

Research Tips

A Handout for the Historical Society of Riverton's Researching Your Riverton Home

1. Do You Know a Bit of Riverton History?

Some towns and cities in the US were founded so much earlier than our 1851 date. Certainly there is a history to the land and our community before the establishment of Riverton. This guide is to help our current residents uncover the history of our town -- its homes and businesses, and its residents -- primarily after its 1851 founding.

The initial tract of land that was first developed in 1851 was along the Delaware riverfront, what is now Bank Avenue, and then up Main Street, ending at the railroad track. Farmland was purchased from Lippincott family members by the Riverton Improvement Company, who in turn, sold plots of land, per the town design by architect, Samuel Sloan. With notable exceptions of some earlier residential homes and stores were developed over time, extending up Main Street. The founders purchased more farmland from the Thomas and Morgan families then spread the town wider and wider to additional streets parallel to Main Street and above the railroad tracks. When doing your research remember that Riverton was a part of Cinnaminson and Chester before it became its own borough on January 1, 1894. Let's get started!

1. Maps

When I start a house research project, my first, best option is to look at early maps. The Historical Society of Riverton's Gaslight News website has an excellent selection of maps. You can see maps of our area from before the town was established to later maps that show property owners and images of the homes on those lots. See if you can find your home! My favorite Riverton maps are from 1886 and 1900. Don't forget to visit Riverton's Sanborn Insurance Maps for structural details that are noted on these terrific maps, such as building materials, house entrances, number of stories, porches, out-buildings, etc. Be sure to take screen shots of those maps that show your property and name them by date.

Some Quick Map Links:

- 1858. New Map of Burlington County: from Actual Surveys & Official Records. Parry, Skyes and Earl. 1858. Online at the Library of Congress.
- 1860. Detail of Map of Vicinity Philadelphia and Trenton. 1860. New Jersey State Library.
- 1886. Hunter and Richards Map of Palmyra and Riverton.
- 1890. Otto Kohler: Birds Eye View Map of Riverton, New Jersey.
- Sanborn Insurance Maps. 1885, 1996, 1900, 1905, 1911, 1919, and not online, 1925.

2. Check Out the Riverton's National Register Historic of Historic Places Inventory Application

Riverton was approved to be listed in the country's National Register of Historic Places in 1999. Is your house on this list, described as either being "contributing" or non-contributing"? Check out the history of the town in the first pages of the application then look for your house by street and house number.

3. Do You Have a Current Deed to Your Property?

Do you have a primary resource document, the deed to your home? Deeds are loaded with pertinent information about your home and the people who owned it. In it you will find details about property lines, sale date, who sold and who purchased it, and for what price. Most likely your most-current deed will be limited to whoever was directly the previous owner, establishing the right of the that owner to sell you the property. Using you deed, complete the table, below. Be sure to note the Deed Book & Page Number for the next, previous deed. You'll need that information to search using an online resource, provided by Burlington County's County Clerk's Property Records.

Research Tips

A Handout for the Historical Society of Riverton's Researching Your Riverton Home

4. What Should I Write Down Once I Have My Deed? Start With This Template!

	Deed Date	Grantor (Seller)	Grantee (Buyer)	Deed Book/Page Number	Sale Price	Notes
Most-Current Deed						Block/Lot Number
Previous Deed

5. No Deed?

If you cannot find your current deed, you can search online using the Burlington County Public Records Electronic Search System \(PRESS\)

If you know your block and lot number, or certainly, the name of person who owns the property, you can select any of four options for your search, the easiest being by block and lot.

Make sure to get all the information as listed, above, in #4 for each deed you find, working your way backwards using the deed book and page number to find all earlier deeds. All the “Type” of documents you will be searching will be deeds, and the township is Riverton.

5. How Do I Search Further Back for Previous Deeds?

First, exhaust all PRESS information by completing the chart in #4, going backwards to all previous online deeds, adding lines to your chart as you find earlier sellers and buyers. HINT: Be sure to either print out a copy of the deed or use a screen shot to capture copies of the tops of all deeds, naming the shots by year so that you have the pertinent names, dates, and sale prices listed within that deed. Again, name your screen shots by date so that you can easily recognize and organize your deeds.

6. What Do I Do if I Can't Go Further Back Using the Online PRESS?

Research Tips

A Handout for the Historical Society of Riverton's Researching Your Riverton Home

Once you have gone as far back as you are able to using PRESS, no longer do you need to go to Mt. Holly and search the old deed books. You can search online using Burlington County's Deed Archives. Login as a Guest (no username or password required) and continue to search by book and page for deeds. You should be able to go back to see when your land was sold by one of the Lippincott, Thomas, or Morgan families, or other first owners of the properties using this system.

The image displays two screenshots of the Image sync website interface. The left screenshot shows the login page with the Image sync logo, a 'Guest Login' link, and input fields for 'Username' and 'Password'. Below these are 'Login' and 'Submit' buttons, along with a link for users who forgot their password. The right screenshot shows the search interface with tabs for 'Index Images' and 'Book/Page'. It features a 'Search Type' dropdown menu set to 'Deeds', a 'Reset' button, and input fields for 'Book Number' and 'Page Number'. A 'Load' button is positioned below the page number field. At the bottom, there are 'Page(s)' and 'Through' input fields with a 'Submit' button.

Finding Your House's Roots

With a nod to the PBS series, Finding Your Roots, you can continue your research to find out, not just more about the kind of house you own, but about the people who lived in your home over the years, too. You have them on your chart as Grantees and Grantors. Here are just a few of the many resources you can use to learn more about your home's history.

1. Architectural Attributes

What qualities of your home make it special to you? Take photos, read up on the features that may be original to your home, or like many homes, have gone through multiple renovations and additions. Do you have unique flooring? Square nails? Any original stained glass transoms or panels? Make a list and document what is historic about your home. Use these features to help determine the architectural style. One book that might save you some time is located in our public library. Historic Riverton: Notable Architecture, People and Events, 1775-1930.

The HSR has a handy and informative Self-Guided Walking Tours of our town. You can purchase them for a donation of $1 at the library or Tillie's Treasures. They have a wealth of information of housing styles and architectural design information as well as some brief history about each house on the tour.

2. United State Census

Research Tips

A Handout for the Historical Society of Riverton's Researching Your Riverton Home

The United States federal government has been completing the US Census every ten years since 1790. Again, for your research, you probably don't need to go back any further than the 1850 US Census. Be forewarned: streets were not named, nor were house numbers standardized until after 1880 (at least in Riverton), so you might find the name of a person by hunting through the early US Census, page by page for the Chester area, but no street name or house number. It may take some time to look over pages of the US Census, but you will find a wealth of information about homeowners – number of people in the house, their ages, their ethnicity, whether they could read and write English, the country of their birth, and the occupations of the people in the household.

The US Census is retained at the National Archive which has its own search option. Unfortunately, a fire destroyed most of the 1890 records. The heyday of much construction in Riverton was at that time, so you might want to rely on the 1886, 1890, and 1895 maps for some details until you reach the 1900 US Census.

Birth, death, parish records, migration records, military records, and US Census records can be accessed for free at the online resource created by the Church of the Latter Day Saints (Mormons) at FamilySearch.org.

Another, extensive online resource is Ancestry.com. You can visit the Riverton Free Library and access their site using the library's subscription.

4. Historic Newspapers

Our own HSR online resource of historic newspapers can be searched by key word. Due to the condition of the print, access to all relevant articles can be hit or miss, but scanning through newspapers from the time when you know that a resident of your house had a home or business in town can be successful, too.

5. 1926 The Romance of Riverton

Have you ever seen the HSR's Romance of Riverton, the 1926 film? You can see homes, businesses, and homes as they looked in the 1920's.

Happy Searching!

Other References

Burlington County Inventory and Survey of Historic Architectural and Cultural Resources. Prepared for Burlington County Cultural and Heritage Commission. 1975-1977, vol. 4.

Griscom, Lloyd E. Tales of Three Towns: Cinnaminson, Palmyra & Riverton. s.l. s.n, c.1981.

How to Research the History of a House. Trenton, NJ: NJ Dept. of Environmental Protection, Division of Parks and Forestry, Bureau of Parks, Office of Historic Preservation, (1977).

Lybeck, Carl. How to Research Your Property. Burlington Watchman. 2:1, January 1990, p. 1.

Structure and Ornament: A Guide to Architectural Styles in Burlington County, New Jersey, 1700-1900. Text by Keith W. Betten. Artwork by Mildred Engle. Mt. Holly, NJ: The Burlington County Cultural and Heritage Commission, 1979.

Vogel, Charity. How to Research Your Home's Past. Old House Journal.com.