All Is Quiet As Election Day Rolls Around

Only Freeholder Scrap and Fire Company Tussle Mars The Peace

All is quiet in Palmyra as election day approaches and there has been .rtually no campaign.

The only local fight is that for Freeholder, between T. Winfield Land, Democratic incumbent, and George W. Rogers, Republican.

Mr. Rogers is making his fight as a Republican and on the platform that, inasmuch as the town and county is Republican, the Board of Freeholders should also be Republican in order that the control of roads be in the hands of the party representing the majority of the voters. He also comes out strongly for the Patrol system.

Mr. Land points to his record of faithful service as freeholder and replies to Mr. Rogers' arguments by pointing out that the Democratic majority on the Board has elected a majority of Republican officers and that the patrol system has already been put in effect by the present Board, $20,000 having been spent on it.

It is no secret that party tickets will be split freely in the vote for Freeholder.

Another interesting local problem on the ticket, although it has not developed the fight expected, is the 13th item on the township budget, providing $1950 for a new fire company. It is understood that considerable work has been done against this proposition and instructions have been sent out that to abstain from voting on this proposition will not defeat it. The voter must mark either "yes" or "no" to make his vote count.

MORE MAIL STOLEN

Two Italian Lads Caught Robbing P. O. Boxes

More postoffice boxes have been robbed. Thursday morning Mrs. Cornelia Cann detected a youngster opening a box in which she knew he had no right and Postmaster Cook collared the lad who turned out to be Salvey Volpe, 14 years old.

Officer Beck was called and another Italian boy, Tony Sack, was implicated. It was discovered that the boys had been taking mail at least for two days. Some of it had been burned near the Field Club tennis courts.

Mr. Cook took the boys before the Federal authorities in Philadelphia and then they were released pending investigation.

The new boxes, designed to prevent such thefts, are on their way, Mr. Cook having recently received a bill of lading for them.

FOOD PLEDGE WEEK IS SUCCESS HERE

Only In Few Instances Do Workers Find Families Unwilling

Food pledge week has been quite successful in Palmyra. Cards have been signed in nearly every home and the workers in almost every instance have met friendly co-operation.

In a few cases people refused to sign the cards on the basis that they were already doing all they could to save food. The workers explained that this was no reason for not signing. In another instance so so, families considered the request impertinent.

The following letter has been issued by T. H. Dudley Perkins, of Moorestown; chairman for Burlington county:

"Food conservation pledge solicitors in some parts of Burlington county are somewhat surprised to find evidence of misapprehension as to the exact purpose of the conservation movement after such a wide educational campaign has been carried on. The mistaken idea that American citizens are expected to reduce their own consumption in order to send food to our Allies keeps coming to the surface.

"It is not asked that people deny themselves any food they need for their health or enjoyment, but it is urged that they substitute nourishing, palatable goods which are obtainable in abundance for a few commodities that must be shipped to our Allies. Wheat, meats, fats and sugar must be sent to Europe, and there is no escape from that necessity and duty. It is asked that there be substitution in America to prevent starvation in our brother fighting forces in Europe."

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE HERE

George N. Wimer in Charge of Big Campaign

The War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. will make a nation-wide drive to raise $35,000,000 between November 11 and 19. New Jersey's share is $1,750,000.

The Council plans to spend $10 on every enlisted man in the U. S. army before next July. At Camp Dix, for instance, there are ten buildings with fifty-two secretaries, many of them serving without pay. This work is duplicated in every camp and in France.

George N. Wimer has been placed in charge of the campaign in Palmyra. Together with Postmaster Cook, he attended a dinner in Camden, Monday night, at which F. Wallace Armstrong, chairman for seven south Jersey counties, presided.

The work of the chairman and committees was outlined and a Y. M. C. A. secretary who had been in France aroused those present with his description of conditions there.

SHORT COURSES IN HOME ECONOMICS

On account of the present need of food conservation it is expected that there will be special interest in the home economics course, which will be offered as one of the Short Courses this winter at the New Jersey State Agricultural College at New Brunswick. Attention will be given to canning, drying, use of meat substitutes and other methods which are being followed in the effort to meet thte shortage of food confronting the world.

The Short Courses open on November 19. Other courses are offered in general agriculture and dairy farming, fruit growing and market gardening, poultry husbandry, and bee husbandry. The staff of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station will constitute the main part of the teaching force, and the buildings and equipment on the College Farm will be available for the use of students in these courses.

Simplicity of Jenny Lind

Jenny Lind must have been the most simple unpretending prima donna that ever lived. When she first visited England she was bound to sing only at the Royal Italian Opera House, and when commanded to sing at the queen's concert she was obliged to refuse. Very sorry to be compelled to notify this, she ordered her carriage and drove straight to Buckingham palace. She handed her card to an official, who, not unnaturally, declined to take it. A higher authority happened to pass and took it upon himself to present it. As soon as her majesty saw it she said, "Admit her by all means." Jenny Lind appeared and said simply that she was so very sorry to be unable to sing at her majesty's concert that she thought it better to call herself and explain.

Call to Service

Women of Palmyra you are called to give all the time possible to help Palmyra Branch Red Cross in service for the nation. Do not imagine that there is no need of additional money and supplies, the demand is greater than the supply. Red Cross standard dressings in millions must be sent over with all possible speed. A cablegram from Major Grayson Murphy, American Red Cross Chief of Commission in France, says if this is not done immediately, a serious calamity and national disgrace is inevitable. The world is in a life and death struggle. Many of our men are in France. Others are being prepared to go there offering themselves as a sacrifice in defense of the great principles for which this nationa stands. Men and women, Red Cross is the nation's business, and during the war the nation needs your best.

Mrs. M. W. Wisham, Mrs. N. Wallace and Mrs. C. H. Crowell conveyed a case of surgical dressings made by the ladies of that committee to Burlington this week.

A case containing sixty-five "Christmas Packages," were sent by express Monday by Palmyra Branch for our boys in France. These will be shipped in time that the boys in the trenches will know that the folks back home have not lost sight of the "Good Will" spirit. Somebody's boy will get one.

Notice

The election falling on Tuesday, the workers assembling that day will kindly arrange for Thursday. The rooms being open Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

A delegation from Palmyra Branch was represented at the annual meeting and election of the County Chapter at Burlington.

EARLY SPRING FLOWERS IN THE GARDEN

These are best supplied by planting this autumn some tulips, hyacinth, daffodil or crocus bulbs.

Mind you, though, this planting should be done this Fall; not next Spring.

If you want to grow bulbs in the house for Winter blooming, planting must be done this Autumn; also, in fact, right now some should be potted.

If you want an up-to-date catalog that covers every phase of the Winter and Spring flowering bulbs, write to Michell's Seed House, 518 Market street, Philadelphia, who are among the world's largest direct importers. A postal will do.

W. C. T. U.

Next Tuesday will be the regular business meeting of the Union, at the home of Mrs. Bowker. All welcome. As tobacco is neither food or drink it remains to be seen whether America can afford its billion dollar narcotic. If food Commissioner Hoover finds it worth while to ask housewives to save "a slice of bread a day," worth a fraction of a cent, a cigar representing five cents worth of material and labor may also be a worth while economy. Indeed at such a time the tobacco fund of a certain New York daily for the soldiers takes on all the aspects of the work of those well intentioned folks who need to send cordials and brandies to the one away from home.

WHAT WILL RUSSIA DO?

Russell Back From Slav Republic With Startling Revelations

"What the new Russian republic does, whether it continues in the war or makes a separate peace with Germany, may mean one million American lives and twenty billion American dollars," says Mr. Charles Edward Russell, who has just returned from his trip as special investigator for President Wilson on conditions in the new Slav republic. "What Russia Will Ido," he continues, "is therefore one of the most interesting questions that now confronts the American people."

Mr. Russell himself is very hopeful. He does not believe that the new Russia will desert her allies. The fact that some things go poorly in the government does not surprise him half so much, he says, as the fact that any thing goes well. This is particularly true, he thinks, of conditions in the army; and he continues to show in his article in Hearst's Magazine, which under the circumstances amounts almost to an official report on these matters, why the Russian fighting force will come through stronger and better than ever.

DEAD, YET STILL IT LIVES

Among the many strange growths, apparently freaks of nature, which are to be found in New Zealand the vegetables caterpillar readily ranks among the foremost. This caterpillar is several inches in length, is hairless and does not differ essentially in appearance from some of the caterpillars of our own land.

Its claim to distinction lies in the fact that when it gets ready to die it digs a hole for itself in the earth and completely buries itself. Later a slender green shoot springs from the spot. This bears two or more leaves near its top.

Upon investigation it is found that the green shoot springs from the head of the dead caterpillar, and further investigation develops the fact that the body of the caterpillar is filled with roots.

The form is retained without change, and the roots do not pierce through the skin or enter the ground. When dug up this dead yet living freak presents a most odd appearance, for the head and even the eyes of the caterpillar are distinctly seen, yet from the head is growing the green sprout, with its leaves.

Historic Macao

For many years the Portugese, through their rulership of Macao, held control of the foreign trade of China, for this was the only safe, friendly port where foreign ships could anchor. Here the merchantmen of Honorable East India Company, the tea clipper ships from Boston and Salem and the Dutch ships on their way to Nagasaki stopped for supplies, repairs and the news of the world. St. Francis Xavier lived here and from here made his ineffectual efforts to reach the mainland of China. He is buried on a nearby island. Here the first treaty between the United States and China was signed, and here American diplomatic officials lived before they were allowed on Chinese soil. It was here that the first Chinese firecrackers were purchased by American skippers and brought home to start a custom which has enlivened and endangered a century of Fourths of July:—Argonaut.

Bernstorff may be shrewd in some things but he certainly bought a great many diplomatic gold bricks.

DRAWS LOAN CARTOON

Mrs. Boyer, of Riverton, One of Five Women Artists

Among the many interesting features of the Second Liberty Loan campaign in Philadelphia, just completed so successfully, was the drawing of cartoons daily on large canvasses mounted in front of the Liberty Loan Committee's headquarters on Broad street. This cartoon campaign was brought to an interesting close on Saturday night, when five women artists did their "bit" by painting pictures before large crowds of spectators.

Among the artists, all of whom have relatives in the service, was Mrs. Janes Allen Boyer, of Riverton. Mrs. Boyer's brother-in-law, Townsend H. Boyer, lieutenant, junior grade, N. S. N., recently brought E. Dodge's yacht "Nokomis" from Detroit, through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, to an American port on the Atlantic seaboard.

STATEMENT
BY
T. WINFIELD LAND

THE PATROL SYSTEM, of which so much has been heard in this campaign, was put in effect by the present Board of Freeholders the first of the year. For this purpose $20,000 already has been spent.

THE POLITICAL CONTROL of the board is illustrated by the fact that nine of the fourteen offices are held by Republicans at present.

IF RE-ELECTED, I pledge to continue to devote the same diligent attention to the efficient care of the county's roads as in the past. I respectfully solicit your support

SOLDIERS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

There will be no lack of entertainment for the soldier boys at Camp Dix. In addition to the Club House at Wrightstown which is being financed by the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, two other recreational clubs will be opened by other women's organizations, one at Pointville, on the opposite side of the cantonment, by the National League for Woman's Service, and one at Wrightstown by the State Federation of Women's Clubs. General Kennedy has loaned a farmhouse just inside the cantonment limits to the National League and the League is now having heating and lighting systems installed and expect to open the house inside of two or three weeks. This work is being done under the personal supervision of Miss Margretta Fort.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs has rented a barn for three hundred dollars a month at Wrightstown, one block from the suffragists' building. This is to be remodelled and heat and light arranged for. The Federation hopes to open its Soldiers' Club before the end of November. The first month's rent has been pledged by the Woman's Club, of Orange.

The appreciation of the soldiers for Clubs of this sort is very keen, as is demonstrated by the letters quoted below which were sent to the manager of the National League for Woman's Service Soldiers Club at Sea Girt, after the Jersey men had left there for Anniston, Alabama.

"Your very generous lunch packages certainly have touched more than our stomachs; our hearts also. We humbly say in unison, 'Many, Many Thanks!' and may your industrious efforts for the boys be amply repaid."

"We the undersigned so greatly thank you for the bags you were so kind as to give us before entraining for the South that words fail us." Signed by a dozen Battery B boys.

"Now that we are fairly settled in our train, I want to use my first spare moment to thank you for the last 'good-luck' wish that you expressed to us so thoughtfully at the station this afternoon. It is typical of the work you have been doing for us fellows while at Camp, and even though they don't all think of thanking you verbally or as I am doing, I want you to know that they all have a warm spot in their thoughts for the ladies who have been so nice to us, and if you could have heard the remarks passed on the train about you all, you could more readily believe me."

The Soldiers Club conducted by the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association was opened informally yesterday. The formal opening will be held two weeks later when a reception will be held at the Club House for the many friends whose interest and contributions have made the work possible.

SEED LABORATORY EQUIPPED FOR WAR SERVICE

In spite of disappointments, fancied and otherwise, it is expected that crop production next year will proceed on a greater scale than ever [b]efore. Success will depend on [ma]ny factors. The [qua]lity of the [seed] used is a most important con[side]ration and this should be deter[min]ed before the seeds are planted [as] far as knowledge and practice [will] allow. The State Seed Labora[tor]y at the New Jersey Experiment Station can furnish you reports of purity and germination tests without charge. You owe it to your business and the nation not to proceed without this information. In anticipation of the great demand for such service, and to carry out more extensively the control feature of the seed law, the State Seed Laboratory has recently added seed-testing apparatus to make it one of the best equipped State Seed Laboratories in the country. Of this equipment may be mentioned a germinator of large capacity, electrically heated and controlled, an automatic seed-counting device, and an improved form of mixture and sampler. Other devices also are available to facilitate the analytical work that the service to all who request it may be accurate and prompt.

It will not be a peace without victory; but it should be a peace without much argument as to terms.

RIVERTON NOTES

County Detective Parker visited Riverton this week in connection with the McCombs robbery. Two well-known thieves who have been responsible for several robberies in the county are believed to be the guilty ones.

Miss Gerda Cane, who spent the summer with the Misses Cook on Main street, and who became the bride of Capt. Paul Skidmore, in the Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, last Saturday, was in Riverton on Wednesday.

The Shepherds of Bethlehem gave a masquerade party in the lodge rooms Wednesday night, with a large attendance. Six prizes were awarded as follows: First ladies' prize, Mrs. Otto Sauer; second ladies' prize, Mrs. Eliza Faunce, Palmyra; first men's prize, John Maloney; second men's prize, Mrs. King, Palmyra, who was so cleverly disguised as a man with a hand organ that she fooled the judges completely. The prizes for children went to Miss Betty Sloan and Miss Alice Murphy.

John Stark's bicycle was stolen from in front of the Baptist Church at East Riverton last Sunday. Charles Payne saw a lad take it and start toward Riverside. He told the owner, who gave chase in Glotee's jitney, overhauling the lad in a few minutes. In the meantime a telephone message had been sent to Riverton for Officer Quigley, who took charge of the boy, who was committed to the county jail for three months by Squire Fichter. He gave his name as Stanley Caboose and said he lived in Trenton.

The first music afternoon of the season was held at the Porch Club on Tuesday, in charge of Mrs. S. W. Collin. At the request of the National Federation of Music Clubs, for all clubs to start the season with patriotic music, the Porch Club responded. The program started by all singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," followed by Miss Herr playing Schubert's Marche Militaire. The National anthems of all the Allies were sung as solos. Mrs. Mills, Russian and Italian; Mrs. Walter Lippincott, French; Mrs. Collin, Japan and Servia. One very interesting feature of the afternoon was two original war songs, "The Glory of the U. S. A.," by Mr. Robert Jones, of Riverton, who sang the song with some of the women joining in the chorus; the other one, the "Eagles of the West," words by Mrs. Wood, a former resident of Riverton, set to an Irish tune. The program ended by all singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

FEEDING SOFT CORN TO HOGS

Even under the average weather conditions there is likely to be a considerable amount of corn which will not be sufficiently matured to escape frost. This corn, while containing too much moisture for permanent storage, has practically the same feeding value as well matured corn on a dry weight basis. Where soft or frosted corn is to be fed to hogs, the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station advises that the following precautions be kept in mind.

First, the soft corn should be fed during the early stages of the fattening period, as it is relatively low in starch and therefore not so well adapted to the finishing period as a more thoroughly matured grain.

Second, soft or frosted corn may contain as much as 35 to 40 per cent. of moisture and is likely to shrink considerably and to spoil if stored for any great length of time. Usually if stored in well ventilated cribs, no fermentation will take place during the cold weather.

The pig appears to be the logical animal for converting the soft corn into food for human consumption, since the bother of shelling or grinding is eliminated. Pigs may even be turned into the corn fields and allowed to harvest the crop without labor to the farmer. This practice is known as hogging down corn. The animals will clean up the grain and, if the stalks are not too well matured, will eat much of the stover. Soft corn should be supplemented with tankage or other protein feeds the same as any other corn.

Murder Ends Beer Debate

PASSAIC, Nov. 1.—John Emerick, a bartender, of Garfield, is dead, and Joseph Cheminsky, of Passaic, and John Ileva, of Garfield, are in a hospital as a result of an argument over the high cost of beer in Soltie Hall Tuesday night. Joseph Vitralla was held on a charge of murder yesterday morning.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The General All-Around Cleaner

NOW COMES REAL TUG OF WAR

"The railways have now entered the period when they will have the greatest difficulty they have ever experienced in handling the available traffic," declares the Railway Age Gazette in its current issue. This statement is made with special reference to the recent announcement that on October 1 the number of unfilled requisitions for cars exceeded the number of surplus cars at various points in the country by 70,380 cars. "This figure," says the Railway Age Gazette, "is less than half as large as was the similar figure for May 1, but within the next few weeks the traffic undoubtedly will greatly further increase, and as general transportation conditions probably will grow more and more unfavorable, it is evident that the time has come when the Railroads' War Board, the managements of the individual railways, the railway employees, the shipping and receiving public and those having charge of shipments for the government, must put forth an effort approaching the superhuman if the railways are to be enabled to handle all the traffic available."

Among the reasons given for the expression of the foregoing views are the following:

"Within the last eighteen months, and more especially within the last six months, the railways have increased the efficiency with which they operate their facilities to an extent which a few years ago would have been declared impossible. In July they handled 17½ per cent. more ton-miles with each freight car and almost 19 per cent. more ton-miles with each freight locomotive than they did in July, 1916. They handled not far from 50 per cent. more traffic with each car and each locomotive than they did in the same month two years ago.

"But the unprecedented increase in traffic which began about two years ago continues unabated. The roads are handling at the present time not only a heavier passenger and freight traffic than they ever did in any previous year, but also a much heavier total traffic than they have at any previous time in 1917. Furthermore, the movement of traffic in the fall and winter months is normally heavier than at any other time of the year, and the present year promises to be no exception to the usual rule.

"As a result of the severe and unremitting service to which cars and locomotives have been put for over two years they are not in satisfactory condition generally. The same thing may be said of track and other facilities. Besides, the railways have lost many employees who have voluntarily enlisted in the army, who have been taken for the citizen army, or who have found more profitable employment in other lines of work. In a short time the annual battle with snow, ice and cold will have to be fought, and the difficulty of getting the greatest efficiency from equipment will reach the maximum.

"One thing which is going to add greatly to the difficulties of the roads for some weeks is the fact that this year's crop, which is now moving, is unusually large. The effect of this is indicated by general complaints of lack of sufficient box cars which are coming from all over the central and middle western States. The traffic situation is also going to be aggravated by the labor troubles in the coal mines, which have been chronic in central territory for some weeks and which became acute recently in the Illinois field, where most of the mines were closed by a strike. There has never been a time since the middle of August when the railways in a large part of this territory have not been able to furnish more coal cars than there was a demand for. The recent strike in Illinois greatly delayed the shipment of coal from the mines of that State. The result is going to be that during the next month or two the railways, and especially those of Illinois, will be called upon to handle a large amount of coal which they ought to have been given opportunity to move weeks ago. Let us hope that the public will take all such facts into consideration and that it will be patient with the railways and give them the utmost co-operation while they are working out their great problem."

The Railway Age Gazette believes that "the developments of the next few weeks will pretty definitely determine how successful the railways are going to be in handling the country's traffic during the war. There seems good reason," it says; "for believing that we are approaching the very peak of the war time freight movement, and that while there may be no considerable decrease in traffic for some months, there will not be a continuance beyond the present winter of such enormous increases in it as have occurred without a pause for many months. If the railways can handle the business until March 1, 1918, in a reasonably satisfactory way the country may safely consider that its transportation problem during the war is solved unless the war shall last so long as to cause the roads to go to pieces physically from the accumulation of deferred maintenance. We are confident that if the railways [c]ontinue to receive the co-operation of the regulating authorities and the shipping public they will stand this crucial test of their efficiency."

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

With the November issue of Ambition, a magazine published at Philadelphia, edited by Delbert Essex Davenport, with offices at 422 Land Title Building, announces the founding of a new organization for the benefit of struggling aspirants in all lines of praiseworthy endeavors.

American Ambition Association Declaration of Purpose:

To know and aid all kinds of ambitious people—

To lead them wisely in their forward march—

To unify sound ambition and nullify fallacy—

To act as a composite adviser-in-chief—

To facilitate the task of gaining recognition—

To develop the talents of unsung genius—

To destroy illusions and instill practicability—

To make the world better for us all—

This Association has been founded primarily and solely for the purpose of bringing together (in organized harmony for mutual benefit) the people of every walk of life who possess definite aspiration. The plan is perfectly feasible, requiring only leadership in each community. You can start the idea in this section of the county by organizing a small branch of this Association among those of your friends you know to be ambitious.

The branches are patterned after the good old-fashioned literary society. A combination business and social meeting should be held at the home of a member.

Problems confronting each individual in teh struggle for success can be discussed and solved more efficiently by a group of sympathizing co-aspirants at such meeting.

There is only two requisites to membership in the American Ambition Association, namely: good character and a laudable ambition. The door should be opened to all who achieve. If you are sufficiently interested, write to the editor-in-chief of Ambition Magazine for more complete details and suggestions as to how aspirants should proceed to launch their organization. You will be surprised to learn of all the possibilities of this effort to unite the ambition for an organized and well-advised attack upon the citadel of success, which all seek to capture.

Write Delbert E. Davenport, 422 Land Title Building, Philadelphia, and discuss the plan anyway. It may be the stepping stone to your success and a recognition of the 3 A's.

Based On Ancient Custom

"Don't see the new moon through glass," thousands of people are just now saying. The superstition is based on a custom older than Christianity, and enduring in places, travelers may tell us, to this day, says the London Chronicle. The Jews had a real calendar, but depended for the inauguration of the feasts of trumpets, which began with the advent of the new moon, upon actual observance of the crescent. Jews watched, with reward in view, for the coming of the new moon, as our sailors watch for the apeparance of a periscope. Immediately they saw it they hied them to the high priest at Jerusalem. They were permitted to travel even on the Sabbath for the purpose. Now the testimony must be not only that of men of reputation; it must be that of men who had seen the phenomenon with the naked eye. The apeparance of the moon must not be noted as reflected in a stream, nor through clouds, nor through glass. That vitiated the value of testimony and precluded possibility of reward. Travelers from the East, possibly Crusaders, brought the story to the West, where it remains "unlucky" to see the new moon through glass.

Win Furloughs by Good Work

CAPE MAY, Nov. 2—Because of excellent work done by the boys of the Naval Reserve Force in getting their barracks at Sewell's Point ready for winter use, many of them have been granted a five days' furlough, with special permits to wear civilian dress while home.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

FUEL VALUE OF WOOD STATED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30.—Persons who plan to relieve the coal shortage this winter by burning wood can figure, roughly speaking, that two pounds of seasoned wood have a fuel value equal to one pound of coal, according to experts of the Forest Service. While different kinds of wood have different fuel values, the foresters say that in general the greater the dry weight of a non-resinous wood, the more heat it will give out when burned.

For such species as hickory, oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, locust, longleaf pine or cherry, which have comparatively high fuel values, one cord, weighing about 4,000 pounds, is required to equal one ton of coal.

It takes a cord and a half of shortleaf pine, hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, sycamore or soft maple, which weighs about 3,000 pounds a cord, to equal a ton of coal, while for cedar, redwood, poplar, catalpa, Norway pine, sypress, basswood, spruce, and white pine, two cords, weighing about 2,000 pounds each, are required.

Weight for weight, however, there is very little difference between various species. Resin affords about twice as much heat as wood, so that resinous woods have a greater heat value per pound than non-resinous woods, and this increased value varies, of course, with the resin content.

The available heat value of a cord of wood depends also on the amount of moisture present. When the wood is green part of the heat which it is capable of yielding is taken up in evaporating the water. The greater amount of water in the wood the more heat is lost.

Furthermore, cords vary as to the amount of solid wood they contain, even when they are of the standard dimension and occupy 128 cubic feet of space. A certain proportion of this space is made up of air spaces between the sticks, and this air space may be considerable in a cord of twisted, crooked, and knotty sticks. Out of the 128 cubic feet, a fair average of solid wood is about 80 cubic feet.

This, however, applies to the standard cord, in which the sticks are cut to four-foot lengths and piled 4 feet high and 8 feet long. Instead of buying the 4 foot lengths, however, most people now-a-days have the sticks cut into two-feet wengths by a gasoline saw. This results in a saving of both time and labor. The purchaser should however, care to see that he gets full measurement when wood is bought in this way. In parts of New England a stack of 16 inch wood 4 feet high and 8 feet long is commonly sold as a "run," but contains only one-third of a cord.

Where wood is to be burned in a stove or furnace intended for coal, it will be found desirable, the foresters say, to cover the grate partly with sheet iron or fire brick, in order to reduce the draught. If this is not done the wood is wasted by being consumed too fast, and makes a very hot fire which in a furnace may damage the fire box.

It is pointed out, however, that heat value is not the only test of usefulness in fuel wood and since 95 per cent. of all wood used for fuel is consumed for domestic purposes, largely in farm houses, such factors as rapidity of burning and ease of lighting are important. Each section of the country has its favored woods and these are said to be, in general, the right ones to use. Hickory, of the non-resinous woods, has the highest fuel value per unit volume of wood, and has other advantages. It burns evenly, and, as housewives say, holds the heat. The oaks come next, followed by beech, birch and maple. The white pine have a relatively low heat value per unit volume, but have other advantages. They ignite readily and give out a quick hot flame, but one that soon dies down. This makes them favorites with rural housekeepers as a summer wood, because they are particularly adapted for hot days in the kitchen. The same is true of gray birch, or "white birch," as it is often called, in the regions in which it abounds. With the resinous pines a drawback is their oily black smoke.

Although not exactly a Jack of all trades, the train announcer is nevertheless a man of many callings.

PILLORY DREADED BY ALL

It is less than a century ago since the pillory was abolished in Britain. The pillory, as a form of torture was known all over Europe and from all acounts, it had a larger history in Germany than in this country.

Its form is, of course, familiar to all. The culprit, generally a criminal—though men were often put in the pillory for political offenses as well—was placed on a platform, and his head and hands were inclosed in a small wooden frame. If public opinion went against the culprit, his fate was often a terrible one, for the enraged populace beat and stoned him.

Readers of Besant's novel, "The Orange Girl," will know how this torture was dreaded by all classes of criminals. Occasionally a prominent and influential personality would be sentenced to detention in the pillory, as was Lord Cochrane, but, fortunately for his lordship, the punishment was never carried out. Strange scenes were often witnessed at the pillory, as in 1739, when the offender was supplied with refreshments during his imprisonment, and protected from the weather by means of an umbrella.—London Tit-Bits.

PIGMY PEOPLE OF MARIVELES

High up on the slopes of Mount Mariveles in the Philippine Islands dwell the last remnants of an ancient and most mysterious race—the negritos, or "little negroes." Scientists differ hopelessly as to their origin and history, but the traveler who is fortunate enough to penetrate into their carefully hidden villages finds the quaint little people extremely interesting, says Lewis R. Freeman in the World Wide Magazine. Though disinclined to work, the negrito is indefatigable in the chase. He will hunt all day without eating anything but the mango, or banana, that he may seize as he rushes by. If the dogs are scarce for any reason, women are pressed into service, and these go loping through the brush, yelping in imitation of the canines for whom they are substituted. Sometimes a beater will emerge from the brush carrying a pig he has encountered and killed, or, more important still, bringing news of the sighting of a python. In this case the whole hunt is called in and its energies directed to the capture of the big snake, which when killed, is carried in triumphal procession to the village, where it furnishes a feast for all who can be gathered together for the great occasion.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Salts.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Charles Davison and family have returned from Atlantic City.

Hallowe'en was quietly celebrated in town, the young folks enjoying themselves in much the usual way. A fence was broken down on Cinnaminson avenue and several doormats were misplaced, but generally speaking, pranks were few and comparatively harmless.

Why is it that Palmyra's Honor Roll, which was erected and unveiled with so much expense and ceremony, has had no further attention paid to it? Apparently no further names have been added s'nce it was erected and several misspelled names have never been corrected.

Fred Sack is doubling the size of his store at 113 West Broad street and will devote the entire eastern half to a modern shoe store. The extension, formerly occupied by a tailoring shop, is now being remodeled. The new section is expected to be opened by a week from Saturday.

Recorder Hires lost the use of his right arm temporarily Monday morning and his chest also was affected, as the result of partial stoppage of blood circulation. It was rumored that the Judge had suffered a stroke of paralysis, but this was incorrect. Massage and electrical treatment has been applied and he has virtually recovered.

A benefit will be given at the Broadway Palace on Nov. 9 and 10 by the Wesleyan Bible Class of the M. E. Sunday School. The show will consist of a nine reel feature, the dramatization of the famous civil war story, "The Crisis" and will last two hours. The production is well worth seeing. In addition there will also be a musical program.

Harold Warner and George Truman last Saturday collected a big load of supplies from patriotic Palmyra merchants and took the "eats" to Palmyra boys at Camp Dix. Among the merchants contributing were: W. H. Cook, Sol Romm, Maurice Schwartz, Pine's Pharmacy, W. T. McAllister, W. S. Vaughn Mrs. G. A. Hahn, M. Birenbaum, and Herman Schwartz.

Funeral services for Albert S. Bispham, who died last Thursday, were held Monday afternoon at the home of his mother in Moorestown, with burial in Morgan cemetery, Palmyra. Rev. C. W. Williams conducted the services and firemen of the Independence Company were pall bearers. Mr. Bispham's son, Howard, will live with his father's sister, Mrs. Gauntt.

First Lt. Dr. H. R. Rarig, of Au Sable Forks, New York, has been assigned to the Surgical Staff of Field Hospital No. 337 attached to the 85th division of the National Army, for duty at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan. At the time of his call Dr. Rarig and family were making their home with Mrs. Rarig's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Corneal, of Leconey avenue.

The State Congress of Mothers' and Parent Teachers' Association will be held in the High School Building at Moorestown at Second Church streets next Friday and Saturday. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions Friday and morning and afternoon meetings Saturday. All parents and teachers who can possibly attend are urged to do so as the program will be most interesting and beneficial. The delegates from Palmyra are Mrs. Walter Tees, Mrs. J. H. Abdill, Mrs. Frank Matthews and Mrs. A. C. Giberson. The County Congress will meet in Palmyra the third Saturday in February.

The Palmyra Home Guard has appointed a finance committee, composed of C. W. Wanger, G. M. Becker, Mr. Richards, P. G. McMahon and John Stuckey to manage the affairs of the company. By-laws also have been adopted. The new rifles are expected in about two weeks. When they are received, the Palmyra Guards, in conjunction with Riverton, will build a rifle range at the gravel pits. An entertainment will be given soon and the boys also are planning to pay Haddonfield a visit. This Saturday afternoon a thing well worth seeing will be the sham battle at Merchantville between Merchantville and Haddon Heights.

CAREER SEEKING WOMEN

One hundred women a day come career seeking in New York city. This is the figure furnished by Director C. B. Barns of the State Bureau of Employment. He bases his estimate upon the number of women handled daily by the Travelers' Aid, the number registered at hotels and those registered by the State Bureau and other employment agencies.

One hundred women a day, 36,500 a year. A fraction over four every hour; approximately one every time the minute hand crosses the fifteen minute mark.

Mr. Barns estimates that a large percentage of career seekers come from up State and towns about New York and New Jersey. Probably 50 per cent., he says, come from western States. The smallest portion of the number comes from the South. Some succeed; more fail. Yet always others come, answering the call of the minute hand as it mills round and round like the finger of Fate, beckoning.

Statistics are impersonal. They say nothing of who the women are nor why they come nor what they find instead of what they expect. They don't say there's tragedy in a head shake. And a laugh round the edge of tragedy.

Statistics haven't told the whole story. They do not say that hope, promise, disaster wait a hundred times a day for the woman who comes to New York.—Winifred Van Duzer in New York American.

Aviators Fly to Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 2.—Making the trip of more than 100 miles without difficulty of any sort, John A. Laird and M. B. Sulzberger flew from the Government aviation field at Mineola, Long Island, to this city yesterday, landing on the beach before the Hotel Traymore, where they are registered for a brief stay. They are attached to the Long Island aviation station and are understood to have come here to visit Bery Kendrick's airship factory, near the Inlet.

No man is so fast that retribution won't sooner or later overtake him.

BUILDERS AID GOVERNMENT

Realizing that every hour saved in getting ready for active participation in the war means an hour less of war, builders all over the country are breaking all records for construction. Those engaged in building the many cantonments in which hundreds of thousands of soldiers are to be trained, have broken all records for wooden construction while others have broken records in brick, stone and concrete work. Hundreds of companies filling Government contracts have found their accommodations insufficient and have had to greatly enlarge their plants. Every hour saved by the contractors in erecting these new buildings means that the materials will be ready that much sooner for Government use and the builders have done everything in their power to expedite construction.

The record for concrete construction was broken by the American Concrete-Steel Company, of Newark, N. J., which built a five story factory building for the Crocker-Wheeler Company, electrical machinery manufacturers, of Ampere, N. J., the roof of which was in place on October 20. This building is 200 by 100 feet and is of the most modern fireproof construction. The entire building was built in less than two months, the construction averaging a floor a week after the foundation was finished. Many new features are incorporated in the building all of which originated with Dr. Schuyler S. Wheeler, president of the Crocker-Wheeler Company. Among these is the arrangement of the lower floor which is built to allow freight cars to be brought into the building and loaded by traveling cranes. In addition, the lighting system is unique and is a distinct departure in the line of factory illumination. The record for this building is the more remarkable when it is understood that the builders had to contend with material and car shortages, a trying labor situation and various embargoes.

In commenting on the work done by them, Dr. Wheeler said that they had met unusual conditions with the most satisfactory results.

"Everybody is carrying an extra load these war days," he said, "and the success of our country in the war depends on our ability to do our very best under harassing conditions. The Crocker-Wheeler Company is straining every department to meet requirements and it is very gratifying to find our builders anxious to co-operate with us. With the new building they have given us so quickly we shall be able to take care of our increased demand and in that way do our best to help end the war."

Following the pace set in the Crocker-Wheelr building other companies are "speeding up" their construction and they also are finding that the builders are willing to make every effort to assist in increasing their production by giving them the necessary facilities as soon as possible. It is reported that the new construction made necessary by war demands will total many millions of dollars.

Parrots and Water

"There is a curious superstition existent among parrot keepers," says L. S. Crandall in Pets, "to the effect that these birds not only require no water, but are better off without it. The foundation for this absurd belief is not hard to find. When parrots, particularly young birds, are being brought from the tropics they are customarily fed on boiled corn or bread and milk. What moisure they require is obtained from the food. If such birds are suddenly given access to unlimited water the effect on the digestive or the death of the bird. On the other hand, if the parrot be given a drink daily and then the water be removed for a short period the bird will gradually become accustomed to it. Once this is accomplished there is nothing to fear from clean water."

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

SLEEPINESS AFTER MEALS

A condition of drowsiness, which may become an irresistibe desire to take a nap shortly after eating, is usually a very accurate indication that something is wrong with the digestive apparatus. Usually this form of indigestion is chronic in character, and apparently there is no other evidence that it exists, or at least such evidence would not be detected by ordinary observation.

In such cases the desire to take a nap comes on suddenly, but the nap is a very short one, ordinarily not more than fifteen minutes. Sometimes the desire for these "indigestion naps" comes on at other periods than those immediately following meals, but in such cases this desire comes regularly at certain periods of the day. The cause, however, is the same as in cases where drowsiness comes on immediately after the meal, the difference in time being simply the difference in the interval required for the food to reach the portion of the intestinal tract that is not working properly.

Occasional drowsiness following an unusually hearty meal should not be confused with the type of periodic desire for a short nap referred to here. Such drowsiness indicates simply that the digestive apparatus is temporarily overworked and may be in a perfectly healthy condition. This sort of drowsiness, if indulged, usually persists for several hours, whereas the naps caused by indigestion are always of short duration.—Exchange.

HONOR BELONGS TO FITCH

The first trial of John Fitch's pioneer sidewheel steamboat was made on the Delaware August 22, 1787, anticipating Fulton's Clermont by 20 years. Fitch was a native of Connecticut and prior to building his steamboat had been an armorer in the military service during the Revolution, a surveyor in Virginia, and a manufacture of sleave in Trenton. In 1786 he commenced work on his first steamboat, after experimenting with a skiff propelled by steam. This pioneer craft was fitted with an engine of 12-inch cylinder, and though the boat did not attain sufficient speed to answer the purpose of a packet, the trial proved conclusively the efficiency of steam as a motive power for vessels. In 1788 Fitch built a second steamboat, which made several passages between Philadelphia and Burlington at the rate of for miles an hour. In 1790 a third craft was built and was run as a passenger craft on the Delaware, making during the season more than 2,000 miles at an average speed of seven and one-half miles an hour. Although John Fitch scored the first practical success in steam navigation, he was a failure financially, and in 1798 he committed suicide at Bardstown, Ky.

Winter and Summer Sun

The sun is nearer to the earth in winter than it is in summer. It is not distance that dtermines the amount of heat that we get from the sun, but the length of time the sun is above the horizon and the direction in which his rays strike us. In summer, although much farther from us, the sun is daily above the horizon much longer than when he is nearest, at the winter solstice, and this continued action produces the summer heat. In addition to this is to be reckoned the fact that in summer the force of the sun's rays is more perpendicular to the earth's surface, while in the winter they are oblique. In the case of the perpendicular ray the heat stays, while in that of the oblique ray it "glances off," so to speak.

The Earth and Man Compared

If it were possible for a man to construct a globe 800 feet in height —much less than twice the height of the Washington monument—and to place upon any portion of its surface an atom one four thousand three hundred and eightieth of an inch in diameter and one one hundred and twentieth of an inch in height, it would correctly denote the proportions man bears to the gigantic globe upon which he stands.

COURSES IN AGRICULTURE

...e Short Courses in Agriculture ...ed by Rutgers College and the ... Jersey State Agricultural Col...ge will open at New Brunswick, on Monday, November 19, 1917, and continue for a period of twelve weeks, closing on February 20th, 1918. Provision is made for the Christmas Holiday recess, extending from 12 o'clock A. M. on Saturday, December 22d, to 9 o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, January 2d. Students will please assemble at the Short Course Building, located just at the entrance to the College Farm, on Monday, November 19th, for registration and classification. Opportunity will be afforded on this date for the students, to find rooming and boarding-house accommodations. The regular lecture and laboratory work will begin on Tuesday morning, November 20th, following convocation and assembly conducted by the President of Rutgers College in the auditorium of the New Agricultural Building.

The demand during the war and the years that follow for young men and women trained in the science of agriculture and the art of home making will be greater than ever before in our history. The college believes that it can render no greater service to our State and nation than to prepare young people to meet this demand. It is evident from reports that reach us from countries now at war that the technically trained men, as well as the practically efficient men and women are serving their country with the greatest credit and with the highest ideals. Even with the uncertainties that are evident, our short courses will be offered as usual for the full twelve weeks' period. The unprecedented demand for young men trained along agricultural lines that has prevailed during the past year should be sufficient evidence of the possibilities and advantages that may result from such a training.

The courses are open to men and women interested in agriculture and home-making who are willing to invest their best efforts in pursuing the work assigned. Students admitted to the courses who fail to take the work seriously, or who, in the judgment of the instructors, are not qualified by training or industry to pursue the work will promptly be requested to retire from the courses. Inferior work or irregularity in attendance will not be tolerated.

Tuition is free to residents of the State; non-residents are admitted $25.00. All are required to pay a upon the payment of a tuition fee of registration fee of $5.00 upon the acceptance of their application for admission.

Entrance examinations are not required for admission but candidates should be at least seventeen years of age, and present credentials evidencing a common school education. Graduates of accredited high schools who have experienced one or two years practical work on the farm are well qualified to pursue the courses.

Farm boys and girls who have lived or worked on farms and who are familiar with practical farm problems will find the courses very interesting and helpful. The Short Courses were provided especially to render service to the young men on our farms who for any reason could not take the regular four-year college course in agriculture. The courses serve a wide range of students. Not only do our lists include college graduates and professional men, but business men and women from many walks of life have found the work most interesting and helpful. The courses offer special opportunities that our farm boys and girls should not overlook.

FATAL DESERT OF KARA-KUM

When the caravans in olden days went up from Samarcand and Bokhara to Mery for silks and carpets, or carried spices for Europe to the Caspian ports, some of them occasionally wandered off into the desert of Kara-Kum, and few of those ever returned. This desert, which is smaller but more terrible than Sahara, came to be known as "the tomb of caravans."

If you were to venture into the desert of Kara-Kum you would travel bycamel. At first you would pass through a land of scrubby bushes and rest at noon near a well surrounded by a tiny native village at the bottom of a dimple in the desert. And here you would feel your first touch of the desert heat—a heat that reaches 163 degrees in the sun and is hurled into your face by the wind like a veritable sheet of flame.

In the comparative cool of evening you would push on into the desert proper. Presently from the top of a slight elevation you would see it reaching before you—a petrified storm at sea, an ocean of sand. There is nothing but sand, and it is tossed by a ceaseless wind into billows miles long that creep forward perhaps a foot a year, burying everything in their path. The wind tears banners of flying sand from their crests as you look, releasing cascades that go rumbling into the burning hollows.

The path across this desert is marked only by bits of bone and stick, occasionally by a human skull. It is easily lost in the dark, and it is the thread which connects one shallow, muddy well with another. Many have lost it and they are still in the desert of Kara-Kum.

OPPORTUNITIES TO EDUCATION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30.—To the young man or woman who seeks to obtain a college degree and a livelihood at the same time, no city in the country offers an opportunity more attractive than that to be found in the national capital. The several universties at Washington provide evening classes with hours arranged conveniently for Government employees, who ordinarily complete their day's work at half past four and all libraries, including the Library of Congress, are open at night.

For years thousands of young people have entered the civil service at Washington with the main idea of devoting three or four years to equippingk themselves for a professional or scientific career while supporting themselves. Many of the young men live at fraternity houses, co-operatively conducted, thereby lessening the living expense and also securing a place where they can entertain their friends.

In addition to the university courses, the Young Men's Christian Association and private schools conduct evening classes in technics, languages, accountancy, stenography and typewriting, and the usual high school studies.

Notwithstanding the drafts for military service, practically all schools in Washington show an increased enrollment this year. This is due to the great influx incident to the war. Ten or twelve thousand new clerks and other employees have been appointed in the departments and this great civilian army is being added to daily. Stenographers and typewriters and mechanical draftsmen for the service generally, and what are known as schedule clerks, index and catalogue clerks, clerks qualified for statistics or accounting, and clerks qualified in business administration for the office of the Ordnance Department of the Army are in demand.

The representatives of the Federal civil service commission at the post offices in all cities are receiving numerous inquiries from persons who wish to be at the seat of government at this time of big events and to have a part in the actual administration of the Government's great business. Women are finding in this office work an opportunity to "do their bit" in a very practical way.

GREATEST OF ALL SUNS

Star gazers of northern lands often overlook the fact that some of the most brilliant and beautiful stars and finest nebulae and star clusters in the heavens belong to the southern hemisphere and are not visible in our latitudes.

Magnificent blue Canopus, the second brightest star in the heavens, lies just below our southern horizon in the large and important southern constellation Argo Navis, named for the famous ship of the Argonauts. It is usually divided into three constellations—Puppis, Carina and Vela. Canopus was the chief pilot of the Argonauts, but the star was known and worshiped on the banks of the Nile long before it received its name from the Greeks and has been called the Star of Egypt. It has also been a guide to many tribes in Africa, South America and Australia in their journeys through pathless wilds.

Although Sirius appears nearly twice as brilliant as Canopus, this is due only to the fact that Sirius is comparatively near to us, not quite nine light years distant, while Canopus has been estimated to be at a distance of 466 light years. It is, as far as we know, the greatest of all the giant suns, equal in light giving power to 55,000 suns such as our own. Sirius, with a brilliancy estimated at forty-eight times that of the sun, shrinks into a pygmy when contrasted with Canopus.—New York Sun.

Another effort will be made to see whether Mr. LaFollette can offer some explanations that will not make the matter worse.

Eloquence is an admirable thing, but there are times when an ounce of silence is worth a pound of advice.

A six year old girl traveled alone from Los Angeles to New York and between the two points was entirely safe.

BIG CHANCE FOR ADVANCEMENT

Able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 40 are needed in the following branches of the Regular Army, where an excellent chance exists for rapid advancement to the positions of non-commissioned officers:

Infantry, Cvalry, Coast Artillery, Field Artillery, Medical Department, Signal Corps (only skilled cable, telegraph and radio operators, inside and outside wiremen, electricians, machinists, photographers, etc.); Quartermaster Corps (cooks and bakers, and, when special authority is granted, stenographers, typists and bookkeepers; no other applicants wanted in Quartermaster Corps); Ordnance Corps (where applicants bring authority from an Ordnance Officer); and Aviation Section of the Signal Corps.

There is a splendid opportunity for young men having any mechanical trade, or helpers therein, in the new Engineer Regiments or Aero Battalions or Quartermaster Supply Companies, and the like, and in such, any who have had military training or who are honorably discharged soldiers of the Regular Army or National Guard may be rapidly promoted to non-commissioned grades from which opportunities for training schools or commissions may be anticipated. If the applicants have no military training, the first volunteering have the advantage of speedily becoming eligible therefor. Such vacancies are being rapidly filled and any men under 40 who contemplate volunteering should lose no time in so doing.

Recruits are wanted for two companies of the 30th ngineers "Gas and Flame," as follows: Chemists, interpreters, electrical experts, mechanical experts, explosive experts, gas experts, blacksmithss, steam engineers, carpenters, gas engineers, plumbers, pipe fitters, chauffeurs, cooks, clerks, mess sergeants, supply sergeants, steam fitter, acid workers, etc., to be sent to Washington for enlistment. These troops are urgently needed in France.

A third series of officers training camps will be organized on January 5th, 1918, with the object of training enlisted men of the Regular Army, National Army and National Guard for appointment as second lieutenants to fill vacancies that may occur in these forces. The graduates of these camps who may be so recommended, will be listed as eligibles for commissions as second lieutenants and will be commissioned as vacancies occur, provided that their services between the date of graduating and date of occurrence of vacancy has been satisfactory. Enlisted men between the age of 21 and 40 are authorized to apply to attend and their applications must be submitted before December 1st, 1917. No applications will be received after that date.

Members of the same club are urged to volunteer together, as it may be possible for them to be assigned to the same regiment or battalion. This has occurred in several instances, notably in Camden, N. J.

Attention is invited to circular received from Washington authorizing four Stevedore Regiments, Q. C., N. A., each to comprise 12 companies of 200 each (colored); also 16 fire truck and hose companies for duty at the N. A. division cantonments, each such to include 12 privates Q. C., etc., (white). Another order authorizes six Q. M. C. motor supply trains and 32 motor truck companies to include 7,450 privates, (white).

Further information and application blanks may be obtained from Major J. E. Bloom, 266 Market St., Newark, N. J.; or write direct to the Chief of Engineers, or the Chief Signal Officers, or the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C., setting forth your trade and military record and references, also age, whether single or married, and whether or not summoned by local examining board.

The Charleston News and Courier speaks of "King Corn"—a good fellow but a plain Democrat with no royal blood in his veins.

HOW TO CARVE YOUR TURKEY

First, place the fork firmly in the center of the breast-bone at its very highest point. Remove the leg by inserting the knife behind it, then make a celan cut around it. With the blade of the knife press back the leg and the thigh. This can be done with a single motion.

Next cut the ligaments where the thigh-bone is attached to the back. This severs the leg. The "oyster," which is a choice rich bit of dark meat, is found at the end of the side bone toward the tail in a bone depression. It may be carved out at this point.

To remove the wing, first make an incision at the joint, and as soon as you find the point of division between the two bones cut down sharply.

To cut thin slices from the breast, begin close to the place from which the wing was removed. Then work up to the ridge of the breast-bone. Many carvers attempt to make the first slices from the breast the largest; this is a mistake.

At this point the fork can be removed and used with the knife to separate the drumstick from the thigh. Locate, as with the wing, the point at which the two bones can be severed, which will be just over the round bone of the leg-joint and not at its apex, as one might think. With one sharp stroke cut through the ligaments at this joint.

Next cut the dark meat on both thigh-bone and drumstick into small and inviting portions and divide the wing into two parts.

If the meat has been entirely removed from the breast, the stuffing will be laid bare for serving. Make an opening at the breast, especially if there are two kinds of stuffing.

Always serve a portion of light and dark meat and some of the stuffing on each plate. Carve but one side of the turkey, and when that is served carve the opposite side in a manner similar to the first side.—November Good Housekeeping.

LESSONS OF THRIFT

There are few persons so rich that they do not need to exercise care and forethought in their expenditure. Human needs, human desires, human sympathies, are so vast, occasions of outlay so beset all of us at every step that unless we are watchful we quickly find great resources reduced to nothing, without our knowing how. The speed with which money departs is one of the first lessons of experience to man, woman and child, but we are slow to apply our own experience in our judgment of others.

Every one should be taught from childhood to weigh the needs of expenditure. This I must have, this I can go without this I greatly want, if other demands still more imperative are not balked by it. By buying this now I can exert the necessity of a double expenditure a year hence. On the other hand, if I refrain from a purchase tempting at the moment I may be glad of my self control, even within a week. Questions like these have to be settled by every human being. Can any training be more important than that which enables us to settle them?

Exactly the same disposition to weigh and to compare must be brought into giving, into charity, if giving is to be discreet and wise and not in the end injurious to giver and receiver both. If we want a useful test for the difficult distinction between avarice and thrift we may say that thrift is more sparing with self than it is with others, sooner than itself, although it may pinch both.—Youth's Companion.

HIS PRESENTIMENT CAME TRUE

The men of the First Canadian division who came unscatred through the smashing fight at Ypres, the battle of Festubert and the Givenchy cyclone in April, May and June of 1915 almost all believed they could not be killed. They had seen so many comrades fall, and had so many narrow escapes, that they assumed the bullet was not molded that could get them.

One exception was a member of the Thirteenth battalion (Canadian Black Watch). He had a premonition of death and saw his fate in every shell that burst in sight and every bullet that zipped past him.

Each time he went into the trenches he died a thousand times in imagination, and he was a helpless, hopeless, useless object the last time we went into the line in front of Ploegseert woods. He never smiled, whistled or sang when in the firing line; he wts literally obsessed with the fear of death.

One the morning following his last night in the trenches he was smiling broadly. The company were snug in billets and he was preparing to shave, whistling as he stropped his razor.

Suddenly a careless draft man without warning exploded a cartridge that lay forgotten in the breech of his rifle. The bullet pierced the brain of the man with the razor, and he died within a few minutes.

Not till then did his comrades realize that his fear of death was based upon presentiment that came true, though not all in the manner the unfortunate man expected.—The Wide World.

DISEASE IN MAINE SEED POTATOES

Reports received by Dr. Mel T. Cook, plant pathologist of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, indicate severe outbreaks of the late blight of the potato in Maine during the latter part of the season. This disease was much more severe on Green Mountains and other late varieties than on Cobblers, which were well advanced before the development of the disease. The disease causes a rotting of the tubers, which is likely to be more severe on potatoes stored under New Jersey conditions than on those stored in Maine. Therefore, it is advisable for our growers to wait until spring before purchasing Maine stock or to purchase for spring delivery. This is especially true for buyers of Green Mountain seed. The late blight was less severe in northern New York.

It is usually the fellow who is afraid of taking a chance who loses on a sure thing.

BLASTING AND STUMP PULLING DEMONSTRATION AT COLLEGE FARM

Up-to-date methods of clearing wood-land by the use of explosives will be demonstrated on the College Farm, at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J., on Wednesday, November 7, or, the next clear day thereafter. The demonstration will be conducted through the co-operation of the Du Pont Powder Company. The purpose of the undertaking is to obtain data on the cost of clearing land by the use of explosives and also to give the methods opportunity to witness the methods of blasting and the use of mechanical stump pullers. It is desired that a large number of farmers interested in this kind of work will take advantage of this opportunity and be present at the demonstration.

VOL. XXXIV.—NO. 16 PALMYRA, N. J., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1917. PRICE THREE CEN[TS]

T. W. Land Wins As Freeholder; Fire Co. Loses

Voters Overwhelm Proposition to Buy $1950 of Apparatus For New Organization

Palmyra on Tuesday decided that it is perfectly well satisfied to have a Democratic Freeholder and consequently gave T. Winfield Land 335 votes to 204 for George W. Rogers, Republican.

The Township also decided with emphasis that it doesn't want to finance a new fire company, just now at any rate, and the 13th item of the appropriations, providing $1950 for the organization that sprang into being immediately after the Rutschmann fire a year ago, was snowed under by 414 noes to 75 affirmative votes.

The $1950 proposition was actively opposed by the Independence Fire Company, members of which on Sunday distributed circular letters throughout the town showing how the town already is adequately protected by the home organization, reinforced by agreements with Riverton and other nearby towns; how the $1950 would only be the beginning of the expenses of a new company and how the installation of a fire alarm is needed here much more than another company.

Mr. Rogers' candidacy was in line with the effort of the Republican County Committee to capture the majority on the Board of Freeholders. This effort was successful in the county at large, despite the loss of Palmyra. Mr. Rogers and Mr. Land were tied with 82 votes in Rogers' district, but Land led in the other two.

Other local candidates here, including Commiteemen Hill and Cook, and Constables Grubb and Jones, had no opposition. The Republican county candidates all received big majorities in Palmyra as well as in the county at large.

PLANS FOR Y. M. C. A. DRIVE COMPLETED

Palmyra Mapped Out Into Six Districts For $35,000,000 Campaign

Plans for Palmyra's drive to obtain the town's quota of the Y. M. C. A. fund were laid at a meeting held in the Field Club rooms Thursday night.

Several of the leading men of the town attended and the methods and aims of the $35,000,000 campaign were explained by Mr. Henry, a county Y. M. C. A. worker. The drive here starts Sunday. The town has been laid out in six districts by the local chairman, George N. Wimer. The districts and chairmen follow:

No. 1—South of railroad, between Lincoln and Morgan avenues, George B. Huchins.

No. 2—South of the railroad between Garfield and Cinnaminson avenues, P. G. McMahon.

No. 3—North of rairoad, Elm to Cinnaminson avenues, James T. Weart.

No. 4—North of railroad, Leconey to Delaware avenues, F. L. Durgin.

No. 5—South of railroad, all west of Cinnaminson avenue, W. H. Cook.

No. 6—North of railroad, all west of Delaware avenue, to be assigned.

Each captain will call upon a corps of assistants. The whole home guard company will be detailed to the work in squads.

CALL TO CAMP SOON

Next Contingent Likely Summoned Within Two Weeks

Judge Lippincott of the Draft Board announces that the blue cards, notifying the next contingent to hold themselves ready to be called to Camp Dix, will be sent out soon, and that the pink cards, summoning the men to training, will likely be mailed within the next two weeks, although no definite orders have yet been received by the Board.

PARIS

The writer had the privilege of perusing a letter sent to Mrs. William F. Letford from an American Red Cross worker in Paris, which says, "After working for over two years with the French, now that mine own people have joined the Allies, I feel it my duty to ally with my own country and have become a member of the American Red Cross in France and am listed to go to the front as soon as fighting begins, that I may visit the wounded. I shall be assigned to a place where the wounded are first cared for, reading to them, writing their letters, etc., and you can say I will not be a 'slacker.' In the meantime, as there are now hundreds and hundreds of American women over here who have come to do their bit, we are being utilized to make surgical dressings, which are badly lacking. We are scattered over Paris in various headquarters loaned to the Red Cross, and work there for our American boys' future needs. It is rather gruesome, looking forward to their being wounded and suffering, but we must prepare in advance. There are large numbers of the boys in Paris; one just meets them at every turn. They all seem jolly and full of enthusiasm to meet the 'Boches' and 'lick 'em.' Our boys are very popular. Everybody just adores them—in fact too much so—because they get led into temptation. To counteract this both the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. are doing their best to provide canteens and comfortable places where the boys can pass their time. Rest rooms are springing up rapidly; they contain waiting and reading rooms where all home newspapers are to be found, billiard tables and games, also good meals at more than reasonable prices are provided. A dinner of soup, meat, vegetables, bread, sweets or fruits, costs 15 cents, and everything else in proportion. Of course the real cost is nearly double, but the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. are determined, if possible, to keep the boys clean and their work is really splendid. Paris is very, very far from being the Paris of olden days. The cost of living is fabulous and the price of everything else just three times exactly what it was previous to the war. We have now coal cards but so far no coal, in spite of the fact that the weather is now bitterly cold. We have sugar cards for brown sugar only one pound a month is allowed for each person. We have been notified that for the month of December no sugar will be given out. Bread is abominable; only brown (and bran) flour can be purchased at the rate of ½ lb. per week. Gas is rational at 45 metres per month for two persons. Joints of meat 70 to 80 cents a pound; butter, 80 cents a pound, and everything on the same scale. Notwithstanding all this, life is full of interest between the French and Americans as never before existed. I thank God I am back here. I am writing to one of Palmyra's boys, Arthur Wright, who is here, and you can be sure I shall do all I can to make him cheerful."

HIGH SCHOOL LADS COUNTY CHAMPIONS

Football Team Wins Title at Moorestown; Big Burlington Game Here Next Friday

Last Friday the High School football team went to Paulsboro and defeated that school to the tune of 26-0. This was not as bad a defeat as we handed Paulsboro on our own gridiron. The reason for this was that the field was like a sand pile and our boys never really got down to work.

The team travelled to Moorestown last Tuesday and defeated the strong eleven in that town by a score of 18-12, thus giving P. H. S. the championship of Burlington county. Sharp was the star of the Moorestown game as he made two of the three touchdowns and it was one of his many beautiful forward passes that went to Karins enabling the latter to score the other touchdown. Freed played fine game on the defense.

This Friday the Juniors and Sophomores play the Seniors and Freshmen. The rivalry between the two teams promises to make the game an interesting one.

The girls hockey team has at last got started and they have a game scheduled for November 27th with the Moorestown girls. Lets hope it don't rain or snow.

Don't forget the P. H. S.-Burlington game next Friday at the Field Club grounds. Burlington is our renowned rival and we are going to show them what P. H. S. can do on the gridiron this year. Don't miss the game. The admission is only ten cents. Help make the season a success by attending the game and swelling the A. A. treasury.

W. C. T. U.

Next Tuesday will be Mothers' Day. Every member of the Union is urged to come out.

Miss Elfreth, the State President, gave a most excellent address at the convention at Haddonfield last Wednesday, among other facts in the address being the following: In spite of the fact that the State-wide Prohibition bill introduced in our Legislature by the W. C. T. U. last winter never saw the light of day, we are not one whit daunted and again this coming season it is proposed to present a bill to the Legislature that will forever outlaw the liquor traffic within the confines of the Commonwealth. The presence in our midst of one of the nation's cantonments of soldiers makes such a move more than imperative. While the temporal needs of these soldier boys are appealing to us, let us remember that their chief need, next to their salvation, is to have the temptation of drink removed.

GREAT STEAM CONDENSER

One of the largest steam condensers in existence has been competed for Public Service Electric Company by the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corporation at Harrison and delivered to the electric company's Essex Station in Newark. It will be operated in connection with a 35,000 kilowatt generator to be installed at that plant late this year.

The condenser, including shell and tubes weighs 330,000 pounds. When in service its weight will be increased by 120,000 pounds of water, or, when being tested, by an additional 260,000 pounds of water. There are 45,000 square feet of tube surface; 9,-660 copper tubes one inch in diameter and 19 feet 2½ inches in length, which if placed end to end would stretch a distance of thirty-three miles.

Palmyra Boy Under Fire At French Front

Theophile D'Autrechy Writes Of Active Service With Ambulance Corps

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE,
October 13th, 1917.

My Dearest Mother, Father, Brothers and Sisters

Just received your letter of September 26th. Well, since I wrote you last, which was only a few days ago, I have traveled some 400 miles in my Ford car.

The day we finished our trip, we were greeted by an Aeroplane battle not far over head, but that is a mere trifle. This can be seen most any time.

First of all, I take pleasure in telling you I have washed my hands and face for the first time since October 3rd, just 11 days ago, so I don't think you would know me. It is not because I am lazy for I have been working with my ambulance in the trenches carrying out the wounded and saw some sad and horrible cases, also some men killed. Just about one hour ago I saw a German Aeroplane bring down a French balloon and saw the Frenchman come down the parachute. I was the first to congratulate him on his arrival to the earth after a fall of 3,000 feet. But this is a mere trifle in comparison with what I have already seen. Again I tell you I am living in a dugout with a chap I met in Allentown. The town I am living in has been bombarded twice since my arrival.

When I reach home, I will teach you how to dodge shot and shrapnel, because I am pretty good at it now. I am sorry to hear so many of the boys are leaving the town. We are considered the pioneers of America, at least that is our title. If they come over later, I am sure they won't have it as good as we have it now.

I have had my picture taken by the French lieutenant, with helmet on, standing among the ruins.

It is not cold over here, but gets dark at 4.30. We are under shell fire all the time and some of our section had to be brought in. They could not stand it, but I will stick to the finish as we are getting honored very much for our good work and bravery, holding out so long. We shall stick, stick, stick, until every muscle in our bodies is completely played out and Lieutenant Bether knows it too.. Our section is working for the Croix de Guerre.

In the mornings we are awaked by the hum of aeroplanes y heavy firing.

Take a chance and send me a big package of cigarettes. It would be a God send to us boys.

Your loving son,
THEOPHILE M. D'AUTRECHY.

HUGE BUILDINGS FOR OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, D. D., Nov. 7.—One of the manifold problems presented by the war is that of furnishing adequate office accommodations for the thousands of additional officials, clerks, and other Federal servants who are pouring into Washington. The Government is exercising its prerogative in this direction and has commandeered conveniently located office buildings and apartment houses with a free hand. In addition, it is erecting huge temporary structures for use as offices, and in the building of these contractors are breaking time records for construction work. A building to house the six hundred officials and clerks of the Council of National Defense, containing more than 100,000 square feet of floor space, was erected and fully equipped in fifty-three days. Similar buildings nearby are for the use of the forces of the Food Administration, Fuel Administration, and Army Ordnance. Work is well under way on a mammoth structure which will cover three city blocks to house the overflow of the War and Navy Departments, the contract for which calls for completion in four months.

By these methods the Government keeps in advance of its actual needs. At the present rate of increase the usual 35,000 Federal employees in Washington will be more than doubled if the war continues another year. Workers of all kinds are being appointed, stenographers and typewriters and draftsmen for the service generally, and what are known as schedule clerks, index and catalogue clerks, clerks qualified in statistics or accounting, and clerks qualified in business administration for the Ordnance Department of the Army, being in great demand.

Representatives of the Federal civil service commisison at the post offices in all cities are the official recruiting agents for the great civilian army, an army of a half million behind the men behind the guns.

ALMOND PUDDING—Scald 2 cups milk and pour over one cup bread crumbs; add ½ cup blanched almonds, chopped fine. Beat 2 egg yolks with ½ cup sugar and the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Fold in the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in individual molds 20 minutes and serve with hot orange sauce.

Temporary Appointment

TRENTON, Nov. 6.—Charles P. Jessick, of this city, yesterday was appointed acting secretary and chief examiner of the Civil Service Commission, to fill the place left vacant by the death of Gardiner H. Colby, of Essex county. A permanent appointment will be made later by the commission.

To Impress the Neighbors

Mr. Wigsby—See here, my love, there is some mistake. The expressman left seven trunks on our front porch. Mrs. Wigsby (who has just returned from the mountains)—Imbecile! Don't you understand? He's coming back after dusk for the extra five.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Roger Gale, of Moorestown, who was quite ill, but was thought to have recovered, suffered a relapse on Wednesday, and is now at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Street Mills.

William F. Becker, of Pennsgrove, has purchased the business of Morris Steedle, and solicits a continuance of the patronage given his predecessor. Mr. Becker expects to add very materially to his stock in the grocery line.

On Tuesday, November 13th, at 3 p. m., there will be an open meeting at the Porch Club. Miss Mabel Page Taylor will speak of J. Liberty Tadd, and pupils will demonstrate his art manual training. Anyone interested is cordially invited.

Yesterday articles were collected at the Porch Club for a box to be sent to Miss Edith S. Coale for her work among the children in France. Miss Coale is working only about 100 miles from the firing line, and the thunder of the big guns is plainly heard.

The costume dance given at the Riverton Country Club last Saturday night for benefit of the Riverton Branch of the Red Cross, was a most delightful success. The attendance was large, and a goodly sum was realized. Several officers were present from Camp Dix and Camp Meade.

At the annual meeting of the Riverton Club Monday night, John M. Hughes was re-elected president, Hutson Hullings, vice president; William A. Major, Jr., treasurer, Russell Smith, secretary. The entertainment and house committee was appointed as follows: William B. Lynch, John Carhart, Warren Irwin, John C. Geiss, William Armstrong, William Faunce, Gus Rodick. It was decided to return to the former method of transacting the club business at monthly meetings, instead of leaving it in the hands of the board of directors, as has been done recently. The meeting nights have been changed from the first Monday to the first Thursday in each month. Pinochle every Tuesday evening. The annual minstrel show will be held on November 28, and a bazaar on the 29th, 30th, and December 1.

Riverton took her place in the "golf sun" last Saturday. Golfers from near and far, of great and little renown, flocked to the Country Club to play in the big invitation tournament on the new links. The contestants were divided into two classes according to handicaps. The first class consistd of men with handicaps of 12 or less and the second from 13 to 18. Prizes for first and second net scores in each division were awarded and the player with the low gross score received a gold medal. Fred W. Knight, of Aronomink won the medal with an S. J. W. Platt, of North Hills, with a net score of 79, won the low net prize in the first division. C. T. Brown, who entered from Moorestown, but who is also a member of Riverton, won first prize in the second division, with a net score of 80. His gross was 98 and his handicap 18. Walter C. Wright, of Riverton, captured the second prize in the second division, with a net score of 81.

The guest house at Camp Dix, opened last Saturday under the auspices of the New Jersey Suffrage Association, was received with a hearty welcome by the boys, to whom it meant a touch of home. It is provided with games, books, magazines, writing materials, music, etc. It is known as the Soldiers' Club House, and any of the boys from this vicinity who look it up will be gladly received by the ladies in charge. Last Saturday and Sunday Miss Helen Lippincott was on the receiving committee. Next Saturday and Sunday the house will be in charge of Mrs. J. Carl DeLaCour, Miss Elsie Biddle, Miss Anna L. Coale, Miss Woolman and Miss A. B. Campbell. Several other similar houses are being arranged for, one to be under the direction of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, and another the State Federation of Women's Clubs, but this is the first to be opened. A little later it is hope to open a canteen where many little delicacies will be on sale.

RECKLESS DRIVER MUST FACE TRIAL

TRENTON, Nov. 6—As the result of an accident on the White Horse road on the night of July 3 last, when Miss Nellie V. Boss and Albert Deardon, Jr., were struck and killed by an automobile driven by Harry Snook, of this city, the October term grand jury yesterday afternoon returned a true bill of indictment, holding Snook responsible and charging him with manslaughter.

The mishap occurred in Hamilton township, just outside the city limits. Miss Boss and Deardon were returning to their homes, the former to Broad Street Park and the latter to North Olden avenue, when they were hit and knocked down, by the machine, which was traveling in the same direction. An hour or so afterward Snook gave himself up at the Central police station, while the Second district and county authorities rounded up several men who were passengers in the car at the time of the fatality. These men claimed they had hired Snook to take them to Roebling, and back, and that they had no connection with the driver nor his car. Snook contended that he could not see the couple on account of the dense fog, and denied traveling at a high rate of speed.

Judge Marshall fixed bail in the sum of $5,000, which was furnished by the defendant's mother, Mrs. E. M. Snook. Snook entered a plea of not guilty. No date was set for the trial, but it is believed it will take place within the next two weeks.

Manufacturer's Car Kills Child

MILLVILLE, Nov. 9.—As she ran across the street in front of her home in West Millville, Wednesday night, Ella, 6-year-old daughter of Charles Evans, was struck by the automobile of George S. Bacon, a local glass manufacturer, and was so seriously injured that she died yesterday in the Millville Hospital. In trying to vaoid hitting the child the chauffeur turned abruptly into a telegraph pole and the car was badly injured.

SHOULD STORE WARM WATER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—If the water which goes to waste on the farm in times of plenty were conserved for times of drought, gardens and fields might be saved from failure and live stock from a sacrifice market. Farm reservoirs store water of streams, pumped water or run-off water until it is needed. A widely increased interest in pump irrigation has created a demand for storage facilities to retain the water lifted by the pump overnight and to provide a large irrigation stream for the following day. That farmers who contemplate building reservoirs may be properly guided in the work, a new publication, Farmers' Bulletin 828, "Farm Reservoirs," discussing the various types and details of construction, recently has been published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The use to which the farm reservoir is to be put shouuld determine the type of construction, according to the writer of the bulletin. If it is intended to use any part of the stored water for drinking or even for culinary purposes, the entire supply must be kept free from pollution, while if the supply is intended for irrigation only, the purity of the water need not be considered. If a reservoir is intended for both irrigation and the watering of farm animals, care should be taken in planning and building so that damage can not be done by the trampling of stock. Problems of building—how to locate a reservoir, when a concrete lining is advisable, how to "puddle" an unlined reservoir, how to build inlets, outlets, waste ways, embankments, and how to protect the reservoir—all are discussed and illustrated in the bulletin.

The most common source of supply for farm reservoirs is the well, from which water is raised to the necessary height by a windmill, gas engine, or electric motor. The flow from springs, lakes, flowing wells, and small creeks forms another source of supply. Also, in that borderland between humidity and aridity known as the Great Plains area, and throughout the arid region, the so-called "dry creeks" carry considerable water at times. Part of this run-off, the specialist declares, often can be led into a reservoir and stored for watering stock and irrigating land. In the Atlantic and East Central States and, in fact, throughout the entire humid region water to fill farm reservoirs generally can be obtained readily at low cost from springs, lakes, streams, and shallow wells. Bogs or muck beds, which abound particularly in the Atlantic Coast States, often can be converted at small cost from mosquito-breeding grounds into serviceable reservoirs.

SUFFRAGIST CONVENTION

The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association is to make its twenty-eighth Annual Convention, to be held in Trenton on November 16th and 17th, a patriotic convention, and its principal speakers will have as their subject the many ways in which women can help the State and nation in the present war crisis. The morning and afternoon sessions of the first day of the convention are to be held in the Cadwalader Heights M. E. church, while the public mass-meeting that evening and the Saturday morning session will be in the Assembly Chamber of the State Capitol. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, will make the principal address of the mass-meeting, taking as her subject "Women's Patriotic Service in War-Time."

The convention dinner is to be in the dining-room of the Contemporary Club. Among the guests of the convention who have been invited to speak informally at the dinner are Mrs. C. W. Stockton, chairman of the New Jersey Division of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense; Mrs. John R. Schermerhorn, President of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Wellington Bechtel, President of the New Jersey Mothers' Congress; Miss Esther H. Elfreth, President of the New Jersey Women's Christian Temperance Union, and Miss Cornelia Bradford, of Whittier House, Jersey City.

On the afternoon of Saturday the 17th, the convention delegates will go to Wrightstown to attend the formal opening of the Soldiers' Club House which was opened informally last week by the Suffrage Association.

This is the time we should all conserve our resources. Don't wear out your welcome. You may find it hard to get another.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BIRD SOCIETY ADDS STRENGTH

In these critical times there is universal acclaim for the man who makes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before. On this theory the New Jersey Audubon Society is this year greatly developing the effort which has always been one of its fundamentals, the teaching of the value of birds as crop protectors, and the consequent necessity for their protection and encouragement, to the children of New Jersey's schools.

During the past school year the Audubon Society took part in the organization of 579 chapters among the children of the State, with a total membersh.p of 14,382. This year a special effort is being made to greatly increase this work. To this end the Society has had bird study leaflets prepared, treating on seventeen of our common birds, the meadowlark, Baltimore and orchard orioles, bobolink, scarlet tanager, rose-breasted grosbeak, towhee, indigo bunting, junco, vesper and grasshopper sparrows, red-eyed and yellow-throated vireos, myrtle, magnolia, bay-breasted and chestnut-sided warblers. Each of these leaflets contains four pages of text, describing the bird, its habits, song, period of arrival in and departure from New Jersey, and particularly its food, as it affects the bird's relation to man, a feature rather unique in such literature for school work. With each leaflet there is a colored plate of the bird or birds treated, also an uncolored, outline plate for the children to color, thus fixing the appearance of the birds in the child's mind in the most lasting manner and enabling children to recognize different birds as many of their elders can not do.

The plan of work in the schools provides for the organization of School Bird Clubs by teachers among their pupils, and each teacher organizing such a club receives a copy of the Guide to the birds of New Jersey, a pocket handbook of 188 pages, enumerating all species of birds known to have occurred in the State, with colored pictures of 64 species, while each Club member receives a set of the leaflets. The Guide and leaflets serve as a basis for study work, conducted by the teacher, either out of school hours, or in connection with nature work, art, composition and other subjects of the regular curriculum.

The Society also offers prizes in competitions for the best essay on bird subjects, and for the best picture of a bird done by the competitor.

It has been found that with the right sort of co-operation on the part of teachers, not only is the learning that children acquire in regard to our friends the birds, of immense value in itself, but the enthusiasm that the work begets is reflected in the entire school curriculum.

The Society's headquarters at 164 Market street, Newark, is rapidly taking on the aspect of a busy publishing house, and it is hoped that the results of the work during the present school year may be appreciable in a greater abundance of birds about homes and gardens in New Jersey, hence a greater abundance of food stuffs.

STATE MARKET NEWS SERVICE

The purchasing of large quantities by groups of persons direct from producers and factories at wholesale prices has raised some important questions. It is imperative that retail dealers be not hurt in an emergent time as at present so long as they serve the demands of the public in an efficient manner. For years a customs has grown up calling for more credit and more service from these retailers to their patrons. Such dealers have a right to question the patriotism of their customers who cease their buying when owing for a month's supply in order to join a club and buy co-operatively for cash from the same wholesale house that supplies them. The fair thing to do and usually the best method to pursue is for consumers to pay up back bills as quickly as possible, to join a co-operative buying association and ask the local retailer to bid on the wholesale order.

The Bureau of Markets has perfected plans with some of the largest wholesale dealers in the country and special arrangements can now be made so that large orders for co-operative societies can be placed with the local store and wholesale prices plus delivery costs secured.

More Apples Should Be Used

Thousands of bushels of windfall and wormy apples are wasted in New Jersey every year. This fruit can be used and should be demanded by housewives. Retailers have accustomed themselves to the requirements of "particular" customers and do not handle this grade of apples as "there is no sale for it." It can only be handled satisfactorily by quick sales. Some stores have advertised in advance and thus been able to dispose of large quantities quickly. Really good apples often go to cider presses for from ten to twenty cents a bushel which if consumed promptly would take the place of other more costly food.

Present Retailing System Too Costly

Under the present old time grocery store business cheap food can not be handled advantageously. It is one reason why so much good food wastes on our farms. The costs of credit, delivery and "making a show" are too much for cheap goods. Many retail storekeepers would like to sell out if they could afford to and go into some other business. They can't afford to sell out because of the credit accounts owing them.

Patriotism and Trade Customs

It is most assuring at such a time as this to realize that trade customs are being laid aside and the "public in general" considered first. Flour mills in New Jersey are selling their products in quantities as low as five pounds. Retail stores are selling wholesale quantities for cash at wholesale prices. Wholesale houses and manufacturers are selling direct to consumers.

Some Things Learned

Out of all the criticism leveled at wholesale and retail dealers, producers and consumers a few rather conspicuous faults are easily located. The producer does not grade and pack his products so that distributors can handle them economically.

WILL BE RACE FOR VACANCIES

Men not yet called by Examining Boards, and men over 30 or from 18 to 21, are advised to volunteer now while there are still vacancies in the Regular Army or National Guard, before such are filled from the selective service men now or hereafter drawn. When thus filled, it is believed there will be no opportunities for volunteers. It will soon become a race for vacancies. As such change daily, for information, apply or write to 266 Market Street, Newark, N. J., or any branch Army Recruiting Office.

Men of the National Army, National Guard and Regular Army, men from the ranks who show special qualifications, will be sent to "Officers' Training School" at each of the Divisional Training Camps, opening January 5th, 1918. Soldiers can apply through military channels, prior to December 1st, 1917.

Training Camp for Quartermasters (Black Point, Jacksonville, Fla.) to instruct 3200 2nd Lieutenants to be selected for fitness from the 16 Officers' Training Camps—about 200 men from each.

Write to Aero Personnel Division, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A., Washington, D. C., for information for enlisted men or civilians who are expert photographers or radio operators or machine gun operators.

Waiver of Defects

Men who are handy with tools can find suitable vacancies in several branches of the service even if they have some slight physical defect, as for instance: Poor eyesight, loss of a finger, etc. Such should apply to any Recruiting Office to ascertain where they could fit in; and to whom they should write, as for instance: Quartermaster General, for acceptance in Quartermaster Repair Shops, etc. In other words, anyone who desires to volunteer may be accepted for some branch of the service.

Advantageous Insurance

The families of men in the service or those considering volunteering, are advised to write to the Director, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C.

In addition to Compensation or Accident Insurance without cost, the soldier can apply for ordinary Life Insurance at greatly reduced rates—in some cases, about half—and can make an allotment, i. e., to have a portion of his monthly pay used therefore, to be paid by the War Department, even if he be on foreign service—provided that he applies for such insurance within 120 days after his enlistment.

Learn a Trade

Handy men are advised to join the Technical Troops to perfect themselves as Artisans, while serving in the Engineers or Signal Corps or Quartermaster Corps or Ordnance Corps or Coast Artillery. These vacancies are being rapidly filled. The 21st and 35th Railway Engineers are now filled.

SOME RECIPES FOR HOME COOK

SPANISH OMELET—Slice one onion and fry till brown in omelet pan, beat yolks of three eggs, add three tablespoons water, a little salt, tiny bit of red pepper and whites beaten stiff. Remove onions from pan, pour in egg, and cook.

CHICKEN AND CORN SCALLOP—Chop separately 1 can of corn and enough cold cooked chicken to make 1¼ cups. Melt 2 tablespoons of butter, blend in 3 tablespoons of flour, 1-3 teaspoon of salt and ⅛ teaspoon of pepper, then add slowly 1½ cups of hot milk and stir until smooth and thick. Butter a baking dish, fill with alternate layers of corn, chicken and sauce, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake about 20 minutes in a hot oven.

RICE BALLS FOR SOUP—Mix one cup of cold boiled rice with one beaten egg, one tablespoon of flour, one-third teaspoon of salt and a dash of cayenne. Form into balls and drop into the soup.

CHERRY JELLY—Fill a pudding dish with alternate layers of fresh stoned cherries and buttered bread crumbs; sprinkle thickly with sugar and pack in the dish until half frozen, when it will be the consistency of jelly. Serve with thick whipped cream.

FISH BALLS—One pint cold boiled fish free from skin and bone and minced fine, 1 pint hot mashed potatoes, 1 tablesoon butter, ½ cup hot milk, 1 egg well beaten, pepper, salt and a little parsley (if you like parsley). Mix thoroughly and let cool. When cool make into balls, dip into a beaten egg, roll in breadcrumbs and fry in hot lard. This makes about 22 fish cakes.

Wholesalers take advantage of the confidence reposed in them and of the nature of the business they are in. Retailers fail to sense the spirit of the times and foster careless buying rather than thrift. Consumers demand increased service, scorn market knowledge and answer the call of Pride instead of the voice of Thrift.

You can't always judge of a man's standing in the community from the way he sits down on people.

Misery loves company, but it isn't always entertaining.

Civil Service Secretaryship Unfilled

TRENTON, Nov. 9.—No successor to Secretary Gardner Colby of the Civil Serivce Commisison was selected yesterday by the Commission, which met for the first time since Mr. Colby's death last Sunday. The Commisison will meet next Thursday, when it is likely that a secretary will be selected. Charles P. Messick, of Trenton, who is now the assistant chief examiner, is acting temporarily and there is a feeling that he will land the place, which pays $4000 a year.

GUARD AT FULL STRENGTH

Fifty-five Men Have Joined Palmyra Corps

The Palmyra Home Guard has been recruited to full strngth, fifty-five men, but owing to the fact that about six of these are within the draft, there is still room for more aplications. The rifles and the remainder of the uniforms are due within two weeks.

This evening the Guards attended the Riverton Y. M. C. A. campaign meeting in a body.

DO THEY EAT TOO MUCH IN THE ARMY AND NAVY?

What Napoleon said about the relation of soldiers' rations to their ability to fight has been paraphrased by the celebrated Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in an article appearing in Good Housekeeping for November—an article of widest interest to everyone with relatives or friends in the various branches of the service. Says the famous food specialist: "To plan a battle is of high significance, but the best plans will fail if the commander leads ill-fed or starving soldiers. The first point that strikes the student of military dietaries is the generous portions that are daily issued to each man. Our food administration would be shocked at the ponderous portions supplied. The three guiding principles of military nutrition are the following: The food must be ample in quantity; it must be excellent in quality; it must be free of all adulteration and debasement."

The High School football team, which has made a fine record this season, claiming the championship of the county on the strength of the defeat they handed Moorestown Tuesday, will play their greatest rivals, Burlington, at the Field Club grounds next Mriday afternoon. It is hoped that a big crowd will be on hand to support the boys.

A new schedule of prices has been worked out at the Broadway Palace Theatre which will relieve the patrons of part of the burden of the war tax. Tickets for adults costing 15c and 20c are reduced to 13c and 18c respectively, so that the total will be the same as before the tax went into effect. Children's 10c tickets, however, will require another cent for Uncle Sam.

Just Think, Schrafft's chocolates still 50c. Truly wonderful chocolates at such a small price, also good assorted chocolates at 38c at McAllister's. Adv.

When New Jersey harked back to the stone age and defeated woman suffrage a year or so ago, J. P. Warner assured the editor that the dread proposition would never again make its appearance in the East. Now that the women's victory in New York makes it almost certain that a national amendment will be passed in a short time, he is forecasting awful things for the race in general. Cheer up, old man, your wife will be voting for you yet.

SOLDIER TO "QUIZ" ANOTHER FOR BAR

TRENTON, Nov. 9.—Establishing a precedent in New Jersey, the Supreme Court yesterday authorized Sergeant James H. Mitchell, a young lawyer of this city, now serving in the ordnance corps at Camp McClellan, Alabama, to conduct an examination of Private Henry C. Minton, Jr., for admission to the bar. Both the young men recently were sent to Camp McClellan, Mr. Minton having prepared to take the bar examinations scheduled for today. The court's policy is to make all reasonable allowance for those in the military service of the United States. Mr. Minton is a son of the Rev. Henry Collin Minton, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in this city.

The court decided adversely upon the application of W. Reading Gebhardt, son of ex-Senator William C. Gebhardt, clerk of the Supreme Court, asking that he be credited with time spent in Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Dix on his three years' clerkship required as a prerequisite for admission to the bar. The court concluded that Y. M. C. A. work does not fall properly into that class.

PEMBERTON-CAMP DIX ROAD IS DISCUSSED

TRENTON, Nov. 9—At a meeting of the State Highway Commission yesterday at the State House General Goethals, State Engineer, reported that the survey for the State highways was progressing and that by the time of the next meeting, December 13, a preliminary estimate of the cost could be given.

The attention of the commission was directed by Governor Edge to the fact that if a mile and a half of roadway between Lewistown and Wrightstown were put in good repair, there would be an excellent road from Pemberton and Camp Dix, thus affording better traffic facilities from South Jersey to the cantonment. The matter was laid over until an application is made on the matter by Burlington county. It is understood such an application will be made shortly. The section of road, if the commission approves, can be put in good condition from the motor vehic'e funds.

WEALTHY CLUBMEN FIGHT FOREST FIRE

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 9—A forest fire of unknown origin Wednesday night laid waste a large area of the 9000-acre Atlantic County Game Preserve at Estelville, and was finally beaten out by a party of sportsmen who were spending the evening at the clubhouse after a day in the field. They were assisted by farmers of the neighborhood.

The fire started shortly after sundown in the same section of the preserve that was burned in the fires a year or so ago. None of the gunners had been in that section during the day, and there is no automobile road there. For three hours the clubmen battled with the blaze, using shovels, and fir and spruce boughs to beat it out. The preserve is privately owned by a club composed of 60 Atlantic City business men.

SAYS PENSION LAWS ARE ABOUT RIGHT

TRENTON, Nov. 9.—Pensions for State, county and municipal employes were discussed at a hearing on the subject of civil pensions before the pension committee of the legislature here yesterday. The consensus of opinion of a score of representatives of New Jersey municipalities was that the pension laws are about right as they now stand.

A member of the pensions committee sugegsted that it might be well to make provision that money paid into pension funds by persons who resign from the public service should be refunded, perhaps with interest. Commissioner George B. LaBarre, of Trenton, opposed this policy, as did representatives of other cities. Mr. LaBarre thought it would be a bad precedent.

NEW MILITARY COMMITTEE

Riverton Council Appoints Frishmuth Chairman

The resignations of Messrs. B. S. Mechling, M. C. Boyer and H. F. Jones, members of the former Riverton military committee were accepted at the meeting of borough council Thursday night, and the following were appointed members of the new committee of which R. Biddle Frishmuth is chairman: Messrs. Ross E. Mattis, Russell Smith, Leon Sloan, Walter Armstrong, Walter C. Wright, Rex Showell, William Baker, Albert Farrow, Howard M. Rodgers and William B. Lynch.

Mayor Flagg called attention to the fact that the proposed route of the new State highway contemplated leaving Beverly, Riverside, Riverton and Palmyra in the lurch, by going down the Burlington pike, and suggested that strong representation from Riverton join the other municipalities in a vigorous protest at the hearing which is to be held in January.

HOLD ON HOT PIPES SAVED HIS LIFE

CAMDEN, Nov. 9.—When he had fallen into a great tank of scalding water yesterday at Paulsboro, Louis Seibert caught hold of some pipes so hot that they began to sear the flesh from the fingerbones.

Had he let go he would have received scalds over his entire body, which meant sure death. By holding one-third of his body out of boiling water, he probably haved his life. It is known that when at least one-third of the skin is uninjured recovery is possible. When pulled out by fellow workmen, his first thought was of his young wife, from whom he asked that the news of the accident be withheld until it was determined whether he would die.

At the Cooper Hospital, this city, the physicians told Seibert he would probably live, and when his wife came he astonished the physicians by refusing to let her see how greatly he suffered. The accident occurred at the plant of the Vacuum Oil Company.

SCHOOL BANKING SYSTEM

Riverton Board Plans Uplift-Thrift Plan For Children

The Rivrton Board of Education on Monday night decided to introduce the Uplift-thrift Banking system in the Riverton public school. The children deposit their pennies until they have saved a dollar, when it is deposited in the Cinnaminson National Bank and the depositor receives a dollar bond. This operation is repeated as often as a dollar is saved.

M. C. Boyer, chairman of the committee on school gardens, reported that out of the 72 children who took gardens in the spring, 65 endured until the end. The financial report of the venture showed a deficit of $33.23. The total expenses were $173.73.

William Frank was elected janitor, to fill the place of Philip Taylor, resigned.

A request by the Military Training Organization to erect a light on the school grounds to be used when drilling, was granted.

FOOD CAMPAIGN IS PROGRESSING

Franklin W. Fort, who with Vance C. Roberts, is Campaign Director of the Food Conservation Campaign, issued the following statement yesterday:

"The campaign is progressing very satisfactorily in some sections of the State. In other neighborhoods, the idea seems to prevail that since people already are economizing, due to the high prices, they can do no more. We are trying to drive home to them all a distinction between mere food saving as a matter of economizing and the saving of exportable foods as a matter of patriotic duty. The campaign might perhaps almost better have been called a can conservation campaign, for what we are trying to do is to induce the people to feed our Allies so that they may maintain and improve upon their present pitch of fighting efficiency and thus render it necessary for us to send fewer men across than we would otherwise have to send. We believe that the people are gradually awakening to this situation and are preparing to make the substitutions the Food Administration suggests. Of course, it is not easy to change the habits of eating which prevail any more than it is to break up the drinking or smoking habits, but the leaven is undoubtedly working in the hearts of the people and the campaign results already assure us that New Jersey, at least, will do its full share toward feeding our Allies, who are fighting our fight while we prepare.

"We confidently expect our force of 25,000 canvassers in this State to turn in reports in the next two days which will lift us from the third place among the States in signed pledge cards to the first. We have set for our campaign a higher mark than any other State has ventured to aim at. With the faithful work that we are assured of, we are confident that we will reach the mark."

A woman can forgive a man if he never pays his bills, but not if he never pays her compliments.

You never can tell. Even the fat woman who tries to reduce generally wants her own weigh.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

FOREST SERVICE LENDS ITS AID

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—It is announced by the Forest Service that it has been able to comply in full with the request of the War Department for assistance in securing qualified lumbermen and foresters to serve as officers for the forest battalions which are to comprise a part of the American overseas forces. Three hundred and nine men have been recommended for commissions in the grades of major, captain, first lieutenant, and second lieutenant. Of these, two-thirds are practical lumbermen or sawmill operators and one-third are trained foresters with long woods experience. Some of the lumbermen who were recommended have also had theoretical training in forestry and many of the foresters who had experience in logging or sawmilling.

In the selection of qualified lumbermen the Forest Service has had the close co-operation of a sub-committee of the Lumber Committee of the Council of National Defense and of fourteen committees of lumbermen in different parts of the country. Almost every man selected was interviewed by a lumbermen's committee or by the Forest Service officials. Many private foresters and forest schools have assisted in finding technical foresters suitable for commissions. All of the men recommended have, by successful experience, shown themselves capable of handling some important phase of lumbering, sawmill, or technical forest work, according to officials of the Forest Service. All have proved by experience their qualities of leadership and their ability to handle men in large numbers.

Every timber region of the United States has contributed its share of the men who have been nominated for officers and it is believed that every class of lumbering, from the smallest portable mill operation to the largest and most up-to-date plant, is represented. Among those selected are men experienced in logging and sawing every merchantable wood growing in this country.

The age limits set in the beginning required that all officers of the forest battalions should be thirty-one years of age, or older. Because of the difficulty of finding men suitable for lieutenants, the new age limit for this grade was later lowered to twenty-five years. The bulk of the men recommended as lieutenants range in age from twenty-five to thirty-five, as captains from thirty to forty and as majors from forty to fifty.

Men who have been recommended have been notified that all further action as regards physical examination, the issuance of commissions, and the order in which the successful applicants will be called for service rests with the War Department.

Supplying the Names

"So you have twins at your house?" said Mrs. Nabor to little Jack.

"Yessum," he said soberly, "two of them."

"What are they going to call them, my dear?"

"Well, I don't know for sure, but I think their names is Thunder and Lightnin', 'cause that's the names papa called them when the doctor came in and told him about them."—From the New Puck.

Millville Blaze Incendiary

MILLVILLE, Nov. 6.—While the Millville fire companies were fighting a blazing barn early yesterday, fire which, is believed to have been of incendiary origin, was discovered in the West Side M. E. Church. Before the flames could be controlled it had damaged the structure beyond repair. Excelsior shavings and other inflammable material were found in the cellar. The police are making an investigation. The ruined church will be replaced by a stone edifice.

WOULD AID TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Home economics teachers in the schools are told in a recent circular of the Bureau of Education that a special obligation rests upon them to take an active part in the national food and clothing problems arising from the war. They are in a strategic position, according to the Bureau's circular, which says,

"Teachers of home economics can reach into the homes of the patrons of the public schools and aid in extending a knowledge of food conditions. They can explain the reasons why American families are asked to modify some of their food habits. They can raise food economy to the plane of patriotic service. They can assist families in matters of economy so that better living conditions can be maintained. Of course, all home-economics teachers will alter laboratory practices so as to conform to present food conditions, but they may carefully make plain the reasons why America with her abundance of food material asks her people to select carefully, use wisely, and waste not one particle."

The Bureau's circular points out that home economics teachers have already assisted materially in the work of food preservation. They can help further, it is asserted, by taking pupils on "fruit picking" picnics to gather fruit for canning that would otherwise go to waste. This will be possible until very late in the fall in some sections. The products of food preservation may be donated to the Red Cross, sent to the soldiers in France, used for public school lunches, or sold for some community project. Home economics teachers can emphasize the cooking of perishable foods and reduce the use of the needed staples.

Sewing courses in the schools may also be modified to meet war needs. "It should be required that half of all class work be done upon old material," says the Bureau. "The value in teaching lessons in thrift can not be overestimated.

"Whenever possible articles useful to others rather than to the pupil should be made. This is valuable in establishing among the pupils interest in the great national and patriotic movement of the present time and in suppressing selfishness and vanity.

Gem Swindler Gets Used to Jail

MILLVILLE, Nov. 6.—Henry Wilde, alias N. D. Corson, who with worthless checks swindled E. C. Morrison and Lee Kyle, local jewelers, out of diamonds valued at about $800, was brought back from State Prison by Marshal Biggs yesterday, and was placed in the county jail to await trial. Wilde has been serving one year for a similar swindling in Camden.

Costly Dressing

Mrs. Washington Terrace consented to be interviewed.

"What? Dress on six hundred a year?"

She made a wry grimace as she waived the question aside.

"Why I couldn't dress my salads on six hundred a year," she said.—From the New Puck.

An optimist is a man who can get comfort from having his conscience tell him he is right when he knows he is left.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

KINDERGARTENS NOW FAVORED

The 1917-18 school term finds five more States with better kindergarten laws, as advocated by the United States Bureau of Education, the National Kindergarten Association, and organization of mothers and club women everywhere.

In Maine and Texas, the new laws authorize the school boards to open a kindergarten wherever parents petition for them. This makes it possible for a community to determine for itself, with the slightest degree of difficulty, whether it desires the advantages of a kindergarten training for its children. In Maine, a feature of the legislative campaign was the presence of ten of the kindergarten children of Bangor before the education committee of the House on the hearing of the kindergarten bill. In Texas, the Congress of Mothers and the women's clubs were effective in arousing sentiment for kindergartens all over the State. The education officials of the State supported the measure from the start and the result was not only successful legislation but a widespread public sentiment for the best type of kindergarten training.

The amendment to the Washington law, although it does not expressly state that parents may petition for a kindergarten, is practically the same in effect, since it provides that a kindergarten shall constitute a part of the regular school system and shall be supported in the same way that primary and grammar courses are supported. The result is that when fathers and mothers make known their wishes for a kindergarten as part of the public school system of their community, a class will be started. The following arguments, presented by a representative of the Congress of Mothers in Washington, were effective in securing legislation: (1) The early years are the most impressionable and in a wise educational system these years should not be left unprovided for. (2) Little children are given a good start not only in school but in life through the excellent training which the kindergarten gives. (3) The majority of parents who want kindergarten training for their children cannot afford to pay tuition at private kindergartens. (4) The kindergarten is democratic in that it brings additional educational advantages to all children before any must leave school to go to work. (5) One dollar spent in right formation is better than a hundred spent for reformation later.

In Oregon, progress was made in kindergarten legislation despite considerable opposition. The new law applies only to the city of Portland, and has the further restriction that not more than five and not less than three kindergartens must be installed during the year. It is hoped that Oregon will find the Portland experiment so desirable that the legislature will extend the kindergarten advantages throughout the State.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

This vigorous and well-managed organization unites all the Protestant Denominations of New Jersey in the supremely important task of religious education.

It conducts a Summer school, stimulates winter schools and classes to train Sunday school teachers, publishes a monthly paper, and holds scores of educational meetings all over New Jersey. The most important of those comes next week at Camden, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 13, 14 and 15. This is the Annual State Convention. The mass meetings will be held in the commodious auditorium of the Broadway Methodist church, while department meetings and social meals will be assigned to the First Methodist and the Second Presbyterian churches nearby. All interested in Sunday school work are invited, and judging from past experiences more than a thousand people will be present, representing every county in New Jersey.

Marion Lawrence, Executive Officer of the International Sunday School Association will be present from Chicago, Bishop Berry will give the convention sermon, Rev. Chas. L. Goodell, D. D., of New York, will speak on the closing evening. The relation of the Sunday school to war needs will be explained by representatives of the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Food Conservation, and the Armenian Syrian Relief. The music will be a feature of the convention with a chorus choir of 200 and an orchestra of 25.

The headquarters of the New Jersey Sunday school Association are at 835 Broad street, Newark, N. J.

Time Bomb on a Train

SEABRIGHT, Nov. 7—A time bomb, found to contain explosives, was included in express receipts here yesterday. It was consigned to a man at Monmouth Beach, whose name was withheld by Prosecutor Sexton. Before the train reached its destination it was intercepted at Seabright and later an officer from the Ordnance Department, Fort Hancock, took the shell to the laboratory for examination.

All Asleep, But Booze Aplenty

VINELAND, Nov. 7—When the police were roused out at midnight to quell a reported riot at the home of G. Geisi, they found everybody asleep, but stumbled on 22 cases of beer and 10 quarts of whisky. A neighbor had sent in the false alarm with the hope that the "wet goods" would be found. Geisi was charged with keeping a speakeasy, and, with the drinkables, he was taken to City Hall.

SOME RULES FOR AGED PERSONS

When I am old I will observe the following items (perhaps):

I will not try to act nor dress nor talk so as to make people think I am younger than I am.

I will not pretende to be young, nor be angry when called old, nor ashamed of my age.

I will not complain of being old.

I will not continually remind people of my old age to secure their sympathy, or to hear them say I am not so old after all, or do not seem so.

I will not form the habit of indulging in reminiscences.

I will be particularly careful not to repeat the same anecdotes over and over.

I will not complain of the present and claim the past was much better.

If I am deaf, weak-eyed, lame, or otherwise afflicted I will not advertise my infirmities, but avoid obtruding them upon the notice of others as much as possible.

I will not talk of myself, my works, or my achievements, even of my mistakes, any more than is necessary.

I will speak cheerfully or keep still.

I will never indulge in synicism, never sneer at youth, and I will try always to appreciate what younger folks do.

I will be as little bored as I can, and never say I am bored, nor, if possible, act as if I were bored.

I will not give advice unless it is asked, and not often then.

I will not be irritable.

I will not be a nuisance nor an incumbrance so far as in me lies.

I will not be offended by neglect, but I will remember the words of the sage: "Those who come to see me do me honor; those who do not come to see me do me a favor."

I will be as little disagreeable as possible, and will never use my natural disagreeableness as a means of getting my way.

I will cultivate the friendship and companionship of young children, who alone understand old age.

I will learn to love to be alone.

As Ibsen says: "The freest soul is the soul that is alone."

I shall try to show the world that old age is spiritual opportunity and not physical calamity.

Forced to become a bystander, I shall try to be a helpful and cheerful one.

I shall try to sweeten like the pear Dr. Holmes describes that mellows and becomes full flavored before it drops from the stem, and shall try not to sour and dry and rot.

I shall conceive my life's triumph to be to grow triumphantly, victoriously old.

In a word, I shall try to adjust myself to old age, as to all other facts of life.—Dr. Frank Crane in Farm Life.

If all's fair in love and war, God help love!

Hearty Response

Mrs. J. McMahon, Columbia avenue. Phone Riverton 205M.

F. W. SWOPE, Millinery, 802 Cinnaminson Ave. p-12-28.

WHAT ABOUT a nice young goose for Thanksgiving? If you want one, call Riverton 292-R. 11-9-3t.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign in Palmyra was conducted with energy all week by the various captains and their assistants and the results are reported to be meeting expectations.

Comparatively few reports are in yet and complete figures will not be available until the end of the week.

The opening gun in Riverton for its share of the $35,000,000 Fund was fired last Friday night when a mass meeting was held in the auditorium of the Riverton Public School which was crowded to the doors to hear Major General Mark Hersey, U. S. A., and Dr. C. A. Barber, of Rochester University, tell of the work being done by the Association, at home and abroad, and which was a revelation to many of the auditors.

A meeting was held at the home of Walter H. Lippincott Monday evening to hear C. B. Hibbard, international secretary of foreign work, and B. F. Hedrick, camp general secretary, Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

F. Wallis Armstrong, who has charge of the campaign in South Jersey, made a few pointed remarks and opened the meeting for subscriptions, which amounted to $15,000 in about five minutes. A much larger sum will be realized from the meeting, as many of those present did not make their contributions at that time.

The total raised inn Riverton up to the present is about $18,000.

PAINTER'S AUTO UPSET

Stackhouse and Helper Slightly Injured

While H. Stackhouse was driving his truck along the Hylton Road Monday morning, something happened to his steering gear and the car went into a ditch near Beidemann's Hotel, turning upside down with Stackhouse and his helper, Louis Jackel, underneath. Stackhouse was cut about the head by the broken windshield and his leg also was injured. Jackel's shoulder was wrenched and his face was cut. Stackhouse forced himself out from under the car and assisted Jackel and by that time Mr. Beidemann arrived to help them. The top of the car was badly smashed.

The Hylton Road at this point has long been a menace to traffic of all kinds and should be improved.

NEW PATRIOTIC VERSE

Sung as Final Stanza of "America"

The following verse is being widely sung as an addition to "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and will be used in the Epworth Church next Sunday evening:

God Bless our Noble Men.
Bring them safe home again,
God bless our men;
Make them victorious,
Valiant and chivalrous,
As they go forth for us,
God bless our men.

BIG P. T. A MEETING AT MOORESTOWN

Conservation of Nations's Childhood Chief Topic of the Speakers

Delegates from Palmyra who attended the State Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teachers' Associations at Moorestown last week were: Mrs. C. W. Joyce, Mrs. Frank Matthews and Mrs. A. C. Giberson, who attended on Friday, and Mrs. E. M. Becton and Miss Rebecca Conrow who were present on Saturday.

The delegates attending from Riverton were: Mrs. George H. Smith, Mrs. Walter L. Bowen, Mrs. Herbert M. Morros, Miss Elsie Evaul, Mrs. Harvey Stewart, Mrs. Clara MacCord and Mrs. Joseph T. Evans. More than 300 in all attended.

The Friday morning session was opened by an invocation by the Rev. J. F. Hendrick, formerly of Riverton. The speakers emphasized greater necessity for conserving the childhood of the nation owing to the war, and especially along educational lines, pointing out the mistake that had been made in Europe in this respect.

Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Congress said that New Jersey had not fallen short of her expectations, the work in this State being better organized than in any other in the Union. Mrs. Schoff closed with the ringing declaration: "And remember God rules the Universe, no matter how dark the world may look."

Mrs. Alexander Marcy, Jr., asked for contributions from the clubs represented in the Congress for an automobile to be sent to our boys in France as a Christmas present. The response was spontaneous. Over $700 was pledged in seven minutes, and when the hat was passed $187.77 was collected in cash. By the end of the conservation Saturday afternoon the pledges amounted to $1100. The sum required is $2000 to buy the ambulance and equip it.

HEIN LOSES SUIT

Joseph H. Smith Awarded $89.80 By Jury at Mt. Holly

The case of Charles J. Hein, of Palmyra, against Joseph H. Smith, of Riverton, to recover as a result of a dispute over the painting of a church here, was risposed of in Judge Carrow's Court at Mount Holly last week with a verdict of $89.80 for Mr. Smith.

Hein had the contract from Smith to do the painting and gave up the job when about half finished, according to the evidence. This made it necessary for Smith to get some one to complete the work and the total cost exceeded Hein's contract price.

Mysterious Shot From Automobile

BARNESBORO, Nov. 16.—Chas. Keiffer, near here, has offered a reward for information leading to the identity of the persons in an automobile from which a bullet was fired that went through the wall of his house, over his bed and fell within a foot of a small daughter asleep. A neighbor states that the driver of the machine stopped in front of the house, dimmed the lights, fired and drove off at great speed in a southerly direction.

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS Y. M. C. A. BUILDING BROAD AND GARFIELD AVE.

By M. W. WISHAM

The members of Covenent Lodge, No. 11 F. and A. M., abandoned their annual custom of providing a banquet for its members and friends and in lieu of that pleasure contributed the cost to the Red Cross of Palmyra and Riverton, sending a check to each branch for fifty dollars. The members of the Masonic fraternity have the thanks of Palmyra Branch for this kind consideration. The patriotic act is worthy of emulation. Doubtless the donors will derive more actual pleasure from the fact that the aid is timely and that the money will assist in buying materials that will be made into useful articles for hospital work in the army and navy.

The Red Cross women and girls of Akra, N. D., near the Canadian border had worked so diligently knitting socks that their stock of yarn was exhausted. They sent to Grand Forks and Fargo for yarn and could get none. They did not throw up their hands and quit. Not these women of Akra; they sent this message along the roads of Pembia county "Shear a sheep for Red Cross" Hundreds of farmers did that. They brought the black and white wool to the women of Akra, who carded, wove and spun it. It was no small job, but the women of Akra have yarn for all winter.

Messrs. Fred Merkintt, of Lafayette, Ind., and Charles Crombo, Attica., Ind. stationed at League Island Navy Yard were interesting visitors at the opening of Wednesday evening class.

Grand Patriotic Rally

The community is invited to the patriotic rally in the Epworth church this (Saturday) evening to hear Capt. Arthur B. Rudd, Atlantic Division R. C. tell his experience at the front. Miss Margaret Williams, Palmyra, noted elocutionist and Miss Elizabeth Barri will render selections. Don't fail to be present and lend your aid in the Patriotic singing.

Warning

Red Cross members and the public in general are warned that there is no assurance of donations reaching Red Cross treasury through chain-letters and are urged to pay no attention to such appeals. Donations should be sent only through the recognized channels.

To Win Christmas Members

A drive to increase Red Cross Membership to 150,000,000 men and women. The drive is to start December 17 and will be limited to securing members to pay $1.00 or $2.00 dues who will be known as Christmas Members of United States.

NOW SERGEANT SMYTH, QUARTERMASTER'S CORPS

Palmyra Boy Promoted at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas

CAMP LOGAN, Houston, Texas.
Dear Sir and Friends:

Just a few lines to let you know in regards to the letter which I sent to you some time ago about my becoming a first class private. Well I have been promoted again and am now a first class sergeant and am well pleased with my life and doings in the army as I have said in the last letter and would like to let the boys of Palmyra know that there are some good chances for advancement in the army for us young men who are trying to serve our flag and country and do our little bit.

Well, I guess this is all for this time, so I send my best regards to my friends in dear old Palmyra.

I have the Weekly News sent to me from home and it sure does seem nice to hear from the old town so far away. Good luck to The News.

Yours as ever,
SERGEANT A. P. SMYTH,
Remount 325, Q. M. C.

LACK OF CHARM CAUSE OF DIVORCE

Madame Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, in a signed article in the November issue of Harper's Bazaar, attributes the numerous divorces that have come into the courts of late years to lack of charm in the women concerned.

"If I stood at the threshhold of life," says Mme. Bernhardt, "asking of it something with which to buy happiness, I should beg for charm. For if one has charm, she will be loved. And a woman must have love to be happy. Beauty does not matter. If a woman has charm she can secure whatever she wants—love, success, power."

But the Divine Sarah also says that this invaluable quality can be cultivated, and her prescription in Harper's Bazaar reveals the secret.

W. C. T. U.

Next Tuesday will be the regular report day. The war is giving us, a by-product, two new and convincing arguments against the saloon. First we cannot spare the food grains that are now converted into alcohol; second, we cannot at the present crisis permit anything as unpatriotic as the impairment of the strength either of those now in the Army or of those at present engaged in other occupations, may at any time be needed at the battle's front.

Booze is made because some men demand it, but booze making wastes grain which just now is badly needed food bath at home and by our allies.

For the source of slanders against the Red Cross, look in the same direction from which the air raids against hospitals came.

PRAISES WORK OF Y. M. C. A.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—Editor Palmyra News:

I have only been here two weeks but there is one thing in particular here at camp which I wish to boost and that is the Army Y. M. C. A. It furnishes stationery for all of us men without cost, and provides entertainment for us practically every night of the best sort.

They tell us where we go the Y. M. C. A. will be there to look after us the best they know how.

In the barracks here they have no heat as yet, but over at the "Y" hut four big sheet iron stoves and a fire place makes the place seem like home.

I am writing this letter because the Y. M. C. A. has a $35,000,000 campaign on this week and want to do my share to help it along by telling others what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for the men of the United States Army.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH WHITEHEAD,
Gas Defense Corps.

SENIOR FRESHMEN WON

Nose Out Junior Sophomore Team By 13 to 7

In the inter-class football game last Friday, the Senior-Freshmen combination barely nosed out the Junior-Sophomore team by the score of 13-7 The game was closely contested for and the excitement was high even to the last minute. Durgin, Freed and Morton started for the losers while Sharp, Matthews and Evaul were the bright spots for the winners. There is another inter-class game promised for the near future.

A big Burlington game is scheduled for this Friday and P. H. S. is going to show that team what real fotball is. A game is scheduled with Haddonfield next on the Field Club grounds. By the end of the season P. H. S. expects not only to be champions of Burlington county, but to defeat the champions of several adjoining counties. Don't forget the support the fellows have asked for.

21 More Men Called to Camp At Wrightstown

Palmyra and Riverton Boys Included in Latest Summons

Twenty-one more men of Burlington County draft district No. 2, have been notified that they must go to camp at Wrightstown next Monday, Judge Lippincott, chairman of the board, announces.

The notices were sent out in the mail yesterday. The men summoned must appear at Riverside Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for final instructions. They will then be allowed to return to their homes for the night, but must return to Riverside in order to take a midday train for Camp Dix by way of Camden. The men called include four from Palmyra and three from Riverton. They are:

Herbert Ziegler, Riverside; Horace Coe, Cinnaminson; Joseph Purzycki, Riverside; John Wilmot, Moorestown; Jesse Vincent, Palmyra; Joseph E. James, Beverly; Joseph W. Shockley, Moorestown; Allen F. Upshaw, Palmyra; Arthur R. Vaughn, Palmyra; (Vaughn will not have to go to camp inasmuch as he has been allowed to join the Medical Corps in order to complete his course as a medical student); William J. Bagby, Riverton; Peel Poindexter, Riverton; Andrew Jackson Wilkins, Palmyra; Tracey Harvey, Moorestown; Ogden W. Musc, Moorestown; W. H. Lawrence, Riverside; John H. These men constitute 15 per cent. of the district's quota of 143 men. The board has no information as to when the next lot will be taken to camp. The work of making the new classification is expected to begin about December 15th and to require about two months, after which the next draft will be in order.

In making the classification, various attorneys are expected to volunteer their services to aid the men in making out their papers in answer to the questionaire that will be distributed. These attorneys will be appointed by the County Judge.

JOE PETITIO SHOT

An Enemy Fires Through Window at East Riverton Man

Joe Petito, of East Riverton, was shot and seriously injured last Friday night just before 8 o'clock by some one who fired the contents of a double barreled shot gun through the window at close range, wounding him in the face and side. His assailant made good his escape.

George Scepanski, a neighbor, telephoned for the Riverton police. Officer Miller hurried to the scene of the shooting with the small fire truck. He took the injured man to the Riverside hospital. Chief of Police Mattis and Officer Quigley were also soon on the ground and made a thorough investigation. It was learned that Petito had quarreled with an Italian fruit picker, who is missing.

Petito, though badly wounded, improved rapidly, and was brought home on Tuesday.

FOOD CAMPAIGN IS PROGRESSING

Franklin W. Fort, who with Vance C. Roberts, is Campaign Director of the Food Conservation Campaign, issued the following statement yesterday:

"The campaign is progressing very satisfactorily in some sections of the State. In other neighborhoods, the idea seems to prevail that since people already are economizing, due to the high prices, they can do no more. We are trying to drive home to them all a distinction between mere food saving as a matter of economizing and the saving of exportable foods as a matter of patriotic duty. The campaign might perhaps almost better have been called a can conservation campaign, for what we are trying to do is to induce the people to feed our Allies so that they may maintain and improve upon their present pitch of fighting efficiency and thus render it necessary for us to send fewer men across than we would otherwise have to send. We believe that the people are gradually awakening to this situation and are preparing to make the substitutions the Food Administration suggests. Of course, it is not easy to change the habits of eating which prevail any more than it is to break up the drinking or smoking habits, but the leaven is undoubtedly working in the hearts of the people and the campaign results already assure us that New Jersey, at least, will do its full share toward feeding our Allies, who are fighting our fight while we prepare.

"We confidently expect our force of 25,000 canvassers in this State to turn in reports in the next two days which will lift us from the third place among the States in signed pledge cards to the first. We have set for our campaign a higher mark than any other State has ventured to aim at. With the faithful work that we are assured of, we are confident that we will reach the mark."

A woman can forgive a man if he never pays his bills, but not if he never pays her compliments.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

FOREST SERVICE LENDS ITS AID

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—It is announced by the Forest Service that it has been able to comply in full with the request of the War Department for assistance in securing qualified lumbermen and foresters to serve as officers for the forest battalions which are to comprise a part of the American overseas forces. Three hundred and nine men have been recommended for commissions in the grades of major, captain, first lieutenant, and second lieutenant. Of these, two-thirds are practical lumbermen or sawmill operators and one-third are trained foresters with long woods experience. Some of the lumbermen who were recommended have also had theoretical training in forestry and many of the foresters who had experience in logging or sawmilling.

In the selection of qualified lumbermen the Forest Service has had the close co-operation of a sub-committee of the Lumber Committee of the Council of National Defense and of fourteen committees of lumbermen in different parts of the country. Almost every man selected was interviewed by a lumbermen's committee or by the Forest Service officials. Many private foresters and forest schools have assisted in finding technical foresters suitable for commissions. All of the men recommended have, by successful experience, shown themselves capable of handling some important phase of lumbering, sawmill, or technical forest work, according to officials of the Forest Service. All have proved by experience their qualities of leadership and their ability to handle men in large numbers.

Every timber region of the United States has contributed its share of the men who have been nominated for officers and it is believed that every class of lumbering, from the smallest portable mill operation to the largest and most up-to-date plant, is represented. Among those selected are men experienced in logging and sawing every merchantable wood growing in this country.

The age limits set in the beginning required that all officers of the forest battalions should be thirty-one years of age, or older. Because of the difficulty of finding men suitable for lieutenants, the new age limit for this grade was later lowered to twenty-five years. The bulk of the men recommended as lieutenants range in age from twenty-five to thirty-five, as captains from thirty to forty and as majors from forty to fifty.

Men who have been recommended have been notified that all further action as regards physical examination, the issuance of commissions, and the order in which the successful applicants will be called for service rests with the War Department.

Supplying the Names

"So you have twins at your house?" said Mrs. Nabor to little Jack.

"Yessum," he said soberly, "two of them."

"What are they going to call them, my dear?"

"Well, I don't know for sure, but I think their names is Thunder and Lightnin', 'cause that's the names papa called them when the doctor came in and told him about them."—From the New Puck.

Millville Blaze Incendiary

MILLVILLE, Nov. 6.—While the Millville fire companies were fighting a blazing barn early yesterday, fire which, is believed to have been of incendiary origin, was discovered in the West Side M. E. Church. Before the flames could be controlled it had damaged the structure beyond repair. Excelsior shavings and other inflammable material were found in the cellar. The police are making an investigation. The ruined church will be replaced by a stone edifice.

WOULD AID TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Home economics teachers in the schools are told in a recent circular of the Bureau of Education that a special obligation rests upon them to take an active part in the national food and clothing problems arising from the war. They are in a strategic position, according to the Bureau's circular, which says.

"Teachers of home economics can reach into the homes of the patrons of the public schools and aid in extending a knowledge of food conditions. They can explain the reasons why American families are asked to modify some of their food habits. They can raise food economy to the plane of patriotic service. They can assist families in matters of economy so that better living conditions can be maintained. Of course, all home-economics teachers will alter laboratory practices so as to conform to present food conditions, but they may carefully make plain the reasons why America with her abundance of food material asks her people to select carefully, use wisely, and waste not one particle."

The Bureau's circular points out that home economics teachers have already assisted materially in the work of food preservation. They can help further, it is asserted, by taking pupils on "fruit picking" picnics to gather fruit for canning that would otherwise go to waste. This will be possible until very late in the fall in some sections. The products of food preservation may be donated to the Red Cross, sent to the soldiers in France, used for public school lunches, or sold for some community project. Home economics teachers can emphasize the cooking of perishable foods and reduce the use of the needed staples.

Sewing courses in the schools may also be modified to meet war needs "It should be required that half of all class work be done upon old material," says the Bureau. "The value in teaching lessons in thrift can not be overestimated.

"Whenever possible articles useful to others rather than to the pupil should be made. This is valuable in establishing among the pupils interest in the great national and patriotic movement of the present time and in suppressing selfishness and vanity.

Gem Swindler Gets Used to Jail

MILLVILLE, Nov. 6.—Henry Wilde, alias N .B. Corson, who with worthless checks swindled E. C. Morrison and Lee Kyle, local jewelers, out of diamonds valued at about $800, was brought back from State Prison by Marshal Biggs yesterday, and was placed in the county jail to await trial. Wilde has been serving one year for a similar swindling in Camden.

Costly Dressing

Mrs. Washington Terrace consented to be interviewed.

"What? Dress on six hundred a year?"

She made a wry grimace as she waived the question aside.

"Why I couldn't dress my salads on six hundred a year," she said.—From the New Puck.

An optimist is a man who can get comfort from having his conscience tell him he is right when he knows he is left.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

KINDERGARTENS NOW FAVORED

The 1917-18 school term finds five more States with better kindergarten laws, as advocated by the United States Bureau of Education, the National Kindergarten Association, and organization of mothers and club women everywhere.

In Maine and Texas, the new laws authorize the school boards to open a kindergarten wherever parents petition for them. This makes it possible for a community to determine for itself, with the slightest degree of difficulty, whether it desires the advantages of a kindergarten training for its children. In Maine, a feature of the legislative campaign was the presence of ten of the kindergarten children of Bangor before the education committee of the House on the hearing of the kindergarten bill. In Texas, the Congress of Mothers and the women's clubs were effective in arousing sentiment for kindergartens all over the State. The education officials of the State supported the measure from the start and the result was not only successful legislation but a wide-spread public sentiment for the best type of kindergarten training.

The amendment to the Washington law, although it does not expressly state that parents may petition for a kindergarten, is practically the same in effect, since it provides that a kindergarten shall constitute a part of the regular school system and shall be supported in the same way that primary and grammar courses are supported. The result is that when fathers and mothers make known their wishes for a kindergarten as part of the public school system of their community, a class will be started. The following arguments, presented by a representative of the Congress of Mothers in Washington, were effective in securing legislation: (1) The early years are the most impressionable and in a wise educational system these years should not be left unprovided for. (2) Little children are given a good start not only in school but in life through the excellent training which the kindergarten gives. (3) The majority of parents who want kindergarten training for their children cannot afford to pay tuition at private kindergartens. (4) The kindergarten is democratic in that it brings additional educational advantages to all children before any must leave school to go to work. (5) One dollar spent in right formation is better than a hundred spent for reformation later.

In Oregon, progress was made in kindergarten legislation despite considerable opposition. The new law applies only to the city of Portland, and has the further restriction that not more than five and not less than three kindergartens must be installed during the year. It is hoped that Oregon will find the Portland experiment so desirable that the legislature will extend the kindergarten advantages throughout the State.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

This vigorous and well-managed organization unites all the Protestant Denominations of New Jersey in the supremely important task of religious education.

It conducts a Summer school, stimulates winter schools and classes to train Sunday school teachers, publishes a monthly paper, and holds scores of educational meetings all over New Jersey. The most important of those comes next week at Camden, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 13, 14 and 15. This is the Annual State Convention. The mass meetings will be held in the commodious auditorium of the Broadway Methodist church, while department meetings and social meals will be assigned to the First Methodist and the Second Presbyterian churches nearby. All interested in Sunday school work are invited, and judging from past experiences more than a thousand people will be present, representing every county in New Jersey.

Marion Lawrence, Executive Officer of the International Sunday School Association will be present from Chicago, Bishop Berry will give the convention sermon, Rev. Chas. L. Goodell, D. D., of New York, will speak on the closing evening. The relation of the Sunday school to war needs will be explained by representatives of the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Food Conservation, and the Armenian Syrian Relief. The music will be a feature of the convention with a chorus choir of 200 and an orchestra of 25.

The headquarters of the New Jersey Sunday school Association are at 835 Broad street, Newark, N. J.

Time Bomb on a Train

SEABRIGHT, Nov. 7—A time bomb, found to contain explosives, was included in express receipts here yesterday. It was consigned to a man at Monmouth Beach, whose name was withheld by Prosecutor Sexton. Before the train reached its destination it was intercepted at Seabright and later an officer from the Ordnance Department, Fort Hancock, took the shell to the laboratory for examination.

All Asleep, But Booze Aplenty

VINELAND, Nov. 7—When the police were roused out at midnight to quell a reported riot at the home of G. Gelsi, they found everybody asleep, but stumbled on 22 cases of beer and 10 quarts of whisky. A neighbor had sent in the false alarm with the hope that the "wet goods" would be found. Gelsi was charged with keeping a speakeasy, and, with the drinkables, he was taken to City Hall.

SOME RULES FOR AGED PERSONS

When I am old I will observe the following items (perhaps):

I will not try to act nor dress nor talk so as to make people think I am younger than I am.

I will not pretende to be young, nor be angry when called old, nor ashamed of my age.

I will not complain of being old.

I will not continually remind people of my old age to secure their sympathy, or to hear them say I am not so old after all, or do not seem so.

I will not form the habit of indulging in reminiscences.

I will be particularly careful not to repeat the same anecdotes over and over.

I will not complain of the present and claim the past was much better.

If I am deaf, weak-eyed, lame, or otherwise afflicted I will not advertise my infirmities, but avoid obtruding them upon the notice of others as much as possible.

I will not talk of myself, my works, or my achievements, even of my mistakes, any more than is necessary.

I will speak cheerfully or keep still.

I will never indulge in synicism, never sneer at youth, and I will try always to appreciate what younger folks do.

I will be as little bored as I can, and never say I am bored, nor, if possible, act as if I were bored.

I will not give advice unless it is asked, and not often then.

I will not be irritable.

I will not be a nuisance nor an incumbrance so far as in me lies.

I will not be offended by neglect, but I will remember the words of the sage: "Those who come to see me do me honor; those who do not come to see me do me a favor."

I will be as little disagreeable as possible, and will never use my natural disagreeableness as a means of getting my way.

I will cultivate the friendship and companionship of young children, who alone understand old age.

I will learn to love to be alone.

As Ibsen says: "The freest soul is the soul that is alone."

I shall try to show the world that old age is spiritual opportunity and not physical calamity.

Forced to become a bystander, I shall try to be a helpful and cheerful one.

I shall try to sweeten like the pear Dr. Holmes describes that mellows and becomes full flavored before it drops from the stem, and shall try not to sour and dry and rot.

I shall conceive my life's triumph to be to grow triumphantly, victoriously old.

In a word, I shall try to adjust myself to old age, as to all other facts of life.—Dr. Frank Crane in Farm Life.

If all's fair in love and war, God help love!

Hearty Response

The Y. M. C. A. campaign in Palmyra was conducted with energy all week by the various captains and their assistants and the results are reported to be meeting expectations.

Comparatively few reports are in yet and complete figures will not be available until the end of the week.

The opening gun in Riverton for its share of the $35,000,000 Fund was fired last Friday night when a mass meeting was held in the auditorium of the Riverton Public School which was crowded to the doors to hear Major General Mark Hersey, U. S. A., and Dr. C. A. Barber, of Rochester University, tell of the work being done by the Association, at home and abroad, and which was a revelation to many of the auditors.

A meeting was held at the home of Walter H. Lippincott Monday evening to hear C. B. Hibbard, international secretary of foreign work, and B. F. Hedrick, camp general secretary, Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

F. Wallis Armstrong, who has charge of the campaign in South Jersey, made a few pointed remarks and opened the meeting for subscriptions, which amounted to $15,000 in about five minutes. A much larger sum will be realized from the meeting, as many of those present did not make their contributions at that time.

The total raised inu Riverton up to the present is about $18,000.

PAINTER'S AUTO UPSET

Stackhouse and Helper Slightly Injured

While H. Stackhouse was driving his truck along the Hylton Road Monday morning, something happened to his steering gear and the car went into a ditch near Beidemann's Hotel, turning upside down with Stackhouse and his helper, Louis Jackel, underneath. Stackhouse was cut about the head by the broken windshield and his leg also was injured. Jackel's shoulder was wrenched and his face was cut. Stackhouse forced himself out from under the car and assisted Jackel and by that time Mr. Beidemann arrived to help them. The top of the car was badly smashed.

The Hylton Road at this point has long been a menace to traffic of all kinds and should be improved.

NEW PATRIOTIC VERSE

Sung as Final Stanza of "America"

The following verse is being widely sung as an addition to "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and will be used in the Epworth Church next Sunday evening:

God Bless our Noble Men.
Bring them safe home again,
God bless our men;
Make them victorious,
Valiant and chivalrous,
As they go forth for us,
God bless our men.

BIG P. T. A MEETING AT MOORESTOWN

Conservation of Nationa's Childhood Chief Topic of the Speakers

Delegates from Palmyra who attended the State Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teachers' Associations at Moorestown last week were: Mrs. C. W. Joyce, Mrs. Frank Matthews and Mrs. A. C. Giberson, who attended on Friday, and Mrs. E. M. Becton and Miss Rebecca Conrow who were present on Saturday.

The delegates attending from Riverton were: Mrs. George H. Smith, Mrs. Walter L. Bowen, Mrs. Herbert M. Morros, Miss Elsie Evaul, Mrs. Harvey Stewart, Mrs. Clara MacCord and Mrs. Joseph T. Evans. More than 300 in all attended.

The Friday morning session was opened by an invocation by the Rev. J. F. Hendrick, formerly of Riverton. The speakers emphasized greater necessity for conserving the childhood of the nation owing to the war, and especially along educational lines, pointing out the mistake that had been made in Europe in this respect.

Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Congress said that New Jersey had not fallen short of her expectations, the work in this State being better organized than in any other in the Union. Mrs. Schoff closed with the ringing declaration: "And remember God rules the Universe, no matter how dark the world may look."

Mrs. Alexander Marcy, Jr., asked for contributions from the clubs represented in the Congress for an automobile to be sent to our boys in France as a Christmas present. The response was spontaneous. Over $700 was pledged in seven minutes, and when the hat was passed $187.77 was collected in cash. By the end of the conservation Saturday afternoon the pledges amounted to $1100. The sum required is $2000 to buy the ambulance and equip it.

HEIN LOSES SUIT

Joseph H. Smith Awarded $89.80 By Jury at Mt. Holly

The case of Charles J. Hein, of Palmyra, against Joseph H. Smith, of Riverton, to recover as a result of a dispute over the painting of a church here, was risposed of in Judge Carrow's Court at Mount Holly last week with a verdict of $89.80 for Mr. Smith.

Hein had the contract from Smith to do the painting and gave up the job when about half finished, according to the evidence. This made it necessary for Smith to get some one to complete the work and the total cost exceeded Hein's contract price.

Mysterious Shot From Automobile

BARNESBORO, Nov. 16.—Chas. Keiffer, near here, has offered a reward for information leading to the identity of the persons in an automobile from which a bullet was fired that went through the wall of his house, over his bed and fell within a foot of a small daughter asleep. A neighbor states that the driver of the machine stopped in front of the house, dimmed the lights, fired and drove off at great speed in a southerly direction.

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING
BROAD AND GARFIELD AVE.

By M. W. WISHAM

The members of Covenent Lodge, No. 11 F. and A. M., abandoned their annual custom of providing a banquet for its members and friends and in lieu of that pleasure contributed the cost to the Red Cross of Palmyra and Riverton, sending a check to each branch for fifty dollars. The members of the Masonic fraternity have the thanks of Palmyra Branch for this kind consideration. The patriotic act is worthy of emulation. Doubtless the donors will derive more actual pleasure from the fact that the aid is timely and that the money will assist in buying materials that will be made into useful articles for hospital work in the army and navy.

The Red Cross women and girls of Akra, N. D., near the Canadian border had worked so diligently knitting socks that their stock of yarn was exhausted. They sent to Grand Forks and Fargo for yarn and could get none. They did not throw up their hands and quit. Not these women of Akra; they sent this message along the roads of Pembia county "Shear a sheep for Red Cross" Hundreds of farmers did that. They brought the black and white wool to the women of Akra, who carded, wove and spun it. It was no small job, but the women of Akra have yarn for all winter.

Messrs. Fred Merkintt, of Lafayette, Ind., and Charles Crombo, Attica, Ind. stationed at League Island Navy Yard were interesting visitors at the opening of Wednesday evening class.

NOW SERGEANT SMYTH, QUARTERMASTER'S CORPS

CAMP LOGAN, Houston, Texas. Dear Sir and Friends:

Just a few lines to let you know in regards to the letter which I sent to you some time ago about my becoming a first class private. Well I have been promoted again and am now a first class sergeant and am well pleased with my life and doings in the army as I have said in the last letter and would like to let the boys of Palmyra know that there are some good chances for advancement in the army for us young men who are trying to serve our flag and country and do our little bit.

Well, I guess this is all for this time, so I send my best regards to my friends in dear old Palmyra.

I have the Weekly News sent to me from home and it sure does seem nice to hear from the old town so far away. Good luck to The News.

Yours as ever,
SERGEANT A. P. SMYTH,

LACK OF CHARM CAUSE OF DIVORCE

Madame Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, in a signed article in the November issue of Harper's Bazaar, attributes the numerous divorces that have come into the courts of late years to lack of charm in the women concerned.

"If I stood at the threshhold of life," says Mme. Bernhardt, "asking of it something with which to buy happiness, I should beg for charm. For if one has charm, she will be loved. And a woman must have love to be happy. Beauty does not matter. If a woman has charm she can secure whatever she wants—love, success, power."

But the Divine Sarah also says that this invaluable quality can be cultivated, and her prescription in Harper's Bazaar reveals the secret.

W. C. T. U.

Next Tuesday will be the regular report day. The war is giving us, a by-product, two new and convincing arguments against the saloon. First we cannot spare the food grains that are now converted into alcohol; second, we cannot at the present crisis permit anything as unpatriotic as the impairment of the strength either of those now in the Army or of those at present engaged in other occupations, may at any time be needed at the battle's front.

Booze is made because some men demand it, but booze making wastes grain which just now is badly needed food bath at home and by our allies.

For the source of slanders against the Red Cross, look in the same direction from which the air raids against hospitals came.

PRAISES WORK OF Y. M. C. A.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—Editor Palmyra News:

I have only been here two weeks but there is one thing in particular here at camp which I wish to boost and that is the Army Y. M. C. A. It furnishes stationery for all of us men without cost, and provides entertainment for us practically every night of the best sort.

They tell us where we go the Y. M. C. A. will be there to look after us the best they know how.

In the barracks here they have no heat as yet, but over at the "Y" hut four big sheet iron stoves and a fire place makes the place seem like home.

I am writing this letter because the Y. M. C. A. has a $35,000,000 campaign on this week and want to do my share to help it along by telling others what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for the men of the United States Army.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH WHITEHEAD,
Gas Defense Corps.

JOE PETITIO SHOT

An Enemy Fires Through Window at East Riverton Man

Joe Petito, of East Riverton, was shot and seriously injured last Friday night just before 8 o'clock by some one who fired the contents of a double barreled shot gun through the window at close range, wounding him in the face and side. His assailant made good his escape.

George Scepanski, a neighbor, telephoned for the Riverton police. Officer Miller hurried to the scene of the shooting with the small fire truck. He took the injured man to the Riverside hospital. Chief of Police Mattis and Officer Quigley were also soon on the ground and made a thorough investigation. It was learned that Petito had quarreled with an Italian fruit picker, who is missing.

Petito, though badly wounded, improved rapidly, and was brought home on Tuesday.

SHIP TIMBERS ARE IN DEMAND

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 13.—Aroused to the necessity of greater efforts if the nation's wooden fleet plans are not allowed to drag dangerously, Southern lumber manufacturers this week inaugurated a speeding up program by which it is hoped to increase the output of ship timbers from 850,000 feet to 2,000,000 feet a day. Mills which had never before cut a stick of ship timbers are overhauling machinery and installing new equipmentw ith a view to contributing their part to the country's defense work. Many of the larger plants will run night and day until the government's requirements have been fully met.

With the centralization of all lumber activities on shipbuilding comes announcement by the Southern Pine Association that a general campaign of instruction will at once be begun among mill superintendents, loggers, lumber workers generally, whereby maximum results may be attained and waste eliminated. Association inspectors are being summoned to headquarters in this city from all parts of the country for a brief course of intensive training along shipbuilding lines, after which they will be sent among the mills to hold meetings with mill workers and confer with the men actually engaged in getting out ship timbers. To perform a similar service, a special corps of men wil be employed by the Southern Pine Emergency Bureau.

Colored placards are being printed, to be posted up at mills and in mill towns. One of these placards reads: "Win the War! RUSH material for Ships!"

Cypress manufacturers have offered to produce some of the extra large size timbers which are difficult to obtain in pine. "Every piece of cypress possible of conversion into shipbuilding timbers will be so utilized," said George E. Watson, secretary of the Southern Cypress Manufacturers' Association, today, following a conference with lumbermen and representatives of the government. Cypress is said to be especially adaptable to the production of what are known as "Flitches."

TO FEED CAPTIVE AMERICANS

American prisoners of war in Germany will be furnished enough food for their subsistence independently of rations provided them by the Germans.

The American Red Cross, through arrangements with the British General Prisoners of War Committee, is doing this for the American prisoners in Germany, of whom there are now 101, and a committee of the American Red Cross has been established at Berne, Switzerland, to do this work in the future. This committee will work directly under the American Red Cross and will take over all the work of provisioning American soldiers and sailors who may be held in Germany.

WILL INSPECT FOR SHIPPERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14— The food products inspection service established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture under the authority of the Food Production Act was made available November 1 to shippers of fruits and vegetables in two large markets—New York and Chicago.

It will be extended in the next few weeks to Kansas City, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, Fort Worth, Houston and other markets. The supervising inspectors in the first two districts now are training inspectors for the work and are preparing to receive applications for inspections.

It is thought likely that for some time inspections will be made mostly of cars of produce concerning the condition of which there is some dispute. Applications must be made by thh shipper or his authorized agent, and may be made by telegraph, telephone, letter or in person. Applications must contain a complete description of the shipment, including the name and address of the shipper and receiver, car number, initials and routing, contents and the particular condition concerning which inspection is requested.

Inspectors will certify as to the condition of fruits and vegetables only. No charge will be made for the service. An inspection certificate will be issued regarding each car or lot inspected and the original delivered or mailed to the shipper or his rpresentative. Upon request of the shipper or his representative all or part of the contents of the inspection certificate will be telegraphed to him at his expense.

The Food Production Act of August 10, 1917, authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to investigate and certify to shippers the condition as to soundness of fruits, vegetables and other food products, when received at important central markets designated by the Secretary, under rules and regulations prescribed by him. These certificates are to be prima facie evidence in all courts of the truth of the statements they contain.

The Chief of the Bureau of Markets of the Department is charged with the establishment and supervision of this service. For convenience in administration the important central markets designated by the Secretary have been divided into six divisions or districts, with a supervising inspector responsible for each division.

Rules and regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture are given in Secretary's Circular No. 82. The inspection service organization is described, directions are given for making contracts with inspectors, written and telegraphic forms are discussed and other information is furnished for shippers, receivers and others in Bureau of Markets Service and Regulatory Announcements No. 28. These two publications, issued November 1, and other information concerning the service may be obtained from the Chief of the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

JERSEY'S BOYS IN CAMPAIGN

NEWARK, Nov. 13.—The boys of the nation are united this week in a common cause, participating with the men in the drive for $35,000,000 to help the soldiers and sailors through the Y. M. C. A. 100,000 boys are being enlisted to earn $10 each before April 1st, and it is understood that money solicited will not be accepted, for the leaders feel confident that the boys will respond to the challenge of sacrifices.

The New Jersey Boys' Council in conference agreed upon 7,000 boys as their goal to earn $70,000. Meetings have been held in many of the cities and towns, and with one accord they have accepted their share.

The Newark Board of Education recognizing the far reaching work of the Y. M. C. A., and the fact that it is conducted among every nationality, irrespective of Church or creed, instructed the principals of the sixty schools of the city to participate, and Dr. David B. Corson, the City Superintendent, by vote of the Board, has addressed a letter to each prinicpal urging their hearty participation in this campaign.

Louis P. Penningroth, the first American Secretary to work among prisoners-of-war in Austria-Hungary; Hugh A. Moran, who accompanied the Root Commission to Russia as a personal aide of Dr. John R. Mott; Lieutenant Arthur LaRoe, member of the Medical Reserve, who served eleven months with the French and American Red Cross in France; Albert L. Kennelly, chairman of the New Jersey Campaign Committee; and Charles R. Scott, Director of the New Jersey Campaign, have visited the High Schools of Newark, Trenton, Camden, Morristown, Haddonfield, Collingswood, Dover, Boonton, Hanover, Madison, Ridgewood, Paterson, Glen Ridge, Passaic, Cranford, and other cities and towns during the past week, outlining the plan and telling of the work of the Red Triangle in this and other countries, and report an enthusiastic reception in every school visited.

The business men are backing the boys in this undertaking, and committee are being appointed to serve as a clearing house for work after school hours and on Saturdays, so as to help the boys earn the money, and the local commitee will soon make an appeal to our citizens for employment for the boys.

Senator-elect William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, in addressing men in their campaign, expressed his approval of the Boys' Work, and suggested that every man present be responsible for securing employment for one boy between now and April 1st. One man in attendance immediately offered work to three boys to help at his garage, another engaged a boys to wash his automobile regularly.

When the boys heard that the men in the army are washing their own dishes, as well as the dishes of the officers, they suggested their willingness to take jobs washing dishes in the home. One boy who was earning money for a bicycle has given up the idea of a wheel at present, and earned toward this fund. Another boy who was going on a hike election day secured a job, and used the money in payment of the pledge.

The campaign wil continue throughout this week, and daily reports will be sent to the State Office in this city, designating number of boys enlisted for earning money for prisoner-of-war, American soldiers, and sailors of our Allies. A certificate has been engraved with Dollar Coupons, and upon completion of the payments the certificate wil be signed by Dr. John R. Mott, William Sloane and other International men, as well as the local chairman, and treasurer.

More Recreation At Prison

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the must abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

FOOD DUMPING NOW DENIED

The Bureau of Markets of the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture has investigated a number of statements appearing in the public press during past summer alleging that farmers and produce dealers practice illegal and wasteful methods in attempts to manipulate the market.

During August the Bureau's attention was called to the buying up of potato fields in Monmouth county by speculators who intended to allow crop to rot in the ground unharvested. The object, it was explained, was to decrease the supply, thus enabling the speculators to make fortunes out of the balance which they controlled. Upon investigation it was found that not only were no potatoes rotting in the ground but that fewer fields had been sold before digging than usual as the farmers looked for better prices when cool weather came and were not selling out so early.

At the request of the Women's Committee of the New Jersey Branch of the Council of National Defense, the subject of food dumping on the piers at New York and at the railroad terminals and meadows in Jersey City was investigated and the following report has just been made by the Bureau of Markets:

Our correspondent gave the following list of food stuffs ordered destroyed by the Health Department of the City of New York for the week ending June 23, 1917:

Potatoes	16,500 lbs.
Raisins	15,000 lbs.
Peaches	2,100 lbs.
Assorted Fruits	1,480 lbs.
Pineapples	97,920 lbs.
Coffee	52,896 lbs.
Beans	700 lbs.
Onions	2,120 lbs.

Through the co-operation of the Health Department and various railroad officials our investigation shows the following facts:

The potatoes spoiled because of rain at digging time followed by high temperature when they were in transit. The 16,500 lbs. equal 275 bu. or less than half a carload. During this week there were received in the city a total of 24,750,000 lbs. or 412,500 bu. equal to about 700 carloads. This makes a loss of early potatoes dug under unfavorable conditions and shipped in hot weather of less than .0007%.

The peaches and onions which came partly from distant points in our own country and partly from countries across the water represented less than .05% of the total amounts shiped. The spoilage in this case was due to delay in transit owing to frieght conditions.

The pineapples destroyed came from shipments from Porto Rico and the amount of loss is normal for that time of the year.

The assorted fruit was small items of various kinds of fruit received and the amount is too small to consider. The beans destroyed show also a very small loss.

In the case of the raisins destroyed these were damaged in a fire and were considered unhealthful when offered for sale.

The coffee destroyed is reported as "skimmings" taken from various lots arriving in the port of New York during the previous six months. The amount destroyed represents but a fraction of .01%.

The Department of Health further states that wherever loss is due to avoidable causes the shippers and transportation companies are notified and remedies suggested.

HOME CANNED FOOD IS SAFE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—The United State Department of Agriculture today issued the following statement prepared by the bacteriologists of its Bureau of Chemistry and the States Relations Service:

"There is no danger that the type of food poisoning now as 'Botulism' will result from eating fruits or vegetables which have been canned by any of the methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, provided such directions have been followed carefully. It is possible that in a number of instances the directions were not strictly followed and that spoilage has occurred. Of course, extreme care should be taken to ascertain before eating canned goods of any kind whether they are in good condition, and if they have spoiled they should not be consumed. "In case of any doubt as to whether the contents of a particular can have spoiled, the safest plan is to throw it away, although all danger of Botulism may be avoided by boiling the contents of the can for a few minutes, since the Bacillus botulinus and the toxin or poison which it produces are killed by such treatment. No canned food of any kind which shows any signs of spoilage should ever be eaten. In the cold pack method of canning given out by the Department of Agriculture, only fresh vegetables are recommended for canning, and sterilization is acomplished by the following processes: cleansing, blanching, cold dipping, packing in clean, ho jars, adding boiling water, sealing immediately, and then sterilizing the sealed jars at a minimum temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit for one to four hours, according to the character of the material. Since the spores of B. botulinus are killed by heating for one hour at 175 degrees Fahrenheit (according to Jordan's "Bacteriology" and other recognized textbooks) there is no reason to believe that the botulinus organism will survive such treatment."

Wildwood Dedicates High School

WILDWOOD, Nov. 14.—Interesting ceremonies marked the dedication of the city's new $100,000 High School last evening, with a large assemblage of citizens present. Rev. A. Q. Bailey invoked the blessing and addresses were made by H. C. Chambers, the principal; A. W. Hand, county superintendent of schools, and T. D. Senser, assistant State Commissioner of Education. The school orchestra and Glee Club furnished musical numbers.

WHEAT FLOUR SUBSTITUTES

Many persons when asked to sign the card pledging themselves to follow out the directions and advice of the United States Food Administration in the matter of food use, have raised the question of why it is that corn and other foodstuffs which the Food Administrator asks them to substitute for wheat are not shipped to the Allies so that they may make the substitution, thereby making it unnecessary for the American people to cut down on their wheat consumption. The answer to this objection is that European nations are already using from 20 to 50 per cent of corn, potato and other adulterants in the manufacture of their daily bread. The British government requires a 20 per cent adulteration in all wheat bread and will permit a maximum of 50 per cent. Adulteration beyond 50 per cent it is found does not make a healthful loaf. Corn, in the form of meal cannot be shipped because it would spoil in transit. As to the whole grain there is the objection that the people on the other side have no mills in which to grind it. Furthermore, corn bread cannot be baked successfully in bakeries, on which European people depend almost exclusively for bread. In addition to these reasons it seems wiser to make a radical change in the diet of people who are living under normal conditions than of those who are enduring unusual mental and physical strain.

The reason why the substitute for white wheat flour have been higher in price is that heretofore these articles have been put up only in small quantities on account of limited demand and dealers have therefore considered them specials and asked fancy prices. This condition cannot be remedied until the new crops are ready to be milled, which will be in two or three weeks. After that time these substitutes should be found on the market in plenty and at prices lower than the prices asked for white wheat flour. All corn meal at the present time has been made from old corn which has a local farm value of about $2.00 per bushel (56 pounds). In two or three weeks new corn will be fit to grind which should not cost millers more than $1.50 or $1.75 a bushel. We believe that they should be able to sell it at 3½ or 3¾ or 4c maximum. This should allow retailers to sell it for 4½ cents per pound. The price of rye and of whole wheat flour should also be less than the price of white wheat flour.

Whole wheat flour is a legitimate substitute for white wheat flour because it is made from a softer grade of wheat from which good white wheat flour cannot be made and which cannot be shipped abroad without spoiling.

In order that the plans of the Food Administration may be carried out successfully it is necessary to have earnest and patriotic co-operation in every community and consumers are called upon to use their influence with grocers and food handlers to induce them to keep a plentiful supply of these wheat substitutes always on sale.

In order that housewives may know the best methods of preparing these wheat substitutes for the table demonstrations should be arranged in every community by those who are experienced in the preparation of these articles for food. Miss M. Anna Hauser, Home Economics Director for the State of New Jersey, of the Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, will be glad to co-operate with any community in organizing demonstrations.

The office of the New Jersey Federal Food Administrator at Jersey City can furnish retailers with a list of names of millers in New Jersey who are prepared to supply these wheat substitutes in 10 lb., 100 lb. or 1000 lb. lots.

ISLAND PARADISE OF BIRDS

One of the wonder spots of the world is Laysan Island in the middle of the Pacific ocean, where many thousands of birds gather year by year to lay their eggs and rear their young. Laysan is three miles in length and two and a half miles in breadth. It is sprinkled with vegetation in the form of strong, bushy grass and some low shrubs, between which a few pigmy palms struggle for existence.

A long lagoon stretches across, filled with remarkably salt water—no fresh water exists on the island, a curious fact considering the number of land birds that make it their nesting place. And everywhere there are birds—thousands upon thousands of albatrosses, white and brown, in great distinct colonies; vast rookeries of terns and petrels and frigate birds; countless rail run everywhere in the long grass; bright red tropical honey birds, bright yellow curlews scream, ducks quack and low finches flutter in the shrubs; crake chirp all the day.

"PRETTY BABY" AT WALNUT THEATRE

"Pretty Baby," with Jimmie Hodges and Jean Tynes will be the attraction at the popular Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia, for one week commencing Monday, November 19.

Jimmie Hodges supported by Jean Tynes in a capable cast of Musical Comedy stars, including a big chorus of twenty Broadway show girls, displaying numerous types and styles of gowns, dresses and other elaborate costumes and effects, make "Pretty Baby" one of the most enjoyable musical comedy productions one would desire to see. Jimmie Hodges who heads the cast and bears the burden of the comedy, is of that droll sort of Hitchcockian style fellow.

He gets familiar with his audience at his first apeparance, and remains more or less so until the final curtain. Mr. Hodges is not only a great favorite when it comes to ~~laugh-making but~~ he is one comedian in twenty who possesses a lyric tenor voice. His voice has great range and a sweetness of tone that one will long remember after hearing him.

Carnations And Rats

Not long ago the oasement of a department store in San Diego, Cal., received a sudden influx of rats. Traps, however baited, tempted but few, and other methods of riddance tried seemed of little avail. About this time the janitor noticed that old carnations thrown into the rubbish disappeared overnight. He put two and two together and began baiting traps with carnations. Every trap added to the fatalities in the rodent kingdom.

The city health department then took it up and has been achieving very satisfactory results therefrom. The odor of the flower seems to attract rats from some considerable distance, the variation of color apparently making no difference.—American City.

Partnership

The making of even the most ordinary telephone call involves a partnership of at least three persons.

The effectiveness of the service depends on the degree of team-play existing between these three partners—the person calling, who co-operates by consulting the directory and calling by number always; the operator, by making the connection quickly, courteously and with the maximum degree of human accuracy; and the person called, by answering promptly.

Greatest satisfaction of service is attained when the second partner, the operator, is accorded the same consideration and courtesy which she is always anxious to show the other two members of the partnership.

JOY FOR THE MEN AT TEA

Any man who knows that, sooner or later, he must go to another afternoon tea cannot but rejoice at the recent invention of an oval, platter-like saucer, large enough to hold with ease a cup, a lettuce or other sandwich, and a dainty trifle of pastry. The thing was needed, the modesty of the anonymous inventor—evidently not Mr. Edison—reveals him one of the large body of occasional and unwilling tea-goers.

We, the reluctant and unwilling, are al strangely alike at these functions; and we have all been embarrassed by the old-fashioned saucer. Circular in shape, and hardly larger than the cup that belies its reputation and dances drunkenly whenever another guest joggles our elbow (which happens so often that we suspect conspiracy), the old-fashioned saucer affords no reasonably secure perch for a sandwich; responds with instant delight to the law of gravitation if left to itself; and sets us wishing, those of us who think scientifically, that evolution had refrained from doing away with an extension by which alone we could now hope to manage it. We mean a tail! If afternoon teas had been started in the Oligocene epoch instead of the seventeenth century, we are convinced that evolution, far from discarding this useful appendage, would have perfected it. A little hand would have evolved at the end of it, such a little hand as might hold his saucer while a gentleman sips from his teacup.—Atlantic Magazine.

P. O. S. of A.

An invitation has been received to attend the Red Cross meeting in Epworth Temple Saturday evening, November 17th. Members of 23 will meet at Camp room at 7.30 P. M. There should be a large turnout to show the appreciation felt for the work being done by those laboring under the Geneva emblem. Results will be apparent later but moral and material support must be given now.

At the meeting on November 12th the Y. M. C. A. movement was brought up and a contribution made to the cause. The revival of the Rough Rider degree was placed in the hands of some of the young members who will endeavor to get it in operation within the next two weeks.

Plans for the visitation to Tabernacle on November 20th are maturing and those wishing to participate should see the committee in charge on November 19th. On this date some facts and figures will be presented showing how the war is bearing on fraternal societies. Information at hand shows conditions that should be known by all members. Propositions are coming in but not in the proper quantity—GET BUSY.

A Notable Day's Work

Robert Burns composed his masterpiece, "Tam o' Shanter," in one day in the open air. Burns went out of the house in the morning and, not returning, his wife joined him in the afternoon with her two children. Seeing that he was "crooning to himsel'," she forebore to interrupt him, but stayed in the fields at a distance, where she could see him. She observed him wildly gesticulaitng and at times fairly leaping with joy. She said to Allan Cunningham, the poet, after her husband's death, "I wisht ye had seen him; he was in such ecstasy that the tears were happing down his cheeks." He committed the poem to writing by the riverside and went into the house and read it to his wife at the fireside with great triumph—one of the most notable day's work ever done in Scotland!

Positively Refuses To Die

CAMDEN, Nov. 13—One of the most remarkable displays of courage ever noted in the Cooper Hospital is that of Louis Seibert, 24 years old of Paulsboro, Seibert fell in a tank of boiling water at the plant of the Vacuum Oil Company several days ago and was scalded all over the body. When it was suggested to Seibert that his chances for recovery were not very good. he said: "Let me do the worrying; I'll get better; just watch me." For a time there was little hope for the man's recovery, but physicians last night expressed the belief that he would live.

A Test of Civilization

The remarkable people of this world are useful in their way, but the common people, after all, represent the nation, the age, and the civilization. Go into any town or city; do not ask who lives in that splendid house; do not say: "This is a fine town; here are streets of houses with gardens and yards and everything that is beautiful the whole way through. Go into the lanes, go into the back streets, go where the mechanic lives; go where the day laborer lives. See what is the condition of the streets there. See what they do with the poor, with the helpless and the mean. If the top of society bends perpetually over the bottom with tenderness, if the rich and strong are the best friends of the poor and needy, that is a civilized and a Christian community; but, if the rich and the wise are the cream and the greatb ulk of the population skimmilk, that is not a prosperous community.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Imlaystown Man Saved

TRENTON, Nov. 16—Warren B. Thompson, son of Mrs. Julia Thompson, of Imlaystown, near Allentown, was one of the naval gunners rescued on November 2 when the American steamer Rochester was sunk by a German submarine.

A VISIT TO YOUR BOYS AT CAMP

BY SAMUEL MERWIN

Let me try to paint a little picture of an cantonment town as I saw it a few days and nights ago.

It was, last spring, a quiet enough little junction city of a few thousand inhabitants. Then in the summer the contractors descended on it, took possession of the railway sidings, and built many others, rushed to work thousands of laborers on a large tract of land not a mile away, and in two months' time cleared forests, built roads and churned up hub-deep the mud where other roads will be before winter, erected hundreds of wooden barracks, stablec, gun-sheds, cook houses, administration buildings. Then, in September, the first drafts of the National Army began pouring in. Today about forty thousand of these young men, all torn abruptly from familiar environment, from the mpre or less settled habits of work and friendship, torn by the grim hand of War for training as individual units of a colossal but as yet wholly new military machine.

Into the little junction city poured at the same time, as inevitably as parastic insects moving to their prey, the hosts of organized vice. The little city fought them earnestly but feebly through its loose-jointed, rather casual, typically easy-going opiltical organization. Commissioners organized by the Government—by the first great Government that has ever, right from the beginning of a war, determined to protect its young soldiers from evil influences, no matter what subtly powerful organized forces it might have to fight and destroy—moved in, set up standards of decency; impressed them on the local authorities, moved on to neighbouring cities that are not an hour away by trolley or by convenient and every-waiting automobiles, and grappled there with the local problems of drink and immorality.

But, able and determined as the men of these commissions were and are, effective as has been, already, much of their work, forcible as is the new, hitherto unheard-of Federal regulations that alcoholic drink may not be served to men in uniform and that soldiers must wear their uniforms, the blind, persistent forces of organized and unorganized evil press in here, there, everywhere. Here and there they break through the walls of regulation, slip under or around. Eternal vigilance is necessary to achieve even a partial success. There is much that is ugly in life; of an ugliness that persists, assuming a thousand attractive forms and faces, confusing the individual, appealing to his weakness, his loneliness, his temperament.

Yes, in spite of this organized and determined war against evil, evil persists. It swarms at the young soldier as by an unerring instinct. Here, in the young man, torn so unexpectedly from his very roots in life, thrust into a hard, rough life, brought for the first time face to face with the dispiriting reactions of bayonet practice, of killing for a cause but of killing, homesick, more than a little bewildered—here the vicious forces find their natural prey. The soldier has always been their prey. The camp follower is a tradition as old, though not so often mentioned, as armies.

And today—or last week, when I drove slowly through the streets, turning idly this way and that, watching the faces that moved by, backing into the crowded, tangled parking space behind the railway station and observing the vast traffic flowing into and out of the town—our little junction city is not unlike boom towns I have seen in the west, years ago. Confusion, crowding, new and flimsy buildings, crowds of human pirates of both sexes flying the flag of casual, even good-humored human intercourse above a blackened heart—all a tangled disorder of work, service, profit and piracy.

Among all this—crowding into and out of the station, lounging on curb and store doorstep, catching the too-tardy smile of a lurking, painted face, riding away, perhaps homeward, perhaps toward one of the nearby cities, on trolley or jitney or train—move the soldier boys.

A mile away lies the great area of the cantonment; the mud, the light, quickly-built structures in which forty thousand soldiers live cot by cot in long blanketed rows, clothes hung from lines and hooks about each cot, the rush of work on stumpy drill grounds, the bustle of a vast enterprise, through some miracle already well along toward a sort of completion, yet anything but a settled and hospitable home.

The forty thousand soldiers—each a boy with a home somewhere, with a wife or girl somewhere, with his own little puzzling tangle of personal problems in the life he has got to live (if he lives) are in the care of a corps of officers. These in their turn are mostly young men who have been prepared, quickly, in a sense unexepectedly, for the grim business of war. They are an earnest, devout body of men. They are— all of them—taxed to the limit of their capacity to keep up, in thought, study, day by day practice, with the work that has got to be done. They have got to make officers out of themselves as well as make soldiers out of the forty thousand. They must, whatever their personal sympathies, maintain an authority, a reserve, toward their men. They must drill them, squad by squad, company by company, battalion by battalion, into a smooth-running impersonal fighting machine. The tactful thoughtful officers can do a little more, here and there. But that is their job—making fighting machines.

But what of the human side. You think of it as you drive about the city or drive and walk about the cantonment, watching the faces of these young fellows who last month were just young fellows but who now are cogs in the fighting machine? What of their minds and spirits? What are they thinking, behind the quiet, already bronzed faces under the wide brims of the campaign hats? What confusions are there, what stirring restless desires, what complex personal problems, what desperate needs of mind or spirit?

These and other disturbing questions rose among my own thoughts as I watched those faces the other day. Then, in the cantonment, as I went from one to another of the low-spreading green "huts" of the Y. M. C. A., all my brooding questions were answered.

I want to tell you if I can, briefly of necessity but as forcibly as possible, how the Y. M. C. A. is doing, today, in every training camp, in England, France, Egpt—wherever our boys in olive-drab are being sent—a work so necessary, so vital, so comprehensive that it reaches straight back through every soldier boy to cheer the home he came from, to strengthen the faith of every watching sister, mother or father in the boy, in the army of which he is a unit, in the country for which he fights.

In this cantonment there are ten or eleven buildings, of which eight or nine are the so-called "huts."

A "hut" usually has a roomy entrance hall, with stove, desk and counter for the local secretary, for the dispensing of writing paper and envelopes, of postcards, stamps and other little necessaries. There is a big stove or two. There is a telephone room with perhaps a dozen instruments divided off by boards to give at least a little privacy. There are long shelves of books—good but never goody books—and magazines. There is always a talking machine with plenty of records. There are chairs and benches.

It is all as simple as possible, for the expense of all this construction and maintenance in America and Europe is immense. But it is as comfortable and cheery as a strong corps of trained experts in comfort and cheer have been able to make it. On the wall behind the counter, just where your eye will rest on it when you come up for letter paper and envelopes, there is likely to be a lettered placard reading: "Have You Written Home?" with the "You" in red ink.

Push through the swinging doors and you find yourself in the auditorium, where perhaps six or eight hundred can crowd in, sitting on the wood benches, standing at the back around the stove or on the endless bench and plank writing table (with inkwells) that line the walls.

We will consider the uses of these auditoriums in a moment. First please let me tell briefly what these "huts" broadly mean. Here is the soldier's club. Here he can come in any free moment between reveille and taps and find a welcome. Here he always finds a reminder of home and of his home obligations. His own home really touches him every day through the nearest Y. M. C. A. "hut." If a telegram comes to him and he seems to be lost in the vast army machine, the Y. M. C. A., through these nerve centers (and it has nerve tips in the persons of residents in each barrack) will find him. If a long-distance telephone call comes from some anxious one to our soldier boy, the Y. M. C. A. will bring him into its own convenient telephone room where he can hear the home voice. Though the Y. M. C. A. is essentially a religious organization, here he can smoke to his heart's content, play checkers or other games, find a good novel. He can study simple conversational French. He can box; or, in some huts ,play billiards. Spiritual counsel is always ready at his elbow, yet, so far as I can gather, not a boy in the forty thousand feels nagged. If he did he wouldn't come. And come he certainly does!

I went about, during the evening, from hut to hut—five or six in all. I had come without warning, to see the machinerw of the organization at its usual daily work. It was in no sense a special occasion—a Friday as it happened. But in those five or six huts and in the larger main Auditorium, where a "Kilties" band was giving a formal concert, I estimated as carefully as I could that between five and seven thousand men were accounted for, busy, comfortable and in good spirits.

In the first hut, an observer fresh from the trenches in France—an easy, crisp, very affectionate speaker, who knew or sensed his audience and held him—was giving a sort of lecture. The place was literally jammed. Men everywhere standing or sitting on those long wall writing tables. In the next hut there were motion pictures. And a crowd. In another the more talented "stunt" men of a certain company were entertaining the rest of the regiment. They produced while I was there, an excellent, well-trained baritone singer, an adequate accompanist; and an orchestra of eight or ten pieces with a conscientious conductor. In another hut, Vernon Stiles, one of the commissioned song leaders, was teaching the crowded hall to sing "Over There," with a chart of the words above the platform. And they all sang. For ours is to be a singing army.

And then—there are many moving little histories of the sort—the Y. M. C. A. men are trained to leave, in a moment, the ninety and nine in the fold and go out after the one that is lost. For among the forty thousand, lurking, hidden here and there, are tragedies.

One war bride tried to kill herself at home. The young husband desperate planned to desert. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who arranged for his leave, dropped all other work and rode home with him, four hours in an express car, and stood by until the hysterical crisis had passed.

One soldier found himself about to become unhappily a father. The father of the girl he had injured threatened to kill him. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who went home with that boy and drew parties together at a wedding which appears to have turned an apparently certain tragedy into at least partial happiness.

These are grim facts, mention them after deliberate thought. For they illustrate that the work of the Y. M. C. A. is real and vital. It takes hold of the soldier where the Army control must, in certain ways and to a considerable extent, leave off. It recognizes frankly that the soldier boys are not plaster saints, but "single men in barracks, most remarkably like you." It faces the grimmest facts in life with courage, hope, unshakable determination. It hold a boy to his faith in himself as in his God. There is no other organization in the world that is organized and equipped to do precisely this work. If American ideals, if the American hope of decency, democracy, a cleaner, sweeter earth, are to be realized, such an organization is emphatically necessary. It stands today, on the spot everywhere, reaching every soldier, recognized by the Government as the moral and spiritual branch of the Army.

All this special service to the soldier and to those who are thinking of and praying for that soldier is necessarily free. There is no way that the soldier himself, out of his small pay, after the heavy sacrifices he has made, could even begin to pay for it.

It is, in the aggregate, a costly service. It must be kept up, everywhere that the soldiers go.

I appeal to you, the reader, as one who has had an opportunity to see something of what the Y. M. C. A. means to all of us, to give something to keep it going. Much or little, give something.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PRESERVING BUTTER FOR HOME USE

When proper atention is given to a few important details, butter can be stored at home for future consumption. The butter should be made from cream which has not become over-ripe, having a clean acid flavor. Any off-flavors present in the cream are very apt to become intensified in the butter. Extreme care also should be exercised in working the butter. The salt should be evenly distributed and the butter worked free of all water or buttermilk.

The dairy department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station recommends that the butter be placed in pound or two-pound crocks which have been previously scalded in boiling water. Pack the butter firmly and leave no air spaces. Wrap each crock of butter with a piece of muslin which has been previously boiled. Place the crocks containing the butter in a larger crock which has ben sterilized with boiling water and allow to cool in a clean place. Over the crocks containing the butter, pour brine of such a strength that it will float an egg. To every 3 pounds of salt used, add 1 pound of sugar and ¼ pound of powdered saltpeter. The brine mixture should be boiled, skimmed, and allowed to cool before using.

When crocks are not available, the butter may be made in prints or rolls, which should be wrapped in buttercloth or parchment paper and immersed in the brine.

Butter is also sometimes "salted down." Select a crock or stone jar of suitable size, scald thoroughly and allow to cool. Pack the butter in layers of about 4 inches each. Between the layers place a light covering of the following mixture: 1 pound loaf sugar, 3 pounds salt and ¼ pound pulverized saltpeter. Leave space of about 3 inches on top and keep covered with a strong solution of brine.

WHERE "PEP" WAS NEEDED

Secretary of the Navy Daniels is a firm believer in speeding up. Efficiency is the watchword of his department. A big navy can't be built fast enough for him. And he was discussing efficiency and high speed. He wants to ctu out red tape.

"Discussion is well and good," said Secretary Daniels, "but the main question is whether it is idle talk or not. Is it practical or is it foolish? Is it like Torkins and his girl?

"Torkins, by the way, was out with his girl during the days before the automobile, when a young man who wanted to be popular would call on his girl with a horse and buggy to take her for a drive. You know, the faster the horse the better the impression.

"Torkins, on his first call, took the girl for a long drive, and when they found themselwes in the midst of a country road, he ventured for a kiss.

" 'A kiss?' asked the girl. 'What good would a kiss do?'

" 'Oh,' replied the embarrassed youth, 'It would make me feel gay and lively.'

" 'Well, Charley,' the cold-blooded, unemotional damsel retorted, 'if it is as you say, and we expect to get anywhere before it's time to return home, you'd better get out and kiss the old mare once!' "

MEN, MAIL THOSE LETTERS!

The wife of a Dorcechester man who had the traditional failing—he forgot to mail letters—has cured him. The mail is delivered at their home before the breakfast hour, which is comparatively late. One morning she said to her husband:

"Did you have any mail this morning dear?"

"Only a circular," he answered, as he bit into a fine brown slice of toast.

"Huh!" said the wife. "By the way, did you mail the letters I gave you yesterday?"

"Sure I did," was the righteously indignant reply.

"Well," answered wifie, with an eloquent smile, "it's funny, then, you had no letters this morning, because one of those I gave you to mail was addressed to you—just as a sort of key."—Boston Herald.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SPROUTED OATS A GOOD FEED FOR EGG PRODUCTION

Now that winter is approaching and the laying birds must be closely confined to the poultry house, it is urgent that the poultry keeper plan some constant supply of green food. There is probably no question but that mangel beets, if available, are the most efficient source. In their absence, sprouted oats are recommended by the poultry department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station.

Two or three principles must be observed in sprouting oats for poultry. First, a good dry room must be used which is free from dampness and mould. One or two sproutings will determine whether it is suitable. Second, the oats must be sprouted in a moderately warm room (60 degrees to 70 degrees F.) causing rather rapid sprouting. Third, the oats should not be sprouted too long, but should be fed when the sprouts are two to three inches tall. If they are allowed to grow taller the chicks do not relish them nearly so well. They should not be spread out in the sprouting troughs more than an inch thick. Thicker sprouting than this means less ventilation and a tendency to mould. Good clean oats normally sprouted at a moderately high temperature, regularly fed, cannot but help to increase egg production.

JOY FOR THE SCRUB WOMAN

The latest recruit to the ranks of electrical labor-saving devices is a scrubbing machine. It weighs about 100 pounds and is entirely self-contained, with the single exception that it takes its current from the convenient socket.

The machine wets, sweeps, scrubs and dries the floor at a single operation. It requires only a single attendant, who merely pushes the machine forward and guides it. He controls the amount of water distributed on the floor by means of a handle. This water is immediately swept up by a cylindrical brush which is 16 inches wide and has a circumference of 20 inches. This brush is driven by a one-fourth horsepower motor at a speed of 600 revolutions per minute.

The brush does the actual scrubbing and carries all of the dirt and soiled water over an apron into a separate receiving pan, so the scrubbing is always done with clean water from the upper tank. The machine is said to have a capacity of nearly 7,000 square feet of surface per hour.

STORING CELERY IN THE CELLAR

A small amount of celery may be stored in the cellar by setting the roots 4 inches apart in a 3-inch layer of moist soil on the floor or in boxes. The temperature of the place should be kept as near 40° F. as possible. Direct draughts of air, sudden changes of temperature and excessive light should be avoided. If the celery becomes wilted, moisten the soil, taking care not to wet the tops. This is not easy to do unless some device is used to keep the tops from getting wet. If a large tube or a stove pipe is inserted between the plants, the water may be poured through it upon the roots without getting any water on the foliage.

Complete information on the storing of vegetables for home use is given in Extension Bulletin 12 of the New Jersey State Agricultural College, New Brunswick, N. J. This bulletin may be obtained free on application.

Palmyra Raises $1201 In Drive For The Y. M. C. A.

Riverton Total Nearly $24,000 Up to Monday Night

Palmyra responded nobly to the appeal for the Y. M. C. A. war fund. While some of our neighboring towns gave dollars to our cents it must be remembered that we have no wealthy men in our town, and therefore could expect no large subscriptions. The amount raised in cash and pledges was $1201.85. This was really a popular subscription with contributions of amounts ranging from ten cents, the lowest, to fifty dollars, the highest. Many of the subscriptions were positive sacrifices to those who made them, and the committee appreciates the spirit shown. There were comparatively few refusals, and the few who refused are, as a rule, those who have opposed all matters pertaining to the war. Some very few of them are persons already under observation.

The Baptist Church gave all their basket collections of last Sunday, both morning and evening, and the Sunday School contributed their collection of forty dollars in the afternoon. The Methodist Church also took up a collection and the P. O. S. of A., K. G. E., and I. O. O. F. lodges all made donations.

The collections by districts and captains are as follows:

1st District, Geo. B. Hutchins	$ 261.00
2nd District, P. G. MacMahon	216.75
3d District, James T. Weart	367.80
4th District, Frank L. Durgin	191.60
5th District, William H. Cook	60.00

Baptist Sunday School	40.00
Camp No. 3, P. O. S. of A.	10.00
Methodist Church	10.00

CHIEF OF POLICE REAL DETECTIVE

Does Some Sherlock Work in Mysterious Case of Three Missing French Dolls

Three French dolls, which disappeared mysteriously from the lawn of Edwin S. Parry, of Riverton, gave the sleuthing instinct of C. Morris Beck, Palmyra's Chief of Police, a test on Sunday. Having despaired of finding the missing dolls in Riverton, Mr. Parry appeale to Beck.

There was virtually no clue, beyon the fact that three colored children, names not then known, had been seen looking longingly at the dolls. Chief Beck ruminated over the matter a little bit, then jumped into his auto and sped out to Five Points, called on a colored family, and when a door was inadvertently opened he spied the dolls on a kitchen table.

Morry's system of deduction was something like this. Three colored children, presumably of one family, seen gazing at dolls; dolls later missing; he recalled a certain group of three colored children who would probably help themselves in such a case—and his first guess was correct!

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

By M. W. WISHAM

Captain Arthur B. Rudd, of the Atlantic Division Red Cross, captivatel an audience which crowdel the Epworth Church Saturday evening. For two hours he recited incidents of his experience at the front in Russia. His descriptive powers of the horrible effects and cruelty and suffering of the people of Russia and other countries caused by war brought tears to the eyes of many, while his occasional reminders of our duty at home and abroad for Red Cross work brought forth tremendous applause. The enthusiasm was also extended to "our own" Mrs. Margaret Williams in her rendition of "My Flag and Your Flag." Mrs. Marion Gilpin, soloist, received a merited encore. During the evening Thomas Griffenberg directed the orchestral music, which was highly appreciated by the audience, who sang "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Uniformed Home Guards acted as ushers and received a free-will offering of $49.05 for Red Cross work. Palmyra Branch will attempt to arrange for community patriotic rallies with speakers who can give accounts of personal experience of battlefronts during the continuance of the war.

Sewing machines have been loaned by Mr. Lothrop Jackson and Mrs. C. K. Mervine. We have need of several more. Can you help?

The benefit dance in Morgan Hall this Saturday evening promises to be well attended. Tickets, $1.00, admits gentleman and lady. Mrs. Jacob P. Warner is sponsor.

Arrangements are being perfected for the grand baaar to be held early in December. Watch for the date of this community social affair.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD HOLDS EXHIBITION

Fine Showing Made by Annual Event Held This Week in Dunlap's Store

Palmyra Branch of the Needlework Guild of America held its annual exhibition this week in Dunlap's store, and made a fine showing. The number of garments donated was a great surprise and exceeded the expectations of the president, Mrs. William Purnell, and the directors.

The first sight on entering the door was the variety of garments for babies—warm, comfortable articles of all sizes, followed by garments for children of larger growth, shirts, socks, petticoats, caps and mittens, in fact nothing seemed to be missing.

On the counters about the room were huge piles of towels, underwear, a quilt, and many other articles. In all four hundred articles, and all over twelve dollars in money were contributed.

The largest number of articles brought in by one director—Mrs. Charles Pascoe, was contributed by the Philathea class—thirty-six garments, and one dollar and fifty cents.

The president welcomed the ladies of Palmyra and then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Sarah Dillon, of Ardmore, Pa., who gave a very interesting talk. She told how the society originated in England, by a woman who helped a poor family, and interested ten others, and from this sprang the Needlework Guild.

Four new directors were added to the list, due to her inspiring address. The garments will be distributed to the following:

Home for the Aged Women, Burlington; Home Missionary Society, Philadelphia, Pa.; Home for Friendless Children, Camden; N. J. Children's Home Society, Trenton; St. Andrew's School for Boys, Sewanee, Tenn.; W. C. T. U., Palmyra. Besides nine families in Palmyra were relieved. One hundred and twenty-seven garments were given out for relief last year.

The officers of the society are: President, Mrs. William Purnell; vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Pascoe and Mrs. John Hoff; treasurer, Mrs. Haines; secretary, Mrs. Fred C. Blackburn, who has already servel twenty-one years; distributing committee, Mrs. Rachel Haines, Mrs. Robert M. Cook, Mrs. John M. Morton.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM BEATS BURLINGTON

Trounced Boys From County Metropolis In Football By 39-0 Score

Last Friday the football team walked away with Burlington and made them dance to the tune of 39 to 0. P. H. S. rooters were confident that we would carry off the bacon, and the Burlington rooters were equally as confident even after the first touchdown. The game was well attended by high school pupils and alumni members. The alumni members expected to see Burlington in a little better shape and although they wanted P. H. S. to win, they would have liked to have seen a closer score.

Durgin ran the team with his usual ability and also featured greatly in the offense. Norval Bacon was credited with three touchdowns, and his playing was of the highest quality. Jackson and Karins were the other stars for P. H. S. Durgin get credit for two touchdowns and Sharp gets the credit for the other. Sharp kicked three goals.

McGinley, a former Palmyra lad, was the star for the Burlington team. He made many line plunges and a few end runs that were successful and at one time he came within a foot of a touchdown.

MORE WATER CO. STOCK

Utility Board Approves $25,000 Issue

The State Public Utility Commission on Thursday authorized the issuance of $25,000 of capital stock by the Riverton and Palmyra Water Company. The proceeds are to be used in reimbursing the company for additions to its plant and system not heretofore capitalized.

The authorization was the result of a request by the company for permission to issue $125,000 of stock as a stock dividend. The board found that conditions were not such as to warrant so large an issue.

Ragmen's Lungs To Be Limited By Ordinance

Township Committee Hears of Annoyance Caused by Leather-throated Venders

At the regular meeting of the Palmyra Township Committee Tuesday night, Committeeman Hill suggested an ordinance to muzzle the noise caused in the town by ragmen, hucksters and other venders.

Several complaints have been coming in to the members of the Committee about the annoyance from this source and the suggestion was approve all around, so Solicitor Beckenbach has been instructed to draw up the ordinance, which will be a great relief to sick people and others with delicate nerves throughout the town.

Committeeman Cook made the motion that the Committee meet next year at the fire house, a move that has been contemplated for some time. The motion carried and the Independence Company consequently will get the benefit of the yearly rental of $60. Free gas also will be furnished by the Public Service Company, inasmuch as the building will become in effect a town hall.

Repeated breaking of the traffic signs and lights at the Cinaminson street crossing of the railroad and Broad street was responsible for an ordinance which will be drawn up, establishing a fine of from $2.50 to $5.00 for the offense. The purpose of the fine will be to pay for the damage done.

Mr. Hill called attention to the fact that the Morgan avenue crossing of the railroad is not properly lighted and that as a result automobilists frequently have accidents in attempting to cross at the wrong place. It is proposed either to put in a new light or to move one nearby to the crossing.

The nuisance caused by leaky receptacles used by garbage removers was brought up and Mr. Cook suggested that the matter be turned over to the police department for action.

The General All-Around Cleaner

A VISIT TO YOUR BOYS AT CAMP

BY SAMUEL MERWIN

Let me try to paint a little picture of an cantonment town as I saw it a few days and nights ago.

It was, last spring, a quiet enough little junction city of a few thousand inhabitants. Then in the summer the contractors descended on it, took possession of the railway sidings, and built many others, rushed to work thousands of laborers on a large tract of land not a mile away, and in two months' time cleared forests, built roads and churned up hub-deep the mud where other roads will be before winter, erected hundreds of wooden barracks, stablec, gun-sheds, cook houses, administration buildings. Then, in September, the first drafts of the National Army began pouring in. Today about forty thousand of these young men, all torn abruptly from familiar environment, from the mpre or less settled habits of work and friendship, torn by the grim hand of War for training as individual units of a colossal but as yet wholly new military machine.

Into the little junction city poured at the same time, as inevitably as parastic insects moving to their prey, the hosts of organized vice. The little city fought them earnestly but feebly through its loose-jointed, rather casual, typically easy-going opolitical organization. Commissioners organized by the Government—by the first great Government that has ever, right from the beginning of a war, determined to protect its young soldiers from evil influences, no matter what subtly powerful organized forces it might have to fight and destroy—moved in, set up standards of decency; impressed them on the local authorities, moved on to neighbouring cities that are not an hour away by trolley or by convenient and every-waiting automobiles, and grappled there with the local problems of drink and immorality.

But, able and determined as the men of these commissions were and are, effective as has been, already, much of their work, forcible as is the new, hitherto unheard-of Federal regulations that alcoholic drink may not be served to men in uniform and that soldiers must wear their uniforms, the blind, persistent forces of organized and unorganized evil press in here, there, everywhere. Here and there they break through the walls of regulation, slip under or around. Eternal vigilance is necessary to achieve even a partial success. There is much that is ugly in life; of an ugliness that persists, assuming a thousand attractive forms and faces, confusing the individual, appealing to his weakness, his loneliness, his temperament.

Yes, in spite of this organized and determined war against evil, evil persists. It swarms at the young soldier as by an unerring instinct. Here, in the young man, torn so unexpectedly from his very roots in life, thrust into a hard, rough life, brought for the first time face to face with the dispiriting reactions of bayonet practice, of killing for a cause but of killing, homesick, more than a little bewildered—here the vicious forces find their natural prey. The soldier has always been their prey. The camp follower is a tradition as old, though not so often mentioned, as armies.

And today—or last week, when I drove slowly through the streets, turning idly this way and that, watching the faces that moved by, backing into the crowded, tangled parking space behind the railway station and observing the vast traffic flowing into and out of the town—our little junction city is not unlike boom towns I have seen in the west, years ago. Confusion, crowding, new and flimsy buildings, crowds of human pirates of both sexes flying the flag of casual, even good-humored human intercourse above a blackened heart—all a tangled disorder of work, service, profit and piracy.

Among all this—crowding into and out of the station, lounging on curb and store doorstep, catching the too-tardy smile of a lurking, painted face, riding away, perhaps homeward, perhaps toward one of the nearby cities, on trolley or jitney or train—move the soldier boys.

A mile away lies the great area of the cantonment; the mud, the light, quickly-built structures in which forty thousand soldiers live cot by cot in long blanketed rows, clothes hung from lines and hooks about each cot, the rush of work on stumpy drill grounds, the bustle of a vast enterprise, through some miracle already well along toward a sort of completion, yet anything but a settled and hospitable home.

The forty thousand soldiers—each a boy with a home somewhere, with a wife or girl somewhere, with his own little puzzling tangle of personal problems in the life he has got to live (if he lives) are in the care of a corps of officers. These in their turn are mostly young men who have been prepared, quickly, in a sense unexepectedly, for the grim business of war. They are an earnest, devout body of men. They are— all of them—taxed to the limit of their capacity to keep up, in thought, study, day by day practice, with the work that has got to be done. They have got to make officers out of themselves as well as make soldiers out of the forty thousand. They must, whatever their personal sympathies, maintain an authority, a reserve, toward their men. They must drill them, squad by squad, company by company, battalion by battalion, into a smooth-running impersonal fighting machine. The tactful thoughtful officers can do a little more, here and there. But that is their job—maxing fighting machines.

But what of the human side. You think of it as you drive about the city or drive and walk about the cantonment, watching the faces of these young fellows who last month were just young fellows but who now are cogs in the fighting machine? What of their minds and spirits? What are they thinking, behind the quiet, already bronzed faces under the wide brims of the campaign hats? What confusions are there, what stirring restless desires, what complex personal problems, what desperate needs of mind or spirit?

These and other disturbing questions rose among my own thoughts as I watched those faces the other day. Then, in the cantonment, as I went from one to another of the low-spreading green "huts" of the Y. M. C. A., all my brooding questions were answered.

I want to tell you if I can, briefly of necessity but as forcibly as possible, how the Y. M. C. A. is doing, today, in every training camp, in England, France, Egpt—wherever our boys in olive-drab are being sent—a work so necessary, so vital, so comprehensive that it reaches straight back through every soldier boy to cheer the home he came from, to strengthen the faith of every watching sister, mother or father in the boy, in the army of which he is a unit, in the country for which he fights.

In this cantonment there are ten or eleven buildings, of which eight or nine are the so-called "huts."

A "hut" usually has a roomy entrance hall, with stove, desk and counter for the local secretary, for the dispensing of writing paper and envelopes, of postcards, stamps and other little necessaries. There is a big stove or two. There is a telephone room with perhaps a dozen instruments divided off by boards to give at least a little privacy. There are long shelves of books—good but never goody books—and magazines. There is always a talking machine with plenty of records. There are chairs and benches.

It is all as simple as possible, for the expense of all this construction and maintenance in America and Europe is immense. But it is as comfortable and cheery as a strong corps of trained experts in comfort and cheer have been able to make it. On the wall behind the counter, just where your eye will rest on it when you come up for letter paper and envelopes, there is likely to be a lettered placard reading: "Have You Written Home?" with the "You" in red ink.

Push through the swinging doors and you find yourself in the auditorium, where perhaps six or eight hundred can crowd in, sitting on the wood benches, standing at the back around the stove or on the endless bench and plank writing table (with inkwells) that line the walls.

We will consider the uses of these auditoriums in a moment. First please let me tell briefly what these "huts" broadly mean. Here is the soldier's club. Here he can come in any free moment between reveille and taps and find a welcome. Here he always finds a reminder of home and of his home obligations. His own home really touches him every day through the nearest Y. M. C. A. "hut." If a telegram comes to him and he seems to be lost in the vast army machine, the Y. M. C. A., through these nerve centers (and it has nerve tips in the persons of residents in each barrack) will find him. If a long-distance telephone call comes from some anxious one to our soldier boy, the Y. M. C. A. will bring him into its own convenient telephone room where he can hear the home voice. Though the Y. M. C. A. is essentially a religious organization, here he can smoke to his heart's content, play checkers or other games, find a good novel. He can study simple conversational French. He can box; or, in some huts play billiards. Spiritual counsel is always ready at his elbow, yet, so far as I can gather, not a boy in the forty thousand feels nagged. If he did he wouldn't come. And come he certainly does!

I went about, during the evening, from hut to hut—five or six in all. I had come without warning to see the machinerw of the organization at its usual daily work. It was in no sense a special occasion—a Friday as it happened. But in those five or six huts and in the larger main Auditorium, where a "Kilties" band was giving a formal concert, I estimated as carefully as I could that between five and seven thousand men were accounted for, busy, comfortable and in good spirits.

In the first hut, an observer fresh from the trenches in France—an easy, crisp, very affectionate speaker, who knew or sensed his audience and held him—was giving a sort of lecture. The place was literally jammed. Men everywhere standing or sitting on those long wall writing tables. In the next hut there were motion pictures. And a crowd. In another the more talented "stunt" men of a certain company were entertaining the rest of the regiment. They produced while I was there, an excellent, well-trained baritone singer, an adequate accompanist, and an orchestra of eight or ten pieces with a conscientious conductor. In another hut, Vernon Stiles, one of the commissioned song leaders, was teaching the crowded hall to sing "Over There," with a chart of the words above the platform. And they all sang. For ours is to be a singing army.

And then—there are many moving little histories of the sort—the Y. M. C. A. men are trained to leave, in a moment, the ninety and nine in the fold and go out after the one that is lost. For among the forty thousand, lurking, hidden here and there, are tragedies.

One war bride tried to kill herself at home. The young husband desperate planned to desert. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who arranged for his leave, dropped all other work and rode home with him, four hours in an express car, and stood by until the hysterical crisis had passed.

One soldier found himself about to become unhappily a father. The father of the girl he had injured threatened to kill him. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who went home with that boy and drew parties together at a wedding which appears to have turned an apparently certain tragedy into at least partial happiness.

These are grim facts, mention them after deliberate thought. For they illustrate that the work of the Y. M. C. A. is real and vital. It takes hold of the soldier where the Army control must, in certain ways and to a considerable extent, leave off. It recognizes frankly that the soldier boys are not plaster saints, but "single men in barracks, most remarkably like you." It faces the grimmest facts in life with courage, hope, unshakable determination. It hold a boy to his faith in himself as in his God. There is no other organization in the world that is organized and equipped to do precisely this work. If American ideals, if the American hope of decency, democracy, a cleaner, sweeter earth, are to be realized, such an organization is emphatically necessary. It stands today, on the spot everywhere, reaching every soldier, recognized by the Government as the moral and spiritual branch of the Army.

All this special service to the soldier and to those who are thinking of and praying for that soldier is necessarily free. There is no way that the soldier himself, out of his small pay, after the heavy sacrifices he has made, could even begin to pay for it.

It is, in the aggregate, a costly service. It must be kept up, everywhere that the soldiers go.

I appeal to you, the reader, as one who has had an opportunity to see something of what the Y. M. C. A. means to all of us, to give something to keep it going. Much or little, give something.

Col. Roosevelt has a blind side, [illegible]? Well, so did Nelson at the [illegible] of the Trafalgar.

Bring Back its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PRESERVING BUTTER FOR HOME USE

When proper atention is given to a few important details, butter can be stored at home for future consumption. The butter should be made from cream which has not become over-ripe, having a clean acid flavor. Any off-flavors present in the cream are very apt to become intensified in the butter. Extreme care also should be exercised in working the butter. The salt should be evenly distributed and the butter worked free of all water or buttermilk.

The dairy department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station recommends that the butter be placed in pound or two-pound crocks which have been previously scalded in boiling water. Pack the butter firmly and leave no air spaces. Wrap each crock of butter with a piece of muslin which has been previously boiled. Place the crocks containing the butter in a larger crock which has ben sterilized with boiling water and allow to cool in a clean place. Over the crocks containing the butter, pour brine of such a strength that it will float an egg. To every 3 pounds of salt used, add 1 pound of sugar and ¼ pound of powdered saltpeter. The brine mixture should be boiled, skimmed, and allowed to cool before using.

When crocks are not available, the butter may be made in prints or rolls, which should be wrapped in buttercloth or parchment paper and immersed in the brine.

Butter is also sometimes "salted down." Select a crock or stone jar of suitable size, scald thoroughly and allow to cool. Pack the butter in layers of about 4 inches each. Between the layers place a light covering of the following mixture: 1 pound loaf sugar, 3 pounds salt and ¼ pound pulverized saltpeter. Leave space of about 3 inches on top and keep covered with a strong solution of brine.

WHERE "PEP" WAS NEEDED

Secretary of the Navy Daniels is a firm believer in speeding up. Efficiency is the watchword of his department. A big navy can't be built fast enough for him. And he was discussing efficiency and high speed. He wants to ctu out red tape.

"Discussion is well and good," said Secretary Daniels, "but the main question is whether it is idle talk or not. Is it practical or is it foolish? Is it like Torkins and his girl?

"Torkins, by the way, was out with his girl during the days before the automobile, when a young man who wanted to be popular would call on his girl with a horse and buggy to take her for a drive. You know, the faster the horse the better the impression.

"Torkins, on his first call, took the girl for a long drive, and when they found themselves in the midst of a country road, he ventured for a kiss.

"'A kiss?' asked the girl. 'What good would a kiss do?'

"'Oh,' replied the embarrassed youth, 'it would make me feel gay and lively.'

"'Well, Charley,' the cold-blooded, unemotional damsel retorted, 'if it is as you say, and we expect to get anywhere before it's time to return home, you'd better get out and kiss the old mare once!'"

MEN, MAIL THOSE LETTERS!

The wife of a Dorchester man who had the traditional failing—he forgot to mail letters—has cured him. The mail is delivered at their home before the breakfast hour, which is comparatively late. One morning she said to her husband:

"Did you have any mail this morning dear?"

"Only a circular," he answered, as he bit into a fine brown slice of toast.

"Huh!" said the wife. "By the way, did you mail the letters I gave you yesterday?"

"Sure I did," was the righteously indignant reply.

"Well," answered wifie; with an eloquent smile, "it's funny, then, you had no letters this morning, because one of those I gave you to mail was addressed to you—just as a sort of key."—Boston Herald.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SPROUTED OATS A GOOD FEED FOR EGG PRODUCTION

Now that winter is approaching and the laying birds must be closely confined to the poultry house, it is urgent that the poultry keeper plan some constant supply of green food. There is probably no question but that mangel beets, if available, are the most efficient source. In their absence, sprouted oats are recommended by the poultry department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station.

Two or three principles must be observed in sprouting oats for poultry. First, a good dry room must be used which is free from dampness and mould. One or two sproutings will determinte whether it is suitable. Second, the oats must be sprouted in a moderately warm room (60 degrees to 70 degrees F.) causing rather rapid sprouting. Third, the oats should not be sprouted too long, but should be fed when the sprouts are two to three inches tall. If they are allowed to grow taller the chicks do not relish them nearly so well. They should not be spread out in the sprouting troughs more than an inch thick. Thicker sprouting than this means less ventilation and a tendency to mould. Good clean oats normally sprouted at a moderately high temperature, regularly fed, cannot but help to increase egg production.

JOY FOR THE SCRUB WOMAN

The latest recruit to the ranks of electrical labor-saving devices is a scrubbing machine. It weighs about about 100 pounds and is entirely self-contained, with the single exception that it takes its current from the convenient socket.

The machine wets, sweeps, scrubs and dries the floor at a single operation. It requires only a single attendant, who merely pushes the machine forward and guides it. He controls the amount of water distributed on the floor by means of a handle. This water is immediately swept up by a cylindrical brush which is 16 inches wide and has a circumference of 20 inches. This brush is driven by a one-fourth horsepower motor at a speed of 600 revolutions per minute.

The brush does the actual scrubbing and carries all of the dirt and soiled water over an apron into a separate receiving pan, so the scrubbing is always done with clean water from the upper tank. The machine is said to have a capacity of nearly 7,000 square feet of surface per hour.

Women Out Husking Corn

PAULSBORO, Nov. 14.—The deman for workmen at the various industrial enterprises in this locality has left many farmers without sufficient help to get their corn husked, and exceptionally high prices are being offered to women to do the work. STORING CELERY IN THE CELLAR

A small amount of celery may be stored in the cellar by setting the roots 4 inches apart in a 3-inch layer of moist soil on the floor or in boxes. The temperature of the place should be kept as near 40° F. as possible. Direct draughts of air, sudden changes of temperature and excessive light should be avoided. If the celery becomes wilted, moisten the soil, taking care not to wet the tops. This is not easy to do unless some device is used to keep the tops from getting wet. If a large tube or a stove pipe is inserted between the plants, the water may be poured through it upon the roots without getting any water on the foliage.

Complete information on the storing of vegetables for home use is given in Extension Bulletin 12 of the New Jersey State Agricultural College, New Brunswick, N. J. This bulletin may be obtained free on application.

Palmyra Raises $1201 In Drive For The Y. M. C. A.

Riverton Total Nearly $24,000 Up to Monday Night

Palmyra responded nobly to the appeal for the Y. M. C. A. war fund. While some of our neighboring towns gave dollars to our cents it must be remembered that we have no wealthy men in our town, and therefore could expect no large subscriptions. The amount raised in cash and pledges was $1201.85. This was really a popular subscription with contributions of amounts ranging from ten cents, the lowest, to fifty dollars, the highest. Many of the subscriptions were positive sacrifices to those who made them, and the committee appreciates the spirit shown. There were comparatively few refusals, and the few who refused are, as a rule, those who have opposed all matters pertaining to the war. Some very few of them are persons already under observation.

The Baptist Church gave all their basket collections of last Sunday, both morning and evening, and the Sunday School contributed their collection of forty dollars in the afternoon. The Methodist Church also took up a collection and the P. O. S. of A., K. G. E., and I. O. O. F. lodges all made donations.

The collections by districts and captains are as follows:

1st District, Geo. B. Hutchins	$ 261.00
2nd District, P. G. MacMahon	216.75
3d District, James T. Weart	367.80
4th District, Frank L. Durgin	191.60
5th District, William H. Cook	60.00
6th District, West Palmyra	44.70
Baptist Sunday School	40.00
Camp No. 3, P. O. S. of A.	10.00
Methodist Church	10.00

The committee in charge of the drive wish to thank all who contributed and feel grateful for the courte-

CHIEF OF POLICE REAL DETECTIVE

Does Some Sherlock Work in Mysterious Case of Three Missing French Dolls

Three French dolls, which disappeared mysteriously from the lawn of Edwin S. Parry, of Riverton, gave the sleuthing instinct of C. Morris Beck, Palmyra's Chief of Police, a test on Sunday. Having despaired of finding the missing dolls in Riverton, Mr. Parry appeale to Beck.

There was virtually no clue, beyon the fact that three colored children, names not then known, had been seen looking longingly at the dolls. Chief Beck ruminated over the matter a little bit, then jumped into his auto and sped out to Five Points, called on a colored family, and when a door was inadvertently opened he spied the dolls on a kitchen table.

Morry's system of deduction was something like this. Three colored children, presumably of one family, seen gazing at dolls; dolls later missing; he recalled a certain group of three colored children who would probably help themselves in such a case—and his first guess was correct!

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

By M. W. WISHAM

Captain Arthur B. Rudd, of the Atlantic Division Red Cross, captivatel an audience which crowdel the Epworth Church Saturday evening. For two hours he recited incidents of his experience at the front in Russia. His descriptive powers of the horrible effects and cruelty and suffering of the people of Russia and other countries caused by war brought tears to the eyes of many, while his occasional reminders of our duty at home and abroad for Red Cross work brought forth tremendous applause. The enthusiasm was also extended to "our own" Mrs. Margaret Williams in her rendition of "My Flag and Your Flag." Mrs. Marion Gilpin, soloist, received a merited encore. During the evening Thomas Griffenberg directed the orchestral music, which was highly appreciated by the audience, who sang "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Uniformed Home Guards acted as ushers and received a free-will offering of $49.05 for Red Cross work. Palmyra Branch will attempt to arrange for community patriotic rallies with speakers who can give accounts of personal experience of battlefronts during the continuance of the war.

Sewing machines have been loaned by Mr. Lothrop Jackson and Mrs. C. K. Mervine. We have need of several more. Can you help?

The benefit dance in Morgan Hall this Saturday evening promises to be well attended. Tickets, $1.00, admits gentleman and lady. Mrs. Jacob P. Warner is sponsor.

Arrangements are being perfected for the grand baaar to be held early in December. Watch for the date of this community social affair.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD HOLDS EXHIBITION

Fine Showing Made by Annual Event Held This Week in Dunlap's Store

Palmyra Branch of the Needlework Guild of America held its annual exhibition this week in Dunlap's store, and made a fine showing. The number of garments donated was a great surprise and exceeded the expectations of the president, Mrs. William Purnell, and the directors.

The first sight on entering the door was the variety of garments for babies—warm, comfortable articles of all sizes, followed by garments for children of larger growth, shirts, socks, petticoats, caps and mittens, in fact nothing seemed to be missing.

On the counters about the room were huge piles of towels, underwear, a quilt, and many other articles. In all four hundred articles, and over twelve dollars in money were contributed.

The largest number of articles brought in by one director—Mrs. Charles Pascoe, was contributed by the Philathea class—thirty-six garments, and one dollar and fifty cents.

The president welcomed the ladies of Palmyra and then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Sarah Dillon, of Ardmore, Pa., who gave a very interesting talk. She told how the society originated in England, by a woman who helped a poor family, and interested ten others, and from this sprang the Needlework Guild.

Four new directors were added to the list, due to her inspiring address. The garments will be distributed to the following:

Home for the Aged Women, Burlington; Home Missionary Society, Philadelphia, Pa.; Home for Friendless Children, Camden; N. J. Children's Home Society, Trenton; St. Andrew's School for Boys, Sewanee, Tenn.; W. C. T. U., Palmyra. Besides nine families in Palmyra were relieved. One hundred and twenty-seven garments were given out for relief last year.

The officers of the society are: President, Mrs. William Purnell; vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Pascoe and Mrs. John Hoff; treasurer, Mrs. Haines; secretary, Mrs. Fred C. Blackburn, who has already servel twenty-one years; distributing committee, Mrs. Rachel Haines, Mrs. Robert M. Cook, Mrs. John M. Morton.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM BEATS BURLINGTON

Trounced Boys From County Metropolis In Football By 39-0 Score

Last Friday the football team walked away with Burlington and made them dance to the tune of 39 to 0. P. H. S. rooters were confident that we would carry off the bacon, and the Burlington rooters were equally as confident even after the first touchdown. The game was well attended by high school pupils and alumni members. The alumni members expected to see Burlington in a little better shape and although they wanted P. H. S. to win, they would have liked to have seen a closer score.

Durgin ran the team with his usual ability and also featured greatly in the offense. Norval Bacon was credited with three touchdowns, and his playing was of the highest quality. Jackson and Karins were the other stars for P. H. S. Durgin get credit for two touchdowns and Sharp gets the credit for the other. Sharp kicked three goals.

McGinley, a former Palmyra lad, was the star for the Burlington team. He made many line plunges and a few end runs that were successful and at one time he came within a foot of a touchdown.

MORE WATER CO. STOCK

Utility Board Approves $25,000 Issue

The State Public Utility Commission on Thursday authorized the issuance of $25,000 of capital stock by the Riverton and Palmyra Water Company. The proceeds are to be used in reimbursing the company for additions to its plant and system not heretofore capitalized.

The authorization was the result of a request by the company for permission to issue $125,000 of stock as a stock dividend. The board found that conditions were not such as to warrant so large an issue.

Ragmen's Lungs To Be Limited By Ordinance

Township Committee Hears of Annoyance Caused by Leather-throated Venders

At the regular meeting of the Palmyra Township Committee Tuesday night, Committeeman Hill suggested an ordinance to muzzle the noise caused in the town by ragmen, hucksters and other venders.

Several complaints have been coming in to the members of the Committee about the annoyance from this source and the suggestion was approve all around, so Solicitor Beckenbach has been instructed to draw up the ordinance, which will be a great relief to sick people and others with delicate nerves throughout the town.

Committeeman Cook made the motion that the Committee meet next year at the fire house, a move that has been contemplated for some time. The motion carried and the Independence Company consequently will get the benefit of the yearly rental of $60. Free gas also will be furnished by the Public Service Company, inasmuch as the building will become in effect a town hall.

Repeated breaking of the traffic signs and lights at the Cinaminson street crossing of the railroad and Broad street was responsible for an ordinance which will be drawn up, establishing a fine of from $2.50 to $5.00 for the offense. The purpose of the fine will be to pay for the damage done.

Mr. Hill called attention to the fact that the Morgan avenue crossing of the railroad is not properly lighted and that as a result automobilists frequently have accidents in attempting to cross at the wrong place. It is proposed either to put in a new light or to move one nearby to the crossing.

The nuisance caused by leaky receptacles used by garbage removers was brought up and Mr. Cook suggested that the matter be turned over to the police department for action.

Y. W. C. A. NEEDS FOUR MILLIONS

Great Tasks Demanded by War Compels Association to Call For Funds

The Young Woman's Christian Association faces a campaign for an amount of money four times larger than any figures it has ever thought in before. They have been asked, with the Federal endorsement of the commandants concerned, to go into one camp after another with hostess houses, and into adjoining communities with emergency housing and constructive activities for younger girls. They are also urged by comittees of women in France and Russia, and by many prominent workers in Europe to pour both money and leaders into the first line of defense for womanhood over there. The National Board is therefore asking for $4,000,000 to be secured between now and the middle of December.

This campaign for $39,000,000 now being held by the two Christian Association movements of the country is easily the largest short-time appeal for Christian work ever made in the history of the world.

SOUTH AMERICA HAS PREFERENCE

The failure to sell important quantities of American dried fruits in South America is due in part to the native's preference to dried fruits that may be readily eaten out of the hand without further preparation, according to a bulletin entitled "South American Markets for Dried Fruits" issued today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Comerce.

The predominance of European dried fruits (prunes, raisins and figs) is especially marked in Brazil, and only slightly less so in Argentina and Uruguay, says the report. Home-produced fruits practically displaced all others in Chile, with the United States ranking second only to the United Kingdom in the small trade in imported fruits. Peru is the only country considered in this report in which California fruits outrank those from all other sources. Chilean fruits practically monopolize the markest of Bolivia. During the last year or so there has been a decided tendency in South America to buy in the United States certain lines of fruits that formerly were purchased almost exclusively from Europe, and it is thought that proper attention to the requirements of the markets will make permanent at least part of this trade.

The report points out the shortcomings in American methods of competing with European countries in the South American markets and offers constructive suggestions for making more of our opportunities in the future. Copies can be obtained at the nominal price of 5 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., or from the district or cooperative offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Potatoes In Other War Times

WOODBURY, Nov. 21.—Among some old papers belonging to his father, found by James Duffield, was a receipt dated August 23, 1862, from William Garrison, of Millville, showing returns for 15 bushels of potatoes at 10 cents a bushel. The freight and commisison with carting cost $1.15, leaving a balance of 35 cents for 15 bushels.

The preacher who argues that salvation is free should discourage church affairs.

Russia is back in the war $31,000,000 worth.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind, is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilide, aspirin or the bromides which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system, and cure you of headache but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.

Lippincott, William Dignan, Charles Evans, J. L. Lippincott and John M. Hughes, and was known as the agricultural committee, appointed by Mayor Flagg.

Allen McAdams, of Seattle, Wash., has been visiting at the home of Mrs. John Keating and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Weidemann this week. Mr. McAdams is sergeant at headquarters, stationed at Camp Mills, L. I., after being at Camp Green, Charlotte, N. C., for several months. He is only twenty-one, and has received several medals for expert rifle work.

A number of young people were delightfully entertained at a surprise party given by the Three M's Bible class of the Calvary Presbyterian Church in honor of the 23rd anniversary of DeWitt Houghtaling. Among those present were the Misses Emma Kipp, Mary Ginther, Marie Wilson, Linda Glass and Juniata Soast, and Messrs. Walter Egan, a former driver for the Adams Express Company here, was attacked and beaten one night last week on his way home from Riverside. The pressers at Taubel's mill had struck and young Egan was among those who were filling their places. When he started home on the night of the assault he was followed by four men who got off the trolley when he did at East Riverton and fell upon him, beating him severely and kicking him in the ribs. He did not know any of his assailants.

While Chief of Police Mattis and Officers Quigley and Miler were looking for the gun with which Frank Petito was shot two weeks ago, they found a 1916 Buick in a barn on Petito's property. The family said it had been left there for a few days. When it was found to be still there ten days later, and that an atempt had been made to paint it, the authorities became suspicious. Yesterday morning Petito told one of the officers that he was going to move and would not be responsible for the car. It was taken over by the department and awaits its owner.

The entertainment committee, with Mrs. A. R. Gausler as chairman, gave a very clever and interesting two-act play at the Porch Club on Tuesday. The title of the play was "The Fascinating Fanny Brown." Miss Anne Walace, with her usual charm and cleverness, took the part of Fanny Brown, who was a fictitious person invented to make two girls jealous and thereby more easily won by their two young lovers, but instead it created a misunderstanding and a great deal of excitement. Those who took part were: Mrs. C. S. Somervell, Mrs. Harold Leinau, Miss Caroline Murdock, Miss Rae Nieukirk, Miss Mabel Cook, Mrs. C. H. Rolf, Mrs. Lee Warner, Mrs. Whitney Frishmuth. During the intermission Miss Marjorie Marcy, Miss Augusta Cavanna and Miss Enid Solis, of Philadelphia, sang some of the popular songs, to the accompaniment of their ukuleles, which added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon. The club room was crowded with an enthusiastic audience and a silver offering was taken for the benefit of the New Jersey State Federation recreation house at Camp Dix.

Coal Shortage Cripples Industries

MILLVILLE, Nov. 23—The scarcity of coal is becoming very alarming and unless the situation is speedily remedied some local industrial plants will be obliged to close down. Some of the glass plants are running only in part and other industries are almost as seriously affected. The supply in all the local yards is almost depleted.

Curfew Law in Englewood

ENGLEWOOD, Nov. 23.—Englewood now has a curfew law. It has been adopted by the Common Council and it prohibits girls under eighteen years of age the use of the streets after half-past eigh o'clock at night, unless, of course, they are accompanied by parents or guardians. The establishment of Camp Merritt, a few miles away, induced members of the Council to pass the law as a precautionary measure.

Plan To Observe Thanksgiving As Donation Day

In his monthly letter to the camps National President Heaps recommends the observance of Thanksgiving as a donation season. Brothers Bowen, Branson, Cooper, Curry, Donaghy and Stewart were appointed a committee to handle the matter for No. 23, and they wish to make the meeting of November 26th look like a harvest home or a country fair.

Every member is called on to bring a liberal sample of something good to eat.

The material contributed will be placed in the hands of those who through force of circumstances are looking to the aproach of winter with misgiving and anxiety. While we are contributing to the call of the nation, nearby needs must be taken care of.

Another suggestion by President Heaps was to observe the anniversary of Washington's death December 14th as a memorial to deceased members.

Through the courtesy of Brother Frank Coddington in providing a set of gloves, the meeting of 19th inst. was livened up during recess by several active boxing bouts during which several of the old timers found they possessed muscles which they forgotten existed.

To date thirty members of 23 have been called to the colors and a service flag has been ordered.

A dozen of the boys started for Tabernacle on the 20th, but owing to jitney ills only nine arrived. The survivors report an enthusiastic hospitality for which 185 is noted.

THAT MILK RAISE

Housekeeper Protests In Letter To Editor

Editor News:

The milkmen are after us again and it looks as if there is a combination among them to squeeze the people. Beverly women have organized against the holdup in that town. Is it not time Palmyra women took action against the unnecessary raise in the prices of commodities. Besides the loss of the cream skimmed from the milk. Are we going to stand for another cent raise.

"HER UNBORN CHILD" AT WALNUT THEATRE

"Her Unborn Child," a big drama dealing with the question of the hour, birth control, which comes to us with the endorsement of medical societies, non-sectarian clubs, and thinking men and women everywhere, will be the attraction at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, for one week only commencing Monday, November 26th.

Here is a drama of discussion written by a brilliant young American, Howard McKent Barnes, which is bound to find an honored place among purposeful plays like "The Blindness of Virtue."

No one under eighteen years of age will be admitted to the performance of "The Unborn Child." Another novelty in the exploitation of this play is the fact that with the exception of the Thanksgiving Day matinee all matinees will be for ladies only. No gentlemen will be admitted to these matinee performances.

W. C. T. U.

Next Tuesday will be the regular Evangelistic meeting under the charge of Mrs. Carl Peterson, also report day. The Y. M. C. A. is doing such a grand work at all the National Army cantonments. The W. C. T. U. are also very much interested in this work. On Tuesday the 27th annual Institute will be held at Pointville on the outskirts of Camp Dix. All the Unions of Burlington county are expected to have a representative there. As patriotism means taking thought for others and making sacrifices for the good of others, so a patriot is a man who, by cutting out his booze, is ready to do his bit towards a speedy victory on the battlefields of Europe. All help will be given by those who have always worked in the Temperance cause.

NEW IDEA IN HOME PLANNING

"Our architects are gradually learning after all is said and done the thing worth while is to make a home that is attractive, in which people will want to live and to which they will return with delight." So says Louis C. Tiffany, founder of the Tiffany Studios, in the December issue of Harper's Bazar.

Mr. Tiffany, himself, has a very beautiful estate at Cold Spring Harbor, New York, and from his description of it in this number of Harper's Bazar, you can gain quite a little valuable information on how to beautify and make attractive your home.

No Coal Yet at Water Plant

WOODBURY, Nov. 22.—The coal situation at the city water works has not been relieved and the city teams were again compelled to haul a day's supply from a local industrial plant to keep the pumps moving. A carload has been shipped, but is lost, and the situation is serious.

MUST BE LOYAL OR QUIT WORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Amid enthusiastic cheers the employees, men and women alike, of the Standard Aero Corporation took the Oath of Allegiance to the United States at the Elizabeth, N. J., plant of the corporation yesterday. Today the employees of the Plainfield, N. J., plant will be given an opportunity to do the same thing, or to give up their jobs with the Standard Aero Corporation.

Realizing that the various fires and other destructive acts committed by enemy aliens constitute a deadly peril to this country's war preparations, Harry Bowers Mingle, president of the corporation, first instituted a rigid inquiry into the nationality and antecedents of every one of his thousands of employees, and then ordered that every man and woman of them should take the Oath of Allegiance.

Yesterday from the the flag-draped stand erected in one of the seven large buildings at the Elizabeth plant, Mingle requested the employees assembled to take the oath. "You are not taking an oath of allegiance to the Standard Aero Corporation or to any of its interests," he said, "but an oath of allegiance to the United States Government to give your best efforts for the production of aircraft.

"This is not a matter of dollars and cents, not a matter of pay, but a matter of loyalty to the Government of the land in which you live. If by any chance, we have overlooked any man among you who has not been naturalized, I want him to understand that this proceeding does not relieve him from taking out naturalization papers. If there is anyone present who has the slightest hesitation about taking this oath I ask him to leave the room."

Not a man or woman stirred. The oath was administered by a public official legally empowered to do so, to the office force and executives as well as the factory employees. It was an impressive sight when hundreds of hands were held aloft signifying the loyalty of the workers to this Government. At the conclusion of the ceremony, as well as when they were asked if they were willing to take the oath, there were wild outbursts of cheering.

"I meant exactly what I said," said Mr. Mingle later. "I regard myself as far as the production of airplanes is concerned more as an agent of the Government than as president of the Standard Aero Corporation. More than a year ago I insisted that all of the executive heads of this corporation should be Americans, and now I have extended it to everyone.

"I believe that our employees are loyal. We are producing more planes per capita of employees than any other concern in this country. But we are not neglecting any precaution to prevent sabotage in our plants. We have guards everywhere and the record of every employee, new or old, must pass the closest scrutiny before he or she can enter the buildings."

The Standard Aero Corporation has two immense factories and six smaller ones, all engaged in making airplanes for use against the enemies of the United States. Sixty machines a week can be made at the new $1,000,000 factory in Elizabeth, N. J., while the other factories can turn out parts for that many more each week.

Joke On Mother

Returning home one afternoon, little Richard's mother found him apparently in great pain. Careful questioning failed to disclose the cause of the lad's suffering. Previous exprience told the mother that Richard was probably in need of that oil so unpopular with children, and she preceeded to administer a generous portion despite the crying resistance of Richard. A few minutes later the boy appeared, apparently in great glee.

"I've got a joke on mother— I've got a joke on mother," he cried.

Members of the family were curious, of course.

"Mother thought I was sick and gave me oil, but I got the toothache" he xclaimed between laughs.

Richard's earlier reticence was due to dread of the dentist's chair.

AMERICAN STEEL AND WORLD WAR

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—In a communication to the National Geographic Society William Joseph Showalter tells the graphic story of steel, industry's greatest asset and war's chief weapon. A part of the communication is issued by the Society as the following war geography bulletin:

"Would you know the size of the American steel industry? Then reflect that even before the great world war broke out, even in the slack and uncertain days of 1914, it employed more people than live in Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming together—four States whose aggregate area is more than twice that of all Germany. The capital employed is greater than the national wealth of Switzerland. The Republic of Portugal—land, improvements, industrials, everything—is not worth as much by a billion dollars as America's steel products were in the single year of 1914, a year in which a ton of pig iron sold for less than one-third present quotations, and a ton of steel likewise.

"Think of an ore train so long that it would take a fortnight to pass a given point, running at full column formation and stretching from Detroit, Mich., to Erie, Pa. Think of a row of blast furnaces reaching from New York to Chester, Pa.; of a column of rolling mills and puddling furnaces reaching from New York to Indianapolis! Think of a stream of ten tons of liquid iron flowing out as molten pig metal every second of the year!

"Then you will begin to get a picture of the vastness of the steel industry. It is steel, steel, steel, everyhere and always—steel for guns, steel for shells, steel for ships. Without American steel the German submarine would conquer the oceans, the German war machine would starve oud Allies, overrun France and work its own good pleasure upon all the earth. But with American steel that can never be done. The road to victory for autocracy has been closed by the unyielding gate which American industry has put across its path."

WAS VERY PROUD OF HIS HOME TOWN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Christopher Brown walked into the local recruiting station of the United States Marine Corps today, and after announcing the fact that he was from Braintree, said he wanted to enlist.

"The idea of enlisting is a good one," said the recruiting sergeant, "but what is Braintree—a breakfast food or an educational institution?"

"It is a town in Massachusetts—the only town in the United States that ever produced two presidents," proudly replied Brown. "John Adams was born there and so was John Quincey Adams. John Hancock was born there, too, as was Colonel Charles G. Long, chief of staff of the Marine Corps. If you take me into the Marine Corps I may be running the thing in a year or two."

But Christopher Brown had flat feet and so can't be a United States Marine, although he finds comfort in the thought the he may some day be President.

VOCATIONAL WORK URGED FOR PALMYRA

Parent Teachers' Association Hear Interesting Address By Mr. O'Leary

The regular monthly meeting of the Palmyra Parent Teachers Association was held in the auditorium of the High School building Tuesday evening. The First Vice-President, Mrs. E. M. Becton, presided.

The speaker of the evening was Wesley A. O'Leary, Acting Assistant Commissioner of Education, who took for his subject vocational training. He pointed out the importance of boys of 14 and over spending at least two or three years learning some trade in connection with their high school course, such as electrical work, plumbing, printing and agriculture, etc.

Mr. O'Leary expressed himself as being proud that New Jersey was well in the lead in the movement and that the Federal Government is contributing liberally. The present especially, said Mr. O'Leary, makes vocational training important, because of demand for skilled labor being greater than the supply and because the coming of peace will increase the demand The speaker considered it a lamentable mistake for boys to leave school at the age of 14 to hold minor positions and then get married early in life, without even having learned a useful and profitable employment.

Mr. O'Leary's talk was heartily applauded and the audience manifested the greatest interest throughout.

Mrs. Becton then made a report of the State meeting at Moorestown and of the movement to purchase an ambulance for the men "Somewhere in France." The price is $2,000 and Palmyra's share is $25. Some of this already has been raised, but more contributions are needed and members not present at the meeting are urged to send in their contributions to the officers of the association before December 1. Passing the hat at the meeting, on the suggestion of Mrs. Frank Matthews, netted $10.50.

The ladies quartette of the Baptist church, Mrs. C. W. Williams, first soprano; Miss Helen Adams, second soprano; Mrs. J. H. Abdill, first alto and Mrs. A. C. Hirsch, second alto, sang "The End of a Perfect Day" and "My Old Kentucky Home." The old favorites were well rendered and highly appreciated.

Following the meeting proper was a social period which was a feature of the evening. The committee in charge has arrangd an interesting program, with good speakers and music for each meeting up to May 21

THANKS Y. M. C. A. WORKERS

On behalf of the Y. M. C. A. County Committee for the War Fund, I wish to thank the captains and district committeemen for the splendid work they did in Palmyra. We also wish to extend our thanks to all contributors, both large and small, for the generous support given.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The statement that Paul DeV. Sleeper is an ensign in th navy is a mistake. While he received his commission as an ensign in 1913 he afterward resigned and entered the employ of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. In May he volunteered his services in the Navy but the president of his company wrote to the Navy Department that Mr. Sleeper was too valuable in naval construction work to lose and the department agreed.

A surprise party was given Master Freddie Bickell, of Cinnaminson avenue, in celebration of his twelfth birthday. Those present were: Adelaide Hart, Amanda Bergey, Sarah Lummins, Mary Cook, Claire Bickell, era Lutz, Pearl rau, Amanda Hutchins, George Cline, Nelson McCuen, Benjamin Bergey, Bertram Horton, Alfred Lauer, Thomas Wallace and Houston Ingram. Mis Halen ePttit and Miss Anna Fry assisted in entertaining the children. An enjoyable evening was spent by all.

WAR SAVINGS PLAN SUMMARY

The war-savings plan provided for in the last bond act, of September 24 1917, has been formulated and announced by the Treasury Department and goes into operation on Monday December 3.

The plan puts it easily in reach of every American citizen to save money and at the same time aid the Government by supplying it with the sinews of war.

Stamps, which are the Government's certificates of indebtedness, are to be sold in two denominations—thrift stamps, which cost 25 cents each, and war-saving stamps, which cost from $4.12 to $4.23 each according to the month in which they are purchased.

With the first thrift stamp the purchaser is given a thrift card with spaces for 16 stamps. When 16 thrift stamps have been purchased and affixed the thrift card can be exchanged for a war-savings stamp by paying the difference between the $4 the thrift stamp represents and the current value of a war-savings stamp, which in December 1917 and January 1918 will be $4.12, and thereafter 1 cent for each succeeding month during the year 1918.

With the first war-saving stamp obtained by purchase or exchange the owner is given a war-savings certificate containing spaces for 20 war-savings stamps. If the 20 spaces are filled during December, 1917 or January, 1918, the cost to the purchaser will be $4.12 for each stamp, or $82.40 for the full certificate and on the 1st day of January, 1923, the Government will redeem the certificate at $100, giving the holder a net profit of $17.60 for the use of his money.

Although these investments do not mature until January 1. 1923, provision is made whereby upon 10 days' written notice after January 1, 1918, such certificates will be redeemed by the postmasters at their cost to the purchaser plus 1 cent a month on each war-saving stamp on the certificate.

The thrift stamps do not bear interest, but the war-savings stamps bear 4 per cent, compounded quarterly. The certificates will be dated January 2, 1918 and mature January 1, 1923.

Under the plan an amount as small as 25 cents can be invested in a Government security, and as soon as $4 has been thus invested an interest-bearing certificate of the United States Government can be secured.

The stamps and certificates can be obtained from post offices, banks or trust companies, at most railroad stations, stores, factories, and many other public places.

Having the etnire wealth of the United States back of them, and being redeemable as above stated, there is no danger of any depreciation in value of the certificates.

Send Boys Unique Remedies

PITMAN, Nov. 20.—"The Home Folks Stand Back of You," is the message that is being sent out to forty young men from this town, now serving in either the army or the navy, on unique calendars prepared by the Pitman Mothers' Club. Each calendar contains a snapshot photograph of the mother or some other near relative of the soldier boy who receives it. Where the boys have no relatives, a snapshot of the local railroad station is used.

Four Submarines At Trenton

TRENTON, Nov. 22—Four submarines are attracting considerable attention in the Delaware and Raritan canal just north of the State street lock. They arrived here yesterday from the Brooklyn navy yard and will pass through the canal and down the Delaware river to League Island navy yard in Philadelphia. Each craft is sixty feet in length. Last week several submarines passed through the canal here, but did not stop. The four boats in the canal will leave here ihts morning.

While some coal is being received each week, it is not nearly equal to the amount consumed in the retorts and the reserve supply has been drawn upon until it is perilously low.

Prefers U. S. Army To Fortune

CAMDEN, Nov. 22.—A student officer of the Third Infantry has refused a legacy of $30,000, the acceptance of which would necessitate leaving the trainig camp. Two weeks ago he recived word his uncle in Colrado had ied and left him business property, valued at $30,000 with the proviso that he should continue the business. The young man was undecided until word came the American troops were in the trenches in France. Then he turned down the legacy.

Mysterious Trunk Was Harmless

TRENTON, Nov. 22.—It was announced here yesterday that Federal authorities investigating the contents of a "mysterious trunk" taken from a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the Clinton street station here, when trainmen saw fumes and vapor issuing from it, have found that it contained a shipment of non-explosive chemicals to the duPont Powder Company at Wilmington, from an agent at Easton, Pa. This probably closes the matter so far as the Government is concerned.

SUBSTITUTES TO BE CHEAPER

Thousands of the loyal housewives of New Jersey are following the instructions of the United States Food Administration by substituting rye flour, whole wheat flour and corn meal for the ordinary white wheat flour although they are forced to pay more for these substitutes than for the high grade flour. It is obviously unreasonable that these unrefined ground products should cost more than the highly refined product of special grinding processes.

The Food Administrator for New Jersey, James F. Fielder, is attempting to make it possible for housewives to secure pleutiful supplies of these substitutes at reasonable prices. At his request the Bureau of Markets of the State Department of Agriculture has made an exhaustive study of the products of New Jersey mills. The bureau finds up to the present time the mills of our state have produced relatively small quantities of these products, giving most of their attention to grinding stock feeds. These mills are now, however, prepared to meet a greatly increased demand for these wheat substitutes. There are plentiful supplies of grain in the state for grinding. Millers can obtain information about supplies of grain from Mr. A. L. Clark, of the Bureau of Markets, Trenton.

Old fashioned fine ground corn meal is selling at many of the mills now for 4 3-4 cents per pound. Whole ground wheat flour is selling for about 4 1-4 cents. Rye flour is one of the costliest of these substitutes for wheat flour and is worth arount 5 1-4 cents per pound. Rye graham or rye meal called by Europeans "Pumpernickle" is another wholesome flour. It can be bought for about 4 1-2 cents per pound. A fairly good grade of blended wheat flour is sold by many New Jersey mills for 5 1-2 cents per pound.

The Bureau finds that apparently retail stores have been forced to charge more for these substitutes because only such small quantities were sold. Now that the demand has increased, the Bureau has suggested to the Food Administration that retailers be urged to handle them upon as low a margin of profit as possible. Housewives and all patriotic citizens can now point out to their storekeepers the local wholesale values of these foods and expect a considerable reduction in the prices. The Bureau of Markets sees no reason why corn meal should not be sold in small quantities for as low as 5 1-2 cents per pound, rye flour for 6 cents and whole wheat flour for 5 cents.

A number of mills are building up an excellent trade in direct selling by parcel post. Lower prices than those suggested above can be secured by those desiring the wholesale prices given can be secured. Thus in the future there should be no excuse whatever for any household in the state failing to substitite frequently during each week bread foods made from other than white wheat flour. The Food Administrator's office is prepared to refer inquirers directly to New Jersey mills where these wholesome and nutritious ground foods can be bought.

In ordering corn meal it is recommended that fine ground whole corn meal be demanded. It ranks highest in food value; it is the cheapest in cost and is the most palatable. During cool weather it will give no trouble in keeping, but should not be stored in a warm room. Granulated corn meal is frequently sold in packages. Its principal advantage is its keeping quality. In its manufacture certain parts of the corn kernel are removed which prevents heating and spoiling but also lowers the food value. Granulated corn meal may sometimes sell for more than finely ground meal, but contains less nourishment and is less palatable.

It should be noted by housewives as well as storekeepers that corn meal will soon be more plentiful as the new corn crop will be dry enough to grind the last of this month. After December first if values remain at about the same level as at present fine ground meal should be retailed by patriotic storekeepers for around 4 or 4 1-2 cents a pound.

In the matter of whole wheat flour patent brands are not necessary. If whole ground wheat flour is ordered it will insure nutritious, wholesome, coarse flour which dietians and others unite in praising as an occasional food. For bread or muffin making once or twice a week it cannot be surpassed. If mixed well with other flours in recipes for some of the war breads.

The terms rye flour and rye meals should not be confused. Rye flour is a light colored fine flour. Rye meal is a coarse, dark colored flour which makes the so-called "Black bread" of Western Europe. It is often called ry graham.

HOARDING

Those whose hoarding instincts cannot be controlled by their patriotic sentiments are reminded by the Federal Food Administrator of New Jersey, James F. Fielder, that the law against hoarding is very explicit and is armed with a penalty of two years imprisonment or $5000 fine or both. It was recognized by those who framed the Food Act that it might be necessary to use drastic measures to prevent individuals or business concerns from accumulating food supplies in excess of their immediate needs and the whole purpose of the law might be defeated.

Information received at the office of the Food Administrator leads to the belief that many housewives have unwittingly violated this section of the law by accumulating food commodities in excess of reasonable requirements. Necessaries are deemed to be hoarded within the meaning of the law when held in quantities in excess of reasonable requirements for household or business use. This does not apply to housewives who have canned or preserved quantities of fruits and vegetables, nor to farmers or gardeners who are holding the products of their own field.

The behavior of the various German diplomats stationed in foreign lands recalls the old Elizabethan witticism that an ambassador is a man sent to lie abroad for the good of his country.

TOLD NOT TO BAKE BREAD

The following is taken from an address on "Food Conservation," delivered by Mrs. William Severin, chairman National Advisory Council, Women's Association of Commerce, of United States of America, before Women's Association of Commerce of United States of America, at Chicago:

"If in each home in the United States there is saved one ounce of meat a day in one year we save 465,000,000 pounds. One slice of bread asved daily, saves 365,000,000 loaves annually. One pat of butter less a day means 114,000,00 pounds a year saved. A half cup of milk less per day saves 912,000,000 quarts of milk or the product of 400,000 cows. These figures prove that it behooves us to Hooverize.

"We asked to observe Wheatless Days. Let us carry it further. Let us discover the real wastes of wheat in our homes. The home-baked loaf of bread, time hallowed though it be is our worst offender. The women in France no longer bake their own bread. We must adopt similar measures here.

"One to three ounces of dough—wheat, in other words—is wasted in every home baking. The dough on your fingers that you or your maid wash off in the sink, the dough that clings to the bread-board, the flour that spills while you are kneading, are wastes you cannot prevent. The only recourse is to stop baking your bread at home.

"The Red Cross and other war relief organizations are begging for your help. You can't respond when you are chained to the kitchen, nervous over whether your dough is rising properly and then watching it in the oven. It takes five hours to produce two loaves of bread in your kitchen—and then perhaps it is a soggy, unpalatable mess, indigestible and really a waste. Home-baking is a triple waste—first of wheat—second of time—third of your family's digestion.

"Hundreds of thousands of barrels of flour than housewives can. And if they will buy bakers' bread. In up-to-date bake shops the correct temperature is maintained while the dough is rising. In home kitchens this is impossible. The door opens, a cold draught enters, and the dough falls. Then it is a case of Humpty Dumpty. Nothing can save that batch of dough from becoming soggy bread.

"Bake-shops, by modern contrivances, avoid wastes of dough. They can produce more bread per barrel of flour than housewives can. And bakers' bread is light. It toasts. Home-made bread won't. The crusts of bakers' bread can be easily dried, rolled and used. Your home-made crusts are too heavy for this.

"Women must therefore do less home-baking. Then they can begin today to save wheat. Wheat will help win the war. Now is the time to act. The government is supervising the bake-shops. Each bake-shop is to be licensed. But don't wait for the government to point out the wastes of home-baking. Let us resolve now to save those thousands upon thousands of barrels of flour we are literally washing down our sinks.

"For years I have been an exponent of home-baking. I have baked bread, pies, cakes by the thousands. I've taught scores of maids and girls to do the same but today in my home, home-baking is barred. I consider this action to be in accordance with the spirit of my Hoover pledge. And if every woman in this country will do likewise, I venture to say that one million barrels of flour will be annually saved for use by our allies."

WILL REQUIRE CONSIDERATION

The problems which will confront all the belligerents when the war is over, of paying the interest on the war debt and providing for its redemption, will be serious enough. But the problem of dealing with the foreign war debt will in most respects be the least formidable, because that will be met through the familiar machinery of international trade. As long as international trade continues—and it has always hitherto expanded enormously in the aftermath of a great war—the means of settling foreign obligations will continue to exist with every thrifty nation. The process will undoubtedly be a long one; it may be expedited by a new movement in the economic development of the world.

What new situations may arise hereafter from the act of governments on such a scale— for, as against our treasury's present or prospective loans to our allies, British Government has already made similar loans of $5,000,000,000 and the French Government of something like $800,000,000—it is not easy to foresee. No such relations have ever before existed in political history. The natural policy would be to transfer these obligations in due course from the hands of governments to the hands of private investors—a policy for which provision was made in the statutes authorizing our Treasury's foreign loans.

But the consideration as to which there is neither doubt nor dispute is the position which the United States will occupy in the economic field on return of pace. The statement of the new German Chancellor that "if the Entente should win with America's help America would step into England's place," was no doubt colored by a wish for the displacement of England; but it showed how the situation impresses a German mind. It is true, on the other hand that the United States has deeply involved itself in the political and economic outcome of the war. It is possible to argue that if we had held aloof, dismissed th European struggle as no concern of ours, and merely sold our foodstuffs and materials at the highest prices obtainable, we should have got into our own hands, before the war was over, a good part of the tangible wealth of the belligerent powers.

The picture is not attractive. Realize, it would suggest not remotely the kind of profit accruing to a nation which might gain the whole world and lose its own soul.

THE GUNNERSS STORY

When the shells are bursting round
Making craters in the ground
And the rifle fire's something awful cruel,
When yon 'ear them in the night
(My Guad it makes you fight!)
An' yer thinks of them poor souls agoing 'ome,
When you hear the Sergeant shout
"Get y'r respirators out,"
Then you looks and sees a cloud of something white.

The gas is coming on
An' yer knows before it's gone
That the 'orse wots with you now won't be by then;
Yer loves him like yer wife
An' yar wants to save 'is life
But there ain't no respirators, not for them.
I was standing by 'is side
On the night my old 'orse died
An' I shan't forget 'is looks towards the last.
'E was choking mighty bad,
An' 'is eyes was looking mad
An' I seed that—'e—was dying—dying fast.

An' I want to tell yer 'ow
It's the 'orses wot gets us through,
For they straffis their blooming 'earts out when they're pressed.
We was galloping like 'ell
When a bullet 'it old Nell
I c'd see the blood astreaming down 'er face.
It 'ad got 'er in the 'ead,
But she stuck to it and led
'Till we comes to "Action right,"
An' then she fell.

I 'adent time to chose
I 'ad to cut 'er loose
For she'd done all she c'd afore a gun,
When I looks at 'er again
She was out of all her pain
An' I 'opes her soul will rest for wot she done.

If it 'adent been for Nell
We should all have been in 'ell
For we only got in action just in time.
Ain't it once occurred to you
Wot the 'orses there go through?
They 'elps to win our fight an' does it fine.

When 'is blood is flowing 'ot
From a wound what 'e's just got
An' 'is breath is coming 'ard and short and thin,
'E can see the men about Getting water dealed out
But not a drop is brought to comfort 'm;
Tho' 'is tongue is parched and dry
'E can see the water by
But 'is wounds are left to bleed
An' 'e can't tell us 'is need
So 'e's just got to bear 'is pain—and think.

There are 'eros big an' small
But the biggest of them all
Is the 'orse wot lay adying on the ground,
'E doesn't cause no wars
An' 'e's only fighting yours
An' 'e gives 5is life for you widout a sound.
'E doesn't get no pay
Just some oats and perhaps some hay
If 'e's killed no-one thins a lot o' 'im
'E's just as brave and good
As any man wot ever stood
But ther's mighty little thought of 'elp for 'im.

NOTE:—Since the above poem was received from the trenches in France by the American Red Star Animal eRlief, Lieutenant Fleming has given his life to the cause of human liberty. The voice which comes to us as it were from a sphere where dumb brutes do not suffer, is a call to civilization to do its duty by the silent heroes of war.

Many of the best-known horsemen in the State have definitely promised to attend the Conference, amongst them Nathan Straus, New York; S. S. Toman, New York; Horatio N. Bain Poughkeepsie; Ernest I. White, Syracuse, (brother of former Governor Horace White) and many others Dr. William O. Stillman, Director General of the American Red Star Animal Relief, Albany, has been specially invited to speak upon horse conditions in relation to the Army and the great need which exists for a better type of Army horses.

The Conference is called by the New York State Association of Horsemen, and in the invitations issued Mr. Irving Parmeter, Secretary states: "You are doubtless aware that the War has greatly enhanced the utility of the horse and that he is likely to be required to an increasing extent in civil as well as military pursuits. That the horsemen of the State may prepare to meet conditions now facing them it has been deemed wise to call this informal Conference, irrespective of Association membership."

War conditions have imposed an enormous drain upon the better classes of American horses. The Allies have exported 1,500,000 of the best cavalry, artillery and transport-type horses, and are still buying all they can ship. Large numbers have been shipped from Conada and from South America, thus further reducing the available supply of the Western World. The American Army requires one horse or mule to every four men, irrespective of cavalry, and as Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the British Admiralty, declares that the War is going to be a long one the demand upon America's resources will be enormous. These facts give special importance to the New York Conference on Monday next. Horse Breeding Associations, throughout, the United States, are showing a great interest in Red Star Animal Relief work for Army horses, and are forming Auxiliaries in many places.

FASHION HINTS FOR FAIR SEX

Among the smart hats for evening and dress wear are those of black tulle or black silk lace, with crowns of velvet, draped high; others have the crowns of metallic satin of extend to soften the lines of wearer's and these are in the preponderance—often have maline edges, which tend to soften the lines of warer's face. Velvet and silk flowers, wondrously true to nature's colorings, are favorite trimming, though flowers of metallic silks and ostrich in the form of plumes or bands are seen.

Cracul is used profusely for facing, some of the chic models of hatters' plush, and ostrich fancies whether in the form of pompons, coronets or crowns, are seen.

Hat pins of fur is one of the season's novelties. A small head surrounded with a circle of fur three or four inches in diameter is the usual form. Buttons of fur, on the Pierrot order, too, are seen on both suits and hats.

An adaption of the poke is most becoming to the childish face. Some of the hats of this description are in pale fabrics and have the brims at the sides folded back about an inch, leaving the portion of the brim in front suggestive of a visor.

NEUTRAL SHADES POPULAR

Neutral shades are ruling. Where black is not employed exclusively, gray-pearl, taupe and the dense dark dye known as iron in the mode. Casily known as iron is the mode. Castor tones share honors with gray, and the castor is seen in its long gamut, from dull sand to deep yellow. For some reason or other these tones all appear to better advantage combined with black. Maybe the fancy arises with the practice of putting the two together, for Parisians have been seeing the combination for a year or more and like it. Gray with black or castor with black, however, is generally modish with the dressy costume, for tailor-mades as a rule are of one shade. Black satin is the black which darkens the dress just mentioned, and if the gray or castor be not of satin then they are of very soft tissue such as velour de laine, peau de peche, or thick cloth. The leading shops employ not only the kind of satin that has been in vogue some years, but they have recently introduced a satin that is almost like crepe in its uneven surface.

SKIRTS ARE NARROW; OVER-DRESSES FULL

Though skirts are so narrow as to foundation, there is a sort of overdress placed on at each side or just in front of the hips that really renders the effect that of a full skirt. The style is pretty and the so-called small amount of goods is used every inch of it and the eye deceived. In the one-piece suits the air is that of a long plaited or gathered jacket over a tight foundation. Just how so much is built on the structure so as not to give a dragged effect, is the secret of the couturier. The straigth line sought from neck to hem is probably helped on by these layers in the form of plaits, etc., which help to prevent a dress clinging to the figure, holding it out to look more like a coat than dress. Andthe aim of all the fashion leaders appear to be to have their creations taken from wraps. Dresses, especially those of one-piece, are made to look like coats, redingotes cloaks and some of the little chemise-robes, suggest bath robes, tea gowns, etc., both in their bagginess and in their cut.

TUNIC BLOUSES

Some of the shops are showing tunic blouses that are original. Many of them are of Jersey, and have applied trimmings of crocheted wool. One of these is of turquoise blue Jersey, with yoke, cuffs, belt and shoulder seam bands crocheted in a pretty rose pattern of wool, including all the bright colors which a few years ago were characterized as "Balkan." Heavy silk crepe is used in these same "peasant" models, though perhaps not so much as the Jersey.

DANGER FLAG IS FAUNTED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—Danger of poisoning from vegetables preserved by the cold pack method is a war time nightmare which has no place outside enmy propaganda, declared Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission today. There have appeared statements that the danger is prevalent and that all susceptible foods which have been prepared by this method should be regarded with suspicion.

At East Lansing, Mich., four hundred and twenty-five Michigan housewives and girls who have canned 35,687 jars in three years by the cold pack method recommended by the government have filed reports with the college club leaders. The records show only 685 jars spoiled or less than two in one hundred—a result much better than obtained by any other method. The survey was conducted by Anna B. Cowles of the college, state club leader for girls, to counteract the work of certain agencies which have been attempting to discredit the cold pack method.

"The National Emergency Food Garden Commission has made a careful research on this subject," continued Mr. Pack, "and has the support of Dr. O. H. Benson and Dr. H. L. Lang of the United States Department of Agriculture in the statement that the danger of poisoning from vegetables prepared by the cold pack method is less than the danger of lockjaw from pin scratches. Even when present in the vegetables at the outset, the Bacillus Botulinus which produces poison is killed by exposure to a temperature of 176 (one hundred and seventy-six) degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes. As the cold pack method involves sterilizing vegetables for from one to four hours at a temperature of 212 degrees it is obvious that no danger exists when directions have been followed carefully. The cold pack method has been used for five years and no death or serious illness has resulted from the consumption of food canned according to directions.

"The one essential is that no canned goods be eaten which show visible signs of spoilage. When there is doubt the safest plan is to throw the can away, although all danger of Botulism may be avoided by boiling the contents for a few minutes. As a general rule all vegtables are slightly cooked when served and this gives added element of safety. Home canned goods are safe and necessary."

FLOODED BANKS OF NO AVAIL

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 20 — The National Geographic Society at Washington issues the following war geography bulletin on the Tagliamento:

"The Tagliamento River, whose flooded banks served as a rampart for the retreating Italians for only a few days and which has now been crossed by the Austro-German force is a stream of no value commercially. It is one of many small rivers rising in the Carnic Alps and flowing through the Venetian plain into the Adriatic. Its headwaters are near Mt. Clapsavon, about 65 miles northwest of its entrance into the Adriatic, but the course of the stream is meandering, flowing first to the east and then south through a marshy valley, thus traversing a distance of 100 miles.

"Just 120 years ago the Tagliamento figured prominently in another great military campaign in northern Italy. It was during Napoleon's campaign of 1797 that reinforcements were greatly needed by the French. Bernadotte, who afterward was placed by Napoleon on the throne of Sweden as Charles XIV, led his army with signal dispatch from the banks of the Rhine to his commander-in-chief, and at the passage of the Tagliamento won enduring distinction.

"The Tagliamento flows past no important cities of Venetia. The most important of the small towns that squat upon its marshy banks are Venzone, twenty miles by rail from the Austro-Italian frontier; Spilimbergo and Latisana. The last named place is equi-distant from Venice and Trieste on the 100-mile railway which connects those two important cities.

"The Tagliamento flows 15 miles west of Udine, the first Italian city of importance to fall beneath the onrushing Teutonic forces in the present offensive.

"In ancient times the Tagliamento was known as "Tilaventus."

Many a man who thinks he is capable of steering the ship of state couldn't run a wheelbarrow.

The election was full of surprises—for example, Philadelphia went Republican.

Flags Presented With Inspiring Church Service

Former State Senator Speaks At Central Baptist Celebration

Much patriotic enthusiasm marked the flag presentation services at the Central aBptist Church last Tuesday evening and the speaker of the evening, former State Senator John A. Ackley, of Vineland, had a hearty reception.

The services were opened with the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," by the congregation and a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Finch, followed by singing by the Young People's choir. The pastor, the Rev. C. W. Williams then gave a most interesting illustrated talk on the history and development of the American flag. Both the subject matter and the stereopticon views created the highest interest. A solo by Mrs. C. W. Williams followed.

At the close of his address, Senator Ackley presented a large American flag, the gift of the Baraca class and a service flag with ten stars, given by the Philathea class, to the church. The flags were received with an appropriate speech by the pastor. The Rev. Mr. Williams also read extracts from several letters received from several of our boys in the various training camps, telling how they enjoy army life. A letter from John Stoer, who is in the navy, also was read.

The services were closed with "America."

FOOD REGULATIONS

Can Get Sugar Without Purchase of Other Articles

Jams F. Fielder, Federal Food Administrator for the State of New Jersey, has notified the local chairman of the Food Conservation Committee, that wherever a storekeeper is requiring the purchase of other articles in order to secure sugar the fact be reported to him at once, as the practice is illegal. He also calls attention to the fact that the hoarding of food in larger quantities than is necessary for home consumption, is against the Food Conservation law, and persons following the practice are liable to fine or imprisonment.

This applies to those persons who are buying more sugar, flour, salt, or other commodities which are scarce, in larger amounts than their immediate needs justify. It is recognized that much of this hoarding is a matter of thoughtlessness, but nevertheless it comes within the meaning of the law, as it deprives others of their share of such commodities.

BAPTIST CHURCH OFFICERS

The annual busines meeting and supper was held Monday evening at the Baptist Church. The following officers were elected: President, George N. Winner; clerk, Frank Sterling; treasurer, Robert Golden; trustees, Thomas Branson, George Murray, Joab Price. The deacons were re-elected as follows: J. Otto Thilow, William Cooper, H. E. Brown, A. J. Brooks, M. M. Finch, C. C. Green. The committees were also re-elected.

Hubby Poisoned, Wire Cures Him

WHITINGS, Nov. 30.—Henry Thomas swallowed a dose of poison by mistake during the night and asked his wife, who was the only person in the house with him, to go for a physician. She feared to leave him alone lest he would go to sleep as the result of the drug and never wake up, so she kept walking him up and down until the effects of the drug had worn off. He then recovered.

SHOW OF SEASON FOR HOME GUARDS

Talented Musicians To Appear Next Thursday For Benefit Of Organization

The entertainment to be given for the benefit of the Palmyra Home Guards on Decembeh 6th at the Epwort Temple promises to be one of the most notable events ever presented in Palmyra.

Mrs. William's flag address will be one the principal features. Quoting from a letter received from Mrs. George DeB. Keim, of Edgewater Park:

"My Dear Mrs. Williams,

"I never enjoyed anything more than your flag talk. To hear it would be an inspiration, pleasure and delight to any American. You are certainly most favored in the possession of accomplishments and talents which enable you to do a "very wonderful bit.'"

Mrs. William will also present her humorous impersonations. The musical part of the program will comprise Lewis James Howells, Mrs. Beatrice Flint Collins and Miss Elizabeth Barrie. Mrs. George M. Becker and Miss Carol Becker will play a concerto for two pianos, an unusual feature.

You can perceive that it will indeed be the show of the season. So come out and Do Your Bit for the Home Guards.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RAILWAYS INEVITABLE

A decade ago the president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway, E. P. Ripley, said: "I am thoroughly convinced that I shall live to see the railroads of the country in the control of the government." He was then sixty-two. "The signs may not be plain to you, but they are to me."

This remark was made to "Boersianer," who, in his article on the subject of the future of the railroads, which appears in Hearst's Magazine for December, draws significant conclusions based on a searching analysis of the whole range of events, affecting the financial status of the railroads of the United States since the beginning of the war in Europe.

HOSPITAL LAUNCHES DRIVE

Riverton and Palmyra are expected to figure in the campaign to be launched next week for $100,000 which will put the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital of Camden in a position to do its share of war emergency hospital work requested of it by the Government.

Mayor E. H. Flagg, Jr., of Riverton, is organizing a team that will enable Riverton to participate in the campaign and expects to announce the roster of his co-workers in a few days.

The campaign will be launched at an opening dinner to be held next Wednesday evening, December 5, at the Y. M. C. A., at which Governor Edge will be the chief speaker.

Performed Heroic Deed

Clifford Stackhouse, driver for Shedaker's express, performed a brave act yesterday afternoon. Workmen were cutting away limbs from a tree on York street and in doing so, a live electric wire was accidentally cut. It dangled over the sidewalk and became at once a dangerous menace to passersby Mr. Stackhouse, noticing it, hastily grasped it and tridd to throw it to one side. He was quite severely burned on the hand, besides receiving a shock. He was taken to his home, but is reported not in a dangerous condition. The current was turned off and the wire repaired later.

While talking peace Germany never eglects to prepare for another big drive.

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING
BROAD AND GARFIELD AVE.

By M. W. WISHAM

No Time For Trifling

Are you anxious to do some little things to aid the cause of American Red Cross. Is it possible that there are any who is not cognizant of the work to be done. Some claim to be willing but their plan of action assumes a nebulous aspect with the deplorable result that they are inert. There are a number of patriotic women who leave their home for a limited number of hours to become integral parts of the great Red Cross—workshops and cheerfully espouse the opportunity to contribute their time, efforts and handiwork for the Nation. The appellation patriot or slacker is what you are known as. There is no middle ground in this conflict. Are you anxious to do your bit if not, why not?

Christmas Gift To the World

The gift of 15,000,000 members for Red Cross which begins its drive on Dec. 17th, ending on Christmas day, is to be the ambition of the United States. Forrest F. Dryden, of Newark, is State chairman, State Senator Harold B. Wells is Burlington county's director. The entire State will be placarded and canvassed. Nothing wil lbe left undone that will help put New Jersey at the head of the U. S. No one will be asked for more than $1.00 or if Red Cross magazine is included $2.00. A house to house canvass in Palmyra will take place on the dates mentioned.

Secretary Baker, of the War Department, and Secretary Daniels, of the Navy Department, wish it clearly understood that their departments greatly appreciate all the voluntary efforts that are being made through Red Cross to bring comfort to our fighting men and thank the women of our country for their patriotic work.

Sweaters

It should not need a cold snap or piercing wind to remind people that our boys at the front and in camps need sweaters, socks and other comfortable things. Another call has been made for sweaters. Our boys should not be left in the lurch. So it's knit, knit, knit.

Children's Work

The school children of Philadelphia are holding a Red Cross bazaar in Scottish Rite Hall, while the juniors are holding a jumble sale in the Panfield building, Juniper and Chestnut streets, on December 10th, the second section school children open up at the First Regiment armory. City Schools Superintendent John P. Garber and other noted educators are active supporters.

The Burlington county chapter of the Red Cross entertained the boys who remained at Camp Dix Thanksgiving evening, in Y. M. C. A. Hut No. 8. Fruit, candy, sweet cider, and home-made pies and cakes were served. Twelve ladies went from Palmyra.

Miss Elizabeth Lewis cleared $5.50 at a small dance at her home last Saturday evening, which was contributed to the Red Cross.

The Red Cross now offers an opportunity to women who cannot join them at their work rooms to make themselves responsible for garments to go in an infant's layette, to be made according to Red Cross specifications. The work may be done at home. Any woman who can avail herself of this privilege, is asked to communicate with the local chairman, Mrs. William E. Russell.

Charles A. Wright, of Riverton, has offered a prize of five dollars for the best essay written by a pupil in the public schools of Burlington, on the subject "Will Efficiency Win the World War?"

As a close student of present conditions, Mr. Wright has written valuable brochures on the economic phase of its problem and he believes that the American public has not fully awakened yet to the pressing need for strictest economy and highest efficiency as the most essential factors in winning the war.

Riverton Boys Give Minstrel On Cannibal Isle

Dance Follows Show Given By Club At P. O. S. of A. Hall

When the Good Ship Riverton was wrecked off the barren and inhospitable shores of Pensauken Creek, some twelve months ago, the two survivors landed on Cannaballistic Palmyra Island and were the end men of the cannibals' ministrel given Wednesday night in P. O. S. of A. Hall under the auspices of the Riverton Club.

A dance followed the period of ministrelsy and the large crowd present thoroughly enjoyed the evening. Among the leading numbers of the entertainment were the following well rendered songs:

"Joan of Arc," by Lloyd Major.

"If I Had All the World and Its Gold," by Herbert Rathfon.

"Sunshine Jane," by Russell "Stick" Smith.

"Alexander's Rag Time Band," by Corner Cleiland, end man.

"Pray For the Lights To Go Out," by Leon Sloan, end man.

NO DRAFT NEWS

Remainder of First Lot Not Yet Called to Camp

Judge Lippincott, chairman of the local draft district, has no information available at present as to when the remaining men of the first draft will be called to camp.

The Judge is very anxious to obtain the information and keeps in close touch with the military authorities as he is aware of the inconvenience to which the men are put who have received the green "be ready" cards but have not yet been called to camp. Several such men have given up their positions and now are idle.

Beer Party Costs Woman $500

TOMS RIVER, Nov. 28.—Judge Jeffrey in the County Courts Monday sentenced Mrs. Nina Ramage, of Mayetta, convicted of conducting a disorderly house, to pay a fine of $500 and costs. Meantime she was sent to the county jail until the fine is paid. One Sunday night last summer Sheriff Brown and Prosecutor Plumer were riding about the county to see how the laws were being obeyed and stopped at the Ramage house, which was under suspicion. They found a bunch of young people of both sexes holding a beer party there. The house had no license.

The religion of the pessimist is based on the theory that there is nothing new under the sun.

CITY OF MEAUX AND ITS HISTORY

Little French City Is Nearest Spot to Paris Trod By Germans In Their Advance of 1914

The little French city of Meaux, near Paris, has gained an immortal place in history. It marks the high tide of the German advance in 1914, the nearest spot to Paris where the Prussians trod. Thus far the advance patrols penetrated, and here they were recalled to swing off in the great detour that ended in retreat. Over Meaux flashed the German Taubes, looking down in puzzled misunderstanding at the endless scurrying line of Parisian taxicabs that bore the French Sixth army to the front to save the city. It was something new in transport, this army in taxicabs, and the Germans, accustomed to do all things by rule, went so far astray as to interpret it as a rush of the people of Paris to surrender themselves to the invader.

Near Meaux you see one of the most significant things in Europe—the first grave. Less than thirty kilometers from Paris this unknown Frenchman fell. Over his body is a bare oblong wire fencing off a little white cross. There are literally millions of these rude graves dotting the pleasant plains of northern France, but this is the nearest of them all to Paris itself. A little farther and you find them scattered more and more thickly, and now some of them are capped by black crosses instead of white, to mark the spot where a Prussian lies. And over the bodies of German and Frenchman the lush crops are crowding in, for this section of France is being intensely cultivated as no region has been before.

A few kilometers northward and eastward is the first of the great monuments raised over a common grave, where the dead lie by hundreds. The French engineers have erected many of these. They tower up in the flat land as the memory of those who lie below will tower in the minds of future generations. The wheat may rustle green about them and the traffic of peace flow by, but the countryside will be forever hallowed by the memory of a crisis when nameless men laid down their lives wholesale that a nation might live.

The Wide World Magazine

Stirring war stories, adventures, travel articles and queer happenings are the dominant features of the December Wide World. "A Tragedy in the Clouds" might have come straight from a writer of sensational romance, yet it is true in every detail and constitutes one of the most dramatic episodes of the Great War. But the most remarkable narrative in the current issue of this very interesting publication is "Across Germany to Freedom," a stirring account of the escape of two French soldiers from the Hammelburg camp in Bavaria. How they eluded their guards and got away from their prison, and thence journeyed across no less than two hundred and forty miles of Boche territory, meeting with innumerable adventures en route, makes thrilling reading. The unique experiences are graphically recorded by the well known Swiss writer, M. Baud-Bovy, who met the two heroes shortly after they crossed the frontier. "Between the Devil and the Deep" describes an exciting sea fight between an armed French fishing-smack and a German submarie. Although the smack carried a single small gun, not nearly so powerful as either of the two mounted on the submarine, she put up a gallant fight and sank her nemy. Then, badly battered, she herself disappeared below the surface. For this heroic ded the fishermen were presented with a reward of five thousand dollars collected by the French Press. Many other articles of especiall interest in these strenuous times are to be found in this number of the Wide World.

CHICKENS FOR EMPTY CANS

Trading of Discarded Tins and Bottles for Food is Common In Thibet

Bringing with him an extensive collection os small mammals, reptiles and birds, Roy C. Andrews, head of the Asiatic zoogogical expedition, has arrived in New York, after a year and a half in the remote provinces of China.

The expedition spent much of the time in the mountains of Yunman and progressed as far as Thibet. Mr. Andrews' adventures included everything from hunting "blue" tigers to buying chickens at the rate of two for one empty condensed milk can.

Politically China is in a chaotic state, Mr. Andrews reports, as most of the provinces are so far removed from the central government at Peking that any change or authority does not make itself felt. Socially, he declares, it is overrun with bandits, most of whom are recruits from the army. According to Mr. Andrews there is no great moral difference between a Chinese common soldier and a bandit.

In many places he found traffic by water impossible because the army has a habit of using small river boats for target practice.

The expedition found the border of Thibet an ideal place to live in. Food may be bought with old bottles and cans. There are plenty of servants and no rumor of the war has penetrated that far.

USE CHOPSTICKS IN JAPAN

Old Custom Prevails Among Poorer Classes, While the Rich Have European Knives and Forks

The use of chopsticks is general in Japan, except among the richer classes, who have adopted European knives and forks, and, to some extent the European cuisine, London Tit-Bits says. Small bowls of China or lacquered wood are the usual table equipment. After the various solid portions of the food have been lifted to the mouth with chopsticks the liquor remaining is sipped from the bowl. In the case of rice, which would be tedious to pick up grain by grain, the boyl is often raised to the mouth and the rice shoved or pushed in with th chopsticks. It is also customary to pour a little tea into the rice bowl after it has been nearly emptied, and in this way the few remaining grains of rice are washed down as the tea is drunk.

At public places the chopsticks at each meal must be new; this is indicated by the fact that the chopsticks are made from one piece of wood were matches at one time. These new chopsticks are incased in a thin paper envelope, sealed at one end, and bearing Japanese characters advertisin either the hotel or some firm that has furnished them free to the proprietor for the sake of the publicity gained.

Whale Meat As Good As Beef

"Several kinds of new sea food are being put on the market" says the November Woman's Home Companion. The writer of the article on sea food says:

"Whaling is not what is used to be, but there are still some one thousand five hundred of them killed each year on the Pacific Coast. In the body of each of these whales there is ten thousand pounds of first class meat. The Japanese whalers retrieve this meat and find ready market for it at home. The American whaler throws it away.

"It is a fact not currently appreciated that the whale is not a fish. Its flesh has no fishy taste whatever. The whale is a warm blooded animal, is a mammal which suckles its young. Its flesh is therefore comparable with that of other mammals such as the cow; it is steak.

"An enterprising whaler last season brought some whale meat into Seattle and placed it in the butcher shops and had it served at the hotels It served for ten cents a pound, and the hotels served steaks for forty cents that would have cost a dollar-fifty had they been beef. Guests ate of the whale meat and pronounced it as good as beef. Last year, also, the same experiment was tried at Long Beach, California, and the whale meat sold readily in the butcher shops and was liked by consumers. So it is earnestly urged, in these trying times, that housekeepers and hotels use the steak of these 1,500 whales, which is equal to the meat of 100,000 prime porkers.

The December American Magazine

Dr. Frank Crane, the famous editorial writer, has written for the December American Magazine an article called "If I Were Twenty-One the Things I Would Do" Every young man in America should read it. Holworthy Hall begins a series of short stories with "Straight From Headquarters," "Getting Next to People," will help you to do so; "The Book That Helped Me Most" is full of good things; and "Russet and Gold," a love story by William Dudley Pelley. will held you from first to last.

Louis K. Liggett, the famous drug store man, has written an article filled with good suggestions for business men; Marguerite Clark tells about her experience on the stage and in the movies; and "Detroit" is the second city to be dealt with in "The Flavor of the Cities." H. C. Witwer has a funny story in this number, and with the other articles and stories, an excellent number is completed.

TRANSPORTING ARMIES ON AUTO TRUCKS

(Editorial from The Evening Mail, New York, November 15, 1917).

Eight years before the war the German general staff went earnestly to work on the subject of the army auto truck. They didn't desire to disturb business, but they wanted business to be prepared to meet the army's requirements. They wanted cars with standardized parts and minimum of specification. When they found manufacturers making cars suitable for their needs they arranged to make the parts of the various cars interchangeable. They also arranged for the immediate taking over of the various plants when war came. A price was fixed then and there as a basis of compensation.

The development of the autotruck has been more pronounced in Europe than in America. How great this development has been in Germany may be appreciated by a recent report telling of the carrying of 60,000 men of the German force with their equipment from the western front to the eastern front in auto trucks.

Upon transportation depends the striking power of an army. No nation as the mobilization problem of America. This is a country of enormous distances. We are in the war and should realize our deficiencies and correct them. Our railroads are under terrific strain. They should not be. Overstrain is destruction in many ways. The movement of some hundrtdh of thousands of our men to camps in the South was a heavy task upon our railroads and our commissary and quartermaster departments. It should not be. It wouldn't be if we had vision, energy and determination to do immediately and easily what should have been done many months ago, if not years ago.

We have been in the war six months and we are groaning under our transportation burden. Why? No nation has greater transportation resources. We could transport without trouble the greatest army every assembled by any nation if we determined to do so.

In the Ford motor plant we have the great key to rapid and easy transportation of great military forces.

The Ford factory can turn out 3,000 auto trucks a day.

One auto truck will accommodate eighth men with equipment.

One day's output of the factory means transportation of 24,000 men. Ten days' output means transportation of 240,000. Forty-two days' output means transportation for more than 1,000,000.

What if America today has not highways over which such a force could be transported?

Build the roads. If necessary we could build the roads immediately ahead of the army. Auto trucks could carry stone for roadbed. Auto trucks could carry tar products for durable roads. Pipe lines stretched along the route could supply gasoline.

Don't gasp and say it would be too great a task. The people who conquer are the people who do the things that seem too difficult. By the power of transportation Germany has crippled Italy. By the power of transportation Germany holds the world at bay.

Why don't we take heed? Why are we blind to the great lesson pictured before us?

Have we lost our enterprise, our imagination? Have we no military leader to vision the possibility, the potential power, the necessity for the army truck.

We could build great highways for our troops and our supplies for offense or defense, but we do not do it. We could build in the Ford plant, as nowhere else, the vehicles to transport our armies, but we do not do it.

A road sixty feet wide would accommodate four or five trucks abreast. Thaveling six miles an hour for six hours and with the auto trucks forty feet apart an army of 144,000 men (eight men to an auto) could be transported with ease thirty-six miles a day.

And the cars to carry these men would mean but one week's output of the Ford plant.

Caesar conquered Europe by being a great master of transportation. The roads he built endure today.

We might be masters of our own transportation if we so determined. But we are not. Our railroads groan and creak under the load we make them bear. We have congestion throughout the land. We have difficulty in transporting our troops, our munitions, our supplies for ourselves and our allies. We have not adequate highways to strike an enemy at our gates or to mobilize our strength quickly if he got within our gates.

We might build roads, but we have not. We might have the cars to transport our armies over the roads, but we have not.

A Caddy Story

The gentleman was learning to play golf and it had been too much for the composure of his caddy. The caddy had made valiant efforts at first, but by the third hole he was helpless with mirth. The gentleman with a cold eye and said:

"What do you think I'll give you on your card if you are so silly and giggle all the time? Do you think you'll get a 'good'?"

"No," replied the chortling caddy. "I'll get a V. G.."

"V. G.!I suppose that stands for very good," snapped the infuriated gentleman.

"No, sir. V. G., very giggly," said the abandoned little caddy, rolling on the ground.

Give Pastor Auto and Purse

VINELAND, Nov. 27.—Dr. L. F. Hatch, a practicing physician here, who last week received a captaincy in the medical corps of the United States Army, surprised the congregation and the Rev. A. Stokes Watson, the pastor of the First Baptist Church, yesterday by presenting the latter with an automobile. The congregation immediately made up a purse of $200 and presented it to the pastor for maintenance of the machine.

A telegram goes on tick when it is sent collect.

HISTORIC OLD SUN TAVERN

One of Boston's Landmark's, Built in 1690, For Many Years Used as a Fish Market

One of the early taverns of Boston was the Sun Tavern which stood but a few feet from the water's edge and was built about 1690. For some years it was kept by a Huguenot from Rochelle named Cogneau. He made it one of the most popular of taverns and it was particularly popular with the young men of Boston and surrounding country, partly for the reason that mine hose Cogneau had several very attractive and lively daughters who added a great deal to the charms of the hostelry. Their father had the privilege of seeing two of them married in the tavern, one of them becoming the wife of Colonel William Palfrey, the famous Revolutionary patriot. He became the granfather of the noted writer, John G. Palfrey.

Another daughter of this genial host of the Sun tavern married a successful printer named Fleet. During the siege of Boston the British seized the house and they changed its name to the King's Arms. But when the Red Coats had been chased out of Boston the sign of the King's Arms quickly disappeared and the old sign of the Sun Tavern took its place and the tavern took on its old-en time popularity. It has for many years been used as a fi sh market.

WEAPONS OF THE TEACHER

Evil Methods Inspiring Fear in Heart of Children Not Conducive to Best Results

Power to produce fear is a poor weapon. Th teacher who uses it is not doing his best work.

Snakes are feared by reason of their sting. So are lions and tigers for reason of their power to produce harm.

Fear is the weapon of an enemy. We do not fear our friends, nor can we fear anything that we love.

Evil is just absence of good; for it cannot exist where good is. And evil chooses fear for its weapon. Neither evil nor fear should exist in the schoolroom, says an exchange.

Good is always stronger than evil; love always stronger than fear. Why should teachtrs employ evil methods and inspire fear in the hearts of children when springs of love are bubbling up on every side?

There are smiles, and kind words, and kind thoughts, and deeds of kindness and—but the list is too great to complete. These inspire love, and as weapons are much more efficient than is fear.

And there there is faith. When good loses its trust in its ability to conquers.

An animal will not attack a man who has absolutely no fear of it. That is the secret of the liontamer's power. Evil cannot defeat a man who is strong in good and therefore he has no cause to fear evil.

Ocean Cannibals

Such fierce carnivorous fishes as exist in the depths of the ocean are unknown at the surface. There is a "black swallower" which devours other finny creatures ten times as big as itself, literally climbing over its victim, first with one jaw and then with the other. Another species is nearly all mouth, and, having no power of locomotion, it lies buried in the softf ooze at the bottom, its head alone protruding, ready to engulf any prey that may wander into its carnivorous jaws. There is a ferocious kind of shark resembling a huge eel. All of these monsters are black as ink. Some of them are perfectly blind, while others have enormous, goggling eyes. No ray of sunlight ever pierces the dark, unfathmed caves in which they dwell. Each species is gobbled by the species next bigger, for there is no vegetable life to feed on.

Coal Gas For Automobiles

Arthur H. Jackson an English mechanical engineer, who arrived in New York from London on his way to Hong Kong, said that the high price of gasoline in England, where it sells at $1.10 a gallon, has caused motor power experts to experiment with compressed coal gas for motor trucks and automobiles. The point in its favor is that the gas fuel costs only 12 cents for a charge equal in power to a gallon of gasoline.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

A FAITHFUL HORSE

Paul Revere's Sturdy Steed Fairly Entitled To Fame

Paul Revere's name was made immortal when he rode from Boston to Lexington and Concord warning the patriots along the way of the British approach, and his fame has been securely enshrined in the hearts of all Americans.

Historians have honored themselves in honoring him. Poets have found inspiration in praising him. He is an idol of childhood, an example in the prime of manhood and a solacing memory of old age.

How few characters loom up like great peaks above the mountain ranges of time.

And Paul Revere was one of these He was one of the precious few great enough to grasp an opportunity to do an incalcuable good to mankind.

But while we give deserved glory to Paul Revere let us no longer forget that there was another hero in that wild midnight ride.

There was the horse.

"Any other horse might have done as well" you think. Well, so might any other man have done as well perhaps. So might we flippantly disparage any hero.

But the fact remains that it was Paul Revere and Paul Revere's horse that did it, and the harder work fell on the horse. But for the true horse's faithfulness Paul Revere would have been a failure.—Chhristian Herald.

The usually early and heavy fall of snow in so many places convinces us that Santa Claus plans to do his reindeering early.

This country evidently has much to learn in modern warfare, and also evidently this country is earnestly and zealously learning it.

NAVAL RESERVE FORCE NEEDED

The term 'slacker,' is an opprobrious one in that it includes in its general application those who may have just reasons for avoiding military service, as well as those who have no worthy cause and whose only genuine reason is cowardice or a warped idealism.

Circumstances, financial or otherwise, have held hundreds of young men back from enlistment up till now, but changing with changing conditions, many men find themselves in a position to enlist when they were not able to do so before. Such men are at a loss to select a service. Those whom chance has made free for action at this time may consider themselves fortunate, for a few days ago one of the most popular services in the country announced that it was ready for 2000 more recruits.

That service is the Naval Reserve Force of the Second Naval District located at Newport, R. I. The personal standard of the men in this branch has been so high that it might be said to be one of the rare organizations in which enlisted men, of sufficient force, education, and intelligence to deserve recognition by a commission, find themselves among men similarly placed and similarly denied a commission by lack of preparation. The truth of that statement is attested by the fact that men are constantly being selected for ensigns' examinations, and assigned later to small boats or general service with an independent command.

Furthermore advancement in rating is constantly open, and men with any skill in carpenter, mechanical, electrical, stenographic and an infinite number of other types of work, will find themselves rated in some artificer branch. Everyone with a special talent, from mechanical draughtsman to cooks, from musicians to boiler makers will find here that their special talent is of direct military and pay value in the Reserves. But men whose aim is to be seamen and to secure ratings later as boatswains and quartermasters are equally desired. There is a chance for everyone.

Men may apply direct at the central enrolling office in the War College, Newport, R. I., or they may enroll for the Second District at the Naval Recruiting Station in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, or in Newark, N. J., Pittsburgh, Pa., Minneapolis, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo. Information regarding the Reserve Force may also be had by addressing the Enrolling Officer at Newport.

It is expected that those men who now find themselves free to take up arms for their country will fill up the required quota rapidly. Those who delay will probably find themselves out of an opportunity that is not likely to occur twice.

Service in the Reserve is only required during the period of the war.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The name of the offender was taken by young men standing nearby and turned over to the police.

The plan of the Epworth Methodist and Central Baptist Church members to entertain drafted men from Camp Dix this week-end has been called off, owing to the fact that so many of the boys were off over Thanksgiving and were not allowed another leave of absence so soon. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Pike will reside with the bride's parents at 1101 Garfield avenue.

It is reported that there still exists some misunderstanding in town as to the status of Arthur Vaughn in the draft. He is one of the hundreds of young medical students all over the country who were excused from immediate service by government action, not by any other influence. He as well as other such students were required instead to enlist in the medical reserve corps, where he is subject to the call of the government. The government prefers, however, to let the young physicians finish their courses so as to be of more value to the army. Mr. Vaughn has the rank of second lieutenant.

FOOD WASTE AT ARMY CAMPS

The following joint statement has been issued by Newton D. Baker, the Secretary of War, and Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator:

'A great deal of complaine has arisen throughout the country as to the waste at Army camps. These camps have been in the main but recently organized and many of the complaints occurred during the time that they were in the hands of contractors and in process of construction. The War Department has already directed the appointment of a committee under Surgeon General William O. Gorgas which is co-operating with the Quartermaster General's department and the Food Administration and is now actively engaged in investigating and the devising of means for the prevention of waste. The Food Administration has made no suggestion as to meatless or wheatless days in the camps and has in no way attempted any regulation or control either directly or indirectly for the feeding of American soldiers.

"While it is necessary for the civilian population to reduce the consumption of foodstuffs at every point and to eliminate waste in order that the soldiers and our Allies may be fed, it is yet felt that the country wishes the American soldier to receive every particle of food necessary to his adequate nourishment and comfort, and the food situation in the camps is good. A bountiful supply of wholesome and well prepared food is furnished. Some waste exists, due to the fact that the families and friends of soldiers, under the impression that they are insufficiently provided for, send great quantities of food to the camps, thus adding a surplus and causing waste. This comment of course, does not have to do with the delicacies but with substantial foods, with which the soldiers are fully supplied. In many camps the officers and men, like the civilian population of the country at large, have taken a voluntary interest in the consecration asked by the Food Administration, and the War Department is encouraging it in every way.

The organization of camps for many hundreds of thousands of soldiers have been an unparallelled task and it cannot be expected that the whole machinery will proceed with its ultimate efficiency in the first few days. We are happy, however, to re-assure the country and to say that steady and substantial progress is being made in the elimination of waste and that this progress is not at the expense of a wholesome, appetizing and nourishing diet for all our soldiers."

No, the Kaiser shall not press down upon the brow of labor his iron cross.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completly eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, billiousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

ITALIAN A FAITHFUL TOILER

Does Not Drop His Shovel as Other Laborers Do When the Whistle Blows

There is a much lower percentage of criminality, immorality and insanity among the Italians than among many other immigrant races Willard Price writes in the World Outlook. As for dependency, statistics for a representative year showed that out of every 28,000 Italians in the city of New York there was only one in the almshouse on chief of the mendicant department of the C. O. S., says he has never seen or heard of an Italian tramp. There are practically no drunkards among the Italians.

The immigrant from Italy proves to be a faithful and cheerful worker When a contractor engaged in building a city sewer was asked why he had only Italians in his employ he replied: "Because they are the best workmen, and there are enough of them. If an Italian down in that ditch has a shovelful of earth halfway up when the whistle blows for dinner, he will not drop it; he will throw it up; others will drop it. And when the lunch hour is over, when the clock strikes the Italian will be learning on his shovel ready to go to work, but the other fellows will be out under that tree and will be three minutes getting to the job, and three minutes each for 150 men is not a small item."

The Italians are industrious, goodnatured, very affectionate toward children, courteous and polite often to the point of dishonesty, generous and self-sacrificing. But the impulse of these excellent qualities is offset by the Italian's dense ignorance, which sentences him to spend the rest of his life after he reaches skilled labor.

OUR MARINE CORPS

It is a Fully Equipped All Around Efficient Little Army

Do you know the definition of the word "corps?" If you do your advantage over the man in the street is considerable, for the word in itself signifies a large fighting force so completely equipped in all branches that it can act as an independent army. And that is what our marine corps is—a fully equipped little army, representing infantry, cavalry, artillery, signal service, engineers, machine gun men, aviators and hospital service.

The varied nature of the marine's duties is reflected in the dress uniform, his dearly prized "blues." The trousers are the color of the infantryman's, but the stripe is red, like that on the uniform of the artillery. His coat is a dark nautical blue, but if he wears chevrons on it they are yellow, like a cavalryman's. As an example of cosmopolitanism his cap device bears a relief map of half the globe. An eagle with outspread wings surmounts the globe, and a fouled anchor shows in the background. To "tell" a marine at a glance (whatever his uniform or his rank) look on the front of the hat or the cap for that globe. It is the distinguishing emblem of a marine the world over.

Great Britain is the only other power that has, in our sense, of the word, a real marine corps, and the cap device of the British marine also has a globe in the centre of the design.—Charles P[illegible] Cushing in New York Independent.

December Cosmopolitan

December Cosmopolitan, now on sale, will prove a mental stimulus to those who love good literature. Articles, serials and short stories by the world's foremost writers, illustrated by the most brilliant artists of our time—are not only interesting and entertaining but highly inspirational as well.

Fannie Hurst, with her characteristic skill, has woven a beautiful tale of true and unselfish love in "On the Heights" "The Other Lobster" the first instalment of a two-part story by Gouverneur Morris, is written in the customary fascinating manner of this versatile writer, and Edith Macvane, offers a problem for deep and serious discussion in "For She Loved Much." There is another enchanting Henry the Ninth story, by Samuel Merwin, entitled "The Stimulant," and "In Came a Fat Man." by George Randolph Chester, the 101st story written around the characters of Wallingford and Blackie Daw.

Rex Beach reveals himself in the new light of a humorist in "On the Trail of the Cowardly Cougar" which relates his and Fred Stone's experiences when they went mountain-lion hunting in the wilds of Northern Arizona. Herbert Kaufman has written another sagacious article, "Stars, Not Scars," while Ella Wheeler Wilcox writes of "Knowledge" as only a brilliant and gifted woman may.

Lillie Langtry, the famous beauty, tells of her meeting with old King Leopold of Belgium in her interesting memoirs—and George Ade contributes "The Fable of the Rise and the Flight of the Winged Insect," another of his inimitable Fables in Slang.

Unexplored Areas in Canada

A very common impression held even by Canadians is that there is little Canadian territory left to explore except on the Arctic islands. But as far back as 1890 Dr. George Dawson had calculated that there were then about 1,000,000 square miles of unexplored territory in Canada, about 600,000 square miles in western Canada, the rest lying in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Charles Camsell, of the geological survey of Canada recently revised Dr. Dawson's estimate, reaching for western Canada the figures of about 642,000 square miles, while the unexplored area of northern Quebec is represented by 259,000 square miles.

The total area of Canada is reckoned at 3,729,665 square miles, of which 520,800 square miles are embraced in the islands of the Arctic ocean. The unexplored area (Camsell figures) of 901,000 square miles represents almost 28 per cent. of the total area of the country.—Exchange.

PRACTICAL HOG FEEDS

Shelled corn, hominy feed, ground rye and ground barley are all conserve to make up the large proportion of the ration. To balance these centrated carbohydrate feeds and grain feeds some feeds high in protein are necessary, among the most common of which are skim milk, meat meal tankage, linseed oil meal and alfalfa hay.

In choosing among the grain feeds mentioned, the price for which such feeds can be purchased is the big consideration. During November and December new corn should be the cheapest carbohydrate feed, everything considered. Hominy feed is slightly more efficient than corn or corn meal in producing gains; ground rye is somewhat less efficient than corn, while barley is about the same in feeding value. Skim milk is the best supplement to grain known for feeding pigs, young animals in particular. Meat meal tankage, or hog feeding tankage, is one of the best substitutes for skim milk. Oil meal is very good but does not have the quality of protein found in digester tankage. Alfalfa hay makes an excellent supplement to grain when the pigs eat sufficient amounts. Shoats and brood sows should eat as much as 1 to 1½ pounds daily to satisfy their needs for protein.

The animal husbandry department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station recommends that the local prices on all available feeds be given when writing to inquire concerning economical swine rations.

Sunken Ships Being Raised

Certainly the day of resurrection has come, for ships. Hulks long since sunk, all but forgotten, rise in their very bones, take on renewed bodies and with the rhythmic heartbeat of new engines feel the blood coursing in their veins once more, observes the Boston Transcript. Abandoned coal barges, hulls of whale ships, of little cargo carriers that have lain at dismantleld wharves for half a century, struggle from their graves in the ooze, feel again the measured clink of caulking iron lift proud topmasts and shout with joy from the very diaphragms of their swelling sails as the forefoot thrills to the blare of blue water. Wrecks of the ancient side wheelers rise as well and with a vigor of engine life such as did not exist in their day, go down to the sea.

Moving Picture Censors

The national board of review of motion pictures is made up entirely of unpaid workers, including a general committee of thirty-five members, self perpetuating, from which is selected an executive committee, which, in turn, elects members of the review committee. This latter committee is divided into sections, which attend from twenty-five to thirty picture reviews weekly. The general committee is a court of appeal for further consideration. It was formed in 1909 and has always been gladly recognized by the manufacturers, exhibitors and producers. Last year it caused to be eliminated 46,990 feet of objectionable films. Among those on the general committee are: P. F. Jerome, business bureau of the international committee of Y. M. C. A.'s; Orlando F. Lewis, general secretary of Prison Association of New York; Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.—Film Fun.

FASHION HINTS FOR FAIR SEX

Over in Paris black has been so universally worn by women of all classes during the past two years that the influence of the mode could not fail to be felt in America. Black velvet and tulle evening gowns are extremely fashionable, and there are many black satin afternoon frocks. But the prevailing shade for war time over here promises to be taupe, for day costumes at least. Taupe is rather impossible as a gaslight costume unless the material be tulle, picked out with flame or coral here or there. But as a color for street and general afternoon wear taupe seems to fulfill all the conditions of the moment. It is dignified, it is rich without being too sumptuous, as some of the wine and plum shades are for ordinary daily occasions. It is universally becoming and it has that suggestion of somberness which expresses sentiment in these trying days. All Paris in black, some of it mourning black, some of it sympathetic black and some of it black just because everyone else is wearing black, is most depressing to the spirit.

POPLIN FOR HOME FROCKS

Pretty at-home frocks are being made of mercerized poplins and of cotton crepe de chine—for one must save somewhere to have extra dollars for the Red Cross and for Liberty Bonds, and at-home frocks are the costumes most likely to be affected by economy. Made up according to this year's simple fashion with long tunic, graceful sash and perhaps a dainty fichu or collar of some sheer, dainty fabric, a frock of cotton crepe de chine in a charming color is very chic. For the trotabout morning frock, mohair is an excellent substitute for serge which is just now very scarce and expensive. A mohair trotter should be very smart and tailored, with bindings of flatly stitched braid, rows or groups of buttons and perhaps a little hand embroidery done with wool thread or silk floss.

WHAT IS NEW IN PARIS

Coatees of fur are decidedly smart. Some are made with a peplum extending but a few inches below the waistline, others are on the order of the Mandarin coat, but exceedingly short, and still others combine the coatee and jacket effect. Another, reminding one of the dolmans of long ago, is very short in front, but the back, rounded and trimmed with fur tails, extends well toward the skirt hem. In capes there are those merely an accentuated collar, others combine the cape and stole and still others are in reality lengthened stoles. Side and front fastenings are used, self-covered buttons helping to give a trimming note. Pockets are seen on some of the neckpieces and most of them have the rolling collar which may be buttoned up snug about the throat. White muffs to match are to be found, but they are not considered so essential as in past seasons.

PLAIDS MUCH IN EVIDENCE.

Plaids are among the most approved materials. There are plaid velvets, pannes, velours de laine, in fact all the new stuffs show particolored stripes but in novel and subdued coloring effects. Plaid combined with plain materials is much on view. One sees plaid waistcoats with long, straight blouses of plain material, or long blouses of plain material having collars and cuffs of plaid.

Dresses often show a hem of plaid to match the deep yoke falling over the shoulders, and wraps have big plaid collars turned over to form a hood. The cuffs and pocket are also of the plaid material.

LACE TRIMMED BLOUSES

Most of the blouses decked with lace also show touches of hand embroidery. One of the handsomest of them is of heavy white Georgette with collar, cuffs, and deep lapels widening out at the bottom all edged with filet about four inches wide and heavily hand embroidered in designs that take in the material and lace both. The front is made largely of alternating filet and heavily hand embroidered insets; and there are shoulder caps of filet embroidered on the waist.

MANY STUDENTS LEAVE FOR FRONT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 28.—Military statistics, published today at Brown University, show that 27 of the 778 students registered a Brown University last year have joined the colors. These figures do not include the alumni, for whom statistics are now in preparation. Only 14 of the 270 were drafted; the remainder enlisted. Ten have been discharged because of physical disability; 82 are now on foreign soil.

The distribution of men in the various branches is as follows: Field Artillery, 74; Coast Artillery, 43; U. S. Naval Reserve Force, 33; U. S. Ambulance Service, 25; Infantry, 18; Engineers, 14; Reserve Officers' Training Camps, 13; American Ambulance Field Service, 12; Quartermasters Corps, 10; unclassified comprising 14 kinds of service, 28.

These statistics do not include the undergraduates who are drilling in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps which was established on the campus when Brown was recognized by the Government as an Infantry Unit Senior Division. Many of the 260 men now enrolled in this course will eventually receive commissions as officers of the line.

MARINE OFFICER HAD PUSHED OFF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Among the idiomatic terms adopted by the United tSates Marines everywhere, the expression "shove off" is used more frequently than any other. In the sea-fighter lingo, if a Marine goes home on furlough, leaves his camp or garrison, or goes anywhere, he "shoves off."

A story comes from France of a Marine who had been acting as orderly for a lieutenant. The officer sent him on an errand and when he returned the lieutenant was nowhere about. A poilu, who happened to be loitering in the vicinity, was questioned by the Marine:

"Have you seen the lieutenant?"

RED CROSS XMAS DRIVE PLANNED

Forrest F. Dryden, of Newark, State chairman for the Christmas Membership Drive of the Red Cross, has announced his plans for the campaign. The details were completed at a meeting in Newark on November 22nd, at which the county chairmen from the entire State were present. A. Leach, of South Orange, and James Kerney, of Trenton, are Mr. Dryden's personal deputies, and the chairman for this county is H. B. Wells, of Bordentown.

The entire State wil be postered under the immediate direction of Mr. Leach and Mr. Kerney, and on December 5th, the actual campaign for pledges will begin. There will be parades, both of adults and of school-children, the latter in costume, in every locality. Vigorous rallies, under the leadership of the county chairman, with the best speakers obtainable, will be held in every city, town and hamlet in the State. Public officials and employees, clubs, social and political, and organizatios of every description will be asked to participate. The county chairmen will work in full accord with local Red Cross Chapters, and each will assist the other in every possibgle way.

It is Mr. Dryden's ambition to put New Jersey at the head of the United States in either actual or proportionate Red Cross membership, and nothing will be left undone that will help achieve this object.

FEEDING THE MILK COW IN WINTER

To obtain the best result with milk cows the milk flows should be kept up during the winter as well as the rest of the year. Dropping off when winter comes on not only lowers the profits but makes it hard to bring back the production when winter is over. Cows in the best managed herds often produce two or three times as much milk during the year as the average dairy cow of the state, largely because these herds continue high in their milk production. during winter.

A good milk flow results mainly from careful feeding, although shelter and other phases of management also are important. The man who is getting poor results is usually feeding timothy hay, corn fodder and corn, and perhaps not even enough of these. The man who is getting good results has learned that such a ration will not enable a cow to produce milk enough to make it profitable, and feeds plenty of clover, alfalfa, or cowpea hay for the roughage and some corn fodder in addition, if he has it. If hay of this class is fed, a considerable quantity of corn for grain may be used. It is not necessary to buy large quantities of expensive feed to make a good ration, as it can be all grown on the farm. If the proper ration is now at hand, however, it will usually pay to buy something suitable, or possibly trade some of the feeds on hand for others which will give better results.

The feeds which are generally fed in New Jersey may be divided into two classes. The first includes those which do not have protein enough for milk production, and are used mainly to produce fat. In this case we have corn, corn fodder, timothy hay, straw, millet and sorghum. The second class includes those which contain more protein to supply the food necessary to produce milk. In this class we have clover, cowpea and alfalfa hay, bran, oats, cotton-seed meal. Thhe dairy husbandman of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station states that it is impossible to make a suitable ration by feeding those in the first class only, and a good dairy ration will include feeds from both of these classes.

GOOD POTATO SEED ESSENTIAL FOR BEST PRODUCTION

Dr. Mel. T. Cook, plant pathologist of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, attended a meeting of the Potato Association of America in Washington, D. C., on November 9 and 10. He reports an increasing interest in the suject of good seed. Many of the men present emphasized the importance of the very highest grade of seed possible if we are to get a maximum yield of potatoes. Many of the seed-producing states are developing methods of seed inspection which are already showing good results as the work progresses.

A new disease described as "potash hunger," due to lack of potash in the fertilizers, received a great deal of attention. The severity of this disease varies with soil, weather conditions, varieties, time of planting and many other factors. Judging from the report at this meeting, this disease is less severe in New Jersey than in some other potato-growing sections.

DISEASES OF FRUIT TREES

The modern fruit grower finds that in order to be successful it is essential to resort constantly to measures for the control of disease affecting the various kinds of fruit trees. The plant pathology department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station receives large numbers of reports of diseases existing in different parts of the state, and inquiries concerning methods of control. To provide up-to-date information on the subject for those interested, Dr. M. T. Cook, plant pathologist, has prepared treatises on the diseases of fruit trees in the form of two circulars. Circular 80 is entitled "Common Diseases of Apples, Pears and Quinces" and Circular 81 treats of "Common Diseases of the Peach, Plum and Cherry." The circulars are fully illustrated and contain a description of the various diseases and the best known methods of spraying and othher means of control. These publications will be sent free in response to requests addressed to the Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J.

LUMBER DEMAND WILL BE GREAT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—That Great Britain will erect within the first two years after peace half a million or more houses for workingmen, to relieve congested conditions now existing, especially in industrial centers, is forecasted in the report of an American consul at London recently received by the State Department. "Housing Plans in the United Kingdom," the subject of an article appearing in the current issue of the Monthly Review of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, quotes the consul as saying:

"One of the most important questions in Great Britain for several years past, and one which has assumed political prominence at many electoral campaigns, is that of the housing of the working classes. This subject is now being taken in hand by a departmental committee appointed by the Government, while the local Government Board has requested town and urban authorities throughout the country to report, not later than a date in October, the housing requirements of the people in their towns and districts. It is admitted by the board that 500,000 houses are now urgently wanted, but other authorities, including the joint comimttee on labor problems after the war, estimate that not less than 1,000,00 houses are necessary, costing $1,216,625,000.

"On the question of finance, Govment aid has been promised, although no stated amount has been named pending the report of the newly appointed committee. In the meantime a grant of $97,330,000 has been asked for by some housing organizations.

"The Government in November, 1914, decided in favor of a free grant from the exchequer, as well as loans, to permit of local councils charging customary rents without incurring loss; and while that policy is still in force it has, so far only affected certain munition areas.

"It is recognized that overcrowding has been one of the causes of industrial unrest, especially in districts where war work is particularly heavy; and that bad housing has led to high infantile mortality, notably in the northern industrial centers. In three Scottish districts there is immediate urgent need for accommodation for 100,000 workers.

"Since 1906 there has been a decrease in the building of houses for the working classes. With the outbreak of war practically a complete cessation of small house building set in, except in munition areas.

"The committees's tasks will include the working out of the best scheme by which large numbers of skilled laborers in the building trade can be secured after the war ends; the provision of 120,000 cottages on the land; the supply of adequate accommodations for workers in new industrial districts which will be opened up; the method of applying the policy of grants in aid; the consideration of evidence respecting particular areas where especially prompt measures are necessary; amendment of by-laws relating to construction; and types of building in urban and rural districts.

"In regard to the last-named point it is hoped to avoid monotony in design and in this regard it is reported that numerous designs and plans already exist of small houses combining the utmost utility with good appearance.

"It is reported as certain that at an early date Government approval will have been granted to plans involving the erection of not less than half a million houses within the first two years after the conclusion of the war, and that, in order to prevent rents being higher than in pre-war times, financial assistance will be substantially provided."

PRUNING EXPERIMENTS WITH PEACHES

The horticultural department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station started extensive pruning experiments with peaches in the spring of 1912. The object of these experiments is to compare the effect of different types of pruning: (1) upon the amount, form and character of wood growth; (2) during the growing season in comparison with pruning done during the dormant season; (3) upon the strength, hardiness and length of life of the tree; (4) upon the position, quantity, size, color, quality and time of maturity of the fruit; (5) upon the cost of spraying, thinning and packing of fruit, removal of borers, and other details of orchard management. Comparison is made of trees (1) not pruned; (2) winter-pruned but not cut back; (3) winter-pruned and cut back; (4) winter and summer pruned, and (5) summer-pruned only.

A summary of the results of the first two seasons has been published in the form of Circular 83. Any person interested may obtain a copy of this circular by sending a request to the Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J.

HAVE REAL WOLF AT THEIR DOOR

PENNSGROVE, Nov. 28.—The "wolf at the door' in these times of the high cost of living is a reality at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Tuttle, of this place, who have a husky seven-months-old Arizona wolf with a ravenous appetite on their hands.

The Tuttles moved here two years agro from San Carlo, Ariz. Their friends in the west thought they might get homesick, so they captured a wolf and sent it along by express recently. The wolf had proved quite a curiosity for the town. Likewise its feeding and care have proved a problem for the Tuttles, who haven't any prairie in their back yard for the wolf to exercise in nor any prairie chickens to feed it on either, so they are trying to sell it to a circus or museum as the wolf doesn't observe meatless days.

Warden Reports 55 Forest Fires

VINELAND, Nov. 28.—J. E. Abbott, division fire warden, who has his headquarters for the lower counties of the State here, reports fifty-five forest fires during the deer-hunting season, the largest tract burned over being 4000 acres in Maurice River township.

STATE MARKET NEWS SERVICE

The report of the Office of Market, United State Department of Agriculture, shows that 90,500 car loads of potatoes have been sold off the farms of the country up to the present time. Of this total New Jersey has shipped 11,000. That the New Jersey crop is about through with is evidenced by the weekly car lot shipments. These have decreased from August 21st with 1219, down to the week ending November 13th with 190 car loads. In New York City on August 21st, 75 car loads were received from New Jersey, 36 from Virginia, 70 from Minnesota and 19 from Maryland with a few loads each from 14 other States. On November 13th Minnesota supplied 60, Wisconsin 67, Michigan 58, Nebraska 55, Colorado 50, Maine 36, Canada 21, besides other smaller lots. Although the crop is perhaps 95 per cent. sold there are still supplies of excellent table stock that are now being sold direct to consumers in large and small quantities.

The wholesale price in New York has varied from July 13th when the first car load was reported from New Jersey at $1.80 to August 1st, at $1.00, August 15th at $1.35, September 15th, $1.28, October 1st, $1.40, October 15th, $1.55, November 1st, $1.35, and November 15th, $1.25.

Farm Labor and Food Prices

New Jersey farmers are very much discouraged over the labor situation. The cost of digging potatoes, harvesting corn, picking apples and other autumn labors has been a surprise and made an unhappy ending to an otherwise successful season. The weeds in the potato fields where digging was delayed on account of labor shortage increased the cost of digging fifty per cent.

The greatly desired and expected in wheat planting did not materialize and cover crops which add so much to crop growth next year are missing this year. The high school boy help and the city labor relieved the situation almost none. Farm work needs exeprience much more than ordinary factory or office work and just how farmers can offer city wages or get satisfactory help at any price is a problem which nine farmers out of ten are deeply perplexed over. If the entire country faces the same situation as New Jersey does, food production will be curtailed to an alarming extent next year and prices will of course reflect this condition.

Public Markets' Session

At the annual agricultural convention in Trenton January 23rd, 24th and 25th a special session on the afternoon of the last day will be devoted to the subject of Public Markets.

The question uppermost in minds of those interested is whether these institutions can be made of practical value during war times to bring producers and consumers together and prevent any waste of summer perishables. Everyone interested is urged to be present and it is expected that representatives from many cities will attend.

HOME MIXED FERTILIZERS CHEAPER

According to present indications, the supply of commercial fertilizers for next season will be short, and for this reason, combined with the high cost of labor and transportation, prices will continue high. Wise farmers will place their orders early, and, if possible, in carload lots, to promote greater efficiency in transportation. However, one should not be frightened into hasty ordering of goods at exorbitant prices. During the past year mixed goods could generally be bought for less than it would cost to buy and mix the base goods himself. This is usually true on a rapidly rising market. But prices at present seem inclined to be stable or possibly somewhat lower. With nitrate of soda at about $100 a ton and acid phosphate at $20 to ..22, ammonia costs $5.50 per unit (1 per cent.) and phosphoric acid about ..1.30 per unit. This means that we can buy the ammonia to make a 4—10 fertilizer for $22 and the phosphoric acid for $13, or a total of $35. As the present retail price for 4— 10 goods is about $45, one would apparently be well repaid for the trouble at home mixing, where labor conditions permit.

Organic ammonia used in most mixed goods commands a higher price than that in nitrate of soda, but tests seem to indicate that this premium is unwarranted. The specialists in soils of New Jersey State Agricultural College advises that if enough organic material or dryer of some sort is used to assure good mechanical condition, a mixture of nitrate of soda and acid phosphate is the cheapest and probably as efficient a crop producer as any complicated compound.

HOUSING THE PULLETS

The poultry department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station advises that careful attention be given to preparing the laying houses for the pullets. Before placing them in their permanent quarters, the house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, as a precaution against disease.

As crowding lowers the vitality, each bird should be allowed at least 4 square feet of floor space. See that all drinking fountains, feed hoppers and other fixtures are raised off the floor.

Ventilation should be secured by means of a muslin curtain window in the front of the house. Keep open at all times except in very stormy weather and during severe cold spells. Provision should be made for the largest amount of sunlight possible in the house, as this is one of the best means of preventing disease. Windows should be so constructed that the sun can touch every part of the floor some time during th day.

It is essential that the house be kept dry. See that there are no places in the roof or sides where rain can beat in. Also, it is desirable to have a concrete floor, laid on a bed of 10 to 12 inches of cinders. O dust box 3x4 feet and 1 1-2 feet deep, containing fine dust, should be done to give the birds the best housing conditions possible.

BAKERIES TO BE REGULATED

Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, in line with President Wilson's proclamation of November 7th, placing the baking industry under the direct jurisdiction of the Food Administration, effective December 10th, has appointed a committee of the Cracker Industry to draft the regulations governing the control of the industry and to serve in an advisory capacity. It consists of R. L. Tomlinson, president of National Biscuit Company, New York; Brooks Morgan, president of the Independent Crack Bakers' 9ssociation, Atlanta, Georgia, and John H. Wiles, treasuer of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company, of aKnsas City, Missouri.

The committee has already held several meetings in Washington and formulated baking regulations concerning the conservation of wheat our, sugar and shortening. When these vitally necessary first steps of conservation shall have been completed the Committee will direct its attention to further constructive work in the production and shipping of the greatest possible quantity of cracker products, which by reason of their nutritive value in concentrated form and unusual keeping qualities give them a high place in war time and the industry a conspicuous position in war work.

ONE-LEGGED VET AGAIN AFFLICTED

TRENTON, Nov. 28. — Edward Trimble, 80 years old, who lost a leg in the civil war, lost an arm when he was run down by a coal truck here yesterday morning.

He was crossing a street when he became confused in the traffic and stepped directly in front of the coal truck, which knocked him down and passed over his right arm, crushing it so that amputation was necessary. Because of Trimble's age his condition is very serious.

The German change in five days from "autocracy to democracy" is a performance similar to one that may be seen in a vaudeville theatre in lless time.

Man Married Twenty Times

TRENTON, Nov. 27.—A requisition was yesterday signed by Governor Edge from the New York authorities for the removal of Matthew Smith from the Hackensack jail to Poughkeepsie, where he is wanted for bigamy. According to the proof accompanying the application for the requisition, Smith has been married about twenty times and there are children from four of the unions.
