Everybody Out! Attend Sewer Mass Meeting

Decisive Step Toward Big Palmyra Improvement This Saturday Night

Everything is in readiness for the mass meeting in P. O. S. of A. Hall this Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when the citizens of Palmyra will gather together to discuss the sewer question.

This meeting, held under the auspices of the General Improvement Association and promoted also by the Township Committee, has long been looked forward to as the first decisive step toward obtaining a sewer system for Palmyra. Experts will explain the situation thoroughly and the citizens present then will be called upon to enter into a general discussion of the subject.

The Township Committee will take the opinions expressed as an index to the general feeling of the community and will shape its future course in the matter accordingly. Because of the significance of this meeting in launching so highly important a matter, special requests have been made, both on behalf of the Improvement Association and the Township Committee, that every citizen in Palmyra attend or have a spokesman to voice his opinions.

The meeting is to be business-like from beginning to end. It will be called to order by C. H. Hill, chairman of the Improvement Association and also member of the Township Committee. Then there will be presented all the interesting information pertaining to the sewer situation in Palmyra which the Association has developed in the course of a whole winter's work on the subject.

In addition, Remington and Vosbury, engineers of Camden, will show a series of stereoscopic views and explain the technical details in a simplified manner. County Engineer James Logan, representatives from the State Board of Health, and Township officials also will be heard. Following which the meeting will be thrown open to public discussion.

"PEG O' MY HEART" AT THE WALNUT

"Peg O' My Heart," will commence a three weeks' engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, commencing with a popular-priced matinee on Easter Monday, April 9. This will be the first time this popular comedy by the pen of J. Hartley Manser will be seen at popular prices.

This delightful comedy is one of the strongest drawing attractions that has been offered playgoers for many seasons. It ran for 604 consecutive performances at the Cort Theatre, New York City, breaking all records, and this popularity has proven itself in every city visited.

Mr. Manser has succeeded in creating an interesting theory and an amusing story for his plot, which carries with it many laughable incidents. It shows the experience of Peg, the daughter of an impoverished but lovable Irishman, and an aristocratic Englishwoman on whom her relatives turned their backs when she set out for America with the husband of her choice. By the will of one of Peg's uncles, who wishes to make reparation for his treatment of his improvident sister, the little Irish-American girl is sent to England to be properly reared at the expense of his estate.

The new Sunday school singing book, "Ideal Hymns" was used for the first time last Sunday. General satisfaction with it is assured. Especially will the full orchestration of all the hymns be gratifying to the orchestra, and add greatly to the service of praise.

On Wednesday night April 11, an Easter Love Feast will be conducted by the pastor. John M. Davies will lead the singing. Many old time Methodist hymns will be used. The Men's Bible Class have been asked to supply the Dutch cake for the service.

GERMAN JAILLED AS NOISY MENACE

WOODBURY, April 3.—Accused of making threats upon the life of President Wilson, which under the new act of Congress is punishable by $1000 fine or five years' imprisonment, Edward Adolf William Simmers was arrested at his home in Woodbine, and yesterday United States Commissioner Joline, of Camden, committed him to the county jail in default of $5000 bail.

According to the government agents who have investigated the case, Simmers has been one of the bitterest foes of the United States. He is a German, having come from his birth in Leipzig, several years ago, but has not been naturalized.

Residents of Woodbine, a colony largely composed of Jewish farmers, founded by the Baron de Hirsch Fund, 20 years ago, sent out word to friends that Simmers, who had settled there some months ago, had expressed a desire to assassinate the President. He was violently opposed to this country taking defensive measures against Germany and had publicly declared, according to the evidence gathered by the Secret Service men, that if he had a bomb he would go to Washington and "blow the head off" of President Wilson. Later, he is accused of having said: "Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley needed a bullet and I am surprised that Wilson has not got his before this."

Information of the incendiary utterances of the German was sent to Chief Griffin, of the Secret Service here, and he assigned Operatives Freuster and McTamney to the investigation.

GOVERNOR EDGE SOLVES PROBLEM

TRENTON, April 5.—Governor Edge will not stand for clipping the wings of the Civil Service provision of the German election law by the Legislature, which failed to make an appropriation to cover examinations of election officers. He called a meeting of the State Election Commission yesterday and under the power conferred by the budget act it decided to transfer from the regular appropriation of the Civil Service Commission enough money to continue the examination.

As the Legislature failed to make an appropriation for these examinations, Secretary Colby had prepared a resolution for the abolition of the election department. The Commission decided to refer the question of its jurisdiction to the Attorney General, but in the meantime the Governor took action.

Little Building Hints Big One

ATLANTIC CITY, April 3.—An effort to stop construction of a $700,000 apartment hotel at Brighton avenue and the Boardwalk was yesterday made before Vice Chancellor Leaning, when Mrs. Lora Ireland applied for an injunction to restrain John Stafford, contractor, from tearing down one of five one-story frame structures on the site. She claims to have a deed over the lot on the building, which does not expire until next January. The Vice Chancellor granted the restraining order as to the building she occupies, but allowed the rest to be torn down.

Award Contract For Improvement Of Broad Street

Three Blocks of Concrete Resurfacing to Cost $9,433.20

The Palmyra Township Committee was on hand Wednesday at the meeting of the three blocks of road improvement of Broad street were opened.

The contract for the reinforced concrete pavement to be built for the roadway between Morgan avenue and LeConcy was awarded to Ulysses Marinet, of Atlantic City, at $9,433.20.

After the railroad and county pay their share, the cost to the Township for the three blocks of modern and highly durable pavement will be about $3,000.

It is expected that dirt will begin to fly on Broad street within two weeks and the famous mudhole crossings which have been an eyesore to the town and a menace to health will soon be banished forever.

The Township Committee this week passed on first and second reading an ordinance providing for the sidewalk of Wallace street on both sides between Cinnaminson avenue and Highland avenue and the sidewalk of Broad street south of the railroad from Lincoln avenue to the Riverton line.

Steps were taken to have the new street lights at the Methodist church and at Third and LeConcy installed immediately.

W. C. T. U.

If in Denver and other cities the bars are being turned into cafes and restaurants, why not try prohibition in some Jersey cities and towns. It is astonishing what little bitterness remains. How reasonably liquor stepped out and the new conditions stepped in. Business men welcome the change. It used to be that after business hours the men would drink their heads off for something to do, now you'll find them all in the gym. Next Tuesday will be Mothers' meeting, everyone welcome.

At Big Meeting

Stirring Demonstration Takes Place At The Epworth Temple

The patriotic spirit of Palmyra was deeply stirred by the big demonstration held under the auspices of the P. O. S. of A. in the Epworth Temple last Saturday night.

The program for the evening was the tableaux of nations. George N. Wimer, who presided, introduced the program by a stirring address in order that they entered the war with Germany, beginning with Serbia and ending with the United States and South America countries. As the names of the nations were called, a little girl bearing the flag of the country came forward and placed her place upon the stage and the appropriate national anthem was played.

Palmyra was represented by the P. O. S. of A. of Waret Wolcott.

SYNOPSIS

It is an orphan, half French, half... to have opened my eyes when I sat and watched you open yours day before yesterday morning...

"What shall you do, Robert, marriage of Grex and By?" I asked of myself. "How is it that you can be his to support the cold reproaches he will give to you while requiring that you stay to bring dishonor to your name, the General Robert? You are caught in a trap as is an animal."

"Very well, then, that great Governor Faulkner can give his chastisement and lay his commands upon the beautiful and wicked Robert, marquise of Grex and By, in proper person and not have the privilege of again addressing his faithful and devoted comrade Robert, who is dead, I, the Marquise Robert of Grex and By, will accord to him an interview, and, in the language of this United States, it will be 'some interview'."

"In the hall at the bottom of the steps," he made reply to me. "Attend him into the large drawing room for a waiting and make all of the lights to burn. Say to him that I will descend in a very small space of time," I commanded.

"Yes, sir," he made reply and departed. And then in my wickedness I began to commit a desecration on the memory of my beautiful and honored Grandmamma Carruthers. I walked to that glass case in which reposed that gown of the beautiful flowered silk and took it therefrom and laid it upon a chair above the soiled riding breeches of corduroy I had so lately discarded. I opened the carved wooden box on the table underneath and took from it the silver slippers and the stockings of silk, also the lace fan and the silver band for the hair. Thereupon I walked to my mirror and commenced to make a toilet of great care, but of a great rapidity.

ARMY LIFE AND HEALTH EXHIBIT NEW YORK, April 24.—Realizing how much the success of war depends upon the well-being and comfort of the soldiers and sailors, the American Museum of Natural History has opened in its foyer and exhibition devoted to military hygiene. The display is for the practical purpose of suggesting to the public ways in which aid and comfort can be given to the fighting forces of the United States. It represents the last word in scientific and medical research as applied to the protection and care of soldiers in the field.

One of the most striking exhibits consists of material showing the ravages of the new disease, "Trench Foot." The news of the cause of this disease was brought here by Dr. Herman M. Biggs, New York State Commissioner of Health, who has just returned from the European battlefields where he had a special opportunity for studying the malady. "Trench Foot," it has now been discovered, is due to the action upon the skin of a fungus which especially attacks leather. Owing to the lack of circulation in the feet of soldiers standing in the mud and this variety of mold spreads from the shoe to the benumbed feet and causes this disease which is akin to gangrene. It is often necessary to amputate the leg to the knee in order to stop the spread of the infection. Dr. Biggs, at a date to be announced later, will deliver a public lecture in the Museum auditorium on lessons of Great War.

Another feature of the exhibition consists of devices for defending the soldiers against new methods of warfare. Among these is a gas mask which was actually in use in Europe, and a steel helmet, designed to protect the head against shrapnel. These appliances were brought over by Major L. L. Seaman, a well known physician, and are exhibited through the courtesy of the American Museum of Natural History.

There is also a series of models in this exhibition showing how the soldier's equipment, which is often heavy, may be so adjusted to get the maximum of ease, comfort and comfort. One case is devoted to clothes and color studies of uniforms. There is also a large display of military shoes and proper footgear is an important item of the soldier's equipment.

The soldiers' fare is shown in a display of an army ration for one day, accompanied by models illustrating the amount of food, expressed in terms of calories, given to each soldier of the armed forces.

The Museum is also arranging to open on May 17, a special exhibition devoted to food and hygiene, which will contain many helpful suggestions to the public at this national crisis. In warding off war-borne diseases the camp sterilizer, of which a model is on display is especially efficacious. How modern sanitation and medical science have reduced the mortality due to germ diseases, is exemplified by exhibits of special apparatus of many kinds. The Department of Public Health of the American Museum of Natural History has for several years performed a similar service to the country by its cultivation of bacteria, which it has been distributing to medical schools and universities without charge. It has been the largest collection of germs in the world, now that has been transferred to the proposed hospital to be erected by Columbia University is also on exhibition.

The American Museum has itself taken an active part in preparedness for it has organized the country by its cultivation of bacteria, which it has been distributing to medical schools and universities without charge. It has been the largest collection of germs in the world, now that has been transferred to the proposed hospital to be erected by Columbia University is also on exhibition.

"No, sir, I never ask personal favors of my friends," answered my uncle, the General Robert, as he held me away from the arms of the Governor Faulkner with a very great determination.

"General Carruthers," then said my beloved Governor Faulkner as he drew his beautiful body to all the height that was possible to him and looked into the eyes of my beloved uncle Robert with his own, which were stars of the dawn, so that all of his heart and soul and honor shone therefrom in a radiance, "the Marquise of Grex and By went three days' journey into the wilds of the Harpeth mountains with me to rescue my honor and for the welfare of this great state and of France. And because we thought not of ourselves, but of the welfare of Harpeth and of France, and did but what was necessary as two comrades, God has revealed to us his gift of gifts—love. As you see, she is returned to you radiant and unharmed. Have I your consent to try to win her hand in marriage?"

For no more than a long minute my uncle, the General Robert, gazed straight into the eyes of my beloved Governor Faulkner, and then a very beautiful smile did break from under those white swords crossed above his lips as he spoke with a great urgency: "Would you like to take the baggage along with you tonight, governor? Don't leave her here. I don't want a woman about my house. I can wake up the county court clerk for a license," he said, with a fine twinkle of the eye.

"Oh, but all friends must forgive me my deception. And then must not a courtship of great decorum be made from my Governor Faulkner for the hand of the lady whom he would make his wife?" I asked with an uncertainty as I looked from my uncle, the General Robert, to my Governor Faulkner.

Continued Next Week Military authorities assert that with New York captured, it would be easy enough for the enemy to take the rest of this country, and consequently the warlike spirit being manifested by New Yorkers is especially reassuring.

(Green Knight) to have opened my eyes when I sat and watched you open yours day before yesterday morning...

The Importance of Thorough House Cleaning

Down under the "nap" of rugs and carpets that have been used for any length of time can be found quantities of sand and grit that have become embedded there.

Unless this hard, deep-seated substance is kept out of the body of your floor coverings, the fine, soft threads which form the "nap" are ground between this grit and the hard heels of many shoes. In that way the nap is cut off, and the rug or carpet gets dull, shabby—wears out long before it should.

You cannot remove this injurious dirt with a broom or carpet sweeper. They only brush the nap sidewise and over this dirt. It must first be detached from the strong threads which hold it.

The Hoover Suction Sweeper separates every particle of hard, firmly lodged dirt from the very bottom of a rug or carpet because the Hoover's spiral-shaped brush, against which the rug is firmly pressed by suction, bends the fabric up and down, just as a wave moves. At the same time the Hoover's two rows of motor-driven brushes thoroughly shake or vibrate the rug. As fast as the dirt is loosened it is conveyed, by suction, to the tightly woven dust bag.
