PLAYING AT SWEETHRARTS.

"Why, I'd rather marry her myself," said I. Nothing, in truth, was further from my thoughts. Amanda's mother

"There is Amanda," I suggested.

"Amanda! She is far too young to decide. I am the judge for her.
Amanda shall do as I bid her and marry Mr. Plutus.

"I shall do my best to stop her "She shall not see you." I knew she would try to be as good as her great pity for poor little Amanda, who was so like her father and had been a pet of mine ever since she was a child.
"If I weren't too old—" I said, half to myself.)

"Nonsense! Why, you're no older than I." She is forty-three.
"Too much buried in my books and n a bachelor's recreations "Marriage would soon alter that."

"I could never make the child appy," I sighed. "Nonsense! She's devoted to you."
"Not in—in that way." I believe

"You'd soon make ber." "Do you really mean it?" I could let old Tom's daughter be married that Plutus. It would delay matters, anyhow, if she became engaged to me.

"Very well; I will speak to Amanda about it," I said, slowly. "But there must be no drawing back on your I had a sudden inspiration—being "Well, now, I'll talk to Amanda, I said, feeling rather uncomfortable.

Amanda is eighteen and stands five feet two. Amanda has golden brown hair that will get loose and tumble about her cheeks and forehead. Amanda has big, dark eyes and long lashes and cherry ripe lips and the dearest little dimples in the world. "I might learn the typewriter and copy it," she pleaded, anxiously. A man is only a fool, after all, however much he studies and learns. Do you know I suddenly bent down and kissed her, and she blushed like a carnation. "I won't let you blunt your finger tips with a typewriter," I said, gallantly. "But you shall copy some pieces for me—till you find some nice young man and your engagement ends. It was best to have a clear understanding

HER OPINION OF HIM.

If there is anything exasperating in this life it is the lawyer who delights to bully-rag and otherwise despitefully use a witness, more particularly when that witness is a woman, observes the Washington Star. It is on this account that there is a general rejoicing when that kind of an attorney is smote hip and thigh by one of his supposedly helpless victims. Of such is the following tale:

The woman was on the stand and she was a very nice-mannered respect able woman, who kept a cheap board of her guests to be dishonest that had brought her to the court to make him pay his board. "How old did you say your were, madam?" inquired the lawyer, with no reason on earth, for an elderly landsdy is no more anxious to lose oard bill than a young one. "I did not say, sir," she resplushing to the roots of her hair.

"Will you be kind enough to say adam ?" "It's none of your business."

"Objection substained," smiled th "Um," said the lawyer, rubbing his chin; "how much did you say the amount was the defendant owed you?" "Twenty-five dollars."

"And for how long was that?" "Five weeks." "That's $5 a week is $25, I believe

"Isn't that an extravagant price to pay for board in that locality madam?" inquired the attorney

"He didn't pay it, sir," answere he woman, beginning to turn. The lawyer gave a little start surprise, then became indignant at the very thought of a witness talking like

"Don't be facetious on the witness stand, madam," he said, assuming a tone of warning. "This is a serious matter, madam. I have asked if your prices were not exorbitant and you ave seen fit to answer lightly, madam Now, madam, I ask you in all earnest ness if you mean to tell this court tha your prices are moderate and that if I should come to your house to board should come to your house to board you would charge me $5 a week? Answer directly, madam," and the attorney sat back in his chair and esumed an imperial manner. The witness was not at all abashed. "No, sir," she said, simply. "I errupted the attorney, bending over and rubbing his hands.

"No, sir," continued the witness rould not charge you at all: I would make you pay in advance."

Then the court lorgot its dignity and everybody laughed except the

A BOY CRITIC.

Master Henry Clapp Smith, the thirteen-year-old grands in of a mem-ber of a large publishing firm of this city, occupies an unique position in the world of letters. The house in which his grandfather is interested makes a specially of publishing books for the young, and to Master Smith is afforded the opportunity of criticism of the work of his elders, judging it purely from a boy's point of view. He is the youngest "reader" in the world.

To find books which appeal to a boy is hard, to write such books in harder, and to find a critic who can combine the experience of the reader with the exact knowledge of the boy's needs is harder yet. Hence the solution of the problem in the person of young Harry. The manuscript is given to him, and he is required to make a written report. He is paid for this work--a sum which might not be able to rank him among the capitalists, but which would certainly make many of his school friends green with envy.

These reports are somewhat amusin Flo-"Do you love me, sweetne Will-"Dearly." Flo-"Would die for me?" Will-"No, little A short time ago a manuscript which had been reported upon favorably by two of the regular readers was given to him. His report was as follows:— "It's very good, but I don't think it'll do. I don't think the boys in my school would read it."

He was asked to explain his report "Well, it's over their heads. That's all." A criticism which was afterward hared by the reviewers when book was finally published. Lately a manuscript was given to him to read. In about a quarter of an hour Henry was seen playing with his dog. He was called to attention and went on reading, but left off in s few minutes to look out of the window. The book was not accepted. His mind wandering, showing the writer's inability to fasten the boy's attention, was criticism enough, and this time his report was heeded, although the book ossessed much literary merit from the grown-up person's view.

While Master Smith is a boy among boys, his judgment and experience has been matured by travel. He has already twice crossed the ocean with nis family, and has visited the publishing houses in Nuremberg with which his grandfather's firm is ciated. So to his boyish taste he

The ceremony of dedicating the new M onie Home, on the outskirts of Burlington of Friday, brought together fully 10,000 memba of the craft, representing a searly every lodga in the State, together with their friends and relatives. The broad, rolling lawn in front of the Home presented a scene of bewildering animation and beauty. It was one mass of blue and white bunting, adorned with the flags of every nation—with one unfortunate exception—and a veritable sea of happy, smilling faces. Many of the lodges had headquarters on the lawn and entertained their friends in tents. Burlington Lodge had its headquarters in the lodge house, at the main entrance, and none who came went away without having partaken of light refreshment.
It was here, too, that many of the thousands of guests registered. At 11 o'clock a handsome American flag, 35 feet in length, was presented by Teutonian Lodge, No. 72, of, Jerney City. The presentation speech was made by Dr. Senion. The flag was accepted by Grand Master Ewan, an i was immediately unfurled from a pole 95 feet high.

Immediately after the dedication ceremonies the Grand Lodge and its friends were banqueted in an immense tent beside the home. Grand Master Ewan was toastmaster. Addresses were made by Mayor Hass, of Jersey City; Secretary Steppe, of the Pennsylvania State Masonic Home; Junior Warden Tennis, of Pennsylvania; Judge Brewster, of Philadelphia; Bev. H. W. Stocking, of Jersey City, and Hamilton Wallis. Grand Master Ewan announced the receipt of a check for $610, the result of a fair given in Newark for the benefit of the Home and Rev. Mr. Finney, of Moorestown, on behalf of the Burlington County Bible Society, presented the Home with a handsome libbe. Letters of regret were received from President McKinlef, Vio-President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland. The detective corps, under Charles H. McGee, of Paterson, arrested seven pickpockets who were recognized on the train, one of them a woman.

WASHINGTON LETTER

June 27, 1898. Victory has followed victory from he day Gen. Shafter's army landed in Cuba and began the land movemen towards Santiago, and news of the cap-ture of that town may be expected as any time, although there is a possibility that Gen. Shatter, having gotten all the Spaniards in that vicinity rounded p inside the heavy fortifica-tions of the town, may defer the big battle until the reinforcements which Hook, where he will join Co. K, Third Regiment, contemplates coming home on a furlough on Saturday.

The stories that the Cadiz Spanish fleet had started for Manila to attack Dewey, and that a new ministry was to be formed to ask the United States for peace, are not even consistent, not to say anything about their probability. For that Spanish fleet to get to Manila would take something like five or six weeks, and it would have to pass through the Suez Canal, where its movements could not be concealed; and just as soon as this government was informed of its passage through the canal it could send a swift fleet across the Atlantic to give the coast cities of Spain a taste of the war, with the certain knowledge that chain would have no fighting ships to oppose them.

keeping up the fight against the reso-lution for the annexation of Hawaii for an indefinite period, but to the oldtimers there are many signs visible of the early adjournment of Congress.
As it has become well known that the annexation resolution must be voted upon by the Senate before the House will agree to an adjournment of Congress, it naturally follows that the signs also point to an early vote by the Senate, possibly during the coming week. When the vote is taken the resolution will be adopted, and no time will be lost by the President in formally annexing Hawaii. He would like very much to announce the annexation on July 4th.

As it was not a familiar name in Log. As it was not a familiar name in this vicinity he wandered about the hills until he came to the end of a log house extending from the brush and concluded that it was the place he was searching for. He asked for the postmaster, and a woman replied that she was the official, and upon inquiry as to her name the officer also learned that she was one of the parties to be subposed. She was also asked why her office was called Log and stated that she was called Log and stated that she didn't know exactly, but that when the office was first established it was called "Loghouse," which the postoffice de-partment considered too lengthy, so it tropped the "house."—Kansas City

The physician's idea is to attach a small wad of aniseptic cotton to the rear of the bullet. This would be cover-ed by the shell of the cartridge and could not interfere with loading or fring. As the bullet passes through a person the wad will antisepticize the wound

Dr. Lees told one amusing story about Orsini at Blaydon Hall, which showed the latter as a very simple man. Orsi-ni, at one time, complained every morning of his head. "I 'ave one bad to Mrs. Cowen. One night Joseph Cowen detected a strong smell of gas pro-ceeding from Orsini's room. He went to see what was the matter and found the explanation of Orsini's bad beadches. The room was quite dark, and did you do with the gas?" asked Cow-en. "Blew him out," said Orsini, who had never seen a gas burner before. The headaches then ceased. They were effectually cured some months later at the instance of the emperor of the French.—Westminster Gazette.

Astrology and Herse Racing.

Lord Rosebery's horoscope has been drawn, or east, or whatever may be the proper term, by the editor of "Zadkiel's Almanac," and not least interesting of the astrologer's statements is his assertion that the computations were made "by permission." As his lordship has not been moved to deny this is may has not been moved to deny this it may be regarded as true and adds credibility to Augustus J. C. Hare's revelations as to Augustus J. C. The story of the destruction of Cervera's fleet is almost as complete as that of the destruction of Montojo's fleet by Dewey. In both actions all the Spanish ships were destroyed, and in both cases no American ship suffered any damage. At Manila, the Spanish loss was heavy, but no American was kuled. In the destruction of Cervera's fleet only one American was killed and two were injured. The Spanish loss was very heavy, those who escaped with their lives being made prisoners.

The people of the Borough as well as the surrounding residents are much ndebted to the committee for the day's entertainment, and only these who have ever tried it can appreciate the labor (even if others do help defray the expenses) attached to such an undertaking, to say nothing of the criticisms. But your correspondent is glad to state that he has not heard anyone express anything but approval regarding this Fourth of July Fete.

The committee were Charles W. Davis, (the genial Charley,) Alfred J. Briggs, J. H. Carstairs, Harvey J. Mitchell, and William R. Ellison.

THE YAOHT BACE.

The 34th annual regetta of the Riv M., and in the class for cat boats, Peer less, Captain Stoddard : Lella, Captain Fergerson; Nettie, Charles Biddle, Seagull, Lee Cook, started.

The Seagull took the lead from the first. The wind died out when the boats sailed over half the course, and the race was called off, to be sailed o'clock over the usual Riverton course and the following boats were sent away: Summerville Solomon, Charles Biddle, Jr., James Coale, Charles Rianhard, Abbie Cook, McItvaine Biddle. The winners were, Abbie Cook, first; McIlvaine Biddle, second, and Charles Rianhard, third.

Tub races were also held, being wor by Willie Bishop, who received a silver match safe, and Thomas Kerrigan, who finished second, received a pear handled pocket knife.

TWO FIRES.

Fire was discovered in Charles Low den's carpenter shop in the rear of his house, on West Broad street, shortly after five o'clock on Tuesday aftern on, and although the neighbors and firemen were quick to respond to the alarm, yet, owing to the nature of the building, it was nearly all destroyed. entailing a loss of over $200.

A candle had been left on a shelf in the cellar, when it burned down and set fire to the wood work, but was discovered in the nick of time and was put out by . William Worrell, with the garden hose. Mr. and Mrs. Lippincott were away at the time and did not arrive back until the

TEACHERS CANNOT WITHDRAW

Teachers belonging to the State Retrement Fund cannot withdraw from the fund as long as they are teachers, according to an opinion given two weeks ago by Attorney General Gray Superintendent Baxter requested the opinion in view of the many applicacations received lately from teachers who desire to withdraw. There have been numerous applications since the Governor vetoed the supplemental bill intended to strengthen the fund. The Attorney General holds that in joining the fund they participate in a contract which they cannot annul. For the fund one per cent. of the teachers' sala ries is retained each month. There are about 2,500 teachers not members of the fund. The hill vetoed by the

THE OUTLOOK. Mr. George Kennan's "Story of the War," now appearing in The Outlook, is constantly growing in interest. One of his latest letters takes up the subject of the management of the Florida camps and the starting of the Shafter expedition. Mr. Kennan treats this important topic freely and frankly, but with great fair-mindedness, admitting all possible excuses, and yet pointing out many ways by which prudence and foresight could have avoided irritating delays. Mr. Kennan is now actually in Caba, and his comments on the Santiago campaign will be awaited now actually in Caba, and his comments on the Santiago campaign will be awaited eagerly. ($1 a year. STACKHOUSE -June 27, at Medford, Eathe Stackhouse, in her 84th year. A SUPERB "WAR NUMBER"

The National Magazine" for June Periodical Worth Buying and Pre serving.

War news appears to have ab-orbed pretty much of everything during the past month. "The National Magazine" of Boston for June responds enthusiastically like a true patriot to the public mood, with a special war number. It is altogether a superto effort.

The cover page in national colors represents a timely naval scene. The frontispiece gives a scene on board an American man-of war, manning a ten inch gun at the battle of Manila. The companion pieve is Hunt's famous painting, "The Trumpeter," and these illustrations have an American fervor that stirs the blood.

High-minded patriotism is enthroned on every page of this issue and is truly refreshing. The "Outburst of Patriotic Sentiment" describes the blaze of enthusiasm in the halis of Congress which welded the ties of national unity and marked an epoch in history. The eloquent, sentiments are here presented in permanent form for the first time. The n-table changes in "Naval and Army Evolution" since 1861 are interestingly described and the legal procedure in reference to prize and the legal procedure to prize the prize the prize that the prize the prize that the prize the prize the prize the prize that the prize the prize that th n table changes in "Naval and Army Evolution" since 1861 are interestingly described famous Weisgerber painting is a most timely subject. "Memorable Scenes in dur Pirst Congress" is a dramatic and timely historical narrative, giving the real incidents and atmosphere of the times when we had our first diplomatic brush with Spain. "War Times at the White House" is also a timely sketch, and "The Naval Militia" is an arcticle of great importance, as it is the first time it has ever been fully described in public print.

"Herioam on the Battlefield" is a popular and stirring bit of literature at this time and is illustrated from famous naval and land lasttle paintings. "The American Volunteer" is another illustrated article showing the various uniforms, the manner and method of recruiting volunteers for the American army since the days of the minute men in 1775. As if to cap the sheaf of interest, Walt Whitman's "Song of the Banner at Daybreak" appears for the first time in a periodical, and stirring recollections are also awakened by the publication of Bayard Taylor's "Song of the Camp." Prevenan Farbush's sketch, "A Fellow and a Fool" is in his most charming vein and adds a well- lefined bit of sunshine to the grim description of war times and incidents.

The usual quota of excellent short stories and departments is maintained, and all through this number is maintained, and all

"THANK YOU."

It Is the Small Courtesies That Make Life

"On every hand one hears of the neg lect to say 'Thank you,' " writes Ed-ward W Bok on "The Saying of 'Thank You, " in The Ladies Home Journal. really know how little of what o to them is their due and right and how much of what comes to them is by favor and courtesy. The vast majority of things wihch come to us come by pure favor, by courtesy And we should rec-oguize this No act of kindness, however slight, should go unnoticed. A 'Thank you' is a simple thing to say. It requires but a few moments to write it, but it often means much. It means everything sometimes to the person re-ceiving it. It means a renewed faith in human nature in some cases. A word of thanks is never lost, never wasted. the person to whom it is directed, its ne else who has heard it It is certain ly not lost upon ourselves The most of us are quick enough to thank some one small courtesy, just as great as the large service in reality, we overlook. It doesn't seem worth while to give thanks for small things. And yet what would we be today and where would some of us be but for the small courtesies of life? They are what make life worth living

Thursday of each November set aparas a day of Thanksgiving, but it would be far better if a great many of us car-ried the spirit of the day into all the other days. Perhaps if we did so we might have more mercies to be thank-ful for on Thanksgiving day Do not let the spirit of thanks stop with nigh fall on Thanksgiving day Let us ex-tend it to all the other days of the year, to the people whose lives touch ours When we receive a favor at the hands of any one, no matter how small it may be, let us say the words, 'Thank you.
If they should be written, let us write them. Let us not delay them, but take advantage of the instant when our heart is touched. Let there be more Thank yous' said by everybody—thousands of them. And the world will be a better brighter and happier place to live in because of them."

There is in London an institution called the Hogarth club, the member-ship of which is restricted to artists and falling down. The streets are dirty and litterateurs. It is something on the line of the old Bohemian club, and both business men and American millionaires ness there at all. They are a saving are strictly interdicted. Whistler is a member, and, of course, shines by his witticisms. The lines being strictly drawn there is always an effort being made by some outsider to force an en-trance, and in the case of Baron Grant it met with success. Grant was a treble millionaire who had made his fortune in Turkish contracts and had invested in an Italian title on his way back to London. He was a particularly notorious person and quite the last man whom the Hogarths should have admitted. However, by dint of buying pictures he got in and proceeded to make his friends

Governor Voorhees has appointed a commission of three persons to revise the school laws and report at the next session of the Legislature. The prac tice of making from three hundred to five hundred new laws every winter is becoming one of the greatest impositions of the age, says the Bordentown Register, which adds that individuals, muncipalities and corporations succeed in having laws made to order, many of them for really special purposes. Then when a certain class has become a shifting cargo, commissioners are appointed to sift out the kernels, wind ng up with a new act declaring, "All acts conflicting with the provisions of this ac' are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately."

FARMERS BREAK THE BUGGY

It is claimed that for years buggy manufacturers have secured exorbitant prices for their goods, but recently, through the combined assistance of the tarmers of Iowa, Illinois and other states, SEARS, ROEBUCK & Co., of Chicago, have got the price of open buggies down to $16.50; Top Buggies, $22.75; Top Surries, $43.75, and upwards, and they are shipping them in immension state. They send an immense Buggy Catalogue free, postpaid, to any one who asks for it. OBSERVATIONS BY PENN.

I observed recently several train load of troops rolling out from the B & O. R. R. station in Philadelphia. the regiments hailed from Upper New York and Massachusetts. Seldom, I their personal aper trance every man of them though young in years, ap-peared every inch the soldier, realizing their mission yet withall cheerfull and apparently eager for the fray that was to help suffering humanity.

I observe the "Philadelphia Times" that is shown the flag by so many peoor above their houses and leave it there night and day, rain or shine. On shipboard and at military poets where the flag has its real significance t is raised at suprise and lowered at sunset. It is never left out at nights and in storms. Thus the starry banner is kept clean and bright and is always is a general disposition to have the flag full unfurled to the breeze upon "Decoration day" in place of at half mast in honor of the fallen heroes. I think our "Grand Army" yeterans hereabouts will agree with me in this rance as to position will be maintained I observed the "Beverages" they and in the Methodist church Tuesday vening were not the kind they have at he wayside inn or corner store down in Kentucky but a family that have accomplished considerable good in various parts of the country by their peculiar methods of working along be line of "Temperance."

I observed quite a number of "stand by" Palmyrians on the glorious Fourth gathered under the pavillion at the "West End" it reminded me of some previout enjoyable occasions in town when every one took a hand to make every one else comfortable when that reserve spirit which makes men and vomen at times obnoxious was cast aside and men, women and children were apparently full of enjoyment. In a small community such as this sociability without obtrusiveness should be a most prominent feature.

WASHINGTON LETTER He is a callous man, indeed, who can look at Old Glory after reading of the heroic conduct of Gen. Shafter's brave men at Santiago, and of Samp-son's gallant tars, who so ably assisted in the winning of victory after victory, without feeling new pride in his country. Shafter's men fought under great difficulties The country around Santiago would be a difficult one for military operations under the most favorable circumstances, but ranging from 105 to 125 in the shade and against an enemy about equal in number and strongly entrenched, they command the unbounded admiration of, not only Americans, but of all men who admire bravery, endurance and determination. Shafter's short campaign sgainst Santiago has made an enviable place in history for himself and his men. The casualities were large, but it seems wonderful that they Inasmuch as the members of the select committee on the census, just named by Speaker Reed, will have much to say about the large number of appointments to be made by the Census bureau, which will get to work next year on the censue of 1900, outside of the civil service rule, there was more or less scrambling and wire pulling to get on the committee. Following is the committee: Hopkins, of Illinois, chairman; Russell, of Connecticut; Babcock, of Wisconsin; Heatwole, of Minnesota; Acheson, of Pennsylvania; Alexander, of New York; Aldrich, of Alabama; Wise, of Ver-mont; DeVries, of California; Nor-ton, of South Carolina; Ridgeley, of Kansas; Griffith, of Indiana, and MacDowell, of Ohio. Eight of the committee are republicans, four are emocrats, and one a populist. Although there is still considerable outside speculation as to Germany's intentions in the Philippines, President McKinley and Secretary Day stated at a Cabinet meeting that they had received official assurances direct from the government of Germany, that no interference with American plans in the Philippines had been even thought of. The revival of the old European story that Germany, France, and Russia had formed a combination to head off the United States in the Philippines, is not attracting any special attention in Washington, for the very simple reason that nobody believes it.

Military men are much interested in the successful use of a balloon by Gen. Shafter to make observations of move ments inside the enemy's lines in and around Santiago, and they have ne doubt that when the report of the camment of the use of the balloon will be reeze. One of the employees made a so strong that it will give the balloon a permanent place among American military accoutrements, such as it already holds in Europe.

Further than a temporary shortage of stamps in several large cities, the causes of complaint made to the Treasury Department about the new tax law, which has been in effect since the first of the month, have been trivial. No one class has been more abuse on account of the new law than the receiving clerks of the telegraph companies. Where one man ter telegram unstamped would laugh and say, "Oh, I forgot," when informed that it could not be received until the she was picked up she was unconscious but upon examination no bones were found to be broken, although she was severely bruised. Let others write of battles fought,
Of bloody, ghastly fields,
Where honor greets the man that wins
And death the man that yields;
But I write of him who fights
And vanquishes his sins,
Who struggles on through weary years
Against himself, and wins.

TRUE HEROISM.

He is a hero staunch and brave
Who fights an unseen foe,
And puts at last beneath his feet
His passions base and low;
Who stands erect in manhood's might Undaunted, undismayed—
The bravest man that drew a sword
In foray, or in raid.

It calls for something more than be Or muscles to o'ercome.

An enemy who marched hot with between, plan.

A foe forever lurking nigh, With silent, stealthy tread; Forever near your board by day, At night beside your bed.

All honor, theu, to that brave heart!
Through rich or poor he be,
Who struggles with his better part—
Who conquers and is free.
He may not wear a hero's crown,
Or fill a hero's grave,
But truth will place his name among
The bravest of the brave.

THE STORY OF A HEART.

"You're so slow, if you'd stir yourelf a little, you'd do better."
"Am I so slow?"

"Well," with a laugh "you seem so, sitting around all day—not that it makes any difference to me, only on your own account, don't you really want any more orders, are you tired of portraits and the whole business?"
"You know, Mabel, I've not done cough for months to be tired, I sent so many of my friends to you, I've nothing on hand." "It's all your own fault. Haven't I worked hard all this year and pushed and fought along, places where you'd never go? I'm sure you don't begrudge

"Not even the Laminson's." "Well, I'm going around there this norning, Marie" The speaker, a oung girl about twenty, moved quickly across the room. Every movement showed the fine proportions of a round-ed figure, and the hat which Mabel something scarcaly of this world, show-id on that face, yet blended indescrib-ably with all a woman's nature, at-tracting the most unobservant. "Dear

"His niece too ?" "Yes, good-bye."

To go to Paris, to work hard, and ecome an artist worthy of the name, years ago, was Mamie's dream; and low she stood thinking. Success? Yes, enough. Friends, at every turn.

The studio, her folks had bought for her, that it might seem her home in exrnest, now looked dull and tiresome. What had changed it? Herself, yes, for all is the same, as before her friend, nore ambitious even than she had been, had come to share her studio, and make a name and a way for herself, two years ago.

All the plans and hopes that then were flooded in a golden light seemed now to Marie, stale, flat, and unprofitable. But for Mabel, might she not have been a happy wife now? Even once her friends, were all smiles for Mabel now, and why? The girl whose only fortune was her face, as everybody knew. "He loves her! yes, truly, and to think we were to be married in October" murmurs Marie. "How I loved him." She moves around the studio; Mabel's work on every side— canvas after canvas, some finished, some unfinished, some good, some bad, some quickly done, some slowly carefully done, and some just for the sake of work. Here, there, everywhere, all, she knew, very rich indeed, her friends said. She did not care, or think of it, "homely home, and simple pleasures, one or two friends worth the name, some one to love you, enough to eat, and enough to wear, time to drink in life's sunshine to life's end."

How she had worked, for what? The first hope and success had indeed taded, gone, irrevocably.

Then the thought of her home, her father's home, a palace; liberty, friends, all! Why not give up painting, hoping, give up all else, that might fall in her path. She loved simplicity. Why not sail down the stream, easily— easily. Let others pile the poor craft must high with fine clothes and big houses; with uncless servants and a ost of swell friends that do not care for them, and that they do not care for; with expensive entertainment that nobody enjoys, with formalities and fashions, with pretense and ostentation. Sitting there at her easel, Marie ried to work away, a little work still waited for her. The Davis' called and asked for Miss Lowden.

"She is at the Lamipson's."
"Che will be back—"

"Yes, it must keep you very busy; dear Mabel is so busy always, we are so fond of her; I should like to have you paint my daughter's portrait, only Mabel was so suxious for it, and mid it would be worth more than money to her, to paint such a face; she is so iastic, and such a child, too." but the child did not come back day, nor the next. Why, Marie knew. The story left but a dim remion on her heart and mind, as

When Mabel Lowden had first come to share the new home, it had been good had changed to evil, later days. Then that day had come, when the three friends had been together-a thunderbolt fell from a clear sky, what had been hers, his love, was Mabel's. What she thought, believed and felt in the first moment of that discovery, she never could explain in after years. Her first impression naturally was, that there must be some mistake. Supposing that formerly he had loved her for her beauty only—though that would be a very one-sided way of ex-plaining his affection—then let that it would always retain. She knew her friends, and even Mabel's remarked how changed she was. "It is wonderful what even a few weeks will do" they would say "she must have felt terribly cut up about the whole matter. Poor thing." But years have passed away; the days now seem far in the past. At bome again, it is all a dream.

She knew that they were not living happily, that there was trouble even in tion her former companion poured at her ungrateful feet, and then that last, worst act of all! WHAT WE SHOULD EAT.

We should drink from one-third to two fifths a: many ounces as we weigh in pounds, declares Prof. Allen in a medical exchange. Therefore, for a man weighing 168 pounds would be required from fifty-six to sixty-four ounces daily, or from one and one-half to four pints. This we regard as a very indefinite answer, says the New York Ledger. The amount of water required depends on the season of the year, the amount of work done and the kind of food eaten. In bot weather we require more than in cold, because of greater loss through the skin, though this is in part made up by the lesser amount passed hway through the kid-neys. It a man labors very hard he requires more than if his labor is light. A man working in a foundry where A man working in a foundry where the temperature is high and the perspiration profuse not infrequently drinks three or four gallons daily.

If the food is stimulating and salty more water is required than if it is not. Vegetarians and those who use much four manying less mater, then the many in less mater than the same in the sa how much water to drink far better than any hard or fixed rule. For ages they have been acquiring a knowledge of how much to drink and transmitting that knowledge to descendent, and if we follow them we shall not go far out of the way. It is of more use to us to know that impure water is one of the most dangerous of drinks than to know how much of it is required daily.

If one lives in a region where the water is bad it should be beiled and put away in bottles, well corked, in an ice chest, and in addition one should eat all the fruit he can, if fruit agrees. Finits contain not only pure water, but allts which are needed to carry on healthfully the functions of life.

The usual disposition to criticise the army commanders in the field for alleged mistakes is once more asserting itself, and it takes the form of statements that our men before Santiago are subjected to unnecessary risks. In at Riverton, on Saturday afternoon. proof of this assertion it is pointed out that while in previous wars the percentage of fatalities among the total number of men hit has been only four and one-half, in the Santingo campaign it has been twenty-five. We do not think the list of killed and wounded is as yet so far completed as to make certain this estimate, which would indicate a terrible rate of fatalities among our troops. But, leaving this point open the critics before taking a decided stand must try to realize the vast improvements that have been made in the art of warfare since the last big war, and pararms and the ammunition which they throw. Detailed reports from the army physicians will be necessary to establish definite results on this point; but ticularly in the manufacture of small there is evidence enough of the deadly nature of modern small arms to require nature of modern small arms to require a withholding of criticism until all the facts become known.

ACADEMY ART SCHOOLS.

The circular of the schools of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts for the coming season of study has just been issued in the form of an attractive pamphlet which gives all the information needful for beginning an art career. The schools of the Academy are the oldest devoted purely to Fine Arts in the country having been founded in 1806. Hence they have upon their rolls the care of the mosted noted American artists. E. A. Abbey attributes his success as a draughtman to the teaching he received at the Academy and a few other loyal students are: D. Ridgway Knight, Walter Shirlaw, Thomas Eakins, Anna Lea Merritt, Cecilia Beaux, Alice Barber Stephens, Mary B. Cassatt, A. D. Frost, H. S. Bisbing, Kenyon Cox, Joseph Pennell, Henry J. Thouron, Robert Blum, John J. Boyle, H. R. Poore, Charles Graffy, W. T. Richards and Howard Pyle.

The past year of the Academy Schools has surpassed in attendance and in the quality of production any previous record, and among the nearly four hundred students were representatives from many sections of the country. The attendance is likely to grow as Philadelphia becomes recognized for its reasonable rates of living and the Academy's facilities are recognized. The group of instructors now include William H. Chase, Miss Cecilia Reaux, Henry Thouron, Thomas P. Anshutz, Dr. George McClellan, Charles Graffy, Will S. Robinson, Hugh H. Brockenridge, and in the special branch of Illustration W. Lewis Fraser, art manager of the Century Magazine. This branch will be developed by original methods during the coming Winter. Dr. Chase will continue his inspiring talks to students through the season and the special advanced class for artists introduced last Winter will be carried forward under his energetic guidance.

Great carpet selling! Clearance of our small lotsome big lots. It's as unexpected as a snow storm in July, this selling of $1.65 Savonnerie Axminsters at $1 a yard. And of $1.25 Axminsters at 70c.

We have always marked part olls and odd rolls very cheap, in hese half-yearly clearances, but many of the lots we tell of nowncluding those just mentioned-ar in ample supply for any want. It's a queer condition that confronts carpet makers. Prices were forced up to the level of profitmaking, but, before the harvest of cash was gathered, the market was over-filled, and then came trouble -and auction sales. There is profit today-for you. Money to be made—by spending. In two decades we haven't heard of prices so low.

And it's an accident. And the condition cannot last. We shall sell the 46,000 yards almost before you've had time to link the matter over. Here is the memoranda of kinds

Fine Savonnerle Axminster, thirty style Axminster Carpets, 28 styles—light and dark colorings; including the newest on sale. Season's starting price, $1.25.

Today, 70c.

Saxony Axminsters and Moquettes, 40 styles. These are the most economical middle-priced carpets at the early price—$1. Today they are 80c.

Best grade Brussels, 25 styles, plenty of almost all; many with five-eighth borders; some stair styles, too. 95c instead of $1.23 and $1.35.

1500 yards of best Wiltons—Bigelow, Lowell and Whittall. $2.50 carpets. Longest pieces at $1.50 a yard; shorter at $1.25 and $1.

More than 100 styles of Brussels. 60c te 95c. Been $1.25 and $1.35. Velvets, 60c and 70c from 90c. Velvets, 70c and 85c from $1.25. Tapestries, 30c and 35c from 50c. Tapestries, 35c and 40c from 60c.

And quite a lot of ingrain carpets rolls and less, and rugs and mattings and linoleums. Rodman Bicycles, $20-Manufacturers find it no trouble except to their consciences—to produce wheels at whatever prices shall prove tempting to buyers. You alone decide. It is a bit puzzling, to be sure, when the air is hazy with bargain offerings. Puzzling, and not. You can skip the puzzle by resoutely shunning unknown wheels. You can safely skip all the apparently "doctored" wheels - made from conglomerate parts, or old wheels revamped. Safely skip, but you can't safely buy.

Future seasons will find the air cleared. It will be decided by you -the public-whether it shall be 'cheap'' wheels or safe ones. The answer could be guessed now. As yet, surely safe and high-grade wheels have not been made to sell at today's prices. But sell-ing goes on—at a loss—while the roblem works out. Seizing present conditions, doing our every-day best, is leading to marvelous bicycle selling here. The Rodman Bicycles now sellng here at $20 were made, with every care and all mechanical advantages, to sell at $35—to give a $50 wheel at $35 by sheer mastery of the business. Not one of them has been put together since the change in price—they are today, as at the season's start, FIFTY DOL-LARS' WO. TH OF BICYCLE-as the trade even yet reckons values-

Men's and women's are $20. The selling of Rodmans will quit with the going of present not-largelots-so far as we now know. It nas brought a tidal wave of business. The advantages are yours—if you decide in time to share the lot. Humbers, the world's model of picycle excellence, are $73. To be

OBSERVATIONS BY PENN.

I observe the New Jersey Mirro dvocates a school of instruction in the eare and repair of stone roads, with he pupils, and further says that what some of the Freeholders do not know about stone road building would fill a olume. The manner in which some of the County's expensive stone road have been, at least temporarily, ruined by alleged repairs, in the past, leads to the conclusion that a little more gener-ous application of common sense and less of sand or gravel would result in better roads. From present indications there is no doubt that the people will discountenance anything that will have a tendency to permit sidewalk riding and thus jeopard the life and limb of elderly persons and children. Bicy-clists have plenty of good roads for their emjoyment. I observe the Y. M. C. A. of New Jersey is doing a most excellent work among the soldier boys at Sea Girl and other camps. The genial secretary, Edward P. This Association has had a most prosperous career, under very able management. Seldom one finds in the Building Association world such an array o substantial business men as are found among its directors. Strange that so many men continue to live in small residences in part of sections of the cities, when such opportunities are offered to persons of moderate means to enjoy life in such delightfully situ ated suburban towns as Palmyra and Riverton, where inducements such as these are at command to become the owner of a home where an incumbrance may be reduced in so liberal a manner, a method far superior to the ordinary mortgage plan. The Herald said that Belem had been commonly spoken of as a second Black licle of Calcutta, but the reporter found hat the prison was kept in a state of omparative cleanliness; not so, how-ver, the prisoners. Their condition he cribed as one of disgusting filthines Ithough there was a hydrant in every ell and general bathing facilities i ach compartment, the reporter found any indication of having bathed within a year. It was explained to him by the prison authorities that formerly the regulations required prisoners to bathe daily, but that this was regarded as nch a hardship that the sufferers man ged to have it declared a form of crue and unusual punishment and so to hav the rule abrogated. There are in the rison now 3,451 prisoners, of who 2.933 are men and 80 are minors.

A curious feature found by the re porter was the Spanish regard for the arts, even within prison walls. He found in the south wing the writers of libel, "and the cells reserved for mu sicians, artists and others of the fin as well as an inclusive provision, that "and others" (besides artists) of the apparently, to take their instruments to iail with them, much as mechanics take into the prison workshop their own tools of trade. The street outside the prison was filled with the "wives, children, dogs and other members o the prisoners' households." The ht laskets of edibles to the prison ers, some of whom were permitted to speak to their relatives through a grating. To the convicts not permitted to come to the grating their relatives were allowed to send in notes accompanying the dinner baskets. This privilege had given rise to a peculiar way of making a few pennies among persons able to write-"itinerant scribes who for a cent or two wrote messages to the pris oners." One woman bade the scribe to put her message in red ink. She would have none of the "purple stuff."

"Tell him," said she, "that I send him two little tamales and tell him that la perrita died yesterday." Says the reporter, "And the scribe, leaning under the shade of his umbrel-

A wandering sleight of hand man was entertaining some loungers with an exhibition of his tricks. After showing a good number of them, he said: "But I have one good trick that call the shilling trick."

Of course they all wanted to see that so he instructed a good number of them to give him a shilling, after having marked it and carefully noted the date About a dozen of the bystanders did so and he took them all, shook them up, and then showed each man another shill ing than the one he had marked, ac-companying each shilling with the question:

Each man, of course, said "No," and he strolled away, saying: "Then they must all be mine."-

The largest of all is probably the Texas possession of the syndicate which includes in its membership the Dukes of Beaufert and Rutland, Earl Cadogan and the Baroness Burdett-Coutts. The total amount of land held by this association is 3,300,000 acres. It is, as is the case with most of the Texas land largely composed of what is called range country—that is, land that is better adapted for cattle raising than anything else.

Cattle and wheat are what the British investor seems to think money should be made on in the United States. That is why the syndicate represented by the British capitalist Vincent Scully owns 3,000,000 acres of land in Nebras ka, Iowa and Illinois. This property is situated in the heart of the wheat growng section. Two American girls, who now went by virtue of their marriage with Eng-lish peers, two of the highest British titles—the Duchess of Marlborough and Lady Randolph Churchill—are interested with Sir Edward Reed in a syndiin Colorado, Wyoming and New Mex-ico. Lord Tweeddale is a syndicate i himself and owns 1,300,000 acres. Like most individual land owners with large holdings, his property includes a vast territory which, like that of the syndicate spoken of, includes immens tracts of grazing lands. Zola's Proposed Lecture Tour. It is reported that M. Zola has agreed to come to the United States and deliver about 15 lectures, relating probably to anti-Semitism in France and to the trials of Drevius and himself The arrange ment is asserted to have been made with Mr. Edmund Gerson of New York and to have followed immediately upon the decision of the French government to grant M. Zola an appeal from the sentence of imprisonment lately pronounced upon him. An interesting detail of this report is that a sum approaching $60,000 is promised to M. Zola for his visit. One could wish perhaps that that detail had been omitted. M. Zola would undoubtedly excite great interest here and would draw full houses, but he most interests Americans at present in his character, lately assumed, of patriot and protestant against prejudice and in-justice, and interest based on grounds of that sort is hardly suitable for conversion into cash. THE SHIP'S RUDDER.

Its Two Parts and the Diff. Strain That Comes Upon Them. The rudder of a wooden ship is com The rudder of a wooden ship is composed of the stalk and the backing, which are so joined together as to form in effect a single piece. The complete audder is coppered, to protect it from worms, and then, besides being practically all in one piece, it has that aptached the pintles, or pivots, by which the rudder is suspended and held in place, these going through eyes set in the ship's sternpost. The stalk runs un through the stern of the ship and to tached the ropes by means of which the rudder is controlled. The backing is the blade part of the rudder. By far the greater strain come the stalk, and the greatest strain of all comes on the head of the stalk, the rudder head, where it is held. stalk is made of the wood most likely to stand the strain, carefully selected, sound, well seasoned oak, while the The stalk is of a single, solid, massive piece, stout as an oak tree and indeed of the dimensions of a small something that a man can pin his faith to, if he can have faith in any wood, while the backing or blade many modern wooden masts, built up.

It would be difficult if not impossible to find trees that would yield planks big enough for the purpose in a single piece, and the built up backing, prince of pieces of selected wood, can easily be made of ample strength to withstand

As to the stalk, stont and solid as the oak may be, the head may be twisted by the force of a tremendous blow from a wave upon the rudder, or, under the may split, and so make the stalk use-less. Then the rudder is taken out and fitted with a new stalk. A suitable stick is selected and worked down to the proper size and form, and very probably the old backing is attached to it. The life of a rudder stalk would probably be 12 to 14 years. The backing might last as long as the ship.-New York

It is an interesting fact in the record of scientific progress that the United States navy has for a long time past een dropping bottles overboard in the Atlantic ocean at the Azores, in dee water along the coast of Spain and from ward along the coast of Africa. The fact that all these bottles that have been recovered have been found on the ast of South America, on the Antil les, and some of them as far west as the mouth of the Rio Grande, suggests the inference that every buoyant object which has been dropped into the ocea during the present geological epoch by prehistoric or historic Spaniards, Por tuguese or Africans has found its way to America and been stranded som where between the tenth parallel south and the thirtieth parallel north. In the northern part of the Atlantic ocean the currents run the other way, and the mails have been delivered from America to Europe. In the Pacific ocean the daily mails delivered on the west coas of America from Mount St. Elias southward have proceeded from about the twentieth parallel north, in the vicinity of the Malay peninsula and archipel ago, thence have traveled through the China sea and the Japanese sea to pick up matters designed for the western hemisphere.

The name of Eureka gas is given to new illuminant, expected to rival acety lene. This gas, as described in Inven tion and originated by M. Hector de Favi of Montefiascone, Italy, is obtained as follows: Lime as pure as possible is employed as a base, colophony and cal-cium carbide being added—1,000 parts of the mixture ready for use consisting of 900 of quicklime, 50 of colophony and 50 of calcium carbide—and there said to be no liability of explosion by mixing with air. No heating of water and no special burner is needed. On housand parts of the mixture give 60 liters of gas at a pressure of 35 milli-meters of water, and the photometric intensity of the flame is stated to be 92.4 candle hours, while the sam amount of calcium carbide employed singly would give only 18 candle hours Thus, it is asserted, the new gas is 5 per cent cheaper than acetylene, or that at equal cost it will give half as much more light.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine atains linen it is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulths every wish in relieving the back, kidneys, live, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects follewing use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that un pleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for itswonderul cures of the most distressing eas-a. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sole by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover coast of possage on the bottle. THE RIDDLE OF THINGS THAT ARE."

We walk in a world where no man reads
The riddle of things that are,
From a tiny fern in the valley's heart
To the light of the largest star,
Yet we know that the pressure of life-

And the silence of death is deep
As we fall and rise on the tangled wa
That leads to the gate of Sleep.

We know that the problems of sin and pair.

And the passions that lead to crime.

Are the mysteries locked from age to age.

In the awful vault of Time,

Yet we lift our weary feet and strive.

Through the mire and mist to grope.

And find a ledge on the mount of Faith.

lome Big Fortunes That Have Come From

It has become almost an axiom with he majority that larger fortunes are to be raised from some simple invention than from difficult and expensive inventions that involve a great outlay of money to manufacture. This is ertain extent true. A certain American patent for fastening kid gloves has yielded a fortune of several hundred and the inventor of a collar clasp enjoys 20,000 royalty a year as the rewar for his endeavor. A new kind of sleeve button has made $50,000 in five years for its patentee, and the simple twisting of safety pins in such a way that ther is no possible danger of the point stick-ing in the child promises to enrich its owner beyond any of his early dreams of wealth. A man one day turned a piece of wire so as to hold a cork more securally in a hottle and forth with body saw a brilliant idea and patented the modern wire stopper holder, which is now used annually on several million ottles. The accidental bending of a hairpin by a woman to prevent it from sliding out of her hair so easily produc mediately saw the possibilities of crinkled hairpin for women.

Edison has reaped honors and riches of a princely character from his discov eries; McCormick has realized in his reaper the fortunes of a millionaire; the Corliss engine brought honors and decorations to its inventor and enabled him to amass a great fortune in a few years; Professor Bell found in his telephone not only the consummation of his early hopes and ambitions, but a substantial pecuniary reward; harveyized steel armor has become synonymo with the inventor's name, and it brings an annual income of huge proportions to its discoverer; Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, realized over $2,000,000 from his inventions, and Nikola Tesla, though still young and rich in promises, finds an dance of money in his work.—George Ethelbert Walsh in Cassier's Magazine

Had Better Consider It.

It is well known, and sorrowfully admitted, by all intelligent persons, of candor, that the social and moral world is being shocked every day the increasing number of high crime against person and propert, notably against personal and family rights and privileges.

Those dustardly acts of recklessness, butchery and suicide, of which Coroner's juries say that "there was no apparent cause," "no reason could be found," and kindred verdicts, are puzziling the minds of very many emi

Undoubtedly one reason for this hat many pulpiteers and moralist study and preach more often upon "Olympic Games," "Base Ball," "The Bicycle," "Military Schools" "Politics," etc. than upon the subjects of "Angels," (good and bad) and the "Devil"-chie of the evil ones-which are among the most important subjects treated upon in the Bible. They are directly and indirectly mentioned 1,582 times!

The book, "Spiritualism Examined and Refuted," which is admitted to be wonderful compendium of facts apertaining to the great system of "Spiritual Philesophy," does so treat upon the subject of angels-both good and evil-that their origin, nature, character and office are readily understood n a practical way, even by the comnon people. Hence, to read the work arefully, is to be forearmed, which is be informed; insomuch that the otherwise unlearned may escape the calamities often consequent upon ignor-ance of Human and Demon Magnet-

Assuming that the annexation of Hawaii was desirable, then, as the anexation of Texas may be conceded to have been, what branch of the government had the constitutional power to annex it? The Supreme Court has said, what nobody at this day gainsays, that the Constitution, in conferring on the United States the power to make war and treaties, coufers the power to ac quire foreign territory. The question this relation concerns the federal ngency to which the Constitution entrusts the execution of this power. Congress and the treaty-making department, no other branch of the government claiming the right to acquire foreign territory, and no other branch

The power to admit new States into the Union, therefore, which is formally a legislative power, cannot operate on foreign terri-tory or its inhabitants, but attaches only after the territory with its inhabitants, through the action of the treaty making power, has come under the national jurisdiction. The power to admit new States into the Union, in other words, can take effect on no territory not already acquired, and inhabited by people already subject to the inriadiction. An act of Congress,

But obviously this is not possible, as respects foreign territory, before the treaty-making power has performed its the power to admit new States into the Union includes the power to acquire But the question of constitutionality remains. Anyhow, neither Hawaii nor Texas was any conquest of ours, and Cou-gress, accordingly, had no shadow of constitutional authority for interfering in either case as it stood. Congress, if it chose to make an unwise use of its power, might have proceeded to admit Hawaii into the Union as a State after the Senate had ratified the Hawaiian treaty of annexation, as Congress might very properly have done with Texas, after the Senate had ratified the Texan treaty of annexation, and as ndeed Congress in that event would not have been at liberty to refuse to do, since the treaty stipulated for the admission of Texas into the Union as save the treaty-making department, it should be added, having ever claimed the right, till Congress exercised it in the case of Texas.

All the the Convention of 1787.

The Constitution gives Congress, expressly or impliedly, no power to negotiate with foreign governments; which, nevertheless, the acquisition of foreign territory presupposes. Whether the object of foreign acquisition is dependent territory, as Alaska, or an independent state, as Texas, the acquisition with a foreign acquisition acquisition with a foreign acquisition acquisit equally involves negotiation with a foreign government, the organ of commuication with which is always the President, with or without the Senate, never Congress; and when Congress under-takes to lump together the acquisition of a foreign territory and the admiss of a new state into the Union, by prescrib ing terms on the acceptance of which a foreign community with its territory shall be admitted into the Union as a state or annexed as a part of the territory of the Union, thus negotiating a who has outlived political passion and alone, as pointed out above, acquisi- a compact with a foreign government tutional right in the premises, to expose the utter impotence of Congress to make use of the power it would surp. Congress hence not only has no constitutional power to acquire foreign territory, but could not exercise the power if it had it, unless it also had the treaty-making power, which all admit it has not. This truth is demonstrable. The fact is that in the cases under notice Congress by its joint resolution simply ratified the treaty which the Senate rejected or declined to ratify. That is the sum and sub-stance of the whole business.

It is in principle exactly as if on the Senate's rejection of the nomination of a particular Ambassador, Congress by joint resolution should undertake to appoint him over the head of the

In the actual case, the President, as the efficient agent in the implied in this use of the potential conclusion of treaties, negotiates a mode is a qualified discretion, the supreme court having declared that under the Constitution there is no majority which the Constitution remajority which the Constitution requires, Congress steps into the place of the Senate, and by a general majority gives its own concurrence in the trenty (under the name of joint resolution) as a valid substitute for the Senate's confunction, bringing the territory, by agreement with the foreign government, under the sway of the Republic. Till then, the power of Congress to admit new States into the Union can have in this application nothing on which to act—neither territory nor people subject to the controlling authority of the Union. The notion that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new States into the union that the power to admit new states comprises to admit them into currence, and the annexation is made, the President approving. What is the essential difference? and, if any, where? I challenge the most accomplished hair splitter to put his finger or his splitter on it. The cuekoo has been direction; certainly it requires no spur. But the point is that the power to admit new states comprises to admit them into the Union as states Congress, in a large sense, has no discretion in the matter, but in this sense acts in a purely ministerial capacity. Judging from experience, however, Congress is not likely to fall short of its duty in the direction; certainly it requires not likely to fall short of its duty in the supplied the world over for laying her eggs in the nest of some other bird; but the power to admit new states comprises to admit them into the Union as states Congress, in a large sense, has no discretion in the the President approving. In short, and in fine, an act of Con-gress addressed to a foreign govern-ment, on whose consent, and not on the will of Congaess, its efficacy depends, is not a law, but is a treaty; which longress has no constitutional right to make. The President and Congress have no more constitutional power to make a treaty than the President and titution allots to each branch its proper field of action, and neither branch, y no matter what measure, be it joint esolution, executive order, or whatnot, can lawfully act within the prorince of the other. It may be said that in the matter of annexing foreign territory the powers of Congress and of the treaty-making department are concurrent. If they were, the power of the treaty-making department, when once exercised on the subject, would become exclusive, according to the principle, recognized in Houston vs Moore, that two distinct wills cannot

This is stating the case mildly.

The precedent of Texas was a precedent "not fit to be made," as Webster said of a a certain nomination for the ment, belong the results of his excursion, and the power to ratify or reject them, definitively. What the publin men of our country need is not brains but backbone. It is Mr. Clevland's prodigious developement of this indispensable pillar of character, combined with a political integrity which I think has not been surpassed in this country or any other, that lifted his party for a space out of the Slough of Despond, and has placed him in a niche of history. I commend a study of his career to the rising generation of American statesmen--ind to a few the generation that has risen.

One of the most amusing features of persons ordinarily bent on an outing by the "sad sea waves." Spain was a her fleet big enough to eat that of Great Britian in spite of the statistics of the blue books.

Over 1700 troops sailed for Manila on Friday last, and nearly 4000 will go this week on three large transport ships. With the latter expedition the fleet of transports available will have been exhausted, and the next expedition will be forced to await the return. early in August, of the first fleet, which set sail from San Francisco on May 25 last. When all the expeditions now affoat and fully prepared shall have landed at Manila General Merritt will have under his command about 23,000 United States troops, including an ample force of field artillery and a strong engineer and signal corps. Such an army should be adequate to enforce whatever regulations may be promulgated by the new Military Governor of the Phillippines.

Although it has been insisted Washington that no American squadron has been sent to the Spanish coast the war ships assigned to Commodore Watson have been for some days conspicuous by their absence from Admiral Sampson's fleet the auxiliary cruisers accredited to the expedition have sailed away heavily laden with stores and ammunition, and the slow colliers which were to have been taken have noticable is the change of color from been left to secure their cargoes at black to yellow on their big sign. which were to have been taken have at leisure and join the squadron later. If Watson and his stout ships be really on the way to Spain there should be stirring news from that quarter ere long. There still remains a Spanish fleet to be destroyed; and Commodore Watson may turn out to be another Dewey against whom submarine mines and harbor emplacements would be opposed in vain.

When the excitement attending the surrender at Santiago has subsided the public will give more attention to the reports of yellow fever than seem to be the case now. The sadly sudden death from this disease of Eben Brewer, who was in charge of the American postoffice at Siboney, brings home a realization of it to the people of Pennsylvania with great force, and there is danger that we may have quite too many such despatches in the next few days. Yellow fever can be stamped out of Cuba, as it has been stamped out of other places once infested with it, but it will take time to do so, and many valuable lives will be sacrificed before it is extinguished. Meanwhile. every effort will be made to perserve the health of the troops now on the island, and, doubtless, all but the immune regiments will be withdrawn as

NEWSPAPERS ON THE CARS.

What becomes of newspapers and magatines bought on the trains or at newstands, which after being scanned by the owner is dashed carelessly on the seats of the cars? is a question often asked but seldom answered. The readers do not, it seems, care to worry about trifles. The railroad employees finding them sell them for waste paper. Could not a receptacle be placed in a convenient part of the car so that such newspapers could be put, into them and delivered to hospitals and other places where such articles are not necessary subsistence of life but add a great pleasure and knowledge of the outside world to those who are able to read amid the cry of pain and wail of death, for these comforts brighten the dull and sullen mind of an inmate.

The preceding idea was first conveyed to our notice by a letter recently received from W. M. Carthrall, manager of the firm of Hoffman, Cockran & Co., manufacturers of cotton duck and awning stripes, Philadelphia, in which we gather the essences; while on his way home with a friend from Atlantic City they had occasion to buy aix and five papers, respectively. After sometime having laid them aside they were missed. The fact occurred, what had become of the papers? Upon inquiry it was found that they were collected by the railroad crews and sold as waste paper. The writer suggests that the Railroad officials would issue an order to have them gathered up and sent to the hospitals at the terminus of the road. An excellent suggestion! For we know there they would be gratefully received and appreciated.

We will now sp atk about our citizens who are in business in Philadelphia, for there are many, the coming affairs of the day do not bother them when on the morning trains absorbed in "war news," but soon they are carried into Camden and the thought of business and hustling to work are the only thing they think of. PHILADELPHIA'S MODEL OPTI CAL ESTABLISHMENT.

The well-known Philadelphia firm of opticians, Messrs. M. Zineman & Bro., have moved from their old place of business, 130 South Ninth street, to larger and more accessible quarters, 1006 Market street.

The new store is a decided move for the better, being on the direct line of travel to and fro from the ferries, and convenient to the Reading Terminal and Broad Street Station.

The firm have spared no expense in fitting up their new quarters. From the workroom, where their large force of expert workmen turn out the famous Diamanta lenses and the other portions of the firms product, to the other portions of the firms product, to the other portions of the string and sales departments, everything that experience or ingenuity could suggest that would make this establishment one of the most complete and handsomest optical establishments in the country have been used.

In speaking of the growth of the business the other day Mr. M. Zineman, the head of the firm said:

the other day Mr. M. Zineman, the basal of the firm said:

"Since our establishment, in 1878, our business has grown to such an extent that we have come to be known throughout the country as one of the largest houses in the business. Many things have contributed to that result. Push and faultless service. We have always been in the lead in doing anything that would give the public more than usual for its money. We were the first to use the phrase, Eyes examined free, and the first to retain the service of an optical expert to do the testing of eyes. We were the first to do our own manufacturing and thereby, put ourselves in a position where we could sell a pair of solid gold spectacles or eyeglasses for $2.25, which are sold elsewhere for $5. We have never shirked the service that we have given our patrons, because we charged from a half to two-thirds less than other reputable opticians Every patron of this house receives the personal care and attention of a member of the firm. No one is handed over to irresponsible clerks, everything done here for a patron is done by some one who is responsible for errors. That has made us a reputation for fair dealing that cannot be assailed. Our new store was a necessity—it has been so for the past year, but we could not get a good location for some time. Our business had, gutgrown the accommodations at the old stant, we had to move, and I venture to say that no other purely optical house in the country will be able to show the equipment and handsome appearance of our new place of business when it is finished."

When any of our readers are in Philadel is a loss to the buyer.

est in every piece of goods we show. It is not out of the unsold wholesale stock-it is not heavily charged by consignment, but our goods are all owned by the firm, who bought them for quick payment of cash. Eighth-We have no awful messes of left over things raked in from sheriff sales and unfortunate bankrupts. Do our best, such odds and ends accumulate fast enough without going out and offering premiums for them to make catch-penny advertising. The stocks here are pools of merchandise for the un-here to sell unworthy goods. If poor people are too poor to buy substantial goods they will find out some day that the poor thing was very dear, and we do not want them to say that they got a bad bargain at Wanamaker's. No matter how low our prices we keep up the standard of reliability. John Wanamaker.

WANAMAKER'S PHILADELPHIA, Monday, July 18, 1898. Store closes Saturday afternoons

We are asked to say why this store is, in many respects, the best of its kind in the world. To answer this inquiry modestly is not easy.

Queer how people ask things, isn't it? But to try—

First—The store is a growth. It is not a speculation or a jump-at-it, or an imitation of anybody else's store. It embodies features not in any other store.

Second-There are principles, settled for every day in the year, governing the entire business Right treatment is exacted from the employees to each other, and especially from those who are over Nothing is done to lower the manhood or debase the principles of honorable bread-winning workers. True performance of duty, in spirit and letter, is require.! toward the humblest and highest who do business with the house. Third-Smartness, that indulges in trickery or falsehood, is regarded as seriously as stealing. No pre miums here for overreaching of cus tomers, or taking advantage of their ignorance or inexperience.

Fourth-We invite the custom ers' confidence and endeavor t prove ourselves worthy of it by showing that it is never misplaced We confess ourselves to be human. and with all safeguards sometimes make mistakes. So do our cus tomers—at least they say so.

Fifth-The difference between a new Cunard steamship and the old American liners is not more marked than this store in its managemen and large portions of its goods. In what particular do you say? Well, it is so. Sir Joshua Reynolds could not tell the difference in his paintings and others. He said he did not know. He simply painted a Sir Joshua Reynolds—and his pic-tures today are all there and are priceless.

Sixth-It is true that this store usually shows at retail twice the quantity of any other retail storein many stocks four times the assortment. This is of great advantage to lookers as well as buyers. To sit down at a meagre counter and think that there is nothing else.

Seventh-We have a keen inter-fresh, and by large sales are kept moving. There are no stagnant Farnum Preparatory School

OBSERVATIONS BY PENN.

I observe the little item in last week' News-The Palmyra ladies will have to put a little more "blue blood' in their cakes to make them appropried in Riverton-has caused considerable comment in the clubs, lady lodges, over the fences etc. around town. Palmyrr women have been noted for cakes; no better square cakes, round cakes, high cakes, or low cakes, were ever made So much have they been appreciated that men and women have been known to journey from Riverton to socials and suppers with baskets to gather up the fragments. Some of the dames and maidens who had baked them dating their lineage from William the Conqueror, about the time the Northmen landed upon these shores, others possibly from the House of Hanover, Savoy, etc. not that it makes cakes any better, but justs manifests a sort of local pride they foster for their

I observe that in the action brought by the Township Committee to compe the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to place safety gates at the Cinnamin son avenue crossing, as provided by the Johnson Act, it is said that grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the nothing strange in this statement, for in recent years there has been scarcely a law enacted by the Legislature but that the same cry has gone forth, until it began to look more like a farce to have the expense of the law making body placed upon the taxpayers. The people are now sending a number of lawyers to the Senate and Assembly to look after the constitutionality of the acts brought before the respective bodies and it may be just possible that they are familiar with this act and like some of its predecessors, will be sustained by the court, at least it is to he hoped the court so may decide and that Palmyra will get what it should have had several years ago, safety

I observe Manager Douglass, of the local ball club, has given the rooters a temperance lecture. While it is commendable in him striving to enrich the coffers of the club, it also should be beneficial to the rooters to drink less and join the bleachers. Base ball has had a chequered career in this section, not so much on account of mismanage ment as for the requirement that is necessary for all good work-cash.

I observe the Philadelphia Inquire says: "That was a striking instance o the unprogressiveness of the progressive citizen furnished in Merchantville last week. So large a majority of the people of the town were in favor of paving their streets with macadam or telford paving that most of them assumed it to be unnecessary to attend the polls and vote for the expenditure They stayed at home, while the hold backs turned out their entire strength and defeated the measure. For the same reason most of near by towns are lacking in the attractions which they of the town people may be with the Most of the towns have now secured water works instead of pumps. Many are still without sidewalks, sewers and paved streets. The best of them have not reached the point where towns are made beautiful with intelligent planting of trees and shrubbery and the removal of shabby and untidy sur-roundings." While all these points do not strike Palmyra, the hold-backs are

I observe in my wanderings along the river bank a chance for some good philanthropists to distinguish them-selves by placing a few beuches near children may rest there while enjoying the beautiful panoramic views that nature has placed before them.

I observe it has become fashionable among newspaper writers to give their readers a rest and as I love fashion, I must adopt its customs. I trust the little nonsense I have sent you on several occasions has not detracted the interests from your journal; or any interests of the town or its inhabitants,

WASHINGTON LETTER

Peace may speedily follow Gen Shatter's victory in compelling the surrender of Santiago and 25,000 Spanish troops, but notwithstanding all that has been and is being printed to the contrary, there is nothing official in sight to indicate it. Every act of the administration since the surrender of Santiago, indicates the belief that the end of the war is still a long way off. In fact, there is little probability of peace until the members of the Spanish government get rid of the idea that the wishes of European powers to be a factor in the terms of ers are to be a factor in the terms o peace, and recognize the fact that those fever in our army at Santiago bas made it certain that no summer campaigu-against Havana will be under taken. The administration is unwill ing to send our soldiers where that lisease can hardly be escaped during the next three months. When the news first reached Washington that there were several hundred cases of yellow fever in our army at Santiago it came very near to creating a pani Every possible precaution is being taken to prevent the fever becoming epidemic, and, although news of the epidemic, and, although news of the progress of the fever is very meagre, owing to rigid censorship at Santiagoe there is now a little better feeling. But there is still much uneasiness, and ample cause for it too.

The condition which binds us to, send the 25,000 Spanish troops, captured at Santiago back to Spain, is regarded in Washington as an excellent one. Although it is a big job, it can be much easier accomplished than was the landing of our army over there, as the ships that will carry them can go right up to the Santiago wharves to receive them. It will be much cheap-er to send them howe than it would be to keep them as prisoners.

When the campaign against Santiago was started it was the opinion of those on the inside of the administration circle, and was publicly stated in a semi-official way. that it was the intention of the government, after Santiago was taken, to withdraw all our troops, except possibly a regiment or two left for show and allow the Cubans to establish their civil government in the town—to make it the capital of the Republic of Cuba Opinions have changed since then although only a short time has passed although only a short time has passed. the long ago. The minor details of it hidden in the catacombs of the Escurial along with tons of other documents that will never see the light again. But we know that those men of war marched over the Illinois prairies, and that they were sent to increase the dominions of their sovereigns. By the treaty of Paris, signed in 1763,

In revenge the Spanish commander at St. Louis, which his people called "San Luis de Illinois," planned a raid against the British post of St. Joseph. It was a fort or outpost, located at a point two miles from the present city of Benton Harbor, Mich., and 60 miles northwest of Chicago, across the lake. The force began its long, difficult and dangerous journey on Jan. 2, 1781. They estimated the distance at 220 leagues, or 660 miles, and subsequen surveys have proved that they were re-markably good guessers. It was officer-ed by Captain Eugenio Purre, commanding, and Lieutenant Carlos Tayon. The interpreter was Luis Chevaller. Chiefs Electurno and Nequigen led the 60 In-dians of the Fox and Pottawatomie tribes. There were 65 Spanish volun-teers, in all 180 men, selected with tand the arduous journey.

They marched up the Mississippi riv er to the mouth of the Illinois an thence along the track of the French explorers and voyagers. The route took them up the Illinois river past Fort Creve Cour (Peoria) to old Fort St Louis (Starved Rock). Here they plant ed the blood stained banner of Aragon and Castile. They proclaimed the sovereignty of Spain over this section and divided the stores. After resting some days they began their return march over the former route. Atlantic Currents. It is an interesting fact in the records of scientific progress that the United States navy has for a long time past been dropping bottles overboard in the Atlantic ocean at the Azores, in deep water along the coast of Spain and from the Madeira and the Canaries southward along the coast of Africa. The coast of South America, on the Antiles, and some of them as far west as the mouth of the Rio Grande, suggests the inference that every buoyant object which has been dropped into the ocean during the present geological epoch by prehistoric or historic Spaniards, Poruguese or Africans has found its way o America and been stranded some where between the tenth parallel south and the thirtieth parallel north. In the northern part of the Atlantic ocean the surrents run the other way, and the mails have been delivered from America to Europe. In the Pacific ocean the daily mails delivered on the west coast of America from Mount St. Elias southward have proceeded from about the twentieth parallel north, in the vicini ty of the Malay peninsula and archipel-ago, thence have traveled through the China sea and the Japanese sea to pick up matters designed for the western hemisphere.

The name of Eureka gas is given to a new illuminant, expected to rival acety-lene. This gas, as described in Invention and originated by M. Hector de Favi of Montefiascone, Italy, is obtained as follows: Lime as pure as possible is employed as a base, colophony and cal-cium carbide being added—1,000 parts of the mixture ready for use consisting of 900 of quicklime, 50 of colophony and 50 of calcium carbide—and there is said to be no liability of explosion by mixing with air. No heating of water and no special burner is needed. One thousand parts of the mixture give 60 liters of gas at a pressure of 85 milli-meters of water, and the photometric intensity of the flame is stated to be 92.4 candle hours, while the same amount of calcium carbide employed ingly would give only 18 candle hours Thus, it is asserted, the new gas is 50 per cent cheaper than acetylene, or that at equal cost it will give half as much

He had heard that the creole gentleman was a dead shot and equally fatal with the sword. He wanted to avoid trouble, but did not feel that the circumstances justified him in pleading professional privilege when he had virtually called a man a beat. Then there came to his mind that he could not grant a duel to any one who owed him money, and he haughtily said

MANNING THE YARDS.

A Naval Ceremony That Is Not What I

In the old navy, when United Stat ships were actually ships with yards, the bos'n's mate's call, "All hands cheer ship!" was followed by a much more picturesque ceremony than is pos sible now, when the vessels of the nav are fitted with but a single yard and word of command "Man the yards! there was an amount of acrobatic scur that was calculated to make the shi visitor hold his breath, the thing look ed so dangerous. The men forward in bluejacket uniform would fairly lea up the rope ladders, and almost by the time the echoes of the command had died away every yard on each mast would support scores of men and boys, all standing erect, most of them only held up by the crossed arms of the men beside them. This representation of a cross was held by all of the men, and it was their business to stand thus with absolute statuesqueness. Then the command "Cheer ship!" would be bawled out on deck by the chief bos'n's mate and there would be a yell from cathen to mizzen that couldn't help but warm the blood of everybody within hearing of it. When the men manned the yards the men's uniforms of blue standing out in sapphirelike contrast to the cameo ceremony on all formal occasions, such as the visit aboard the old ships of distinguished men. And "Man the yards!" and "Cheer ship!" were commands al-ways given when one of the old clippers of the United States navy was either departing for or arriving from a foreign station. - Washington Star.

As they tramped across the brown stubble a golden pheasant rose with a low whir from the ground at his feet, and with the joy of a sportsman throbbing his veins he raised his gun and fired, wild with excitement, when the creature fell fluttering at his side. Life was ebbing fast, but the instinct of the mother was stronger than death itself, and with a feeble flutter of her wings the mother bird reached the nest where her young brood were huddled, unconscious of danger. Then, with such a look of pleading and repreach that his heart stood still at the ruin he had wrought, and never to his dying day did he forget the feeling of cruelty and guilt that came to him in that moment the little brown head toppled over, and only the dead body of the mother shield-ed her nestlings.

For These Daring Feats of Burglary. Several times in each year Australian newspapers announce the departure to England or San Francisco of vessels nds value in gold. In 1896 the three pounds value in gold. In 1896 the three colonies of Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria sent away over $40,-

It is not a matter of surprise that such announcements excite the cupidity of a section of the community or that from time to time attempts are made to surreptitionaly lay hands on some por-tion of the seductive treasure. Robbing a ship's safe on the Austra lian coast is now conducted with the

as is the solving of a difficult chess problem. The first thing the rifler sets his heart upon is how to get the key. The theory, and indeed the general prac-tice, is that the captain checks the boxes as they are stored in the bullion room, complete, and, sleeping or waking, car ries the key in a leather pouch around his neck till he unlocks the door at the end of the voyage.

But theory and practice are often s bourne, in 1880, when $20,000 worth of gold bars were stolen, the police discovered that two keys, either of which opened the bullion room, used to hang against the wall in the public bar. It keys mysteriously disappeared 12 months before the robbery and that no serious investigation was then made into the loss, nor was any alteration made in the lock of the bullion room.

This Tararua was running between New Zealand and Australia and had shipped boxes of gold at various ports. Altogether she was supposed to carry 11 boxes. On arriving at Melbourne is was found that one of these boxes was missing. Examination showed that some one had simply opened the door with a key, extracted the box and locked the door again.

1889, is supposed to have been also effected by means of a key surreptitiously procured. In that case the robbery was not discovered till the arrival of the

The robbery from the China develop ed in a remarkable way. Here the Ori-ental bank in Sydney placed the gold on board a coast steamer called the Avoca. ped to the China. The China touched at Adelaide and other ports, but it was only at Galle the discovery of the rol bery was made. Detectives operated on all the ports simultaneously, but no-where could a clew be found. The amount missing was the usual $20,000. In 1878 a man named Weiberg, who had been a carpenter on the China, tool up a selection in the interior of Victor ria. Before settling down he married a Melbourne barmaid and appears to have confided to her some shady particulars of his past history. The Samson and Delilah story was in part repeated, and the public laid themselves out to watch Weiberg. The upshot was the arrest of the man as the safe rifler of the China. One thousand sovereigns were found in a tin of fat stored away by him in Melbourne. In his hut was discovered plane stuffed with gold. Th wood was bollowed out and the gold dropped in. In the hut was also discovered a bar of soap containing 200 sovereigns.

A knowledge of the existence of pe troleum at Baku is so ancient that we find there the ruins of a temple to Zoroaster. The worship of fire—so easy to obtain that it was only necessary to the vapor that issued out of it—was continued until so recent a time as 20 were in Baku for the purpose of wor-shiping that which we of this iconoclas-tic time buy in the corner groceries to fill our lamps.—Julian Ralph in Har per's Magazine.

A chime made of 18 bronze tubes arranged in two parallel rows and struck by hammers working from a keyboard has been set up in the town hall of Levallois-Perret, near Paris. The tubes vary in length from 4½ to 9 feet, and in weight from 57 to 100 pounds.

A faint idea of the vastness of our forests in the Willaps valley, Washington, says the Frances News, can be formed by the fact that by building a short spur of from 1½ to 2½ miles of track a body of timber can be tapped which contains about 80,000,000 feet. This is the estimate made by two mea of sound judgment on the timber busi-
