postponed because of bad weather the plane will arrive on Wednesday, July 31. If bad weather should interfere the flights will be postponed until good weather again prevails.

Flight tickets are now on sale at Ford dealers at $5.00 each. Each flight will be of full fifteen minutes' duration, according to Mr. Schwartz, which allows enough time for a person making his first flight to have a really enjoyable trip.

Prefer Air Travel

It has been said that many people who took this ride for the first time expressed themselves as much preferring air travel to any other means of transportation. The plane has a seating capacity of fourteen passengers and is fitted with comfortable wicker chairs. It is attractively upholstered in green leather. No special clothing is necessary to ride comfortably in this plane as it is entirely enclosed. No unpleasant sensation is to be anticipated by the passengers, as the pilot, who is an expert and was trained at the Ford Airport in Detroit, makes it a point to demonstrate to the passengers on each flight just how smooth, comfortable and fascinating air travel can be.

Local people were enthusiastic in their praise of the Fortnum Agency for making it possible for the people here to fly in this Ford plane and many have already expressed their intentions of taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity.

Chief to Take Trip

Mr. Schwartz said today that several have already made arrangements to make a flight. Among these air-minded citizens is Chief of Police C. Morris Beck, who said he felt that everyone should know what it is to fly. He has never been up in a Ford plane, he said, and he is naturally looking forward with great pleasure to making this trip. David L. Schwartz, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said he was interested in the promotion of local aviation and was glad of the opportunity to fly in this plane, as he wants to keep abreast with modern developments. Many other prominent local citizens have expressed their intention of making a flight while the plane is here.

MAN FALLS TO DEATH OFF PALMYRA BRIDGE

Worker Hurtled 50 Feet in River as Board Breaks

A thin board, which snapped under his weight, plunged Samuel Morrison, of Philadelphia, to his death from the uncompleted Tacony-Palmyra Bridge last Friday.

The body was recovered the following morning a short distance from the bridge after continuous search.

Morrison was employed by the Woodfield-Thompson Company, electricians, of Philadelphia, installing wires for bridge lighting.

The man was walking along the uncompleted sidewalk on the main arch span when he came to a spot which had not been finished, and a gap of about 10 feet had been left in the walk. Morrison placed a thin half-inch board over the break and tried to walk across it. He was in the middle when the board snapped, hurtling him 50 feet into the river.

Engineer Smith Will Inspect Co. Roads from Air

Burlington County roads hereafter will be inspected from the air.

H. B. Smith, County Engineer and now a full fledged pilot, has announced that an airplane will replace the automobile for inspection work in his district. Air inspection is better than ground inspection, according to Smith.

Smith last week made his first solo flight at the Moorestown airport of Burlington County Aero Club, of which he is secretary.

Smith has been taking flying instructions for eight months. The flight Tuesday night was the first trip the County Engineer has made alone. After remaining in the air 20 minutes, the plane was brought to the ground in a perfect landing before a large crowd assembled at the field.

Smith expects to secure his pilot's license after ten hours solo time has been completed. A plane will be purchased and used in construction inspection tours over the some routes now covered by automobile.

WORKING HARD FOR BUGLE CORPS

Members Making Great Effort to Win State Championship

A grave problem confronts the boys of Post Rodgers' Bugle and Drum Corps of Palmyra and Riverton, who back in 1927 brought home with them the honor of being the State Champions at the State Convention of that year. Although beaten for the same honor last year by a technicality after winning by a big margin through the merit system, they never gave up hope and were determined that this year the cup and championship will again rest in Palmyra and Riverton.

The boys have been working very hard for the past several months learning new music, and have built up a splendid group of over 40 men, given freely of their time and money, to make this Corps the best in the State, and now the question arises—can they really go to the State Convention and competition held this year at Elizabeth, September 5, 6 and 7, and bring back to the local towns the highest honor of the Convention the State Championship?

For it takes money to fully uniform, equip and transport 40 men and the boys find they alone cannot meet the financial burden involved.

To date the Bugle and Drum Corps represents an outlay of about $2,500.00 for uniforms and equipment, over $2,000.00 of which has been raised and paid by the members themselves through personal contributions and contracts played. Quite an undertaking by a group of men banded together solely by the comradeship born of the late war, and so unselfishly striving to perpetuate that comradeship through honors won on the field of peacetime competition for the glory and to the honor of the local Post and community.

At the business meeting following the usual practice hour last Monday, various ways and ideas were discussed as to how the necessary expenses could be met in order to properly uniform and equip four or five new men, to replace several instruments and parts of uniforms worn out in the past two years in the service, and to renovate and clean all equipment and uniforms used at the Convention. Everything must be spic and span under the critical eyes of the inspectors on the field of competition.

No decision was arrived at at the meeting, but an opinion was expressed that the Town Fathers of both towns, also the local business men's organizations be approached to get their advice and assistance.

On Wednesday afternoon, August 14, the Corps takes an active and prominent part in the ceremonies incidental to the dedication and opening of the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge. Full details of the ceremonies have not been completed, but it is thought that the Corps will act as escort to the Governor of the State, the Mayor of Palmyra, and the various officials in the parade to the center of the bridge, where they are to meet the delegation from Pennsylvania and perform the ceremony of formally dedicating the span.

MOORESTOWN PIKE BEING MODERNIZED

Trolley Tracks Covered on West Side of Creek By Camden County Employees

Camden County employees are smoothing the sides of Moorestown pike between Haddonfield road and Pennsauken creek. Weeds are being removed and a straight line cut to widen the road.

The County filled in the spaces where trolley roadbeds on both sides formed traps that often upset automobiles. While the roadwy off the paved portion is not attractive for driving, it makes turning out, or running off the asphalt safe, and also offers parking space.

Permanent improvement of the pike on the Camden County side of the creek will probably be in the County's program for next year.

REFUSE PLEA FOR OPEN DOORS ON BURLINGTON LINE

Worth Motor Bus Corporation Unsuccessful in Hearing Before Commission

P. S. AND P. R. R. CLAIM SERVICE IS ADEQUATE

Citizens Much in Favor of Local Stops by Interstate Carriers

The application of the Consolidated Bus Company for permission to open its doors to intro-state traffic between Camden and Burlington was denied by the Public Utilities Commission last Friday.

The Worth Motor Bus Corporation a subsidiary of the petitioner, had previously asked for and received permission to operate local buses through all of the Riverfront towns in event favorable action could be secured from the Utilities Commission.

The people along the Riverfront were almost unanimously in favor of the granting of the permit as they feel the present service given by Public Service trolleys and the Pennsylvania Railroad is inadequate.

Mayor George N. Wimer, of Palmyra and several Borough and Township officials of the municipalities served by these lines, were on hand at the hearing which was held in Trenton last Friday and testified to the need of additional service.

Interstate Only

If consent had been granted by the State Board, the carriers would have been able to pick up a passenger anywhere between or within Burlington and Camden and discharge him at any other point within or between those two cities. At present the Worth Company operates 22 buses between Philadelphia and Burlington strictly interstate, being allowed only to take on passengers in one state and discharge them in the other.

Second Blow in Eight Days

The decision was the second blow in eight days to the O. G. Schultz Management, operator of all Consolidated lines and subsidiaries. The previous Friday the Utility Board refused permission to operate 50 intra-state buses on the Mount Holly, Camden and Philadelphia route. Consent had been asked by the Tri-State Passenger Lines, a Schultz-controlled firm, which at present runs 13 interstate buses on the Mount Holly-Philadelphia route.

The Riverside-Frankford bus line is now taking local pasengers between Riverside and the Tacony-Palmyra ferry, consent having been obtained several weeks ago.

Refuses Petition

The text of the Utility Board's decision in refusing the Worth petition follows:

"The petitioner is now operating 22 auto buses over the route, conducting an interstate business between Philadelphia and points in New Jersey. It is the purpose of the company to accept pasengers along the route for interstate journeys.

"The proofs indicate that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company operates approximately 17 trains a day in each direction; that the Public Service Coordinated Transport maintains approximately a 30-minute headway on its trolley cars; that it also operates a line of auto buses between Camden and Delair by way of River road. The evidence fails to satisfy the Board that public convenience and necessity require any additional transportation facilities between and including Burlington and Camden."

BUSINESS IS DULL AT COUNTY COURT HOUSE

No Criminal Action Now Being Taken, Due to the Absence of Prosecutor Hillman

With criminal business pased up temporarily, due to Prosecutor Hillman being on an extended vacation, there was very little to claim the attention of Judge Rigg at the regular session of County Court at Mount Holly Thursday of last week.

Surrogate Matlack presented several accounts for final disposition, while as many more went over to July 31, which practically will be the last day of Court for the summer, as Judge Rigg and most of the Court officials will take the month of August, or part of it, for vacation purposes.

Clerk Oliver E. Evans, of the Burlington County District Court, presided at a short session of the new Court in the absence of Judge Frank A. Mathews, and five cases which were on the docket went over until the next session of this Court, July 25.

NEW COP

William Stack has been appointed a member of the Palmyra police force in anticipation of the additional work which will be made necessary by the opening of the Tacony-Palmyra bridge.

A serious problem presents itself in the handling of the traffic, which is expected to flow over the new span. More additional officers are expected to be needed, but none are to be appointed until it can be ascertained just what will be required.

Several special officers will be on duty on opening day to take care of the large crowds which are expected.

STATE MEETING OF Y. P. B. HELD AT DELANCO

Week of Interesting Sessions Enjoyed in Osborne House, Fletcher Grove

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LATE PRESIDENT

Notable W. C. T. U. Workers Are Guests of Honor; Princeton Girl Elected President

The seventh annual encampment of the Young People's Branch Federation of the WCTU, of New Jersey, was held at Fletcher Grove Camp Meeting Grounds, Delanco, July 9th to 12th.

All sessions were in the Methodist Episcopal Church. The location is delightful, hard by the shore of the beautiful Delaware. The purpose of the Young People's Branch, as given, is to unite the young people of the community, County and State for the observance and enforcement of all laws, especially prohibition laws, to keep alive the civic conscienticuisness concerning the value of total abstinence, to educate young men and women as to the evil effects of narcotics on the human system, to study the meaning of purity and to live it, that we may emphasize the essentials of Christian citizenship and thus perpetuate the heritage passed to us from the Mother Organization.

Miss Frantz Presides

This purpose was well sustained throughout the encampment by the younger people and the older, for Mrs. Frantz, the well-known and gifted president of New Jersey, from Moorestown, Burlington County, was omnipresent and active all the time. And her daughter, Miss Eleanor Frantz, has taken the mantle of her mother. She has been for some time the elect vice-president of the organization, was re-elected, and because of the tragic death of the president she presided at this encampment, and with grace and dignity.

Mrs. Ella P. Christner, the efficient and longtime State corresponding secretary, was in like manner present and helpfully active every day, while her son was in attendance, following in the footsteps of his mother's usefulness. He bears the name Paul.

COLLEGE'S FARM STORIES WIN FIRST FOR JERSEY

Agricultural news stories submitted to the press of the State by the New Jersey Agricultural College and Experiment Station during the past year won first place among the releases displayed in the exhibit held in conjunction with the annual conference of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors at Durham, N. H., July 9-12. In making their award the judges based their decision on the importance of the stories, the manner in which they were written, and their number. Ohio State University won second place, and Cornell University third. Twelve outstanding institutions were in the contest.

Youths Go to Jail for Theft of Auto

Three Pennsylvania youths are in the Burlington County jail at Mount Holly following the theft of an automobile in Lenola early Sunday morning. They stole a car owned by Joseph J. Errickson, son of Officer Charles Errickson, from in front of a Wilson avenue home about one o'clock Sunday morning. The theft was quickly discovered and within a few minutes Officer Bruce MacDonald, who was called, had the trio under arrest at Colwick.

The policeman took up the chase as soon as he was notified and overtook the stolen car as it entered Colwick.

The youths, who gave their names as George Daugherty, Drexel Hill, Pa.; Valentine Addey, Yeadon, Delaware County, Pa., and "Eddie" O'Hara, 6805 Regent street, Philadelphia, were given a hearing before Recorder Joseph W. Johnston at Town Hall. They were committed to the County Jail in default of $200 bail to await grand jury action.

BOROUGH REACHES AGREEMENT WITH BRIDGE COMPANY

Palmyra Council Holds Special Meeting Monday Night to Consider Problems

RAILROAD CROSSING TO BE WIDENED

Forty-two Inch Sewer to be Constructed Without Cost to Municipality

Plans for the opening of the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge, as they affect the Borough of Palmyra, were discussed at a meeting of the Borough Council Monday night, at which time representatives of the Bridge Company were present.

The meeting was called at the request of the Bridge officials to consider certain points which have been in dispute. Chief among these was the arrangements for carrying off the water from the territory from which the natural drainage had been stopped by the approach filling.

The Bridge Company had previously agreed to lay a 42-inch sewer to take care of the drainage. At the meeting Monday E. W. C. Borer, speaking for the company, stated it wished to lay an 18-inch drain instead and would also improve Temple Boulevard to Cinnaminson avenue.

Would Not Approve

The Borough Engineers would not approve this plan, saying the 18-inch sewer would not be of sufficient size to carry away the water. When pressed for a reason for insisting on the smaller drain the representatives of the Bridge Company said their only reason was to prevent any delay in the finishing of the approaches.

The Borough Engineers assured them that the installation of a 42-inch sewer would not interfere with the Bridge approach, as it was to be laid under the sidewalk and not under the street. Being assured of this the Bridge engineers gave their consent to the starting of the work.

An ordinance had previously been prepared in which the Borough was to proceed with the work in event an amicable agreement could not be reached. In this event the cost of same would have been assessed against the Bridge Company.

In accordance with the agreement reached at the meeting the entire work of laying the sewer will be done by the Bridge Company and entirely at its expense.

To Improve Arch Street

Mr. Borer also asked for permission to improve Arch street with a gravel and oil surface and to have this street made into a one-way street, if needed. Consent was granted for this improvement, which is also to be done without cost to the Borough.

Another request was made for the moving of the present Hylton road crossing over the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Council at first demurred, stating that it was opposed to the use of this crossing on account of its dangerous location.

When informed the crossing was to be used anyway, Council consented, stating that it did not assume any responsibility for the use of this crossing and insisted on an agreement from the Bridge Company that it would guarantee a watchman to be on duty at all times.

The question of policing the new span was discussed and Mr. Borer stated the company would provide eighteen men, to work in shifts of six at a time. A request that these men be sworn in by the Borough was referred to the Police Committee for action. It was stated at the time that every effort was being made to employ men now working for the Ferry Company, who will be out of a job when the new span is opened.

ANOTHER COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW

Harold T. Parker, of Mount Holly, was among nine South Jersey attorneys who passed the examination for counsellor-at-law. Counsellor Parker studied law in the County Seat offices of Palmer & Powell, and is still associated with them in the practice of his profession.

$5,000,000 PALMYRA SPAN MARKS THE CULMINATION OF MANY YEARS OF HARD WORK BY PRESIDENT-SPONSOR

Charles A. Wright, Riverton, Realizing Dream After Much Effort

OUTLINES ADVANTAGES, SAVING TO MOTORISTS

Expects First Years Travel to Exceed Estimate of 1,100,000 Vehicles

Wednesday, August 14, will mark the realization of the dream of one of Burlington County's most progressive citizens.

It has taken many years of hard work, the surmounting of almost every kind of obstacle in the face of all kinds of opposition for Charles A. Wright, widely known Rivertom man to realize his dreams.

Mr. Wright is president and sponsor of the new five-million-dollar bridge over the Delaware between Palmyra and Tacony that opens on August 14.

He was also the sponsor of the Tacony-Palmyra Ferry, the forerunner to the great span, that is to go out of business when the bridge is open to the public.

In speaking of this great new span of which he is the projector, Mr. Wright, in an interview early this week said, "I have always maintained that nature decreed there should be a bridge at this point. It spans the Delaware at its most narrow point for many miles in either direction, and it is not only a source of great satisfaction to see the marvelous project completed, but I also derive a great deal of pleasure in knowing that we are fortunate here in this section to be situated so that we may offer the people of this part of the country such a great convenience.

Similar to Fort Lee

"And there is another splendid point in its favor. The Tacony, Palmyra bridge, I believe, will occupy the same position that the Fort Lee bridge will in New York. It will enable the motorist to go around the congested sections rather than through them.

"Our bridge will prove a most advantageous route for the North Philadelphia motorist. When traveling to the shore, residents of that section will be five miles closer to the coast when they enter our bridge approach than they would be were they to go on the Race street bridge. This is due to the fact that the Delaware follows north-easterly to south-westerly course between these points."

Mr. Wright is also very enthusiastic over the prospects of easy and quick travel between the bridge and the White Horse pike. "Although State Highway Route S-41, from the bridge to the pike, will not be completed for several months after the opening of the span, it will be one of the biggest assets of this section," he declared.

"This great project, to cost the State two and one-half millions, will give us a sixty-foot concrete highway from the bridge approach to the pike. From the approach it will cross the River road in Palmyra just about at the location of the present railroad grade crossing, going either under or over the railroad. It will then cross the creek twice, necessitating two bridges, and go over Burlington pike with a bridge just about half way between the bridge and the top of Sorrel Horse hill. It will have vamps leading to the new highway on either side of the bridge at Burlington pike, to allow easy access to traffic from Burlington pike, Haddonfield road, Branch pike or Church street.

East of Maple Shade

"S-41 will then follow south in almost a straight line, going just east of Maple Shade. You will note that the road is now under construction and some concrete has been laid on the spur where it will cross the present Moorestown-Berlin road, about two miles below Marlton, to the outskirts of Maple Shade.

"Another interesting feature of the new highway is that it will not enter the White Horse pike at Berlin. Instead, it will go down the pike still farther, thus effecting another saving of time for the motorist, and come in on the pike at Atco.

"At present, the principal road leading to the bridge will be Market street, Palmyra. Work has already started on this and the State Highway Department has promised to have the macadam paving, from curb to curb, finished by August 11. This temporary route will cross the railroad just below West Palmyra station and will follow Hilton rod. Just before reaching the creek, it will beat to the left and go over to Cinnaminson avenue, reaching the present main road out of Palmyra north of Burlington pike. The entire length of this temporary highway is to be completed before the bridge opening."

Although everything will be in readiness for the quick opening and closing of the bridge, Mr. Wright does not anticipate much trouble on that score. "Our bridge," he said, "has a clearance of sixty-five feet above the water, while the railroad bridge at Delair only has a fifty-foot clearance. At the present time there is only one boat on the river that will

Suffering from the effects of too many clothes, Mrs. Ruth Greenburg, of New York City, was taken to a hospital. She is said to have been wearing four suits of winter underwear, three dresses and a dozen pairs of heavy stockings.

Will Illuminate Crescent Circle

The circle, where Crescent Boulevard offers a "mystic maze" in daylight and a proven menace to traffic on dark night, will be safer for night drivers in a few days.

Public Service, engaged by Pennsauken Township, is erecting a number of ornamental standards that will hold lamps to illuminate the circle.

The bill will be paid by the township, as well as bills for electricity. Future taxes along the boulevard, however, are expected to remunerate Pennsauken.

STATE POLICE MAKE RAID

Three and a Half Gallons of Rum Confiscated in Late Evening Raid

Sunday evening about eleven o'clock the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Floras, on the Branch pike, was raided by the State Police and approximately 3½ gallons of liquor were confiscated.

The Floras were held for a hearing before Supreme Court Commissioner William Slaughter on Monday afternoon. They were charged with operating a disorderly house and selling liquor.

Theodore Atkinson and Rocx Mondelle, both of Mount Holly, were arrested by the Troopers as inmates of a disorderly house where liquor was sold. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Cecil Bowers, who fined Atkinson $5 and costs and Mondelle was fined $20 and costs.

Corporal Horn, accompanied by Tropers Swenson and Small, of the Bridgeboro Barracks, conducted the raid.

GENERAL HOSPITAL OPENS AT RIVERSIDE

Arndt Homestead Renovated and Equipped With Modern Appliances

Residents of Riverside and surrounding towns are reading with satisfaction the announcement now being mailed, calling attention to the opening on July 22 of the new Riverside General Hospital, located at the corner of Fairview and Washington streets, Riverside.

As previously announced, the old Arndt Homstead has been thoroughly overhauled and reconditioned, both inside and out, and visitors will be agreeably surprised after an inspection of this new institution, to see the thoroughness with which all the details have been worked out. This, however, was to be expected, as the planning and arrangements have been in the capable hands of Mrs. T. A. MacFarland, graduate nurse of the Philadelphia General Hospital, who is well remembered as having been in charge of the Weeks' Hospital up to its closing some months ago.

The operating room is complete in detail as to equipment and sanitation. The private rooms are a departure from the old accepted standards in that they do not possess the old "hospital" atmosphere. The modern furniture equipment of walnut-finished beds, bureaus, chairs, etc., gives a "homey" appearance that is most pleasing. This is also true of the wards.

Electricity plays a dominant part in the modern world, and it is particularly noticeable in this instance, everything being electrified where possible, from the refrigeration to the sterilizing of instruments and the boiling of water. The medical profession will appreciate these features as it is an old saying that "No workman is better than his tools," and in surgical cases they must be of the best.

Mrs. MacFarland is to be congratulated for her enterprize in this matter, representing as she does, the energy and untiring devotion to the sick and the maimed, true to her profession, as handed down by the Mother of Nurses, the illustrious Florence M. Nightingale.

Thomas Sotham has been appointed park guard and special officer for duty at Memorial Park during the summer.

DON'T FORGET

This Friday evening (tomorrow) is the time set for Russell (Lena) Blackburne and several of his Chicago White Sox to visit Riverton.

The big leaguers will witness the game between Riverton and the Palmyra team on the Riverton grounds.

Come out and meet these stars of the diamond.

Memorial Park grounds.

Let's have a crowd there to greet "Lena" and his buddies!

BIG PROGRAM DUE AT WALT WHITMAN

Spectacular Vaudeville Bill Will be Combined With Photo-Talkie Production

WALT WHITMAN—H T K

For the last half of the week, starting Thursday, the Walt Whitman Theatre has arranged another justly famous double feature vaudeville programme, augmented by a screen feature of unusual attractiveness and importance, that gives promise to provide one of the best entertainments presented anywhere this season, and establish another quality mark that is so characteristic of this popular playhouse.

Heading the vaudeville bill is an offering direct from Broadway, that is unique in its entirety and thoroughly entertaining. "The Ronnoco Family," a spectacular scenic production, featuring music, dancing, comedy and acrobatics. "Manuel and Company" present their magic of the modern school in their act entitled "Dexterity." They will make gold-fish appear in the air out of nowhere. "The Lillian Steele Trio," in its act entitled "Love Lessons," is a big-time act of the Lowe Circuit, direct from the Palace Theatre, New York City.

One of vaudeville's most famous comedy classics is provided by "Markey and Montgomery" (who, when they are not trodding the footboards, make their home in Camden), in their comedy skit, "Just Rough House." "The Dancing Rocketts" in "Flights of Steps" make their first appearance in this section of the country to round out this wonderful week-end vaudeville bill.

Milton Sills has become an explorer—for the films. In his latest starring vehicle, First National's "Love and the Devil," the feature photoplay for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sills portrays an English Lord, who seeks adventure in darkest Africa, and then finds romance along the canals of Venice. It is an entirely different type of role that this popular star essays in this picture and in it he is said to have created an unusual caracterization. Maria Corda, beautiful European elress, plays opposite Sills, portraying an Italian prima donna. Ben Bard, former vaudeville favorite, has an important role as an operatic tenor.

The Fox-Movietone News, and the musical selections by Robert W. Taylor's Walt Whitman Theatre Orchestra complete this bang-up programme.

Revealing a heart-moving story tense with human interest and portrayed by a cast of stellar excellence, "The Valiant," Fox-Movietone all-dialogue production, from the capable hands of William K. Howard, director, will be the photoplay attraction on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Paul Muni and Marguerite Churchill, co-featured in the leading roles, the former as a confessed murderer sentenced to electrocution, and the latter as a girl who seeks to discover whether the convict is her long-missing brother, give characterizations that reflect their varied stage experience. In the notable cast of stage and screen players who depict the powerful drama with surety and finesse in voice and action are included John Mack Brown, DeWitt Jennings, Richard Carlyle, Henry Roiker, Edith Yorke, Cliff Dempsey, Don Terry and George Pearce.

A carefully selected surrounding programme of all-talking subjects has been chosen for this occasion, which will give a perfectly balanced evening's entertainment.

AIRPLANE WILL 'BUST' BALLOON

Thrilling Stunt Scheduled at Moorestown Airport for Sunday Afternoon

"Balloon busting" will be the attraction at the Burlington County Aero Club's Moorestown airport, Hartford-Westfield road, this Sunday afternoon.

According to the program, a gas balloon will be sent up in the air and D. W. Alexander, the new club pilot and instructor, will go up in one of the Waco planes and attempt to break the balloon with the propellor of the plane. This thrilling event is scheduled for five and seven o'clock Sunday.

Pilot Alexander succeeded Lieut. E. G. Pennock, who resigned to accept another aeronautical position. The popular "Eddie's successor is a former test pilot for the Kreider-Reisner Aircraft Corporation, Hagerstown, Md., and has a record of 1,900 hours in the air. He is considered one of the best flying instructors in the East.

Another interesting stunt scheduled for this Sunday afternoon is formation flying. Three planes, piloted by Alexander, George Jones, a member of the club, and M. K. Erdman, new co-pilot, will go through regular army air formations.

Club officials promise they will arrange an exciting event for every Sunday afternoon the remainder of the season.

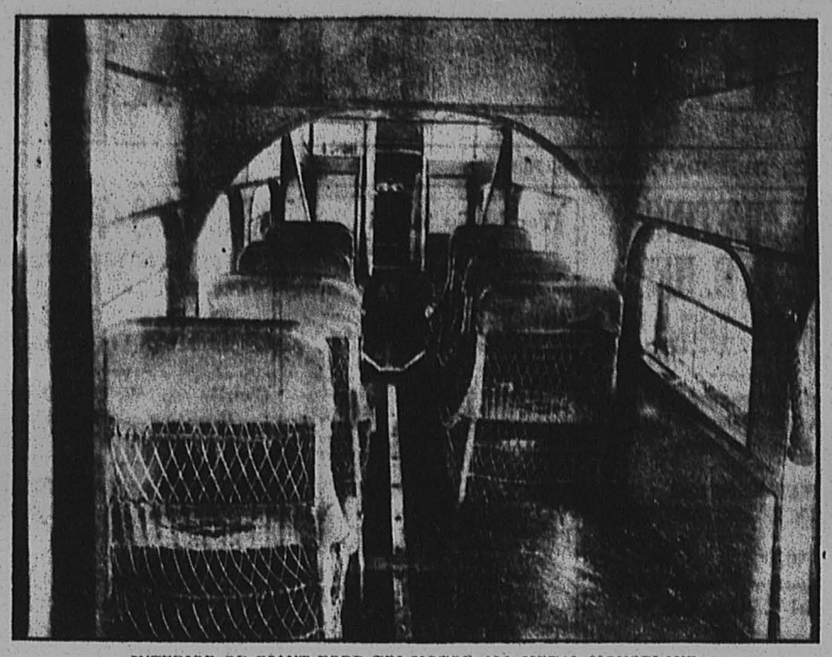

J. L. THOMAS TO AID STATE TAX SURVEY

Governor Larson named the Tax Survey Commission which will conduct an investigation of the State's system of taxation.

Included in the membership of the commission is Joseph L. Thomas, a well-known attorney of Cinnaminson Township, who has long been connected with Burlington County Tax Boards.

Others named by the Governor are J. H. Thayer Martin, lawyer, of Woodbridge; Maximilian M. Stallman, attorney, of East Orange; George Cross, Mayor of Bernardsville, and Secretary of State Joseph F. S. Fitzpatrick.

Spacious Cabin of Big Air Liner

INTERIOR OF GIANT FORD TRI-MOTOR ALL-METAL MONOPLANE

A plane of this type will make passenger flights from Central Airport, Camden, next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the Ford Dealers of Burlington and Camden Counties. The Lester S. Fortnum agency is taking an active part in sponsoring the visit of the great Ford machine and have already sold several tickets to air-minded people of the community. This is the first time an airplane of this type has carried passengers from any nearby field.

BABY 'KIDNAPPED' TO TEACH LESSON

Grandparents Take 14-Months-Old Child to Frighten Girl Mother

Lenola's kidnapping scare Monday turned out to be "a lesson for the mother."

The child, reported to have been kidnapped, was May Elbertson, 14 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elbertson, 315 South Lenola road, Lenola.

The child disappeared from the front porch of its home about 3.15 Monday afternon. It was returned home by its much relieved parents about 9.30 Monday evening.

The "kidnappers" turned out to be Mr. and Mrs. Julius Tartar, 1125 North Twentieth street, Camden, grandparents of the child. Mrs. Tartar explained that she had frequently warned her daughter that it was not safe to leave the child alone on the porch. When she and her husband arrived in their car Monday afternoon and found the baby on the porch but no mother, she decided it was just about the time to "teach her a lesson," and thus caused the kidnapping scare which had the entire neighborhood in a state of excitement.

Reports Baby Lost

The mstery began when Mrs. Elbertson, who is fifteen years old, ran to Officer Bruce MacDonald, stationed at Lenola, and screamed, "My baby is lost; I don't know where to find her!"

The frantic young mother, who is little more than a child herself, then explained to Officer MacDonald how she had left her baby on the porch while she went to the store. Upon returning, she could find no trace of her little daughter. The neighbors further frightened her when they reported they had seen a Dodge sedan stop in front of her house for a while.

The policeman promptly sent out fliers to Camden police and all State Troopers in South Jersey and the Camden Bridge authorities were notified. The search was unsuccessful for several hours. Finally the mother, who had become nearly hysterical, had Officer MacDonald take her to Town Hall, where she demanded that Recorder Joseph W. Johnston issue a warrant for the "kidnappers' arrest."

Couldn't Issue Warrant

The police judge explained that it would be impossible to issue a warrant for the arrest of a person whose identity she could not give, and finally the Recorder and policeman quieted her so that she could talk more coherently.

Further questioning revealed that the child's grandparents owned a Dodge car and the fifteen-year-old mother finally admitted Mrs. Tartar had warned her against leaving the baby alone. Following this clue Officer MacDonald made a hurried trip to the Camden address and there he found the "kidnapped baby" quite content on its "grandpa's" knee.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbertson then went to the home of the young wife's parents and a happy family reunion followed. A tear glistened in the young mothers e'ye as she talked with reporters at Camden. "I'm happy now, but I was terribly frightened," she reported.

The baby's father, who is 24 years old, is employed as a mechanic at Moorestown Motor Company.

3 HURT IN CRASH

Truck Collides With Sedan on Bridgeboro Road

Three persons were injured Friday evening when a truck collided with a sedan at the intersection of the Tom Brown and Bridgeboro roads, near the Moorestown Airport.

Nelson Douglass, 12 White Horse pike, Audubon, who was driving the sedan, suffered a fractured left leg. His wife received a broken arm. Their 5-year-old son, Eugene, suffered bruises and cuts of the body. Their injuries were dressed by Dr. Russell D. Geary, Riverside.

State police arrested Franklin Sword, 60 Melrose avenue, Lansdowne, Pa., as the driver of the truck and he was held in $5,000 bail by Justice of the Peace Harry J. McCloskey, Beverly. The truck is owned by J. J. Whitney, 3 Arch street, Philadelphia. Both drivers said their vision was obscured by cornfields.

REAGAN SPEAKS AT YMCA CAMP

Moorestown Friends' School Head in Inspiring Talk; 335 Boys Enrolled

Chester L. Reagan, supervising principal of the Moorestown Friends' School, was the speaker at the morning chapel service at Camp Ockanickon Sunday morning. Mr. Reagan asked three pertinent questions of the boys, "Who are you? Where are you going? and Why?" He then proceeded to give what he thought should be answers to these questions. In summing up his thoughts he said that one should follow Jesus Christ in his everyday life so as to bring about His kingdom on earth.

Another part of the service of special interest was the orchestral selection by the orchestra from the Florence School. These boys, headed by Harold E. Moore, of Burlington, a former Camp Doctor, came to Ockanickon in a bus Sunday morning, furnished music for the chapel service, and spent the day in this delightful camp.

The enrollment at the camp for the past week and for this week has surpassed any previous enrollment, there having been a camp family of over 335. Even though the capacity of the camp was stretched almost to the limit, everyone has been adequately taken care of in the dining hall at one time, and their equipment has been found sufficient.

A very popular part of the camp program has been the building of model boats. Each week about twenty boys work in the craft shop making these boats, under the direction of Alan Duff, of Collingswood, and William Gitler, of Audubon. Besides making the boats, many more boys are making other articles of wood under the direction of Secretary Baily, of Gloucester County. The work shop is a tremendously busy spot every day, rain or shine.

For failure to vote in a recent election, Prince Charles, a son of King Albert, of Belgium, was fined $4.00.

FAVORS COMMON STORAGE FOR PART OF APPLE CROP

Although not all of the apple crop can profitably be kept in cold storage, much of that which is sold in fall and early winter may well be kept in common storage. In expressing this opinion the agricultural engineer for the State experiment station at New Brunswick, explains that the use of common storage saves the cost of refrigeration and, in many cases, affords a more marketable product.

A desirable type of common storage should be large enough to hold about half the annual crop, and it should be easily accessible so that the grower can market apples periodically if he desires.

"Insulating must be done correctly in order to obtain the desired results, but the work is not as expensive as many believe. Additional information of this subject, and on storage in general, may be had free by writing to the County Agricultural Extension Office, Mount Holly.

ASK FOR BIDS ON ATHLETIC CLUB

Architects' Plans for Million Dollar Clubhouse at Camden Approved

The final plans of the architects for the $1,000,000 home of the Camden City Athletic Club, to be erected at Bridge Entrance and Baird boulevards, have been accepted and the architects will advertise for construction bids the latter part of this week.

That announcement was made Saturday from the offices of the club in the Wilson Building.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors, held Friday, Nicholas L. Ludington, president of Central Airport, Inc., was elected to membership on the board.

Members of the athletic committee Friday conferred with representatives of Charles W. Leavitt & Sons, New York landscape architects, who have announced that the grounds surrounding the clubhouse will make available almost every outdoor sport.

The Leavitt firm has been given a contract for the landscape work by Eldridge Reeves Johnson, prominent Moorestonian, honorary president of the athletic club.

Announcement also was made that the new clubhouse will have one of the best equipped solariums in the country, plans for which having been donated to the City Athletic Club. The solarium will be quipped with one light, combining the three types of rays beneficial to the body, and lounging chairs will be grouped about a pool filled with cholorinated water. The solarium itself will cost approximately $35,000, club officials announced.

The founder life membership class has been filled, 600 members having taken out life certificates. The first charter membership class calling for an initiation fee of $150 will be closed at an early date, Richard Bauer, director of membership, announced. The second class will call for an initiation fee of $250.

REFORESTATION SEEN AS BOON TO S. JERSEY

The conservation and development of South Jersey's pine forests would encourage the permanent establishment of new industries employing hundreds of people, and make possible a more complete real estate development, asserts E. L. Scovell, extension forester for the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station.

Vast areas of South Jersey's woodlands are scrubby and depleted because of the fires that have periodically swept through them, the forester says, and until adequate fire protection is provided thousands of acres must remain unproductive.

"Continued as unproductive wasteland," Scovell asserts, "these vast areas cannot carry their share of the tax burden. If reclaimed with thrifty pine timber, however, they can bear their share of taxation. This would result in a more even distribution of the tax bill among all property owners, and the total tax revenue would be measurably increased.

"South Jersey's pine region embraces 1,250,000 acres of forest land, which at a conservative estimate could produce annually 300,000,000 board feet of lumber and other forest products. Timber operations involving many men would be needed to cut and move this quantity of timber. Numerous sawmills would be required to saw the timber into rough boards and timbers. There would be a need for small wood-working plants, toy and novelty shops, and other manufacturing units that would have a part in the preparation of this material for consumption. All of these industries would offer steady and profitable employment to hundreds of people.

"Consideration also should be given to the fact that green forests and shady streams are unsurpassed as outdoor playgrounds. People are turning more and more to them for their rest and recreation. To the thousands of people who love the woods and who periodically want to spend some time in them, South Jersey's vast areas of brush land would, if protected from fire, eventually offer opportunities for outdoor recreation surpassing the economic benefits to be derived.

"And finally, there, mere assurance of fire protection would encourage real estate development now impossible. When there is added to this important safety factor the lure of vigorous green forests of pine, the likelihood of such development is increased many fold. Already this vast region is traversed by a network of unusually good roads and railroads. Good water is plentiful. The climate is healthful and enticing. The chief factor in the way is the great fire hazard."

PRAISES CAMDEN CO. PARK SYSTEM

Tri-State Planning Head Urges Program for Burlington County

Gloucester and Salem Counties in New Jersey are urged by the Regional Planning Federation of the Philadelphia Tri-State District to avail themselves of recent State legislation enabling them to form County park commissions.

A statement by Colonel Samuel P. Wetherill, Jr., president of the Federation, today pointed out that Camden County alone in the New Jersey portion of the Tri-State region has a County park commission, though it is understood that Mercer County is preparing to launch a County planning commission. This body, it was said, would automatically provide for parks as one of its essential projects.

"Camden County's park system is rapidly becoming a magnificent reality," Colonel Wetherill said. "Almost the entire Cooper river valley is being developed and beautified. Completed sections of the system, such as Mum's Meadow and Mount Well parks at Haddonfield, dailly attract thousands of recreation seekers. There is need for many other similar breathing spaces and playgrounds throughout the Tri-State region.

"The creek valleys abounding in Burlington, Gloucester and Salem Counties offer unlimited opportunity for park development. Population ever is increasing and is spiling over the Delaware river bridge to portions of New Jersey that but recently were largely rural. Land is being withdrawn from potential recreational use. Unless energetic steps are taken now to preserve additional creek valleys, the next generation may find the cost excessive.

"Nowhere in the Tri-State region is there such opportunity for forest parks as in the New Jersey pine lands. Such a project has been suggested in the watersheds of the Wading and Mullica rivers. It should be tied in with a comprehensive park system along these creeks. The New Jersey Bureau of Forestry for years has been advocating the creation of a great public forest. Its possibilities in the interests of future water supply, reforestration and recreation are almost beyond calculation.

"Outside of the Tri-State region, park commissions have been functioning in Hudson, Bergen, Essex and Union Counties in New Jersey. Figures taken from a recent report of the Union County Park Commission are indeed significant. They indicate an attendance of 1,300,000 recreation seekers in 1927. Last year there was an increase of 70 per cent. when 2,200,000 persons visited the park system."

COUNTY FIREMEN AT BROWNS MILLS

Newcomb Welcomes Visitors; Medford Chief and State Auditors Speak

More than two hundred firemen, representing 24 fire companies, were present at the meeting of the Burlington County Firemen's Association in the School House at Brown's Mills Wednesday night of last week, President Russell C. Holmes presided and the address of welcome was by Assemblyman Marcus W. Newcomb, a charter member of Brown's Mills Fire Company, No. 1, which was organized on May 22, 1922.

Chief Walter McClain, of Medford, gave a report on the recent trip of the Association to the State Firemen's Home at Boonton and County Fire Marshal William J. Smith made a very interesting report of his activities during the month.

State Auditor Charles E. Burr, of Bordentown, gave a report on the finances of the State Association and now they would be affected by the proposed pension law. Nicholas Snyder, of Trenton, treasurer of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association, stated the consolidation of the Trenton Exempt Firemen's Relief Association was at last arranged for whereby the old exempts still alive would receive all the benefits of relief and funeral fund now provided by the State Association. Ex-President David A. Brotherton, of Burlington, was endorsed by the Association for the office of vice-president of the State Association from Burlington to be elected at the convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association to be held in Atlantic City, September 20 and 21.

General Spencer, president of the State Association, was reported to have so far recovered from his recent illness as to be looking after his duties at the rifle range at Sea Girt. A new chemical engine was reported installed by the Endeavor Fire Company, of Burlington, and a 500-gallon pumping engine ordered by the Waccaroo Hose Company, of Bordentown.

Visitors at the meeting included Mercer County Fire Marshal David Newell and Louis Frank, of Aten, Camden County. Coming events announced were carnivals of Florence, Bridgeboro and Wrightstown fire companies and also White Horse Company, of Mercer County.

Handle Your Electric Appliances With Care

Electricity has become so familiar in the average American home that many users of current are not aware that certain care is desirable in handling the various labor-saving appliances, remarks the New Jersey Public Utility Information Committee.

If a fuse blows out, for example, it means that the circuit has been overloaded or that a defective appliance is being used. The source of trouble should be discovered and corrected. A larger fuse will not help, and pennies screwed under the fuse plug may cause a fire.

Electrical appliances should not be handled, if connected, when any part of the body is touching a radiator, piping, or plumbing, and no one in a bathtub should touch an electrical appliance, for water is a conductor.

Fires have been caused by using electric lamps, irons and toasters as bed-warmers.

Base outlets should be protected. Inquisitive children may make accidental contact with current-carrying parts.

Extension cords should be promptly repaired or replaced when they become worn, otherwise short-circuits may occur.

THE FIRST YEAR' NEXT WEEK'S PLAY

The Play of the Week Presents Frank Craven's Record-Breaking Comedy

For their seventh offering of a season of summer dramatic stock, the Play of the Week Company has chosen Frank Craven's most popular and record-breaking comedy, "The First Year," which they will present next Monday night, July 29, at the Garrick Theatre, with Tom Douglas, Enid Markey and Harriet McGibbon in the leading roles.

"The First Year," which was first produced in this city with Mr. Craven as the star seven years ago, after a long and highly profitable run on Broadway, is, as the title implies, a story of newlyweds, their joys and woes, and all the hundred and one items that go to make up the familiar and yet always fascinating drama of their daily lives. Although intrinsically a comedy, Craven's piece has its full share of more serious moments, as well as some which fall within the province of unadulterated farce.

The famous "dinner party" scene of the second act is one of the features that contributed towards "The First Year's" fame behind the footlights. Briefly, the play tells of a young married couple, devoted to each other, but not, as yet, quite used to each other's ways, who, through a series of small misunderstandings, come to a parting of the ways, only to be happily reunited in the end. There is a secondary theme, on the "big business" order, concerning the running of a railroad through a certain piece of property, that is deftly woven into the play.

The Play of the Week has been most fortunate in securing for the role of husband, Tom Douglas, one of the leading young players on the stage today, who has scored decisively on both sides of the Atlantic. In London, Douglas played a number of roles that Glenn Hunter originated over here, including "Merton of the Movies" and "Young Woodley." Miss Markey is also a player of stage and screen note, and Miss McGibbon has scored Philadelphia hits in the Play of the Week productions of "The Champion" and "The Whole Town's Talking."

For the week beginning Monday, August 5, the Play of the Week will bring back Grant Mitchell to star in "It Pays to Advertise," while following attractions will be the return of Jean Dixon in "Meet the Wife" and "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

REPORT GIVEN ON YW CONFERENCE

Mrs. Miller Tells of Meeting to Members of Rancocas Club

Mrs. Arthur Miller, who attended the Eastern Community Conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Silver Bay, New York, July 9-17, spoke of her experiences to the members of the Rancocas Woman's Club at their meeting Monday evening, July 22, at the home of Mrs. McHenry. The purpose of the conference was not to settle questions, but rather to increase understanding of the social and economic fabric of which we are a part, and to sense the possibilities of increasingly good community living with the religion of Jesus as the unifying force. One of the most worth while of the conference leaders was Dr. Herbert N. Shenton, of the Department of Sociology, Syracuse University.

On Wednesday evening, July 17, the Moorestown Blue Triangle Club met at the colored Y. W. C. A. room for their regular club meeting. Mrs. Margaret Baylor and Miss Charlotte Roberts told of the Industrial Girls' Conference which they attended at Summit Lake, New York, in June. Following the reports and a discussion the girls enjoyed a social time.

AUGUST FIRST GOVERNOR'S DAY

Wells Issues Larson Invitation to Residents of Burlington County

Former Judge Harold B. Wells, Republican State Committeeman from Burlington County, received the following communication from Governor Larson's secretary, and has asked the press of Burlington County to publish the letter in order that the citizens of the County may be informed of the invitation contained in the letter.

The letter is as follows:

State of New Jersey, Executive Department, The Secretary to the Governor.

July 17, 1929.

My dear Judge Wells:

Thursday, August 1st, will be "Governor's Day" at the State Camp at Sea Girt, and your County is among those especially invited to attend. The 114th Infantry will be in camp at that time, and will be reviewed by the Governor on that day.

I wish to extend, through you, a cordial invitation to the citizens of your County to be present, and would ask that you see that this invitation is given the widest publicity possible.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) THOMAS L. HANSON,
Secretary to the Governor.

Hon. Harold B. Wells,
Bordentown, N. J.

In a statement regarding Governor's Day, State Senator Clifford R. Powell says:

"The Governor will serve luncheon at one o'clock to all good Republicans on the lawn of his summer cottage at the Camp. The 114th Infantry, comprising troops from Burlington County and other points in South Jersey, will give a demonstration.

"The Governor, Colonel Stone and myself would like to see as many people from Burlington County attend this Governor's Day as possible."

MICHAELS BOOSTED TO CLASS AA POST

Lee A. Michael, former Lenola newspaper reporter and "politician," is rising in the ranks of baseball circles, according to reports.

Michael, who has been working at umpiring as a profession for the past two seasons, has been promoted to the lofty post of arbiter in the International League, Class AA ball circuit.

The achievement of Michael marks a rapid rise from Class D to Class AA umpiring. For several years he "worked" behind the plate in South Jersey games. Finally his excellent manner in handling games attracted the attention of organized baseball heads and in the spring of 1928 he went with the Blue Ridge League.

The fact that the former Lenola resident "made good" during his first season with the Blue Ridge circuit was proven by his promotion to umpire-in-chief this year.

Michael, who has been making his home in Barrington since leaving Lenola, was scheduled to be notified of his first assignment in the International League on Wednesday.

$3,000,000 SPAN AT PALMYRA MARKS HARD WORK BY PRESIDENT-SPONSOR

require opening the bascule and that is a dredge that does not go up and down the river more than four or five times a year.

Auxiliary Power

"The bascule, which is opened with two 750-horsepower electric motors, may be raised in four minutes. In order that there can be no interruption through one source of current failing, the bridge company is paying a second electric company $6,000 a year merely for an auxiliary current. In other words, that $6,000 annual investment is just to insure speedy service for our customers. We will have to pay the second company for all current used in addition to the $6,000 service charge, although we may never use the service.

"We do not anticipate the trouble with expansion joints that they have experienced in Camden. Our hopes are based on the fact that there is a 1,750-foot single span at Camden, while our longest span is only 540 feet."

While the bridge has only four lanes for motor traffic, it will be "fed" by eight lanes on the approaches. The tolls will be collected on the Palmyra side and there will be collectors on each of the eight approach lanes to speed up traffic during rush periods.

Mr. Wright expects to devote three lanes to the direction the heavy traffic is running during the congested hours on holidays and over week-ends. When asked about speed laws, he said: "I presume that traffic regulations will be in accordance with New Jersey motor vehicle laws. Therefore, I would say that forty miles an hour will be the maximum speed."

Span Policemen

While the bridge policemen will be appointed and paid by the company, they will be sworn in as officers of the law by authorities of both States. All employees on the bridge will be uniformed.

According to the report of the engineers, Modjeski, Masters and Chase, the bridge will accommodate, without overcrowding, the maximum traffic that may develop within twenty years. The estimate is based on a peak daily traffic of 40,000 vehicles and an hourly peak of 4,000 cars.

"The engineers estimate," the president said, "that the bridge will carry 1,100,000 vehicles the first year. I expect the mark to exceed their estimate by several hundred thousand machines."

In fixing its tolls the bridge company has compiled a table of set charges which will become effective midnight of the opening day.

A flat rate of 35 cents has been adopted for private passenger automobiles and taxicabs.

Material Reduction

This rate is a material reduction below that in force on the ferry, where the average collected from private passenger automobiles is 50 cents.

Other rates are as follows:

Motor trucks—

7,000 pounds gross weight	$0.50
7,001 to 18,000 pounds	.75
18,001 to 26,000	1.00
Double-deck bus	1.00
Passenger bus	.60
Horse-drawn vehicle	.50
Horse and rider, led horse, mule, cow, hog or sheep, all at owner's risk	.25
Motorcycle	.25
Bicycle	.10
Foot passenger	.05

No vehicles over 26,000 pounds allowed except by special permit.

No motor truck or tractor with metal tires allowed on bridge.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the bridge corporation Mr. Wright was re-elected president and appointed general manager of the bridge. He is to have full charge of its operation and maintenance. Hon. Fletcher W. Stites, of Philadelphia, is the vice-president; Grover C. Richman, of Camden, is the secretary, and the treasurer is Edward W. C. Boyer, of Riverton. Mrs. Reba Welsh was elected assistant secretary and treasurer and will have charge of the office.

Board of Directors

In addition to the four officers, the Board of Directors includes Walter C. Wright, Riverton; Fred P. Hemphill, Riverton, Leo Niessen, Philadelphia; Kenneth F. May, Philadelphia; B. Hubert Cooper, Moorestown; Henry J. Sherman, Moorestown; N. Perry Edmunds, Philadelphia.

Bridge officials, appointed by Mr. Wright, include Julian Gutt, formerly of Modjeski, Masters and Chase, maintenance engineer; Captain Sidney D. Albertson, superintendent of the ferry, chief of toll collectors, and A. C. P. Quimby, publicity and advertising director.

According to present plans there will be 22 employees on the bridge. Ten will be toll collectors, six policemen and six bascule tenders. Virtually all the employees will be men now employed by the ferry company.

The opening program has not been definitely arranged as yet. This will be entirely under the direction of a committee appointed at a meeting in the Union League, Philadelphia, early last week. Joseph B. Seaman, president of the Northeast Chamber of Commerce, Philadelphia, is chairman. Other members are representatives of the Business Men's and Taxpayers' Association of Frankford; Palmyra Chamber of Commerce, Riverton Chamber of Commerce, Post Rodgers, American Legion, Palmyra; Camden Chamber of Commerce, Oxley Post, American Legion, Tacony; Frankford Post, American Legion; Wissinoming Improvement Association, Tacony Manufacturers' Association and several prominent individuals.

The Courage of Public Servants

Much has been made of the fact that Alexander Legge gave up a $100,000 a year position as the President of the International Harvester Company in order to become the Chairman of the Federal Farm Board of President Hoover at a yearly stipend of $12,000.

Naturally this was a very courageous, a very public-spirited act, and we applaud it with the greatest enthusiasm, adding our thanks to the thanks of the nation.

At the same time we want to point out that, to the glory of our nation, the ranks of our public bodies are filled with others no whit less self-sacrificing and competent.

Men sticking to public offices for years, who would have made fortunes in the business world; men working for the benefit of the country, who curtail the private activities on which they really "cash in."

We applaud their patriotism.

It is one of the greatest traditions of this country—this willingness of competent men to subjugate their private interests to the interests of the nation at large.

It is a great and noble tradition that helps every one of us every day of our lives.

Know Your Merchant

"Buy goods you KNOW from merchants you KNOW!" Isn't that a safe rule! Why gamble buying merchandise from out-of-town concerns, after solicitation at the door, or from sample merchandise that may or may not be good, at a price that may or may not be fair? What proof have you that it will be even as good as the sample? Of what value is the "guarantee" made by the canvasser or agent, who likely is not responsible, and whose word may not be good at his out-of-town headquarters.

You have no direct and quick comeback if you are for any reason dissatisfied, except long correspondence. After waiting two weeks or longer for the order to be delivered, most people prefer to forget the transaction and take their loss.

The success of a retail store is built upon its reputation for fair dealings, as to quality, service and price. Delivery service, charge accounts and many personal accommodations and conveniences provided without cost to you, are all part of store service; and they are made possible only by the sales over the counter.

The final thought. No institution made up of human beings can always be right. Errors occur and misunderstandings; but you always have direct recourse to the manager or proprietor, of the local store, who has the authority to make any reasonable adjustment. This part of retail store service, the ULTIMATE satisfaction of the customer, which the peddler cannot offer you.—(From "The Booster" published by Burlington Chamber of Commerce.)

"Highway Safety Consciousness" Essential

There are but three causes for our disgraceful automobile accident record; carelessness, incompetence and lax enforcement of traffic laws.

It is time for Americans to admit that the accident problem has reached a point where it is a menace to the life and property of every person and that the "prevention" methods of the past have been failures. The much-lauded solution by compulsory insurance was found to increase accidents, rather than decrease them.

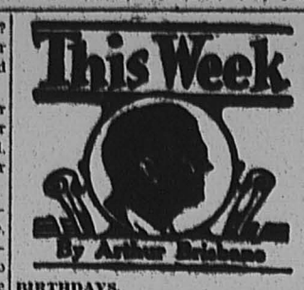

Insurance can only indemnify. It can never prevent. It is a minor phase of the accident problem, not the crux.

In most communities, traffic laws are inadequate to meet modern conditions. Drivers are licensed wholesale, usually without tests to determine their mental and physical fitness. The irresponsible and the reckless crowd the highways. America has not gained a "highway safety consciousness."

An insurance law, such as New York has adopted, which forces a motorist to prove financial responsibility after he has caused an accident, or lose his license, places responsibility where it belongs, on the party at fault.

We must rid ourselves of the reckless and ignorant and instill the basic facts of safety in the mind of every driver and pedestrian using the highways.

Three hundred years ago a man was old at 30, for the average span of life was 20 years. This has been extended until now it is 58. Today science is concentrating to increase the resistance powers of human beings and thereby combat dreaded diseases like cancer and tuberculosis. A life span of 100 years is a possibility.

BIRTHDAYS.

ROCKEFELLER'S SERVICE.

WIVES AND PROHIBITION.

NEW SIZE MONEY.

Which birthdays in human life are most important?

The first starts life going.

The twenty-first begins work and responsibility.

The fiftieth means that old age has started.

The seventieth that active life a over.

Eighty means old age, although it should not. And ninety is reached by few.

John D. Rockefeller has celebrated his ninetieth birthday.

Those that appreciate a life and a great fortune well spent will wish for him many more years, taking him far beyond 100.

Mr. Rockefeller, employing able scientists to fight disease, with unlimited resources at their disposal, has rendered service to the human race for centuries to come.

He has given hundreds of millions to education and scientific research.

No man in history has given as liberally or more intelligently.

Mrs. Sabin, wife of a well known banker, will investigate prohibition among wives of working men throughout the nation.

This "survey" will ask the wives their opinion of prohibition.

Those whose husbands used to drink whiskey and can't afford it now will say they favor prohibition.

If their husbands still drink whiskey, paying bootleggers' prices, they will be against prohibition.

Wives whose husbands used to drink beer or light wine and drink whiskey now, because they can't get beer or wine, will be against prohibition.

The TOWN DOCTOR
(THE DOCTOR OF TOWNS)
says

You have often heard people speak of a community or section of the city as being "run down." If you stop and look at the mental picture that "run Down" creates in your mind, you will have a vision of unkempt, cluttered-up streets, with mussy entry ways to store buildings and apartment houses, and yards littered with a little bit of everything.

Anything that is run down is unattractive—it repels rather than invites. It makes you say, "I wouldn't have that," rather than, "I sure would like to have one of those." In the case of a community, "run down" causes you to say, "I wouldn't live here on a bet," rather than to say "I like this part of town."

Anything done or allowed to be done that tends to clutter up a community is bad for the community and anything bad for the community drives business out of and away from the community, and when it is allowed to go on continuously, there is only one thing that can happen; the community runs down; people move out and business goes "flooey."

Therefore, it is only good business on the part of the people who make up a community to see to it that any practice that tends to clutters up is eliminated.

One practice common to communities, which is bad, is the distribution from door to door, from store to store, from yard to yard, from car to car, of all sorts and shapes and sizes of hand bills and dodgers.

There are many cities, communities and towns that will not allow it at all; others require a license fee sufficient to make it impractical, and they are wise towns.

There may be an advertising value in these dodgers for those who use them, and certainly those who print them make a profit; but it is bad for the community, and unless the community is so fixed, financially, that it can maintain paper pickers and street cleaners in sufficient number to clean up the mess they make, it is poor business, and as far as advertising is concerned, the same money, spent in other channels will undoubtedly bring greater results.

SCOUTS ENJOY WEEK IN CAMP

Palmyra Boys Rate High in Junior Red Cross Life Saving Test

On July 6, about twenty-eight Palmyra Scouts left for the new Burlington County Council Scout Camp near Wrightstown. The journey was made in the trucks of H. B. Williams and Harry Fish, whom the boys wish to thank again for their kindness.

In the afternoon the Scouts had a great time wandering about, viewing the different sights of the Camp. During the week there were various things to do, such as hiking, boating swimming, volleyball, baseball, handicraft, bird study and many other things interesting to Scouts and boys in general.

Several Scouts passed the Junior Red Cross Life Saving Test and three of the boys passed the Senior Red Cross Life Saving Test. There is a point system at camp. For each test passed a certain number of points are given. A boy receiving a total of one hundred and fifty points or over receives a camp emblem at the end of the camping season. Palmyra had the first and second highest number for the week; Hayes Brady, 240 points, and Bob Finney, 215 points.

Many interesting things were done at campfire. Bob Finney and Ed Friberg made up a march on their bugles, which was voted by all the boys to be the best ever. Several other Palmyra Scouts also entertained with different stunts. Some of the Beverly Scouts were also very interesting at the campfire. About ninety-six Beverly Scouts were in camp at the same time the Palmyra Scouts were there. These were under the leadership of Scout Commissioner Brian B. Kane, of Beverly.

A wonderful staff is in charge of the camp. Avery L. Bennett, of Moorestown, is Camp Director and a finer one could not be had. The rest of the staff is also equally fine in every way. Scout Executive John R. Tallis is also on hand, and last, but not at all least, Jim and Pop, the cooks, who are a mighty factor in the great success of the camp.

Several of the Palmyra Scouts remained at Camp to enjoy their second week.

WOMEN AFTER MOTOR HONORS

Long-distance driving by women, while no novelty in these days of their demonstrated skill and ability, is increasing in popularity because road development and car reliability has combined to assure extensive drives comparatively free of hazards, according to Raul J. Bare, Moorestown Oakland-Pontiac dealer.

"While many women drivers have feared making long tours alone, even this hesitancy is being overcome, to judge by reports reaching us of women setting out by themselves to cross the continent," Mr. Bare stated.

"One such recent report," he continued, "concerned Mrs. L. A. Johnston, of Chicago, who drove alone from her home city to Los Angeles at an average rate of 290 miles a day for the 3,000 mile trip. Starting early in the morning Mrs. Johnston completed each day's drive by four o'clock in the afternoon.

"She states that despite the long drives each day she arrived at her destination not in the least fatigued by the long journey alone, and that the sole trouble experienced on the way was a single puncture. Her car was an Oakland All-American Six sedan."

COMMERCIAL INNOCULANTS NOT ALWAYS EFFECTIVE

Several cases have been reported to us in which commercil inoculants failed to inoculate such crops as alfalfa, sweet clover and soybeans. Although commercial cultures are usually live and effective, we believe that in most cases it is well not to depend solely upon them. The seed and soil method, sometimes called the "dirty seed" method, is probably more dependable than commercial inoculants. This method consists in thoroughly mixng with a bushel of slightly moistened seed a small quantity of sifted soil—one pint is enough—from a field which has successfully grown the crop in question. It is well to take the soil from several points in the field at varying depths of from one to four inches.

Perhaps the best procedure is to obtain a small quantity of commercial inoculant and use this to moisten the seed, then stir in the soil as above described. This method of double inoculation will be almost sure to give the desired results. It is especially desirable for a long-time, high-value crop like alfalfa.

Hints for Motorists

If you bunk your car in a strange garage when you are on a trip, jot down the mileage shown on the spedometer so you can tell the next morning whether anybody has used the car during the night. If you do this somewhat ostentatiously, the men around the garage may see you and decide to leave your car alone, knowing that use of it will be detected.

Dents in your fenders may have an unfavorable psychological influence on the policeman with whom you get into an argument over some alleged traffic violation. He may get the impression that you are habitually a careless driver. On the other hand, if your car shows no evidence of previous bumps or collisions, the influence may be in your favor.

Beauty . . . is like the morning dew
Whose short refresh upon the tender green
Cheers for a time, but till the sun doth show,
And straight 'tis gone as it had never been.

SAMUEL DANIEL

If you want your vacation to mean all that it should to you there are certain precautions that you should not overlook. Among these are the simple but necessary remedies for ills that range all the way from poison ivy to sunburn. Considering the many unpleasant things that can happen to you on even a two weeks' vacation it is wisest for every traveler to provide herself with some good preventives.

For the first of these I suggest boric acid. To use in any eye wash to soothe inflamed eyes; to sterilize bites, bruises and thorn scratches that are part of every child's summer excursion; for a soothing wash on chafed or sunburned skin—in fact, for a dozen, antiseptic, refreshing uses this simple solution is unexcelled. You may buy it ready made or make your own by dissolving two teaspoonfuls of the powder to a teacupful of warm water which has been boiled, until the lotion is perfectly clear. Let it cool, bottle, and cork tightly.

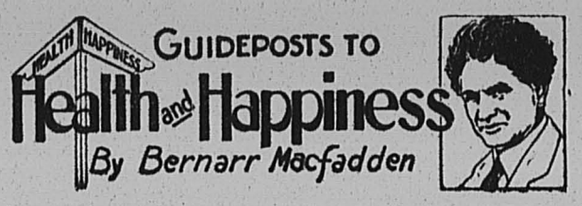

Often changes in climate or location mean changing from soft to hard water. And since it is both unpleasant and often really injurious to the skin to wash frequently in hard water the best way to obviate all difficulties is to take with you a water softener.

The various types of scented bath salts are luxurious and fragrant water softeners, but if you prefer a less extravagant, though no less effective, one you can make your own by mixing two parts of baking soda to one part of borax. A few teaspoonfuls of this in a bath will soften the water pleasantly, make soap lather and cleanse more satisfactorily.

Another simple remedy that will prove a most welcome blessing, if your vacation takes you where there are mosquitoes, is a small bottle of ordinary household ammonia. Touch a drop of this simple compound to a fresh mosquito bite and the itching will stop at once.

Only by protecting yourself against any unpleasant thing that might conceivably happen, can you be assured of a reasonably perfect vacation. An excellent plan of preparedness is to make out a complete list of all the items that you need. And remember to include among these a large jar or tube of cleansing cream and a protective, sunproof preparation that will neutralize the dangerous effects of the sun, prevent painful burns and deep, disfiguring tans or freckles. Or, if you mistrust your own care in this matter, at least provide yourself with a sunburn remedy, taking a pound of cure in place of the much safer ounce of prevention.

HELENA RUBINSTEIN.

For several years now the country has been swept by a reducing craze. Listen to any group of women talking, and invariably the conversation turns to reducing. They are, of course, referring to the reduction of weight, but in most instances reduced health or reduced strength, or reduced brain power—and sometimes death—accompanies reduced weight.

That is because women are so eager to be in fashion that they become indifferent and reckless toward everything except what the scales show.

No woman has any right to attempt to reduce her weight until she has learned from experts whether or not a reduction of weight is desirable or safe in her particular case. We are not all alike; some of us require less food and more exercise than others. No one is up to par physically or well formed unless he is carrying around the amount of flesh that his bony structure requires. All women were not intended to have boyish forms or sylphlike grace and it is folly for all women to try and attain them. Often the woman who has decided of her own accord that she is too "fat" actually needs a few extra pounds to give her body the proper contours. I have seen women who were but little more than human hairpins talk about reducing!

But the lazy woman who desires to reduce her weight is in the gravest danger of all—for she is the one who wants to get something for nothing. She wants to get rid of surplus flesh and have a beautifully rounded form and the accompanying vitality without exertion or self-denial. It is women like her who have encouraged men to put on the market expensive, powerful and destructive pills, which guarntee the desird reduction in a phenomenally short time. She might better save her money and buy a mild form of slow poison. Any woman will lose weight quickly if she begins to put into her system drugs designed to fight the health-giving proprietories of good wholesome food.

"Eat all the pastry and candy you want," the reducing pill manufacturer advises. "Let our Sure-Thin Pills do the work."

They do their work, all right, only it is a deadly form of work that often causes nervous breakdowns, melancholia and permanently ruins the digestive powers and asimilation. The vital organs give way next—and often the coveted sylphlike form is borne off to the cemetery in a wooden box. Bath powders in which the patient is told to empty one of the powders into a steaming hot bath and lie there anywhere from half an hour to an hour are equally dangerous. They cause heart ailments and leave the flesh flabby and unsightly.

This is not exaggeration and I am no alarmist; I am citing truths, well known to every physician. The only safe, permanent and satisfactory way to achieve a beautiful figure is through hard work—regular exercise and an intelligent diet rigidly adhered to, that provide sufficient nourishment to the bony structure of the body. No other method can be adopted without serious danger to health and to life.

BERNARR MacFADDEN.

THE STORY OF DANIEL
Daniel 1: 1-4, 19, 20; 2: 17-24.
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

This book which will be studied for three weeks is rich in thrills. Youth is particularly fascinated in reading these accounts, which help to emphasize the fact that truth is stranger than fiction. Plan to read all twelve chapters in these three weeks. Portions especially indicatd for study this time by the Lessons Committee are 1: 1-21; 2: 13-19; 4: 19; 7. 28; 8: 15-18; 9: 20-23; 10: 1-19; 12: 9.

Daniel did not follow the saying which is an excuse for many extra sins when away from home: "When in Rome do as the Romans do." Had he even observed the example of his own people when back in Palestine he would have followed the base customs of the Babylonians. Here is a lad who was deported as a captive and who held to the ways he had learned in his home back in Judea.

This fine young fellow was soon noted by Aspenaz, the keeper of the eunuchs in the household of Nebuchadnezzar. When the king asked that likely lads be searched out and brought to him for special favor this Jewish boy was chosen, as well as three of his companions. The specifications were a "youth in whom is no blemish, but well-favored and skillful in all wisdom, and endued with knowledge nd understanding science, and such as had ability to stand in the king's palace." At once these four, with others in Babylon, were invited to eat the fancy food that was provided at the court table.

Principle asserted itself above the desire to gain a place in the house of the king. There, meats that had been offered to idols would be served. These the Jew must refuse for conscience sake and Daniel does this very thing. He asks that he and his friends may follow a vegetarian diet and drink only water during the coming ten days of preparation. They knew that they will be physically better than those who would eat foods that would, not be body-building. When the test came it took only a glance to show that the appearance of those who followed the simpler diet was superior. Then came the mental examination. In this they stood "ten times better" than all the lads of Babylonia whom Aspenaz brought forward. Thus Daniel was well started on the road that led in time to the prime ministry of the country to which he had been carried as a captive.

P. O. S. of A.

During a lively session of Washington Camp, No. 23, P. O. S. of A., Monday evening, the Home and Orphanage question was again brought to the front and will be considered further at subsequent meetings.

A circular from the State Secretary, giving the details about the coming session of the State Camp at Long Branch, August 20 and 21, was read and discussed.

Ice cream and cake furnished by the entertainment committee was the fiting conclusion to a warm evening.

A meeting of all Camps in Burlington County has been arranged for July 30 in the Camp rooms of No. 35, Delanco. State officials will be present and members of the local Camp are urged to turn out strong.

DECISION AGAIN DEFERRED ON BARNEGAT INLET BRIDGE

Devision again was deferred by the State Board of Commerce and Navigation last week in the application for permission to construct a toll bridge across Barnegat Inlet from North Beach to Barnegat City. The project is seen as a link in the proposed Ocean Boulevard sponsored by Senate President Thomas A. Mathis, of Ocean County. It was indicated that the board is not oposed to the idea of a bridge financed by private capital, but it is desired to make certain that the suggested location is the best for the structure and that it will not interfere with navigation. With that idea, surveys will be made. Senator Mathis asked for more haste and action, pointing out that the company willing to build the bridge might withdraw from the scheme if there is too long a delay. Decision, it is said, was deferred until September.

FORD ENCOURAGES GREATER SAFETY

Motor Company Lists Twelve Rules as Suggestions to Drivers

As a contribution towards greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor Company has listed twelve rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

Announcement of the suggestions was made today by Lester S. Fortnum, local Ford dealer, who will display the list prominently in his place of business.

"These rules," said Mr. Fortnum, "are merely common sense as applied to automobile driving. Every experienced motorist knows all of them. It is our hope, however, that by stating them concisely and posting them where they will come to the attention of a great many motorists, we can so emphasize them as to make a real contribution towards greater highway safety."

The twelve rules are:

1—Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.

2—Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.

3—Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.

4—Obey all traffic and parking regulations.

5—Keep to the right and comply with road markings and signs.

6—Signal for stops and turns—watch the car ahead.

7—Slow down at crossings, schools, dangerous places.

8—Never pass cars on hills, curves, crossings.

9—Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.

10—It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.

11—When you drive, remember the times when you were a pedestrian.

12—Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

"It is estimated that 20,000,000 persons will tour on American highways this summer," Mr. Fortnum continued. "Recognition of the rights of others will be essential. Many unpleasantries and accidents will be avoided if motorists, at times of close situations, will recall these rules and act accordingly. They are the recommendations of the Ford Motor Company, offered to give peace of mind to those who travel by automobile."

VERY LATEST

Among the sports silks this season are innumerable smart tub-wise fabrics—perhaps the latest, that serviceable weave known as PK crepe, sponsored by Stehli, of Paris.

A washable silk of exceptional chic—it is possessed of a dual personality. That is to say, it has the appearance of a fine ribbed material, yet it drapes as softly as crepe de chine. Worn with a loose jacket of polka-dotted silk in harmonious colors, this fabric is especially effective.

THE "LONG SILHOUETTE," THE VOGUE

You are perhaps thinking only of longer skirts as you read this message. But the "long silhouette" means, oh, very much more. Particularly does it refer to the elongated effect produced by princess lines and fullness placed low on the skirts. And when the lines are not princess—then it's the higher waist that creates the illusion. These are important details.

STIFF SILKS FOR FORMAL WEAR

When summer says goodbye the farewell will also apply to transparent fabrics of the moment—the chiffons, laces, georgettes. Stiff silks will find themselves the newest weaves for evening wear—even moires and failles taking on a more substantial texture than displayed in the past season.

"KONJOLA WORKED WONDERS FOR ME" SAYS THIS LADY
Three Bottles of Master Medicine Ended Two Years of Intense Suffering

MRS. FRED HIGH
"It did not seem possible for Konjola to work such wonders as it did for me," said Mrs. Fred High, R. F. D. No. 2, Smithfield, Penna. For two years I suffered from a completely disordered stomach and weakened kidneys. My stomach bloated with gas after every meal. During the night my rest was disturbed two or three times by irregular bladder actions.
"Just three weeks of the Konjola treatment and I was well and happy, enjoying life like any other healthy normal person. My stomach has been corrected and my kidneys were strengthened. I sleep through the night every night and have a great deal more pep and energy. You can just imagine how Konjola relieved me when I tell you I, in Riverton at L. E. Kelly's store, said to be all the best Konjola in the world. Speaks for itself in the entire section."

"Tip" McCarty's single, delivered in the ninth with the score tied and the hassocks crowded, won for Palmyra, 3-2, in the Burlington County League last Saturday in a game with Burlington played at Mount Holly.

Through its victory, Palmyra deadlocked for third place behind Medford, in second, with Delanco, Brown's Mills and Vincentown in the Burlington County League standing.

Frank Keith was in great form and held Burlington to six scattered hits, while his mates touched up "Win" Foster for 10.

Singles by Hughes and Cook and an error by "Hep" Harper gave Burlington a run in the first. Palmyra tied it up when Krause singled, took third on Weikman's sacrifice on a hit-and-run play, and tallied on King's sacrifice fly.

The "Burls" took the lead again in the second, Pete Pitko walking, stealing second, going to third on Frank Cook's single and crossing when Kelestyn hit safely. Palmyra made it 2-2 in its half, Krause doubling, taking third on King's single and counting on Billy Arenz's one-base blow. Then the teams battled on even terms to the ninth.

With two down Krause walked. Foster was wild and filled the bases by passing Weikman and King. Then McCarty drove the winning run over. The score:

RIVERTON WIN 2 LOSE 1 IN WEEK

Local Ball Tossers Enjoying Good Diamond Season Under Benny Edge

Tuesday evening last week the Riverton A. A. baseball team defeated the strong A. C. in the eighth inning, after a stiff, uphill struggle.

Terrell drew a pass, Hemphill was hit by a pitched ball, putting two men on base. Jack Smith sacrificed to advance his mates another base. Leon Sloan came through with a timely single, which scored Terrell and Hemphill with the tying and winning runs.

Loss to Main A. C.

Satnurday's game against the Main A. C. was lost by the score of 2 to 1.

Leon Coles and Welsh, ace of the Greater Camden League, waged a stiff mound duel until the ninth inning when the Main boys pushed across two markers to cop the game.

The first four frames were hitless for both sides. Bartley and Rossi, both shortstops, came through with singles.

Riverton scored first in the fifth when Broderson walked and Beisler muffed Bottger's liner. Terrell and Coles sacrificed Broderson home.

Up until the ninth inning Coles had allowed but two hits, when four singles and an overthrow scored two runs for the visitors, and proved to be the deciding runs, as Riverton was helpless in their half of the last frame.

Tuesday evening's contest with McCoy's, of Riverside, was won by Riverton, 3 to 1.

Don't forget Friday, the 26th, at 6.15 p. m., when Riverton plays Palmyra, of the Burlington County League.

Lena Blackburne, Art Shires, Ed Walsh, Ted Lyons, Chalmers, Cissel and others of the Chicago White Sox will be our guests.

Sympathy and Good Judgement Needed in Managing Pitchers

Knowledge of Human Nature as Well as of Finer Details of Ball Playing Are Constantly Called Into Play

"C" Young, manager of the Delanco baseball nine, once a leading twirler in the old Three-Eye League, has asked us to reprint the following article by Phyllis Carolyn Singer, on the proper managing of pitchers:

"Take him out!"

How many times have you sat in the stands and scarcely, if at all, restrained this cry rushing to your lips at the sight of a pitcher's offerings being battered and bruised around the field? In the same spirit of conjecture it might be asked how often have you seen just such a pitcher kept in a game until it is finally stowed away in the opposing team's won column, only to be then yanked out and another thrown into the fray?

Your answer to this piece of "strategy" being, of course, that the manager had either gone temporarily insane or else had walked out on the show. However, the truth is that this is one of the hardest problems a manger has to solve, and if, as in this case, he guessed wrong, the fault lies not in his judgment but in the uncertainty of man.

Surely never was the executive head of a great corporation more sorely put to it in moments of vital decisions than is a manager of baseball team. Unlike these men who pass their business lives behind massive mahogany desks, the baseball manager must deal entirely with men, each different from the rest, each possessing the usual temperament and fancies, each intensely human and each, therefore, incapable of being a perfect machine.

Managers Must Gamble in Men

Viewed in this light, it is not strange that the problem of manipulating his pitching staff should demand all a mnager has to give as a skilled student of human nature. Some of his men can do what others can't, and it is up to a maneger to find his players' limitations and adjust their weaknesses to the remaining strength of his team.

Thus, what undoubtedly occurred under the conditions mentioned above is that the manager went neither insane nor out of the park, but was instead sitting on the bench with his fingers tightly crossed, knowing, that if the rally could be weathered, the best man to have on the mound was already there. In this case he had to gamble on a human arm—and lost. Tomorrow, under the same conditions, he would gamble again—and probably win.

Take Burleigh Grimes, for instance. Here is a pitcher who, as his manager knows, is apt to be erratic during the first few innings of a game. As is also known, he is just as liable to settle down and pitch air-tight ball for the rest of the game, and for this reason, Grimes will be given plenty of rope before he is finally puled off the mound.

Old "Slim" Sallee, who pitched his last ball in the major legues back in 1921, was never known to be worried by base hits and, if anything, pitched better ball when the bases were full. A typical Sallee game would net the opposition anywhere from nine to twelve hits per game, and once he even went so far as to turn in a thirteen-hit, one-run game. Naturally his manager knew that hits had the effect of spurring Sallee to his utmost efficiency and so, consequently, remained unworried by the barrage that generally took place when his ace was on the mound.

Making Use of Indian Sign

On the other hand, Dazzy Vance is a firm believer in getting his man out at the plate and for this reason is inclined to be jumpy when men are on. The result is that a hawk-like stare is accorded each and every pitch, and at the first sign of weakening out he comes.

Any manager will tell you that aside from knowing the material with which they have to work, a pilot of a baseball team will also devote considerable time to the psychological aspects of his trade. If, for instance, a certain pitcher requires the reputation of having the Indian sign on another team, it is pretty certain that he will be on active duty somewhere or other in every game. When using him as the starting pitcher is impossible, the psychological effect of his presence may still be retained by having this particular jinx merely kept in evidence on the diamond. Thus he may be seen on the field chasing fungos, hovering around the mound, stalking past the opposition's dugout, and, worst of all, warming up in the bull pen during a game.

Still another form of applied psychology may be seen in some of the moves made by Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, in a effort to rescue his team from a batting rally.

With none out and the bases loaded during a game recently played with Washington Manager Dan called in the overhand pitcher he was using and plugged the gap with a side arm hurler, his idea here being to throw the Senators who were swinging perfectly on the horizontal delivery off their stride. How successful his supposition was can be seen in the fact that the first man up grounded into a double play and the second popped to the infield.

Rixey Justifies Manager's Faith

According to Eppa Rixey, of the Cincinnati Reds, a manager's good, old-fashioned hunch will sometimes result in the winning of a game that, even with the best of master-minding and most profound of psychological maneuvers, might have been lost—an illustration in point being when Rixey was pitching against the Dodgers in Brooklyn not so long ago.

"In the first inning," Rixey told us, "I was touched for five hits, off which the Dodgers made four runs. They seemed to be able to hit everything I threw over and I was actually beginning to think that I never would succeed in getting a man out. But finally the inning ended somehow and during our time at bat at the start of the second we got a man on second and third and with two down I came up. It certainly seemed to me I would be taken out for a pinch hitter, but when I started for the plate Manager Hendricks never said a word and let me go.

"As I walked up to the plate I still couldn't see why he kept me in the game. I certainly looked bad in that first inning and added to that we needed those two runs on the bases in the worst possible way. But that's where Hendricks' hunch that I had a good game in my arm that day proved right, for I not only made a single and scored those two runs, but when I got back on the mound I settled down and allowed only two hits for the rest of the game, which we won, 5 to 4."

BENNETT'S SLUGGING WINS FOR SHADERS

Palmyra Giants Lose to Maple Shade By a Single Run

Hard hitting by Ed Bennett, Palmyra resident and former Palmyra player, was the feature of a game between Maple Shade and the Palmyra Colored Giants at Maple Shade Sunday afternoon, which the former won 10-9 by scoring a run in the last canto.

Bennett, playing right field for the Shaders, hammered out a home run, a double and two one-basers during the afternoon and scored three times.

The Giants scored five runs in the first frame and by the end of the fifth had what looked to be a commanding lead of 8 to 2. In the lower half of the seventh the Shaders started their long uphill fight. After two more sessions passed they had scored seven runs and knotted the score. A single run in the ninth decided the outcome.

Humes opened the inning with a double, and he held second while Bennett was going out on an infield grounder. Murray singled, putting Humes on third. Then Eddie Novak worked a perfect squeeze play, Humes crossing the plate while the bunt was being fielded.

Fifteen hits echoed off Maple Shade bats, and of these Bennett and Murray personally accounted for eight, getting four apiece.

Babe Flynn, another former Palmyra player, held the invaders to 11 hits, Hall doing most of the damage with a triple, double and single. Seymour and Harris had two blows each.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

By Nancy Hart

Have you allowed your ice-box to help you in every posible way on hot days—given it a chance to serve delicious ice-box meals instead of the regulation hot foods?

These treats can be arranged so easily—and what a joy it is—a scant half hour before mealtime to step leisurely indoors, open the refrigerator and pull out a magic menu all ready to put on the table.

Early in the day plan your meal and prepare it, choosing only recipes and combinations that will work harmoniously in such a scheme—one hot dish may be included; otherwise, let each course be something tantalizingly cold—and how you'll enjoy it!

ICE BOX MENU
Jellied Bouillon
Cheese Chips
Crab-Meat and Quartered Hard-Boiled Eggs on Lettuce—Mayonnaise
Saratoga Potatoes
Succotash (re-heated)
Ice-box Pudding
Beverage

LIMA BEANS A LA KING

To 2 cups cooked fresh limas add heaping tablespoons chopped pimiento, 3 sliced hard-boiled eggs, a bit of minced parsley and a cup of white sauce. Add last two tablespoons grated cheese and blend well and serve hot instead of meat.

ITALIAN VEGETABLE SALAD

Sliced radishes, tomato, and cucumber, cold cooked cauliflower, cold cooked asparagus, a slice or two of Spanish onion and hearts of lettuce and marinate well with French dressing made in proportions of 3 tablespoons olive oil to 1 tablespoon vinegar and serve very cold.

A FRAGRANT FRUIT DRINK

To each glass of gingle ale add 2 tablespoons of juice from a can of apricots. Pour over cracked ice and garnish with fresh mint.

HANDLING REFUSE

Save all paper bags to line the trash can which receives scraps of food, peelings and dry waste matter of all sorts. Thus refuse can be dispose of in a very cleanly and sanitary way.

NICEST SOAP DISH

Especially in the kitchen are those rough rubber soap dishes convenient. They not only rinse out as easily as a sponge, but can also be used to scour the sink in a jiffy.

CLEANS RUSTY KNIVES

Instead of trying to scour them, work rusty knives and forks up and down in the ground several times and they will polish beautifully.

FORMULA FOR DESTROYING FLIES

Use 1 pint infusion of quassia, 4 oz. moist sugar, 1 oz. pepper. Mix and stand about in saucers.

FRYING HAM AND BACON

Never cook ham or bacon over a hot fire. Place meat in a cold pan over moderate heat and cook slowly.

MOUNT LAUREL

Mrs. E. P. Smith is enjoying a vacation.

The house in which Morris Still and family resides caught fire Monday of this week when an oil stove exploded. Mrs. Daisy Petitore's baby was badly burned.

The Jacob Chapel Sunday School will hold its annual picnic at Fawnside, Thursday, August 1.

Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Crum Lynne, Pa., spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. Rachel Gaines, and her niece, Mrs. Mary Robinson.

All children and teachers are requested to be present at Sunday School classes at Jacob Chapel this Sunday.

An airship was whirring over the heads of Br'er Rabbit and his good wife as they looked out of their window. "I wonder where Billie and Bobbie are?" asked Mother Rabbit.

"Didn't they tell you where they were going?" asked Br'er Rabbit.

"No, I don't remember that they did," replied Mrs. Rabbit.

While this conversation was going on, Billie and Bobbie were digging a hole. "I wonder how far it is to China?" asked Bobbie.

"Are we going to China?" asked Billie.

"We might," said Bobbie, laughing, as he scratched all the harder.

"Did you tell Mother we were going down deep into the earth—did you tell her we were going?" asked Billie.

"I didn't say a word about where we were going. What are you stopping for? We'll soon have a house under here with a sitting room, dining room and kitchen. This is lots of fun. What are you so sad about?" Bobbie stopped digging a minute.

"I wish Mother knew where we are," sighed Billie.

"Goosie, go and tell her," said Bobbie.

While Bobbie and Billie were digging their new home, Mrs. Rabbit was walking the floor wondering where her darlings were. "Let's phone the White Rabbits and see if they know where our children are," said Br'er Rabbit.

When Br'er Rabbit came back from the phone he said he could find out nothing. "We must go and look for ourselves," he said.

Out the two went and soon Br'er Rabbit discovered a little tuft of hair on a raspberry bush. "That looks like Bobbie's hair," he murmured.

At that moment Mrs. Rabbit came to a hole. Looking down she could see nothing. But she shouted, "Billie—Bobbie!"

"Yes, Mother," came a voice from below.

In just a jiffy the two rabbits were outside in their mother's arms.

"Don't ever go away from home again and not tell us where you are going," said Mrs. Rabbit.

"Forgive us, Mother darling!" said the children, in one breath.

Personally, we don't believe a man ever becomes thoroughly ashamed of himself. The man who does that sort of thing hasn't that much capacity for shame.

You graduated in a flat hat and a black gown. Never forget that you started your business career with a masquerade party.

Wesley Perkins, of Delanco, treasurer; Jonathan Henderson, Bridgeton, cheer and song leader, and Mrs. Nellie M. Seibert, Bridgeton, field worker of the State Y. P. B.

Burlington County was hostess to the Y. P. B. Federation for board and lodging throughout the sessions.

On Tuesday evening at the beginning of the encampment Burlington County WCTU showed its hospitality as hostess to the gathered clans of the Y. P. B. at the banquet in the large camp meeting dining hall. Mrs. Mabel Bilbert, of Mount Holly, Burlington County, was manager of the culinary department and served a very delightful dinner.

Miss Eleanor T. Frantz was toastmistress. Between courses that champion cheer and song leader, Henderson, led everybody in joyous song or repartee, and sometimes without the leadership some table would unexpectedly break out in jibe and jollity.

Welcomes were given, warm, cordial and eloquent, from Rev. Homer J. O. Rinker, Presbyterian pastor, and from the Methodist pstor, Rev. R. L. Cooper, and Howard Shipps, of the Camp Meeting Association. These ministers all endorsed the work of the WCTU.

Mrs. F. S. Blair, president of Burlington County Unions, hostess of the encampment, in behalf of 26 Unions of the County, more than there are in any other County in New Jersey, gave a cordial welcome to all Unions in the State in brief, well-chosen sentences. Some persons were heard to say, "That was the best speech I ever heard from Mrs. Blair." The local Delanco WCTU president and others offered fitting speeches of welcome.

A memorial service was held for Miss Carolyn M. Osborne, who was killed in an automobile wreck on June 24.

On Wednesday evening a Grand Gold Medal Contest was held. Six girls and one boy entered the lists. Ruth Riggins, Bridgeton, won. The boy, David G. Fox, Jr., was next in honor. One of the three judges was Professor Kaser, of Mounty Holly, superintendent of the public schools of Burlington County.

The leading address, "What Is Prohibition?" by Miss Winona Jewell, National Director of Y. P. B., was of high order and much appreciated.

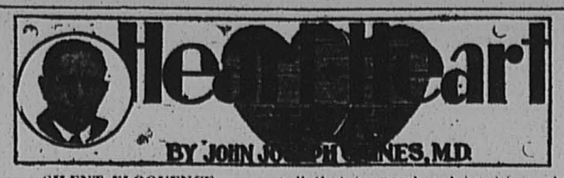

Some of the entertainments were a swim in the sand hole, bus rides to Trenton, Woodlawn Park for pleasure picnic; swimming, hiking, sports. This encampment was more largely attended than any before. More advanced earnest work was done.

Mrs. Frantz and Mrs. Gilbert succeeded in so boarding and lodging delegates and vistors they came out $100 to the good for the cause, which is better than in any previous year.

Mrs. Beech, a natural born WCTU humorist, was in the dining room and everywhere, and added much to the liveliness of the convention by her timely witticisms.

FINDS NEW QUEEN BEES WILL STRENGTHEN APIARY

Requeening is the essential step of beekeeping most often neglected. New queens yearly are insurance against excessive swarming, and they make possible strong colonies at the honey flow, when they are most needed. Good queen bees can be purchased readily for less than one dollar each at this time of year, according to Ray Hutson, entomologist in apiculture for the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station. Aside from the immediate dollars and cents economy of buying, he says, a queen put into the hive at this time has the opportunity to build up a strong colony of young bees before fall.

SILENT ELOQUENCE

A calm summer day. Overhead, the great sun beams with kingly beneficence. The forest stands with glorious summits pointing heavenward. The grass, studded here and there with wild flowers, smiles its silent approval of everything above and around. A delicate perfume permeates the already sweet atmosphere. Silence—silence everywhere eloquent beyond expression.

It is the teaching of Nature. Even the unlettered may comprehend to fullness. No lexicon is needed to point out hidden philosophies; no dictionary to detail mysterious or perplexing orthography. Only the seeing eye is required, to be able to grasp the grandest of forensic flights. Nature pleading its cause.

A calm summer evening. The moon, blushing at first, rises in her flight, to become magnificent in her bewitching beauty. Listening, earth hears through the majestic silence the nocturne, the symphony, the cathedral chimes . . . the music of the spheres. . . . 'The Hand that made us is Divine." sing the stars. Sable Night sweeps over all—the world has gone to rest.

It is all so eloquently convincing, this silent oratory, this concerto. It proclaims with the creation its Great Crator. Close the printed tome with its hieroglyphics that fade with the years! Gaze on the eternal scroll of earth and heaven, and, read the wisdom of the Most High, whose silent eloquence resounds through the ages from the beginning to the end of time!

It is all so true—so beautiful. Doubt and deviation have no place nor part here in presence of the Absolute. I need no lexicon to counsel me; but, upon the stained page of this life of mine, I may write truthfully, "All hail the Infinite, of which I am offspring. Here I pledge my fidelity to all that is grand and inspiring, while I drink in the silent eloquence of heaven and earth that show His handiwork with undeviating, ceaseless fidelity!"

POTASSIUM FEED MAKES CHUNKY SWEET POTATOES

The key to the production of chunky sweet potatoes, the kind demanded by discriminating markets, is to feed the crop plenty of potassium. This is the conclusion reached by workers at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station after eight years' study of sweet potato shapes. Discovery of this new principle of plant growth, experiment station workers say, will make possible a much more complete understanding of the growth of this and other plants; and will help sweet potato growers to intelligently vary their fertilizer applications to secure more profitable returns from their crops.

CROSS-STATE ROAD STARTED BY OCEAN

Plans Approved for Two Sections of Camden-Toms River Highway

The State Highway Commission has approved specifications for two sections of the Camden-Toms River cross-state road to be built by Ocean County, at a cost of nearly a million dollars. The expenditure is being made under what is known as the reimbursement plan, the County to be paid back the money by the State during the next year or two. The County will assume the interest on the bonds until the State repays the cost, and also the engineering fees. Bids were opened this week.

The plans call for five miles running from Lakehurst toward Whitings on Route 40, and seven miles running northwest from the triangle at Manahawkin, on the south side of Stafford Lake, to Cedar Bridge, on the Barnegat-Buddtown road.

Route 40 already has a start. A short time ago Ocean County built four miles from Lexington avenue, Toms River, to the Bay bridge. Nearly three miles of this will be available on Route 40. The State is now building another eight miles in two sections, one of which is almost completed, and the other, that via Locust street, Toms River, is just starting. This carries the improved highway from the Bay Ridge to Lakehurst. The five miles to be built by the County now will carry about sixteen miles of the easterly end of this particular highway.

Route 40S is not so far along. A mile or so has been built this spring from Route Four, at Manahawkin Triangle, eastward toward the Bay Bridge. The Ocean County Freeholders have agreed to complete this strip to the bridge by cold weather. Then with seven miles to the west of Manahawkin, about eleven miles in all will have been done. There is hope, Freeholder Mathis says, that the State will build some of the road in 1930.

Hearing over the radio that a body found in the St. Lawrence River had been identified as hers, Mrs. Bernadetter Charvette, of Quebec, went to the morgue to correct the error.
